FARM EXTENSION office of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has offered the services of its experts to the Bureau of Agricultural Extension (BAE). In a letter to the BAE, William H. Conkle, assistant administrator of the USDA's International Extension Programs, said that over 1,200 American farm extension workers stand ready to assist any and all foreign extension services and agricultural ministries. He emphasized that many of his extension men have the expertise to contribute to a country's economic development through land reform. They are ready to serve in a foreign country for a period of several month to one year. The US Extension team consists of specialists on aerial photogrammetry, aerial photo laboratory, aerial photo interpretation, land records, computer systems analysis, training and supervision of support activities. About 25 per cent of the USDA professional extension staff work as specialists, program leaders, supervisors and administrators. Their fields of training and specialization include all subjects important to economic development through agriculture and welfare of rural families. The BAE was told to write the USDA International Extension Service for any assistance for experts "regardless of what your interests, concern or problem may be."

PUBLIC HIGHWAYS Bureau is in the preliminary process of upgrading the major highways on the island of Luzon. Consultants are in the final design stage of the detailed engineering for 650 kilometers of highways to be constructed, reconstructed and rehabilitated at an approximate cost of about P400 million. Additional length, of major roads in the same general area with approximate construction cost of P100 million are also being designed by consultants for subsequent inclusion in the major highway package. Selected adjacent secondary roads to these major highways will also be rehabilitated and reconstructed for a total costs of about P70 million.

PHILIPPINE READY-MADE garments like men's shorts, jackets, knitwears, ladies dresses and children's' wear have a very promising market in Denmark. The Department of Trade and Tourism announced that, properly explored, this market could prove highly profitable since Danish imports of ready-made garments from developing countries, including the Philippines, are duty free.

ALL FILIPINO MUSLIMS were called upon to support the dynamic leadership of President Marcos within the context of the New Society. The call was sounded by a Pakistani official, Inamula Khan, secretary general of the World Muslim Congress, with headquarters in Karachi, Pakistan. During a convocation held at the Mindanao State University in Marawi city, the Pakistani official urged Muslims to support the goals and objectives of the New Society.

OFFICIALS OF THE AMERICAN Embassy in Manila told Secretary of Labor Blas. F. Ople that certain persons have been illegally recruiting hundreds of Filipinos for non-existent farming jobs in California, United States. No such jobs exist, said the embassy officials and anyone recruiting for this purpose whether here or abroad, is doing so without authority. The labor department immediately warned the public against the nefarious activities of the recruiters and urged them to report such activities to the Philippine Constabulary United Intelligence Operations Group (UIOG) in Camp Crame, Quezon City. They may also dial PLDT No. 717.

BEFORE MARTIAL LAW, the Philippine National Railways was plagued by continuous financial losses (it had been on losing streak since 1962, with losses approximating P8 million in 1965-66, P10 million in 1970-71), due to poor service and meddlesome politics which threatened its existence. The PNR's Manila terminal, Tutuban, was a happy ground for pilferers, snatchers, bag lifters, holduppers, tong collectors, ticket scalpers, illegal vendors, and hoodlums. A visit to Tutuban after Martial Law, however, is another experience. The first impression that one gets is airiness and unhurried, disciplined waiting. The scalpers who accosted you with impunity are gone. The illegal vendors are gone too. Instead well lighted kiosks for candies, magazines, foodstuffs.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue warned the public against securing more than one tax account numbers and reminded taxpayers that this practice is punishable with a fine of not more than P300 and/or imprisonment for not more than six months. The TAN of every taxpayer serves as a permanent number, the BIR said, and anyone who loses it should not get a new one. Instead, he should verify his old TAN with the BIR'S data processing center. To avoid loss, taxpayers are advised by the BIR to keep a permanent record of their TAN at home, office, or on their person.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE and Tourism directed all provincial commercial agents of the Bureau of Commerce to report to the Securities and Exchange Commission any person or entity soliciting or selling securities, investment plans and shares of stocks without SEC approval in violation of Sec. 4 of the Securities Act. The department crackdown on business malpractices came in the wake of reports that this particular malpractice is committed with impunity especially in the provinces where there are no SEC field men. The Bureau of Commerce agents were told to enforce the securities law in areas where there are no SEC offices since unscrupulous entities might take advantage of the absence of SEC representatives.

THERE ARE NOW 353 farmers cooperatives in active operation in the Philippines having a combined membership of 107,012 individual producers and an aggregate authorized capital of P389,497,600 of which P284,596,603 had been paid up. Duly affiliated with the Agricultural Credit Administration, they are strategically located in 240 municipalities and cities covering 2,000 barrios in 54 provinces. Operationally, they are classified according to the crops and/or services they handle. Topping the roster are 197 palay farmers cooperatives, followed by 50 tobacco (native and Virginia) farmers cooperatives. Third, fourth and fifth placers, respectively, are 35 sugar, 23 poultry and livestock, and 23 fishery cooperatives. The other types of cooperatives, particularly, supply, sugar and tobacco groups, operate with their own financing or under special government program such as the Virginia tobacco subsidy and the United States Agency for International Development feed grain program.

PHILIPPINE MEDICAL CARE COMMISSION (PMCC) announced that President Marcos has approved its recommendation to extend medicare coverage to all legal dependents of members of the Government Service Insurance System and the Social Security System. The extension of the medicare benefits to legal dependents is effective retroactively as of Jan. 1, this year. This was the original plan of the PMCC for the date of effectivity of the coverage of legal dependents of the employed sector.

PRESIDENT MARCOS issued Memorandum Circular No. 623 "authorizing the Secretary of Local Government and Community Development to act on requests of local governments for exemptions under the provisions of Memorandum Circular No. 593" dated Aug. 8, 1972. The 1972 circular directs all government agencies, including government owned or controlled corporations, "to comply with all 12 restrictions on government expenditures which are all embodied in the said memorandum circular. Exemptions, however, do not apply to the following cases: "1). Purchase of motor vehicles and other supplies and equipment which are not essential for public service; 2) Authority to undertake financing arrangements with private financing institutions or banks; and 3) All cases of expenditures when the status of funds of the local units do not justify such expenditures."

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DEFENSE announced that owners of motor vehicles are now permitted to use a six-inch-high Scotch tint strip at the top portion of the front and back glasses of motor vehicles. Curtains are also allowed now at the back of motor vehicles, provided there is an opening of from 18 to 24 inches at the middle. This opening is intended to afford the driver a rear view for driving safety. These changes are amendments to the previous provisions of DND Department Order No. 278 issued last Nov. 23, 1972 banning the use of tinted glasses and curtains on motor vehicles. It was stressed, however, that the use of the Scotch tint is still prohibited on the side windows of motor vehicles.

SIRENS WILL be sounded in the Greater Manila area to remind the public about the 12 o'clock Curfew. At 11:30 p.m., sirens will sound one short, one long blast for three consecutive times to give a half-hour warning to the public. At exactly midnight, sirens will be sounded for one minute to mark the start of curfew. This will be done every night. The Metrocom is coordinating with all municipalities and large industrial plants who have sirens to be used in signaling the start of curfew hours. Even Metrocom cars with sirens will be used. Military authorities hope this will be done in the entire country.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRARIAN Reform stressed that the status quo order governing the relationship between tenants and landowners, at the time Presidential Decree No. 27 was promulgated, be strictly maintained, pending approval of the implementing regulations. In a circular to its fieldsmen, the DAR urged intensification of the drive to inform tenants as well as landowners, that to ignore the order would constitute acts undermining or subverting the intent of Presidential Decrees Nos. 2 and 27, Letters of Instructions Nos. 45, 46 and 52, and the President's instructions that "no tenant-farmer should be ejected from his farmholding without just cause." This move was made because of reports that landowners refused to recognize the leasehold system as the governing rule between tenants and landlords. As a result, adverse consequences such as non-liquidation of harvest, harassment through filing of ejectment cases, change of crops from palay to others; physical acts of dispossession like bulldozing of farms, demolition and burning of houses, sale or mortgage of land, conversion of land into urban purposes, subdivision and fragmentation, followed.

The DAR reiterated the fact that it is the DAR which determines the rate of rentals to be paid by the farmers to landowners. In connection with this the DAR fieldsmen were authorized to enforce the provisions of the decrees and letters of instructions and to seek the assistance of the Philippine Constabulary provincial commanders, if necessary.

THE PHILIPPINES AND BELGIUM plan to expand economic, industrial and technical operation between them, with major emphasis on foreign trade and tourism. Two officials of Brussel's department of foreign trade, E. P. Bailey and Roger de Winter, formally agreed to merge efforts with the Philippine, government and inquired into the extent of the privileges and incentives granted by the government to foreign investors and to tourist-oriented firms and enterprises. The Belgian representatives were informed by the Department of Trade and Tourism of the business incentives and reforms embodied in Presidential Decree No. 94 and of the various national changes since the imposition of Martial Law. Philippine imports from Belgium include: base metals, chemical elements and compounds, machinery, dairy products, scientific instruments, explosives, miscellaneous chemicals, and metal products. Philippine Belgian trade has steadily increased from (FOB value in US$) $86,000 in 1965 to more than $10 million in 1971.

PRESIDENT MARCOS has issued Presidential Decree No. 126 vesting the Circuit Criminal Courts with concurrent jurisdiction with the Courts of First Instance over crimes, whether simple or complex, which may be punishable by life imprisonment or death. The decree, promulgated Feb. 12, provides, however, that where the offense charged is a complex crime and only the lesser offense is punishable by a penalty less than life imprisonment is proved, the court shall not dismiss the case but shall decide the same and impose the corresponding penalty. The decree, which amends R. A. 5179, does not apply to offenses falling within the jurisdiction of military tribunals.

PRESIDENT MARCOS has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 127 authorizing local school boards of chartered cities and all first class municipalities (Class I and Class II) created under R. A. No. 5447 to invest in government bonds in amounts not less than 30 per cent of their respective shares from the one per cent additional real property tax levied and apportioned under said law. The decree signed Feb. 12, noted the urgent need to implement immediately the Educational Development Decree of 1972 to assure improved management and operation of the educational system and thereby achieve quality academic instruction and develop skills among the citizens belonging to the lower-income group, specially those coming from the rural areas. The school boards concerned have been authorized to invest, beginning March 1, 1973, in government bonds issued or which may be issued under the provisions of R. A. 4861.

LOGGING BAN CLAMPED on all logging concessions in watersheds whose waters drain into Central Luzon is still on and is not likely to be lifted in the immediate future. This statement was issued by the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources which explained that the ban will stay, pending the completion of an exhaustive study on the effects of logging on watersheds feeding water to the Angat, Pampanga and Agno; river basins. Watersheds are, bodies of forest drained by rivers or creeks. They are usually mountainsides which regulate water flow and minimize run-offs or floods. There are estimated 390,000 hectares of critical watersheds all over the country whose denuded state need immediate reforestation and afforestation.

February 15—

PRESIDENT MARCOS signed a presidential decree governing the establishment of investment houses and prescribing the rules for their operation. The decree, known as “The Investment Houses Law,” defines the scope and functions of an investment house to include any enterprise which engage in the underwriting of securities, buying or selling securities of other persons or enterprises. The new law directs the Securities and Exchange Commission not to register the articles of incorporation of any investment house which does not comply with the provisions of the decree with respect to the amount of capital, the proposed organization, direction and administration, integrity, experience and expertise of the organizers and the proposed managerial staff, and the assurance that the enterprise, will be conducted with financial prudence. All enterprises already in operation as investment houses prior to the promulgation of the decree, are required within six months to file information sheets with the SEC containing the necessary data about their organizations and operations to enable the SEC to determine whether they meet the prescribed requirements.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad revealed that although the Philippines stands to lose in its external debts because of the recent dollar devaluation, these losses will be offset by gains in; our non-dollar and gold assets. During a briefing, the secretary said that the country incur the following losses in our foreign debts: $11 million this year, $2.7 million in 1974, and $5.4 million in 1975. After 1975, there will be still losses, but these will be negligible. However, gains in our non-dollar and gold assets are expected to reach between $58 and $60 million, broken down as follows: $10 million in non-dollar currencies (yen, deutchmark) and between $48 and $50 million in our gold assets. It was also reported, that prices of commodities quoted in US dollars are expected to remain at present levels, while prices of imports from Japan and Europe are expected to rise. This will result, the secretary said, in a reduction of demand for Japanese and European imports. A shift of importation to the United States is expected to offset the ill-effects of high importation costs from Europe and Japan.

BOARD OF TRANSPORTATION told all delinquent transportation and other public utility operators to settle all their unpaid obligations like fines, supervision and regulation fees, on or before Feb. 28, 1973. Total collectibles amount to P46,308. Failure to settle these obligations will force the BOT to cancel their franchises and/or certificates of public convenience and/or certificates of public convenience and necessity.

PHILIPPINE MEDICAL CARE COMMISSION (PMCC) issued instructions for establishing the identity of legal dependents of members of the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) and the Social Security System (SSS) who may seek admission in hospitals as Medicare beneficiaries. The PMCC said that pending the release of the Medicare legal dependent identification form, the GSIS or the SSS member whose legal dependent is to be hospitalized should accomplish the following: 1) A certification signed by him stating that the person he claims to be his legal dependent is indeed his legal dependent; and 2) Authentication of his signature through certification issued by his employer. The PMCC has considered the following as legal dependents: 1) The legitimate spouse; 2) The unmarried and unemployed legitimate and legitimated children who are below 21 years old, and 3) Parents who are totally dependent for support on a son or daughter who is a member of the SSS or GSIS.

TRAUMATIC INJURIES (inflicted by wounds, shock and others) admitted for treatment at the Dr. Jose Reyes Memorial Hospital registered an unprecedented low after the proclamation of Martial Law, according to records of the Department of Health. The reports showed a marked decline three months after the imposition of Martial Law on the following cases; maulings, from 4,451 to 1,007; vehicular accidents, 2,919 to 799; stabbings, 1,502 to 317; shootings, 486 to 31. Total of cases admitted for treatment dropped from 9,358 to 2,154 showing a difference of 7,204; traumatic operations dropped from 3,305 to 828. Traumatic cases came from all parts of Manila but the greater number came from Tondo, due perhaps to its heavy population and to Tondo's proximity to the hospital. The district of Binondo registered no case after the imposition of Martial Law.

President's Week in Review: February 16-22, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 16—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Philippine Medical Care Commission (PMCC) to supervise and administer the expenditures of the income of government hospitals from the medicare program. The President's instruction was aimed at expediting the use of the earnings of the government hospitals from medicare to their own improvements.. As provided for by E.A. 6111, otherwise known as the Medicare Law, the income of government hospitals from medicare is to be constituted as a revolving fund for the particular hospital, for the upgrading and expansion of its facilities and for its maintenance and operation, subject to the approval of the Department of Health. In view of the authority given the PMCC, the commission issued the following guidelines for the government hospitals: 1) Deposit the earnings from Medicare in interest-bearing government depository banks doing business in the Philippines, preferably in the Philippine National Bank or in any of its branches or agencies; 2) Formulate plans and programs for the upgrading and expansion of their facilities and for other necessary improvements; and 3) Submit to the PMCC for approval such plans and programs.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said that in any program of social change, education is always a central agent for the changes being sought, and for the arrival of the new order. The DPI secretary pointed out that at this particular time, when we have, committed all our lives and resources to the transformation of our society, our inquiry into our educational system must be directed at the outset to fundamental question of making 'cultural revolution. He recalled that in the past we have always been hampered by our colonial heritage and by the models offered by the Western World and it was by this route that the "empty shibboleths of revolution and relevance found their way into our vocabulary and thereby prevented us from really understanding our conditions and what had been happening to us this many years." He asked the educational institutions to unravel the talent latent in the people to give it illumination and scope thereby open to it the possibilities of liberation, noting that we can "proceed to educate the young if we are clear about the image of the Filipino individual and the society we seek."

NATIONAL EXECUTIVE board of the "Mabuhay Ang Pilipino Movement" announced that it has decided to convert the movement into an incorporated foundation after a meeting last Feb. 13. A committee is now working on the final draft of the by-laws of the de facto foundation. The movement was organized last Nov. 30 by civic leaders representing a-cross-section of both governmental and non-governmental sectors. As constituted at present, it is a loose confederation of some 50 civic organizations and trade and professional groups whose voluntary membership and services are being directed by a national executive board. Projects to be undertaken by the movement will complement government activities in the fields of youth development, environmental beautification, pollution control, health and sanitation; small business development, consumers cooperatives, self-help marketing assistance, etc.

NOBODY SHOULD take Filipino citizenship lightly to suit his convenience. The consequences may be harsh and irreversible. This dictum was expressed by Commissioner of Immigration and Deportation Edmundo M. Reyes when he denied the petition of a Chinese national to reassume his Filipino citizenship after having renounced it for flimsy reasons; Ang Chu, 45, of Calamca, Misamis, Occidental, was recognized as a Filipino citizen by the commission upon his claim that he is the son of a Filipino father and a Chinese mother. A look at his records revealed, however, that on February 9, 1949, Ang executed a document renouncing his Filipino citizenship so that he could be issued a reentry permit to enable him to visit his family and relatives in Hongkong and China. At that time, restrictions on the travel of Filipino citizens made it hard for them to travel to Hongkong and other contiguous areas and the only way Ang could go there was to renounce his Filipino citizenship and apply for documents as a Chinese citizen. He filed a renunciation of his Filipino citizenship under oath with the help of travel agents. Later, Ang applied for the return of his Filipino citizenship and the issuance of an identification certificate as a Filipino. This application was granted by the commission on the approval of a former associate commissioner, and the favorable recommendation of immigration officials. When the Commissioner discovered the old documents of renunciation, he revoked the old order, and ruled that with Ang's renunciation of citizenship, he may reacquire Filipino citizenship only through naturalization. Ang was ordered to surrender his ID certificate and comply with the Alien Registration Law requirements for aliens or face arrest.

TWO IMPORTANT Philippine projects, the Laguna de Bay Water Resource Development Project and the Special Assistance for Highway Rehabilitation Project were approved by the governing council of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). The Laguna de Bay Project involves approximately US$101,000 intended to confirm the feasibility of utilizing the Lake as source of fresh water supply. Specifically, the project involves studies on water quality and management, water supply plant design, and a hydraulic control structure with navigational lock. The Highway Rehabilitation Project involves approximately 249,900, intended to restore road networks in Central Luzon which were destroyed during the July-August floods.

February 17—

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE advised the public that all properties located in the Philippines should be insured only with insurance companies duly authorized to do business in the Philippines. It was pointed out that this is one of the explicit provisions of Presidential Decree No. 63 which introduced several amendments to the Insurance Act. The Commission is now authorized to appoint an administrator to manage the affairs and properties of an erring insurance company in lieu of the usual rehabilitation proceedings. This new power of the Insurance Commission is in addition to its authority to suspend or revoke the certificates of authority of insurance companies found violating the Insurance Act.

BUREAUS OF INTERNAL REVENUE and Customs granted tax credits amounting to P1,831,820.89 to 34 export firms registered with the Board of Investments under the Investment Incentives Act (Republic Act 5186) and the Export Incentives Act (Republic Act 6135) for the year 1972. Among the non-traditional products exported by these firms during the year were: sewing machine cabinets, cements, garments, acrylic wigs, crumb rubber, pianos, paints and varnishes, and food products. Of the P1 8 million tax credits granted by both offices, P1,578,789.89 represented the amount to firms registered under R.A. 5186 and P253,013.00 to those under R.A. 6135. Tax credits represent the refund of taxes and duties paid by BOI-registered firms on the raw materials and supplies they used in the manufacture of exported products. The tax credit certificate issued to them may be used in paying other taxes, duties, fees and charges due the national government.

DEPARTMENT OF LOCAL Government and Community Development called on all provincial governors, city and municipal mayors, and barrio captains to “preserve the lists of the names and officials of Barangays (citizen assemblies)” so that these assemblies could continue functioning as the base of popular government in deciding issues affecting the people. In its Memorandum Circular No. 73-2, the DLGCD ordered that: 1) Barangays must update the membership of their duly constituted assemblies to include 15-year-olds and the illiterates; 2) For purposes of codifications, sufficient copies of the updated list be prepared, distributed, coded as follows—code one for the file copy of the barangay, code two for the copy of the municipal or city secretariat, code three for the copy of the provincial secretariat, and code four for the copy of the executive secretariat of the Katipunan ng mga Barangay; 3) Immediate steps be taken toward the organization of barangays in municipalities and cities where no barangay has as yet been organized or constituted.

101ST DEATH ANNIVERSARY of Fathers Jose Burgos, Mariano Gomez, and Jacinto Zamora, popularly known as “The Three Martyred Priests of 1872” and whom historians consider as the “Forerunners of Philippine Nationalism” was commemorated today with a mass and a simple wreath laying ceremony at the foot of their monument at Plaza Roma, Aduana St., Intramuros. It will be recalled that when the Cavite Mutiny of Jan. 20, 1872 took place, Fathers Burgos, Gomez and Zamora were implicated. They were arrested and imprisoned at Fort Santiago by the Spanish authorities. Subsequently, they were tried by mock military tribunal, found guilty and executed at Bagumbayan, now part of Rizal Park.

PHILIPPINE EXPORT receipts in the fourth quarter of 1972, the period covering the first three months under Martial Law., amounted to $285 million, considered the biggest for the year, according to the report of the Department of Finance. Compared to the export receipts of the fourth quarter of Calendar Year 1971, which was $249.25 million, the export receipts for the fourth quarter of last year was $38 million more or an increase of 14 per cent, and was also 7 per cent more than the average of the first three quarters of the year. From 1966 to 1971, export receipts during the fourth quarter were always the lowest for the year, but because of improved conditions brought about by Martial Law, the export receipts of the fourth quarter of 1972 registered the highest level for the year.

February 18—

IMPORTANT ROLE of radio and telecommunications in safeguarding the national security and in promoting a healthy atmosphere for business, tourism and the economic development of the country, was underscored by Ceferino Carreon, officer-in-charge of the Radio Control Office. Because of these vital functions, the RCO has exercised stricter supervision and control over radio broadcasting stations, television networks and other telecommunications facilities since the imposition of Martial Law, resulting in the improvement of the standard of broadcasts, according to the RCO chief. The RCO expects to improve its facilities, with the recent Integrated Communications Network ordered by the President designed to provide communications facilities to the far flung areas of the country not yet serviced by government or private network.

EXCESS AND OTHER unauthorized firearms should be deposited only with the PC firearms and explosives unit in Camp Crame, Quezon City for residents of the Greater Manila area or with the nearest provincial headquarters for residents of the provinces, according to a reminder issued by Col. Alfonso C. Trance, commanding officer of the firearms and explosives unit, in the wake of inquiries from the people who want to know if they could surrender their excess guns to any military officer. The PC firearms chief said that the PC firearms and explosive unit in Camp Crame, and the provincial headquarters located in the capital of each province are the only places where excess and other unauthorized firearms can be deposited. There is only one form of official receipt used in acknowledging the deposit of excess and unauthorized firearms, a copy of which is furnished by the PC computer center at Camp Crame. It was also explained that these firearms holders cannot transfer their excess or unauthorized firearms even to their next kin because all transactions involving the issuance of licenses, alteration of licenses, change of firearms, change of residence, have been suspended after the proclamation of Martial Law.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRARIAN REFORM fieldmen have been authorized “to exhaust all the remedies within their authority” and, if necessary, avail themselves of military assistance to avert disruption of the peace and order conditions now prevailing in the countryside. The authorization was made due to the intensification of the drive to inform tenant-farmers and landowners of their respective responsibilities under the mandate for agrarian reform. It has been reported that some landlords do not recognize the good intent of the provisions of the Presidential decrees and letters of instructions, resulting in conflicts between tillers and landowners. In this connection, the DAR stresses strict observance of the following guidelines: As of Oct. 21, 1972, all tenant-farmers are deemed owners of the land they till; no tenant farmer shall be ejected from his farmplot pending promulgation of the agrarian rules; the leasehold system shall be provisionally maintained; tenants shall continue to pay lease rentals, the rate to be determined by the DAR (the rent may be credited as amortization payment later); and, all pending cases in, courts between tenants and landowners shall be held in abeyance.

February 19—

THE PRESIDENT signed a decree penalizing the theft of government property by any government employee or laborer. The Presidential decree ordered that “any employee or laborer who shall steal any, material, spare part, product or article that he is working on, using or producing shall, upon conviction, be punished with imprisonment ranging from prison correctional to prison mayor.” All laws inconsistent with the decree were repealed or modified accordingly, unless they provided, a heavier penalty. The decree was made a part of the law of the land and to take effect immediately after its publication in a newspaper of general circulation.

LAND BANK BONDS may not be legally used in payment of rentals of government properties, according to the provisions of Sec. 85 of the Code of Agrarian Reforms which enumerates the purposes for which Land Bank bonds may be utilized. Secretary of Justice Vicente Abad Santos promulgated this legal opinion in reply to a question from the director of the Bureau of Building and Real Property Management. It was ruled, however, that the bonds may be used in consideration of the sale of government lands to private parties as provided for by paragraph one of Sec. 85 of the Agrarian Reform Code which specifies, as one of the purposes for which bonds may be used, "payment for agrarian lands or other real properties purchased from the government."

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE announced the availability of a new BIR form for income tax purposes for use of Filipinos residing abroad. Known as BIR Form 1701-C, the form has been designed to meet the requirements of Presidential Decree No. 69 taxing non-resident citizens on their gross income earned abroad. A non-resident Filipino citizen becomes subject to taxation under Presidential Decree No. 69 if he has stayed abroad for an uninterrupted period covering at least an entire taxable year. He shall be taxed on his gross income at the following rates: 1) One per cent of gross income abroad not exceeding $6,000; 2) Two per cent of gross income abroad exceeding $6,000 but not exceeding $20,000; 3) Three per cent of gross income abroad exceeding $20,000; The new rates apply to income earned abroad beginning January 1972. BIR form 1701-C is exclusively for declaring income earned abroad. If a non-resident citizen has earned income both here and abroad/then two returns must be filed by him; one for income earned abroad using BIR form 1701-C, and another for income derived or earned from sources within the Philippines using either BIR Form 1701 or 1701-A Regardless of amount of income earned abroad, a non-resident citizen or Filipino is required to file income tax returns, the BIR said.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE also announced that the collection in specific taxes registered several increases this year. Collection in specific taxes for January 1973 alone reached P71,739,184.11, showing a 27 15 per cent increase over collections for the same month last year. For a seven-month period, from July 1972 to January 1973, total specific taxes paid amounted to P413,393,797.09 representing a P27.44 million over the July 1971 to January 1972 collections. The January 1973 collection is broken down as follows: P32,916,650.49, tobacco products; P15,737,261.13, alcohol products; P22,663,683.23, gasoline and oil products, and P421,589.26, cinematographic films. The increases were attributed to close supervision exercised over factories and establishments producing articles subject to specific taxes and the changed attitude of taxpayers since the imposition of Martial Law.

February 20—

THE PRESIDENT laid down three basic policies to prevent forest destruction and to encourage the establishment of wood processing industries. After inducting into office the officials of the Philippine Chamber of Wood Industries at Malacañang, the President promulgated the following basic policies governing forest concessions: 1) The phasing out over a three-year period of the exportation of raw timber or logs; 2) Limitation of logging concessions to not more than 100,000 hectares each, as provided by the Constitution; 3) The punishment, without further notice, of all violators of the laws, rules and regulations governing timber concessions. The President said that the exportation of logs will be phased out and that after three years, he will not authorize the shipping of logs out of the country. Regarding the violation of laws, rules and regulations governing logging concessions, such as the provision for the reforestation of logged-over areas and the prohibition against leasing the logging concessions to operators on a fixed royalty basis, the President said the government is going over the records and will punish all violators without giving them further notice. The President said this is necessary not only to protect the interest of the people and the people in the wood industries but also to perpetuate this legacy and hand it over to the next generation, "if not increased, at least not diminished."

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree creating the Fertilizer Industry Authority (FIA) to regulate, control and develop the fertilizer industry in the Philippines with the end in view to assuring the agricultural sector of adequate fertilizer supply at the lowest possible cost. Under the decree, the FIA shall have jurisdiction over all existing and potential Manufacturers and suppliers of fertilizers and fertilizer inputs. Among its function are the control and Regulation of the prices, distribution channels, promotion and storage; the establishment of implementing regulations governing import and export of fertilizer and the regulation of all aspects of domestic fertilizer production. The FIA shall also assist in the financing of the importation of fertilizers and the expansion of the local industry.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE and Tourism has asked the business community to keep levels of profit within the bounds of dignity as defined in the pricing guidelines of the New Society. Secretary of Trade and Tourism Troadio Quiazon Jr., said in a meeting with members of the Philippine Marketing Association Inc., that while the government does not intend to remove profit motivation which is the major incentive of business, it will not allow undeserved profit due to profiteering and manipulation of prices. The government has introduced the social pricing-concept on basic commodities in its bid to curb the sharp increase of prices, but prices of other goods may be allowed to be determined by the existing supply and demand situation. Retailers and wholesalers were warned against undue increases with the admonition that violators will be promptly prosecuted with their licenses or permits canceled. It was pointed out that violators may be detained pending resolution of their cases.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS will be fielded as volunteer barrio workers to organize barrio associations in the rural areas for the period of one year starting this month. This was the subject of the memorandum of understanding between the Department of Local Government and Community Development and the Department of Education and Culture which pointed out that since the formation of full-fledged cooperatives start with the organization of barrio associations, there is an urgent need for volunteer workers at this crucial stage. Teachers who will serve as volunteer workers will be assigned in the barrios where they are teaching. Their working hours in the organization of the barrio associations will be calendared in such a way as not to disrupt their regular school activities. Aside from the service credit that the Department of Education and Culture will allow the teachers, they will also be provided with a P30 monthly honorarium for their voluntary services. The barrio associations would be the first stage in the launching of cooperatives which may result in the total emancipation of the tenants in heavily tenanted areas of the country.

DEPARTMENT OF LOCAL Government and Community Development reported that local governments have retained control and supervision of national aid for the maintenance of local roads following an amendment of Presidential Decree No. 17. The decree, issued last October had revised the Philippine Highways Act of 1953 and transferred the control and supervision of road maintenance funds from the local governments to the Bureau of Public Highways. The President, after a conference with local government executives, ordered the amendment of the decree and directed that the control and supervision of funds for the maintenance of local roads be returned to the local governments.

THE GOVERNMENT chalked up an additional income of P8,120,074 out of tax discrepancy collection made in January by the customs appraisers division in Manila on 683 entries. The amount almost equaled the tax discrepancy collections made during the first quarter of this fiscal year. Of the total tax discrepancy collected last month the iron and steel section led with P2,286,169, followed by the miscellaneous section with P760,759; hardware section, P753,132; foodstuff section P722,694, and ten other sections with collections ranging from P52,000 to P400,000.

MALACANANG HAS RELEASED the official text of two Presidential decrees, one providing for the allocation and expenditures of all money accruing to the Highway Special Fund and the other imposing a tax of 15 per cent on interest on foreign loan. Presidential Decree No. 130 which further amends PD No. 17 provides that at least six per cent of all money accruing to the Highway Special Fund shall be made available for administering the provisions of the Act as the secretary of public works, transportation, and communications may deem necessary, four per cent allotted for administrative management and two per cent to be allotted for engineering management. These allocations shall be used exclusively to pay the salaries and other operational expenses of officials and employees of the Bureau of Public Highways engaged in administrative management and engineering management, as defined in the act. Presidential Decree Xo, 131 on the other hand, further amends Sees. 24 (b) (1) and 53 (b) (2) of the National Internal Revenue Code, as amended, by imposing a tax of 15 per cent on interest on foreign loans earned beginning Jan, 1, 1973. The decree states that it is imperative to adopt measures responsive to the requirements of a developing economy, foremost of which is the speedy restructuring of the social, economic and political institutions of the country. Economic development of this country needs funding from domestic and foreign sources and in order to attract loans from foreign countries, an appropriate tax on their income should be levied on interests earned and remitted abroad.

TAXPAYERS WHO HAVE delinquent accounts with the Bureau of Internal Revenue have only up to Feb. 28 to avail themselves of the tax amnesty granted under Presidential Decree No. 68, according to the Department of Finance. Under the decree, delinquent tax accounts which remained unpaid, involving an amount exceeding P100, are reduced by 20 per cent if these are paid in full on or before February 28. Failure to avail of the amnesty before deadline renders the delinquent tax accounts as final, executory and demandable and shall be collected by court action, by distraint and levy, or both, simultaneously.

LAND TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION announced that the last day for the payments of registration fees of all “for hire” motor vehicles is on Feb. 28, 1973. All LTC agencies throughout the country will be open until 10 p.m. to accept last-hour payments. According to the LTC the usual payments of 1st installments of their registration fees may accepted on or before Feb. 28th and the second installments on or before Aug. 31, 1973. Similarly, the LTC also announced that the last day for Payment of registration fees of private motor vehicles for the current year is May 31, 1973.

THE PRESIDENT designated two special groups of presidential assistants to conduct a performance and management audit of provincial governments and a number of state corporations which have not lived up to expectations. The President is particularly interested in finding out how local governments are implementing the program of reforms, especially those dealing with development and the elimination of political patronage. The first group, to handle state firms, will be composed of Presidential Executive Assistant Jacobo C. Clave and Presidential Assistants Guillermo C. de Vega and Juan C. Tuvera. The second team includes the presidential trouble shooters, former senators Leonardo B. Perez and Rene Espina and former Congressmen Jose D. Aspiras of La Union and Carmelo Z. Barbero of Abra.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said that the government will help firms that are indebted to state financing and lending institutions get back on their feet, but will institute foreclosure proceeding against big borrowers who try to defraud their creditors. He explained in a briefing that the government will avail itself of funds and inject competent management in enterprises managed by people without expertise and competence to enable them to recover and settle their obligations. He stressed, however, that foreclosure suits will be filed against firms found to be under the following conditions: 1) If there is deliberate refusal on the part of the delinquent company to pay its debts in spite of its capability to pay; 2) If there is concealment of assets of the borrower with the intent to defraud its creditor; and 3) If there is illicit channeling of the assets of the delinquent borrowers with intent to defraud its creditors.

DANGEROUS DRUGS BOARD approved guidelines for hospital and community pharmacists in their reports on the dispensing of medicine and filling of physician’s prescriptions. Reports required of pharmacists are of three categories namely: 1) records of dangerous drugs dispensed for in-patients in hospitals and similar institutions; 2) records of dangerous drugs required of pharmacists dealing in dangerous drugs required under Sec. 25(a), Republic Act 6425, as amended, and 3) quarterly reports of dangerous drugs dispensed in in-patient wards of hospitals and similar institutions.

February 22—

THE PRESIDENT issued Decree No. 134 setting the guidelines for barangays’ (citizens assemblies) participation in the resolution of local issues affecting their welfare. The decree was issued upon request from various barangays, relayed to the President and the Department of Local Government and Community Development, to hold referendums on some important issues, in line with Presidential Decree No. 86, dated Dec. 31, 1972, which has made it the policy of the state “to broaden the base of the citizen participation in the democratic processes and to afford ample opportunities for the citizens to express their views. Under PD No. 134, the DLGCD is directed to authorize and supervise the calling of referendum in all local units and for this purpose requests the participation of the Department of Education and Culture and other offices in the localities concerned in conducting the barangays (citizens assemblies).

THE PRESIDENT underscored the urgency of more extensive economic relations among the members of the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN). Addressing the secretaries general of ASEAN member countries who called on him, the President stressed the need for ASEAN nations to get together and agree on points of reference, especially with regard to the economic development of Asia. The ASEAN secretaries general who called on the President were George E Bogars of Singapore; Klos Visessukara and Vibkal Bhinyoying of Thailand; Yusof Ariff of Malaysia; Marjad Njotowijono of Indonesia and Modesto Farolan of the Philippines.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE moved for the application of the full force of the law against all persons still in possession of untaxed or improperly taxed motor vehicles or imported goods in commercial quantities. According to the department, the presidential decrees granting tax amnesty to possessors of untaxed or improperly taxed motor vehicles and imported items, expired last Jan. 31, 1973. Secretary of Finance Cesar Virata has made representations with the Land Transportation Commission not to register motor vehicles without prior clearance from the Bureau of Customs. Sterner measures are being studied for implementation soon.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE INSURANCE SYSTEM reported that it has disbursed a total of P6,266,237-78 as payment of claims for government employees under medicare, broken down as follows: paid to hospitals, P3,799,991.86; paid to doctors as medical expenses benefits, P535,172.33; as surgical expenses benefits, P1,734,829.89; paid to drugstores P127,010.70; advance paid to hospitals, P69,233. From May 1972 to January 1973, a total of 24,690 claims and applications for payment of hospitalization expenses have been received from all over the country. As of Jan. 26 this year, 23,909 applications constituting 96.84 per cent of the claims received have been approved and paid. The GSIS also announced that in due time all medicare claims will be processed upon receipt so that applicants or claimants will immediately have the results of their applications or claims.

THE PRESIDENT ISSUED a proclamation declaring the period from Feb. 26 to March 4, this year as National Press Week. The President issued the proclamation, "in order that the people may appreciate fully the vital role of the press in community life, particularly in the building of a New Society." He enjoined all people to lend their full support and cooperation in the proper observance of the National Press Week, "to the end that the press shall continue to be an instrument of good' unbiased, fair and just."

President's Week in Review: February 23-28, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 23—

THE PRESIDENT directed all heads of departments, bureaus and agencies of the government, including the local governments, to extend the tallest support to the scouting movement and its projects, and to all other groups with similar objectives. The President, in a memorandum circular, pointed out that the Boy Scouts of the Philippines is now engaged in promoting the various government programs, notably the food production and Green Revolution drives; the conservation and reforestation program; the beautification, health and sanitation program, and the campaign against drug addiction. The President issued the memorandum following the call at Malacañang of some 250 delegates to the BSP Special Key-Three Conference held in Manila. The delegates which represented all the 77 local BSP councils from the different provinces and cities, presented the President with a resolution informing him that the BSP, "now more than ever, commits its unequivocal support and active involvement of its manpower and resources to help improve the lot of the people and to help achieve the aims of the New Society, so that the Filipino may live in a new atmosphere of peace, justice, dignity and prosperity."

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE announced that taxpayers who file their 1972 income tax returns on or before April 16, 1973, may still claim exemptions for dependents not over 23 years old as of last Dec. 31, 1972. The announcement was made in view of Presidential Decree No. 69 which reduces the age limit of dependents from 23 to 21 and imposes a limit of only four dependents who will be entitled to exemption. The BIR explained that the limitation took effect only last Jan. 1, 1973 and does not affect the taxpayer's 1972 income tax returns.

THERE IS NO FEE OR CHARGE required in the filing of the sworn statement of the true value of real property when this is subscribed under oath before the provincial or city assessor, the municipal treasurer or before any public officer authorized to administer oath. The clarification was issued by the Department of Finance in view complaints from the public regarding fees charged in connection with filing of sworn statements on real property as required by Presidential Decree No. 76. The uniform and simplified sworn statement forms will be given free for the use of property owners in the local government offices where the properties are located. Presidential Decree No. 76 requires all persons, natural or juridical, owning or administering real property including the improvements thereon, to file sworn statements on the value of their real property as a basis for tax assessments. These sworn statements shall be filed with the provincial or city or the municipal treasurer not later than June 30, 1973.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad announced the appointment of the acting director and acting assistant director of the Bureau of National and Foreign Information (BNFI) and the Bureau of Standards for Mass Media (BSMM) under the Department of Public Information. Named acting BNFI director was Lorenzo J. Cruz, with Florentino Macabenta as acting assistant director. Appointed acting BSMM director was Andres Cristobal Cruz, with Amante Bigornia as acting assistant director. Secretary Tatad said these new appointments will considerably improve the services of the DPI and afford better consultation between the DPI and the mass media for the purpose of improving the performance of the media.

THE PRESIDENT DIRECTED the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Board of Investments and Central Bank to take immediate steps to limit the area planted to banana only to what the current export market can absorb. The directive was contained in Letter of Instruction No. 53 which states that the area to be planted for export bananas shall be the optimum hectareage which can be absorbed by the Japanese market and other markets as may be developed in the future without creating a surplus situation that could depress the export price of bananas. Under present conditions and until new markets can be developed or an unexpected increase in the Japanese market occurs, the hectareage planted to bananas for export shall be limited to not more than 21,000 hectares, to be distributed among present banana producers in accordance with certain guidelines.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INFORMATION clarified that individual clearances for the publication of school yearbooks or annuals should be secured from the office of the DPI secretary. All such requests for clearances should be addressed to the office of the DPI secretary in Malacañang, and not to the Mass Media Council in Camp

Aguinaldo, Quezon City. The clarification was made in answer to queries from interested parties who wanted to know whether their communications should be forwarded to the Mass Media Council or to the office of the DPI secretary in Malacañang, his view of the fact that Secretary Francisco S. Tatad is also the chairman of the Mass Media Council.

February 24—

THE PRESIDENT underscored the pivotal role played by local government officials, in the transformation of society in line with the strictest standards of discipline, morality and efficiency. In a speech read for him by Secretary Jose A. Roño of Local Government and Community Development at the convention of the League of Governors and City Mayors in Davao City, the President said that local officials, in a sense, act as “go-between” for the national government and the people. He added, however, that as indispensable parts of the government’s political machinery, local officials are duty-bound to carry out the policies, rules and regulations of the national government. In recognition of the important role being played by the local governments, the President has created the Department of Local Governments and Community Development. The Chief Executive said that he hopes that this will enhance the adaptability of the local governments to the “exigencies of our time.” The local officials were exhorted to keep up with the strict standards and the high goals set for the New Society so that they may serve as examples of the new politicians endowed with “competence and integrity of the highest degree.”

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said that there is a definite boom in the country’s industrial, commercial, mining oil and other business activities based on the reports of the Manila and Makati stock exchanges. The secretary said that because of this unprecedented business activity, foreign investors are coming from Tokyo, Singapore, and Hongkong. The latest word is that the top six months makers of Hongkong are due in Manila early next week and are reported considering the investment of some $500 million in local business ventures. The increased business activities were boosted further with the reported discovery of copper deposits in Davao Oriental, Kalinga-Apayao and Ilocos Norte and another possible huge oil deposit in Camarines Sur, in addition to the highest gas pressure discovered in the Sulu Archipelago. The business boom was earlier confirmed with the stock market registering sales volume of P51 million last Friday, the highest in three years, as compared to the highest volume of P30 million in 1969.

POOR MEN may now pursue their claim and complaint against big insurance companies without spending a single centavo for legal expenses. The newly approved rules of procedure governing hearings before the Insurance Companies provide that the commission will extend full assistance, free of charge, to any complainant who has been found to have no means for legal services. The assistance includes exemption from the payment of legal fees, printed records and printed briefs and from the filing of the appeal bond. The rules are aimed at attaining the commission’s principal objective of adjudicating or settling claims and complaints and assisting parties in obtaining just, speedy and inexpensive determination of claims and complaints. Only claims not exceeding P100,000, however, are covered by the new rules.

TRAINING PROGRAM for young offenders was launched recently by the National Manpower and Youth Council in collaboration with the Bureau of Prisons at Camp Sampaguita Youth Rehabilitation Center, Muntinglupa, Rizal. The project, which started late last year, is a new government scheme of rehabilitation and reform for disadvantaged youth of the country. It is designed to help young offenders to develop proper habits and attitudes to prepare themselves for eventual integration into the free community. It also seeks to provide them with basic skills needed to acquire jobs and become productive members of the society. Some 200 inmates from 16 to 19 years old are undergoing training in practical electricity, woodworking, radio mechanics, etc. Graduates of the course will be assigned to prison industries while serving their respective terms. On the other hand, released prisoners will receive placement assistance from the Bureau of Prisons in cooperation with the Department of Social Welfare.

February 25—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Commission on Immigration and Deportation to liberalize the visa requirements for stock brokers and investors from Hongkong, Singapore, Taipei and other big cities abroad who are coming to the country to make investments in local business ventures. The Presidential directive was spurred by reports of executives from the Manila and Makati stock exchanges that a big group of investors, led by six top money makers in Hongkong with investment potentials estimated at $500 million, are scheduled to arrive in Manila to confer with local business executives. The President's order carried instructions to the immigration bureau to waive the visa requirements initially for at least 72 hours to make it easy and convenient for these stock brokers and investors to enter the country. Existing immigration laws are particularly strict against the entry of aliens from Hongkong and Taipei. The President also ordered the immigration commission to study how to make it more convenient and attractive for investors who wish to enter the country to participate in the burgeoning stock business registered by the local bourses.

BARRIO SANTA ROSA in Sarrat, Ilocos Norte, offers a lesson in community development worthy of emulation by the over 33,800 barrios in the country. Specifically, the success story of this once-sleepy barrio shows what a functional barrio council and civic spirit, properly guided, can do to uplift a village and its people. When community development workers, some years back, arrived in Sta. Rosa, they saw a basically agricultural community peopled by some 800 farmers. The place seemed bereft of potential except in the area of agriculture. They soon realized, after, series of surveys and research work, that the people needed skills training to give them the ability and confidence to do various community Projects. The community development workers decided to hold a series of training activities for barrio council members and lay leaders. The barrio folk were taught the provisions of the Revised Barrio Charter, the laws affecting the barrios, the anatomy of the barrio government and how to manage and administer local affairs. After the training, the people's efforts and enthusiasm were then, directed towards the improvement of their community. A number of projects long needed bid for decades not achieved soon sprang up. Among which are: 1) A multi-purpose center which took the barrio people a cash contribution of more than P10,000 and P6,000 in labor to complete, with the Presidential Arm on Community Development chipping in P7,000 as counterpart fund. 2) A barrio market where even the people of neighboring barrios converge to sell their wares and buy necessities. 3) A spring development scheme which provides potable water to the Presidents as well as to nearby barrios. 4) Communal fishponds with the aid of the Bureau of Fisheries, the PACD and the barrio council. For its many achievements, Sta. Rosa was adjudged the regional winner under the community award category. The barrio council had earlier been selected as the "Most Outstanding Barrio Council" in a provincial contest, in connection with a province-wide institute on barrio administration, for its being viable, dynamic and functional.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION (BAE) will mark this year's celebration of Nutrition Week, March 1-7, as proclaimed by the President, with a series-of demonstrations and training lessons on fruit, vegetable, meat, and fish utilization. The theme for this year's Nutrition Week Celebration of the BAE is "War Against Waste", signifying the need to utilize fully our food resources in the national food production program, and in supplying the necessary nutrition needs of the population. The demonstrations and training lessons will be held on March 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Maria Orosa Hall, BAE head office, Diliman, Quezon City.

February 26—

SECRETARY OF JUSTICE Vicente Abaci Santos ruled that the prospective members of the interim National Assembly (members of the defunct Congress and Constitutional Convention delegates who have opted to serve in the Assembly) are not disqualified, at present from: 1) Holding any office or employment in the government or its agencies, including government-owned or controlled corporations or be appointed to any civil office. 2) Appearing as counsel before any court inferior to a court with appellate jurisdiction, before any court in any civil case wherein the government or any of its agencies is the adverse party or before any administrative body (The prohibition against being directly or indirectly, financially interested in any contract with or in any franchise or special privilege granted by the government or any of its instrumentalities, including government-owned or controlled corporations, shall not apply to them. 3) Serving as officer director legal counsel or consultant of any private bank. 4) Serving as members of the Monetary Board or as deputy governor of the Central Bank.

SOLICITOR GENERAL Estelito P. Mendoza stressed that the archipelago doctrine, which the Philippines is vigorously advocating as the guiding principle for delimiting seabed areas and territorial waters is vital to Philippines national interest. In a speech before a meeting of the Philippines Society of International Law and the Philippine Commission of Jurists, the government official said that the doctrine implies full dominion and sovereign rights over the waters among the islands which comprise the Philippine archipelago. It was emphasized that it is imperative for the country to control the waters within the archipelago and within the broadest possible area, over waters surrounding it, to assure that these waters may not be used for hostile purposes. Such control was also deemed necessary to prevent "pollution to a degree which would cause irreparable injury to us," so that the people may enjoy the water resources which logically belong to them. The archipelago concept allows an archipelago like the Philippines to draw straight baselines connecting the outermost points of the outermost islands and drying reefs and call the waters within the baselines as internal waters and the waters seaward from the baseline as the territorial sea, as limited by Article II of the Treaty of Paris.

LAND TRANSPORTATION authorities agreed to extend the mantle of legitimacy to public motor vehicles which operate by attaching to lines of authorized franchise holders in what is more popularly known as "kabit" system, upon their owners' compliance with certain requirements. Under the system agreed upon among LTC Commissioner Romeo F. Edu, Board Transportation Chairman Cesar Guzman and Col. Paulino Briones Jr., the owner of the "kabit" vehicle must execute an affidavit stating the name of the operator under which the "kabit" is being operated; that he is the real and lawful owner of the vehicle and that he is applying or has applied with the Board of Transportation for a separate certificate of public convenience for operating motor vehicles as a public utility; the payment to the Land Transportation Commission in the form of a deposit subject to the approval of the BOT of their certificate of public convenience; and in the case of disapproval, he shall return the public utility plate or plates that were issued to him by the LTC. They also agreed that effective this year, public utility vehicles with bus-bodies, but previously registered as PUJ, shall be registered only as buses. The BOT agreed to amend the franchises covering these vehicles so that they shall be operated as buses instead of PUJs.

REPRESENTATIVES of the government of the Philippines and of the United States Agency for International Development signed a loan agreement in Manila, providing $20 million to finance the acquisition and importation from the United States of wheat and other selected agricultural and industrial commodities and related services, it was announced. The agreement was signed for the Philippines by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata. United States Agency on International Development Director Thomas C. Niblock signed for AID. The AID loan is repayable over a 40-year period, with a grace period of 10 years during which no repayment of principal will be due. Interest on the loan is payable at two per cent per annum during the grace period, and three per cent thereafter.

ACTING ADMINISTRATOR Reynaldo J. Gregorio of the Social Security System urgently calls the attention of all SSS members to review their membership records, and correct, if necessary, the important data on designated beneficiaries, dependents, and civil status. It must be noted that the basis for the adjudication of social security claims is the SSS member's record, otherwise known as SSS Form E-1. This record shall be the basis for determining the legal dependents entitled to Medicare benefits. It is, therefore, imperative that SSS members submit the duly accomplished form correctly prior to any claim for benefits. This announcement is made in the light of actual eventualities wherein persons have been unjustly deprived of benefits due to the member's oversight or forgetfulness. For purposes of clarification, the following information must be noted by the members: 1) Beneficiaries are persons named by the member in his SSS Form E-1 who are entitled to receive the death benefit, when the member dies. The law limits the choice of beneficiaries specifically to the following persons: the legitimate spouse, the legitimate, legitimated, acknowledge natural children and natural children by legal fiction, and their legal descendants, and the legitimate parents, the brothers, and the sisters. The beneficiaries mentioned in the SSS Form E-1 of the members are the only ones entitled to his benefits. Dependents include the member's legitimate spouse, the unmarried legitimate or legitimated children under twenty-one years of age, of the member's parents who are totally dependent upon him for regular support. Mr. Gregorio also calls the attention of women members who have changed their civil status to indicate in their records their husband's surname. The same report must be made in case the marriage is dissolved, if the member desires to revert from her husband's surname to maiden name. With the unmarried male, they need not report their change of civil status should they get married, but may report any change in their data of beneficiaries and dependents.

COMMISSION ON IMMIGRATION and Deportation issued Office Order No. 117 in implementation of the President's directive to ease visa requirements for Chinese stock brokers and investors from Hongkong, Singapore, Taipei and other financial capitals of the world who wish to enter the country. The order states that the certification of a Philippine consular officer abroad or a local capitalist or stockholder regarding the profession of the prospective applicant, and the purpose of his coming, may be filed with the office of the Commission of Immigration, together with a request for the applicant's entry pursuant to this order. If the request is approved, the airline or shipping concerned will be authorized to book the applicant for entry to the Philippines without a visa for a 72-hour stay. In meritorious cases, a 72-hour stay may be extended upon application, after justification that a longer stay is necessary.

February 27—

THE PRESIDENT received three separate foreign economic missions which are currently conducting surveys on the feasibility of investing in the country. The first group, composed of English and Hongkong businessmen informed the President, that they had long wanted to invest in the country but were prevented from doing so by the peace and order problem. After observing present conditions, they said that everything was in proper order under the New Society and added that the present atmosphere makes them feel that investment will be secure David Stapleton of the W.I. Carr of England, whose volume of business reached P26 million last year, and William Garrett of Jardine-Fleming and. Christopher McMaster of Hongkong, said they have invested $2 million in the last two weeks and are prepared to put in a total of $500 million in investments in the Philippines. The second economic mission is composed of the Spanish Ambassador Nicolas Martin Alonzo. It was said that Spain imports some eight million kilos of tobacco from Cagayan annually, all of which are consumed by the Spanish smokers. The third economic mission which was composed of Spanish shipbuilding-officials, namely: Rafael Gomez, director general; Jesus Casa technical director; and Enrique Silvela, commercial assessor of Talleres y Varaderos, S. A. of Spain paid their respects to the President. They are here to survey the possibility of establishing shipbuilding facilities in the country.

SECRETARY OF FINANCE Cesar E. A. Virata, in a television interview, attributed the current sustained heavy transactions in the stock markets to the reforms introduced since the declaration of Martial Law in the country. Citing the market boom, the finance secretary urged big business corporations to consider issuing more shares to the public, particularly under-capitalized corporations which need additional capital for their expansion. The changes favoring the stock markets have been enumerated as follows: 1) Renewed confidence of the people due to the reforms that have been undertaken and the improvement of prices of many Philippine export products like sugar, logs, copra and copper; 2) Amendments to the Petroleum Act of 1949 and the issuance of a Presidential decree allowing service contracts; 3) Reduction of the transaction tax on shares; 4) The action of the Central Bank's Monetary Board allowing foreign investors and depositors of dollars in the Philippines to buy and sell shares among themselves without limitations; 5) Introduction of liquidity into the market coupled with the increased expenditures of the government for development purposes; 6) A balance of payment surplus which has also improved the liquidity of the business sector.

ASSISTANT EXECUTIVE Secretary Roberto V. Reyes told a gathering of office heads that any success under the New Society will depend mainly on the total abrogation of the malpractices of the old system. Secretary Reyes said that in personnel recruitment and management, actions should no longer be based on the malpractices of the old society such as "palakasan", influence peddling, and political interventions, but strictly on the basis of merit and fitness. He gave special emphasis on individual attitudes as key to meaningful reforms, in which men in the government should take the lead role. Mr. Reyes also explained that the imposition of Martial Law provided the proper atmosphere for the entering into a new and brighter era in our national life, a brighter future for our country and people.

INTENSIFICATION of agricultural production and exploitation of natural resources can be done by a shift to labor intensive short-run crops in selected areas, expansion of irrigated lands to primary crops, and development of processing plants in forestry and mining. This is the gist of a speech delivered by DANR Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon Jr. at the National Science Development Board, at the opening of a series of seminars on "Promoting the Application of Science and Technology in the New Society."

The crucial factors toward achieving agricultural production and exploitation, Mr. Drilon said, are circumspect planning and well-managed implementation. He said that shifts to short-run labor intensive crops like fruits and vegetables will multiply the usefulness of the chosen land areas, besides offering additional employment opportunities. Multi-cropping of vegetables, Mr. Drilon cited, could easily multiply two hectares of land to 9.5 crop hectares. On rice production, Mr. Drilon said that expansion of well-irrigated lands and the use of scientific production technology, particularly in typhoon-free regions, constitute a logical strategy to follow. Thus expansion of the irrigated lands is needed to make possible increased yields of primary crops over wider areas. Increased yields mean not only increased incomes for producers but also incremental employment opportunities in activities involving the handling, transportation, storage, processing and marketing of these crops, he said.

February 28—

THE PRESIDENT released P2.6 million to provide a counterpart fund for an aquaculture research and production project, primarily for shrimps and prawns. Southeast Asian governments, including Japan, have allocated some P4 million for this project during the initial year. The Philippine government has designated the Mindanao State University in Marawi City as the implementing agency for the project. Q. F. Miravite, MSU vice president, who is in charge of the project, informed the President that nowhere in the world, except in the Philippines, has a breakthrough been achieved in the production of shrimps and prawns under laboratory condition. This is the main reason, he said, why SEAFDEC agreed to establish the center in the Philippines. According to Miravite, shrimps and prawns are more profitable to raise. He pointed out that while bangus fishponds yield some P3,000 worth per hectare, prawn ponds are said to produce about P50,000 income per hectare.

PHILIPPINE NATIONAL Red Cross, on the occasion of "Fire Prevention Week", has issued the following pointers: When there is a fire 1) Once you detect fire or smoke, act quickly. Ask for help as soon as possible. Contact the fire department immediately. 2) If you must leave through thick smoke, stay close to the floor. A wet cloth placed over your face may help breathing. 3) Close doors and windows behind you to prevent the rapid spread of the fire. 4) Know the nearest exits of any building you are in. In case your clothes catch fire—1) Don't run. Running only fans the flame. 2) If possible, wrap yourself with blanket or mat. 3) If there is nothing to wrap yourself with, drop to the floor and roll over briskly. 4) Avoid the smoke; place yourself close to the floor. 5) If possible douse yourself with water. Some measures to prevent fire—1) Crush thoroughly cigarette butts or cigar stubs. 2) Oil, gas, or other types of lamps should be placed away from curtains and other objects that easily catch fire. 3) Don't place open lights where the wind, children, cats and other moving objects may topple them. 4) Put out the flame or light before going to bed. 5) Never store flammable liquid near the stove. 6) Extinguish all live charcoals and embers before leaving them. Most fires occur at night. 7) Don't heat wax, paint and other flammable substance over open flame. 8) Remove the accumulation of leaves, paper, and other trash around your home. 9) Be sure that your electrical wiring are inspected regularly and that circuits are not overloaded.

THE PRESIDENT directed the secretary of finance, the secretary of Trade and Tourism, the Board of Investments and the National Economic and Development Authority to submit their recommendations on the requests of investors to reduce the stock broker's fee or commission. The President specifically asked these officials to determine how much the broker's fee is and by how much can it be reduced in the same manner that the government reduced the stock transfer tax from two per cent to one fourth of one per cent. Stock brokers, under existing practice at local stock exchanges, collect two per cent from sales of stock. The Presidential directive was designed to stir up the economy by encouraging more trading at local stock exchanges. Earlier, the President promulgated Presidential Decree No. 16 exempting capital-gains from taxes, except shares of stock of corporations covered in Sec. 2 of Republic Act No. 1641, provided that such gains are invested within six months from the date the gains are realized in the following: government bonds, government securities, treasury notes, government debentures, and any productive enterprises.

PHILIPPINE MEDICAL Care Commission (PMCC) has received reports that unscrupulous persons have been soliciting money from residences establishments in greater Manila purportedly for Medicare. The PMCC stressed that it has not authorized any fund solicitation and that the persons reportedly soliciting contributions for Medicare are imposters. The public is advised to report to the authorities any persons or group of persons doing fund solicitations in the name of the Medicare program.

SECRETARY OF FINANCE Cesar E. A. Virata sees great employment opportunities during the coming months because of increased activities in government infrastructure projects and private industries. Government infrastructure spending, which will be 70 to 100 per cent more than what was spent last year, will activate many industries and bring about employment opportunities. With continuous flow of development assistance, the Philippines faces a high level of sustained activity in construction programs.

THE PRESIDENT reemphasized the supremacy of civilian authority over, the military, and warned members of the Armed Forces against complacency and display of arrogance which might result in the loss of public support. Speaking at the graduation exercises of the Armed Forces of the Philippines Command and General Staff College at Fort Bonifacio, Rizal, the President said that a wise leader must be on the alert, especially when everything appears to be going well. Today, the President said, everything is moving well: there is confidence, a new hope, and a new-found dignity. "But let us not rest on these laurels," he said. "Let us warn ourselves against the display of arrogance and retain our humility because the bases of our power is the people." Pointing to the success of the program of reforms, the President said that while the principal mission of the military is to ensure the integrity of the Republic and to protect the people, it has become a creative force for the attainment of more sophisticated aims, thereby acquiring a new kind of dignity. "But the armed forces is nothing but an instrument of popular will. Civilian authority shall continue to be dominant over the military and there shall be no deviation from this," the President said.

ACCORDING TO THE figures released by the Department of Local Government and Community Development, the country's local government structure has a pyramidlike profile, with 33,832 barrios serving as the broad base, 1,429 municipalities, 21 municipal districts, 61 cities, 68 provinces and three subprovinces. The country has a total of 317,907 local officials, broken down as follows: 68 provincial governors, 68 vice governors, 167 board members, 60 city mayors, 60 vice mayors, 485 city councilors, 1,450 municipal mayors, 1,450 municipal vice mayors, 11,237 municipal councilors, 33,832 barrio captains, 202,926 barrio councilmen, 33,832 barrio secretaries and 33,832 barrio treasurers. It was noted that the town of Miagao in Iloilo is the municipality with the most number of barrios 119 while the province of Cebu has the most number of towns 48. Batanes province has the least number of towns six and the least number of barrios, 27. The DLGCD also reported that there is an apparent moratorium among the local governments in the creation of more barrios since the ratification of the new charter. The provincial boards, it was pointed, are waiting for the drafting of a local government code before creating more barrios.

HOLDERS OF EXCESS or unauthorized firearms who failed to beat the Feb. 28 deadline may still surrender them to the Philippine Constabulary without incurring penalties by depositing them in "garbage boxes" placed by the PC in front of all camps and other prominent places. Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, PC chief, announced that it was decided to give holders of excess or unauthorized firearms a last chance to surrender them. He warned, however, that those who continue to disregard this last chance must face the consequences sooner or later. Holders of these excess firearms are instructed to wrap their firearms, including their corresponding licenses, and drop them inside the "garbage box".

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue urged Filipinos to send copies of the new BIR tax forms to their relatives abroad to facilitate the latter's payment of just taxes to the Philippine government. The BIR said the salient features of the amendments to the National Internal Revenue Code, as contained in Presidential Decree No. 69, offer liberal tax concessions to Filipinos residing and earning income abroad, Dec. 21 of the amended code imposes a tax upon non-resident citizens on their gross income received from sources without or outside the Philippines at the following rates one per cent for income not over $6,000, two per cent for income over $6,000 but not over $20,000, and three per cent for over $20,000. The income tax return of a non-resident citizen may be filed with the Philippine Embassy or an officer of the Philippine Consulate General nearest to his place of residence. Non-resident citizens deriving income from sources within and without the Philippines should file two income tax returns: a) BIR Form No. 1901 or BIR Form No. 17.01-A, for income derived from sources within the Philippines.

REALTY TAXES on tenanted rice and corn lands should be paid by the tenant-farmers beginning this year if the lands are 100 hectares or more in area but the real estate taxes should be paid by the present landowners if the lands are less than 100 hectares. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued the legal opinion in reply to a request from the secretary of agrarian reform who stated that in view of Presidential Decree No. 27 declaring that tenant-farmers "shall be deemed owners" of the lands they till, there is now a serious problem arising from the refusal of landowners to pay real estate taxes due on their tenanted rice and corn lands. He said, however, that as regards lands containing less than 100 hectares, it is believed that, all things considered, it would be more logical and reasonable to conclude that pending implementation of the decree as to those lands, the ownership of the lands remains with or is still retained by the present landowners, hence the real estate taxes should, accordingly, be paid by the said landowners.

President's Week in Review: March 2-8, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

March 2—

THE PRESIDENT received the officials of two foreign oil companies, one Australian and the other American, who are at present negotiating with local companies to enter into a service contract with the government for oil prospecting and drilling. The oil executives headed by-Eric Webb, president of Endeavour Oil of Melbourne, Australia, and Tom Holt, vice president of Super Oil of Austin, Texas, USA, are negotiating with Philex, Baguio Gold Mining, Philippines Overseas and Sabina Mining, for oil drilling operations in the Sulu Sea which they described as the "hottest spot" for offshore oil drilling. The officials informed the President that they have already selected the drilling sites and will start operations in three to four months. The government will receive 60 per cent of the net profit while the remaining 40 per cent which is tax free will be shared by the members of the consortium of oil drillers and concession holders.

THE PRESIDENT directed Highway Commissioner Baltazar Aquino to speed up the completion of the roads within the vicinity of Manila, and other priority projects particularly in Mindanao, such as the 209-kilometer Cotabato City-General Santos road. During his conference with Commissioner Aquino, the President also directed that: 1) Loggers along the Marbel-Lapulapu segment of the Cotabato City-General Santos road remove their logs which are blocking road construction, before the end of the month and to pay for damages for roads and bridges caused by them. 2) The Philippine Constabulary immediately to stop logging operations in the Mt. Matutum forest reservation which has been declared off-limits to loggers since three, years back.

TARGET TAX revenue growth of 6.5 per cent for fiscal year 1973; ending June 30, may be surpassed in view of the tax reforms instituted by the President, according to the 1972 annual report of the National Tax Research Center (formerly Joint Legislative-Executive Tax Commission). Noting that a series of natural calamities and the deceleration of the export or stabilization tax had caused a decline in tax collection efforts (ratio of total tax revenue to Gross National Product) in 1972, the NTRC observed that tax reforms became imperative to close the revenue-expenditure gap. Additional revenue from the tax reforms, among others, is expected to close or at least narrow the "gap" between revenues and expenditures. The NTRC also noted that in 1971 the tax effort (defined as the ratio of revenue to Gross National Product) has amounted to 11.9 per cent. This slipped down slightly to 11.7, per cent in 1972. This is attributed to the deceleration of the export or stabilization tax by P102 million. In addition to the tax reforms already instituted by the President through various tax decrees, the NTEG recommended further revisions of the National Internal Revenue Code and the Tariff and Customs Code. It also recommended the reexamination of the laws covering real property taxation, and the transfer of certain taxes now collected by the national government to the local governments.

THE PHILIPPINES has been officially invited to participate in the Expo '74 World's Fair to be held in Spokane, Washington, from May to. October 1974, according to the Department of Trade and Tourism. The fair is geared to the theme of ecology, or the preservation of the natural elements of the environment. It will be the first world's fair in the United States within this decade. DTT authorities recommended Philippine participation in the fair for the following reasons: 1) It is an opportune time to maintain and enhance the position of Philippine export products in the US market in view of the termination of the Laurel-Langley Agreement in 1974. 2) Expo '74 will be a propitious stage to display the gains made in the social, political and economic fields under the New Society; and 3) Expo '74 will be an excellent medium for the exposure of Philippine tourist attractions.

PHILIPPINE NEWS AGENCY has been organized under the Department of Public Information and is now in operation, DPI Secretary Francisco S. Tatad announced. He said that the PNA is operating on a limited scale from the former offices of the defunct Philippine News Service at the National Press Club building on Magallanes Drive in Port Area, Manila. "Initially the news agency is servicing the major print and radio media in the Manila area," Secretary Tatad said, "Expansion plans call for the organization of a nationwide and international teletype network," he said. Two former Philippines Herald editors—Jose Pavia and Renato Tiangco—will manage the PNA, as part of the newly created Bureau of National and Foreign Information.

March 3

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 143 prescribing a weekly rest period for workers in any undertaking or enterprise, whether for profit or not, by authorizing employers to determine and schedule the weekly rest day for their employees, subject to collective bargaining agreement and to such rules and regulations, as the secretary of labor may prescribe. The decree orders every employer to give his employees a rest period of not less than 24 consecutive hours of each period of given days. In cases of force majeure, public emergencies, serious accidents and other exceptional cases as determined by the secretary of labor, any employee may be required to work on his scheduled rest day provided he is paid an additional compensation of at least 25 per cent of his regular wage. If such work falls on a Sunday, the employee shall be entitled to additional compensation of at least 25 per cent of his regular wage for work performed on Sunday. The decree, which takes effect immediately, repeals all provisions of existing laws, orders, and regulations contrary to, or inconsistent with it.

MALACANANG ISSUED Presidential Decree No. 140 formalizing the retirement for the registration of xerox and other copying-machines and setting a new deadline for complying with the new directive. The decree, signed by the President March 2, 1973, modifies an earlier order issued by the Bureau of Standards for Mass Media, requiring owners of xerox and other copying machines to register with the BSMM at the Beneficial Life Bldg., in Intramuros, Manila, not later than March 15. PD No. 140 sets the deadline on March 17, or 15 days from the date of the signing of the decree (March 2, 1973). In issuing the decree, the President notes that xerox and other copying machines or equipment have been utilized for the production of subversive propaganda materials and in the falsification of letters.

PHILIPPINE MEDICAL CARE COMMISSION (PMCC) issued guidelines for the hospital admission of the legal dependents of members of the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) and the Social Security System (SSS). The guidelines are as follows: 1) The GSIS and SSS member should present to the hospital his employer's medicare contribution certification; 2) The SSS member should present to the hospital a xerox copy of his Member's Record (SSS Form E-1) or his Member's Record of Additional Dependent (SSS Form E-4) depending on which form the legal dependent to be hospitalized is listed; and the GSIS member, likewise, should present the duplicate copy of the GSIS Information for Medicare Membership. 3) If the above stated GSIS and SSS papers are not available at the time the dependent is to be hospitalized, the GSIS or SSS member should present a document signed by him which: a) Certifies that the person whom he claims to be his legal dependent is indeed his legal dependent; and b) The signature of the GSIS or SSS member on the same sheet of paper wherein the certification is written.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR has this timely reminder for job applicants seeking employment abroad: "Beware of illegal recruiters or hirers who promise overseas jobs that may not exist at all, and who exact fabulous sums of money from unwary applicants." The warning was made by the department upon receipt of numerous complaints about the nefarious activities of job recruiters including some travel agencies still operating outside the pale of the law. Not a few people have been victimized, in Manila and the provinces. Applicants are advised to apply for jobs only with recruiters licensed or authorized by the labor department's office of Manpower Services. Some 68 recruiters have already been authorized to recruit for overseas jobs, while 37 recruiters have pending applications to recruit. Before applying for overseas jobs, applicants should consult the OMS on whether a recruiter is licensed or not for their own benefit.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad assured the petroleum dealers throughout the country government support for the solution of their problems, particularly with respect to their reasonable margin profit now threatened by the new policies enforced by the major oil companies in the Philippines. Mr. Tatad said the Administration has always been for the protection of the interest of the consuming public, in keeping with the policy of the government. He added that in case of conflict of interest between small groups of businessmen and the big corporations, the government will side with the just and the legitimate demands of the small businessman.

March 4—

THE FIRST LADY called upon the nation's artists "to push forward across new frontiers and open up new territories in the quest for a new and better society." In a brief speech before officers and members of the Art Association of the Philippines, the First Lady urged the artists to “help create a new world . . . where our traditions and our values will be at home . . . one that will be uniquely and honestly Filipino.” The First Lady was at the AAP’s award ceremony held at the Maharlika hall of Malacañang in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the association. At the ceremony, some 31 artists were awarded plaques for accomplishments which served to advance the cause of art in the country.

SECRETARY CONRADO F. ESTRELLA of Agrarian Reform emphasized that in agrarian reform, the important thing is not land transfer per se but the equitable distribution of natural wealth; not the profits to be derived from the land, but justice for the farmer who works to make the land profitable. In an address before a seminar sponsored by the Quezon Board of Realtors, the secretary cautioned his audience to understand fully the underlying rationale of the agrarian reform program “or all our efforts to build a New Society might be imperilled.” It was stressed that the attainment of land reform objectives is premised on the establishment of owner-cultivatorship and the economic family-size farm as the basis of Philippine agriculture.

FINALLY SETTLED is the controversial issue of whether personal cultivation by the landowner or a member of his family is a ground for ejecting a tenant. In a precedent-setting decision, the Court of Appeals has ruled that a tenant-farmer may now continue working under the leasehold system despite the threat of ejection by the landowner who wants to cultivate the land personally. The court decision was made in the case of a landowner who instituted legal action to expel his tenant who was cultivating a one-and-one-half hectare of rice land in San Pablo, Aliaga, Nueva Ecija. The decision was a reversal of a previous ruling by the Court of Agrarian Relations made two years ago in Cabanatuan City, ordering the tenant to vacate the land he was tilling. The court decision was hailed by Department of Agrarian Reform officials who called it a boon to the government’s land reform program.

ADMINISTRATOR Jesus Tanchanco of the National Grains Authority appealed for the support of local government leaders in the task of institutionalizing the grains industry as a means of hastening the country’s economic and social development. Addressing the fourth annual convention of the League of Provincial Governors and City Mayors in Davao City, the NGA chief said that the local officials are in good position to advise the NGA on the wisdom of its projects since the local executives “know best the conditions obtaining in your respective places.” The convention delegates were told to write down their suggestions affecting the rice and corn industry in their regions to serve as guidelines in the formulation of policies for the growth and development of the industry. They were also exhorted to encourage their constituents to eat more vegetables and change their wasteful habits which are costing the country some $50 million annually.

March 5—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady led Philippine government officials and other groups in welcoming the two Filipino prisoners of war who arrived at Clark Air Force Base in Pampanga together with American and German POW’s. The President flew to the American base to personally welcome Conrado Badua and Arturo Balagot, the two returning POW’s from Hanoi. Accompanying the President, aside from the First Lady, were Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad and Secretary of Defense Juan Ponce Enrile. In a brief speech following the welcome of Badua and Balagot, the President thanked the United States military and civilian authorities, as well as the American people for extending to the two Filipino POW’s the same facilities given to released American POW’s.

THE PRESIDENT lauded the boy scouts movement for giving underprivileged and out-of-school youths an opportunity to improve themselves and to participate in community development activities. In a speech read for him by Secretary of Defense Juan Ponce Enrile during the launching of the 10th Regional Jamborette at the Boy Scouts of the Philippines in Gattaran, Cagayan, the Chief Executive observed that the new projects of the scouting movement are geared to provide the less privileged boys training for big, significant tasks. It was stressed that the jamborette in Cagayan is in line with the principles of the New Society of building a new order where the people may live in justice, peace, dignity and prosperity. He informed the scouts that he has directed all heads of departments, bureaus and agencies of the government, including the local governments, to extend the fullest support to the movement and its various projects.

BUREAU OF FORESTRY, the Reforestation Administration, and the Parks and Wildlife Office have been abolished and in their place, the Bureau of Forest Development has been created to achieve maximum efficiency in the protection and conservation of the nation's forest resources. The functions of the new bureau include the following: economical, efficient and effective classification, protection and conservation of public forests and forests reserves; implementation of multi-use and sustained-yield management of public forest; preparation of a comprehensive program of forest research; protection, development and preservation of national parks, games, and wildlife laws; and the carrying out of a continuing program of kaingin management within the public forests;

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT Administration has launched a massive drive to raise the viability of some 355 farmers cooperatives operating in strategic sections of the country. The drive, started last month, was initially launched in Eastern Visayas and in the northwestern part of Mindanao comprising the provinces of Misamis Oriental, Misamis Occidental, Lanao del Sur, Lanao del Norte, Zamboanga del Sur and Zamboanga del Norte. The immediate objectives of the campaign are the following: to maximize loan collections; to change erring management officials; to eliminate non-farmers from membership in the cooperatives; and to select cooperatives for concentrated build-up. The ACA also announced the suspension of its functions of organizing and registering farmers cooperatives and associations pending the promulgation of the necessary policies and procedures by the newly organized Bureau of Cooperative Development under the Department of Local Government and Community Development. The new bureau is charged with the promotion, organization, and registration of all types of cooperatives.

March 6–

THE PRESIDENT received the letters of credence of Ambassador Olaf Tellefsen as the new non-resident ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Norway to the Philippines. Following the presentation ceremonies, the President received Ambassador Joze Smole of Yugoslavia who made a farewell call before returning to his country on an official mission. In receiving the credentials of Ambassador Tellefsen, the President said that the atmosphere in the Philippines under the New Society is conducive to greater foreign investments and the promotion of trade with other countries. The President said the new envoy will have an opportunity to observe how a “determined government and an equally determined citizenry band together to make this nation a better place to love in.” In presenting his credentials the new Norwegian envoy assured the President that he will exert his utmost to see that the good relations existing between his country and the Philippines will be further developed and strengthened.”

BUREAU OF POSTS has increased by 50 per cent the rates on postage stamps and other postal charges for local and foreign mail since March 1, 1973, to finance the bureau's infrastructure and expansion program, for the purchase of delivery vehicles, mechanized postal services and office equipment to increase the bureau's standard of efficiency. The increase covers local ordinary mail, from 10 to 15 centavos, and airmail, from 40 to 60 centavos. Foreign ordinary mail charges from P1 to P1.50. Other postal rates increased are lock box rentals, collect on deliver (COD) fees, parcel and insurance fees, money order fees and telegraphic transfer fees. The increases are the result of studies undertaken by the bureau's planning service, based on international and bilateral agreements, particularly the Universal Postal Union (UPU) convention to which the Philippines is a signatory.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE announced the creation of provincial and city assessment boards to hear protests of property owners regarding assessment of their properties, and the issuance by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Verata of the rules governing appeals with the provincial or city Board of Tax Assessment Appeals pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 76. Under Presidential Decree No. 76, all owners or administrators of real property are required to file sworn statements of the true value of their real property and the improvement for purposes of taxation. The deadline for the submission of the sworn statement is June 30, 1973.

As prescribed under Department Order No. 6-73, the Board of Tax Assessment Appeals is composed of the register of deeds, as chairman; the auditor and engineer of the provincial or city government as members. According to the regulations, any owner who is not satisfied with the action of the provincial or city assessor in the assessment of his property may direct his appeal to the board. The appeal should be made within sixty days following the receipt of the notice of assessment on his property. The board on the other hand, are directed to decide on appeals made by property owners within 60 days upon receipt of such appeals.

MALACAÑANG ISSUED Presidential Decree No. 144 revising the present system of national internal revenue allotment to local governments to establish a more equitable system of distribution of allotments and introduce the developmental concept in the allocation of funds to local governments. The new decree provides that 20 per cent of national internal revenue tax collections which are not meant for special accounts and special funds in the general fund shall be distributed to local governments, computed on the basis of collections for the third fiscal year preceding the current fiscal year. The allotment shall be distributed as follows: 30 per cent to provinces, 45 per cent to municipalities and 25 per cent to cities. The share of local government unit shall be determined according to the following formula: 70 per cent based on its population, 20 per cent on land area and 10 per cent on equal sharing.

LAND TRANSPORTATION Commission has instructed all its regional directors and registrars to coordinate efforts with municipal mayors, barangay chairmen and barrio captains all over the country for an orderly and smooth registration for the current year of motor vehicles in their respective areas on or before May 31, 1973. All LTC Inspectors will be fielded to facilitate the registration. They will also give all the necessary information and guidelines to the barangay chairmen and barrio captains for the proper inspection of motor vehicles in their areas.

THE PRESIDENT has reappointed Secretary Manuel Elizalde, Jr. presidential assistant on national minorities. Mr. Elizalde has been Panamin secretary since 1967. He reported to the President recently that in the course of his trip abroad, he had noted very widespread approval in responsible quarters of the President's policy towards the cultural minorities. He submitted to the President an advance copy of the Encyclopedia Britannica Yearbook for 1973 which congratulates President Marcos and the First Lady for their "quick and decisive steps" to help the Tasaday and other minority people through Panamin.

BEING A SOCIAL legislation designed to give relief to labor in case of injury, the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act should be given a liberal interpretation to fully carry into effect its beneficial provisions, and all doubts as to the right to compensation should be resolved in favor of the grantees and all presumptions should be indulged in their favor. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued this legal opinion with reference to the claim of a former Bureau of Prisons' employee who retired on March 10, 1972 and claimed disability compensation for illness he had contracted during his employment as nursery foreman. The employee had been awarded P6,000 in view of which the Bureau made a partial payment of P2,000. Later, the bureau director entertained doubts on the right of the employee to said compensation because the latter received his salary from Sept. 3, 1971 to March 10, 1972, during which he was presumably suffering from the illness which was the subject of the claim for compensation. The justice secretary ruled that the employee's receipt of his salary should not affect his right to the compensation. He pointed out that during the time the employee received the salary in question, said employee had not actually gone to work for he was on leave and such pay was salary earned for such leave.

UNDER THE NEW Constitution, the previous owner may not recover the land from the American buyer and the American buyer may validly convey the land to a qualified individual or corporation and when this is done, the state may no longer seek reversion of the property. This assertion was made by Solicitor General Estelito P. Mendoza who discussed the effects of the new charter in relation to the celebrated case of the "Republic of the Philippines vs. Quasha" where the Supreme Court ruled that citizens of the United States and American corporations may not acquire agricultural lands and that their rights over these properties cease upon the expiration of the Parity Amendment to the Constitution in 1974. Mr. Mendoza stated before the Philippine Council of the International Chamber of Commerce that if the American holder of lands in the country be a corporation, it may either convey the property to a qualified individual or corporation or restructure its corporate holdings into a 60-40 ratio and it may thereafter, if it so desires, lease back the property.

March 7-

THE PRESIDENT ruled out publicity-making and image-building from the national pattern under the New Society. Addressing the new officers of the National Press Club of the Philippines following their induction in Malacañang, the President said he would like to see the media set its own guidelines and standards and for government to stay away from its "self-regulating activities." The President asked them to avoid publicity and image-building which are not part of the New Society, but to write about positive things with excellence as their only guideline. The President said that the standards for those writing commentaries are that what they write should be interesting and excellent, and should portray accurately what they write about. Inducted by the President were: Primitivo Mijares of the Daily Express, president; Laurencio Zabala Jr., of Bulletin Today; Vicente Tañedo of Times Journal; Miguel Genovea of Daily Express, vice presidents; Sol Villa of Metropolitan Newsweek, secretary; Ernesto Singson of Bulletin Today, treasurer; Neal H. Cruz, Teresita Orendain and Roberto Cuevas of Daily Express, Roy Acosta and Reynaldo Naval of Times Journal, Cresencio Marquez of Balitang Maynila Estrella Alfon of Bituin Magazine, and Benjamin Peñaranda of United Daily, directors.

SECRETARY OF LABOR Bias F. Ople announced that Presidential Decree No. 143, amending the Blue Sunday Law, will become effective 15 days after the issuance of the implementing rules by the Department of Labor. The labor chief said the Bureau of Labor Standards is now preparing the rules which may issue within this week. The main features of the decree, Sec. Ople said, are the following: 1) The economy has gained one more productive day a week or 52 more productive days a year; 2) The Decree will make possible the employment of more workers as a result of the increase of working days; 3) The opening of retail, service and other establishments on Sundays will benefit the public, especially those in the rural areas who go to the poblacion on Sundays to sell their products and buy their provisions for the week; 4) The decree eliminates what used to be the source of graft in connection with the enforcement of the Blue Sunday Law, especially the issuance of permits for establishments to operate on Sundays; 5) The decree is indicative of the development of new labor and social policies; and 6) All these benefits are made possible without sacrificing any of the old-established rights and benefits of the workers, including the right to one rest day a week, the right not to work on Sundays on religious grounds, and the right to at least 25 per cent per premium pay for work on a rest day.

SIX-MONTH GRACE period from October 19, 1972, granted under Presidential Decree No. 24, concerning the condonation of the three per cent penalty per month for the late payment of Social Security System contributions by delinquent SSS member-firms will end on April 19, 1973. Failure to remit contributions with the corresponding collection list on or before April 19 will subject the delinquent employer to payment of the three per cent penalty per month. The employer shall also be liable to criminal prosecution under Sec. 28 of the SSS law.

CIVIL SERVICE Commissioner Epi Rey Pangramuyen warned the public anew against unscrupulous persons out to make money on civil service exams after receiving reports that some people have been offering assistance for a fee to applicant for re-rating in the career service, second grade, and teacher examinations. He said that the application period for re-rating in these examinations ended last Dec. 29, 1972. The CSC has stopped accepting applications for re-rating in any examination given previously, the commissioner explained.

March 8—

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said that the reforms implemented since the imposition of Martial Law five months ago have accomplished meaningful changes under the New Society and welded the people together in making a brighter and better tomorrow. The DPI secretary stressed that the “social child” born five months ago under the New Society “is now on its feet standing strong” compared to a five-month old infant which is still crawling in its crib. Mr. Tatad reviewed the events that transpired since the birth of Martial Law and what could be expected under the administration of the President, in an extemporaneous speech before the Makati Rotary Club West during the club’s regular luncheon-meeting at the Hotel Inter-Continental. He pointed out that the discipline is now evident among the people as they obey traffic rules, wait at bus stops, line up in cinema houses. Drivers are more courteous and careful and have developed the habit of parking their vehicles at the proper parking areas, it was added. Mr. Tatad likewise noted increased and better respect for the law with government officials and employee showing more decency and civility in dealing with the public. He expressed optimism that a more relaxed policy may be forthcoming in connection with, the ban against travel abroad. Mr. Tatad likewise said that foreign investors have been assured of protection in the immediate repatriation: of their profit from their investments here.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE approved new increased tobacco inspection fees and enumerated the kind of articles subject to such fees. The new fees were fixed in revenue regulations recommended by the Bureau of Internal Revenue Code, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 69. The new fees, taking effect on Jan. 1, 1973, are: P0.50 for each 1,000 cigars or fraction thereof; P0.10 for each 1,000 cigarettes or fraction thereof; P0.02 for each kilogram of leaf tobacco or fraction thereof. The amount of F0.08 for each kilogram or fraction thereof of scraps, include stems, stripped tobacco, threshed tobacco, sweepings, siftings, snuff, smoking, chewing, and other manufactured products of tobacco, tobacco powder or dust or other waste removed for agricultural, industrial or research purpose.

Those required to pay the tobacco inspection fees are manufacturers, producers, exporters, importers, redriers, whole sale tobacco: dealers or owners or possessor of cigars, cigarettes, leaf tobacco, scraps and all other products and by-products of tobacco. The inspection fees are to be paid 10 days after the removal of tobacco from their respective factories for domestic sale.

NATIONAL GRAINS Authority has announced that it is ready to accept applications for registration and licenses from all persons, natural or juridical, engaged in the business of rice, corn and other cereals. All persons engaged :n the storing, milling, warehousing, retailing, wholesaling, and processing of cereals must register and secure a license to operate, as provided by Presidential Decree No. 4 or the NGA Act to avoid any disruption of their normal business activities. The NGA previously extended up to March 31 of the current year the validity of registration certificates and licenses issued by the Rice arid Corn Board and Bureau of Commerce. Failure to register and secure a valid license to engage in, the grains business will subject the offender to the penal provisions of the NGA Act.

President's Week in Review: March 9-15, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

March 9—

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the plan of the Bank of America to expand its investments in the Philippines and assured an official of the bank who called on him that the policy of attracting foreign investments to the Philippines will continue under the New Society. In receiving C. Van Vlierden, executive vice president of the Bank of America, the President said the bank has been a very vital factor in the development of the country and that it is welcome to continue doing so. Mr. Vlierden informed the President that the bank is planning to participate actively in the development of the country by either incorporating locally, increasing its capital, or merging with European, Japanese or Filipino development banks. Mr. Vlierden also said that compared to Hongkong and Singapore which he had also visited, the Philippines has the lowest cost of living. But the most important thing, according to him, is the fact that the Philippines has very rich manpower and natural resources which are vital to development. The President and Mr. Vlierden also agreed that the Philippines should now conduct a more aggressive and persistent campaign to gain recognition in the European Common Market countries in order to diversify its financial and trade relations.

ALFREDO MONTELIBANO, chairman of the Philippine Sugar Committee Inc., has endorsed a proposal for a public accounting of the P30 million amelioration fund generated annually by the sugar industry to benefit its workers. The proposal, drawn up by the Sugar Workers' Conference in Bacolod City, was announced recently by conference chairman Prudencio Jalandoni, president of the "Lakas ng Manggagawang Filipino." The P30 million amelioration fund, set up by the President in 1968, funnels P1 per picul of sugar produced by the industry to the workers in forms of bonuses to supplement housing, educational and medical benefits already extended to workers in some sugar areas. The PSCI chairman specifically endorsed the proposed participation of the sugar workers in the disbursement of the fund for the financing of cooperatives, the establishment of free vocational and technical schools and free clinics and the granting of scholarships. The formation of the Sugar Workers' Welfare Fund Council was also suggested.

REPRESENTATIVES of multi-national corporations shall be free to enter and leave the country without following the usual procedure and requirements whereby after 59 days they leave and renew their visas. The policy was contained in instructions directed to the Commission on Immigration and Deportation in connection with the government's desire to attract foreign investors to help in the development and improvement of the national economy. Under the relaxed policy, representatives of foreign investors and capitalists will be granted special non-immigrant status that will enable them to stay longer than 59 days in the country to attend to their business transaction. The new policy will do away with the usual fingerprinting, clearances and cash bonds required in the past.

ALL TAXPAYERS concerned were urged to avail of the benefits afforded by Presidential Decree No. 23, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 67. The appeal was made by Bureau of Internal Revenue Deputy Commissioner Conrado P. Diaz before a seminar on tax amnesty in Olongapo City. Presidential Decree No. 23, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 67, imposes a tax of 10 per cent on all previously untaxed income or wealth if declared or reported with the BIR on or before March 31, 1973. Diaz cited the following benefits to taxpayers who avail themselves of the tax amnesty on previously untaxed income or wealth: 1) The books of accounts from 1971 down shall be considered closed by the BIR; 2) Peace of mind forever; 3) No more obligation from any and all taxes from 1971 down; 4) No more verification of investigation of income tax returns from 1971 down; 5) The secrecy of the declaration under the tax amnesty decree shall be inviolable and guaranteed; 6) The declaration under the tax amnesty cannot be used for or against the taxpayer in any forum or court of justice where he is a respondent or a defendant. Mr. Diaz warned that all taxpayers who fail to avail themselves of the provisions of the tax amnesty will face the full force of the law and suffer the penalties for tax evasion.

BRIG. GEN. Fidel V. Ramos, PC chief, and Director Jolly Bugarin of the National Bureau of Investigation, prescribed the joint rules and regulations for the implementation of Presidential Decree No. 140 dated March 2, 1572, calling for the registration of all reproducing, copying, duplicating, and facsimile machines or equipment. In a joint memorandum, the PC chief and the NBI director said owners and possessors of these machines in the Greater Manila area shall register the same with any of the following offices: the PC-Metrocom, PC Civil Relation Office at Camp Crame and the NBI in Manila. Those in the provinces shall register with their respective PC commands or the local offices of the NBI. Covered by new decree are any machine or equipment operated manually, electrically or electronically which is capable of reproducing, copying, duplicating or facsimiling printed documents or materials, including but not limited to, the commonly known xerox machines, thermopax machines, blue printing machines, photostat machines, printing machines, or mimeographing machines of any type, make or model. Deadline for the registration of all duplicating equipment is on March 18 after which all unregistered machines shall be seized and confiscated by the PC or NBI in accordance with Department Order No. 740 of the secretary of National Defense dated Jan. 21, 1973.

ALL MEDICARE beneficiaries are entitled to the same basic benefits rendered by service beds and hospital staff physicians without additional charges. The Philippine Medical Care Commission reiterated this policy which requires all government and privately owned hospitals and their staff physicians to charge only the medicare rates for services rendered to medicare patients. The basic benefits mentioned as provided by the Medicare Law (RA 6111) include a 45-day hospital confinement a year at M2 a day for room and board (or a maximum of P540); a P150 maximum for medicines, laboratory examinations, X-ray and operating room fee; surgical expense benefits of F-50 for minor operations, F150 for medium operations and P350 for major operations; and a P100 maximum doctor's fee at P5 a day for general practitioners and P10 a day for specialists. The PMCC, however, clarified that any medicare beneficiary will be charged for additional expenses if he would occupy more expensive accommodation.

March 10—

MALACANANG announced that the President has signed Presidential Decree 145, amending "The Local Autonomy Act" in order to insure the sound and lawful exercise, of the local taxing power Presidential Decree 145 amends the penultimate and last paragraphs of" Section 2 of Republic Act No. 2264, otherwise known as "The Local Autonomy Act." Under Sec. 2 of Republic Act 2264, the secretary of finance is authorized to suspend the effectivity of any local tax ordinance within 120 days after its passage if the tax or fee therein levied is "unjust, excessive, oppressive or confiscatory. However, due to certain defects and ambiguities in the existing law, the authority of the secretary of finance cannot be effectively carried out. Under the amendment, a tax ordinance shall go into effect on the 15th day after its passage. The secretary of finance shall have the authority to suspend the effectivity of any ordinance within 120 days after receipt of a copy if he believes that the tax or fee therein levied is unjust, excessive, oppressive or confiscatory or when it is contrary to declared national economic policy. The secretary of finance can suspend, either in part or as a whole, such ordinance for a period of 30 days within which period the local legislative body may either modify that tax ordinance to meet the objections or file an appeal with a court of competent jurisdiction. If the local legislative body does not make the necessary corrections or file an appeal with the court, the tax ordinance or parts thereof shall be considered revoked. A formal protest may be filed within 120 days after the passage of that tax ordinance provided the secretary of finance shall have 60 days, after receipt of the protest, to decide the protest. If the decision of the secretary of finance suspends in part or in full the tax ordinance protested, the local legislative body may either modify the ordinance in accordance with the decision of the secretary or exercise the right to appeal to the court within 30 days, otherwise the secretary's decision becomes final.

THE PHILIPPINES and Yugoslavia have signed an agreement to abolish non-immigrant visa requirements for nationals of both countries, the Department of Foreign Affairs announced. Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo and Yugoslavia Ambassador Jose Smole, the nonresident Yugoslavian envoy to the Philippines based in Tokyo, signed the agreement, the first to be concluded between the Philippines and a socialist country. The agreement which will take effect on April 15, 1973, provides that citizens of the two signatories may enter each other's territory without visa for a stay of not more than 59 days for tourist or business purposes. It further stipulates that either country may refuse the entry or stay of citizens deemed to be undesirable.

THE PRESIDENT said that the soldier under the 'New Society has become not only the guardian of our security and freedom but also a real and effective worker for development and just like the rest of our people, is entitled to a measure of decency, dignity, and social and economic well-being. The President noted that a majority of the Armed Forces personnel, especially those in the enlisted ranks, retire homeless notwithstanding the fact that they have served their maximum years in the military. The President's speech was read by Maj. Gen. Gaudencio Tobias (ret.) general manager of the National Housing Corporation, at the turn-over ceremony of the Armed Forces of the Philippines Mutual Benefit Association housing project at Barrio Butatan, Muntinlupa, Rizal, with an area of 56 hectares. There are similar housing project sites in Sta. Rosa, Nueva Ecija; and Cabuyao, Laguna, which are now in the process of development. The AFP further envisions the establishment of at least one housing community in each of the army brigade headquarters, PC zone, air force bases and naval stations throughout the country.

THE PRESIDENT approved the merger of the three competing local airlines to improve the efficiency and service of a deteriorating industry which is very vital to the development of the national economy. The decision to merge was prompted by a thorough study of the financial situation of the Philippine Airlines, Filipinas Orient Airways, and Air Manila Inc. Aside from their loan obligations with the government institutions, the government itself has equity holdings amounting to 21 per cent, of PAL stocks and 17 per cent of that of FOA. The government has also P226.6 million collectibles from the three airlines. The merger of the local airlines, according to Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad, was ordered in view of the fact that all three firms are losing, with the government as investor in these companies, being the biggest loser.

DEPARTMENT OF Education and Culture has ordered special committee to facilitate the processing of application papers filed by schools and civic organizations desiring DEC accreditation of their civic action activities. It was pointed out that student participation in duly accredited civic activities is now a requirement for graduation as per Department Order No. 53, S. 1972. The following activities may be given accreditation by the DEC: 1) Summer workcamps, sponsored by public or private schools with activities along the lines of technical-vocational training like animal husbandry, productive farming and fishing, reforestation, etc; and social orientation like adult and community education, family planning, household management, cooperatives, etc; 2) Civic projects similar to the ones mentioned in No. 1, initiated by local social action groups, sectarian or non-sectarian; 3) Summer workcamps sponsored by the DEC's National Youth Volunteer Coordinating Center for National Development, for graduating students.

March 11—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 146 upgrading the quality of education in the Philippines by requiring all high school graduates seeking admission to post-secondary degree programs necessitating a minimum of four years' study to pass a national entrance examination. In a related development the President directed the secretary of education and culture to suspend action on any petition for increases in tuition and other school fees in private schools, colleges, and universities until further notice in view of relevant studies being conducted on the state of private education in the country. The entrance examination was issued under Presidential Decree No. 6-A, which declares it a policy of the state to maintain the highest quality of education for purposes of national development. The decree provides that full implementation of the program should be made effective for freshmen of the school year 1974-1975.

THE PRESIDENT called on members of the economic community to cooperate with the government in its effort to disperse credit over a wider area and channel it to projects geared to national goals. Toward this end, he said, financial reforms had been instituted under the new order not only to make credit control a more effective weapon in maintaining stability but also to streamline the structure and operations of the credit system to make it more responsive to the demands of development. The President expressed his views in a speech read for him by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata at the 1973 National Credit Congress sponsored by the Management Association of the Philippines in Makati. By now, he said, the direction of government action in this was quite clear: to provide adequate credit facilities over a wider area instill discipline in the use of credit and ensure the productive and economic use of credit resources, and to shape a more efficient and stronger mechanism for mobilizing capital resources.

DEPARTMENT OF LOCAL Government and Community Development announced the completion of 840 community projects worth P986,027.90 in nine Central Luzon provinces during the six-month period of Martial Law. The DLGCD said 158 of the finished projects were done under the grants-in-aid program of the Presidential Assistance on Community Development. The rest were self-help projects costing P470,571.90 of which P427,999.90 was contributed by barrio folk in the form of materials, like sand, gravel and lumber. The provincial and municipal governments in the nine provinces concerned contributed a total of P42,552. These provinces include Pampanga, Bataan, Tarlac, Bulacan, Zambales, Nueva Ecija and Aurora.

NATIONAL GRAINS Authority assured the public of enough buffer stock of rice ready for distribution throughout the country with the continuous arrival of imported rice contracted from Japan last year to augment locally procured and previously imported stocks now stored in various NGA warehouses. The government cereal agency has recently concluded a contract for the purchase of additional rice from suppliers abroad, the arrival of which will start next month to supplement domestic consumption requirements. Not only this but harvests are now going on in different provinces like Cagayan Valley, Bicol region, Leyte and Panay Island and some parts of Mindanao. At present rice shipment from Japan totalling 8,800 metric tons are being unloaded at the ports of Tabaco in Albay and General Santos in Cotabato. Another vessel carrying a load of 4,000 metric tons of rice is expected to arrive this month at Poro Point, San Fernando, La Union.

DEPARTMENT OF LOCAL Government and Community Development has issued a circular to provincial governors and city mayors prohibiting lavish or extravagant display in local activities, including agro-industrial fairs, conferences, seminars and fiestas. DLGCD memorandum circular No. 73-6, which specifically enjoins local officials to avoid and prevent ostentatious display of wealth and extravagance, including lavish town fiestas or social gatherings, stresses the need for austerity and simplicity as basic guidelines for all local activities. DLGCD Secretary Jose Roño also reiterated strict compliance to General Order No. 15 insofar as celebrations of town fiestas are concerned. The DLGCD was ordered to call the attention of local officials to cease in the old society practice of seeking privileges, power and favors, and instead dedicate themselves to developing their respective communities.

A TOTAL OF 392 persons have applied for amnesty under Presidential Decrees 95 and 124, the Philippine Constabulary judge advocate general's office reported. Brig. Gen. Fidel Ramos, PC chief, was informed by Col. Hamilton Dimaya, PC JAGO chief, that 240 persons have applied for amnesty under Presidential Decree 95, and 152 others under Presidential Decree No. 124. The deadline for the filing of applications for amnesty under Presidential Decree No. 95 expired last Feb. 28, while the deadline under Presidential Decree 124 is March 15, 1973.

March 12—

THE PRESIDENT lauded the people of Caloocan City for setting an example on how the citizens can help in the efforts to attain progress and do their share in nation-building. In a message read for him by Secretary of Trade and Tourism Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. on the occasion of the opening of the Caloocan City agro-industrial trade fair, the President said that the success of the New Society and the reforms being done will depend greatly on the willingness of the people to do their share. The President said: "We are at the cross road of our history as a nation and it is but fitting that we realize that progress can only be attained by helping build, not destroy; by pointing out the good inherent in every man, not by criticizing; by offering our best in the service of our nation."

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY Alejandro Melchor has formed a Public Information Unit to attend to and act on problems of the under-privileged and to bridge the gap of communications between the citizens and the government. The PIU, aside from, handling matters within the scope of the Executive Office, also deals with complaints arising from the misuse of power by government officials in implementing the President's Letters of Instructions Nos. 14 and 14-A.

DEPARTMENT OF Social Welfare has instituted two crash assistance programs, the General Assistance (GA) program and the Aid to Families in Economic Distress (AFED) program. While the GA gives assistance to remedy immediate needs, the AFED not only provides money enough for immediate needs, but also, capital to establish small businesses.

RULES AND PROCEDURES on merger or consolidation of insurance companies were approved by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata. The consolidation or merger domestic insurance firms is provided for in Sec. 175 Of the Insurance Act as amended by Presidential Decree No. 83. The Insurance Circular setting the rules for consolidation or merger of Insurance firms takes effect immediately.

March 13—

BRIG. GEN. Fortunate U. Abat, chief of the Central Mindanao Command (CEMCQM), announced that the situation in Cotabato is “quite well in hand” and that operations, to stabilize effective government control over the entire province were proceeding “satisfactorily.” At a briefing held at PC Hill, headquarters of the CEMCOM in Cotabato City, Gen. Abat, who had been flown from Cebu to take over-all command of the operations, said government troopers were up against several thousand well-armed insurgents. The rebels, who appeared to have received military training, are made up of secessionist Muslims and Christians identified with Maoist-oriented organizations, principally factions of the Partido Komunista ng Pilipinas and the Kabataang Makabayan, Secessionist Muslims and certain factions of the PKP and KM appeared to have entered into a temporary alliance to achieve a common objective; the overthrow of the government. It was also noted that the insurgents appeared to have a foreign assistance. It was based from the modern weapons captured by the troopers. Field commanders often hear foreign language: communications coming in their radio frequencies. But the nationality, of the foreign language is yet to be determined and a foreign adviser has yet to be captured.

PHILIPPINE exports last month registered a total of $120,791,088.75 indicating a favorable trade balance for the country this year. The country’s exports last February totalled $22,083,945.36 or 22.4 per cent higher than the export value receipts for February last year and $12,383,-383.70 better than last January’s total of $108,460,705.75, according to Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina, who released the export figures. Total exports for the months of January and February have reached $229,251,793.80 while government collection or wharfage dues alone is P2,674,607.36. The bulk of the registered value came from provincial export loadings with $103,485,063.48; followed by Manila with $12,546,800.57 and by the Board of Investments certified exports with $4,753,224.70.

BRIG. GEN. Fidel V. Ramos, PC chief, issued an order prohibiting all military personnel from displaying their firearms while in civilian attire. The PC chief’s order was spurred by reports that some military personnel are flagrantly displaying their firearms while in civilian attire. He said that regardless of whether these military personnel are on actual mission or not, there is no valid reason for carrying their firearms in indiscreet manner. This malpractice has served not only as bad example to good civilians but also constitutes a violation of General Order No. 7 if the military personnel concerned is not in actual performance of official duties, Gen. Ramos said. Gen. Ramos held all unit commanders responsible in seeing to it that all military personnel under them comply with this order.

GROUP of Japanese businessmen is coming to Manila to team up with a Filipino company and engage in a deep sea fishing and eel culture, it was learned from the Commission on Immigration and Deportation. The one-week stay in Manila of the Japanese businessmen, scheduled to arrive on March 20, had been approved by the immigration commission. The visiting Japanese businessmen are Senator Saburo Oca, chairman of the Board of Daisho Bussan Co. Ltd. of Yokohama; H. Matsumura and Kyuji Iura, president and managing director of the same trading company; Mitsuyoshi Gohara, managing director of the Gadeco Schlage Co., Ltd. of Tokyo; and U. Namada, executive director of the Japan Eel Culture Association of Kochi City. Eel culture is a capital-intensive and long-range venture but highly profit-oriented and its introduction will redound to the economic benefit of the country through the long-range capital outlay and the know-how which foreign experts would impart to local groups.

March 14—

THE PRESIDENT and the respective managements of the country’s three airline companies agreed that in the interest of the public and for the security of the country, only one airline should operate the international and domestic nights. At a meeting presided over by the President in Malacañang and attended by representatives of all government agencies involved in their operations and the three airline companies, the President ordered that until a definite decision is forged on April 1, the three airlines—Philippine Airlines, Filipinas Orient Airways and Air Manila—will continue operating as usual. The President asked the airlines officials to submit their proposal to Secretary of Defense Juan Ponce Enrile, who is currently the chairman of the board of the Philippine National Bank to which the FOA and the AMI are heavily indebted. The President also; directed the PNB and the NIDC to continue giving the FOA and the AMI financial support for their continuous operations on condition that whatever income they make will be put in special account for the liquidation of their obligations. He said that the government is determined to improve public service and preserve the security of the country.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 150, amending Republic Act No. 4860 (Foreign Borrowing Act), authorizing the President in behalf of the Republic, to contract foreign loans and credits, including supplier's credit and deferred payment arrangements. The new decree also empowers the President to enter into and conclude bilateral agreements involving other forms of official assistance, with governments of foreign countries with whom the Philippines has diplomatic or trade relations or which are members of the United Nations, or with reputable international organizations or non-governmental national or international lending institutions, or firms extending supplier's credit or deferred arrangements. Under these contracts, the government is authorized to undertake—through any government office, agency or instrumentality, or government-owned or controlled corporations—industrial agricultural or other economic and social development projects which may from time to time be recommended by the National Economic and Development Authority and approved by the President.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 148 imposing a tax of 15 per cent on interest on foreign loans. The decree amends Section 24(b) (1) and 53(b) and (2) of the National Internal Revenue Code. The President also promulgated Presidential Decree No. 149 amending Sections 137 (b) and 156, Title IV, of the National Internal Revenue Code by specifying tax rates on cigars and cigarettes. Under Presidential Decree No. 148 the government will impose a 15 per cent tax on interest on foreign loans. It states that in order to attract loans from foreign countries, an appropriate tax on their income should be levied on interest earned and remitted abroad. Presidents Decree No. 149, on the other hand, amends a section of the National Internal Revenue Code pertaining to specific taxes on cigar and cigarettes. Promulgation of P.D. No. 149 was prompted by a study which showed that the rising cost of cigar and cigarette production leaves the manufacturers no more leeway for any future price adjustments in selling prices. The study also showed that the maximum amount of manufacturers and importers bond provided for under Section 156 of the NIRC has been found to be too numerous and cumbersome on the part of the taxpayers concerned.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue said that income tax returns filed on or before April 16 this year will not be covered by the revenue code amendments contained in Presidential Decree No. 69 since only incomes earned in 1972 will be declared. The BIR issued the clarification after the approval of Revenue Memorandum Circular No. 2-73 containing the amendments provided for under Presidential Decree No. 69. The circular provides that only the provision imposing a graduated tax on the gross income of Filipinos residing abroad has become effective as of Jan. 1, 1972. The circular, approved by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata, directed all BIR officials and fieldmen to conduct a systematic information campaign to assist income tax filers in the filing of their income tax returns to avoid any misunderstanding on the part of the taxpayers in the applicable provisions of Presidential Decree No. 69.

PHILIPPINE MEDICAL Care Commission (PMCC) advised all government hospitals to submit immediately their respective programs of expenditures of their income from medicare. Programs of expenditures are to be approved by the PMCC before they take effect to provide for upgrading and expansion of the facilities, maintenance, and operation of the government hospitals. Under Republic Act No. 6111, otherwise known as the Philippine Medical Care Act of 1969, the income of a government hospital from medicare is to be constituted into a revolving fund for the upgrading and expansion of its facilities and for the maintenance and operations subject to the approval of the Department of Health. In compliance with the directive, the PMCC has issued the following guidelines for government hospitals: 1) Deposit the earnings from medicare in interest-bearing government depository banks doing business in the Philippines, preferably in the Philippine National Bank or in any of its branches or agencies; 2) Formulate plans and programs for the upgrading and expansion of their facilities and for other necessary improvements; and 3) Submit to the PMCC for approval these plans and programs.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the ancient order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, on former Senate President Protempore Camilo Osias, in grateful appreciation for his "long and substantive service to the nation, particularly his lasting contribution to the educational system." The awardee, who will celebrate his 84th birthday anniversary on March 23, was almost choked with emotion when he accepted the decoration before a large crowd composed of high government officials, close friends and admirers, at the Malacañang Reception Hall. The President described Mr.

Osias as one of the pillars of the Philippine independence movement who, together with the late President Quezon, President Osmeña, President Roxas and Senator Recto, worked for political independence and later served his government faithfully. The President recalled that Mr. Osias was the first Filipino superintendent of schools, the first Filipino scholar to the United States when he was only 16 years old, the first director of public schools, the first secretary of education, and resident commissioner to Washington. The President said that the granting of the award to Mr. Osias was necessary "to manifest and demonstrate our gratitude to those who suffered and sacrificed in the name of the Republic.

THE PHILIPPINES shipped to Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR) 18,000 long tons of copra valued at $4.5 million. The copra export approved by the Department of Trade and Tourism, was the biggest export to Soviet Russia since the Philippines started commercial and industrial relations with communist and socialist bloc countries. The bulk of Philippine exports to socialist and communist countries consist of Portland cement, plywood and veneer, crude coconut oil in bulk, desicated coconut, copra and woodenware.

March 15—

THE PRESIDENT assured the people engaged in local oil exploration ventures of extraordinary and more than usual protection and support from the government. He made the assurance after inducting the officers of the Petroleum Association of the Philippines in Malacañang. The President reminded the PAP officers of the government's policy to encourage oil exploration as shown by the approval of various proposals for oil exploration submitted by both local and foreign oil companies. He also informed the oil officials that he had already endorsed for study the association's request for the amendment of the Presidential decree on oil explorations to the secretary of agriculture and natural resources and the director of mines. Inducted were: Mario S. Nieto, president; Luis Guerrero, vice president; Edgar Khrohn, treasurer; Oscar C. de Venecia, chairman; and Exequiel Toeg, Oliveros Liperla, Jose Andrada, Romeo Villonco, Carmelo T. Sison and Vicente Serrano, directors.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Decree No. 151 allowing Filipino citizens or corporations and associations whose capital is at least 60 per cent owned by Filipinos to enter into service contracts with foreign persons and corporations for the exploration, development, exploitation or utilization of lands of the public domain. The service contracts refer to financial, technical, management or other forms of assistance, with any foreign persons or entity when such contracts are vital to achieve sound and more expeditious exploration, development, exploitation or utilization of such lands owned, held or controlled by the Filipino citizens or corporations. For purposes of the decree, a service contract with a foreign, citizen' or entity shall be considered vital to the national interest if, consistent with the requirements for national security, the exploitation, exploration or utilization of land subject thereof is necessary for carrying out agricultural, industrial and commercial development projects.

SECRETARY OF FINANCE Cesar E. A. Virata announced that the government has collected over P50 million from taxpayers who availed of the tax amnesty benefits. He reminded taxpayers that the deadline for declaring previously untaxed income or wealth is April 2, 1973. The P50 million so far collected through four presidential decrees granting tax amnesty were paid by some 16,000 taxpayers. The secretary warned that after the tax amnesty period the government will flush out all tax evaders and apply the full force of the law against them Topping the collections were those from previously untaxed motor vehicles which amounted to P19,429,295.50 collected from 4,111 motor vehicles Some P12 million has been collected so far from about 1,000 taxpayers who voluntarily reported their previously untaxed income or wealth as provided for under Presidential Decree No. 67.

MALACAÑANG has issued Presidential Decree No. 147 authorizing the commissioner of public highways to dispose of all unserviceable equipment arid property of the Bureau of Public Highways while some parts or assembly of such equipment or properties are still usable and of value. The decree amending Executive Order No. 37, series of 1954, and Executive Order No. 290, series of 1958, was promulgated in view of the existence of considerable quantity of unserviceable equipment and property of the bureau in its field offices throughout the country. A committee was created to effect the speedy disposal of all unserviceable equipment and property of the BPH. It is composed of the representative of the BPH, as chairman, and representatives of the Bureau of Supply Coordination and Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications, as members.

CULTURAL CENTER of the Philippines has announced a nationwide march/hymn contest under the auspices of the First Lady. The contest is in two categories: a march and hymn for band/orchestra and chorus. The lyrics must be in Filipino and the music should be expressive of the ideals and goals of the New Society. A prize of P5,000 each will be awarded to the best entry in each category, for both music and lyric. All entries must be submitted to the Cultural Center of the Philippines, Roxas Blvd., Manila. The deadline for the submission of entries shall be 12 noon on Friday, May 10, 1973.

THE PRESIDENT has proclaimed some 1,590 hectares of public land in Guadalupe, Agusan del Sur, as a Manobo civil reservation to protect the minority group from encroachment by other settlers. The area is bounded by the Agusan del Sur municipalities of Simamagat and Guadalupe, the Davao-Agusan national road, the Bayugan and Labao rivers and the Tagminiang creek. The presidential proclamation would benefit the Manobo tribes scattered all over the affected area.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS registered a total collection amounting to P171,291,403 which was P34 million or 25 per cent more than last year's February total. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina reported. Last month's collection boosted to P133 million the increase in collection from July to February this year as compared with the same period in the previous fiscal year, based on comparative gross general fund receipts. The bureau collected P1,242,133,599 from July 1972 to February 1973, which was 11.9 per cent more than the P1,109,128,688 collection from July 1971 to February 1972. The customs commissioner said that the volume of imported cargo dropped last month in the port of Manila due to the reduction in crude oil imports by 22.7 per cent and bulk wheat by 40.4 per cent. Manila, like four other ports, chalked an increased collection of P9.414 million or 3.8 per cent over that of February last year. The Manila port was credited with 80 to 85 per cent increase in the customs' overall collections.

President's Week in Review: March 16-22, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

March 16—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Decree No. 152 prohibiting the employment of the use of share tenants in complying with the requirements of the law regarding entry, occupation, improvement and cultivation of public lands under the provisions of Commonwealth Act No. 141 (the Public Land Act). The decree was issued following reports that applicants for, or holders of, lands of the public domain do not occupy and cultivate the lands themselves but have resorted to the pernicious practice of employing or using tenants for the purpose of complying with the entry, occupation and cultivation requirements of the Public Act. The decree provides that it shall be an essential condition in every application for, or grant of, agricultural lands of the public domain, under the Public Land Act, that the applicant or his transferee shall enter the work upon, improve and cultivate the land himself within the period prescribed for the various modes of concession under the said Act. The employment of the use of share tenants in whatever form for the purpose of complying with the requirements of the Public Land Act is prohibited and any violation hereof shall constitute a ground for the denial of the application, cancellation of the grant and forfeiture of improvements on the land, in favor of the government.

JUSTICE SECRETARY Vicente Abad Santos stated that there is no provision in Republic Act. No. 2056 or in the Letter of Instruction No. 19 from which may be inferred that the removal or demolition of a prohibited construction would extinguish or remove the criminal liability of those responsible for the illegal construction. He issued the legal opinion in reply to a request from the Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications on whether it can still criminally prosecute a person under Sec. 3 of RA No. 2056, after his illegal construction on esteros and river banks have been ordered demolished pursuant to Letter of Instruction No. 19, dated October 2, 1972, of the President. He stated that he is not aware of any law or legal principle supporting the proposition that the criminal liability of the persons responsible for the illegal construction is extinguished after the demolition or removal of such illegal construction. He added that remedies against public nuisances, like these illegal construction in question, namely, criminal prosecution, civil action or abatement, are cumulative and do not exclude one another.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the ancient Order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, on Dr. Goh Keng Swee, defense minister of Singapore, for "outstanding achievements" in the enhancement of close and friendly relations between his country and the Philippines. Before a large gathering of high government officials, RM awardees and members of the Ramon Magsaysay Foundation board of trustees, the President described Dr. Goh as a man who has gained distinction in Asia and the world not only through his counter-insurgency lectures but also through his courage and ingenuity in breaking the communist threat in his country. The awardee was also cited for being largely responsible in the orderly and systematic development of the various projects in Singapore which have made the city-state a model and source of pride for many countries in Asia today. The President said that through his dedicated efforts, Dr. Goh has helped strengthen friendship and enhance understanding between his country and the Philippines through an exchange of know-how in economic, education, social services, and defense planning.

SOCIAL SECURITY COMMISSION has ruled that as of March 7, 1973, Social Security System sickness allowances shall be paid to the employees entitled thereto only after their company sick leave (with full pay) shall have been exhausted. SSS Resolution No. 203, dated March 7, 1973, supersedes paragraph (d) 2 of SSS Circular No. 91-T which provided that any current company sick leave pay paid to the employee during his confinement shall form part of the employee's sickness benefit and the employer shall be reimbursed by the SSS to the extent of such payment not exceeding the sickness benefit allowed under the circular. In view of the recent SSS resolution on the payment of sickness benefit, SSS sickness allowances shall be paid to qualified member-employees only after their company sick leave with full pay shall have been exhausted.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated two presidential decrees aimed at providing delinquent taxpayers all the liberalization and the facilities to enable them to settle their obligations with the government voluntarily and without suffering the penalties imposed on tax evasion. Presidential Decree No. 156 was issued by the President to encourage self-declaration of hidden or untaxed wealth and acquisitions up to last year. Presidential Decree No. 157 was issued providing amnesty for unrecorded or undeclared acquisitions made in 1972. To guarantee the confidential nature of the taxes paid under these decrees, the President issued Letter of Instruction No. 65, directing all heads of departments, bureaus, agencies and instrumentalities of the government, to observe the secrecy of the taxpayers' declarations made pursuant to the decree and to hold them "forever inviolate."

THE PRESIDENT issued the following message on tax amnesty on unexplained wealth: "The period for tax amnesty will expire on March 31, 1973. One who avails of this amnesty by making a voluntary disclosure of any previously untaxed income and/or wealth and pays the 10 per cent tax due thereon will be relieved of all civil, criminal, or administrative liabilities arising from or incident to such disclosure. I assure you that all such statements or disclosures, as well as the payment of the amnesty tax, will be held in strictest confidence and shall forever be kept inviolate. They cannot be the subject of any inquiry, examination, and verification nor could they be used as evidence against, or to the prejudice of, any declarant in any proceeding before any court of law or body, whether judicial, quasi-judicial, or administrative, in which he is a defendant or respondent. Let this be the solemn covenant between the taxpayers and the State, upon which I ask the people to entrust their confidence in the integrity of the government's commitment."

SECRETARY OF PUBLIC Information Francisco S. Tatad called on the Filipino Boy Scouts to bring the message of national discipline to the remotest areas of the country to the end that discipline would become a way of life for all our people. The DPI secretary made this appeal at the grand opening of the third regional boy scout jamborette in the Bicol region which opened in Legazpi City with about 6,000 boy scouts from the region attending. National discipline, Mr. Tatad said, is the key to the transformation of the nation. The DPI secretary took account of the fact that all over the country, national discipline was gradually taking root, and that "among the humblest of our people, there is now a growing of pride in what they are, in what they can do, in what they can become."

THE PRESIDENT made a short flying trip to Mindanao and Sulu to make an on-the-spot survey of the area where government forces had to turn back Maoist-led attacks on government outposts during the past few days. The President found the situation in Cotabato, Basilan, Zamboanga del Sur and Zamboanga del Norte to be under control. Insurgency has practically been crushed, and the insurgents are on the run, the President noted. He also noted the morale of the government troops and the Muslim and Christian civilian population in these areas to be "extremely high."

March 18—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 158 extending to April 15, 1973, the deadline for the filing of applications for amnesty to all persons covered by Presidential Decree Nos. 95 and 124. The decree states that in view of the limited period within which to disseminate fully the details of the said presidential decrees (Nos. 95 and 124), especially in the remote areas of the country, many of those who could have availed themselves of the benefits of amnesty therein proclaimed were unable to file their applications on time. It further notes that reports from the field units of the Armed Forces of the Philippines and the feelers from leaders of misguided elements revealed that many have signified their intention to surrender to the military authority and avail of the amnesty in accordance with the said presidential decrees.

BOARD OF TRANSPORTATION and the Land Transportation Commission have issued regulations for the licensing of "colorum" public utility vehicles. The regulations are aimed at legalizing a big number of clandestine public motor vehicles before the deadline on July 17, 1973, in line with the government's policy of "maximum utilization of existing public motor vehicles." The regulations are: 1) The applications will be filed with the LTC agency in whose territory the "colorum" or "kabit" operator operates, where his base of operation is situated, or where the motorized tricycle applicant proposes to operate. 2) The applicant must present the certificates of registration with the corresponding official receipts of payment of registration fees of the motor vehicles for the year 1972 in his name. 3) The applicant will be required to submit an authenticated copy of the PSC decision or order issued to the authorized operator, showing the existence of the line or zone of operation where the "colorum" operator should want to operate. 4) Submission of notarial deed of transfer of the motor vehicles from the authorized operator to the "kabit" operator; and the sketch of the line proposed by the applicant, showing all the streets and roads traversed by the line. 5) The LTC will assign in chronological order a case number to each of the applications accepted for filing. A filing fee of P30 will be charged by the Board of Transportation.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT Administration collected over P21.9 million during the first five months and nine days of Martial Law (Sept. 22, 1972 to Feb. 28, 1973), a record it has never achieved before as a credit instrument for land reform. This record collection topped by P4.3 million, or 50.25 per cent, the collection of P8,637,000 during the same period in fiscal year 1971–1972. Administration of the ACA is unique because the credit for production loans is extended without collateral. Poor, often propertyless, farmers are the principal clients and the individual loans are small and therefore risky.

BRIG. GEN. Fidel V. Ramos and Col. Hamilton Dimaya, PC judge advocate and concurrently director for amnesty, reported that a total of 1,550 persons applied for amnesty as of now under Presidential Decrees Nos. 95 and 124. Col Dimaya told Gen. Ramos that 329 persons applied for amnesty under Presidential Decree No. 95, while 1,221 have applied under Presidential Decree No. 124.

March 19—

THE PRESIDENT enjoined all certified public accountants to continue cooperating with the government in the pursuit of prosperity for the people, stressing that accounting services are imperative in the government's programs since these necessarily involve planning, financing and reporting. The President pointed out that the government, as the country's biggest business and largest employer, has been availing itself more and more of the services of the CPAs in its accounting, auditing, budgeting and financial agencies. He said the revitalized scheme of government operations provides for each agency three essential services, which are planning, financial management, and administration. In calling upon the accountants to continue cooperating with the government, the President expressed confidence that the CPAs are in a position to contribute to the realization of the multiphased projects that the government has embarked upon for the well-being of the nation, particularly for the less fortunate among our population.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE ruled that benefits under Sec. 699 of the Revised Administrative Code (The Workmen's Compensation Act) and the Medicare Act may be recovered simultaneously and the benefits under anyone or two of them are not deductible from the benefits collectible under the other or others. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued the legal opinion in reply to a request from the Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communication, in connection with the claim of Jerimias C. Apolinar of the Apayao Engineering District for reimbursement of his medical expenses under the Workmen's Compensation Act. He explained that the benefits under the Medicare Act constitute medical care expense benefits for any sickness suffered by members of the Social Security System or the Government Service Insurance System payable from the Health Insurance Funds of the SSS or GSIS, as the case may be. The benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Act covers compensation to be paid by the employer to the employee on account of employment-connected injury or illness suffered by such employees while the benefits from Sec. 699 of the Revised Administrative Code refers to "allowances to be paid by the government in case of death or sickness incurred by a government employee in the performance of duty, in consideration of the past services and efficiency."

SECRETARY OF Public Information Francisco S. Tatad asked the country's police forces to use "the force of good example in winning back public confidence and in seeking to establish a reasonably crimeless society." The secretary made these remarks during the opening clay session of a three-day special information seminar sponsored by the Department of Public information for policemen. The seminar is heavily attended by police participants from the Greater Manila Area. In his keynote speech, the chief spokesman of the government said citizen-police cooperation should not be limited to the prevention and solution of crimes, but should extend to the actual effort of trying "to destroy the ecology of crime." The secretary added that "the duty of policeman is to contribute towards the building of a society where the citizenry will have no need to be constantly reminded of the presence of the police because they themselves will be checking themselves to do only what is right and just, by the standards of a good society."

EXECUTIVE OF A Taiwan textile firm have been impressed with the policies adopted by the government to attract foreign investors to the country in the development of the national economy. John Hsu and Paul Hsu, president and legal counsel, respectively, of the Far Eastern Textile Ltd., of Taiwan came over to Manila last week to look over investment possibilities. Mr. John Hsu informed the President during a courtesy call at Malacañang, of his desire to enter into a joint venture with a local firm for the manufacture of men's garments for the American and European markets. The venture will generate $600,000 in earnings and 1,000 new jobs annually, with the Taiwan firm providing the technical knowhow in the manufacture and marketing of the product.

CIVIL SERVICE Commission's board of examiners for chemists announced that the examination for the practice of chemistry will be given in Manila beginning May 21, 1973. Applicants must file their applications with the office of the Board of Examiners located at P. Paredes-Nicanor Reyes, Sr. streets, Sampaloc, not later than May 11, 1973.

March 20—

THE PRESIDENT has approved the resolution of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) limiting the scope of price control to basic commodities that are consumed by the low-income groups to enable a more effective supervision of price control activities. The NEDA explained that government regulation of prices must not necessarily choke business into an intolerable cost price squeeze. It also said that price fixing is being utilized at present merely as an interim measure. In the long run, prices can only be reduced or maintained at tolerable levels by expanding production and improving the distribution system, it added. The commodities included in the scope of price control are food—rice, corn, wheat flour, some basic cuts of meat (fresh), canned fish, sugar, condensed milk, evaporated milk, infant dietetics and cooking oil; Clothing—ordinary fabrics, fuel and light, kerosene and some oil products; Medicine—antibiotics and some selected drugs and medicines; Household supplies—laundry soap, construction materials, cement, fertilizer and animal feeds.

SECRETARY OF JUSTICE Vicente Abaci Santos suggested to the insurance commissioner the filing of a plea with the proper court—together with the surety firm's motion for approval and acceptance thereof as an amendment to the existing bail bond—to comply with a directive in Letter of Instruction No. 40 which recalls all existing bail bonds. Letter of Instruction No. 40 provides that every bail bond for the provisional release of the accused in every criminal case shall contain a stipulation that the surety firm and the accused agree that, in case the accused jumps bail or fails to appear for trial despite due notice to his bondsman, his absence will be deemed an express waiver of his right to be present. He pointed out that the directive that all existing bail bonds shall be recalled does not require that all such bonds be detached from the "expediente" (records) of the case so that it can be returned to the surety firm for amendment. He said that the existing bail bond shall remain in the records and a new one containing the stipulation in question, with the conformity of the surety firm and the accused, should be filed.

MALACAÑANG released the official text of Presidential Decree No. 154 providing that "no stockbroker using the facilities of any stock exchange shall charge, collect or receive a commission of a more than one per cent of the value of each transaction, whether a purchase or sale, but in no case shall the commission be less than P20 for a transaction." The Securities and Exchange Commission shall have the power to study and adjust from time to time the rate of commission established by the decree to conform with the prevailing conditions when the same is necessary in the public interest, but in no case shall the change of rate be more than once a year. The decree takes effect immediately and modifies or repeals accordingly, any law, executive order, rule or regulation in conflict or contrary to it.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS issued an ultimatum to delinquent importers, exporters, and shipping companies to settle their accounts within the prescribed deadlines. Shipping companies which have arrears in tonnage, berthing, storage and other fees are given up to May 31, while big time importers and exporters were given up to June 30 to settle delinquent taxes and duties. The bureau warned that those whose schedule of payments are approved but who fail to show "appreciable interest" in paying their accounts will be immediately charged in court. All port collectors were ordered to report progress of all pending seizure and protest cases from which the government is expected to earn more revenues.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Proclamation No. 1122 declaring some 1,590 hectares of public land in Guadalupe, Agusan del Sur, as a Monobo civil reservation, to protect the minority group from encroachments by other settlers. The area—one of the many scenes of conflict between minority groups and Christians—is bounded by the Agusan del Sur municipalities of Simagat and Guadalupe, the Davao–Agusan national road, the Bayuga and Labao rivers and the Tagminiang creek. The presidential proclamation would benefit the Manobo tribes scattered all over the affected area. The reservation is subject to valid private rights existing at the time the proclamation is issued, if any there be, under the administration of the commissioner of National Integration, in accordance with existing laws and regulations.

CIVIL SERVICE examinations for junior and senior stenographers scheduled in Manila on May 6 will also be given in Cebu City and Davao City on the same date, it was announced by the Civil Service Commission. Cebu City and Davao City examinees should file their applications with the local examining committees in those cities not later than April 18. For Manila examinees, applications must be filed with the Civil Service Commission, E. Rodriguez Sr. ave., Quezon City, not later than March 30.

March 21—

MALACANANG issued Memorandum Circular No. 627 clarifying the new schedule of office hours for government offices in the Greater Manila area, on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The circular provides: 1) There must be a skeletal staff in the offices of the department secretary and bureau director which shall be composed of one key official and two or three staff members who shall attend to urgent official transactions. They shall also monitor and transmit messages or directives coming from higher authorities for implementation or summon the proper officials who shall act on the matter. 2) Whether or not a skeletal staff should be maintained in the subordinate level is left to the sound discretion of the heads of offices bearing in mind the nature and volume of work of their offices and the number of people expected to transact urgent official business. 3) Service on such day need not be eight hours. Some employees may be assigned to the morning shift while others to afternoon duty for which they shall be provided with meal allowances. 4) Full time service rendered on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays may entitle the employees concerned, with off-duty the following working day.

SECURITIES AND Exchange Commission has reported that 1,439 corporations with P360,191,103 in subscribed capital, of which P134,371,420 is paid up, have registered during the first six months of the Martial Law on account of the incentives offered by the government to foreign and local investors. The acceleration of capital investments was first noticed during the last quarter of last year when the SEC recorded a total of P79,669,896 in paid up capital of corporations, representing a P9,715,048 increase over the P69,954,848 paid up registered in the third quarter. The increase of capital investments perked up the stock market. The SEC commissioner said the favorable market reaction was encouraged further by the government policies reducing the stock transfer tax from two per cent to one-fourth of one per cent and the policy allowing repatriation of capital and profit without time restriction on all foreign investments which came to the Philippines after March 15, 1973.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Presidential Merit Medal on an American citizen who helped train top Filipino executives in management and, posthumously, on two distinguished public servants who died in line of duty. Awarded the Presidential Merit Medal were: Dr. Harry L. Hansen, who served as an extension of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in the establishment of management training in the Philippines, the forerunner of the Asian Institute of Management; and, posthumously, the late Director Vicente Valdellon of the Bureau of Lands and the late Director Alejandro B. Deleña of the Bureau of Public Works.

SECRETARY OF Information Francisco S. Tatad said that local and foreign tourists have responded favorably to the administration's program to develop the country into a tourism center under the stable peace and order condition brought about by the imposition of Martial Law. The secretary told members of the Skat Club of the Philippines, in a speech at the Hotel Intercontinental in Makati, that more local tourists are now seeing the Philippines first, driving to mountain resorts and hitherto undeveloped beaches. Among the rich, there is a high rate of buying and development of beach and resort houses in remote places and isolated islands, he added. This has been supplemented by the arrival of foreign tourists including businessmen and nature lovers who had sought and found scenic places in once unexplored and unnoticed areas of the country, the secretary said.

DEPARTMENT OF Finance ordered provincial, city and municipal treasurers to intensify the collection of delinquent realty taxes which amount to P108,401, 209 as of calendar year 1971, even as acting Secretary of Finance Alfredo Pio de Roda also reminded the public that first installment of payment for real property taxes is on March 31. Real property taxes are paid on quarterly basis: Sec. De Roda also directed the provincial, city and municipal assessors to provide assistance to taxpayers who are filing sworn statements of the true value of real properties pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 76. The sworn statements are to be submitted to the assessors on or before June 30, 1973.

DEPARTMENT OF Finance issued the procedures in filing protests against tax ordinances as provided under Presidential Decree No. 145 which amended Republic Act No. 2264, otherwise known as Local Autonomy Act. Presidential Decree No. 145 empowers the secretary of finance to review tax ordinances and to suspend their effectivity if the taxes levied, or imposed are unjust, excessive, confiscatory or contrary to declared national economic policy. Formal protests against tax ordinances enacted by the municipal or district councils must be filed with the respective provincial treasurers while protests against ordinances enacted by city councils and municipal boards must be filed with the respective city treasurers. In both cases, a formal protest may be filed within 120 days after the passage of the tax ordinance provided that the secretary of finance shall have 60 days, after the receipt of the protest, to decide the case. Protests, relying on joint or multiple grounds of illegality and unreasonableness of the rates of imposition or levies, will be administratively resolved by the secretary of finance insofar as the grounds provided under Sec. 2 of RA No. 2264, as amended, are concerned.

BUREAU OF Internal Revenue issued a clarification for the guidance of taxpayers who wish to avail themselves of the tax amnesty grants. The clarification: Presidential Decree No. 23, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 67, refers to untaxed income or wealth as of Dec. 31, 1971 and back years and provides that, upon payment of 10 per cent on such untaxed income, all increments and penalties incident to non-payment as well as all criminal and civil liabilities under the National Internal Revenue Code, the Revised Penal Code, the Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act or any other law applicable thereto are condoned. Presidential Decree No. 157 covers the hidden income or wealth for 1972. This decree grants the same immunities afforded taxpayers under Presidential Decree No. 23, as amended. However, the tax to be paid under Presidential Decree No. 157 shall be the amount shown on the return filed or of an amount equal to the income tax paid for the taxable year of 1971 plus 40 per cent thereof, whichever is higher.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH warns against the use of anti-rabies vaccine which could have negative effect on the brain. The department directed its warning to parents since school children would be subject to greater exposure to rabies due to dog bites during the summer vacation. Dr. Jacinto J. Dizon, chief of the Disease Intelligence Center of the Department of Health, bewails the practice of people who immediately try to obtain anti-rabies vaccine for their use without the advice of a doctor, after being bitten by a dog. The safest way, he said, is to consult a doctor or go to the nearest government health center. The common vectors of the rabies in the Philippines are the dogs, cats, pigs, monkeys, bats. In case a dog bites, do the following emergency measures: 1) Wash wound with soap and water. 2) Apply any available antiseptic solution. 3) Observe the dog for 14 days for rabid signs. 4) Consult a doctor, or go to the nearest government health center.

March 22—

THE PRESIDENT announced the adoption by the military of the kamagong concept—proven to be very successful in combat operation in Mindanao—as the nucleus of the citizens army envisioned in the new Constitution. The President, in his brief remarks at the 76th anniversary celebration of the Philippine Army at Ft. Bonifacio, Rizal also announced amendments to the Trainee Utilization Law (RA No. 4091). The amendments provide that: 1) A trainee, on completing his basic military instruction, may be drafted into the selective emergency service for a specified period of time; 2) Once drafted, he will be employed in the same manner as any regular enlisted personnel and will be entitled to the same pay and allowances a private receives; and 3) The trainee, upon completion of the prescribed tour of service, will be entitled to one month separation gratuity and given preferential employment in the government service, commensurate with his training, experience and education qualifications. Under the kamagong concept—which revolves around the employment of 20-year old trainees side by side with the regulars in actual military operations—the reservist gets an opportunity to apply the skills he acquires in basic military instruction in the actual field maneuver, giving valuable field experience.

CENTRAL BANK announced that it has issued a circular liberalizing extensively its regulations on new foreign investments and repatriation of investment withdrawals, as well as lifting the limitations on remittances of profits and dividends. CB Governor Gregorio Lecaros said this action of the Monetary Board embodied in Circular 365 gives full meaning and effect to the several policy pronouncements of the President extending full support and incentives to foreign investors. It also provides the necessary assurances to American investors who may be affected by the termination of the Laurel–Langley Agreement in 1974. The circular treats separately foreign investments existing as of March 15, 1973, arising from direct inward remittances in cash or in kind, as well as those generated out of reinvestments of peso earnings from original investments, are assured of repatriation in varying degrees depending on whether the enterprise invested in is a) export-oriented, b) BOI-registered and c) others.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE and Tourism said the Price Control Council is empowered to check the prices of basic consumer commodities excluded from the controlled list if it finds out that their prices become unreasonably high. The DTT made this clarification as it issued the complete lists of items whose maximum price ceilings remain effective and those already removed from the controlled list. The rationale for limiting the scope of price control was to enable a more effective supervision of price control activities that will lead to a greater impact on prices and commodities. Price fixing is being utilized merely as an interim measure, the DTT said, adding that prices can only be reduced or maintained at tolerable levels by expanding production and improving the distribution system. As of March 21, 1973, the commodities under PCC control are rice, wheat flour (hard and soft), meat (some basic cuts), canned fish (salmon, mackerel, sardines in tomato sauce and squib).

THE PRESIDENT expressed gratification over the role of the churches in helping bring about the regeneration and reformation which the government is seeking to institute in this country. The President pointed this out during the call of Archbishop of Canterbury and Mrs. Michael Ramsey. He said that the change the country is seeking is “a change of the heart and spirit” and the churches are best qualified to help bring about the change. Archbishop Ramsey on the other hand thanked the President for the “great interest” shown by the people in his visit, despite the fact that the Philippines is a predominantly Catholic country.

President's Week in Review: April 1-5, 1973

President's Week in Review: April 6-12, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 6—

THE PRESIDENT has committed the entire machinery of the government in the development and rehabilitation of Mindanao amid encouraging indications that the peace and order condition has been greatly stabilized in the area. The Chief Executive, through, Executive Order No 411, created a special task force to coordinate all government efforts to further develop the southern island. Under Executive Order No. 411 the President invested the task force with the following tasks: 1) The immediate assessment of the damage wrought on private property and government facilities, services and establishments; 2) The identification and mobilization of all sources of funds and preparation of an integrated plan necessary for the context of the national development program; 3) The restoration of peace and order by adequate military operations, apprehension of rebellious leaders and followers and the implementation of a selective amnesty and rehabilitation program; and 4) Such other action that may be needed for the above objectives. The task force shall operate and continue to exercise its powers until such time as its designated tasks are completed.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad expressed hope that from today's legion of campus journalists will emerge real journalists and citizens who will serve the truth at all times not merely to satisfy personal avocation but above all to "fulfill our national goals." The secretary pinned his hopes on the new and young crops of writers after expressing serious doubts on the possibility of reorienting or retraining the old journalists to abandon their old ways and live the life required by the New Society. He spoke on the "Role of the School Paper in the New Society" at the seminar-press conference of the Greater Manila Area public high schools at the Philippine Science High School in Quezon City. He urged the campus journalists to make the campus paper a repository of intelligence, a fort of excellence in intellection and in thought to advocate scholarship and sincere efforts for the national good and to insist at all times that a university should remain a school of learning, not a place where one must originate a movement to overthrow authorities in government, where one must collect groups of men to carry out a campaign of terrorism.

APPLICANTS for amnesty under Presidential Decrees Nos. 95 and 124 rose to 2,101 and another batch of 100 persons has filed applications in the various amnesty commissions, it was reported to Brig. Gen. Fidel V Ramos Constabulary chief, by Col. Hamilton B. Dimaya, PC judge advocate general. Col. Dimaya told the PC chief that 471 persons have applied for amnesty under Presidential Decree No. 95 while 1,630 others have applied under Presidential Decree No. 124.

SOME P1-million worth of Philippine handicraft products have been ordered by the largest department store chain in Spain, according to the Department of Trade and Tourism. The order of El Corte Ingles, Spain's largest department store, is the first to be made since the visit to the Philippines last November of a Spanish trade mission which contracted P3-million worth of Philippine handicraft products. The first shipment worth $90,000 is scheduled to leave the Philippines on April 6. The export of handicraft products to Spain was the result of the government's efforts through its trade representatives assigned in that country who encourages the Spanish trade mission to the Philippines.

CIVIL SERVICE Examination for fishery technologists, fishery biologists, fishery officers and fishery agents have been reset from April 29 to June 17, 1973, the Bureau of Fisheries announced. Director Felix R. Gonzales said that the bureau is still accepting applications of examinees in fishery technologists, fishery biologists and fishery officers. Last day for filing applications shall be on May 11. Mailed applications should be post-marked not later than May 4. For fishery officer examinations, graduates of law, criminology and B.S. Fisheries without experience may be admitted but applications will be closed as soon as the required quota for applicants has been reached.

April 7—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated two presidential decrees intended to further bolster the government's intensified drive against criminality by imposing stiff penalties against doctors and hospitals who refuse to report treatment of criminals and by empowering the secretary of national defense to place police forces under Constabulary control. Presidential Decree No. 169 requires the attending physician of any hospital, medical clinic, sanitarium or other medical establishments, or any medical practitioner who has treated any person for serious or less serious physical injuries as defined by the Revised Penal Code to report such treatment personally or by the faster means of communications to the nearest PC unit without delay. Presidential Decree No. 170 delegates the President's power of placing cities or municipal police forces under PC control. The two decrees were issued in line with the objectives of Martial Law, to restore peace and order in the country and to insure the security and protection of the state.

LABOR SECRETARY Blas F. Ople said Presidential Decree No. 143, making Sundays and holidays regular working days applies only to private establishments. He issued the clarification in answer to queries on whether government employees are covered with the decree. Ople said the decree and its implementing rules and regulations, which became effective 15 days from promulgation of the rules, also apply to public utilities operated by private persons and those previously exempted from the work prohibition prescribed by the Blue Sunday Law, otherwise known as Republic Act No. 946.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad declared that trade unionism could be directed truthfully towards the reconstruction of society without its being necessarily committed to violent action. The secretary, speaking at the closing ceremonies of the 33rd Asian Labor Leadership Institute at the Asian Labor Education Center in Quezon City, said the path to reconstruction and development has been opened by present day conditions in Asia and indicate the direction in which Asia's labor leaders may conceivably lead these regions working masses. He also stressed that the task of trade unionism is promoting and expanding the human factor development which is how labor has been traditionally called by the economists. Mr. Tatad added that in our countries where the governments are increasingly recognizing the necessities for centralized economic planning, trade unionism must seek participation in the planning process itself.

THE PRESIDENT pledged the resources of the government in the campaign against pollution and other destructive forces that threaten the environment. The President made the pledge at the launching of the Environmental Center of the Philippines at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang which was attended by local and foreign representatives. The center is chairmanned by the First Lady with prominent representatives from the government and the private sector as members. The Chief Executive underscored the importance of the drive against pollution when he announced that the Water and Air Pollution Council will be enlarged to an environmental commission.

BOARD OF INVESTMENTS has approved the applications of 19 firms under the Investment Incentives Act and the Export Incentives Act last month. Six of the 19 approved firms are engaged in preferred areas of investment listed in the BOI Fifth Investment Priorities Plan while the 13 others are covered by the BOI Third Export Priorities Plan. One of the six firms approved under the Investment Incentive Act, the Philippine Cellophane Film Corporation, is engaged in a pioneer area of investment. It will therefore be entitled to two additional incentives besides those granted to non-pioneer projects, namely, post-operative tariff protection and exemption from all taxes (except income tax) in the Internal Revenue Code on a gradually diminishing basis for 15 years. The five non-pioneer projects which have been approved are 1) Red Palms Development Corporation (REPADECO); 2) J & C Fishing Corporation; 3) Universal Robina Corporation; 4) Prime White Cement Corporation; and 5) D.C. Crystals, Inc. The only firm which has been approved as a service exporter is Bancom Development Corporation in the field of financial and economic consultancy services.

COMPLAINTS and Investigation Office of Malacañang has created a complaints and public assistance division to make the CIO "more responsive to the needs of the citizenry." The new division will: 1) Receive, process and evaluate all grievances, complaints and problems brought to it and initiate appropriate action thereon; 2) Assist those seeking help in determining what proper government agency should be appropriate for the desired assistance and extend help in the preparation or formulation of written complaints and requests; 3) Evaluate, analyze and take action to effect prompt and successful disposition of grievance, complaint or problem; 4) Maintain direct and effective working relationship with all departments, bureaus, offices, agencies, and other instrumentalities of the government, including government-owned or controlled corporations for the expeditious settlement of grievances, complaints or problems.

THE PRESIDENT told the new officers of the Integrated Bar of the Philippines that their plan to provide legal aid to indigents would promote the government's program to enhance the people's faith in the administration of justice. The Chief Executive made the statement after he was informed of the plan during the courtesy call at Malacañang by the new IBP officers. Associate Justice Fred Ruiz Castro of the Supreme Court who spearheaded the movement to integrate the Philippine Bar, said the IBP projects calls for the establishment of branch officers in every province primarily to provide legal assistance to the poor. During their call, the IBP officers also sought government assistance to raising funds to finance the varied projects of the organization. Justice Castro said that the IBP contemplated the establishment of a P3 million headquarters in Manila on a lot to be donated by the government. The President agreed to launch a fund-raising campaign in ceremonies to be held at the Maharlika Hall tentatively on May 7.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue said all certifications issued by its regional directors and district officers to taxpayers that they have filed their tax amnesty returns for 1971 are illegal and must be surrendered to the office of the BIR commissioner. Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera issued a strongly worded memorandum to all regional directors and district officers to desist from issuing such certification. The commissioner also reminded the directors of the penalty provided for under Presidential Decree No. 161 which is not less than five years imprisonment and dismissal from the service for any government official or employee who discloses any information relative to the returns filed. He directed the regional directors to submit to his office any request for certification.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad exhorted the youth to help in the dissemination of a new idea wherein "we as a people will work with our own hands in order to attain the destiny of our people." The secretary stressed that "we are not going to rely on the kindness or generosity of others but will work to the best of our ability, to the best of our skills so that we will produce things of excellence." The secretary also pointed out during the commencement exercises of the college of education and high school of Western Colleges in Naic, Cavite that one of the recent proclamations of the President had asked college students to go to the barrios, rural areas, to serve the people before they can qualify for graduation. He added that the government is trying to integrate the student population into the actual population of the nation. Underscoring the role of the youth in the country, Mr. Tatad stressed that in the great moments of the country's history, the people have always placed their hope in the youth.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue announced that all letters of authority to investigate the tax liabilities of taxpayers issued to BIR examiners have been revoked. Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera said the move was taken to carry out effectively the provisions of the law on tax amnesty. A memorandum issued by the BIR commissioner outlined the following guidelines relative to the revocation:

- 1) All authorities issued before and up to April 2, 1973 are hereby cancelled and revoked. These include those authorities issued but have not yet been served to taxpayers; those served, the investigation of which have not been terminated; those whose investigations have been terminated but the reports of investigation have not yet been submitted; 2) No authority to investigate shall be issued from April 2, 1973 until advise from the commissioner's office has been received; 3) Fieldmen shall submit not later than April 2, 1973 the list of letters of authority issued to them. Commissioner Vera also directed regional and district officers not to allow fieldmen to conduct field or office investigation and instead help in the tax information and collective drive of the bureau.

COUNTRY'S EXPORTS of marine products have registered in 1972 a total value of P68 million, surpassing all records during a 24-year period, according to the Bureau of Fisheries. The growth of the industry, which became evident since the imposition of Martial Law, has benefited some 2.2 million persons who depend directly on fishing. The 1972 annual report of the Bureau of Fisheries indicated an increase of P29 million or 76 per cent earnings over that of 1971 which totalled only P39 million. Shrimps took one-half of the P68 million earnings from fishery exports with P34.1 million, followed by tuna which earned for the country P18.3 million. Other dollar-earning marine products in the order of their earnings are: fresh live fish, P3.2 million; lobster, P2.1 million; seaweeds, P1.6 million; fresh frozen fish, P1.6 million and wet salted fish, P1.4 million.

THE PRESIDENT called for total dedication on the part of the people in order to fulfill the dream of Bataan heroes of building a strong and indestructible nation. In a radio-television address broadcast nationwide from Malacañang on the eve of the 31st anniversary of the Fall of Bataan, the President said the people have a new and healthful life before them and should go into it with courage and spirit, "for these are the legacies of Bataan." The President said "the spirit and courage that made Bataan endure for so long, past the threshold of human fortitude did not die with surrender but continued fiercer than ever." At the same time, the President said implacable forces—oligarchs, politicians, leftists, rightists and mercenaries—were out to destroy the Republic. But he pointed out that the complacency of the people was most dangerous. The President said that "when we took the fateful step of throwing off the shackles of a defeated and fatalistic society," the people were transformed and there was a resurrection in the land. Today, the President said, "the youths are once more earnest, straight and hard-working, the people again believe in the old and hardy virtues, in government, in peace and order, honesty and integrity, and even purity of heart."

NUEVA ECIJA land reform integrated development program (NEL-RIDP) has been gaining successful results since the proclamation of Martial Law, it was announced by the Department of Agrarian Reform. According to a report from the project fieldmen in the country's premier rice-producing province, the NELRIDP has accomplished as of March 31 the following: 1) Identified 57,678 farmers tilling 155,280.57 hectares in 32 municipalities covering 639 barrios and sketched 48,702 lots covering 77,763.04 hectares; 2) Issued land transfer certificates to 7,773 farmers tilling 20,321.69 hectares and organized 14 barrio associations and seven marketing cooperatives; 3) Released loans amounting to P428,107 since 1971 to 11 compact farms involving 398 cooperators and tilling 103,819 hectares and production loans amounting to P12,321,920 since 1971 to 15,550 farmers tilling 48,712.55 hectares; 4) Released through the ACA marketing loans amounting to P1,819,900 to 27 hectares and distributed 22,536 cavans of palay seeds and 12,275 sacks of fertilizers to 7,510 farmers; 5) Serviced through Operation Palagad '73 (OPAL) 2,701 farmers cultivating 5,126 hectares with P1,718,069.61 in cash, seeds and fertilizers and chemicals; 6) Reported the active participation of 21 rural banks in the program; 7) Extended irrigation service through: gravity system—48,511.61 hectares; pump system—15,189 hectares and through the National Irrigation Administration—16,208 hectares; and 8) Serviced 413 units of pumps from the Department of Local Governments and Community Development.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE announced it will publish a monthly technical journal beginning next month. The publication, to be called Finance Journal, will contain Presidential Decrees and other Presidential issuances affecting the Department of Finance and all its bureaus and agencies, official documents including rulings of the secretary of finance, commissioner of internal revenue, commissioner of customs, and the Insurance Commission, department orders, memorandum circulars, provincial circulars, customs tariff circulars, customs administrative orders, revenue regulations, revenue orders, insurance circulars and other important official decisions. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that the publication will help taxpayers and businessmen in facilitating their official business with the department, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Bureau of Customs, Insurance Commission, Bureau of the Treasury and the Embroidery and Apparel Control and Inspection Board.

SOME 500,000 to 750,000 commuters in the Greater Manila Area are expected to be serviced by commuter trains when the Philippine National Railway's mass transit rail system swings into full operation by 1980. The whole plan envisages an expansion of the present skeleton services of the PNR with the introduction of 112 diesel cars and 210 electric cars to be able to operate 430 trains per day with a three-minute frequency during peak hours. This calls for what railways officials described as "critical engineering works" such as doubling of tracks between Malolos and Caloocan and San Pedro, Laguna, including the installation of electric automatic block signalling system and passenger amenities at stations. The operation of commuter trains has been possible by the conversion work of the existing diesel motor cars. Eight cars had already been converted by January, 1973, while eight more are still undergoing conversion work.

April 10—

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE Secretary Vicente Abad Santos said that personnel holding positions declared to be policy-determining, confidential, and highly technical, cannot be removed or suspended except for reasons as provided by law. The justice secretary issued his opinion in reply to a request from the chairman of the Population Commission on the possible effects on the security of tenure of certain commission employees who have permanent appointments to their positions, and whose positions are proposed to be declared as technical or professional, pursuant to Sections 8 and 11 of Presidential Decree No. 79 (Revised Population Act of the Philippines). The secretary said it is clear from Sections 8 and 11 of the decree that the commission is placed within the scope of the civil service. The exemption of certain positions of technical and professional staff and those declared by the board to be highly technical, policy-determining, and primarily confidential, is intended to refer only to appointment or selection which does not have to take into account merit and fitness as determined by competitive examination, Mr. Abad Santos said. He added that incumbent officers and employees of the Commission who hold permanent appointments do not lose their security of tenure by accepting appointment to the technical or professional staff.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRARIAN Reform reported that a total of 12,000 farmers throughout the country has received land transfer certificate-since the government initiated agrarian reforms. The latest to receive land transfer papers were 2,948 tenant-farmers from 84 barrios in Nueva Ecija at awarding ceremonies held last April 7. A week earlier, the DAR distributed 2,571 land transfer certificates in Guimba and Nampicuan towns in the same province. Similar award ceremonies were held in Camarines Sur, Cebu, Bulacan, Isabela, Iloilo and Cabanatuan City.

THE PRESIDENT will join the Asian Rice Trade Fund which will be officially established at the 29th session of the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East (ECAFE). The President has approved membership in the Asian Rice Trade Fund and has designated Secretary of Trade and Tourism Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. as the head of an 11-man delegation to the ECAFE conference. The delegation left for Tokyo today. The Fund is a significant step towards the stabilization of the region's rice trade. The Philippines, and other developing countries in the region, could benefit by participating in the fund either as importer or exporter.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad declared that when the government is afflicted by corruption and threats from without, constitutional authoritarianism may be used to save it if it is the only recourse left. The secretary said the government made a giant leap and "Martial Law came as a matter of course" when everything that the government did, including the best laws and most sober judges, the combined authority of the home, school and church and even the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus could not turn back rebellion pestering in the countryside and threatening to engulf the city. Mr. Tatad was the guest of honor of the Manila conference of Jaycees International Senators at the Hyatt Regency Hotel on Roxas Boulevard which was attended by Jaycees senators and delegates from Japan, Hongkong, Taiwan, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and other countries.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE and Tourism called upon local government officials and leaders of the private sector to actively participate in the development of the tourist industry and the industrial growth of the country. In separate conferences with officials of Angeles City, Pampanga, and La Union, Secretary of Trade and Tourism Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said their active participation is necessary to help the national leadership translate immediately into reality the country's economic goals. On tourism, Mr. Quiazon said the assistance of local governments is necessary to ensure success.

PHILIPPINE NATIONAL Bank reported it has obtained a $25 million loan from the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, even as PNB President P. O. Domingo announced that the government bank had reported a net profit of P9.9 million for the first quarters of 1973. The loan agreement with the New York bank would allow the PNB to avail itself of dollar funds for terms longer than the usual 180-day credit lines from foreign banks and does away with the sublimits in the cause and disposition of the dollar proceeds, Mr. Domingo reported.

THE PRESIDENT issued General Order No. 27 prohibiting any private contractor or person to use on any vehicle or equipment the orange color used to identify vehicles or equipment of the Bureau of Public Highways and other' bureaus and offices of the Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications engaged in the government's infrastructure program. The President noted that private contractors, undertaking the construction of infrastructure projects through contracts with the government, have used and adopted orange color in painting their private vehicles and equipment to make them identical with the vehicles and equipment of the Bureau of Public Highways. Any violation of the general order shall be penalized with a fine of P2,000 and or the impounding of the vehicle or equipment until such time as the owner undertakes the repainting of the same.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue asked local governments to stop campaigning for tax payments in their respective cities and municipalities in order to get bigger shares in excess income tax. BIR Commissioner Misael P. Vera said that the place of payment of the income tax is now immaterial since the principal basis for tax allotment to local governments is on population and land area. Presidential Decree No 144 has nullified Republic Act 2343 which allowed local governments to get the allotments on excess income tax. The BIR commissioner however, made it clear that those who want to avail themselves of Presidential Decree No. 23 (the 10 per cent tax amnesty on previously undeclared income or wealth) should file and pay their 1972 income tax in places where they previously filed tax amnesty returns.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE reported that the tax amnesty collections now total P530,899,400 which were paid by 129,847 filers.

First installment payments amounted to P343,757,327.19 while receivables totalled P182,642,073.19. Secretary of Finance Cesar E.A. Virata, meanwhile ordered all provincial and city assessors not to compel real property owners to personally declare under oath their sworn statements. The warning was issued following reports of complaints that real property owners are being compelled to appear personally in certain assessment jurisdictions for purposes of declaring under oath their sworn statements. The secretary further reminded the assessors that the sworn statements of real property owners should not directly be used as basis for assessment of real property as this will negate the principle of unity which Presidential Decree No. 76 seeks to ensure.

THE PRESIDENT assured other nations, especially the country's Asian neighbors, that the self-reliant posture the Philippine has assumed to determine its own destiny is being supplemented by a policy of mutual accommodation with other countries. The President, in his address before the opening session of the five-day conference of the Jaycees International, reiterates his invitation to foreign investors to participate in the economic development of the country. He also expressed hopes for the immediate formulation of an Asian Forum among all Asian nations, "irrespective of persuasion and ideology."

DANGEROUS DRUGS Board prohibited the distribution of free samples of dangerous drugs by pharmaceutical and chemical laboratories. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan said the move, adopted on the recommendation of the Food and Drug Administration, was in connection with the present campaign against drug dependence under the Dangerous Drugs Act of 1972. He explained that allowing the distribution of free samples of dangerous drugs, if continued, would adversely affect the government drive.

PRICE CONTROL Council announced a 12 per cent increase in the price of the poultry and livestock feeds effective April 10. Secretary of Trade and Tourism Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., who is concurrently PCC chairman, explained this meant an average increase of P4 per bag of feeds. The old price average was P33 per bag. Mr. Quiazon said the price increase was necessary to bail out the feed milling industry which has been hard-pressed by a worldwide shortage of feed ingredients. He added that even with the increase, the feed millers will expect to incur losses totalling P28 million which would in effect wipe out the industry's profit for the past three years. The DTT secretary explained that the prices of imported feed ingredients had gone up considerably. Soybean meal went up by 184 per cent, meat and bone meal by 172 per cent, fish meal by 196 per cent and corn by 80 per cent.

ARMED FORCES issued a clarification on the registration of 20-year-old male citizens for military training which terminated last April 7, to allay fears of parents that their sons will be drafted into the regular military service after their training. AFP officials stated that the registration of 20-year-olds for military training is an annual requirement as provided by the National Defense Act and is not prompted by an emergency need of the military. The AFP disclosed that many ROTC cadets voluntarily presented themselves for military training during the last registration. The AFP also pointed out there are enough volunteers for enlistment in the military service and that the candidates for regular enlistment are only those in the 21-25 age group with college degrees.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the drafting of a final government stand regarding a tax policy on private educational institutions in consonance with an amendment in the new Constitution that deleted tax exemptions on real property used for educational purposes. The Chief Executive issued the order to Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata, Secretary of Education and Culture Juan Manuel, Director General Gerardo Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA), Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera, Presidential Assistant Guillermo de Vega and Director Angel Q. Yoinco, of the National Tax Research Center. In the present Constitution, however, the tax exemption privilege for such real property devoted to educational purposes was removed and only those exclusively and directly used for cultural and charitable purposes are now exempted from taxes. It was for this reason that private education groups sought exemption for educational institutions from the operation of this constitutional provision.

CENTRAL BANK'S Monetary Board approved guidelines that will promote bank mergers or consolidations. CB Governor Gregorio S. Licaros, who is also concurrently chairman of the MB, said the guidelines principally affect the total resources of the entire banking system, the increase in minimum paid-in capital of banks, and the equity by foreign banks in local banking institutions. The guidelines provide that the paid-up capital base of the private sector of the commercial banking system should aggregate at least P3 billion within the next three years. To promote stability, existing banks would need a minimum of P100 million paid-in capital each within two years. Commercial banks and/or groups should submit within six months their respective programs by which they would achieve the minimum P100 million capital requirements. Should the aggregate of the banks' viable capitalization programs submitted within six months be inadequate, the Central Bank shall fill the gap by entertaining applications for, and encouraging the establishment of, new banks with at least P100 million paid-in capital, until the total P3 billion paid-in capital target is reached.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile has enjoined the country's youth to involve themselves in national development and to follow the inspiration and guidance of the 1972 Ten Outstanding Young Men awardees during the recent awarding ceremonies of the prestigious annual research. The defense secretary said that the group of awardees exemplifies "the inquiring mind that is forever in search for scientific and moral truth, the rectitude of character that climbs the barriers of corruption, improbity and selfish opportunism and the courage to do what is right before God, fellowman and country."

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE reported that revenue collections under Martial Law—from November, 1972, to March, 1973—totalled P1.7 billion, or an increase of more than 94 per cent over the collections made in the same period during the previous fiscal years. BIR Commissioner Misael P. Vera said that the total collections amounted to P1 717 373,757.37 while the collections for the same five-month period during fiscal year 1971-1972 totalled only P823,639,074.49. The BIR commissioner also reported that the following fund contributions from the gross collections: net to local government—P1,072,183,551.09; allotments to local governments—P348,783,799.22; and various special funds—P180,579,079.87. The tax information division also reported that another P5,561,533.94 in collections under the tax amnesty had been tabulated as of 6:00 p.m. of April 11. This brought the total collections to P536,460,934.32 which were paid by 136,842 filers accounting for 97 per cent of the completed collections from national and regional offices.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad declared that the government needs the initiatives of the private sector in its efforts to solve the problems and burdens of peace. The secretary said that such cooperative endeavors are now evident in the Philippines where the government and the people joined hands fully "to attack basic social and economic problems that had long bound them along with the great masses of the peoples of Asia and Africa, in poverty, illiteracy, malnutrition and disease." The secretary said it is appropriate that as war and destruction begin to lift from the face of Asia, representatives of Jaycees International (JCI) should meet in Quezon City to discuss certain problems that continue to exist with the emergence of peace. Mr. Tatad said that in a world where government is primarily the custodian of a people's aspirations and interest, it is the government's duty to gather together the most beneficent qualities that grow out of contemporary societies in order to create a new prototype.

COMMISSION ON IMMIGRATION and Deportation has noted an enthusiastic response by foreign tourists to the administration's relaxed rules on tourism following the approval of the no-visa visit of two tourist groups made up of 37 Chinese nationals. Immigration Commissioner Edmundo M. Reyes said that the two Chinese groups were approved for entry under the auspices of Butterfield and Swire and Travel Advisers, Ltd., two prestigious tour agencies in Hongkong. The approval of the visits, according to the immigration commissioner, is pursuant to the administration's policy to attract more tourists through relaxed visa requirements brought about by the changed peace and order condition in the country due to the imposition of Martial Law.

CIVIL SERVICE Commission has announced the schedules of examinations in May and June for doctors, nurses, therapists and dietitians. Examinations are as follows: 1) Physician examination for the practice of medicine will be given on June 1, 4, 6 and 8. Applicants must file their applications with the office of the Board of Examiners not later than May 22. 2) Nurse examination for the practice of nursing will be given on May 21-25. Deadline for applications is May 11. 3) The first physical therapist and occupational therapist examinations will be given on June 2 and 9, respectively. Deadlines for applications are May 3 and 10, respectively. 4) Dietitian examination will be given on May 2, 4 and 7. Deadline for applications is April 23. All application must be filed with the office of the Board of Examiners located at P. Paredes-Nicanor Reyes Sr. Sts., Sampaloc, Manila.

President's Week in Review: April 13-19, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 13—

THE PRESIDENT assured the country's inventors of a "new deal" that will extend them organizational and financial assistance—from both the government and the private sector—in the production and marketing of their worthwhile inventions. The Chief Executive, therefore, directed all government financing institutions and the private sector to immediately formulate a more intelligent and liberal policy to provide easy and reasonable credit to inventors. Speaking at the Maharlika Hall in Malacañang during the awarding ceremonies capping the celebration of Filipino Inventors' Week, the President announced the blueprint providing fund support and incentives to inventors, whom he emphasized should be bailed out from the seeming apathy and neglect. The President enjoined the Filipino Inventors Society and the National Science Development Board to bring to his attention any government financing institution disregarding his order. The President said easier credit for inventors is also in consonance with the New Society's aim to create a strong middle class which will not only be able to earn its living but to create and produce enough so that it can foster greater growth in the country.

THE FIRST LADY lauded the launching of the "Alay Lakad 73" as the beginning of a fine partnership between the government and the private sector for the cause of the country's underprivileged youth. The "Alay Lakad '73" is sponsored by the Philippine Jaycees with the support of other government and private entities. Speaking at the kick-off ceremony of the project at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the First Lady declared that the campaign reaffirms the government's commitment to the less privileged youths' emancipation from poverty, indifference and ignorance and "his emergence as the new Filipino—strong in spirit, rich in ideals and staunch in heart." She appealed to all concerned to help the government in its effort to improve the lot of the less fortunate Filipino youth and assured that she and the President will do their share in behalf of the less privileged members of society.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said the new graduates must gear their idealism and moral purpose in evolving a New Society. The secretary told the graduating class of the Philippine Women's University that the government expects the youth to help imbue in their respective communities and the nation "a strong ethical sentiment and a serious moral purpose." The secretary said that the basis of the highest type of genius is "the unity of thought and action: the ability to be thinker and doer at the same time." He declared that the idealism of the contemporary leaders in the Philippines is also "unfailing practical and pragmatic." Mr. Tatad said that forming a New Society involves a medium of personal sacrifice, obedience to the law and the much deeper unity of sharing the work and responsibility which living in a community entails, so that the comfort, health, welfare and security of those who live in the community are ensured.

THE PRESIDENT assured that every peso paid in taxes will be spent in infrastructure projects, social services and investments that will bring about the country's growth and development. In stressing this point at the nationwide radio-tv program, "Pulong-pulong sa Kaunlaran", the Chief Executive said, "we want taxes to become the direct expression of our collective will to progress." At the same time, the President called on all Filipinos to file their income tax returns, noting that while government collection of income taxes has been increasing through the years, the number of income tax filers still remains far from ideal.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN Affairs announced that the 29th session of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, held in Geneva, Switzerland, has adopted a resolution declaring and punishing apartheid as a crime against humanity. Foreign Undersecretary Jose D. Ingles, who was elected chairman of the working group that drafted the convention on suppression and punishment of the crime of apartheid, reported that the resolution is an important contribution to the development of international penal law. The Commission on Human Rights, which adjourned on April 6, adopted 24 resolutions (12 of which require action by the UN Economic and Social Commission). Among these were: 1) A resolution on the question of punishment of war criminals and of persons who have committed crimes against humanity. 2) A resolution on a Decade for Action to Combat Racism and Racial Discrimination. 3) Resolutions on questions of violation of human rights in territories occupied as a result of hostilities in the Middle East. 4) Draft principles relating to equality in administration of justice. 5) A study of discrimination against persons born out of wedlock and non-discrimination in respect to such persons. 6) Realization of economic, social and cultural rights in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

SECRETARY OF FINANCE Cesar E. A. Virata issued the rules and regulations covering the release of internal revenue allotments to local governments, as provided for under Presidential Decree No. 144. The regulations provide for the release in full amounts of the respective shares of the local governments, thereby eliminating the incurrence of deficiencies in allotments commonly experienced under the old procedures. The Bureau of Internal Revenue will now determine the amount of monthly internal revenue allotments of provinces, cities and municipalities. The rules and regulations further provide: 1) That 20 per cent of such collection shall accrue to the local governments to be distributed among provinces, cities and municipalities as follows: 30 per cent to provinces; 45 per cent to municipalities; and 25 per cent to cities. 2) The share of each local government unit shall be apportioned as follows: 70 per cent on the basis of population as shown by the latest official census; 20 per cent in proportion to the land area; and 10 per cent to be apportioned equally among municipalities, cities and provinces. 3) The basis of internal revenue allotments shall be the national internal revenue taxes, not otherwise accruing to special funds and special accounts in the general fund, collected during the third fiscal year preceding the current fiscal year. For fiscal year 1974, 1975 and 1976, the annual allotment of any local government shall not increase by more than 15 per cent nor be decreased by more than 50 per cent of its actual allotment during the fiscal year 1970-1971. Beginning July 1, 1973, the actual collections in the locality will no longer be a factor determining the amounts of internal revenue allotments to be released to each local government unit. Instead, at the end of every month, the treasury field cashiers shall draw check equivalent to the authorized 12 annual allotments as determined by the BIR prior to the beginning of the fiscal year.

CENTRAL BANK announced that the country's international reserve has increased to an unprecedented $462.5 million at the end of the first quarter of the year along with a general improvement in all sectors of the economy. This was reported by Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros to the President in his assessment of the performance of the economy during the first three months of 1973. Mr. Licaros reported that, after the unusual stresses encountered in the first nine months of 1972, the economy started to recover soon after Martial Law was proclaimed and continued to improve considerably through January-March, 1973. During the period under review, the CB governor also noted the strong performance of the external sector while developments in the monetary and fiscal sectors resulted in the growth of domestic credits of the monetary system and the improvement in the cash position of the national government. There were also indications, he added, of relative stability of domestic prices particularly during the early part of the quarter.

AFP CENTRAL MINDANAO Command has reported that demoralized rebel forces in Cotabato are now sending feelers to the Government for possible surrender under the extended amnesty decree for outlaws in Mindanao (Presidential Decree No. 95). This was revealed by Brig. Gen. Fortunato Abat, Cemcom commander, in a report to Brig. Gen. Cicero O. Campos, PC deputy chief of staff for home defense, during the latter's three-day survey of peace and order conditions in the insurgent-infested areas in Mindanao. Gen. Abat said that the insurgents in Cotabato are now surrounded in one area by military forces, adding that their proposed surrender is now the subject of a series of conferences between military officers and Cotabato Muslim leaders. The Cemcom commander also revealed that the rebels, after being driven to the hills by military forces with the determined support of civilian home defense units, "now realize that they cannot even win the sympathy of the civilian populace."

NATIONAL MANPOWER and Youth Council has announced the recruitment of trainees for the second basic pre-employment course at the National Manpower Skills Center in Fort Bonifacio, Rizal. Entrance examination will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. daily from June 4 to June 8. Out-of-school youth and unemployed adults who are 17 years old and above and who have at least finished high school are qualified to take the test. The basic pre-employment course, which will start in July, will train some unemployed young adults in machine-fitting, automotive mechanics, electronics, and electricity to prepare them for created employment. Training will be conducted for the first six to ten months in the center followed by another two to eight months on-the-job training in selected industries where trainees may be employed after the training period.

THE PRESIDENT said the Government will soon embark on the pioneer production of small aircrafts to compliment the program to modernize strategically-situated airports in various points of the country. The President spelled this out during the inauguration of the extended airport runway in Bacolod City. The improved runway is one of the first projects completed in the Government's crash program to modernize and energize domestic aviation. In a speech read for him by Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications Secretary David M. Consunji, the President lauded the people and city officials of Bacolod for taking the initiative in modernizing its airport facilities. Aside from extending the runway to accommodate bigger planes the project also involved the completion of an aerodrome tower.

The President said that the production of small or light aircraft will be undertaken by the Philippine Air Force.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said the Philippine experiment in Martial Law is an example for the world because it involved the restructuring and relocation of responsibilities and privileges "without the terrible cost and waste of bloodshed and violence." Speaking at the commencement exercises of the Bicol University in Legaspi City, where he was conferred the degree of humanities honoris causa, the secretary noted that in other countries where governments use extraordinary powers to deal with vested groups and fanatical ideologies, the restructuring of society is accomplished at the cost of terrible anguish to the people. But in the Philippines, Secretary Tatad said, the government set an example, not of brutality and repression but of humanity, clemency and accommodation.

THE PRESIDENT has approved the recommendation of the secretary of national defense to maintain the old price ceiling of P1.25 per lineal foot for the common 31 gauge GI sheets being used for roofing by low-income groups. Secretary of National Defense Juan Ponce Enrile also announced that the new price ceiling gauge of 26 GI sheets at P2.30 per lineal foot shall take effect on April 16. The new price gauge 26 GI sheets shall be the old price ceiling prescribed by the local control council, plus P.45 per lineal foot, outside the Greater Manila Area. The President, on recommendation of the Steel Committee, has earlier approved the price increase of gauge 26 GI sheets to help the steel rollers and galvanizers from incurring big losses in view of the increase in the price of steel raw materials and other base metal used for galvanizing.

CENTRAL BANK'S Monetary Board approved a credit system to be known as "money shops" for the benefit of the average Filipino consumer. A brainchild of the Philippine Commercial and Industrial Bank, the novel credit system was approved by the Monetary Board because it will provide credit to the grassroots level and to as wide a base as possible with benefits to the average Filipino consumer. The "PCI Bank's Money Shops" will be established in large public markets offering working capital or inventory financing to stallholders up to a maximum of P10,000. For this pioneering effort, the MB gave PCIB preemptive rights to establish the "money shops" for a period of six months, after which other banks may follow suit.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 174 extending the tax amnesty to May 31, specifically for taxpayers residing abroad and in six Mindanao provinces and Isabela. The decree grants amnesty on persons who may declare their hidden wealth or untaxed income up to May 31 because of their earlier failure to avail themselves of the amnesty "due to fortuitous events such as unstable peace and order conditions." The Mindanao provinces covered by the new decree included Zamboanga del Norte, Zamboanga del Sur, Lanao del Norte, Lanao del Sur, Cotabato and South Cotabato. The decree further covers residents of the cities of Basilan, Zamboanga, Pagadian, Dipolog, Cotabato, Gen. Santos, Iligan and Marawi.

THE PHILIPPINES will acquaint the foreign ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) with the real facts in Mindanao during the forthcoming ministerial meeting in Pattaya, Thailand. In a statement before his departure for Thailand, Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo said that he would also express the concern of the Philippine government over the interference of certain foreign countries to encourage secessionist tendencies in the Muslim areas. Mr. Romulo said that he would explain to the 10 nation conference both the short-term reconstruction programs and long-term development projects of the Philippine government to bring the benefits of progress to the entire Muslim populace of Mindanao.

GENERAL IMPORTS Ltd., a worldwide shoe-importing enterprise, has allocated $50 million for the import of Philippine-made shoes over a four year period. The commitment was made to the President by David Graves and Joel Glasman, president and chairman, respectively, of the board of governors of Genesco Imports Ltd., during a call at Malacañang. The shoe import executives told the President that after making a survey and finding investments climates in the Philippines very favorable, they have decided to make the Philippines their base of operation in Asia. The shoe import executives said Genesco has programmed some $50 million for imports from the Philippines and has already purchased an initial shipment worth P300,000.

BUREAU OF CENSUS and Statistics listed Rizal, Cebu, Negros Occidental, Manila and Cotabato as the five most populated provinces and city in the country. The statistics also projected the population will hit the 50-million mark by 1980. The list of the 12 most populated places in the country and their present population are as follows: Rizal—3,429,616; Cebu—1,758,212; Negros Occidental—1,562,235; Pangasinan—1,481,341; Cotabato—1,286,425; Iloilo—1,247,656; Leyte—1,146,559; Zamboanga del Sur—1,145,657; Quezon—1,105,978; Batangas—1,023,466; and Pampanga—1,012,864. The BCS projected a revised list for 1980 though Rizal, Cebu Manila and Negros Occidental will still be in the five most populous. The projection showed that Rizal will have 5,209,715 residents; Cebu—2,063,065; Manila—1,743,522; Pangasinan—1,711,078; Negros Occidental—1,696,266; Cotabato—1,690,679; Iloilo—1,444,494; Zamboanga del Sur—1,429,772; Quezon—1,427,869; Pampanga—1,288,882; Batangas—1,278,962; and Leyte—1,225,730.

NATIONAL GRAINS Authority has directed all restaurant owners in the country to help in the nationwide rice conservation campaign. Statistics of the Directorate for Grains Economics of the NGA showed that a total of 23,500 sacks of rice is being wasted daily, costing the country P475 million a year. Mr. Tanchanco asked restaurant owners to submit a written report of the rice conservation efforts every three months.

THE PRESIDENT was informed by a group of local and foreign business executives that their companies will undertake the $50-million development of the Export Processing Zone Authority in Bataan. The project according to the business executives will be financed by a $50-million loan from the First National City Bank of New York under a semi-concessional term, which is one of the largest single financial assistance to the Philippines by a single overseas bank since the Proclamation of Martial Law. They told the President that the FNCB New York will give a $25-million loan to the Philippine Government project within the EPZA and another $25-million to the Landoil Resources Corporation for the putting up of a housing and community complex around the zone for some 40,000 zone workers.

THE PRESIDENT expanded the apprenticeship program in preparation for the expected increase in the labor demands of the country's growing industries. He spelled out the new labor scheme in Presidential Decree No. 173 which amended Republic Act 1826, otherwise known as the National Apprenticeship Act, preparatory to becoming full-pledge employees. The new decree: 1) Eliminated the requirement that any candidate for apprenticeship be at high school graduate. It provided that even non-high school graduates may now apply for apprenticeship. 2) Gave the secretary of labor the discretion to lower the statutory apprenticeship wage set at 75 per cent of the minimum wage, provided the employer requesting for the lower rate submits exemplary conditions supporting his stand, and the rate is not lower than 50 per cent of the minimum wage. 3) Provided for three training schemes for apprentices. 4) Empowered the President to order the employer's establishment of apprentices for any job or occupation which may be needed because of a national emergency or for national development. 5) Creation of a Bureau of Apprenticeship pursuant to the integrated reorganization plan.

MORE FARMERS in settlements and landed estates will soon be using tractors and irrigation pumps to boost farm productivity, the Department of Agrarian Reform reported. In a memorandum to all regional directors, DAR Secretary Conrado F. Estrella said appropriations for the purchase of farm tractors and irrigation pumps have already been earmarked. Secretary Estrella also advised farmers to consolidate their requirements and organize themselves into groups so that they could avail themselves of the DAR assistance. Under the agrarian reform program implementation plan, infrastructure and land consolidation projects such as dams, pumps, canals, roads, and bridges will be given top priority in the development scheme.

THE PRESIDENT has approved a plan to convert the Greater Manila Food Terminal Market Inc. into an agro-industrial-commercial complex which will operate under a regional concept of supply and outlet. Development Bank of the Philippines Chairman Leonides S. Virata and GMTFM President Jose D. Drilon Jr. have earlier made the proposal to the Chief Executive. The two officials specifically proposed to turn the 120-hectare GMTFM establishment into a multi-purpose site. The GMTFM, which is at present engaged only in marketing commodities (mostly agriculture produce), will be developed with the view of easing the financial burden of the DBP and the GMTFM regarding the terminal's operations.

SECRETARY OF FINANCE Cesar E. A. Virata said that the heavy turnout of income tax filers indicates the growing tax consciousness of the people. The finance secretary made this assessment even as he assured that the increased tax revenue would be used for financing more development and social projects. The secretary also met with tax experts of the government to finalize proposed amendments to the National Internal Revenue Code for submission to the President. Some important matters discussed during the meeting included uniform rates of taxes on franchise, corporation taxes, tax treatment of private educational institutions, income tax of public utilities and the lowering of taxes on locally manufactured items.

April 16—

THE PRESIDENT has organized a land reform council to further hasten the transfer of land ownership to tenant-farmers. The council, with the President himself as chairman, is also aimed at protecting the present system of small land ownership that has developed over the years through thrift of the small workers who put their savings in land. With the creation of the Land Reform Council, the President intends to resolve faster whatever problems are still existing concerning the implementation of the land reform program.

BUREAU OF LANDS announced that its regional oilier throughout the country have been authorized to approve survey maps and plans. The directive took effect April 4. Licensed private geodetic engineers may also submit to the regional land officers all isolation surveys for the necessary verification and approval. Acting Director Ramon S. Casanova listed the following lands offices authorized to approve survey maps: Region I—San Fernando, La Union; Region II—Tuguegarao, Cagayan; Region III—San Fernando, Pampanga; Region IV—Manila; Region V—Legaspi City; Region VI—Iloilo City; Region VII—Cebu City; Region VIII—Tacloban City; Region IX—Zamboanga City; Region X—Cagayan de Oro City and Region XI—Davao City.

THE PRESIDENT called on the country's unresponsive leaders and bureaucrats to reform themselves, reexamine their values and gear their efforts to conform to the goals of the New Society. In a speech read for him by Philippine National Bank Director Renato Tayag during the 55th anniversary and reunion of the Upsilon Sigma Phi Fraternity of the University of the Philippines at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, the Chief Executive said these unresponsive leaders may have interest identified and vitally tied up with the corruption, the "palakasan system", the injustices and the excesses of the old order. The Chief Executive added that he is giving these people enough time to mend their ways and to commit themselves to the new program of the government.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 175, granting cooperatives the rights and privileges enjoyed by business organizations, including the operation of enterprises and rural banks. The decree also provides for a cooperative development loan fund and the extension of preferential rights to cooperatives in the supply of prime commodities like cereals and agricultural products to government agencies. The decree is envisioned to strengthen the cooperative movement to effect an increase in the income and purchasing power of the low income sector of the population, thereby attaining the administration's goal for the equitable distribution of the country's wealth.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said the Government does not intend to transform the people into automatons. Mr. Tatad made the statement to allay fears that the call for the immersion of the individuals in the building of the nation may rob the people of their individuality and transform them into robots or automatons. Speaking during the 23rd commencement exercises at the University of Baguio, the information secretary said that, although the Government seeks to inculcate discipline it does not seek to have a society where individual initiative is discouraged. He stressed that it is the wealth of the spirit that creates equality of life.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN Affairs has warned Filipinos seeking foreign employment of the illegal operations of job placement agencies based in the United Kingdom and the United States. The DFA said the Philippine Embassy in London was apprised by the British foreign office of the inadvisability of remitting money to the agencies by Filipino job seekers. The Philippine London embassy reported having received numerous letters from Filipino job seekers regarding the reliability of certain job placement agencies in UK which assure “summer employment” and placement assistance. The DFA said such “assistance” usually rendered is merely a list of jobs and perhaps hints about application procedures, which are virtually useless.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue has so far collected P639,976,309 through tax amnesty decrees as of 6 p.m. of April 16, according to internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera. The latest figures showed that 137,579 individuals and corporate income taxpayers have availed of the provisions of Presidential Decree No. 23 granting a 10 per cent amnesty on previously undeclared income or wealth, while 24,402 have so far availed themselves of Presidential Decree No. 157 granting the same immunities and benefits afforded to taxpayers for taxable year 1972 who availed of Presidential Decree No. 23.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE reiterated the Government’s policy to protect local manufacturers from injurious competition posed by imported items, when it reaffirmed a previous decision imposing a dumping duty on Japanese electrical resistance welded pipes. The department’s action followed a motion for reconsideration filed by the P. I. Hardware and Mill Supply in connection with a decision of Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata imposing a dumping duty on the imported pipes. In denying the motion for reconsideration, Secretary Virata said there are no new justifiable reasons to warrant the modification of or departure from the decision in Dumping Case No. 70-3. According to an investigation conducted by the Tariff Commission, locally manufactured welded pipes can serve the same purposes as the electric resistance welded steel pipes imported from Japan.

YOUTH VOLUNTEERS who will go to the countryside for their summer civic action workcamps will initially concern themselves with the beautification, health and sanitation, reforestation, literacy and citizenship training and environmental planning. This was announced by the Department of Education and Culture and the National Youth Volunteer Coordinating Center for National Development with the issuance of guidelines and outlines of programs for the summer workcamps. The first wave of Youth Civic Action Program participants will get their assignments from local youth centers which will be established in every school that will determine the respective areas for the participating students. The civic action program will focus on the adopt-barrio-concept wherein each school youth center pick a particular barrio or area to develop.

DANGEROUS DRUGS Board announced the guidelines in the procurement and purchase of dangerous drugs. The following procedures must be followed: 1) File application form with the DDB 2) Attach the following to application form; a) Copy of registration certificate issued by the board of medical examiner or in the lieu thereof the official receipt of the registrar or certificate, b) Copy of opium license. c) Privilege receipt to practice under the dangerous drug. Prescription forms may be obtained at the DDB office at the Bureau of Quarantine, Port Area, or at the different regional health offices under the Department of Health.

April 18—

THE PRESIDENT said he may issue a presidential decree providing for the creation of new departments under the Government’s reorganization plan to ease the functions of oversized governmental entities. The President made the announcement after he embarked from the RPS Ang Pangulo at the Philippine Navy base in Poro Point, San Fernando, La Union. The President said he is presently studying the creation of additional departments on tourism, public highways, industry, natural resources and housing settlement. The new departments are considered vital in the administration’s program to develop the nation’s economy.

THE FIRST LADY congratulated city officials and residents of Baguio City for the successful cleanliness and beautification campaign in the city that has impressed the First Lady. She observed that the last time she and the President were in the Pines City some three weeks ago, they were disappointed over the lack of improvement in Baguio despite the general cleaning and beautification activities all over the country. As a result, the President instructed former Rep. Jose D. Aspiras, now a presidential trouble-shooter, to stay behind to oversee the implementation of the beautification drive. After the First Couple enplaned for Manila, Mr. Aspiras met with Baguio City Mayor Luis Lardizabal and other city officials, barrio captains and representatives of local civic organizations. In a short while, streets and sidewalks were scrubbed, fences and lamp posts painted and flower pots dotted the city.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC HIGHWAYS reported its accomplishments since the imposition of Martial Law, including the construction of 24,327 kilometers of roads and 35,541 meters of bridges all over the country. Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino said the BPH has completed 48 kilometers of concrete roads and 50 meters of permanent bridges in Central Luzon and Metropolitan Manila after the devastating floods last year. The highways bureau has also repaired 11 kms. of concrete roads, 1,354 kms. of asphalt roads, 1,082 kms. of gravel roads and 3,173 meters of bridges in Central Luzon and the Greater Manila area. From Sept. 30, 1972, to Feb. 28, 1973, the BPH also reported that it has accelerated work on the Japan-Philippine Highway where 189 kilometers were paved, 183 kms. were concreted and six kms. asphalted. Massive road and bridge repair works were launched by the BPH floods had inundated the majority of the country's highways and bridges.

OPERATION PALAGAD '73, the second rice crops program ending this month, has improved the credit extension system with more rural banks participating in rice production efforts, according to the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources. DANR Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. said that a total of P24 million has already been released to rural bank in Central Luzon, Laguna and Rizal. Secretary Tanco added that the credit extension system will be streamlined further for the national Masagana 99 production program starting May. The production-marketing tie-up phase of the Palagad program began in the middle of April when farmer-cooperators involved were expected to start depositing their harvests to the National Grains Authority warehouses. Each cooperating farmer will be guaranteed a minimum price support of P25 per cavan of palay produced and sold under this program. Next month, farmers who participated in this program will receive the payments for their produce after the warehousemen have deducted their loans from the rural banks. They will thus be eligible again for another loan.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC Highways will embark on a roadside beautification drive along national highways to further boost the tourism program of the Government. Code named "Operation Complete Highway", the plan involved the building of roadside parks, complete with all the essential facilities that would bring comfort to travelers like rest rooms, refreshment stands and gasoline stations. Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino said that flower boxes with a distance of 2 and 1/2 meters in between will take the place of guardrails on both sides of the highway especially on approaches to permanent bridges to avoid road erosion. In the meantime, Commissioner Aquino directed all district engineers to submit a list of local potential tourist spots that could be developed also for inclusion in the program for fiscal year 1973-1974.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT Administration has collected a total of P4.4 million last March—the highest amount collected by ACA in many years. The agency's collection last month surpassed by P2,002,120, or 85 per cent the figures for the same month last year which was P2,363,261. From September 23 to February, the ACA also registered substantial increases in its collection.

THE PHILIPPINES has increased its exports to Canada by 91 per cent thus reducing the trade imbalance with that country by 47.25 per cent. This was contained in an official report submitted to the President by the Department of Trade and Tourism. The DTT report said Philippine exports to Canada amounted to $11.85 million in 1972 from $6.2 million the previous year. Because of this increase, Philippine trade imbalance with Canada was reduced from $33.1 million to $17.46 million last year.

BUREAU OF FOREST Development officials and employees were ordered to refrain from frequenting amusement centers like night clubs, classy restaurants, cockpits, race tracks and other places of gambling. The order, issued by BFD Director Jose Viado, also warned the same officials and employees that they will be dealt with severely if found fraternizing with loggers and other forest users. Director Viado said any one found violating the order will be dismissed from the service. His action was spurred by the President's disclosure of a report on the alleged extortion activities of certain forestry officials in Surigao del Sur and Davao del Norte. The President ordered the arrest and detention of the suspects.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS of the Civil Service Commission announced that the board examination for dietitians has been reset to May 26, 29 and 31. Acting Civil Service Commissioner Epi Rey Pangramuyen said the dietitian examination, originally set for May 2, 4 and 7, was re-scheduled on the request of the Department of Public Information.

April 19—

REVAMP OF THE GOVERNMENT, along the lines of the parliamentary concept, will be pushed through by the next fiscal year through the adoption of “staffing patterns.” The staffing patterns, approved by the Cabinet during its last meeting in Malacañang, determine who of the personnel should be retained or laid off. The overriding factors in the preparation of the patterns are the best interests of the service, streamlining of functions and conformity with the change in the form of Government. The staffing patterns were worked out by the respective heads of the executive departments with officials of the WAPCO, Civil Service and the Reorganization Commission.

THE PRESIDENT approved in principle a three-phase Mass Transit Rail System for Metro Manila as a way of easing the chronic commuter problem. With the growing demand for cheap transportation, the plan, proposed by the Philippine National Railway, contemplates sprawling network of railway for the populous Greater Manila metropolis. Acting PNR General Manager Nicanor T. Jimenez recommended the more ambitious rail transit program because of the favorable public response to the railroad’s commuter service. Under Phase I, some 12,500 passengers will be accommodated daily. The outlay is P2.18 million and the schedule of implementation encompasses the period between December 1972 and December 1973. As for the Phase II, a daily PNR capacity of 25,000 passengers will be handled, with an investment of $3.95 million and P8.21 million. Schedule of implementation—December 1973 to June 1974. Phase II involves the daily transport of 50,000 to 150,000 passengers. The fund requirements for the project run up to $20.3 million and P60 million. Schedule of implementation—June 1974 to December 1977.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT’S general fund registered an operating surplus of P185,462.92 in March, 1973. This was announced by Secretary of finance Cesar E.A. Virata, who also revealed that the cumulative surplus from July 1, 1972 to March 31, 1973 amounted to P424,858,742. The operating surplus represented the excess of the general fund cash receipts over the general fund cash disbursements. In other words the cash receipts were much bigger than the cash disbursements during the period referred to. The beginning cash balance of the general fund in the Bureau of Treasury as of March 31, 1973 amounted to P1,114,999,773.

THE PRESIDENT expressed his desire to renegotiate the whole range of Philippine relations with the United States in one sitting. In an interview with Manila newsmen in Baguio City, the President stated that the renegotiations are demanded by fast-changing developments, not only in Asia, but in the whole world. He said that in-depth studies are now being undertaken on the matter. The Philippines has several treaties with the United States, among them the military base agreement, the Mutual Defense Act and the Laurel-Langley Agreement. The Chief Executive said that the Philippines and the United States may also include in the renegotiation exploratory talks on the extradition treaty between the two countries.

NATIONAL FOOD and Agricultural Council revealed there are about eight million undernourished children of the one-to-four-year old bracket in the country today. Alarmed by these findings, Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources and concurrently chairman of the NFAC, convened some 60 heads of various government agencies and representatives of private and international groups to find ways and means of curbing or minimizing malnutrition. The conference’s main objective was the establishment of an effective implementing program and closer coordination between the agencies involved in the nutrition development.

THE PRESIDENT took up anew with local officials the water shortage problem of Baguio City. In a conference with Benguet Gov. Ben Palispis, Baguio City Mayor Luis Lardizabal and Bureau of Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera, the Chief Executive directed that a study and the drafting of plans be made to solve the perennial problem once and for all. At the same time, the President ordered an investigation of complaints that mining firms in the province of Benguet have been drawing water from the mountains, particularly Mt. Sto. Tomas, which is the watershed of the city. The President received reports that the Benguet Exploration and Black Mountain mining operations not only prejudiced the water supply but also caused the pollution of the river which goes all the way to the lowlands. He stressed the urgency of solving the water problem which residents and thousands of vacationists experienced every summer in the summer capital.

President's Week in Review: April 20-26, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 20—

THE PRESIDENT has directed the immediate implementation of a provision in the new Constitution requiring educational institutions to be solely owned by Philippine citizens or Filipino-controlled corporations to effect the desired changes and reforms in the country's educational system. The President's order was contained in Presidential Decree No. 176. Aside from the requirement that all educational institutions be vested in the citizens of the country, the presidential decree also provides that membership in the governing bodies or boards of such educational institutions shall be limited to Filipino citizens. Henceforth, no educational institution shall be established exclusively for aliens, nor shall any school offer any curriculum exclusively for aliens. The enrolment of aliens in any school is limited to not more than one-third of the total enrolment therein. Full compliance with this requirement in any school shall be effected not later than the beginning of the schoolyear 1976-1977. These provisions, however, shall not apply to schools established for foreign diplomatic personnel and their dependents and, unless otherwise provided by law, for other foreign temporary residents.

FRUIT TREES and bamboo plants are exempt from real property taxes unless they are grown principally for commercial purposes. This clarification was issued by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata following reports that landowners are planning to cut down trees grown in their lands because all fruit trees will be subject to taxation under Presidential Decree No. 76. Secretary Virata stressed that fruit trees and bamboo plants not grown for commercial purposes are not subject to real property tax under the old law or even under Presidential Decree No. 76.

THE PRESIDENT initiated a massive tree-farming program to prevent soil erosion and floods, and pinpointed the watershed areas of Ambuklao and Binga as pilot projects in the nationwide reforestation campaign. The President made this move after expressing grave concern over reports that the water level in the hydro-electric power projects in Northern Luzon has been going down and might trigger power problems as far south as Greater Manila. In a conference with forestry officials, Northern Luzon governors and officials at the Mansion House in Baguio City, the President stressed the necessity of the tree-farming program because of the continuous deforestation of the country's forest due to unscrupulous logging and kaingin. He called on the people to coordinate in this massive tree-farming program.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of P2 million for the improvement of the water system of Baguio City, following reports of a serious water shortage in the country's summer capital. The President made the order of release to the city government with the condition that it will turn over one-half of the amount to the National Power Corporation in partial settlement of its electric power and light bills. The President assured the Baguio City officials that the national government is interested in their problems and that the release of P2 million should help improve the city's water and sewerage system.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue officials and men who divulge trade secrets will be penalized by an imprisonment of not less than six months nor more than five years or both or a fine of not more than P5,000. This warning has been issued by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata as he called the attention of all BIR officials and men to Section 347 of the National Internal Revenue Code as amended by Presidential Decree No. 69. "Trade secrets" are spelled out as information regarding the business, income, or inheritance of any taxpayer, the secret operation, style of work, or apparatus of any manufacturer or producer, or confidential information regarding the business of any taxpayer.

PLANT AND SOIL experts have discovered that the use of potassium in lowland rice production has yielded excellent results in terms of soil fertilization. This new boost to rice production was underscored by the Bureau of Plant Industry. The seminar was held in San Agustin, Pili, Camarines Sur. Dr. S. K. de Datta, agronomist of the International Rice Research Institute, reported the dramatic response of high-yielding rice varieties to potassium fertilization in cooperative experiments conducted in various BPI stations. Dr. de Datta added that in areas where continuous rice cropping is done, the application of complete fertilizers (NPK) is needed to sustain high yield grains.

THE PRESIDENT has formulated plans to revitalize the country's tobacco and coconut industries in a move to boost their dollar earning capabilities. In two separate moves, the Chief Executive directed the Philippine Tobacco Administration to immediately draw up its program for the purchase of native leaf tobacco starting next month and created a three-man ad hoc committee to pave the groundwork for the consolidation of the country's coconut agencies into one body. The President's directive to the PTA is aimed at stabilizing the prices of native tobacco leaf to protect farmers from the fluctuations in domestic prices of the commodity. The ad hoc committee on the other hand was directed to study the mechanics of stabilizing a consolidated Philippine coconut administration which is calculated to revitalize the country's top foreign earner. It has been noted that proliferation of coconut agencies with overlapping functions has done more harm than good to the industry.

THE GOVERNMENT has now collected a total of P750,059,700 from five tax amnesties, according to the Department of Finance. The figure is contained in the latest report on revenue collections submitted to Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs. Topping the collections were tax amnesty on previously untaxed income or wealth which amounted to P538,316,327. This amount was paid by 137,579 individuals and corporations who took advantage of the amnesty. Collection from another tax amnesty (Presidential Decree No. 157 which provides amnesty of income for the taxable year 1972) have now reached P172,102,426. The Bureau of Customs on the other hand, collected P19,429,295 from previously untaxed or improperly taxed motor vehicles. The Government also collected P6,852,290 from previously untaxed or improperly taxed goods in commercial quantities. The tax amnesty on contested assessments netted the Government P13,359,360.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue issued several clarifications in the interpretation of the new Internal Revenue Code. These are: 1) A person who is both a certified public accountant (CPA) and lawyer is subject to two fixed taxes if he is engaged in the practice of both profession. 2) A public utility operating under a legislative franchise is not subject to income tax under Presidential Decree No. 69. 3) Quarterly returns are actually intended to reflect correct figures although a percentage leeway for errors is provided for. Inventories must be actual, not estimated. 4) The two per cent common carrier's tax is based on gross receipts. The taxable gross receipts cannot include the two per cent tax itself or any other tax paid by the carrier. All common carriers are subject to Income tax. 5) Claims for representation expenses must be justified and only taxpayers whose work requires representation can claim for such expenses. However, representation expenses not exceeding P1,000 or 5 per cent of taxpayer's gross income whichever is lesser need not be justified. 6) The tax on foreign income, of non-resident citizens is based on gross and on business, the basis is on net computed in accordance with the provisions of Title II. 7) The conversion rate of the foreign income of non-resident citizens for 1972 is P6.70. 8) The interest income of foreign companies from money market placements of temporarily idle funds is subject to percentage tax.

THE PRESIDENT appointed nine officials for three examining boards and one director for the Export Processing Zone Authority. The three examiners boards were the board of examiners for social welfare, the Philippine Licensing Board for contractors, and the Board of Examiners for Geology. The new appointees were: 1) For the board of examiners for social welfare: Guillerma L. Batto, chairman; Mrs. Editha G. Mar-tillano, Miss Teresita L. Silva, and Sister Amelina Villegas, members. 2) For the Philippine Licensing Board for Contractors: Eduardo Escobar, senior member, promoted to chairman of the board; Quintin K. Calderon and Vicente Esguerra Jr., members. 3) For the Board of Examiners for Geology: Oscar A. Crispin and Generoso R. Oca, members. 4) For the Board of Commissioners of the Export Processing Zone Authority: Rolando P. de la Cuesta, member.

THE PRESIDENT directed the Department of Local Governments and Community Development to stop the suspension or dismissal of local officials by provincial governors without his prior approval. The Chief Executive issued the directive in Baguio City after receiving reports that some provincial governors have been suspending municipal officials without corresponding charges being filed against them. In issuing the directive, the President stressed he wanted to prevent possible disruption of essential services in the local government level. He explained that the country cannot afford a breakdown in the administrative machinery at this time when the development programs are being rigorously pursued down to the grassroots level.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE said it expected government revenue to increase further with the automatic abolition of many tax exemption laws by Presidential Decree Nos. 34 and 69. In the past, the Government had lost some P400 million annually because of the proliferation of tax exemption laws granted by Congress. Secretary Virata also said that the National Internal Revenue Code, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 69, abolished the grant of tax exemption on the payment of compensating tax except on the following cases: 1) Those enumerated under Section 190 of the Tax Code; 2) Exemption granted under the Investment Incentives Act, Export Incentives Act and R.A. No. 5490; 3) Those granted in pursuance of or in compliance with international treaties or commitments, such as ADB-RP Host Agreement (1966), the 1947 convention on privileges and immunities of the United Nations and its specialized agencies, the United States Agency for International Development-RP Agreement, the 1947 Military Base Agreement, and other similar treaties or commitments; and 4) Those that may be granted by the President upon recommendation of the NED A in the interest of economic development.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE announced that a bigger share of the Government's tax money will be channeled to accelerate economic and social development projects. The announcement was made as Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata noted with satisfaction the increase of percentage of the national Government's tax effort. Secretary Virata said that emphasis will be placed on farm-to-market roads and projects so that farmers will not meet difficulties in marketing their products and thus increase not only their income but also their purchasing capacity.

EFFECTIVITY of several tax ordinances enacted by local governments, considered unjust, oppressive and contrary to national economic policies, have been suspended by the Department of Finance. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that some tax ordinances passed by various municipalities are clear cases of multiple taxation. Among the suspended tax ordinances were those passed by: 1) A suburban town imposing a graduated fixed license tax on a certain kind of business, the rate of which was 500 per cent higher than those prescribed by adjacent cities and municipalities. 2) A municipality in the South increasing the production tax on a manufacturing firm to as much as 2,000 per cent of the original tax being levied. 3) A municipality in Central Luzon imposing different kinds of taxes on a certain kind of business, which if added together, would amount to a staggering amount.

PHILIPPINE RICE prices have remained the cheapest in the world despite an upward price spiral in the international rice market caused by an acute worldwide rice shortage. National Grains Authority Administrator Jess Tanchanco disclosed that rice prices in the United States, Europe and Asia have increased to more than twice the price of rice in the Philippines. The NGA administrator said that the price of rice in the United States has risen to about $300 per metric ton; in Egypt and Italy, $280 per metric ton; in Thailand, from $150- to $180 per metric ton; and in Pakistan, from $150 to $260 per metric ton. On the other hand, he pointed out, the retail price of rice in the Philippines only from P1.00 to P1.25 per kilo, while in other parts of the world the cost of rice is more than P2.00 per kilo. The worldwide shortage of grains, he added, coupled with the upward price movement in the international market, is expected to add to the cost of rice importations by the Philippines. However, despite this added cost of importations, rice prices in the Philippines will still remain within the price ceiling of P3.00 per ganta set by law, Mr. Tanchanco said.

THE PRESIDENT initiated moves to accelerate the development of the country's marine resources through the establishments of cooperatives among subsistence fishermen and the waging of effective control against destructive fishing. Specifically, the Chief Executive ordered the Bureau of Fisheries to undertake a thorough review of government policies on the preservation and development of marine resources. Receiving reports from Ilocos coasts, Pangasinan and Manila Bays, the President ordered that a restudy be made on the policies concerning fishing in these areas with the objective of encouraging cooperatives among subsistence fishermen and of waging effective control against destructive fishing. The policy on cooperatives is expected to help thousands of small fishermen who can avail themselves of Government financing assistance in groups.

THREE MAJOR resolutions which were filed by the Philippines with the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East have been approved during the 28th ECAFE plenary session in Tokyo. This was reported by Trade and Tourism. Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., head of the 11-man Philippine delegation to the ECAFE meet, who returned from Tokyo. The three approved Philippine proposals were: 1) The creation of an Asian Rice Trade Fund; 2) The restructuring of the over-all objectives, targets and strategies of the ECAFE; and 3) The integration of women in the development process. Secretary Quiazon, who was the first presiding chairman of the plenary session, said the creation of the Asian Rice Trade Fund was one of the most important matters approved at the conference. Membership of the Philippines to the Fund was approved by the President.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 177 providing for increased Social Security System retirement benefits and authorizing the SSS administrator to extend the deadline for the payment of delinquent SSS employers' contributions. The decree also reinstated the previous procedure of extending sickness benefit payment to members only after they have exhausted all their earned sick leaves, and imposed stiffer penalties on violators of provisions of the SSS law. The President issued the decree in response to numerous appeals from employers who have a hard time meeting the deadline set by PD No. 24, condoning the three per cent penalty provided the delinquent employers updated their contributions remittances not later than April 23.

INFORMATION SECRETARY Francisco S. Tatad assured that labor is a high priority of the Government in the form of continuous employment promotion, the implementation of social justice and the maintenance of industrial peace in the field of manpower and labor development. Addressing the First National Congress of the Trade Unions of the Philippines and Allied Services in Quezon City, Secretary Tatad stressed that the Government has initiated plans to make labor a full-pledged partner of capital. Mr. Tatad also assured the workingman need no longer fight for recognition and respect because these are given to him by law as a matter of right under the new Constitution.

THE COUNTRY may soon avail itself of the expertise and know-how of United Kingdom economists and infrastructure experts in the field of housing, health and education. This was gleaned from an exchange of views between the President and Mr. Evelyn de Rothschild during a dinner in Malacañang. Mr. Rothschild said that the experiences in his country in the fields of infrastructure like housing, sanitation, health and education, may be useful to the Philippines. He added that if given the opportunity, the people with the capacity and the knowledge, would gladly come to the country and help in the tremendous task of moving forward and effecting changes in the areas that lay ahead.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said that the public school teachers in the New Society must be "as disciplined and research-oriented as other professionals" even as he pledged government action in their problems. The secretary made these remarks during his keynote speech opening the three-day seminar for public school teachers sponsored by the Department of Public Information at the Ateneo de Manila auditorium on Padre Faura, Malate. The secretary emphasized that the school teacher has the privilege of having the greatest access to the young, whose participation in the task of building a New Society shall prove indispensable.

THE PRESIDENT was apprised by the Trans World Airlines' recognition of the tourism potentials of the Philippines which it has included in the "Getaway Orient Tour Series" for the first time. Joseph L. Brumit, TWA Vice-president, presented to the President a brochure on the $4.2 million orient tour program during a courtesy call in Malacañang. The program, which started last month, is expected to draw more tourists to the country. It features three tours and year-round monthly departure from the United States of at least 2,000 tourists yearly. The President expressed gratitude for the program and was confident that it will boost local tourism.

THE NEW SOCIETY has given the country a new image that is winning the respect and admiration of neighboring Asian countries. Department of Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo made this assessment during a panel discussion on the 6th ASEAN conference of foreign ministers held in Pattaya, Thailand, last April 16-18. Secretary Romulo said the fact that the Asian Forum, which is a proposal of the President, was unanimously approved showed "the confidence and respect that our Southeast Asian colleagues have in our New Society." On the matter of the Asian Forum, Mr. Romulo stated that its approval was the outstanding achievement of the conference. The Forum, initially called the All Southeast Asian Nations Conference, will discuss matters of vital interest to the region, including the establishment of political and economic stability and social tranquility in this area of the world.

INFORMATION SECRETARY Francisco S. Tatad called on the trained manpower of the country to share its expertise with the rest of the people in order to accelerate national development. Speaking at the opening day of the Rural Broadcasting Week in Pasig, Rizal, the Secretary said the progress of the nation can be achieved fastest through a “share of expertise” program along with the fundamental “share the wealth” program. He asked the farmers to show their children pride in their own toil so that they would take up work, not as a punishment for the inferior or the unfortunate but as the self-expression of those who desire to create their own future. Paying a tribute to the rural broadcasters for choosing what he called “a real vocation in the service of our people,” Mr. Tatad lauded the program “Sanggunian sa Himpapawid” which was launched last December by the Department of Public Information through the Rural Broadcasters Council for agricultural workers. He said that despite the various dialects and geographical barriers that divide the masses, the rural broadcasters have been able to communicate to the people, because “theirs is a message of hope and salvation.”

FOR 11,927 farmers in the country, everything, including the meaning of the New Society, revolves around the plow and a piece of priceless document—the land transfer certificate. This number of tenant-tillers has received such certificates since the promulgation of the historic presidential decree on agrarian emancipation. A total of 412,619 tenant-tillers, who have been identified and interviewed, will soon be granted the same certificates. These official figures are included in the latest report which was submitted to the President by the Department of Agrarian Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella. The report also indicated that the parcellary mapping of lands with areas of 100 hectares and above had been completed and the sworn statements of 6,331 landowners in 33 provinces had been taken.

PERSONS INVOLVED in swindling and other crimes of deceit punishable under Article 315 and 316 of the Revised Penal Code will be arrested and detained. The President issued this directive in General Order No. 29 which amends General Order No. 2, dated September 22, 1972. Swindling or estafa, as defined under articles 315 and 316, involves crimes committed by any person who shall defraud another through unfaithfulness or abuse of confidence, false pretenses or fraudulent acts and means. Deceitful acts covered by the articles including the disposing of real property by any person who pretends to be the owner; the disposing of property falsely represented as free from its lawful possessor; the execution of fictitious contracts; the acceptance of compensation for services not rendered; and the disposing of properties by surety in a bond.

MANUFACTURERS HANOVER Trust, a large US-based banking institution, offered to form a consortium of American and European banks to extend a $100 million loan to finance some priority imports of the Philippine government. The offer was made to the President by Mr. Tristan Beplat, senior vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust, who was with two groups of American businessmen who called on the Chief Executive. The American businessmen informed the President of plans to expand investment in the country’s development program. They also offered to renegotiate on easier terms the reconstruction loan granted to the Philippines in 1970 and to extend further credit for the modernization of the country’s communication facilities.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS collectors are now authorized to accept and process export documents and to allow immediate loading of export products except sugar and copra in their respective ports. This was announced by Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina even as he ordered the holding of an intensive on-the-job training of customs collectors and examiners on the latest export regulations and procedures. The customs head warned customs personnel against any form of harassment against exporters or undue delay in the processing of export documents.

LAND APPLICANTS in far-flung areas of the country need no longer travel all the way down to Manila to follow up the verification and approval of land survey applications. The first groups to rid themselves of this time-consuming procedure included the residents of Region IX of the lands bureau in Zamboanga City. The signing of the land survey applications was held in simple ceremonies attended by local officials, district land officers and prominent Zamboanga residents.

ROLE OF THE country’s more than 125,000 farmers in the New Society will be the highlight of the farmers’ forthcoming convention in Baguio City from May 9 to 13. The three-day convention of the Federation of Farmers’ Association of the Philippines, Inc., which is under the auspices of the Bureau of Agricultural Extension, will have for its main speaker Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad, Secretary Arturo R. Tanco of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, National Grains Authority Administrator Jess Tanchanco and Secretary Jose A. Roño of the Department of Local Governments and Community Development. Some 400 delegates and observers representing the country's farmers are slated to attend the FFAP's 9th convention at the r Teachers' Camp in Baguio. FFAP National Chairman Lucio A. Lim said that the convention theme is doubly significant in that the farmers are now free from the "bondage of the soil." "They should be acquainted with the roles expected of them as a new breed of farmers under the New Society," he added.

THE PRESIDENT instituted a new national health plan which envisions a system of rural hospitals and increased health units, and provides for the conversion of the Makati Medical Center into a cancer research foundation. The Chief Executive has directed Department of Health Secretary Clemente Gatmaitan to draft the details of the plan in cooperation with the Philippine Medical Association, the Philippine Nursing Association and other medical organizations. The President issued the directive in his speech during the 66th annual convention of the PMA at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang.

ROLE OF THE PHILIPPINES as a stabilizing factor in Southeast Asia is being keenly watched by the people of Austria. This was reported to the President by Ambassador Gehard Gmoser, the incoming non-resident ambassador of the Republic of Austria to the Philippines. The new ambassador presented his credentials to the Chief Executive at the Malacañang ceremonial hall. The Austrian ambassador said that the Austrians and the Filipinos have a lot of things in common, since both are exerting efforts to raise their standard of living and to avail themselves of the benefits of modern science and technology. The President responded that the current changes in the country are signs that a determined and forceful government and an equally determined citizenry can unite and cohere towards evolving a better place to live in. He said that under the prevailing atmosphere, the country has once more reverted to its stableness and security, marked with the great promise for foreign investments and joint ventures.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Bureau of Public Works to complete its flood control projects before the rainy season sets in. Apparently concerned about the possible recurrence of devastating floods that hit the country last year, the Chief Executive gave the BPW Director Desidero Anolin the task of finishing the flood control projects, particularly in the Greater Manila area and Central Luzon.

THE FIRST LADY lauded the anonymous but sincere men and women who have helped her in numerous humanitarian and public service projects. The First Lady made the tribute in a speech after receiving a plaque of merit from the Philippine Medical Association for exemplary services in public service and in the field of medicine. The plaque was presented to the First Lady by Dr. Jose G. Tamayo, outgoing president of the PMA, during the opening session of the 66th annual convention of the association at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. In expressing her gratitude, the First Lady pointed out that she was not alone in this task. She paid tribute to others—men and women, young and old—who sought to "fulfill their duty to country and people but who were not placed in the proper limelight."

THE GOVERNMENT has set up standard specifications for tinplates, blackplate and paper products to protect the consumers from unscrupulous manufacturers and traders. The Department of Trade and Tourism has issued the following new standard specifications: 1) For tinplate and blackplate: The Bureau of Standards enumerates the grades, tin coating weight, temper classifications and the criteria for determination of tin coating weight. The standard specification for tinplate and blackplate were intended to ensure the quality and acceptability of these products in the world market. 2) For paper products: The Bureau of Standards requires that the surface of the manifold or onion skin paper shall be free from corrugations, fuzz, or any particles which will pick, lift, or fluff under normal conditions of use. On mimeograph paper, among the specifications included that quality shall show no linting in operation, and shall produce sharp, clear, clean and legible copies on both sides.

DR. PACIFICO E. MARCOS, chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission (PMCC), requested the hospital administrators to "see to it that medicare patients get their money's worth." The P12 allowance per day for room and board of medicare patient is adequate for good food and services but hospital administrators must guard against overuse of medicare allowances of medicines and laboratory examinations. Dr. Marcos made the assessment in his address before the members of the University of the Philippines Hospital Administration Alumni Society at the United Laboratories in Mandaluyong. The PMCC head said there have been reports of hospital claims for payment of medicare services wherein the overuse of the allowances for medicines and laboratory examination were very evident. Dr. Marcos stressed that it should be the duty of all parties involved in the medicare program to conserve medicare funds for maximum utilization.

SOCIAL SECURITY COMMISSION Chairman Adrian E. Cristobal underscored the role of the teacher in the New Society as propagator of experience. The task of the teacher is to inculcate the human values of the New Society in their students, the SSS chairman stressed in his address before the Public Teachers Conference sponsored by the Department of Public Information. Explaining the role of the teacher as propagator of experience, Mr. Cristobal said that to teach is not merely to instruct certain skills but to teach man a way of communicating with his fellowmen. This essential role of the teacher was lost in the old society which made of the teachers a commodity, an organizer, a time-saver, a fund raiser; and not as a communicator of the moral, intellectual and spiritual experience of man, he said. He also urged the teachers to end the alienation of the students from the learning environment. This alienation, he noted, was one of the causes of the rise of student radicalism in the old society.

PHILIPPINE BANANA exports, if present trends continue, will soon be one of the chief dollar earners for the country. The latest report from the Bureau of Plant Industry showed that Philippine export earnings from bananas last March exceeded P14 million—the highest monthly banana export record since the Philippines entered the banana world market in 1968. The report also showed that last month's export earnings of the preceding month which was P10,064,076.

CAMPAIGN ON RAT control will be expanded to coconut-growing regions, a move to boost the directive of the President to revitalize the country's coconut industry. This was reported during the opening day of the first annual-conference of the Philippine-German Field Rat Control Project at the Bureau of Plant Industry office on San Andres St., Malate. Dr. Juergen Schaefer, German project manager, revealed the expansion plan during a briefing on the plans and forthcoming projects of the rat control campaign. The program, implemented in 1969 in cooperation with West Germany through its German Society for Technical Assistance of Developing Countries, has so far established 18 pilot projects in the country and benefitted farmers of rat-infested ricefields.

NATIONAL GRAINS AUTHORITY Administrator Jesus Tanchanco, in a speech before the Makati Rotary Club, stressed that the expertise and resources of the private sector could boost the grains industry which he called "a fertile area for investments." He cited that modern agricultural techniques, the development of better strains of rice and corn, and the building of irrigation systems, roads, ports and bridges, has trebled the income of farmers. Mr. Tanchanco mentioned that once the country attained self-sufficiency in rice, possible exportation of the cereal may provide a bigger volume of such business, which is encouraging, inasmuch as rice prices in the world market has been on the upswing.

April 26—

THE PRESIDENT sought a coordinated effort by the Government, management and labor to solve the country's unemployment problem in order to complement the successful land reform and peace and order programs of the New Society. The Chief Executive, in addressing the opening session of the three-day tripartite labor congress, also cited the need for a corollary program to build the competitive edge in local products through better skills and craftsmanship. In seeking for a new social contract wherein the individual, the laborer, the employee and the lowest class will be considered an important element in society, the President outlined the following policies: 1) All energies and resources of both Government and the private sector will be focused on the paramount goal of national development. 2) Employment is a top priority objective of social and economic planning. 3) Industrial peace will be maintained to make possible the fullest use of the productive energies of the people. 4) Efforts will be exerted to improve working conditions of employees and laborers.

THE GOVERNMENT has released P1.5 million for the "small fishermen's credit fund." An additional outlay of P10 million is also expected to beef up this non-collateral financial assistance to small fishermen. The release of the outlay came a few days after the President directed the creation of cooperatives for the country's small fishermen. Under the experimental program, small fishermen have been able to avail themselves of loans (at an average of P5,000 each without collateral) after meeting two conditions, namely: 1) That the fishermen of an area organize themselves into a cooperative which would serve as their guarantor, collection agency and marketing outlets; and 2) That they will submit to close supervision by government technicians who would see to it that the loan proceeds are used properly. To finance the pilot scheme, the Government released a total of P3.5 million to initially form the small fishermen's credit fund. The three government agencies which chipped in to raise the P3.5 million are the Department of rural banks of the Central Bank, the DANR and the Agricultural Credit Administration (ACA).

THE PRESIDENT called on the Asian Development Bank to establish multi-lateral forum to safeguard developing nations against the harmful effects of realignments among powerful currencies. He said that such a forum should be consulted before monetary decisions affecting world trade are made, and should also set up means for absorbing currency losses caused in the developing nations by such monetary decisions. The President made this appeal in welcoming more than 100 finance ministers and senior officials from 40 countries attending the 6th Annual Meeting of the ADB Board of Governors at the ADB headquarters in Pasay City. He said the development of the poorer nations is not the exclusive concern of these developing nations, but it is equally in the interest of the fully developed and affluent nations that the advancement of the poorer nations toward prosperity is accepted by them as a condition to world peace.

PHILIPPINE MEDICAL CARE Commission recommended the assignment of at least one government physician in every municipality in the country. PMCC Chairman Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos said that the recommendation should be embodied in the Rural Health Act as he observed that "there are many places where there is neither a private nor government physician resulting in the death of many people without the benefit of medical consultation." In a meeting of the PMCC during the convention of the Philippine Medical Association, Dr. Marcos also recommended: 1) The activation of all ghost hospitals; 2) The organization of a lineal roster of all government physicians so that promotions in rank, place of assignment and areas of responsibility could be more systematically defined; 3) An inspection of services should be established in the Department of Health.

AIR TRANSPORT AGREEMENT between the Philippines and Indonesia for the operation of bilateral air services is now in effect. Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo said the Indonesian Embassy has informed the Department of Foreign Affairs through a diplomatic note that the formalities required for the approval of the Air Transport Agreement have been complied with by the Indonesian government. The air agreement, signed in Manila on March 24, 1972, provided that each country shall have the right to designate one airline for the purpose of operating the agreed air services. Both countries agreed to operate weekly services from points in the Philippines to Jakarta with Singapore and Bangkok as points beyond for Philippine carrier and from points in Indonesia to Manila with Hongkong, Taipei and Tokyo as points beyond for the Indonesian carrier.

THE GOVERNMENT is set to clamp closure proceedings on mining companies that refuse to install anti-pollution facilities in vital agricultural areas in Benguet. Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources Secretary Arturo Tanco Jr. served this stern warning in the ultimatum following reports that several mining companies in Benguet have not complied with orders to treat or contain mining mill wastes or slime. Mr. Tanco said that the discharges from the mills have poisoned irrigation water and killed rice crops in adjacent farm areas. He also stressed the importance of the cooperation of the mining companies in the anti-pollution campaign. The Government has so far undertaken the following: 1) The Bureau of Mines has instructed mining companies to implement the second phase of chemically treating affected rivers in the Benguet area. 2) The National Science Development Board has funded a study on the effect of mine tailings on marine and animal life in the disposal area.

President's Week in Review: April 27 - May 3, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 27—

THE PRESIDENT said that the Asian Development Bank has shown the capacity to attain objectives that diplomatic relations and international conferences failed to achieve. The Chief Executive reemphasized that the ADB was created principally to eliminate and eradicate the specter of poverty, illness and underdevelopment. The President made these remarks during a state dinner the First Couple had tendered in honor of the ADB board of governors at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. He said the ADB and institutions similar to it seem to attain the objectives that statesmen and political leaders "had failed to even grope for" in the formality of diplomatic relations and international conferences. Mr. Ali Wardhana, Indonesian minister of finance and chairman of the ADB's board of governors, responded that the Presidential address in the opening session served to reemphasize the great task the ADB has embarked upon. He added that Asians have discovered each other once again and the Bank is one of the results of regional cooperation.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate shipment of corn grits to several areas in the Visayas and Mindanao where signs of a corn shortage have been noted by the National Grains Administrator. The Chief Executive has dispatched a Philippine Air Force Hercules cargo plane and a Philippine Navy vessel to transport the cereal in order to augment the dwindling local supply in the shortage-stricken areas and to stabilize the price of corn. The shipment, specified in a directive to the NGA, was first sent to Dumaguete City. Succeeding shipments will be forwarded to Tagbilaran City, Cagayan de Oro City and Iligan City. Officials of the NGA stationed in the shortage-affected places were instructed to receive the cargoes for immediate distribution to stave off a possible cereal crisis.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue issued the following tax reminders for private corporations, employers and government offices for May: May 10 deadline: 1) For employers who withheld taxes of P200 or more from wages during the month of April, 1973 to deposit their collections with the BIR; and 2) For government offices, agencies, and instrumentalities to submit BIR Form 7.50 and remit internal revenue taxes withheld under R.A. 1051 for the month of April, 1973. May 15 deadline: 1) For payment of the second installment of the taxes due by taxpayers whose delinquent tax accounts exceed P300,000 and who availed of the partial amnesty under PD No. 68; 2) For filing of the final income tax return by corporations whose taxable year ended on January 31; 3) For payment of one-third of the income tax due on the quarterly return filed by corporations whose taxable year ended March 31; 4) For payment of one-half of the income tax due on the quarterly return filed by corporations whose taxable year ends June 30, 1973; and 5) For payment of the second installment of income tax by corporations whose preceding taxable year ended October 31, 1972. May 30 deadline: 1) For filing of the quarterly corporate income tax return by corporations whose taxable year ends on September 30, 1973; 2) For filing of quarterly corporate income tax returns by corporations whose taxable year ends on December 31, 1973; and 3) For Submission of inventory list by taxpayers whose taxable year ended on April 30, 1973. May 31 deadline: For filing of the quarterly corporate income tax return by corporations whose taxable year ended on April 30, 1973.

LAND ACQUIRED by a tenant under Presidential Decree No. 27 is not transferable except by hereditary succession or through Government takeover. Agrarian Reform Assistant Secretary Benjamin Labayan made this clarification in a speech before the Rotary Club meeting in Quezon City. The DAR official further explained that the acquired land is to be paid by the tenant direct to the landowner in equal amortization for a period of 15 years at six per cent interest. The value of the land is two and one-half times the average harvest of a three normal crop years immediately preceding the promulgation of the Presidential decree, he said. He also reported that the DAR has completed operations in the tenanted corn and rice lands over 100 hectares. The DAR is operating in land-holdings of 50 or more hectares and expects to finish the project before June 30 this year. The DAR's "Operation Land Transfer" is done by phases while waiting for the promulgation of the rules and regulations that will complement PD No. 27, the DAR official said. He added the tenant-tillers are identified and their farms sketched by the Bureau of Lands.

THE GOVERNMENT has assured Filipino shippers and exporters of protection and a better deal in their business dealings with foreign countries with the official organization of the Philippine Shippers' Council. The election of the PSC officers, the creation of the steering committee and the adoption of its articles of incorporation and by-laws highlighted the meeting. Trade and Tourism Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the country now has an effective and cohesive body that can protect the interests of Filipino shippers and assure the competitiveness of Philippine export products in the world market. Mr. Quiazon stressed that the council will promote and protect the economy, the common interests of Filipino exporters and negotiate with foreign shipping concerns for reasonable freight rates and optimum shipping terms.

ALL FIREARMS LICENSES, certificates of registration and special permits may be renewed starting on the first week of May the Philippine Constabulary announced. The renewal was approved by Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, constabulary chief. Col. Alfonso Trance, firearms and explosive unit chief, said the renewal will involve regular licenses issued to private persons and entities, special permits for government officials and employees, and certificates of registration for government-owned firearms.

COMPLAINTS AND INVESTIGATION Office (Malacañang) has warned the public of illegal solicitations. The CIO has warned the public specifically against agents soliciting advance payments with promises of backpay, bonuses, employment and other benefits. Agents soliciting payments for identification cards, membership fees and other advance payments for promise of service should be reported to the nearest law enforcing agency, according to CIO. The modus operandi is explained thus: The agent will ask for service fees with promise of backpays in the case of veterans, bonuses in case of separated or retired employees, employment for jobseekers and such other benefits.

SOME 128,863 beneficiaries have availed themselves of medicare benefits since April 2, 1972, when the health program became operative. Payment for medical services amounted to P30.9 million. This was reported by Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission (PMCC), which was organized August 9, 1971. Dr. Marcos reported that some of the 81 medicare community hospitals and health centers (CHHCs), 10 of which are projects of the President's medical assistance program, are already in operation. Others are jointly being constructed by the Armed Forces Corps of Engineers, the Bureau of Public Works and local residents. The PMCC chairman reported that the commission is at present formulating the proposal for Program II of the medicare plan intended to cover those who are not members of the Social Security System and the Government Service Insurance System and their legal dependants.

April 28—

THE PRESIDENT sought to redefine and draw a new Filipino elite from the country's "rich mosaic of groups" who are united in their ability to perceive national interest. During 20th anniversary ceremonies of the Summer Institute of Linguistics at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President lauded the SIL for its mission and commitment to work among cultural minorities to bring them, through literacy, closer to the world of modernization, and to increase their potentials for individual and community welfare. He said that one of the Government's most urgent tasks is to disseminate a redefinition of the Filipino elite, a status in the New Society that inheres in those who have the ability to perceive the national interest, and who have the capacity to perceive and pursue approaches or solution to national problems."

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad said society must safeguard its moral and intellectual resources from "the shallow expressions of panderers, psychopants and false experts who will set the standard of what is current and, therefore, what is intelligent." The DPI secretary told the biennial conference of the Philippine Library Association that service to the New Society will not be found in educators who silence their students from discussing the various realms of thoughts and in public advocates who refuse to state objectively in the media of the merits of the Government's efforts but state them instead in a fawning and mendacious manner. Mr. Tatad pointed out that in nation rebuilding, the reexamination of certain values, including those in learning and scholarship, is of primary importance.

FORTY MAJOR rice-producing provinces, notably in Mindanao, are now ensured of increased rice production and smooth distribution to market places following the release by the President of P35 million for construction of "rice roads” and river control projects. Immediately after releasing the amount, the President authorized Commissioner Baltazar Aquino of Public Highways and Director Desiderio Anolin of Public Works to rush construction of the projects either by administration or by contract without public bidding to expedite the work. Of the P35 million released by the Government, P13 million will be used for the construction of farm-to-market roads in the rice-priority areas in 15 provinces to ensure the smooth flow of the staple from the farms to the market places.

THE PRESIDENT said that sports reinforces a citizen’s commitments to the goals of his community and his country, apart from being a bridge towards greater brotherhood among countries. The President made this observation in a speech read for him by former Sen. Ambrosio Padilla, Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation president, at the opening of the 10-day Asian Baseball Championship Series at the Rizal Memorial baseball stadium. He also said that when groups of people contend with each other as in the current baseball series, “sports assumes a more profound meaning and wider dimension.” The Chief Executive also received the heads of the delegations participating in the series from Japan, Australia, China and Korea in Malacañang.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS released guidelines on seizure, forfeiture and custody of apprehended, untaxed or underpaid motor vehicles. The guidelines, which are aimed at protecting those who availed themselves of the car tax amnesty are: 1) Seizure of untaxed motor vehicles shall be made only by persons lawfully authorized to effect seizure. 2) All applications for the issuance of warrant of seizure and detention shall be made under oath subject to the penalties of perjury and falsification. 3) All seizures shall be reported to the collector of customs under whose authority the warrant was issued and the motor vehicle apprehended shall be deposited with the Auction and Cargo Disposal Division. 4) For the purpose of giving such notice and all other proceedings in the matter of such seizure, the person named in the registration papers issued by the Land Transportation Commission shall be deemed to be the “owner” of the car. 5) The seizure case shall immediately be heard and the collector of customs shall enter a declaration of forfeiture. 6) After the decision has become final and executory, the forfeited car shall become the property of the government. 7) All motor vehicles paid under Presidential Decree No. 52 shall be considered as legally released and cleared of any duty, taxes and liabilities except those which are withheld by the commissioner for further verification and or investigation.

MONETARY BOARD of the Central Bank has recommended an increase in the capital base of rural banks by at least P200 million to make them more responsive to the land reform program of the Government through expanded lending operations. The board drew up a plan to convert the outstanding rediscounting obligations of the rural banking system totalling P200 million into equity of the Government in the rural banks. CB Governor Gregorio S. Licaros said that the scheme will enable the Agrarian Reform Fund to enlarge its resources and exercise a bigger degree of influence over the rural banks in the latter’s financing program. It will also strengthen the financial condition of the rural banks and relieve them of a financial burden in that the funds that otherwise would go to the servicing of their CB obligations would instead be utilized for wider lending operations.

MEDICARE has not left out the unemployed segment of the population. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission, stressed this in a speech before the Philippine Medical Association convention at the Hotel-Intercontinental in Makati, Rizal. It is true, Dr. Marcos said, that in Program I of Medicare, only employed (members of either the Government Service Insurance System or the Social Security System) are covered by Medicare. But Medicare Program II, which will be implemented as soon as possible, will provide medical care even to the unemployed. At present, the Medicare chief explained further, the unemployed are indirectly benefited by Medicare Program I because this phase of Medicare has removed the unemployed from the charity wards of government hospitals. Thus the charity wards are left to the truly indigent, he said.

April 29—

THE PRESIDENT has released P73 million for the construction and development of top priority public works projects including ports, flood control systems and farm-to-market feeder roads. The amounts ordered released by the President are earmarked for the following: 1) Some P22 million for the completion of flood control projects in Central Luzon to avert disastrous floods similar to those that wrought havoc last year. A total of P13 million for the construction of farm-to-market roads in the rice priority areas in 15 provinces and to spur increased rice production in those areas and better marketing facilities. 3) The sum of P23,105,000 for the port works throughout the country, with the Mariveles port getting a separate funding of P2,126,000. The new fund releases supplement earlier releases of P8.5 million for flood control projects in Greater Manila and P1 million for river control projects in the provinces.

THE GOVERNMENT'S land reform policies will be re-oriented to effect a wider coordination among the agencies involved in land reform activities in view of the creation of the Land Reform Council by the President. This was the subject of a week-long conference among land reform regional directors convoked by Department of Land Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella. Secretary Estrella explained that the rationale for the creation of the LRC is to facilitate policy decisions by the President who is at the helm of the program, particularly on assistance the PAR will need from other government agencies.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE announced a five per cent rate increase effective January 1, 1973 on the gross income of financing companies. The old rate was one per cent. The Finance Department has also approved a recommendation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue imposing 50 per cent surcharge on banks, finance companies and insurance firms which have wilfully neglected to file the required quarterly returns of their taxable receipts or have filed false or fraudulent returns. The BIR said the surcharge shall be applied on the tax or deficiency tax of the erring company. Also, the BIR has announced that insurance companies are required to pay their taxes on quarterly basis for purposes of uniformity.

THE GOVERNMENT has launched a series of moves to boost further the country's gold mining industry. This was gleaned in a report of Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros who announced that the monetary board has approved guidelines for price support and credit assistance for the gold mining industry. The CB governor also said that seven new gold mining firms are being organized while six pre-war firms are being rehabilitated. The Central Bank's move is in line with the President's policy to encourage production of new gold mines and push rehabilitation and expansion of existing ones to generate more employment and boost foreign exchange earnings. Aside from the approval of the new guidelines Mr. Licaros said that the Government will purchase all gold output from local producers at prevailing free world market price less the equivalent of the export tax.

COCONUT COORDINATING Council (CCC) has organized a total of 725 Coconut Town Associations throughout the country since the imposition of Martial Law. This was revealed by Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. in an accomplishment report he submitted to the President. These coconut town associations are being converted into marketing cooperatives to serve as efficient marketing outlets for individual coconut farmers and as quality control centers and copra kilo operators, the DANR secretary said. The CCC was created by the President in 1971 in an initial attempt to consolidate various coconut agencies of the Government.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE announced that boxing exhibitions and shows sponsored or produced by charitable institutions or associations are now subject to the payment of the full amount of the amusement tax effective Jan. 1, 1973. The ruling was provided for under Presidential Decree No. 69 which amended section 260 of the National Internal Revenue Code. The amendment has removed the 50 per cent exemption from the amusement tax previously extended to boxing exhibitions and the provision limiting the maximum tax imposed by local governments on boxing exhibitions to five per cent. Presidential Decree No 69 also repealed section 21 of the NIRC which provided for the collection of 50 per cent of amusement tax where the admission fee or charges are collected by or for and in behalf of a duly registered charitable institution.

April 30—

THE PRESIDENT rallied the workers to help maximize national development as he reiterated the commitment of Government to improve their living conditions in a message on the eve of the observance of Labor Day. In his message, the President said the Government has always concerned itself with the social conditions of the working mass. The new Constitution according to the President, has strengthened the basic rights of the workers employment opportunities and their working conditions. However, the President pointed out that "what the state is doing to protect the workers does not ensure the full realization of the promise of a better life." He concluded that "the burden is upon you—workingmen, laborers, fielders—and all of us to realize the full benefits and fruits of labor."

THE PRESIDENT ordered the development of self-supporting penal colonies to enable them to operate on their own to decongest the state penitentiary in Muntinlupa and other crowded prisons. In an instruction he issued to Prison Director Vicente Raval, the President ordered the immediate preparation of a penal colony program to solve the perennial problems plaguing most of the country's prisons. Noting that penal self-sufficiency has been the objective of many administrators because of rising maintenance costs, the President urged a fresh approach to the perennial problems of prisons and directed the prison director to: 1) Conduct an immediate survey of the various penal colonies to determine which areas may be suitable for the cultivation of staple products like corn, sugar, rice, sorghum, etc.; and 2) Recommend the proper disposal of areas found suitable for agricultural purposes.

THE GOVERNMENT has now tallied more than P830 million in its latest count on collections from five tax amnesty decrees. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata, after receiving the latest reports on the collection figures from the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs gave the following breakdown; 1) Collections from previously untaxed income or wealth for 1971 and prior years: P538,316,327.43 paid by 137,579 individuals and corporate taxpayers; 2) Collections from taxable year 1972: P252,069,488.79 paid by 57,827 individuals and corporate taxpayers; 3) Collections from previously untaxed motor vehicles: P19,429,295.50 from 4,111 motor vehicles which were previously categorized as "hot cars." 4) Collection from contested assessments: P13,359,360.58; 5) Collections from previously untaxed or improperly taxed goods in commercial quantities: P6,852,290.29.

SECRETARY OF INFORMATION Francisco S. Tatad warned the public against persons posing as DPI or Mass Media Council representatives. Secretary Tatad's warning follows in full: "It has come to our attention that there are a number of persons in various parts of the country, representing themselves as representatives of the Department of Public Information, either as alleged representative of the Secretary of Public Information, or as alleged representatives of the chairman of the Mass Media Council, and engage in certain malpractices punishable bylaw. It appears that these persons are determined to make use of the Government for their private ends, and have succeeded in coercing certain citizens to give in to some unlawful demands. We have asked the military to arrest these impostors and poseurs, but we appeal to the public, most of all, to help us identify and apprehend these undesirable elements."

THE GOVERNMENT may open some 17 additional branches of lending agencies in order to boost further the "Masagana 99" rice program in 600,000 hectares of rice lands throughout the country. In a situation report to the President, Secretary Arturo Tanco Jr. of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources said that rice producers are extended a loan ceiling of P700 per hectare for the purchase of farm necessities like fertilizers, pesticides, seeds and equipment. Proceeds of the loan will be released in one lump sum which will be credited in a special savings deposit (ssd) account in the name of the farmer-borrower. The borrower will be charged one per cent interest per month on the total of his loan while his "ssd" earns an interest of 12 per cent per annum. Numbered purchase order booklets will be issued to the borrowers for fertilizers and pesticides by the loan agency concerned.

THE PRESIDENT said that the country's efforts to attain economic growth and to evolve a New Society are principally geared to uplift the common man through gainful employment and meaningful social justice. The Chief Executive set down a six-point labor policy in a labor Day address to the nation through a nation-wide radio-television hookup from the Maharlika Hall in Malacañang. The labor policy is spelled out with the following basic principles: 1) The real objective of the struggle for growth and development is the common man. 2) Economic growth must lead to fuller and better employment and increased social justice. 3) All labor and agrarian laws will be revised and updated in accordance with the overall goals of the New Society. 4) Trade Unions will be restructured to make them true agents of democracy, social justice and development. 5) An all-out war against unemployment will be waged. 6) A new labor relations machinery will be set up to ensure a dynamic and just industrial peace. The President emphasized that all the national strivings have one cardinal objective—the upliftment of the common man.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT opportunities must be extended to Muslim Filipinos and members of other cultural minorities as a matter of primary concern. This was one of four general resolutions hammered out during the three-day national tripartite labor congress which were reported by Department of Labor Secretary Bias F. Ople. Secretary Ople who reported the accomplishments of the tripartite congress to afford added meaning to the celebration of Labor Day, said the other resolutions were: 1) The giving of top priority to the utilization and development of human resources in national economic planning. 2) A continuing dialogue of labor, management and government representatives through an executive committee to insure the effective implementation of the congress' recommendations. 3) Observance of the equal representation of labor and management in government boards and other bodies to be secured through nominations by labor and employer organizations.

THE PHILIPPINES, along with other ASEAN Member countries, should be prepared to live in a New Asian Society. The New Asian Society—the goal of all Asia now that the Vietnam war is over—will arise from on-going and intended reforms in national societies throughout Asia, notably the Philippines. These reforms will be the base for solving economic dislocations in the region brought about by the end of the Vietnam war. This was the gist of a speech delivered by Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo before the Management Association of the Philippine. Warning Asians on the perils—especially economic dislocations—facing Southeast Asia after the Vietnam war, Secretary Romulo stressed the need for reforms in national societies throughout Asia. Secretary Romulo said the economic problems that Asia will face after the Vietnam war include expansion of the power and interests of nation-states, multi-nationals, consortiums and megabusiness. To meet these problems, the ASEAN member-countries have to rationalize their economies, integrate programs and development plans.

PRICES OF GALVANIZED iron sheets (gauge 31 and 26) have been revised based on current handling and freight costs by the Price Control Council. The new price schedules were contained in an amended order issued by the council pursuant to a resolution of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA). The computation of the prices was based on handling and freight charges which vary in 11 regions of the country. The price are lowest in the Greater Manila area and Rizal and are highest in Cagayan Valley, the Mountain provinces and Mindanao and the Visayas. The need to transport the commodities was the principal factor for the fluctuating prices. In Greater Manila, the costs per lineal foot or gauge 31 galvanized iron sheet are P1.22 (wholesale) and P1.25 (retail); and gauge 26, P2.26 (wholesale) and P2.30 (retail). The maximum selling prices of gauge 31 GI sheets are lower by about eight and 14 centavos per lineal foot while those of gauge 26 are lower by three and eight centavos per lineal foot.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE and Natural Resources, in an accomplishment report to the President, said that research on the “miracle coconut tree” has started after the DANR obtained a 500-hectare plantation from the San Ramon penal colony in Davao. The report also said that the DANR has synchronized research efforts by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the Bureau of Plant Industry and the Philippine Coconut Research Institute on the cadang-cadang problem. The department has also initiated, with the participation of the local flour mills, feasibility studies on coconut flour-making, aimed at finding out if 10 per cent of the country's wheat flour (65,000 metric tons a year) can be replaced by coconut flour.

MANILA INTERNATIONAL Airport customhouse has chalked on all-time high record collections of P8,712,845.40 for the month of April. This was reported by Airport Collector Cesar Dario to Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina. Last month collections exceeded the collections for April, 1972, by as much as P4.4 million, or an increase of 132.9 per cent. Collector Dario said that the April collections registered tin-highest monthly total attained by the airport customhouse since the upswing in collections was first noted in January, last year. Collector Dario attributed the uptrend in collection to the efficiency and new-morality among customs officers, examiners and appraisers.

2,910 PERSONS from all over the country applied for amnesty under Presidential Decree Nos. 95 and 124 as of April 26. This was reported by Col. Hamilton B. Dimaya, Constabulary Judge advocate general Reports of amnesty applications are still coming in from remote localities, especially in Mindanao, Visayas and Northern Luzon, and the authorities are optimistic that the total number will increase until all applications are received Col. Dimaya reported that 613 persons have amnesty under Decree No. 95 while 2,297 others have applied for amnesty under Decree No. 124.

EVERY BETTING tickets in Jai-Alai and horse racing is now subject to documentary and science stamp taxes effective January 1, 1973. This was the latest in a series of amendments in the National Internal Revenue Code, as provided under Presidential Decree No. 69, which was announced by the Department of Finance Secretary Cesar E.

A. Virata. A new sub-section (226-A), which has been added to Title VI of Documentary Taxes, imposes a five centavo documentary stamp on every Jai-Alai or horse racing ticket. If the cost of the ticket exceeds Pi, an additional tax of five centavos on every PI addition is further imposed. A science stamp equal to the internal revenue stamp tax on each betting ticket is likewise collected.

THE PRESIDENT reiterated the country's policy of self-reliance even as he lauded the Philippine Air Force for its indispensable service in the fields of national defense, relief and communications. The Chief Executive addressed PAF officers and men during the 38th anniversary celebration of the PAF at the Nichols Air Base where he conveyed the gratitude of the Filipino people to US President Richard Nixon who had sent a message through Mrs. Anna Chennault, widow of the founder of the flying tiger squadron. The President expounded on the celebration's theme of self-reliance and pledged his support to his concept initiated by the armed forces and the Department of National Defense "to move forward and attain progress on the basis of our own limited resources." He stressed that the training of the Filipino soldier is based on the principle that no one can help the Filipino soldier but himself. He further pointed out that no people can become strong if they will depend on any foreign power.

THE PRESIDENT said that under the New Society, various employment-generating measures have been implemented with the end view of employing the most number of persons possible. During his fourth appearance in "Pulong-pulong sa Kaunlaran" to cap the celebration of Labor Day, the Chief Executive enumerated several measures undertaken by the Government to combat unemployment and underemployment. According to the President, the Government, in its program to solve unemployment, had so far: 1) Exempted small-scale industries (with only five employees or workers) from the minimum wage and initiated feasibility studies to exempt those with 10 employees; 2) Given priority to labor-intensive industries, like those to be established in the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan, where 10,000 new jobs are expected to be created; 3) Intensified the pace of housing and construction of infrastructure like irrigation systems, roads, bridges, fisheries and other fishery projects and in the production of GI sheets, steel products, cement and other construction materials in order to create more jobs; 4) Geared the educational system to vocational training in order for it to become a good source of qualified manpower for the country's economic development.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE said persons found guilty in criminal actions arising from tax cases also be ordered to pay the tax deficiencies. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said this is one of the stronger remedies adopted by the Government to collect delinquent taxes. The finance chief said that the judgment in criminal cases shall not only impose the penalties but shall also order payment of the taxes as finally decided by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

ACCELERATED EXPANSION of trade and tourism, arising from the inflow of foreign resources and the increased volume of tourist arrivals, has helped spur the growth of the Philippine economy at a highly satisfactory level. But while the country has opened its doors wide open to the entry of foreign capital and resources it has adopted sufficient safeguards⁷ to protect national interests. Trade and Tourism Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. made these statements in his latest assessment of the economic development of the country in a speech before the University of the Philippines Vanguard Annual Convention and Homecoming held at the UP Diliman campus. Secretary Quiazon said that the higher level of growth of the Philippine economy will generate more employment opportunities, more income and better living standard for the Filipino people.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE and Tourism has warned against the sale of galvanized sheets beyond the maximum ceilings pegged by the Price Control Council for retail and wholesale prices throughout the country. The new prices which took effect May 2, 1973 were contained in an amended order issued by the council pursuant to a resolution of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA). DTT secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., who is concurrent PCC chairman, said the price body fixed the maximum wholesale and retail prices per lineal foot of galvanized iron sheet, gauge 31 and, in cooperation with the Presidential Steel Committee, of galvanized iron sheet gauge 21.

DR. TRINIDAD A. GOMEZ, chief of the office of health education and personnel training of the Department of Health, in a speech before the annual conference of health educators at the Bureau of Quarantine, asked the delegates to help enlighten the public on medicare, family planning and nutrition. These are three areas of health activities which the Government is giving emphasis. Dr. Gomez said that health education has approved its usefulness in raising the level of health consciousness of the people.

FIRST EXAMINATION for the practice of sugar technology in the Philippines in accordance with Republic Act No. 5197 will be given in Manila on June 11, 13 and 15, 1973. This was announced by the Board of Examiners for Sugar Technologists of the Civil Service Commission. Registration as sugar technologists without examinations under the RA 5197 has also been opened. Applications and information forms may be secured from and filed with the application section, office of the Board of Examiners, P. Paredes and Nicanor Reyes Sr. streets, Sampaloc, Manila. The last day for filing applications for examination is Friday (May 11) and for registration as sugar technologists without examination is from March 19, 1973 to February 7, 1975.

THE PRESIDENT authorized negotiations with the World Bank on the possible financing of an integrated development program for an entire area in the country, to include the two Mindoro provinces, the two Lanaos. No figure is at the moment being quoted but the financing scheme is expected to cover all critical aspects of the Government, namely: roads, irrigation, education, health facilities, agricultural credit, market facilities, training of extensions workers and technicians. This is the first integrated development scheme for an entire area to receive the support of an international financing institution since the President sounded a call at the meeting of the Asia Development Bank's board of governors for financing institutions to support not only isolated projects, but integrated projects for the whole area. This is also a further manifestation of the concern of the President and his Cabinet for the massive development of the Muslim provinces.

THE COUNTRY'S position on the archipelagic theory to delineate a nation's territory, which was advanced by the President, has gained wide support from other countries. This was assured by former Senator Arturo M. Tolentino when he submitted a preliminary report on the results of his mission in the United Nations Seabed Committee in New York to the President. The Archipelagic Theory, which is now engrained in the new Constitution on the section on national territory, proposes that the baseline from which the territorial waters of an archipelago be determined by joining appropriate points of the outermost islands by straight lines. The connected baselines enclose the territorial inland waters and seas between islands.

THE PRESIDENT received a 39-man delegation of city council members of Greater Jakarta in Malacañang where he reiterated the Government's commitment to make Greater Manila a model city and a better place to live in. The Chief Executive told the Jakarta city council members that he has already approved and authorized a plan to place Metro Manila under the supervision and control of a single body. Mr. Moeffreni Moe'min, the delegation's head, informed the President that they were very much impressed by the cleanliness, the improvement of peace and order, the progress, and increased community discipline in the places they had visited in Metro Manila "which could have been possible only through your able guidance and leadership." In response, the President congratulated the councilmen, for Jakarta's success.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE assured taxpayers of the early refund of their overpayments in income taxes which the BIR has to settle in 90 days or pay an interest of six per cent per annum. Acting Internal Revenue Commissioner Conrado P. Diaz said processing of income tax returns, checks and treasury warrants will be speeded up so that overpayments will be refunded as soon as possible.

INFLUX OF tourists through charter flights under package plans and the utilization of bigger planes have been proposed to boost the country's tourism program. The President received the proposals from officials of the International Air Carriers' Association (IACA) and the Boeing Aircraft Company who paid courtesy visits in Malacañang. Mr. Andres Helgstrand, IACA president, said charter flights for tourists from Europe and the United States will cost less, thus attract more tourists to come to the Philippines. The Chief Executive was also consulted by Mr. Helgstrand on the proposed date for the holding of the Second World Congress on air transportation and tourism scheduled this year in Manila.

THE PRESIDENT issued a proclamation declaring May 12 to June 12, 1973 as the period to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the Philippine Independence. The President directed the Independence Day Committee to carry out necessary measures for the successful observance of freedom day. This year's celebration of freedom day, the first under the New Society, will mark the diamond jubilee on June 12, 1973 of the proclamation of the Philippine Independence. The Chief Executive also enjoined the national, provincial, city, municipal and barrio governments, the ecumenical church, all schools, and civic and business organization to participate.

THE PHILIPPINES last March netted $1,319,936.64 from the exports made by embroidery firms. This was reported to Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata by Undersecretary of Finance Alfredo Pio de Roda, Jr., who is also the chairman of the Embroidery and Apparel Control and Inspection Board. In his report, Undersecretary De Roda said several embroidery firms exported finished embroidery materials valued at $2,596,775.84 last March. Labor benefited in the amount of P5.5 million in the form of labor costs from the $2.5 million exports of the embroidery firms in March, 1973.

NGA ADMINISTRATOR Jess Tanchanco issued a clarification that there will be no exportation of palay by the National Grains Authority to other countries. He issued this clarification following the shipment of a small quantity of palay to Bangladesh. The NGA administrator said the shipment included purely certified seeds for planting purposes and was motivated by "humanitarian reasons." The seeds will be replaced by Bangladesh in the form of milled rice, he added. He said that "strict observance of the export ban has been coordinated with various PC provincial commanders. Mr. Tanchanco appealed to the public to report to him or to the military persons suspected of violating the cereals export ban.

President's Week in Review: May 4-24, 1973

President's Week in Review: May 25-31, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 25—

THE PRESIDENT ordered a revision of the traffic experiment in Metro Manila to remove the impression that the Government is discriminating against certain sectors of society. In a meeting with Metro Manila Traffic Management and Implementing Committee at Malacañang, the President issued guidelines for the committee to follow in its effort to improve traffic conditions in the Metro Manila area. The guidelines are: 1) Not less than 1,000 jeepneys will be allowed to operate in the main thoroughfares by Monday. They will be chosen from the 23,000 jeepneys authorized to operate in the Greater Manila Area which will be reduced to 10,000. 2) Engineering facilities of the streets in Manila should be improved. On recommendation of the technical men, the President directed that the islands in the middle of the main thoroughfares of Manila be removed in order that the whole street may be used. Noting the adverse public reaction to the week-old traffic experiment under which all jeepneys were banned from main thoroughfares, the President told the committee: "We don't want to leave the impression that the rich are allowed the beautiful highway and the poor are shunted to the small roads."

NATIONAL GRAINS AUTHORITY has assured all private persons and entities who will invest in the grains industry of full protection and support from the Government. In a speech delivered for him" before the Rotary Club of Olongapo City recently, NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco disclosed that a Business Promotions and Development Division will soon be created under the NGA Public Affairs Office to render full assistance to investors by providing all possible information about the country's grains business. At the same time, the NGA head reiterated his call on all leading businessmen and industrialists to share their talents and resources by investing in the grains industry for its full development.

FILIPINO agricultural scientists were asked to work as teams behind the national efforts to increase food production. Undersecretary of Agriculture Jose D. Drilon Jr., speaking before the Crop Science Society of the Philippines in Cebu City, observed that scientists should no longer work in isolation but in concert with his colleagues. The agriculture undersecretary called on crop scientists to work harder "because they have to work with less resources and because the results of their labor will affect the lives and destinies of millions."

THE PHILIPPINES was visited by a total of 18,078 tourists last April, indicating the steady growth of the industry since the imposition of Martial Law eight months ago. American tourists dominated the arrivals of 6,777, followed, by the Japanese at 3,988. The Filipino tourists registered the second highest rate of increase at 48 per cent, followed by the British which registered a 46 per cent increase. Australian arrivals rose by 33 per cent. This is the first time in 15 years for tourist arrivals from the Philippines' traditional markets to achieve these increases, according to the Department of Tourism.

PHILIPPINE Virginia Tobacco Administration has started a new tobacco leaf procurement system aimed at rechanneling the benefits of the industry to the farmers. Known as the tobacco auction on sale, the system drastically cuts tobacco procurement costs of cigaret manufacturers, exporters and redryers by eliminating the middlemen. The first auction floor system, enables Virginia tobacco buyers to deal directly with farmers and offer better prices for the farmers' tobacco. The new procurement system is one of the first major steps that the Government is taking towards rechanneling the benefits of the industry to the farmers and their cooperatives with the help of the private sector.

DEPARTMENT of National Defense ordered the lifting of Constabulary control over the police forces of three cities and 28 towns in 10 provinces following the return of normalcy of peace and order conditions in these localities. The lifting of PC control over these police forces was recommended by Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, PC chief. The three cities and 28 towns are: Cavite City, Tagaytay City, and Trece Martires City; Silang, Tanza, Naic, Gen. Trias, Alfonso, Amadeo, Imus, Indang, Kawit, Maragondon, and Mendez, all in Cavite; Bangued, Abra; San Ildefonso, Bulacan; Alacapan, Ballesteros, Calayan, Rizal, and Sanchez Mira, all in Cagayan; Banawe and Lagawe in Ifugao; Balaoan and Bauang in La Union; Marcos, Ilocos Norte; Malasiqui, Mangatarem, and Urbiztondo, in Pangasinan; Capas and Concepcion in Tarlac; and San Marcelino Zambales.

May 26—

THE PRESIDENT appointed former Senator Leonardo B. Perez as chairman of the Commission on Elections. Two others were named members of the nine-man electoral body. The other appointees are Venancio Duque, appointments secretary and director of the National Shipyards and Steel Corporation, and former Rep. Fernando Veloso of Western Samar. The latest appointments brought to seven the members of the Comelec. Earlier appointed were Assistant Executive Secretary Flores Bayot and and former 1971 Constitutional Convention Delegates Venancio Yaneza, Liningding Pangandaman and Casimiro Madarang Jr. Two more commissioners are expected to be named to the nine-member Comelec.

THE PRESIDENT said he will convene the country's citizens assemblies for the second time to ascertain whether their earlier mandate for the administration to continue with its reforms under Martial Law is still the majority's will. The Chief Executive announced this during the annual reunion of the University of the Philippines Law Alumni Association held at the Maharlika Hall of Malacanang. The citizens assemblies are expected to be convened before the end of the year to allow them to: give their views on "whether or not to continue with the present administration and the reforms of the New Society", the President said.

THE PRESIDENT has pledged more Government incentives for small-scale businessmen in the form of added investment, administrative and advisory support and appropriate tax breaks. In a speech read for him by Undersecretary of Trade Mario Reyes during the Fifth Convention " of Modern Small-Scale Industries in Cebu City, the Chief Executive said that these incentives to small entrepreneurs are in line with the administration's policy to create a healthy economic environment wherein both big and small enterprises could flourish side by side. The new incentives will complement the financing programs which at present total P100 million for small-scale business which also include management and technical assistance.

THE PRESIDENT sought the help of the country's top educators in formulating a plan to involve: the nation's youth in national development projects even as he reiterated the need to restructure higher education toward national development goals. In a speech read for him by Secretary of National Defense Juan Ponce Enrile at the University of the Philippines alumni homecoming in Diliman, the President said the Government seeks to ensure the maximum contribution of the educational system to the overall national development goals within the context of a free and democratic society. These educational reforms—the President added, are based on the philosophy that the national community is not free as long as freedom is the preserve of a privileged few.

PEOPLE'S Republic of China is importing $1,326 million worth of crude coconut oil from the country, the Department of Trade reported. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. has approved the exportation of the coconut-product by the Legazpi Oil Company, a domestic corporation which pioneered exports to China. The commodity's buyer is the China National Cereals, Oils and Foodsuffs Import and Export Corporation of Peking, China. With the exportation, the country's export to China since May, 1972, will amount to $20,508,550. This will represent a trade balance in the country's favor since China's exports to the country at present amount to $19,352,020.

THE GOVERNMENT has enlisted the aid of teachers to intensify its efforts in propagating the goals of the New Society among the students in all levels of the educational system. In a directive to the Department of Education and Culture, President Marcos has asked for a progress report on the Department's ongoing special programs aimed at reorienting teachers on the objectives of the administration. The President considered these programs, which he had ordered drawn up sometime ago, of utmost importance since school teachers mold the minds of about 10 million students, roughly one-third of the country's population. The Government's move was announced by the President over the weekly multi-network, The DPI Report, wherein he spoke on "Freedom from Ignorance," the third in a series of discussions in the four freedoms, in connection with the month-long celebration of the 75th anniversary of Philippine Independence.

FOUR INTERNATIONAL conferences are scheduled to be held in the Philippines between this year and 1975. These international meetings, which will gather in one roof the core of tourist industry leaders, are expected to intensify the country's bid for international tourists. The four international conventions to be held in Manila from 1973 to 1975 are: 1) The Hongkong Association of Travel Agents, June 3-6, 1973; 2) The International Congress and Convention Association, November, 1973; 3) The meeting of Rotary International in Asia, January, 1974; 4) The Asian Regional Conference of Rotary International, January, 1975. These international meets, particularly the HATA and ICCA conventions, will be attended by prominent tourist industry leaders who are in the best position to promote the Philippines as tourist destination point.

SOCIAL SECURITY System has announced that cessation of operations or separation of employees will not exempt employers from registration and payment of contributions for the period the separated employees were under their employ. SSS Administrator Gilberto Teodoro issued this clarification in connection with the deadline on May 31 this year foil the payment in full of delinquent accounts and the submission of proposals of payment without incurring criminal liability of fine. Mr. Teodoro said that the general rule since June 18, 1960 is compulsory coverage for industrial and agricultural employees and casual workers.

THE PHILIPPINES appealed to the colonial powers to heed the pleas for independence of colonized nations as it reaffirmed its policy to uphold the right to self-determination of all peoples. The appeal was aired by acting [unreadable] Secretary Jose D. Ingles in a press statement relayed [unreadable] Philippine deputy permanent representative to the United Nations session of the UN marking the Week of Solidarity with the colonial peoples of Southern Africa, Guinea (Bissau), and Cape Verde in their struggle for independence. Expressing sympathy with the colonial peoples in these three countries in their struggle for freedom. Secretary Ingles said the Philippines was reaffirming its fervent belief that in due course there will no longer be any country or peoples suffering from colonial domination.

May 28—

THE PRESIDENT has approved the recommendations of the Special Committee on Travel authorizing the travel overseas of different categories of Filipinos. Foreign Undersecretary Manuel Collantes, chairman of the special committee, announced that the recommendations have been contained in Letter of Instructions No. 76 issued by the President. Authorized to travel under LOI 76 are immigrants; persons under contracts of employment in other countries; bonafide businessmen; permanent residents; contract workers and students who come to the Philippines for a visit and thereafter return to the country where they reside or currently work and study; government officials on official business; and scholars and trainees.

THE GOVERNMENT has earmarked P300 million to be used for buying local palay right in the field. The move to bring Government palay buying operations right to the field is intended to complement a parallel move by the Philippine National Bank to process bank loan applications literally at the farmers doorsteps. The scheme to buy and pay cash for local palay right in the fields was announced by Secretary of Agriculture Arturo R. Tanco Jr. in his capacity as chairman-coordinator of the National Food and Agriculture Council (NFAC).

THE PRESIDENT sought the cooperation of surrendered Muslim rebel leaders in the restoration of peace and order in Cotabato for the immediate implementation of the province's development projects. The Chief Executive made the appeal in a meeting with 14 Muslim rebel leaders in Malacañang. He reemphasized that the planned road building, irrigation system improvement, port works and infrastructure projects will only start when the pockets of resistance and occasional ambushes in the province have been totally wiped out.

THE GOVERNMENT has started to break down many Philippine tribalistic enclaves and to merge all of them into a cohesive society. Since the imposition of Martial Law, reforms have been instituted to erase the idea that the Philippines is made up of a majority of minorities. More specifically, Filipinos are being urged to develop a new outlook towards the so-called cultural minorities, specially the Muslims. Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor made these observations in a speech delivered during the launching of Dr. Cesar Majul's book, "Muslims in the Philippines." The book, Secretary Melchor said, relates to the present effort of building a new nation. He said the "Muslims in the Philippines" is valuable because it reveals to all Filipinos the manner and the degree of differences among themselves and bridges the gaps that have arisen as a result of these differences.

DEPARTMENT of Local Governments and Community Development enjoined all provincial governors, city and municipal mayors to help in the orderly and efficient registration of reservists of the Armed Forces throughout the country. DLGCD Secretary Jose Roño noted that in the past, annual registration of reservists had been ineffective due to procedural hitches like non-availability or shortage of prescribed forms and a weak distribution system, defective administrative mechanics and inadequate information campaign. To facilitate this year's registration, Mr. Roño has directed local government executives to provide the local civil registrars in their respective areas: 1) Authorization for the detail of reasonable number of personnel in extending all administrative assistance; and 2) Authority to render overtime work during weekends and holidays within the month-long period.

THE PRESIDENT has devised moves to effect immediate reemployment for some 50,000 to 60,000 personnel of governmental agencies and entities abolished by Martial Law, the reorganization plan and the new Charter. In Letter of Instructions No. 77, the Chief Executive directed Budget Commissioner Faustino Sychangco to give priority to bid government employees before accommodating new personnel. To broaden possible sources of employment, the President further directed the budget commissioner to coordinate with various chambers of trade and industry for hiring of the displaced government employees.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL Revenue reported a total, of P853.29 million as the gross tax collection for April. In a report to Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata, Acting BIB Commissioner Conrado Diaz said that the April collection exceeded by 36.7 per cent the collection for April, 1972. It also surpassed by 94.7 percent the collections for March this year which was P438.64 million. A breakdown of the tax collections for the month of April follows: specific tax, P54.8 million; license, business and occupational taxes, P110.82 million; income tax, P408.59 million; hidden wealth P250.63 million; and other taxes and fees, P28.45 million.

May 29—

THE PRESIDENT assured that there will be no school crisis this year. "My orders are strict, no child should be refused attendance in the public schools, especially in the lower grades," the President stressed at the "Pulong-pulong sa Kaunlaran" radio-television program. At the same time, the President ordered Secretary of Education and Culture Juan Manuel to look into the reported jacking up of school supplies prices. Secretary Manuel admitted that "there seems to be an indication that the prices have gone up." However, he added, the Price Control Council has pegged prices of these items. The education secretary warned that if storeowners do not abide by these established prices, "they are subject to disciplinary action."

THE PRESIDENT directed the Commission on Elections to prepare the list of new voters and members of the citizen's assemblies. At the same time, the Chief Executive paved the way for the implementation of the new Constitution when he inducted into office the newly-named Comelec chairman and the six members of the nine-man electoral body. The President said that since the new Constitution lowers the voting age from 21 to 18 years and since citizens from 15 years old have been allowed to participate in the citizen's assemblies, the immediate task of the Comelec now is to prepare a new list of voters and members of the citizen's assemblies.

DEPARTMENT of Social Welfare has intensified its seminar-workshop program on regional level to pave the way for the implementation of a day-care project that would provide pre-school education and supplemental milk feeding to some 18 million indigent children throughout the country. The DSW had just concluded a seminar-workshop on responsible parenthood and on the social development of pre-school children for day-care workers of the department's Region IV, covering Southern Luzon. DSW Secretary Estefania Aldaba-Lim, in a speech delivered during the seminar's closing ceremonies, stressed the significance of the day-care program in that it would assure the country of useful citizens in the coming generations.

THE PHILIPPINES has proposed a list of some 80 export products which can be exported to Indonesia in volumes quantities as the two countries further explore trade possibilities. The list was submitted to the Indonesian embassy here. The export products range from building materials to fertilizers and food preserves. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the Department of Trade submitted the list following a conference with Mr. B. S. Kusumonegoro, minister counselor of the Indonesian embassy, which discussed ways of improving trade between the two countries. Indonesia and the Philippines will also review the implementation of the various economic agreements between the two countries through the Joint Philippine-Indonesian Commission.

DEMOLITION crews from the Bureau of Public Highways and the City Engineer's Office of Manila will tear down traffic islands along three major thoroughfares in the city. Work has to be made in the evening so as not to interfere with the smooth flow of traffic. This was agreed upon during a meeting of the district engineers of South and North Manila and the city engineer and their staff at the office of Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino. The three main roads where demolition work will be made are Rizal avenue (from Claro M. Recto to Carriedo); España Blvd. (Quezon boundary to Lerma); and Magsaysay blvd. (from west approach of the overpass to the Carriedo Fountain).

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System (GSIS) and the Social Security System (SSS) announced that all Medicare members who have been hospitalized will be provided with a copy of their statement of payments from the health insurance funds made to the hospitals, doctors and drugstores for services rendered. The Philippine Medical Care Commission has recommended this arrangement to keep members posted on the balances of their benefits and those of their legal dependents. The statement of payments will indicate the exact payments made on the member's behalf by the medicare program.

May 30—

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree amending the Judiciary Act of 1948 by relocating the permanent stations of district judges to strategically-located cities and capital towns to improve the efficient administration of justice. The new decree aims to make permanent stations of district judges more accessible to the people by amending Section 52 of Republic Act No. 296. Issued upon the recommendation of Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos, the decree seeks to amend the present problem of ineffective district courts which: had been established in certain municipalities which lack facilities for holding court.

THE GOVERNMENT approved the exportation of $2-million worth of buri fibers to the People's Republic of China. The one million kilos buri fibers (buntal) exports, the first since 1966 and the biggest over recorded in the industry, was approved by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., who has been designated by the President his sole-representative to- pass upon applications to export the fibers. The exportation is expected to encourage the production of the local fibers and harness to the full the foreign exchange earning capacity of this sector.

SECRETARY of National Defense Juan Ponce Enrile ordered the Coast Guard to work out measures designed to effect close coordination between transport companies and rice merchants in order to expedite delivery of rice and other prime products to the Visayas and Mindanao regions. The defense chief issued the directive following a meeting with representatives of local shipping companies and trucking firms at Camp Aguinaldo. The defense chief was assured by the transport officials that the shipments of cereal and other foodstuff will be given priority so that the flow would be free and uninterrupted. Secretary Enrile directed the Coast Guard to strictly enforce his orders and to see to it that priority is given by transport companies in the shipment of rice, corn and other foodstuffs.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered a study on ways of setting up a center for Islamic studies in the University of the Philippines and has also directed the extension of authority for the use of Arabic as medium of instruction in schools and areas where its use is permissible. The President's directives were embodied in two Letters of Instructions he issued, one to UP President Salvador P. Lopez and the other to Secretary of Education and Culture Juan L. Manuel. The President stressed that "it is recognized that much of Philippine culture is Islamic in character and influence," and that "Philippine history cannot be written and studied in its full dimension and depth without an examination and appraisal of our past and present relations with the Islamic world, in-corn and other foodstuff.

DEPARTMENT of Finance reminded real property owners that they have only up to June 30, 1973, to file the sworn statement on the true value of their real property pursuant to President Decree No. 76. Real property owners were asked to note that under the decree, the current and fair market value was defined to mean the "price at which seller would sell and a willing buyer would buy, neither being under abnormal pressure." Finance Secretary Cesar S. A. Virata clarified that fruit trees and bamboo plants are exempt from real property taxes unless the land where these are grown is principally planted to such growth for commercial purposes. All provincial and city assessors were directed not to compel real property owners to appear personally for purposes of declaring under oath their sworn statement.

SECRETARY Jose Roño of the Department of Local Governments and Community Development announced that a massive financing scheme has been evolved for the small fishermen as part of the Government's campaign to make the country self-sufficient in foodstuff. He stated this in a conference with officers of the National Federation of Fishermen's Cooperatives, Inc. During the meeting, Secretary Roño also assured the fishermen that the Government, will extend to them all the help they need to uplift, the living standard of small fishermen all over the country.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the lifting of military supervision and control over four of seven utility firms which had been taken over, managed and operated by the Armed Forces after the imposition of Martial Law. In Letter of Instructions No. 84, the Chief Executive ordered Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile to withdraw military supervision over the Manila Electric Company, the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage System, the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company, and the Philippine National Railways. This was aimed to further normalize the national situation. The President also delimited the span of control over the country's three airlines. Henceforth, military supervision over the Philippine Airlines, the Filipinas Orient Airways and Air Manila will be primarily concerned with maintaining national security and ensuring the continued operations of these firms.

THE FIRST LADY placed priority on the control of heart diseases in the country as she pledged to "pursue with resolution and sincere dedication the noble task of curbing heart disease" through the Heart Foundation of the Philippines and the Heart Research Center for Asia. Mrs. Marcos made the pledge as she received a special citation for her unselfish effort in the promotion of interest in treatment and research concerning the many problems associated with heart disease. The citation was given by the Merck, Sharpe and Dohme International through its vice president, Mr. James Latendresse, in appropriate ceremonies at the Malacañang Ceremonial Hall.

THE PRESIDENT has proposed to the International Consultative Group of Aid to the Philippines a reorientation of its policy in order to place greater emphasis on the development of rural areas. The Chief Executive made the proposal in a message delivered for him by Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata during the opening of the two-day annual meeting of the World Bank-sponsored group in Paris. The message stressed that with this new policy, the income distributive growth rate of the country would further improve as this would optimize all development inputs within a given area. In his message, the President said that the phase of reforms in the country has been accelerated. He also explained the necessity for the imposition of Martial Law last year "to solve grave problems caused by certain sectors of our society who escalated their destructive activities and mounted a rebellion against our Republic after the floods and droughts disrupted the Philippine economy."

LANDOWNERS were reassured of just compensation for their lands under the Government's land transfer program. Agrarian Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella reiterated the Government assurance as he appealed to landowners to give their all-out support to the land reform program. Speaking before the Civic Assembly of Women at the Philippine Women's, University auditorium, Secretary Estrella assured landowners that under the President's program of providing land to deserving landless tenants, the landowners will get just compensation for their lands.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad urged campus journalist to be actively involved in community—even national—undertakings. Speaking before the National Workshop and Seminar for Advisers of Public High School Papers in Cebu City, the information secretary said that campus journalism—like the professional press—should be a potent instrument for dynamic social change. He explained that campus journalism should not be merely confined to campus goings-on. It should also involve itself with community and national undertakings. Secretary Tatad said campus journalism does not aim to inculcate the support for the New Society. Rather, it is aimed at inculcating the values and developing young minds in order to train them for living, he added.

CIVIL SERVICE Commission will issue guidelines to all government appointing officials in connection with the reemployment of some 60 000 displaced government workers. CSC Commissioner Epi Rey Pangramuyen said that the Commission will enforce strict measures in the reemployment of qualified laid-off employees in order to do away with the “palakasan” system of seeking employment. Letter of Instructions No. 77 has directed the re-hiring of some 60,000 government workers who had been laid-off in the wake of the ratification of the new Constitution and the reorganization of the Government. The .CSC head stressed that those who have already retired and those who have already received gratuities from their respective agencies are no longer covered by the re-employment program.

INSURANCE Commissioner Gregoria Cruz Arnaldo announced that the cost of private motor vehicle insurance will be reduced effective June 1 but compensation for third party liability cover will be increased from P10,00 to P20,00, Commissioner Arnalso explained that the revision of the premium rate on private motor vehicles was needed so that the cost of insurance may be rationalized and allocated among the insured more fairly. She added that the increase of the compensation for third party liability was in consonance with recent jurisprudence raising compensation of accident victims. The Commission also said that the improved peace and order condition since the imposition of Martial Law has reduced motor vehicle thefts, thus justifying the reduction of premium for theft cover.

MEDICARE MEMBERS can also avail themselves of adequate medical services in small hospitals and clinics and must amend their habit of patronizing big and expensive hospitals. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission (PMCC), made this observation based on statistics that majority of Medicare members who complained against the high cost of hospitalization had been confined in big private hospitals and attended by “big-time” doctors. Dr. Marcos clarified that PMCC cannot assume all hospital expenses which will be incurred by Medicare members who will seek confinement in expensive hospitals. Medicare members must be assured that small hospitals, except in cases where more sophisticated equipment and instruments are needed can meet the needs of most patients, he added. The PMCC chairman advised Medicare members who fully depend on their Medicare benefits to seek confinement in Medicare or service wards of government hospitals and to ask for government staff physicians.

President's Week in Review: June 1-7, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 1—

THE PRESIDENT announced that all foreign firms setting up manufacturing plants in the Philippines have applied for space in the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan. He made the announcement as he reiterated his advice before a group of businessmen and industrialists to set up factories in the sprawling Export Processing Zone. The group included officials of the Mariwasa and Honda Motors Corporation who paid their respects to the Chief Executive at Malacañang to inform him of the formation of a joint venture for the manufacture of motorcycles and parts in the Philippines.

THE PRESIDENT created a three-man Professional Regulation Commission to oversee the various boards of examiners in an effort to upgrade the standards of professionalism. The President explained he was prompted to organize the commission because the boards of examiners have acted only as examining units; though they are supposed to supervise and regulate professional practices. The PRC will be composed of full-time commissioner, who will act as chairman to serve for nine years without reappointment, and two full-time associate commissioners, one appointed for six years and the other for three years.

ALL GOVERNMENT offices are required to codify all laws and regulations governing or relating to their operations. Memorandum Circular No. 636, issued by the President, requires all heads of departments, bureaus, offices, agencies and other instrumentalities of the Government to submit to his office within 30 days from May 28 the codified laws and regulations. In issuing the memorandum, the President said people find it difficult to understand simple government operations because relevant laws, rules and regulations, circulars, orders and other similar matters are not collated.

THE PHILIPPINE Government has signed an agreement for a $1.8 million assistance from the United Nations Fund for Population Activities (UNFPA) for the country's population education project. The Project will involve the integration of population education into the curricula of the elementary, secondary and teacher-training levels of the school system. It aims to reduce the size of the Filipino family, thus ensuring a more informed and responsible attitude on population matters. Di rector General Gerardo P. Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority signed for the Philippines while Mr. William H. Harding signed for UNFPA.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad has launched the 1973 fund campaign of the Philippine Mental Health Association (Cebu Chapter) to underline the need for a nationwide awareness on the significance of mental health in nation-building. The secretary stressed that the campaign's eventual success to create public awareness on mental health—to the extent that each man, woman and child will care to know how he or she can help safeguard this great wealth of the nation—will ensure the country's progress.

DEPARTMENT of Local Governments and Community Development has clarified that farmers who had a standing credit obligation with the defunct ACCFA (now Agricultural Credit Administration) are not covered by the condonation proviso in Presidential Decree No. 175. Under this decree, the DLGCD is empowered to condone the principal and/or accumulated interest on past due on production and/or farm improvement loans extended by the ACCFA and the ACA to farmer members of agricultural cooperatives. DLGCD Secretary Jose Roño made this clarification following a report from the ACA that farmers have altogether stopped paying for the loans they have obtained from the Government financing arm.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue issued the following deadlines for tax payments for June: 1) June 11—for employers who withheld taxes of P200 or more from wages during the month of May, 1973, to deposit their collections with the BIR; for government offices to submit BIR form 7 50 to remit internal revenue taxes withheld in May. 2) June 15—for filing of the final return by corporations whose taxable year ended on February 28, and for payment of the corresponding tax; and for payment of the second installment of income tax by corporations whose preceding taxable year ended on November 30, 1972. 3) June 29—for filing and payment of the quarterly corporate income tax return for the third quarter by corporations whose taxable year ends on July 31; for filing and payment of the quarterly corporate income tax return for the second quarter by corporations whose taxable year ends on October 31, 1973; and for filing and payment of the: quarterly corporate income tax return for the third quarter by corporations whose taxable year ended on May 31, 1973.

THE PRESIDENT has declared the development of a nationwide net work of locally controlled waterworks and sewerage systems as a Government policy of high priority to spur economic growth and ensure public health protection, especially in rural areas. The Chief Executive has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 198—referred to as the Provincial Water Utilities Act of 1973—providing for the formulation and operation of “independent, locally controlled public water districts.” The Decree also provides two statutes, the Local Water District Law and the Local Water Utilities Administration Law.

THE LOCAL Water District Law, embodied in Presidential Decree No 198, provides the authority and power for the legislative body of a city municipality or province to form local water districts. Districts may lie formed to acquire, install, improve, maintain and operate water supply and distribution systems for domestic, industrial, municipal and agricultural uses for residents and lands within boundaries of such districts ; provide, maintain and operate waste-water collection, treatment and disposal of facilities; and conduct other functions and operations incidental water source development, utilization and disposal. The district will be managed by a five-member board which will also name the district’s general manager.

THE LOCAL Water Utilities Administration—which will be attached to the National Economic, and Development Authority—is the national agency that will supervise and integrate the various districts’ waterworks and sewerage projects. The agency will assume the following functions: 1, Establish minimum standards and regulations to assure acceptable standards of construction materials and supplies, maintenance, operation, personnel, training, accounting and fiscal practices for local utilities. 2) Furnish technical assistance and personnel training programs for local water utilities. 3) Monitor and evaluate local water standards. 4) Effect system integration, joint investment and operations, district annexation and de-annexation. 4) Provide a specialized lending institution with expertise in the financing of local water utilities. The board of trustees of the administration shall be composed of five members, all Filipino citizens to be appointed by the President to serve five-year terms.

THE GOVERNMENT has issued land transfer certificates to 550 tenant-tillers of the 3,400-hectare Hawkins Estate in Cagayan and ended a 46-year-old land dispute between the estate’s heirs and Ilocano settlers. The beneficiaries received their certificates together with 1,807 other Cagayan farmers from the nearby towns of Enrile, Amulung, Solana and Faire. Agrarian Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella said that the entire Hawkins Estate is now under the Government’s land transfer program.

THE PRESIDENT moved to stimulate the expansion and improvement of the country’s shipping industry by ordering the reimbursement of a 17 per cent tax on imported vessels to local firms. He also announced he will soon create an independent Maritime Development Commission. The two moves are aimed to revitalize the nations shipping industry to make it more competitive in the worldwide maritime trade. The President stressed that an improved water transportation will promote tourism development and serve the growing requirements of the country’s coastwise commerce.

M A N I L A I N T E R N A T I O N A L Airport customshouse collected P8, 570.416.24 in revenue last May, which was more than double that of the same month last year. Airport Collector Cesar Dario attributed the increased collection, which started after the imposition of Martial Law, to the new morality now obtaining in the Bureau of Customs, and to the military presence at the airport. Last April, the collection of the airport customshouse hit the P8 million mark for the first time. Before that, customs collection at the airport averaged only from P3 million to P2 million monthly.

DEPARTMENT of Trade assured the public that the Government has taken steps to soften the impact on the local scene of the continuing drop in the production of fishmeal abroad and the heavy purchases of wheat by the Republic of China. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said appropriate agencies of the Government have already been advised to meet the repercussions in the domestic scene of this worldwide development.

June 3—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated a presidential decree amending the law on geodetic engineering to enable undergraduates to qualify as land reform surveyors in the massive land reform program. In issuing the decree, the President said he was anticipating the need for thousands of surveyors with land reform going full blast and Masagana 99 rice production program underway in 600,000 pilot hectares. Under Republic Act 4374, a five-year course is prescribed for students interested in the broad field of geodetic engineering. However, since the enactment of the law in 1965, the number of those pursuing the study of geodetic engineering has dwindled.

THE PRESIDENT issued Special Decree No. 196 converting the Nueva Vizcaya Agricultural College in Bayombong into the Nueva Vizcaya State Institute of Technology. The new decree also expands the school's curricular programs in technology pursuant to a provision in the new Constitution that all educational institutions shall aim to develop scientific, technological and vocational efficiency. The institute shall primarily provide higher vocational, professional and technical instructions and trainings in agricultural and industrial fields. It shall also promote research, advanced studies and progressive leadership in the fields of agriculture, including agricultural education and home technology, fishery, forestry and industrial education.

MARTIAL LAW has not changed the country's foreign policy which stress the strengthening of ties with Southeast Asian countries and the broadening of relations with Socialist countries and Western Europe. Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo made the statement in an interview during "The DPI Report", a multi-network television program. Taking a look at the future course of the Philippine foreign policy of the New Society, Secretary Romulo said "the general relaxation of tensions, with particular reference to Asia, is likely to present us with new problems." Our duty is to anticipate developments and make the inevitable adjustments in the light of our perceived interests and in accordance with the interests of the region," he stressed. In this connection, the foreign affairs chief said the country is in the process of establishing new bases for a more balanced relationship with the United States.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad equated the future of the country with the vision and dedication of its scientists, and saw for these "gifted men, who often have to contend with neglect and indifference," the dawn of a brighter day. "The light that shows in the hand of progress will have to be that of science always," Secretary Tatad told the Mathematical Society of the Philippines at its meeting at the Columbian Club. "The scientist's laboratory is after all, where one builds the roads to the unknown, and there, the politics of men and nations is reduced to insignificance." He assured, however, that "beginnings are being made" in the Philippines to upgrade its regard for the scientist. "It will require a sustained effort for such beginnings to grow into a program that will ensure maximum support and protection to our men of science, but so long as good sense guides the policies of government the growth of such a program will be assured."

INSURANCE Commission has tagged the Integrated Motor Vehicle Owners, Inc. as an illegal insurance firm. Due to the mounting complaints received by the IC and the Department of Justice, the Department of Finance warned the public against the illegal activities of the Quezon City-based firm. According to a report submitted by Insurance Commissioner Gregoria Cruz Arnaldo to Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata, the company issues certificates of membership to operators of public utility vehicles. Commissioner Arnaldo said that the certificates are issued through the firm's managing agent or attorney-in-fact under which a certificate of financial assistance is extended in the form of payment of claims of third parties against the member-operators in return for monthly fees.

June 4—

THE PRESIDENT during an interview with former Secretary of Education Onofre D. Corpus on "Freedom of Self-determination" at the television program. "The DPI Report" remarked that the hallmarks of world approval of the Philippines' concept of self-determination are everywhere This affirmation of the Philippine New Society by other people is indicated by the pouring of investments—the best evidence of a foreign country's confidence on the stability of another nation "This to me indicates that we have brought pervasive acceptance of our concert of self-determination which is not jingoistic," the President said.

SECRETARY of Labor Blas F. Ople informed the President that the country's labor reforms and policies under the New Society will be presented before the International Labor Conference which will be held in Geneva, Switzerland. The President was appraised of this by the members of the Philippine delegation who made a courtesy call in Malacañang for last-minute instructions. The month-long conference of the International Labor Organization will be attended by representatives of labor and management from 130 nations to discuss labor situation in their respective regions.

PRICE CONTROL Council readjusted the wholesale, producer and retail prices of edible oil, infant dietetics and canned mackerel in a move to arrest the spiralling prices of these commodities. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. stressed that the price body took this step in order to allow producers and importers of these commodities to break even and, make minimum mark ups on other items.

DEPARTMENT of Local Governments and Community Development urged the creation in every city or municipality of a development committee to hasten the generation of community development projects out of the Barrio Development Fund (BDF). The development committee, according to DLGCD Secretary Jose Roño, should be composed of the city/municipal mayor or his duly authorized representative as chairman; the city/municipal treasurer, the Association of Barrio Captains, president of the city/municipality, one city/municipal councilor chosen by a council/board, and the city/municipal development officer, as members.

THE PRESIDENT directed Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino to take over construction work on portions of unfinished work whenever the private contractor is found lagging behind schedule. This directive was issued by the President to make sure that all highways projects in the country will be completed on time. The President's directive was contained in Letter of Instructions No. 86. The Chief Executive gave the public highways commissioner discretion to have the projects "done by qualified and responsible contractors, through renegotiated contract, at the original contract price."

DEVELOPMENT Bank of the Philippines has formulated guidelines to synchronize the bank's new fisheries financing program. Initially, this loan program will grant loans only to small deepsea fishing operations in the Mindanao-Sulu-Palawan region. The guidelines are 1) The borrower must be an individual, a partnership, a cooperative, an association or a private corporation engaged in marine fishing. 2) The amount of loan will be based on the actual needs of project costs but all borrowers are required to contribute at least 20 per cent of the investment project. 3) The loans must be used in the following: construction of fully equipped fishing vessel hulls; acquisition of secondhand fish carriers; construction of ice making, ice storage and chilling facilities and shipways to support fishing operations; and procurement of vessels and fisheries equipment. 4) On the security of the loan, the guidelines provide that all durable assets in the project shall be chatted in favor of DBP. In addition, 20 per cent of the loan shall be covered by real estate collateral. 5) Terms of payment shall be based on payment ability of the borrower and estimated cash flow of the project financed.

SECRETARY of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan stated that doctors desiring to go abroad for further training or specialization under the exchange visitors program are required one year practice after having qualified or passed the medical board exam. This requirement is in accordance with the implementing details of Letter of Instructions No. 76 formulating new guidelines and regulations governing the travel of Filipino citizens under various categories to other countries. Secretary Gatmaitan stated that his requirement which, in fact, is the original requirement adopted heretofore stays until further notice and does not bind doctors who have existing contracts abroad.

UNDER the new Constitution, children of a Filipino and an alien are assured of being not only Filipino citizens but as natural-born Filipinos. Solicitor General Estelito P. Mendoza made this interpretation of a proviso in the new Constitution in a speech before the Federation of Filipino-Chinese Chamber of Commerce. He stressed the significance of Article III of the new Charter which provides that those born of alien fathers but of Filipina mothers are considered citizens of the Philippines and that a Filipina who marries an alien does not lose her citizenship unless she renounces it. He clarified that under the new fundamental law, assimilation should be enhanced and the children of a Filipino and an alien are assure that they shall not only be Filipino citizens but natural-born Filipinos.

THE PHILIPPINES has been selected by the World Federation of Public Health Association (WFPHA) and the American Public Health Association (APHA) as the site of special two-year project to demonstrate how volunteer public association can be strengthened and developed to serve as useful ally of government institutions. Implementing the project is the Philippine Public Health Association (PPHA), a volunteer health group which counts more than 2,000 members composed of doctors, nurses, midwives, dentists, and sanitary inspectors as well as 16 affiliate organizations.

June 5—

THE GOVERNMENT'S efforts to develop Manila as another trade hub of international firms in Southeast Asia are being complemented by findings of United States and United Kingdom newspapers showing it as one of the least expensive places in the region. The President, encouraged by these developments, had set the Government machinery in motion to develop Manila into an Asian regional headquarters for foreign business and industrial conglomerates. The move was particularly directed at business companies with main offices in Hongkong, which he said have been affected by Inflation and the devaluation of the American dollar.

THE PRESIDENT assured a high-level delegation of Muslim leaders that the Philippines is exhausting all means to integrate the Filipino Muslim population into the country's political and economic mainstream. The Chief Executive appealed to the delegation—which was composed of officials of the Muslim World League from Mecca—to cooperate in effecting this social assimilation. The members of the delegation made a courtesy call on the President prior to conducting a fact-finding trip in the south. They specifically asked the President what they can do to strengthen relations between Christians and Muslims in the country.

THE PRESIDENT approved 10-day no-visa visits for Hongkong businessmen and tourists in line with the relaxation of travel requirements for visitors from the Crown Colony. The Chief Executive announced the new travel incentives during a courtesy call of officers and members of the Hongkong Association of Travel Agents (HATA) in Malacañang. The President also directed Immigration Commissioner Edmundo Reyes to extend from 72 hours to 10 days the stay of Hongkong investors and stockbrokers without visa.

THE PHILIPPINES is going to tie up its tourism development programs with those of other Asian countries in order to boost local promotion plans. The Government's new approach to local tourism development which will be mutually advantageous to the Philippines and her Asian neighbors, was announced by Secretary of Tourism Jose D. Aspiras as he welcomed members of the Hongkong Association of Travel Agents who are in Manila for their second annual convention at the Manila Hilton. The head of the newly formed tourism department said that by working closely with the successful promotional schemes of its Asian neighbors, the Philippines will be able to accelerate the growth of its tourism industry.

THE PRESIDENT stressed that the preservation of the environment is now one of the major concerns of the Government. The Chief Executive issued Proclamation No. 1149 declaring June 5 of every year a World Environment Day. Underlining the importance of the occasion, the President called on all Filipinos, especially government officials and employees, to observe the day with activities reaffirming their concern for the preservation, improvement and beautification of the environment.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission has prepared new medicare application forms intended to lessen requirements for documentation and to facilitate processing. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that starting July 1 all claims for medicare benefits and payments should be made on the new forms. This is the second time that the medicare claim forms were revised since the Medicare Program was implemented in April, 1972. The forms can be obtained by hospitals, medicare members and employers from the medicare department of the Government Service Insurance System, the Social Security System, and the PMCC.

DEPARTMENT of Agriculture and Natural Resources has announced that importations of gamebirds or fighting cocks are now totally banned while those of race horses will be phased out within four years. Acting Agriculture Secretary Jose D. Drilon said the ban will take effect on July 1, based on the recommendation submitted by Director Pedro G. Refuerzo of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Director Refuerzo said that the average importation of gamebirds totalled 3,980 heads per year for the last 12 years, causing a heavy drain on the foreign exchange reserves. The average importation of horses in the last 12 years totalled 149 heads a year, the director said. The phase-out will limit importation to 100 for the first year, to be gradually decreased by 25 heads every year.

THE GOVERNMENT has collected a total of P3.4 billion in revenue for the first 10 months of Fiscal Year 1972-73. This increase in the revenue collection is 41.44 per cent more than that of the same period in FY 1971-72. Commissioner Misael P. Vera said that the P3, 448,543,725 collection do not include collections through customs during the first 10 months from July, 1972 to April 1973. The net amount that went to the national government for the 10-month period under review totalled P2, 458,137,177, or an increase of 52.98 per cent over the same period during FY 1971-72. Mr. Vera attributed the continuing increase in collection to extensive collection and tax information campaign launched by the Government with emphasis on the tax amnesty decrees and the filing of income tax returns.

THE PRESIDENT has formed a special committee to coordinate and integrate a systematic development of the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan. The Chief Executive said the integration of the projects would provide better planning in laying out an industrial complex based on the various firms relevance and utility. Circular No. 635, which created the special committee, notes that development projects undertaken by both the Government and the private sector around the zone have been programmed independently of each other. The Secretary of the Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications will act as committee chairman, with the secretary of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources as vice chairman.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism will adopt a seven-point program envisioned to develop the country's potential tourists spots, to intensify promotions of both domestic and foreign tourism and to liberalize entry equipments for foreign tourists. Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras outlined the guideline during the radio-television broadcast of "Pulong-pulong sa Kaunlaran." It includes: 1) The physical development aspects of tourism with a view to preparing the country to receive more tourists. 2) The participation of private enterprise in the development program with the assistance and encouragement of the tourism department. 3) A sustained and massive foreign promotion program through more information offices abroad. 4) Professionalism in the rank and file of the tourism department. 5) Technical and financial assistance for the private sector, including in the field of investments and the drafting of rigid standards to ensure high quality service and ethical business practices. 6) The promotion of domestic tourism simultaneously with foreign tourism. 7) The further liberalization of entry requirements for tourists.

THE GOVERNMENT is endorsing a month-long fair depicting the country's economic, political and social progress. The fair will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines in conjunction with the trade chamber's 70th anniversary celebration this year. The proposed industrial and commercial fair will be held in December at the Quirino Grandstand (Luneta) and will involve various government agencies headed by the Department of Trade. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. endorsed the project because it will accentuate the partnership between the Government and private sector for national progress.

THE PHILIPPINES is extending $5,000 relief assistance to six African countries now facing famine. The President, expressing concern over the emergency situation, instructed Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo to wire the Philippine Mission in the United Nations to pledge the cash assistance for the African countries. The six African countries threatened with famine are Chad, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Senegal and Upper Volta—all located in the Sudano-Sahelian region of Africa. The Philippine donation was made in response to the urgent appeal of the secretary-general of the United Nations.

SHARES of stocks sold outside the Philippines need not be registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The SEC issued this ruling in connection with the sale of $15 million worth of 328,005 shares of stocks by the Marinduque Mining and Industrial Corporation (MMIC), a Philippine firm, to the International Financing Corporation, an affiliate of the World Bank. The question of the issuance and sale of notes by the MMIC to the IFC was referred to the SEC by the Bancom Development Corporation. From facts gathered from the SEC, it appears that the MMIC has entered into an investment agreement with the IFC in Washington D.C., on December 16, 1971. One of the conditions imposed by the IFC under the investment plan was that MMIC will have to file with the SEC in Manila MMIC's registration statement under the Philippine Securities Act. Under the SEC ruling, no registration statement is required to be filed with the SEC and that the IFC may dispose of any or all the debentures or warrant shares provided the sale is done outside the Philippines.

THE COUNTRY'S Masagana 99 rice production program received an allocation of P77.5 million from US Agency for International Development (AID) for the financing of farmers' fertilizers, seeds and pesticides. The agreement was signed by Director General Gerardo P. Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) and Mr. Thomas C. Niblock, director general of USAID in the Philippines. Farmers involved in the Masagana 99 program in 43 provinces may use the fund to finance requirements for fertilizers, seeds, pesticides and other agricultural inputs. The amount of P40 million was authorized to be released immediately.

June 7—

DEPARTMENT of Finance need not review a local tax ordinance which, due to its oppressive or confiscatory nature, has been declared invalid by a provincial board. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued the ruling in answer to a legal query posed by the Finance Department Secretary Abad Santos said the secretary of finance may no longer review the ordinance to suspend it in whole or in part if the tax rates imposed are found to be "unjust, excessive, oppressive, confiscatory or contrary to national economic policy." The authority to review such oppressive tax ordinances was given to the secretary of finance through Presidential Decree No. 143.

REPRESENTATIVES of the French-German industrialist called on the President at Malacañang to report their participation in the Philippines' economic development which is the setting up of a P27 million hydrogen peroxide plant in Valenzuela, Bulacan. The consortium representatives said that the plant, which started operations last May 25, has already received an order for 100 tons of hydrogen peroxide from Taiwan. Claimed to be the most modern and the first of its kind in Southeast Asia, the hydrogen peroxide plant will mean savings of $1 million annually in terms of hydrogen peroxide importation. Local production of hydrogen peroxide is considered a boom to local industries, particularly the textile and pulp paper industries, which use this product.

THE GOVERNMENT has collected a total of P8, 623, 023, 91 in the form of deficiency taxes on contraband items last month. This was reported by Gen. Pelagio A. Cruz, chairman of the Anti-Smuggling Action Center (ASAC) to Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata. Topping last month's collection covered forest charges, fines and other fees in the illegal traffic of logs amounting to P6, 711,914.47. Confiscated blue seal cigarettes totalling 6,428 cartons amounted to P64, 287. Other items apprehended included dried marijuana and crude opium valued at P9, 700. Gen. Cruz reported that the accomplishments for May had exceeded that of April which was P3, 108,332.80. The ASAC chief attributed the increased collections to the hiked informers' rewards given by the Government.

THE GOVERNMENT launched a nation-wide campaign against mislabelling of consumer items and violations of the Price Tag Law. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. mobilized the Fair Trade Board, Price Control Council, Bureau of Commerce and Constabulary troopers detailed with the trade department in the two-pronged drive. In this connection, the Fair Trade Board gave six business establishments found dealing in fake Gold Toe socks five days to show cause why they should not be held for violation of the law on mislabelling. Secretary Quiazon also ordered the apprehension of rice and corn retailers who do not attach price tags on their cereals and those who sell beyond the price fixed by the Price Control Board.

BUREAU of Public Highways has started construction work on the second phase of the Manila-Cavite coastal road aspect of the massive Manila Bay reclamation project. The President was informed by BPH Commissioner Baltazar Aquino that the Construction and Development Corporation of the Philippines, which submitted the lowest bid during the recent bidding for this phase, has begun ground work some 300 meters away from the Cultural Center. The President, in Letter of Instructions No. 85, stressed that paramount importance must be given to this project that "even existing contracts that might be affected must give way" to its realization. The Manila Bay project calls for the extension of the southern terminus of Roxas boulevard up to Cavite City and its northern end up to Orani, Bataan. It also involves the reclamation of the foreshore and submerged land about 1, 000 meters wide to be developed into residential, commercial and industrial areas with tourist and recreation centers. The President said the project will solve the urgent transportation need of the Manila Bay region and promote the dispersal of population and activities from Metropolitan Manila.

SEVERAL importers and businessmen from Honolulu, Hawaii, are interested in buying a wide range of Philippine products. The new list of trade opportunities from Hawaii was transmitted recently to the Department of Trade by Hawaiian Philippine trade representatives. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. who released the names of the Hawaiian business firms, said Hawaiian importers were interested in buying a wide range of Philippine products. These products include building materials, kapi shells, woodcarvings, wood furniture, handicrafts, handbags, custom jewelry, painting exports, lumber products, shoes, slippers, rubber shoes, and chemical products. Secretary Quiazon said that interested parties may get the list of trade opportunities from the Department of Trade.

SOME 2,600 farm management technicians in 36 provinces have been retained on modern rice technology by four mobile teams of the National Food and Agriculture Council. The farm management technicians underwent two-day seminars on Masagana 99 rice program which include the 16 steps on Masagana 99 rice culture. These included land preparation; seedbed preparation, plowing and harrowing; control of leaf hoppers; fertilizer management; weed control; and pesticide application. The teams are expected to cover 43 pilot provinces involved in the Masagana 99 intensified rice program by the end of this month.

President's Week in Review: June 8-14, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 8—

THE PRESIDENT said the country's development efforts are geared toward evolving a balanced agro-industrial economic system wherein each citizen must harness his full productive potentials for national welfare. In a speech keynoting the opening of the trisectoral symposium on the "Dynamics of Development", sponsored by the Department of Public Information, at Malacañang's Maharlika Hall, the Chief Executive equated national development to a social system where agriculture and industries share the primary task of shaping the nation's economic well-being. The President, however, emphasized that development could only be effected where there is stability and security, especially for developing countries like the Philippines. Under an era of stability, each man, woman and child must harness his or her own productive capacities for this is the New Filipino's role in the New Society, the President stresses.

THE GOVERNMENT'S localized socio-economic projects will be further bolstered when local governments receive their internal revenue allotments for fiscal year 1973-74. According to Secretary of Finance Cesar E.A. Virata, the provinces, cities and municipalities will start receiving their monthly BIR allotments through the Treasury field cashiers without any deficiency regardless of whether or not there will be sufficient collections in their respective provinces to cover fully said allotments. Pre-determined allotments for the incoming fiscal year amounted to P482,911,314.72. Aside from this the President has announced the release of P120,752,828.68 as financial aid to local governments for projects pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 144. The decree enjoins the local governments to appropriate in their general fund budget not less than 20 per cent of the annual allotment for development projects.

THE PRESIDENT extended anew the deadline for the filing of amnesty applications and ordered that all proceedings before military tribunals and civil courts against amnesty applicants be held in abeyance pending his final action on their applications. The President signed Presidential Decree No. 206, extending to July 15, 1973, the deadline for the filing of amnesty applications. It was the third time the Chief Executive extended the deadline for amnesty applicants. The original deadline was on February 28, 1973, but this was extended to March 15, 1973.

BOARD OF COMMUNICATIONS issued a five-point policy intended to integrate the Philippines' telecommunications facilities and systems. Gen. Ceferino S. Carreon, BOC chairman, said the five-point policy is expected to hasten the development of the National Telecommunications Network. The five-point policy follows: 1) Domestic common carrier service (telephone and telegraph) should be made 100 per cent or wholly Filipino-owned corporations. 2) Telegraph and telephone firms should voluntarily enter into merger, consolidation or amalgamation in order to prevent wasteful duplication of service and unnecessary competition. 3) Plans for expansion of facilities and services by domestic common carrier firms should be referred to the Board for approval. 4) Telephone and telegraph companies are encouraged to go into voluntary interconnection (common use) of facilities. 5) Any proposed interconnecting agreement between a domestic common carrier and an international common carrier should secure prior approval of the BOC before its finalization.

THE GOVERNMENT'S program to rehabilitate and develop Mindanao has already gained ground in the fields of electrification, irrigation, road building and other infrastructure projects. This was the gist of a departmental-military briefing given to a high level delegation of Muslim diplomats in Malacañang. The Muslim resident envoys in the country were particularly apprised of ongoing rehabilitation and development projects in predominantly-Muslim areas in Mindanao and Sulu inasmuch as they had been earlier assured that the peace and order condition in the areas had already stabilized. The briefing will enable the envoys to draw measures their states could initiate to contribute in the Government's rehabilitation efforts.

LESSORS of personal properties, not the lessees, should pay the three per cent contractor's tax imposed by the National Internal Revenue Code. Secretary of Justice Vicente Abad Santos issued this opinion in reply to a query of the Director of the Bureau of Census and Statistics. The secretary stressed that the law explicitly declares that the tax is imposed on the lessors of personal properties and not on the lessees or any other persons. He added that the taxes imposed in Sec. 191 of the Tax Code are denominated contractor's tax imposed on so-called independent contractors whose activities consist essentially of the sale of all kinds of services for a fee.

BUREAU of Plant Industry reported that crop exports of the country have been steadily rising during the last few years. During the first months of this year alone, some 8,819,169 kilos of mangoes, ginger, coffee beans, onions and melons worth $850,346 have been exported to Hongkong, Singapore, the United States and other countries. Crop exports in the first four months of this year were broken down as follows: fresh mangoes, 6,366,422 kilos worth $545,031; ginger, 235,889 kilos worth $127,445; coffee beans, 1,129,538 kilos worth $166,066; onions, 51,000 kilos worth $9,240; and melons, 36,320 kilos worth $2,564.

DEPARTMENT of Trade has initiated a trade promotion which will systematize and categorize exportable Philippine products, whose trade potentials could be generated and expanded in the foreign market. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. said the move is in line with the intensive foreign trade promotion drive of the New Society not only in the traditional markets of Philippine products but in new international outlets, including the socialist and communist countries. The trade secretary announced the trade promotion activity in letters to manufacturing firms producing various products having great potentials for export like rattan and other wooden furniture, food items, textiles and shoes.

THE GOVERNMENT chalked up P176.1 million in customs collections last May. The May collections were P62.2 million higher (or 54.56 per cent more) than the collections for May last year which totalled only P113.9 million. Collections for the last two days of May, 1973 showed a remarkable vigor: P7.6 million was collected on May 30 while P9.7 million was collected on May 31. For the first half of fiscal year 1972-73 the gross general fund collection of the customs bureau amounted to P914,523,457, exceeding that of the same period during the previous fiscal year by P78,435,676, or 9.38 per cent. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina attributed the increase in customs collections to the imposition of Martial Law which maximize standards of efficiency and the renewed spirit of dedication and honesty in customs personnel."

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 207 ratifying the United Nations 1968 conventions in Vienna on road traffic and road signs and signals. The Chief Executive stressed that the adoption of these international rules is in line with the Government's intensified campaign in road safety. He added this move is necessary in view of the increasing number of foreigners and tourists that are now operating motor vehicles on Philippine roads.

THE FIRST LADY tapped a P20 million loan from the Government Service Insurance System to solve the chronic dormitory and housing shortage at the University of the Philippines. After conducting an inspection tour of the site of the Philippine Medical Center in UP's Diliman campus, the First Lady asked GSIS General Manager Roman Cruz Jr. to grant the loan to alleviate the acute housing shortage in the state university. Part of the loan will be utilized to build additional dormitories to lodge students coming from the provinces.

ACTING SECRETARY of Labor Amado C. Inciong announced that jobless engineers and new engineering graduates whose services are not needed locally are not covered by the travel ban on engineers and highly technical personnel. He made the announcement as he released the guidelines for overseas travel of engineers and technical personnel for employment or immigration. The following categories of engineers and scientists may be allowed to leave abroad: new graduates without any work experience; those who are jobless; those who are joining wife and husband who are immigrants of a foreign country; those already hired by foreign governments and international consultants; those who were considered resigned from their posts before May 22, 1973; recruits of foreign governments approved by the labor department; those hired by Philippine companies or firms with joint ventures in Indonesia and other foreign countries; those intending to work in special projects in foreign countries; those whose present jobs in the Philippines are not related to their professions; female engineers; and those whose applications may be considered meritorious by the Department of Labor and the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA).

PHILIPPINE National Red Cross has received a merit award for public welfare services. The award is given by the Civic Assembly of Women of the Philippines in connection with CAWP's 27th anniversary and the 75th anniversary of Philippine Independence. The PNRC was cited "for being the enduring symbol of humanitarian service carried on with integrity and the steadfast devotion, and for serving as the nation's conscience through which many have given deeds of wonders, lifting the moral of the unfortunate and downtrodden."

ADMINISTRATOR Jesus Tanchanco of the National Grains Authority announced that the ceiling price for all varieties of rice is still P1.25 per kilo. He made the announcement as he urged rice retailers to strictly observe the price ceiling in the wake of reported violations of NGA rules and regulations. Mr. Tanchanco said that overpricing is punishable by imprisonment of not less than one year nor more than two years and by a fine of not less than P4,000 to P6,000. The NGA administrator assured the public of enough rice buffer stock in various NGA warehouses.

MASAGANA 99 radio broadcasters have been designated members of their respective Provincial Action Committees to boost radio information support for the crash rice production program. The PACs headed by provincial governors, are the nerve centers for Masagana 99 operations. Acting Secretary of Agriculture Jose D. Drilon Jr. said the designation of the broadcasters, contained in a special order was designed to strengthen the communications aspects of the campaign.

THE ABACA and Other Fibers Development Board has been abolished and its functions transferred to other government agencies. Acting Secretary of Agriculture Jose D. Drilon Jr. said the board's abolition was made pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 1 which directed the implementation of the Integrated Reorganization Plan in the DANR. Following are the board's functions and the government agencies to which they have been transferred: 1) Research, to the Bureau of Plant Industry; 2) Agricultural extension, to the Bureau of Agricultural Extension; and 3) Foreign trade promotion, to the Bureau of Foreign Trade, Department of Trade.

THE GOVERNMENT has initiated a crackdown on hoarders of grains and price manipulators as the President directed the confiscation and seizure of stocks of industrial establishments keeping grains in excess of their normal raw material requirements. The President also directed the secretary of defense, the constabulary chief and the administrator of the National Grains Authority to activate themselves into coordinating body to oversee the Government's drive against hoarding of cereals. The Chief Executive issued Letter of Instructions No. 88 setting additional guidelines to firm up administration efforts to apprehend price manipulators, profiteers and hoarders of prime commodities.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad exhorted the Mabuhay ang Pilipino Movement to sustain its initial gains and move on toward greater momentum. Addressing the first national conference of the Movement at San Sebastian College, the secretary said the Movement must organize and increase in membership. The secretary told the conference that "we are not planting the proverbial tree alone, under which shade we shall not sit, but under which our children shall find shelter, and perhaps read poetry, dream, visualize the future and create music." He said that although the nation is working toward the transformation of values so that the future will be good and bright, "we make no offering to the future at the cost of the present." Secretary Tatad said that public support of the Movement went far beyond the leadership's expectation. The Mabuhay national campaign on discipline, he said, has taken root even in the remotest areas where the word discipline is unlikely to mean anything at all.

THE PRESIDENT has declared the period from July 1 to 7 of every year as National Culture Consciousness Week. The Chief Executive signed Proclamation 1148, urging all citizens and organizations to celebrate National Culture Consciousness Week appropriately "in connection with the need to make Filipinos constantly aware of their proud cultural heritage." The proclamation was inspired by Article XV of the new Constitution which provides that "Filipino culture shall be preserve and developed for national identity."

THE PRESIDENT has set the registration of barangay members from June 19 to July 4. The fixing of the registration period for members of 35,000 barangays was held significant in view of the President's pledge to convene the assemblies before the end of the year to sound them out on vital issues. It reminds all qualified citizens, irrespective of age to register so that their voices can be heard on vital issues affecting the country. The rules for the registration will be drafted by the newly constituted Commission on Elections.

DEPARTMENT of Trade announced details of an offer by the People's Republic of China to include Manila in the regular shipping routes of Chinese commercial vessels. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said details of the Chinese proposal were made through the Philippine Trade Mission which went to China last month. The Chinese officials were willing to make Manila as a regular route of Chinese vessels which maintain regular routes to Singapore and Malaysia (Port Swettenham). The Chinese representatives agreed initially to provide a vessel for Philippine shippers on a direct point-to-point shipment provided there are at least 300 tons of cargo to be shipped. They further offered the Philippines that if clearance is given for their vessels to enter Manila and there is the required volume of cargo, they are ready to start sending to Manila cargo ship direct from Shanghai beginning this month.

THE PRESIDENT has declared the period for the BSP fund raising campaign in line with the Government's support to youth development. The annual fund campaign for the Boy Scouts of the Philippines will be held from July 1 to December 31 this year. Presidential Proclamation No. 1140 calls upon all citizens and residents of the Philippines to assist in the campaign "in order that the BSP may be able to continue with its youth citizenship training program."

MUSLIM WORLD League delegation which has just returned to Manila from a fact-finding mission in Mindanao said they were very much impressed by the progress in the island's development. The visiting Muslim leaders told the President they were convinced of the Government's sincerity in its efforts to uplift the lot of Muslim Filipinos. The President received the members of the delegation in Malacañang following their three-day-tour of Marawi City, Lanao and Cotabato where they talked with government officials, Filipino Muslim leaders and returning refugees. Datu Syed Ibrahim Alsagof, head of the delegation, said he and the members of his party witnessed actual proof of the rapid pace of development as they toured the Muslim areas. He added that local Muslim leaders they had talked with spoke highly of the President's concern for their welfare and expressed favor for the continuation of Martial Law. The President, on the other hand, assured the delegation that the Government will continue with its program of development in Mindanao.

THE GOVERNMENT has expanded its campaign against business mal-practices to include erring gasoline service stations and dealers of petroleum products. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. directed agents of the Fair Trade Board to carry out the campaign against erring service station operators and dealers of oil products, particularly liquefied petroleum products. In another move, the trade department ordered provincial commercial and regional supervising commercial agents to coordinate in the apprehension of rice and corn dealers and outlets who do not attach price tags on the cereals. The Trade department also directed authorized Price Control Council agents to coordinate in the apprehension of distributors, retailers, and outlets of rice and corn who fail to indicate the prices as pegged by the PCC.

THE GOVERNMENT has launched a nationwide information drive to keep consumers posted everyday on the actual market prices of basic commodities. The drive was launched jointly by the Bureau of Commerce and the Philippine Constabulary. Commerce Director Epifanio B. Castillejos and Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, PC chief, signed a memorandum agreement which would facilitate a daily compilation of data on market prices and supply of selected commodities throughout the country. The information drive was in response to the clamor of the consuming public for a more up-to-date and accurate information on the actual market price of commodities in all cities, provincial capitals and key areas of the Philippines.

LAGUNA LAKE Development Authority's water-quality laboratory—a P1 million project built to help harness the water resources of the Laguna de Bay is now in operation. Located in Pasig, Rizal, the LLDA's water-quality laboratory will help determine whether the lake could provide the Greater Manila Area with potable water supply. The laboratory will also be used in determining the feasibility of constructing a system of hydraulic control to be installed at the Marikina tributary of the Pasig River to prevent pollution of the lake by salt water from Manila Bay.

and the polluted Pasig River. The LLDA laboratory is a joint project of the Philippine Government, the United Nations Development Program (UNDP), and the World Health Organization (WHO).

THE GOVERNMENT has finally solved the country's cement glut (excess production) through export promotions. This was announced by the Cement Industry Authority, an agency created recently by Presidential Decree No. 94. The problem of excess production of cement was solved following export offers from Okinawa, Japan, Indonesia, Singapore, Hongkong, Australia, Bangladesh, Libya, Nigeria, Persian Gulf countries, Africa, West Germany, the United States and the Trust Territories (Guam, Marianas Islands, Saipan, Micronesia and others). With a yearly total exportation of some two million metric tons of cement to these countries, the Philippines expects to earn some $40 million annually in foreign exchange. These export commitments abroad would solve the local cement over-production problem of some 2.5 million tons annually.

THE GOVERNMENT has adopted a mailed-fist policy in the drive against the drug menace in view of the seriousness of the problem. But while the Government is uncompromising against drug traffickers, it is forgiving and helpful to unfortunate victims of drug addiction. The Government program against drug abuse was spelled out by Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan during the turnover of narcotics equipment to the Philippines by the USAID. Secretary Gatmaitan said that unfortunate victims are receiving rehabilitation treatment jointly from the Government and private sectors.

THE GOVERNMENT has already funneled some P567,815, in the massive road construction projects in Sulu to hasten the socio-economic growth in the predominantly Muslim area. Only recently, Bureau of Public Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino released a total of P67,815 to the provincial district highway engineer for the development and beautification of the five-kilometer Jolo-Gandasuli-Caonayan road; Jolo-Bud Daho; Jolo-Taglibi; Jolo-Airport road; Marina Street-Scott road and Loay street. According to the plan drawn up by Commissioner Aquino, box culverts along the sidewalks of these roads will be put up. The sidewalks will be cemented in order to protect the box culverts from breaking. The latest Government beautification projects are expected to be completed at the end of the month.

THE PRESIDENT articulated the true meaning of independence as the triumph of the Filipino people over injustice, oppression and corruption after centuries of frustration and despair. Highlighting the 75th anniversary celebration of Freedom Day at the Luneta the President, in a 10-minute speech, traced the travails of the nation which said, has pushed away with one swift and single blow "the dark of night." Speaking extemporaneously in English and Tagalog, the President said "there was rebellion in our country every other year during that long, long period, but there was no freedom, there was just nope and dreams." The country seemed doomed to sufferings and suppressions—freedom was like an elusive bird that slipped from our hand, the President said. "We had an independent Republic but that Republic was neither democratic nor strong. It seemed we could not rise from failures. We didn't have the courage to change ourselves" he said. The people had overcome all of these this year, he said. "This is our true independence." (See pp. 5592-J to 5592-L for full text of the President's Independence Day address.)

THE PRESIDENT said that the army has developed not only into an army of warriors but also into a legion of builders and has emerged as an agent of reforms. The President voiced these sentiments in a speech during the induction of the new officers of the Philippine Military Academy Alumni Association aboard the presidential yacht Ang Pangulo. He attributed part of the reforms in the New Society to the dedication and wide-ranging capabilities of the army, in the execution of the reform program, and in stabilizing society in general.

DEPARTMENT of Public Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad deplored the bitter irony in the fact that the very reason for which media were help up by the West as a shining example of press freedom and independence, was also a major factor in the continued imprisonment of the people in conditions that negated and restricted our independence. He made this statement during the third and last day of the symposium, "Dynamics of Development" which was sponsored by the Department of Public Information. He stressed that the organs of communications must not only be engaged, they must at the same time be professionally prepared, which is particularly true of the new media of communications that are highly technical, such as radio, television and film. As for the print media, Mr. Tatad urged that the media must adopt for themselves a system of professional training, not unlike the training that lawyers and doctors have to go through. He said the training must be both technical and cultural; technical insofar as media skills must be learned, cultural in the sense that the media practitioner must be acculturated to the ways of the new.

BUREAU of Plant Industry researchers have developed a new highyielding peanut variety suitable for processing into quality products. Named BPI P-9, the new peanut variety is well-suited for the manufacture of peanut butter. The bean yielding of BPI P-9 ranged from 1.99 to 2.33 metric tons per hectare with an average of 1.52 m.t. per hectare. It consistently outyielded EG bunch and CES 101, both approved by the Philippine Seed Board, by an average of 320 kg. per hectare and 150 kg. per hectare, respectively. The variety is a cross between EG Red and Fante No. 7. It has an upright growth habit (bunchy) with central stems usually reaching an average height of 63 cm. when growth under conditions favorable to planting peanuts. It matures in 100 to 110 days.

THE PRESIDENT issued a general order prescribing staggered schedules of office hours for industries, factories, plants, public and private offices and commercial establishments and schools in the Metropolitan Manila area. The revised schedule of working hours will be enforced starting June 18 except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. It will remain in force in Manila, Pasay City, Quezon City and Caloocan City and in the towns of Las Pinas, Marikina, Malabon, Parañaque, Makati, San Juan, Mandaluyong, Pasig, Navotas and Valenzuela. Under General Order No. 31, the staggered schedules would mean the full utilization of constricted highways facilities within 24-hour day period, thereby eliminating the buildup of traffic congestion. Until otherwise ordered by the President, the revised schedule will continue for the duration of the national emergency.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. announced that corporations and establishments whose shares of stocks are sold or offered for sale to the public will have to conform with the new rules and regulations covering in the form and content of financial statements starting July 1, 1973. The new rules were drafted by the Securities and Exchange Commission in line with the changes and development taking place in the New Society to spur economic growth. The rules were finalized after several public hearings conducted by the SEC. Affected by the regulations are issuers of securities traded in securities exchanges or over-the-counter markets, as well as corporations with 20 or more stockholders.

DEPARTMENT of Labor issued a warning against the employment of young laborers in hazardous occupations. Acting Secretary of Labor Amado G. Inciong issued this order in connection with Presidential Decree No. 148, which provides that any person between 14 and 18 years old may be employed without discrimination on account of age but in non-hazardous occupations. The department issued a list of hazardous occupations: 1) farming, fishing, hunting, logging and related occupations; 2) Mining, quarrying and related works; 3) transport, communication and navigational occupations; 4) service, sports, and related work; 5) Professional, technical and related work; 6) All occupations in the processing and preparation of drugs and chemical products involving exposure to dangerous chemicals; 7) All occupations in the manufacturing, handling and transporting of explosives, toxic, corrosive, poisonous and noxious components and flammable liquids in bulk; 8) All activities in any workroom, building, premises or any place where medium is stored, kept or processed or used in the manufacture of self-luminous or other radioactive substances.

THE PRESIDENT paid tribute to seven national artists “who are in the vanguard of the nation’s march toward the fulfillment of its destiny and the establishment of its true identity through their vision and integrity.” The President delivered his remarks after the First Lady had presented the awards to the widows of Mr. Carlos V. Francisco and Mr. Amado V. Hernandez and to the other national artists: Mrs. Francisca Reyes Aquino, Mr. Antonio J. Molina, Mr. Juan F. Nakpil, Mr. Guillermo Tolentino and Mr. Jose Garcia Villa.

INFORMATION SECRETARY Francisco S. Tatad said that the fulfillment of the country’s destiny “lies in the attainment of the humanist future in which, the wealth of the nation is equivalent in all its aspects to the wealth of the people.” Speaking before the Philippine Executive Academy at the Sulu Hotel in Quezon City, Secretary Tatad said that this humanist future was one “in which the Gross National Product is not increased at the expense of the per capita income, neither one in which individual progress will have been made totally incompatible with national progress.” In pursuit of the modernization of the economy, the secretary urged the following: 1) Total commitment of Government to planning economic development, to centralize planning in the National Economic and Development Authority. 2) Formulation of a program that would interest foreign capital to operate in the economy. 3) Direction of private enterprise and foreign investments to areas that yield high production and exploit to the maximum the country’s hidden mineral wealth.

DEPARTMENT of Justice issued a ruling in effect making it easier for the Bureau of Census and Statistics to gather data from government and private persons or entities, Justice Secretary Vicente Abad that the census bureau can secure data from persons or entities by addressing them merely by their designations or position and not by their true name or surname. But if a criminal action is brought against a person or entity for refusing to accomplish the questionnaire or form sent by the Bureau, the complaint or information sheet must state the true name or surname of the person or entity. The Secretary of Justice issued this opinion in reply to a question from Director Tito Mijares of the Bureau of Census and Statistics.

THE PRESIDENT conveyed the nation’s gratitude to other nations of the world for their sympathetic understanding of “our aspirations as a people.” He made the statement during the traditional exchange of toast with members of the diplomatic corps at the Cultural Center of the Philippines in connection with the observance of the Philippine Independence. “On this day, the 75th anniversary of our nation, we stand proud to be able to deal with your countries as an independent and free nation,” he said in response to a toast offered by the chiefs of diplomatic missions.

DEPARTMENT of Trade has banned the exportation of narra logs and palasan poles (rattan) to prevent the depletion of the vital raw materials. Acting on the complaints of furniture-makers and exporters, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. directed the National Cottage Industries Development Authority to take the necessary steps to ban the export of the products until the domestic requirements are first fully supplied.

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree intended to prevent the further destruction of the Ambuldao and Binga watersheds and to implement a massive tree-planting program in the area. Through Presidential Decree No. 209, the Chief Executive authorized the Bureau of Forest Development and the four provincial governments to undertake reforestation and to prevent the further destruction of the watersheds of the Ambuklao and Binga Hydro-Electric dams by unscrupulous loggers and vegetable gardeners.

THE PRESIDENT paid tribute to his comrades-in-arms who fell at the historic Battle of Bessang Pass exactly 28 years ago. With the national colors flying at half mast, the President laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Libingan ng mga Bayani at Fort Bonifacio. In memory of those who fell at the Pass, the Chief Executive directed that all the names of officers and men of the United States Armed Forces in the Philippines-Northern Luzon (the President’s own wartime unit), who died in the battle be listed in a tablet at the memorial marking the historic battle.

THE CENTRAL BANK will start mopping up excess money in urban centers for eventual dispersal to rural areas. The CB will mop up excess liquidity in urban areas by offering to the public P200 million worth of Central Bank Certificates of Indebtedness (CBCIs). The excess money from the urban centers will be pumped by the Government into rural areas, specifically for infrastructure and other economic development projects.

DEPARTMENT of Trade directed the Securities and Exchange Commission to look into the reported manipulation of stocks being traded in the stock exchanges. Secretary Quiazon said that although the SEC has been faithfully exercising its powers within the limits of law, there still appears a need for more effective measures to forestall the nefarious activities of these dealers. The trade secretary asked the SEC to assign agents in stock exchanges to be on the alert for any abnormal activity involving a particular issue. Among the materials ordered checked by Secretary

Quiazon are publications, brochures, circulars, memoranda, and other informative materials about the affairs of a corporation whose securities are licensed by the SEC.

SECRETARY of Finance Cesar E.A. Virata revealed that a total of 110 motor vehicles face seizure from their owners who have failed to pay taxes and duties under the tax amnesty. In this connection, he ordered the seizure of motor vehicles after he was informed by Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina that the second installment on the tax payment of the vehicles have not been paid. The aggregate amount of taxes and duties due from the motor vehicles is P700,000.

SMALL farmers have received over P471.649 million loans without collaterals from the Government as of December 31, 1972. Through the Agricultural Credit Administration (ACA) the Government loaned out over P471 million to 786,000 small farmers and their cooperative associations from September, 1952 up to December 31, 1972. Of the P471,649 million loaned out by ACA during a period of 20 years, over P250.469 million or more than one-half, were released during the present administration. From January 1, 1968 up to Dec. 31, 1972 (a period of seven years) the Government released over P250.469 million, compared with P221.172 million representing the cumulative loans that ACA had extended during the entire 13 years and six months of previous administrations.

THE PRESIDENT gave the assurance that the Philippines has enough fertilizers to meet all the needs of the country's farmers. As of May 27, the President reported, there was an inventory of 78,182 metric tons of fertilizers, composed of 10,277 tons of urea, 19,589 tons of ammosul (ammonium sulfate), and 48,170 tons of others. The President was informed that these figures do not include the stocks already in the hands of dealers or distributors, and the total available supply should, therefor, be higher. Despite this optimistic picture, the President warned against over-confidence because of unforeseen problems that may still crop up.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission asked the Department of Health to look into reports that some government hospital doctors are deviating medicare patients to private hospitals where such physicians have their private practice. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, informed Dr. Pedro Mayuga, Director of the Bureau of Health and Medical Services that the PMCC discovered the unethical practice from patients who sought advice from the PMCC on how they can avail themselves of the medicare benefits without extra expense to themselves.

President's Week in Review: June 15-21, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 15—

THE PRESIDENT issued a proclamation declaring that the Victory of Bessang Pass Day, traditionally celebrated every June 14, should be observed on the first Saturday after this date. The President moved the date of observance to enable the nation to celebrate it without much loss of work hours. In issuing this proclamation, the President noted that Bessang Pass has become a monument to the courage and patriotism of the Filipino soldiers and the Filipino people during World War II. The Chief Executive called upon public officials and the citizens of the country to celebrate the day by holding appropriate programs in honor of the gallant Filipinos who fought in the battle of Bessang Pass.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. announced that a joint venture proposal was made by a Danish firm, Nilsen and Sons, during a call on the office of the Philippine trade representative in Copenhagen. Nilsen and Sons is interested in a tie-up with a Philippine firm under which the former will provide the technical knowhow as well as the plant facilities while the local partner will provide the labor and raw materials. The firm wants to fabricate in the Philippines major components of office, school, hotel and factory buildings, including walls, roofs, beams, rafters, floors, and others.

BOARD of Investments announced it is closely evaluating a P40.1 million expansion project of the Philippine Wallboard Corporation under the Investment Incentives Act. The project will give additional employment to 305 persons. The expansion program is also expected to boost by P1.9 million the firm's annual P4.6 million it is earning annually. The proposed plant is scheduled to start operation by the middle of 1976 at 40 per cent capacity. It will be gradually increased to 83 per cent in 1978 and finally to 100 per cent in 1979. Should the BOI establish the firm's financial, marketing and technical viability, it will be given additional incentives provided by the Investment Incentives Act, among which are: the accelerated depreciation, tax-free importation of capital equipment, net operating loss carry-over and stocks credit on domestic capital equipment.

ACTING SECRETARY of Agriculture Jose D. Drilon Jr. stated that the scientific community and the mass media should bridge the communication gap between them to facilitate the flow of scientific information for agricultural development. He made the statement in a speech before the information workshop of the Philippine Council for Agricultural Research in Baguio City. In this connection, he suggested that scientists should "get down from the ivory tower" and explain to media what they are doing. Media, he explained, should reciprocate by reporting not only sensational scientific stories but also newsworthy highly technical works." He also recommended that media should employ people with scientific background or offer them the privilege to build up knowledge of and facility with scientific information.

PANAMIN Foundation Inc. fund campaign for national minorities has been extended up to December 31, 1973. The President, through Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, issued Proclamation No. 1145 further extending the national educational fund campaign of the Panamin until December 31, 1973. The extension of the fund drive is expected to help raise funds needed to carry out various Panamin humanitarian projects for the minorities who comprise 12 per cent of the national population.

BUREAU of Plant Industry will conduct every month a 10-day course on the culture of mushroom starting in July. BPI Director Eliseo G. Carandang said the course is being offered in response to requests of the growing number of mushroom growers. He emphasized that the course will help mushroom growers develop a potent and viable industry. Aside from mushroom culture, the course will also include the preparation of media for spawn-growing and mushroom preservation by canning, bottling and air-drying. The course is offered free and is open to all interested parties. Classes will be held at the BPI mushroom laboratory and at the bureau's laboratory services division. Prospective trainees may apply for admission at either office on San Andres st., Malate, Manila.

THE PRESIDENT, stressing the need for vigilance, urged new graduates of the Philippine Air Force to stand vigilant and ready to discharge their missions. "The new peace should not blind us, not even lull us to the clear danger that negligence and apathy could bring," the Chief Executive said in a speech read for him by Gen. Romeo Espino, Armed Forces chief of staff, at the commencement exercises of the PAF Flying School Class '73 in Fernando Air Base, Lipa City. He urged the new graduates to be ready to discharge their responsibilities because "in the New Society all of us are committed to share part of the burden of nation-building and defense." In the same vein, the President challenged the whole people to do heroic deeds—not in the making of war—but in more quiet and substantial ways to build a new life and a New Society.

PHILIPPINE National Bank has released rice production loans totalling P6,610,000 to 7,982 small farmers since the launching of Masagana 99 last month. The loan recipients were members of 1,488 seldas or farmer cooperatives from the six regions of the country. These regions are Northern, Central, and Southern Luzon, Eastern and Western Visayas, and Mindanao. Topping the list of borrowers were Southern Luzon farmers numbering 2,311, who received a total of P1,104,415. Second in the list were 2,132 farmers from Central Luzon who received P2,584,056. These loans are a part of the bank's financing scheme to support the country's intensified rice production drive.

THE PRESIDENT has set aside a $1-million allotment from the Reparations for the Bureau of Customs' computer center. The reparations allotment will be used by the customs bureau for the purchase of its own electronic machines in line with the Government's program to have a customs computer center. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina announced this when he addressed 30 graduates of the Bureau of Customs Systems Design and Analysis and Key Punching Operator courses at the customs training room.

BUREAU of Customs will implement soon a system of "instant payment" of claims due from drawbacks upon the filing of the claim with the proper office in the bureau. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina who convened and presided over the meeting of the eight-man Special Committee on Drawbacks, said that all provisions of the new Tariff and Customs Code favorable to the claimant should be made retroactive and applicable to claims filed before the effectivity of the new TCC. The committee will take sole responsibility in the processing of the claims until they are ready for payment.

DEPARTMENT of Trade laid the ground works for the formal investigation of various anomalies relating to the sale of real property. Following up the drive on all forms of business malpractices, including the deception and fraud employed in the sale of subdivision lots, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. created a committee to hear complaints against erring persons, firms or entities. The committee, composed of representatives of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Bureau of Commerce and the Fair Trade Board, was directed to start its inquiry immediately. The committee will receive and hear complaints regarding abuses, acts of misrepresentation, deceit, fraud and other unfair acts attributed to some real estate owners, brokers, salesmen, appraisers, subdivision and condominium owners, developers and managers.

THE PRESIDENT granted amnesty to persons who had failed to file income tax returns. The President issued Presidential Decree No. 213 which noted that the number of income tax filers for the calendar year 1972 should be about four million but that Bureau of Internal Revenue records showed only about one and a half million had filed returns. The decree further noted that the disparity was attributable to the lack of information on the requirement to file an income tax return, specially as regards those cases where it is mandatory to file a return even if no gross income was realized in the preceding year. In granting the amnesty to delinquent citizens, the President said that in line with the Government's declared policy of giving tax payers a chance to reform and be a part of the New Society, he has decreed the condonation, subject to certain conditions.

THE PRESIDENT declared that the policy of the Government on social welfare is not limited to extending immediate relief to the needy its greater goals is to rehabilitate and transform them into productive and self-reliant citizens. "Your duty is to seek and help the most helpless and the most underprivileged," the President said in a speech delivered in ceremonies commemorating the fifth anniversary of the Department of Social Welfare. During the ceremonies held at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, representatives of different welfare-agencies presented the President with a sculpture piece as an expression of their appreciation in pushing through social welfare hand-in-hand with national development. The President also received another award of recognition in behalf of the First Lady, who was unable to attend the rites.

RETURNING evacuees in Zamboanga and the two Lanao provinces have been extended an additional P400,000 in production loans by the Agricultural Credit Administration. So far, the ACA has already granted a total of P1.5 million in production loans to returning evacuees covered by the Special Program of Assistance for Returned Evacuees (SPARE). Other forms of aid, such as food and temporary shelter, medical treatment and technical production know-how, have also been extended to the returning evacuees. In addition, the government has also made available to these people farm inputs like fertilizers, pesticides and certified seeds, at cost either in cash or credit.

AUSTRALIA'S Minister for Immigration arrived to discuss with Philippine officials a new global migration policy to promote travel between his country and its neighbors in Southeast Asia and the Pacific region. The visiting minister, Mr. Albert J. Grassby, said that there should be the fullest opportunity for Australians and their neighbors to come and go without excessive red tape and bureaucratic hindrance. In his talks with the welcoming government officials headed by Immigration Commissioner Edumundo Reyes, Mr. Grassby said that his country's new initiative in seeking to remove difficulties that impeded the interchange of people in the Southeast Asian and Pacific region had been speedily and warmly understood by the Philippines. "Australia wishes to greet visitors as friends and not discourage them with paper barriers," Mr. Grassby added.

THE PHILIPPINE Government is offering attractive incentives, including tax exemption privileges, to multinational companies who will set up their regional or area headquarters in the country. The incentives were contained in Presidential Decree No. 218 issued by the President. In issuing the decree, the President stressed that the establishment in the country of headquarters of multi-national companies would hasten economic and social development of the country.

THE PRESIDENT called on all radio and television journalists to continue their role as full partners with the Government in the establishment of the New Society. Addressing the Philippine Association of Broadcast Journalists following the induction of its officers in Malacañang, the President expressed the hope that "such partnership shall move forward stronger than ever towards the attainment of our common dreams" Emphasizing "the critical and sensitive position of broadcast journalism in the modern world," the President said that reporting by broadcast journalists of natural disasters and such occurrences as the Vietnam war have brought about an alteration and change in the habits of modern man.

PHILIPPINE Constabulary-National Grains Authority Coordinating Committee issued a stern warning to the public that it will take drastic action against any household owner found storing more than one sack of NGA-imported rice for home consumption. The committee, which was created pursuant to a letter of instructions of the President, issued the warning to forestall an artificial grain shortage and to maintain steady supply of the cereals in the market, particularly during the lean months. The NGA is empowered by Presidential Decree No. 4 to order the seizure of cereals declared as hoarded. The same decree imposes stiff penalties on violators.

THE PRESIDENT enjoined all regional directors and assistant regional directors of the Bureau of Public Works to assume greater initiative in pursuing the objectives of the Government reorganization. Addressing the 11 regional directors and 11 assistant regional directors who took their oath of office before him at Malacañang, the President pointed out that the reason why the regional offices were created was to avoid red tape and to obviate the need for people to travel to Manila all the way from such distant places as Sulu and Batanes. The President warned, "as you assume your duties as regional directors and assistant regional directors, I look forward to new initiatives, new ideas, new projects and new planning." The President emphasized that under the reorganization plan, each regional director is practically the director of public works and representative of the President.

TOURISM Secretary Jose D. Aspiras extended the invitation to businessmen from Taiwan to invest in tourism-oriented projects in the Philippines in joint venture with Filipino entrepreneurs. Secretary Aspiras extended the invitation during a courtesy call on him by a 37-man mission led by Mr. Richard C. Y. Wang, executive-director and secretary-general of the National Association of Industry and Commerce of Taiwan. He assured the trade mission that the Philippines is an attractive place for investment because conditions have become stable and many incentives are being extended by the government for overseas investments.

Dr. PACIFICO E. Marcos, Chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission announced that effective July 1, mentally and physically disabled children above 20 years old including legally adopted ones of Medicare members will be covered by the expanded scope of the Medicare Act. Dr. Marcos said that the inclusion of congenitally defective children who are already above 20 years old is based on the fact that they are permanently incapable of supporting themselves. He added that legally adopted children acquire the status and rights of legitimate and legitimated children and logically, they should be legal dependents of their adopting parents who are Medicare beneficiaries.

NATIONAL Grain Authority set July 16, 1973, as the last day for those engaged in the grains industry to register and secure their business licenses. NGA Administrator Jess Tanchanco said that under Presidential Decree No. 4 and Letter of Instructions No. 88, the following are covered by the NGA's registration and licensing requirements: 1) Wholesalers/retailers of wheat, flour, corn starch and animal feeds which utilize any such grains and their by-products; 2) Millers/ manufacturers/processors of wheat, flour, corn starch and animal feeds which utilize their by-products; 3) Transporters/operators of transporting facilities which carry, handle or transport any such grains and animal feeds; 4) Brokers, indentors of wheat, flour, corn starch and animal feeds as traders/wholesalers ;5) Importers/exporters of any such grains and animal feeds; 6) Bakeries, pastry shops, bake shops, biscuits factories; and 7) Storage of wheat, flour, corn starch and corn grains.

DEPARTMENT of Trade started its crackdown on untrue, deceptive and misleading advertisements and other forms of sales promotion gimmicks as part of its continuing "business cleanup" drive. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., issued the directive to the Fair Trade Board on the heels of another order to the FTB enforcement staff to expedite inquiry into the complaint of the Association of Sporting Goods Manufacturers, Inc., on the sales of alleged imitated brand of basketballs. Defining the scope of inquiries on advertisements shall include the publication, dissemination, circulation or making it available to the public any information regarding goods, securities, services or anything offered for sale thru the newspaper or any form of publication or in the form of a book, notice, handbill, poster, bill circular, pamphlet letter, billboard or thru the radio, television and other media of information.

THE COUNTRY achieved substantial economic growth on its non-traditional exports during the first quarter of 1973 with a record $18.9 million foreign exchange earning, the Board of Investments announced. The amount, which was earned by the top 12 export products enjoying BOI incentives, represents a 71.8 per cent increase over that of the same period of 1972 which totalled only $11 million or a gain of $7.9 million. During the period under review, the country earned a total of $18,926,000, 54,026,000 of which was accounted from the export of garments. On the first quarter of 1972, garments export earned only $2,112,000. The BOI attributed the substantial increase in growth of the economy to the exports of non-traditional products such as electronic components, textile yarns, fabrics and handicrafts.

THE PRESIDENT urged the country's war veterans to form themselves into working units to undertake development projects, specially on rural level. The Chief Executive, in a speech read for him by Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen. Romeo Espino during the national convention of the Veteran's Federation of the Philippines in Fort Bonifacio, stressed that the Filipinos are now waging what he termed as "the battle of development." He suggested that the VFP and its members must form themselves into working units to assist in cooperative development, community and agricultural development, the promotion of small business ventures and other social and economic activities. He informed the veterans that he has authorized the Philippine Veterans Bank to funnel P5 million from the earnings of the $31 million veterans trust fund to initially fund the veterans investment and development corporation, a novel project to provide socio-economic assistance to veterans, especially the indigent ones.

THE PRESIDENT issued two decrees aimed at strengthening the country's shipping industry. Presidential Decree Nos. 214 and 215 are intended to make the local shipping industry more competitive in the worldwide maritime trade and to serve the increasing needs of Philippine overseas commerce. The Presidential decrees also grant to Filipino corporations who intend to engage in overseas shipping the privilege to constitute a mortgage (or any other lien or incumbrance) on such vessels with any bank and any foreign or domestic financial institutions. Presidential Decree No. 215 enforces an earlier announcement that the Government is withdrawing a 17 per cent levy on imported vessels. Presidential Decree No. 214, on the other hand, eliminates provisions in the "Philippine Overseas Shipping Act of 1955" which had deterred the procurement of additional vessels for the country.

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System (GSIS) has started to distribute mid-year dividend checks amounting to P25 million to its policy holders. This is the first dividend declaration of the GSIS this year. The second would be this coming December to bring Christmas cheers to GSIS members. GSIS General Manager Roman Cruz Jr. said that to forestall fraudulent encashment of these dividend checks through tampering, the GSIS limits the value of each dividend check to a maximum of P300. Any dividend over this amount will be contained in a separate check so that members with dividends of Over P300 will receive two or more checks to cover the entire amount of their dividends.

CUSTOMS COMMISSIONER Rolando Geotina and Commodore Romulo Espaldon, chief of military supervisory group in the customs zone appealed to the public doing business with the Bureau of Customs to help preserve the gains in the reform drive achieved in this major revenue-collecting arm of the Government. The appeal was made during a dialogue with customs brokers, stevedores, brokers, arrastre workers, labor leaders and officials of E. Razon, Inc. The public, doing business with the customs bureau should be the last persons who should attempt to block reforms in the zone because all these changes directly benefit these people, Commodore Espaldon said. On the other hand, Commissioner Geotina said that his office is ready to receive any complaint against any customs-man and take drastic action against anyone who has not "mend his ways. He warned that any person caught taunting with customs regulations will be barred from transacting business and entering customs premises.

BOARD of Transportation has given all operators of public vehicles until August 31, 1973 to register all of their units authorized under their certificate of public convenience. The BT, however, said that those who can avail themselves of the grace period are the operators whose failure to register does not exceed one year from August 31 1972. The BT's memorandum further stated that failure of the operators to register all their units within the grace period and failure of all other operators to register their units longer than one year from August 31, 1972 shall be a cause for the cancelation of the certificate.

BUREAU of Plant Industry Director Eliseo C. Carandang said the loses due to sprouts and mold growth on potatoes and onions can be minimized by exposing the crop to a maximum of 15,000 rands of gamma rays from Cobalt 60. Director Carandang said that this finding was made by Mrs. Jovita Z. de Jesus, a BPI plant pathologist. She reported that irradiation extends a month or two the shelf life or storage life of potato and onion because of the prevention of growth of molds and sprouts. The Food and Drug Administration has temporarily approved the irradiation of dose treatment on potatoes as it found "no evidence of harmfulness."

THE PRESIDENT called on the country's boy and girl scouts to help in the "salvaging operation" of some five million out-of-school youths. The President said these two youth organizations can accomplish much in improving the lots of the young men and women who are out of school. Addressing the nation from Maharlika Hall at Malacañang, the President also appealed to all Filipinos to extend all possible support to the scouting movement. The Chief Executive made the appeal on the occasion of the golden jubilee celebration of Philippine scouting, which coincides with the anniversary of the birth of Dr. Jose Rizal.

INCREASING demands for Philippine products have resulted in a $83 million trade surplus last May, the Central Bank announced. The May 1973, trade surplus is $51 million higher than the surplus registered in May 1972. As a result of this favorable foreign exchange transactions, the country's international reserve climbed by $83 million to $601 million last May as compared to the increase of $47 million a year ago. The Central Bank attributed the significant improvement in receipts to the Government's aggressive exports promotion campaign, the sharp increase in world prices for most of the Philippines' products, and the rising demand for Philippine exports from the country's trading partner.

THE PRESIDENT urged rural bankers to extend credit to farmers in the most expeditious way to help the Government in its intensified rice production program. Speaking at the induction of officers of the Rural Bankers Association at the Malacañang reception hall, the President said rural bankers have a pivotal role in the supervision of credit for various Government programs such as Masagana 99. In view of this, he said the Government will fail in its agricultural development efforts unless rural bankers helped the country's farmers with more loans. He said he was happy to hear that rural bankers so far have already extended some P45 million in loans to Masagana 99 farmers. He later assured the rural bankers that, the Government is ready to extend all necessary assistance to ensure the success of their undertakings.

GOVERNMENT agencies involved in land reform have integrated their efforts to insure faster implementation of the program. This resulted from a conference of representatives of these agencies hosted by the Philippine Constabulary at Camp Crame. To hasten implementation of the program, the conferees agreed on the following: 1) No new ejectment cases will be accepted by the courts of agrarian relations on lands within the purview of Presidential Decree No. 27. This decree directs that no tenant-farmer should be ejected from his landholdings; 2) All pending cases in courts between tenant-farmers and landowners shall lie held in abeyance upon petition of any party litigant; 3) With regard to rentals to be paid by tenant-farmers and landowners, the Department of Agrarian Relations regional directors shall still determine and fix the provisions of Section 34 of R.A. 3844 as amended pertinent presidential decrees, letters of instructions and directives.

AMOUNT of P29 million in Philippine National Bank funds has been earmarked as initial capital for rehabilitation and reconstruction work of 11 flood-damaged Luzon provinces. PNB President P. O. Domingo announced that the PNB has authorized the release of the amount for the reconstruction of roads, bridges and irrigation systems in the provinces heavily devastated by last year's floods. The loans, which carry 11 per cent annual interest, will form the non-revolving credit lines by provincial governments for their initial capitalization in the reconstruction of damaged infrastructure projects estimated at P200 million. The PNB program is part of the government's Project "Disaster Recovery", an agreement signed last year by USAID and the National Economic and Development Authority.

THE GOVERNMENT'S campaign against business irregularities has been expanded to cover repair shops following numerous complaints on defective repairs, poor workmanship and cannibalizing of spare parts of several of these establishments. Department of Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. placed priority on the investigation of these complaints which also included those against known and erstwhile reputable automotive and appliance repair shops. Mr. Quiazon ordered a study on the feasibility of requiring management and owners of these repair shops to issue guarantee slips for every job, work or repair undertaken and to require them to list their service fees (at least on major repair works) and have them posted for ready reference. The trade secretary directed agents of the customs bureau and the Fair Trade Board to look into the licenses of automotive and appliance repair shops done by understudies.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad advocated the democratization of the mass media and revealed that the Department of Public Information has launched a community newspaper network project. Under this plan, residents of particular region or province will be organized into cooperatives which will produce community newspapers. The information secretary said he is advocating the democratization of the mass media in order that no media information will merely serve a certain sector without serving all the other sectors in the society. Secretary Tatad revealed his plan in a speech at the seminar of the Knights of Rizal at the National Library Auditorium.

DEPARTMENT of Trade directed the Securities and Exchange Commission to draft the implementing guidelines for the setting up of regional headquarters of multi-nation companies in the Philippines. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said that any foreign business entity wishing to establish regional or area headquarters in the Philippines has to secure a license from the SEC. In order to avail of the incentives provided for under the decree, the multi-national company will, within 30 days from receipt of the SEC certificate of registration, submit to the SEC a certificate of inward remittance from a local bank. The inward remittance will show that the applying firm has remitted to the Philippines at least $30,000 or its equivalent in other countries and converted the same to Philippine currency. Annually, the firm will submit proof to the SEC of inward remittance amounting to at least $50,000 or its equivalent in other foreign currencies during the past year.

COMMISSION on Elections clarified an announcement that there will be two lists in the registration of barangay members. Comelec Chairman Leonardo Perez made the clarification during the TV program Pulong pulong sa Kaunlaran. The Comelec chairman said that there will be only one list to be accomplished in Comelec Barangay Form No 2 but there will be two groupings. These groupings are 1) Those who are 15 years old or over but less than 18 years old and 2) Those who are 18 years old or over. When the barrio captains or barangay heads prepare the list of barangay members registered during the period June 19 to July 4, the segregation of the two groupings will be made.

THE PRESIDENT assured that there is no real emergency in the country's peace and order condition to warrant the mobilization of military reservists for combat duty. The Chief Executive made this assessment to dispel doubts that reservists now being called to register will be utilized to put down any insurrection or rebellion in pockets of troubled areas in the country. The President made the clarification during a courtesy call of the first batch of reserve officers called to a 30-day active duty in consonance with the civil emergency plan of the Government. He told the 38 officers that the registration of reservists will update government listings. These will cover ROTC graduates, those who underwent military training as 20-year-olds, recognized guerillas, veterans, retired military personnel and those who were honorably discharged from the armed forces.

CENTRAL BANK has deputized all banking institutions and some government agencies to effect the surrender and exchange of old currency notes from July 1 to December 31 this year. The CB discussed the mechanics for the exchange of notes for newer ones bearing the legend of "Bagong Lipunan" with representatives of banking institutions and government agencies involved in the implementation of the demonetization of the old currency. The guidelines are intended to facilitate the withdrawal of the old currency and the distribution of the Bagong Lipunan-marked notes. The CB and the representatives agreed that all banking institutions within the Greater Manila area will surrender the old notes to the CB either by depositing or exchanging these currencies.

THE PRESIDENT exempted retired and retiring government and private employees from paying income taxes derived from their social security benefits, retirement gratuities, pensions and similar benefits. The President's move is embodied in Presidential Decree No. 202. The decree, which is in line with the Government's efforts to promote the welfare of the working masses' embraces within its scope not only those benefits earned in the Philippines but also those received from foreign government agencies, both public and private. PD 202 has repealed or modified provisions of existing laws, decrees and other statutes inconsistent with it.

JUSTICE Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued the opinion that a city or municipal councilor may serve as an officer, legal counsel or consultant of private bank since he is not considered a fulltime elective official covered by Presidential Decree No. 71 amending the General Banking Act. Mr. Abad Santos said the Act provides that no full-time appointive or elective public officer shall at the same time serve as officer, director, legal counsel or consultant of any private bank except where such service involves government's financial assistance to the bank. City and municipal councilors who are bar members are impliedly allowed to practice their profession subject to certain restrictions, Secretary Abad Santos said.

JUSTICE SECRETARY Vicente Abad Santos, in a speech before the sixth charter anniversary celebrations of Benguet Province, said that local governments have now been elevated to the vanguard of development efforts occupying a more pivotal position that it ever had in the history of national administration. The Government has now fully realized that its real infrastructure is located at the local areas, the secretary said. "It is here that we find the sovereign Filipino people through the preamble of the new Constitution. It is here where we find the people in whom the sovereignty resides and from whom all government authority emanates. It is here that we find the situs of power," Mr. Abad Santos declared.

THE GOVERNMENT has harnessed the services of 24 more rural banks to boost the Masagana 99 rice production program. This brought to 449 the total number of rural banks now extending financial support to farmers engaged in the project in 43 provinces throughout the country. A total of P11.5 million has been released to farmers since the start of the massive rice production program for initial loans. Of this amount, P1.4 million was released by the rural banks; P6.6 million by the Philippine National Bank; and P3.4 million by the Agricultural Credit Administration.

BUREAU of Customs has devised a plan aimed at reducing redtape in all drawback payments. Drawbacks are payment claims of export and manufacturing corporations, principally from excess levy collected from these firms. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina said that beginning June 25 all claims must be filed with the Special Drawback Committee located at Room 305 of the Manila customs house. Under the new procedure, the claimants will deal with no other office except the committee which has been empowered to gather all documents necessary to support the claims available within the bureau. Commissioner Geotina said the claimants must file an application for the drawback stating the basis of their claims such as the entry number and date of the export. The customs commissioner directed the Special Drawback Committee to submit a report of its activities every two weeks to enable him to keep track of its operation.

DEPARTMENT of Health reported there is no increase in gastrointestinal and other diseases that usually come with the rainy season. This was announced by Health Secretary Clemente Gatmaitan even as he cautioned the public to take precautionary measures against the seasonal diseases such as gastro-enteritis, cholera and dysentery. Secretary Gatmaitan based his announcement from reports of the various health offices and the San Lazaro Hospital.

President's Week in Review: June 22-28, 1973

President's Week in Review: June 29 - July 5, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 29—

THE PRESIDENT ordered that appropriate "severe measures" be taken against all rural banks found to be imperilling the success of Masagana 99. The Chief Executive gave the directive to Agriculture Secretary Arturo Tanco on receiving reports that "the rural banks have not kept pace with the Philippine National Bank in the release of farm loans." Secretary Tanco said that the management committee of Masagana 99 was monitoring loan operations and is pinpointing all loan bottlenecks needing "corrective" measures. The President is keeping close watch on Masagana 99 which he had dubbed the "nation's program of survival."

THE GOVERNMENT'S policy to hire government employees displaced by the reorganization plan and the ratification of the new Constitution will not cover those personnel separated without civil service eligibilities and whose services had been terminated under letters of instructions on courtesy resignation. Malacañang clarified this even as it emphasized that this system of rehiring preference will not apply in the filling of positions in the non-competitive service, and contractual, promotional and transfer appointments. The preference, Malacañang said, will be subject to the condition that the civil service eligibilities, experience and other qualifications of the separated personnel are consistent with the job requirements of the position vacancies. Special attention will focus on the special and technical qualifications needed in such positions as doctors, engineers, economists and the like, the clarification further stated.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism acted to stop the tampering and destruction of the country's natural beauty and relics. Secretary of Tourism Jose D. Aspiras said old churches, old forts and landmarks in some towns and cities are being, torn down or altered without proper planning and supervision. He called on the nation's planners and builders to prevent the destruction of the country's natural beauty and the relics of its past heritage in their efforts to build new tourism plants and facilities. To ensure proper planning of new tourism establishments, the tourism department has adopted the following policies: 1) no tourism-oriented project will be approved for financial and technical assistance by the department unless it conforms to certain standards of function and beauty to be determined by a panel of experts; 2) no hotel taller than a coconut tree will be allowed to be built in the provinces. He also urged that new physical facilities for tourism be designed to project a distinct Filipino image.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said that the recognition being given today to a kind of technocracy in government which gives real promise of success in the government's reorganization efforts may well be the hallmark of current efforts to transform the bureaucracy. The secretary spoke on the "Transformation of the Bureaucracy: Problems and Prospects" after inducting the officers of the Bureau Directors Association Inc., at the Hotel Intercontinental in Makati, Rizal. Secretary Tatad stressed that this recognition of technocracy in government is perceptible in the general recognition given by the Presidency to management techniques that make government work. He said that it is also evident in fact that the government today requires what it can learn from the operation of corporate organization and the infusions of these new ideas into the lifeblood of the government.

THE COUNTRY'S public and private lending institutions met to fashion out ways to facilitate the granting of loans for small scale industries. The meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines building under the auspices of the Small Business Assistance Bureau of the CCP, made the observation that although there are sufficient funds to be loaned out to small business entrepreneurs, there are only few takers. The private sector has unlimited funds to finance these small scale industries while on the government side, the Social Security System has allocated P10 million for the same purpose. But only P1.3 million of this SSS fund had been borrowed by the small businessmen. The reasons why small businessmen do not avail themselves of the financing scheme were pointed out during the discussions. The greatest obstacle why businessmen do not borrow money from this lending institution is the complicated forms to be filled up by the borrowers.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said that the measures taken by the New Society to cure the affliction in the press have succeeded in giving the country for the first time a more accurate and favorable image in the foreign press. In a situation report on the local press, the secretary told diplomatic officials gathered in a seminar on Philippine affairs at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, that “the initial success we might claim in information might perhaps be credited to the recognition that information today is development.” However, he said, what has so far grown out of the effort to reform the press is not yet the model that is expected of print media. “Our ideal,” he said, “is a press that will be an effective instrument in the transformation of the society.”

NATIONAL Economic and Development Authority and the United States Assistance for International Development (USAID) signed a P32.2 million allocation for the rehabilitation of Philippine irrigation systems. The fund grant is expected to help boost the country’s rice production program since many national gravity irrigation and communal irrigation system destroyed by last year’s floods would be rehabilitated. The P32.2 million allocation is part of the $50-million US assistance grant for the rehabilitation of damages suffered by the Philippines in last year’s floods.

FOUR COUNTRIES participating in the Taxation and Customs Co operation Conference currently held in Manila reaffirmed their pledge to cooperate in stopping customs frauds and smuggling. The four—the Republic of Korea, China, Vietnam and the Philippines—pledged to bind themselves in suppressing customs frauds and smuggling through a ready exchange of correct information on import valuation and tariff matters. In this connection, the four countries agreed to set up a central secretariat to facilitate the free flow of tax and tariff information among the four states. The Philippines was chosen the site of the secretariat, with the National Tax Research Center coordinating the program.

THE PRESIDENT initiated a government policy to harness household savings for capital formation in line with the country’s development efforts, and created a National Commission on Savings for this purpose. The Chief Executive stressed the need to mobilize savings in the banks for developmental uses and to flush out hidden, idle or hoarded cash, during the launching of the nationwide “savings for progress campaign at Malacañang Maharlika Hall. He said that the two constraints on local capital formation are the low level of savings and the drain of existing savings into unproductive uses. The President, thus, emphasized the necessity to inculcate thrift into the citizen’s awareness, expressing hope that this will be effected as successfully as the inculcation of discipline and cleanliness among the people.

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree prescribing the rates of duty on the country’s principal export products. Under Presidential Decree No. 230, the new export tax on the principal export products—which takes effect immediately—will be made a permanent feature of the Tariff and Customs Code. The decree repeals Rep. Act 6125 which was enacted as a revenue raising measure and as a stabilization device to withdraw excessive money supply generated by windful gains in the export sector due to the change in the exchange rate of the peso vis-a-vis the American dollar. The Presidential decree amends the Tariff and Customs Code by Creating Title III in Book I titled “Export Tariff”. This section provides for the assessment and collection of duties on the country’s principal export products.

BUREAU of Customs set the guidelines for the implementation of Presidential Decree No. 230 which prescribes the rates of duty on export products. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said the new export tax will be implemented effective on July 1. Here are the guidelines: 1) Immediately upon completion of the loading of the export shipment, the Export Coordinating Department of the Bureau of Customs, or the Collector of Customs, or their authorized agent bank shall collect the export duty due thereon within 30 days from date of shipment. This duty shall constitute a lien on the peso proceeds of the shipment. 2) Export duty collections shall be remitted to the Central Bank within seven days from collection. 3) Report of collections of export duty shall be transmitted to the Bureau of Customs daily by the Central Bank as in the case of import duty. 4) This shall take effect July 1, 1973. All exports departing from the Philippine territorial jurisdiction after midnight of June 30, 1973 shall be subject to the provisions of Presidential Decree No. 230 and the implementing regulations.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development (DLGCD) has completed a total of 27,836 community development projects in the Ilocos, Central Luzon and Cagayan Valley. The projects which cost some P7.7 million, were turned over to the barrio people in these provinces. Other DLGCD accomplishments in the areas include: 1) Funding of 1,129 projects through the calamity fund worth P7 4 million; 2) Organization of a total of 132 municipal cooperatives development committees and 294 cooperative action teams; 3) Organization of more than 600 barrio associations or Samahang Nayan in the provinces of Isabela and Nueva Ecija; 4) Conducting a series of family planning training activities.

GOVERNMENT scientist have found a way of converting muddy floodwater into clear and pleasant-smelling drinking water. The method, considered to be more effective than boiling method, would be handy in case disastrous floods occur again. Scientists from the National Science Development Board said the method is capable of supplying purified floodwaters to about 50 to 100 families in relocation centers.

The NSDB scientists said the method requires the following: three drums of 55-gallon capacity, four grams of “tawas” (aluminum sulfate), a bag of sand, 57 grams of Biogent 236 or chlorine and 200 mili-liters of Chemfloc or coagulant.

July 1—

MEMBERS of the citizens assemblies will cast their votes in secret balloting to ensure that the results of the July 27 referendum are truly reflective of the popular will. In a presidential decree issued by the President, the Chief Executive outlined a procedure of voting and canvassing in the citizens assemblies that will accurately ascertain the barangay members’ collective views on national and local issues. Presidential Decree No. 229 provides that the ballots to be used in the referendum shall contain, aside from the questions to be asked the voters, a note stating that the ballot should be filled “secretly inside the booth.” As an additional safeguard voters are also enjoined “not to put any distinctive marks in any part” of their ballots.

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 231 enacting a tax code for local governments in order to make them effective instruments for national development and progress. The tax code, which takes effect now will apply to the provinces, cities, municipalities and barrios for a more efficient system of local tax administration benefitting both the Government and the taxpayer.

RURAL BANKERS Association of the Philippines (REAP) said that a total of 16,833,836 has been released by rural banks to 16,692 farmers participating in the Government’s Masagana 99 rice production program. The RBAP said the participation of rural banks is one of the cornerstones of the crash rice production program now going on all over the country. The amount was released by 225 out of the 446 rural banks qualified to participate in the program. The recipient farmers are tilling 36,995 hectares of irrigated and rain-fed ricefield. The remaining rural banks are still waiting for the planting season to begin in their respective areas before releasing the funds for Masagana 99, the association said.

NATIONAL GRAINS Authority has authorized the shipment of rice to Sulu through floating retail stores. The floating stores, NGA Assistant Administrator Manuel Ledesma said, will carry a load of 200 bags per trip. The floating rice stores will be under the supervision and control of the military.

July 2—

THE PRESIDENT inaugurated the 2.16-kilometer San Juanico Bridge linking Samar and Leyte which he called a symbol of the Filipinos’ vision and firm resolve to unite themselves under the New Society. In inaugurating the longest bridge in Southeast Asia, the Chief Executive said the engineering marvel which constitutes the central segment of the Pan Philippine Highway is a clear proof of the people’s determination to obliterate obstacles to unity and progress. The opening of the S-shaped bridge marked a giant stride toward the realization of the plan to link the archipelago’s three main regions—Luzon, Visayas and Mindanao—through the Pan Philippine Highway.

THE PRESIDENT has created the Professional Regulation Commission to coordinate and supervise the operations of various government boards of examiners and upgrade professionalism in the country. The Chief Executive has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 223 empowering the PRC—to be composed of one full-time commissioner and two full-time associate commissioners—to enforce laws regulating the different professions.

HEALTH personnel who will receive assignment in “difficult” or remote areas of the country will be granted 25 per cent additional incentives pay to solve the dearth of doctors, nurses and midwives in the rural areas. This was revealed by Health Secretary Clemente Gatmaitan who has already requested the Budget Commission for release of the necessary funds for this purpose. Under the plan, doctors receiving a P600 monthly salary will get an additional P150 a month and nurses with a P350 monthly salary will receive P450 monthly. The incentives will be chargeable to savings from allotments incurred by the corresponding offices concerned where certain areas are declared difficult or remote, Secretary Gatmaitan stated.

DEPARTMENT of Health has authorized the setting up of all rural mini-hospitals with a capacity of six to 10 beds each. Health Secretary Clemente Gatmaitan said that the “mini-hospitals” shall be established and made available to residents of “depressed communities” and remote areas throughout the country. The setting up of these health facilities has been approved subject to the following conditions: 1) That health bed facilities are not available, either government or private, within a radius of 30 kilometers from the nearest existing hospital; 2) That the number of inhabitants within its service area shall not be less than 2,000 persons; 3) That the services to be provided by the facilities shall be for simple diagnostic and therapeutic equipment and procedures of which are within the capacity of a general practitioner; 4) That these six to 10 beds facilities are established to meet the primary health care of the community, and in the event that the patient’s condition will require the services of a regular hospital, the cases shall be referred accordingly, applying first aid treatment and resuscitating procedure to allow safe transfer to the hospital; 5) That these facilities shall conform with the prescribed requirements of the Bureau of Health and Medical Services.

GRASSLANDS which are unproductive or unsuitable for crop growing may be converted into productive uses, the National Institute of Science and Technology has reported. NIST Commissioner Jose R. Velasco, in a lecture on “Grasses and Grasslands in the Philippines” before the Philippine Botanical Society, said that the cheapest way to minimize soil erosion in terms of manpower and time is to bring unproductive land back under forest cover. The NIST commissioner pointed out that open grasslands constitute some 11.59 per cent of the total land resources in the country. Observing the logged-over areas gradually degenerate to grasslands which are not suitable for growing crop, Dr. Velasco urged the botanists to improve their know-how in managing the Philippine grassland resources.

FARMER-APPLICANTS can now apply for pumps with provincial or regional office of the National Irrigation Administration under a new scheme of irrigation pump distribution. All they have to do is to comply with the following procedures: 1) Make the required down payment (10 per cent of the cost unit) and hand or put up guarantee to secure payment of the yearly amortization as determined by the NIA; 2) Execute or sign a contract for the purchase of the unit and provide the necessary labor and initial capital to finance the construction and installation of the equipment; 3) Pick up the pump and engine set from the NIA warehouse and construct the system within a reasonable time determined by the NIA and undertake the installation of the pump unit within 15 days after it was released; 4) Maintain and operate a system, including such items as fuel, oil, salaries of mechanics, water tenders and other workers; 5) Allow or permit the NIA administrator or oil representatives to inspect the irrigation system at all times. Applicants in group must form an association and oblige, bind and engage themselves jointly and severally to pay direct to the NIA the annual amortization due on the cost of the irrigation equipment.

DEPARTMENT of labor has drafted new wage rates increasing the approved minimum pay of the country’s more than 150,000 sugar workers. Secretary of Labor Blas F. Ople said the realistic wage rates are intended to solve “once and for all” the wage problems causing constant irritants between sugar planters and workers. The wage rate will be presented during a three-day tripartite (sugar planters, sugar workers, and government representatives) • conference from July 6 to 8 at the Bascon Hotel in Bacolod City. Secretary Ople said the realistic rates, which are way above the approved minimum wage for sugar workers, will be presented for approval by the conference delegates.

FIRST SHIPMENT of 20- and 50-peso “Bagong Lipunan” (New Society) currency notes arrived at the Central Bank from Thomas de la Rue and Co., Ltd., currency engravers and printers in London. Mr. Siervo Dizon, acting director of the CB cash department, said that government and commercial banks all over the country will start replacing currency in circulation with the 20- and 50-peso notes. No one-peso bills will be issued by the CB. All the peso notes will eventually be replaced by the peso coins which have been in circulation since late last year. The CB expects to replace 3.6 billion pesos by December 31, 1973 the deadline fixed by Presidential Decree No. 168 for all Philippine notes in circulation to be exchanged for the Bagong Lipunan money at par value.

REGISTRATION of reservists has been extended to July 31. Col. Ismael Albano, Chief of the Office for Manpower Reserve Affairs, said the Department of Foreign Affairs and various local government officials had requested for the extension of the deadline, originally set for May 31. The May 31 deadline was extended to June 30 also on request of various government officials who said that there were many reservists who failed to meet the deadline. Meanwhile, Col. Albano said that although retired military personnel are not included in the general classification of reservists, they are nevertheless requested to accomplish the required forms for computerization purposes.

SOME 200,000 taxpayers who made overpayments of income tax for 1972 will receive their refund amounting to P20 million by July 15. This was announced by Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera who emphasized that personal follow-up for the expeditious release of the refund check is no longer necessary. He said that 65,000 refund checks have been mailed so far and the rest are being processed for delivery. The BIR has 90 days within which to make the refund or pay an interest of six per cent per annum on delayed refund starting from the end of the 90-day period.

DEPARTMENT of Health announced that only duly accredited practitioners of plastic and reconstructive surgery may use the facilities of government hospitals, clinics and health centers in performing these specialized procedures. This is in consonance with a resolution passed by the Philippine Association of Plastic Surgeons, Inc., and the Philippine Board of Plastic Surgery Inc. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan directed all chiefs of hospitals, upon recommendation of the medical staff, to exclude from membership in the organized staff or to disqualify any practitioner who, not being so accredited, shall perform or attempt to perform the specialty procedure of plastic and reconstructive surgery.

NATIONAL Science Development Board has called on the nation's engineers and technologists to work closer with the NSDB to promote the country's development. NDSB Florencio Medina issued the appeal as he offered the Council of Technologists and Allied Sciences of the Philippines (COTASP) a 1, 000 meter lot in the sprawling NSDB complex in Bicutan, Taguig, Rizal, to house a proposed science center. The proposed science center, which will cost P2 million, is a special project of the NSDB and COTASP, a federation of 20 engineering and technological organizations with a total membership of 25, 000.

MORE RICE and yellow corn shipments have arrived in the different ports of the country to supplement the cereal supply of the Government. Two shipments, consisting of 4, 3000 metric tons of rice and 4, 248 metric tons yellow corn, respectively, docked in various ports of the country on board the Ledesco Tres and the MV/Sea Progress. Grains Administrator Jess Tanchanco said that the imported cereals will be unloaded in places where they are mostly needed.

July 4—

THE PRESIDENT pledged that in the New Society, all regions of the country will have an equal share in progress. The Chief Executive made this assurance at the official opening of the P45 million Mandaue-Opon Bridge, the second span linking Visayan islands to be inaugurated in three days. The President told an audience of some 20,000 people led by Cebu officials, that Cebu, the Visayas and the Mindanao "will receive funds from the national government and the rewards of progress." He stressed that the unjust practice of the old society to funnel government funds only for the development of cities in Luzon will not be countenanced in the new order. "So long I am President, Cebu, Visayas and Mindanao will progress as will any other part of the nation," the President stated.

SECRETARY of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo declared that prospects of Philippine-American relations have become brighter as a result of Martial Law and the establishment of the New Society. Interviewed on the occasion of Philippine-American Friendship Day, Secretary Romulo said the Philippines is now able to deal and negotiate with the Americans and American agencies on the basis of equality and reciprocity. This new Philippine posture vis-a-vis the US is brought about by two factors: 1) The general trend for Philippine world trade which no longer necessitates preferences or special treatment by the US; and 2) A more systematic way of investing foreign (US or other foreign developed countries) assistance.

THE PRESIDENT has created the Philippine Coconut Authority to take over the functions of the government agencies formerly entrusted with the development of the coconut industry. The Chief Executive has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 232 abolishing the Philippine Coconut Administration (Philcoa), the Philippine Coconut Research Institute (Philcorin) and the Coconut Coordinating Council (CCC). The officers and employees of the abolished agencies, however, will continue discharging their duties pending assumption into office of the PCAs 11 board members. The decree aims to integrate governmental efforts to develop the coconut industry which is one of the country's top export earners.

BUREAU of Customs has registered a total collection of P2.008 billion for Fiscal Yew 1972-73. This, however, is still a tentative figure and does not include receipts from the outports for June and other unaccounted collections since the fiscal year started. The customs take, according to Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina, exceeded its P2 billion goal. From July, 1972 to May, 1973, the total customs receipts amounted to P 1,839,316,208.92. For the month of June the Port of Manila reported a total of P179, 166,675.86

BLUE-GREEN algae isolated from plants commonly found in Ilocos Norte rice fields have proved to be effective substitutes for rice fertilizers. Scientists of the National Science Development Board reported findings showing that the algae, called Bg-25 (meaning blue-green algae from flask number 25), contain more than twice the nitrogen content of plants grown in sand minus the algae. The NSDB experts discovered that rice fertilizers with Bg-25 have healthier growth and longer leaves. This is attributed to the Bg-25's high nitrogen content, one of the essential foods needed by rice for growth and grain production.

July 5—

THE PRESIDENT expressed confidence the July 27 referendum will give the administration a fresh mandate to continue its policy of reforms to enable the country to move forward and achieve the goals of change and modernization. He expressed this belief before members of the Hongkong Overseas Trade Mission who called on him at Malacañang. Two members of the mission, Mr. Liao Yu Chun and Mr. Dan Chin Chih Yun, informed the President they were planning to invest in the country's national development program. The trade mission, which arrived in Manila last June 30, is the second to arrive here in less than three weeks. "We are very much impressed by the vast change which is very hard to believe," the members of the mission told the President, referring to the improved condition in the country since the imposition of Martial Law.

THE PRESIDENT constituted a committee to review and propose amendments to the Price Control Law to protect consumers against illegal practices in connection with the supply, distribution and sale of prime commodities. Named members of the committee were the Secretaries of Trade, Agriculture, and Health, the Director General of the National Economic and Development Authority, the Chairman of the Board of Investments, and the Governor of the Central Bank. Through a letter of instructions, the President charged the committee with the task of making the Price Control Law "more effective" and at the same time encouraging more production of basic or prime commodities.

DEPARTMENT of Trade has initiated moves to establish uniform rates and time limits for various automotive repair works to protect the public from unscrupulous motor shop owners. In a meeting with representatives of the country's major car assemblers, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., announced he will require the Bureau of Domestic Trade (formerly Bureau of Commerce) to issue only provisional licenses to motor repair shops which may be cancelled if the shop is found not provided with the necessary equipment and competent mechanics. Mr. Quiazon said this move, together with the establishment of standard time limit for major repair works, will guarantee motor shop efficiency.

THE GOVERNMENT has adopted a new technique which would raise the level of exports particularly in manufactured items. The main thrust of the method, called the "micro" or "pinpoint" approach, centered primarily on the selection of particular firms and products for development whose export potential is very promising.

Pioneered by the Institute of Export Development of the Board of Investments, the project is expected to prop up the country's level of exports. Basically, the "micro" approach technique involves the picking out of certain products and firms who will be given government assistance and closer support if found to have real export potential. In short, the main stress of the scheme is to lead the exporters to the right buyers in promising international markets.

BUREAU of Customs took steps intended to maximize the use by the Government of capital invested in abandoned importations. Customs Commissioner Rolando G Geotina said the measures would insure of speedy disposition of all abandoned cargoes to accelerate full utilization of capital invested in such importations. To speed up disposition of abandoned importations the customs bureau chief: 1) Directed all port collectors to apply strictly the provisions of the law on implied abandonment and to declare as abandoned all cargoes that have not been claimed by importers; 2) Directed that all cargoes impliedly abandoned will be formally declared abandoned by the port collector of customs; 3, Ordered that importations may be sold at public auction and the proceeds will be formally declared abandoned by the port collector of customs; 4) Orderd that importations may be sold at public auction and the proceeds will go to the Government; 5) Directed the fast and systematic application m the sale of perishable cargoes so that the Government can obtain a better price from would-be buyers; and 6) Said that importers .can still reclaim the articles within three months after their importations have been declared abandoned after paying the corresponding taxes and duties and other charges.

THE PHILIPPINES, inspite of the droughts and disastrous floods that hit the country last year, has registered a total shipment of 946,593.22 short tons (commercial weights) of sugar for the first five months of 1973 to fill up its quota with the United States. The Sugar Quota Administration said the figures represents roughly 69 per cent of the 1,371,595.61 short tons (C.W.) export quota requirements of the country. The shipment with an FOB (freight on board) value of $153,689,684.94 is roughly 55 per cent more than the shipment for the first five months (January to May) last year which amounted to $99,123,697.19. Sugar Quota Administrator Jose A. Unson said that he expects to meet the country's 1973 sugar allocations from the US totalling 1,371,595.61 short tons, commercial weight or an equivalent of 1,407,972 short tons raw value much earlier than last year.

President's Week in Review: July 6-12, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 6—

THE PRESIDENT has validated in Presidential Decree No. 227 the permanent list of voters in the 1971 elections and the list of Barangay members who participated in the January 1973 referendum to enable these voters and Barangay members to participate in the July 27 referendum. The new decree amends Section 14 of Presidential Decree No. 210 which provides for a system of registration for members of the Barangays (citizen's assemblies).

BUREAU of Internal Revenue reported to the President "unprecedented collections from internal revenue taxes totalling P4, 089,833,725 during fiscal year 1972-1973 ending last June 30, 1973. The amount represents an increase of 46.42 per cent over the P2, 793,042,015 collected during the previous fiscal year 1971-72. Bureau of Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera attributed the big increase in tax collections to the general effects of Martial Law and the increasing support of taxpayers in the Government. Noteworthy were gains in specific tax, P70, 767,321; license, business and occupation taxes, P15, 500,667, and franchise tax, P15, 165,340.

THE PRESIDENT has personally distributed land transfer certificates to some 3,532 tenant-farmers in 14 towns of Leyte. He made the distribution, the first in the Eastern Visayan region, shortly after the inauguration of the San Juanico Bridge. Held at the NIDC compound in Tanauan, Leyte, the awarding of the land transfer certificates was the second the President has distributed: to the tenants emancipated by Presidential Decree No. 27. Assisting the First Couple in the awarding ceremonies were Department of Agrarian Reform Secretary Conrado Estrella, DAR Undersecretary Ernesto Valdez and Assistant Secretary Benjamin Labayen.

SECURITIES and Exchange Commission has announced that a total of 249 corporations with a paid up capital of P1.3 billion retained an undivided profit amounting to P2, 669,708,171. The release of this latest listing is in compliance with a Presidential directive requiring the Securities and Exchange Commission to determine which corporations have been retaining their undivided corporate profits equivalent to more than 100 per cent of their paid up capital. The directive is designed to stop tax evasion by these big corporations and to insure the buyers of stocks of these corporations a fair return from their investments in the form of dividend payments. However, the directive allows these corporations to retain undivided profits equivalent to more than 100 per cent of their paid up capital if such corporations could give justifiable reasons" for the retention of the undivided profits.

GOVERNMENT loan agencies and rural banks have stepped up financial assistance to farmers involved in the Masagana 99; rice production program In its latest report, the Agricultural Credit Administration said P6, 100, 426 have been released as of June 28 to some 7,726 farmers In Ilocos Norte, the Philippine National Bank branch and four rural banks loaned out a total of P1, 398,186 to 2,943 Masagana 99 farmers. The PNB office in Laoag City released some P1, 127,390 to 2,376 farmers cultivating some 1,623.58 hectares.

July 7—

THE PRESIDENT intensified government efforts to prevent hoarding of rice and corn by deputizing provincial governors and city mayors in an all-out drive to check the movements of commercial stocks of the cereals. In a complementary move, the Chief Executive authorized the imposition of price ceilings for rice, to prevent unwarranted increases on the price of the staple commodity. These twin measures are embodied in Letter of Instructions No. 97 issued by the Chief Executive. LOI No. 97 modifies LOI Nos. 79 and 88 which set the guidelines for the trading of rice, corn and other basic commodities. LOI No. 97 also authorizes the NGA to establish price ceilings for rice, whether locally produced or imported, provided that the retail price ceiling for any variety shall not exceed P3.50 per ganta or P1.45 per kilo. The NGA may establish price ceilings in all the different regions of the country.

ACTING EXECUTIVE Secretary Roberto V. Reyes said that the government, as an instrument of the people's welfare and well-being, must assume sole responsibility for the quality, dependability and competence of professionals in order to safeguard and protect the public interest. Secretary Reyes was guest speaker at the get-together of the Philippine Association of Government Board Examiners, held at the Romulus Restaurant on Roxas Boulevard. In his remarks, Secretary Reyes delved on the two salient provisions of Presidential Decree No. 223, which created the Professional Regulation Commission. Mr. Reyes emphasized that this Commission was purposely created to supervise, conduct and manage the conduct of professional rating systems, and delineate policies and guidelines in the conduct of state examinations.

DANGEROUS DRUGS Board has set guidelines for accreditation of preventive centers for drug addiction. In a meeting, the board decided that preventive centers be accredited according to the type of programs it will undertake. The center may conduct one or two programs or a combination of several types such as crises intervention, guidelines and counselling, public information and mass media production. The board agreed to require applicants for accreditation to submit in writing a clear definition of purpose and functions. Such definition shall include goal and specific objectives, geographical area or target group or groups to served by the program. The center should also meet the drug education or prevention needs of the area where it would be located.

ISABELO de los Reyes, father of labor unionism is remembered' now on his 109th birth anniversary. De los Reyes was also a patriot-historian, senator, journalist, nationalist and co-founder of the Philippine Independent Church. He was born in 1864 in the historic town of Vigan, Ilocos Sur, to Elias de los Reyes and Leona Florentino, the first Filipina poetess. Finishing law at the age of 22, he shifted to journalism and wrote articles for various periodicals. Being a nationalist, he criticized the Spanish maladministration in the Philippines in a leading newspapers in Spain. For having been too vocal against Spanish authorities, he was deported to Barcelona in Spain. He became popular as the "Father of Philippine Unionism" when he established the first labor union in the country and became its first president. He died October 10, 1938.

July 8—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 212 amending Paragraph One of Section 1659 of the Revised Administrative Code, as amended, providing for more flexibility and discretion in the choice of a substitute to perform the duties of the solicitor general in the event of a vacancy in the office of the solicitor general. Section 1659 of the Revised Administrative Code, as amended, provides for a first assistant solicitor general to temporarily perform the functions of the office and in the event of the absence of the first assistant solicitor general, the acting solicitor general is designated from among nine assistant solicitors general on the sole basis of seniority.

COMMISSION on Elections has formulated and unanimously approved a single "capsulized" question for the July 27 referendum. It centers on President Marcos' tenure and the reforms undertaken during his Martial Law administration. The sole question which some 21 million Barangay members throughout the country will be asked to resolve on July 27 is: Under the present Constitution, the President, if he so desires, can continue in office beyond 1973. Do you want President Marcos to continue beyond 1973 and finish the reforms he has initiated under Martial Law?" Comelec Chairman Leonardo B. Perez explained that this question "capsulizes" all the proposed issues and questions submitted to the poll body during its consultations with all sectors of the nation, both public and private.

THE GOVERNMENT reported significant gain—notably in education and agrarian reform—in its multi-pronged approach to national development. After averting the "school crisis" which had perennially plagued the educational system, the government prosecuted vigorously projects aimed at getting more benefits from the educational system. In the field of agrarian reform, the touch-stone of the government's social program, the distribution of land titles to tenant farmers was accelerated. Assured of fundings mainly from the P150 million real estate tax collections, the government took the following steps to prevent the recurring educational problem: (1) Opened some 4,000 new teaching positions in public schools to complement the reorganized two-shift school plan and the pupil accommodation plan; 2) Completed the construction and repairs of 9,494 classrooms damaged by last year's typhoon; 3) Increased the number of classrooms throughout the country to 204,234; and 4) Allocated P1 billion to cover the salaries of 350,000 school teachers and other workers assigned in the schools.

DEFENSE Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile has directed the chief of staff to institute strict measures against abusive officers and enlisted men of the Armed Forces of the Philippines as he took note of complaints and reports on alleged abuses by military personnel against civilians. In a memorandum to the AFP's chief of staff, Enrile stressed the need to ensure the proper conduct of military personnel, particularly at this time, in order to strengthen unity and cooperation with the people. The secretary asked the chief of staff to issue the implementing directive in dealing with prescribed acts of military personnel which include but are not limited to the following: 1) Manhandling of civilians; 2) Fabrication of evidence against civilians; 3) Threatening civilians to prevent them from filing a complaint against any military personnel or the latter's relatives; 4) Extorting from civilians anything of value whether in cash or in kind; 5) Unjustifiable failure of the military superior concerned to discharge his duties as such superior upon a case being reported to him involving the commission of any of the above offenses by his subordinates.

THE PRESIDENT through Proclamation No. 1156, has declared the period July 8 to 14 this year as Chemical Engineering Week to recognition of the role Played by chemical engineers to further scientific and technological advancement for national economic development. As signed by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. by authority of the President, the proclamation stresses, that it is only fitting that public attention be focused on the role of chemical engineers toward attaining the objectives of the government under the New Society.

EXPORTS for the first half of 1973 reached $895,540,546, some $310 million better than the $585.5 million in the same period in 1972. This was reported to Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina by the export coordination department which is headed by Eligia F. Romero. In the month of June alone, export earnings hit $172 million, a big gain over the $103.8 million of the previous June. Based on his statistics for the first half of 1973, the commissioner reported that the top ten exports were: 1) Logs, $37,814,593; 2) Sugar, $32,897,152; 3) Copper concentrate; $31,449,878; 4) Coconut oil, $11,481,001; 5) Copra, $10,230,859; 6) Plywood, $5,284,171; 7) Lumber, $3,793,056; 8) Bananas, $3,165,057; 9) Copra pellets, $2,991,089; 10) Native crafts, $2,693,772.

July 9—

THE PRESIDENT issued two presidential decrees granting tax exemptions to domestic scheduled airlines as well as to new mines and old mines which resume operations, in order to further rehabilitate the Philippine civil aviation industry and accelerate the development and exploitation of our mineral resources. Presidential Decree No. 237, amends Section 190 of the National Internal Revenue Code, as amended, to exempt certain importations of domestic scheduled airlines and of new mines and old mines which resume operations from payment of the compensating tax. The other decree, Presidential Decree No. 238, further amends Section 105 of the Tariff and Customs Code, as amended, exempting certain importations of domestic scheduled airlines and of new mines and old mines which resume operations from customs duty.

THE PRESIDENT prescribed a rule to enable any of the 10 assistant solicitors general to act as temporary solicitor general in the latter's absence. The idea as embodied under Presidential Decree No. 212, to ensure discretion and more; flexibility to realize the following objectives: 1) Superior handling of litigation for the state; 2) Efficient administration of the function of the solicitor general's office; and 3) Greater interest of the public service. The same decree stipulated that the salary of the solicitor general shall be as much as that of a justice of the Court of Appeals. The solicitor general, it was also provided shall be assisted by 10 assistant solicitors general who shall have the same pay scale as that of a judge of the Court of First Instance. When the solicitor general is unable to perform his duties, or in case of vacancy, one of the 10 may be assigned as temporary solicitor general.

July 10—

THE PRESIDENT issued Letter of Implementation No. 23 governing the organization, administration and supervision of samahang nayon (barrio associations) and kilusang bayan (cooperatives) pursuant to the provisions of Section 11 of Presidential Decree No. 175, dated April 14, 1973 entitled "Strengthening the Cooperative Movement." The President approved the LOI submitted by Secretary Jose A. Roño of the Department of Local Government and Community Development who had consulted with organizations of both the government and private sector. The secretary stated that these rules and regulations will accelerate the implementation of the Cooperative Development Program not only as a structural base for a strong cooperative system in the country. The Chief Executive, however, stressed that the implementing rules are subject to changes which may be issued from time to time.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the ancient order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, on Msgr. Carmine Rocco, papal nuncio to the Philippines, in recognition of "his services in the spiritual and social fields." Msgr. Rocco, who is titular archbishop of Justiniapolis in Galatea, and dean of the diplomatic corps in the Philippines, is being assigned to Brazil after completing a five year stint in the Philippines, during which he had endeavored to strengthen the friendly ties and promote greater understanding between the Philippines and the Vatican through mutually beneficial undertakings.

PHILIPPINE trade with the People's Republic of China has been boosted anew with the approval of the exportation of close to P8 million worth of bulk coconut oil to that country. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. approved the bulk exportation which in effect tilted the balance of trade heavily in favor of the Philippines by $4,390,319.92. According to Quiazon, the proposed exportation would bring to $23, 892, 050 the total, Philippine exports to Red China since May 19, 1972. Imports, on the other hand, reached a total of P19,501,730.08 during the same period. According to Secretary Quiazon, trade with socialist and communist countries has picked up considerably since the promulgation by the President of Executive Order No. 384 providing policy guidelines for trade with red bloc countries.

GREATER Manila Terminal Food Market has chalked up a record business of P36.2 million from various suppliers, including farm cooperatives, since the advent of Martial Law. Jose D. Drilon Jr., GMTFM president and concurrently undersecretary of agriculture, reported to the President that the business generated from producers/farmers, as well as from cereal trading, had an aggregate value of P36.2 million for the seven-month period from November 1, 1972 to May 31, 1973, in addition to P29.3 million for the preceding period of "interim operations."

PHILIPPINE delegation to the first session of the governing council of the United Nations Environment Program made a bid for a share of financial and technical aid for local environmental management activities. Warning that unless the developing countries are aided by the more advanced ones in controlling noxious effects of development, Ambassador Narciso G. Reyes, head of the Philippine group at the meeting held in Geneva, said that "man will continue to be an endangered species." Reyes reported to the council that "there is now an enhanced, worldwide consciousness of the need for all nations, individually and by joint action, to come to grips with the problems and perils arising from environmental deterioration." At the same time, Ambassador Reyes suggested that the initial activities of the council should lie in the field of assessment, research and monitoring.

July 11—

THE PRESIDENT called upon the people, from 15 years old up, to speak freely and courageously through the Barangays in the July 27 referendum. In issuing his call, the Chief Executive asked the people to engage in serious and careful soul-searching before coming to the polls, so that they may have a full grasp of the issue presented to them. Speaking at the sixth anniversary celebration of the Philippine Constabulary Command (Metrocom) at Camp Crame, the President said that under the law it is compulsory on the part of all the qualified citizenry not only to register but also to vote. Underscoring the importance of the July 27 referendum, the President said: "We approach the crossroads come July 27, and we shall pause to ask ourselves whether we shall speed forward with mighty steps or whether we shall return to where we came from."

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said there is need for a stronger communication effort in the rural areas even as he pointed out that there is no media censorship in the country. Speaking before the Philippine Federation of Catholic Broadcasters at the Xavier House, Herran Street, Manila, the secretary pointed out that if the reform measures under the New Society are going to have any meaning at all, the small man in the village must participate in the process of reformation. He said the only way to do this is to make the national public aware of what is happening to the small people in the rural areas. This cannot be achieved by enforcing a blackout on local news, according to the secretary. Secretary Tatad further assured that he will look into the problems encountered by rural broadcasters on the translation of local news into the local dialect, the lack of local news materials, and technical difficulties the broadcasters usually encounter.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission (PMCC) added two more benefits to the present package of benefits for Medicare members and their legal dependents. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that in compliance with a directive of President Marcos to study the feasibility of helping further Medicare patients, the PMCC decided to include services for anesthesia and use of the operating room as among the compensable services under the Medicare program. The new benefits are: 1) Anesthesiologist's fee: P25 for a minor operation, P50 for a medium operation, and P100 for a major operation; and 2) Operating room fee: P20 for a minor operation, P40 for a medium operation, and P60 for a major operation. These are to take effect on or after July 1, 1973. Dr. Marcos said that the directive of the President was prompted by requests brought to him for the coverage by the government health insurance funds of the other expenses attendant to surgical operations.

MEDICARE Chairman Pacifico E. Marcos allayed fears that the graduate nursing course would be phased out in favor of a four-year bachelor of science in nursing course and a two-year nursing assistant program. Dr. Marcos spoke at the induction of officers of the Association of Colleges and Schools of Nursing, Inc., at Hotel Intercontinental in Makati, Rizal. Dr. Marcos emphasized that if there has to be a change in nursing education, it should not involve a "phasing out" move but rather, an integration of ideas and systems that will improve both BSN and GN courses.

NATIONAL Economic and Development Authority authorized the government to incur loans totalling $29,300,000 from the Asian Development Bank. NEDA Director-General Gerardo P. Sicat said the loans will be utilized to finance specific projects for development. To be secured from the ADB is a $9.6 million loan for the Angat-Magat Integrated Development project in Bulacan. The project calls for the further development of the Angat water reservoir for consumption and irrigation purposes.

July 12—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 239 withdrawing the authority of the Land Registration Commission to approve original survey plans of lands, to prevent wasteful overlapping or duplication of functions and the deterioration of surveying standards and confusion in land survey records. The decree repeals paragraph 3, Sec. 34-A of Republic Act No. 3844, as inserted by Sec. 6 of Republic Act No. 6389, giving authority to the Land Registration Commission, concurrently with the Bureau of Lands, to approve survey plans of lands intended for original registration purposes. The President stated that the grant of authority to the LRC to approve original survey plans was to facilitate expropriation by the government of big landed estates intended for distribution and resale at cost to tenant-farmers under the Agricultural Land Reform Code.

THE PRESIDENT said that the Philippines is in a hurry to establish an integrated steel mill as a means of hastening the industrial development of the country. In his talk with members of a seven-man survey mission from Nippon Steel Corporation now the world's largest steel manufacturer, the President said that the Philippines has an abundant supply of raw materials for steel production. He recalled that a survey conducted by a United Nations agency had marked the Cordillera mountain ranges in Northern Luzon as rich in iron ore deposits. The Nippon Steel Corporation had dispatched a survey mission to look into prospects of installing an integrated steel mill here.

BOY SCOUTS of the Philippines and the Philippine Constabulary have joined arms to arrest pseudo scouts and unauthorized makers and sellers of BSP items and articles. The move came in the wake of reports that certain persons have been posing as members of the BSP and manufacturing and selling items and articles in violation of Commonwealth Act 111 and the Patent Law. Violators of the provisions of the Act shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding P500, or both, in the discretion of the court.

DEPARTMENT of Labor paved the way for the implementation of the recently approved "paklao" (contract) rates of payment per piece work by sugar workers. This was announced by Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople as he directed a department study committee to draft rules and regulations in implementing the new rates. The new rates, covering 37 major phases of agricultural work in the sugar industry, were approved by representatives of both planters and workers during a three-day tripartite conference in Bacolod City. Under the approved rates, a worker is guaranteed a P0.50 bonus for finishing a piece of work intended for eight hours and bigger bonus for finishing it earlier. The new rates, according to the secretary, will promote development and employment. Under normal conditions, he said, sugar workers will be able to earn better wages while the sugar planters will derive a fair enterprise.

SOCIAL SECURITY System's Medicare department announced that effective immediately, hospitals are no longer required to notify the SSS of a Medicare patient's hospitalization within seven working days from date of admission. The SSS said hospitals may submit the notification together with the claim itself. The procedure simplifies the filing of claims and expedites the processing of Medicare benefits. The hospitals need not submit the two forms separately. The SSS said hospitals that have already submitted Form No. 1 to the SSS need not wait for their return copy before submitting Form No. 2.

DEPARTMENT of Finance reminded all real property owners or administrators to file sworn statements on the true value of their properties on or before September 30. Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata stressed that the value reflected in the statements would not be the basis of assessment for taxation purposes. He said that the assessment value would be based on the schedule prepared by the provincial and city assessor and approved by the finance department. The sworn statements may be filed with the provincial or city assessor or the municipal treasurer where the property is located and must be sworn to before the same officials free of charge. The finance chief enjoined all concerned to file their statements before the deadline to avoid penalties imposed by law.

President's Week in Review: July 13-19, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 13—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Decree No. 221 abolishing the various United Nations national committees individually acting as liaison between the UN agencies and the Philippine government, and transferring their functions together with “applicable appropriations, records, equipment property, and such qualified personnel as may be necessary to the Office of the United Nations Affairs and International Organizations of the Department of Foreign Affairs. The UNESCO National Commission has been ordered attached to the DFA but its administrative staff and functions, together with applicable appropriations, records, equipment, property and such qualified personnel as may be necessary, shall remain “in their present status with the said Commission.” The foreign affairs secretary shall be the chairman of the commission.

THE PRESIDENT called for the intensification of the industrial development effort under the New Society in order to solve the serious problems confronting the country. Addressing the closing session of the 20th National Convention of Philippine Manufacturers and Producers, under the auspices of the Philippine Chamber of Industries, at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President reiterated the country's goal of establishing a balanced agro-industrial economy and pledge full protection to industry and investments.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Letter of Instructions No. 101 creating a committee of four members which will oversee the proper implementation of the prohibition on the destruction of or squatting on the watershed of the Ambuklao and Binga hydro-electric dams by vegetable gardeners on the pretext that they are authorized to do so under Executive Order No. 87, series of 1967. The prohibition is embodied in Presidential Decree No. 209 issued by the President. The Chief Executive has likewise activated the regional evaluation board created by virtue of said decree, which is charged with the task of reviewing all tax declarations and other pertinent papers relative to areas occupied by virtue of Executive Order No. 87. With the director of forest development as chairman, the four-man committee will have the governor of Ifugao, a representative of the Commission on Audit designated by the chairman, and the chairman of the defunct Mountain Province Development Authority (MPDA) as members.

FOREIGN tourist arrivals last June totalled 18,534, a record increase of 23.29 per cent compared with June of last year. Statistics released by the office of Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras disclosed that Japanese tourists registered the highest percentage increase, from 1,627 in June 1972 to 3,228 in June 1973 or a rise of 99 per cent. Filipino residents abroad registered the second highest increase from 1,593 arrivals in June 1972 to 2,160 in June 1973 or a rise of 35.5 per cent. Australian arrivals chalked up a record 20 per cent increase from 1,153 in June, 1972 to 1,383 last month. British arrivals increased from 956 to 1,103 or an increase of 15.3 per cent. The increase in visitor arrivals last month was considered highly significant since June is the start of the off-season for foreign arrivals.

DEPARTMENT of Labor released the “pakiao” rates for sugar workers as ratified by representatives of planters and workers during the tripartite sugar conference in Bacolod City. Labor Secretary Bias Ople said that under the approved rates, sugar agricultural workers are assured of income not lower than the statutory minimum daily wage of P8 for workers in Sarabia, Talisay, and Silay City in Negros Occidental, P7 for those working elsewhere in the province, P6 for those in Panay. The rates vary depending on the kind of work. But in all cases, a worker gets a bonus of P0.50 for a piece of work completed in eight hours. If the worker finishes a job earlier, he will be entitled to a higher bonus.

TOTAL of P130 million was authorized in a project agreement between the National Economic and Development Authority and the USAID Mission to expedite the construction of rural electric cooperative systems in the country. The amount was earmarked from the proceeds of PL 480 Agreements. The sum of P13.4 million, as per agreement, will be made immediately available out of the earmarked P130 million, with the balance to be released at the rate of P24 million every quarter. The agency implementing the electrification program is the National Electrification Administration. The nationwide electrification program, one of the President's high priority projects, envisions initially the setting up of 36 rural electric cooperatives throughout the country.

PEOPLE'S Republic of China is sending a trade mission to the Philippines sometime this year, according to a report submitted to the President by Dr. Wigberto Claveilla, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines and head of the 15-man CCP Trade Mission that visited Peking from April 15 to May 26. The acceptance of the CCP mission's invitation was made by Chinese Premier Chou En Lai who received the Filipino group in an hour-long audience. Premier Chou said the Chinese mission would come to the Philippines "mainly to find out what we need and can buy from you." The Premier also proposed that the Philippines and the People's Republic of China send trade missions to each other yearly, the report said.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture has launched the "Magtanim Upang Mabuhay" program, a nation-wide campaign for self-sufficiency in food. The program, which is in line with the Green Revolution project of the First Lady, was launched through the National Youth Volunteer Coordinating Center for National Development (NYVCCND) with special participation of the Veterans Memorial Hospital. Specifically, this new project seeks to intensify the production of root crops as possible substitutes for rice and other cereals.

NATIONAL Food and Agriculture Council announced further reduction by five per cent in the prices of agricultural pesticides and weed-killers sold nation-wide for the "Masagana 99" drive by Nine-member companies of the Agricultural Pesticide Institute of the Philippines (APIP). The price reductions are being made even while costs of imported ingredients of these farm chemicals are going up. Price reductions ranged from P1.10 as in a case of 1 quart bottle of Azodrin insecticide (Shell) to P3.55 per quart bottle of Hostathion (Hoechst Phil.).

July 14—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 240 authorizing the Postmaster General to supervise, regulate and control the operations of private express or messenger delivery service firms to systematize control over the carriage and dissemination of mailable matter for the good of the public and in the interest of national security. The decree likewise empowers the postmaster general to issue, grant, extend, suspend, or cancel franchises or permits of these private or express messenger delivery service enterprises.

THE PRESIDENT said that proof of the validity of the New Society's program and policies may be gathered from the high wave of investments the country is now enjoying. The president pointed out that of the investments from various sources, some have been infused into the economy while others are on the way to being transplanted to the land. Addressing the convention of manufacturers and producers, the President said that since September 21, the Board of Investments has registered 123 firms under the various Investment Laws, including seven under the Investment Incentives Act, 50 under the Foreign Business Regulation Act. And 50 under the Export Incentives Act. Many more applications are under study, he said, and may soon be in the economic picture in the coming years. He added that tourism earned $120 million, or 11 per cent of the total foreign exchange receipts in 1972.

DEPARTMENT of Trade released the rules and regulations governing the operations of investment houses. Prepared by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the basic rules and regulations will implement the provisions of Presidential Decree No. 129, otherwise known as the "Investment Houses Law." Under the rules, investment houses shall be organized in the form of stock corporations in accordance with the provisions of the Corporation Law, subject to certain requirements. Ownership is vested on citizens of the Philippines to the extent of at least a majority of the voting stock of the corporation. Majority of the members of the board must also be citizens of the Philippines.

DEPARTMENT of Health underscored the importance of effective nutrition campaign particularly among the poor. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan told the country's nutritionists during the induction ceremonies of the newly-elected officers of the Philippine Association of Nutrition, that nutrition work, to be effective and successful, must get down to the lowest level of socio-economic structure because they are the ones usually associated with nutrition work. Nutrition surveys have shown that the children, particularly the very young in the rural areas have the poorest nutrition when compared to other groups, Secretary Gatmaitan said. He said that nutrition programs involve almost always inter-agency and multi-disciplinary activities and that cooperation among participating agencies is essential.

THE PHILIPPINES continued; to forge ahead in its trade with the People's Republic of China with the shipment of 20,000 cubic meters of logs valued at close to P5 million. The shipment was approved by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., on recommendation of Mr. Jovito A Rivera, general manager of the National Trading Corporation. The log exports were the first approved by Secretary Quiazon for the People's Republic of China. Previous shipments consisted of Portland cement plywood and veneer, crude coconut oil in bulk, desiccated coconut, copra, woodenware and woodencraft. Trade with socialist and communist countries has been picking up since the promulgate by the President of Executive Order No. 384 providing for the policy guidelines governing trade with the Red block countries.

BUREAU of Customs adopted; measures to check the commission of fraud against the Government through misrepresentation or falsification in customs transactions involving locally purchased motor vehicles. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said in memorandum that Informal Import Declaration and Entry (Form 177) is an accountable form only to be issued to principal examiners or their assistants. The new system which takes effect immediately was promulgated with the view of pinpointing individual responsibilities over transactions of this nature.

July 15—

DISPUTES among government offices arising out of varying interpretations of laws and contracts will now be settled administratively to avoid lengthy and tedious court proceedings. This new ruling is contained in Presidential Decree No. 242, issued by the President, prescribing the procedures to be followed in the administrative settlement of the inter-governmental controversies. The decree provides that provisions of law to the contrary notwithstanding, all disputes, claims and controversies solely between or among the departments, bureaus, offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the National Government, including government-owned or controlled corporations but excluding constitutional offices or agencies, arising from the interpretation and application of statutes, contracts or agreement henceforth are to be administratively settled or adjudicated. Not affected by the decree are cases already pending in court.

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System, through its Property Insurance Fund, may now engage in full-scale domestic and international reinsurance operations apart from its usual underwriting functions. This was made possible through the issuance by the President of Presidential Decree No. 245, amending Republic Act 656, which created the Property Insurance Fund of the GSIS. The decree names the Property Insurance Fund as the General Insurance Fund and empowers it to reinsure with, as well as to accept reinsurance from, insurance and reinsurance companies both in the Philippines and abroad.

THE COUNTRY'S, economy hit its biggest stride with the international reserves registering an unprecedented peak of $655 million and dollar deposits now aggregating $363 million. On the basis of these figures, Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros reported to the President that the country had accumulated total reserves of $1.019 billion which would be more than sufficient to meet its current requirements. The assessment of the economic and financial developments covered the first six months of 1973. It underlined the continued recovery of the country's economy since October, 1972, soon after the declaration of Martial Law.

SECRETARY of Labor Bias Ople made the observation that a new middle class, equipped with basic skills in agriculture and industry, is gradually taking its proper place in the New Society. The secretary said the new class of men and women would assume positions in various sectors of the economy not on the strength of privilege but on the strength of their credentials of training, talent and creativity. According to the labor secretary, at the rate the government had been stepping up its manpower development programs and considering the redirection in the educational system, which put emphasis on manpower development, the nation would soon have a large pool of skilled labor that could be tapped for industrial development.

July 16—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered that upon the dissolution of the Philippine Postal Savings Bank within three years from January 29, 1973, a certain portion of its assets shall be turned over to the Bureau of Posts to be used for postal improvement. Among the assets which shall be transferred to the Bureau of Posts are the following: 1) The buildings, lands, furniture, supplies and equipment now accruing to the PPSB; 2) Fifty percent of the net accumulated surplus of the bank as may be determined at the time of dissolution; 3) Any unexpected amount covering the estimated prewar liabilities of the bank subject to the approval of the President. The assets and liabilities of the PPSB had been earmarked exclusively for "the Philippine National Bank or any other appropriate existing government bank" by virtue of Presidential Decree No. 121, dated January 29, 1973.

DEPARTMENT of trade lined up for prosecution several subdivision owners, developers and realty dealers for various irregularities perpetrated against house and lot buyers. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., said corresponding actions are being readied against those who could not comply with their contractual obligations and those who would not settle their cases with the complainants. Irregularities unearthed during the initial three-week inquiries ranged from non-development of subdivisions, non-delivery of titles to the buyers after full payment and undue cancellation of contracts by subdividers for non-payment of installment resulting in the forfeiture of all installment payments.

BARANGAY voters were asked to purge their thoughts of the trivial happenings that have not been relevant to the welfare of the country when they vote in the July 27 national referendum. Chairman Leonardo B. Perez of the Commission on Elections instead asked the barangay members to focus their attention on basic matters that have influenced the nation since the declaration of Martial Law. The Comelec chairman said that the voters should weigh the situation dispassionately.

DEPARTMENT of Agrarian Reform advised, legitimate occupants of public lands in Manila and suburbs to transact business directly with the DAR to prevent unscrupulous individuals from taking advantage of the situation. DAR Secretary Conrado Estrella said the Government is expediting the issuance of orders of awards to legitimate occupants of the Tondo foreshore reclaimed areas and other public lands in the Manila area.

TOTAL of 61,515 community development projects worth over P40.5 million were completed by rural folks throughout the country since the proclamation of Martial Law. This was contained in a report submitted to the President by the Department of Local Government and Community Development. Of these, 1,398 were financed under the grants-in-aid program costing over P13.2 million. The rest were purely self-undertakings financed jointly by the barrio people and their municipal and provincial governments. The total number of purely self-help undertakings reached 60,117 worth over P27.2 million.

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System has proposed more incentives for doctors and paramedic personnel who serve in the rural areas. GSIS Director Jose F. Caedo Jr. proposed the hiring of contractual doctors and training of paramedics or first aiders to work among the barrio folk. The incentives include: 1) The building of more well-designed operative health centers to make these centers conducive to the practice of good medicine; 2) Provision of adequate transportation means for the use of health personnel and their patients; 3) Sponsorship of periodic seminars not only in cities but also in provincial towns for the professional advancement of doctors and other medical personnel; and 4) Provision of medical or scientific publications by the communities they work in for their professional growth and knowledge.

PHILIPPINE Tobacco Administration has revised the guidelines in the purchase of cigar-leaf tobacco. Under the new guidelines, cigar-leaf tobacco must be purchased directly from growers and not from middlemen of licensed dealers. Each grower is required to keep, within the ceiling of 400, kilos except where he actually produced tobacco in his own farm. Growers are also required not to accept any consignment beyond PTA approved allocations. PTA Chairman and General Manager Demetrio Tabije has called on the agency's field officers, tobacco warehousemen and farmers to follow the new guidelines strictly.

THE PRESIDENT created the Philippine Veterans Assistance Commission to provide the veterans and their dependents with employment, medical care, education and related services. The commission provided for in Presidential Decree No. 244 shall be provided with an initial P500,000 fund by the Government, and thereafter shall actively solicit contributions of money or other valuable properties from private or government sources, to be invested in interest-bearing securities, the income from which shall finance services for veterans and dependents.

THE PHILIPPINES has been allotted a quota of $6 million for importation of various commodities by Neckermann Versand Ltd., the largest mail order house in West Germany and one of the world's biggest outfits of its kind. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the $6 million allocation for the Philippines this year would be for the importation of garments, shoes, handbags, household items, wood products, decorative items, electronics and electricals, leather, tires and travel goods and beach items including motor boats (speedboats made of fiber glasses).

BUREAU of Customs announced that all its resources will be harnessed to reach the P3-billion collections target this year. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said the collection machinery including the needed manpower have been lined-up for the project. He however warned that anyone who cannot prove equal to the task ahead will have to be laid aside in favor of willing and able-bodied men. The customs chief made the statement before participants of the 4th seminar on the new Tariff and Customs Code where he appealed for maximum effort and greater dedication among customs men. He pointed out that Bureau of Customs under Martial Law was one of the main targets of the reform movement in the government service.

JOINT-VENTURE agreement between a South American company's subsidiary and New Frontier Mines, Inc., for the exportation and development of the Philippine firm's nickel properties in Isabela was announced. The agreement was described as a major breakthrough in the Government's policy of attracting foreign investments. An estimated $80 million in new capital is expected to enter the country as a result of the agreement. Mr. Andres Raczynski, mining managing director of the Hochschild Group Incorporated in Panama with headquarters in Buenos Aires, joined New Frontier officials in a meeting with the President recently. Mr. David P. Cruz, president, led the New Frontier officials. In the meeting, the President reiterated his support to such projects as the nickel development of New Frontier since this will, he said, support the administration's thrust towards speedy and full economic development for the country.

NATIONAL Science Development Board announced that coconut trunks which show promise as a substitute for electric and transmission poles are also excellent materials for the manufacture of particleboards. This was reported by Commissioner Francisco Tamolang of the Forest Products Research and Industries Development, an agency of the NSDB, in connection with the search for raw materials, other than wood, for the production of particleboards. The utilization of coconut trunks would give the coconut planter additional income and would alleviate the problem of lack of supply of wood-based panels for construction purposes.

July 18—

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the plan to establish "holiday inns" to boost tourism, as he received Mr. Kemmons Wilson, founder and board chairman of the Holiday Inns Inc., world's largest chain of hotel, motels and lodgings. Accompanied by his wife Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Humphreys of Hunko Products, and Mr. Rudi Koppends, Holiday Inns vice presidents for Asia, Mr. Wilson expressed his eagerness to include the Philippines in his operations during his courtesy call at Malacañang. Mr. Wilson has already picked out a possible site right in the heart Manila, but will be scouting around for other sites before he leaves for the US.

THE PRESIDENT has completed the appointments of the top three officials of the Bureau of Public Highways who will assist Commissioner Aquino in running the implementing agency in the Government's massive roadbuilding program. Mr. Aber Canlas took his oath of office as assistant chief highway engineer of the BPH before Commissioner Aquino. Mr. Bernardo Apostol was earlier sworn in as deputy commissioner for operations, together with Mr. Leoncio Limjoco, deputy commissioner for administration. With the new setup, Commissioner Aquino said he expects the highway bureau to become more efficient and productive.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 243 creating a Philippine Veterans Investment Development Co. (PVIDC) to promote the full and continued utilization of the country's manpower and to develop investment potentials from the veterans sector. The issuance of the decree is in consonance with the government policy of effecting desired changes and reforms in all sectors of society. The PVIDC will serve as a special agency that shall direct and look after the productive and investment possibilities coming, from this sector of society. It shall be directed, controlled and managed by a board of directors which shall be composed of the Secretary of National Defense, the Executive Secretary, and five other persons who shall be designated by the President from a list of qualified veterans and retirees.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 247 prohibiting and penalizing the mutilation, defacement, tearing, burning or destruction of Central Bank notes and coins. The decree points out that CB notes and coins are issued for circulation as a medium of exchange and to utilize them for other purposes does not speak well of the due respect and dignity, befitting our currency. The decree provides that any person who willfully defaces, mutilates, tears, burns or destroys, in any manner whatsoever, currency notes and coins issued by the Central Bank of the Philippines shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than P20,000 and imprisonment of not more than five years.

THE COUNTRY'S export earnings from fresh bananas during the first half of the current year totalled P77.4 million and exceeded by some P20 million the total earnings for the same period last year. This was reported to Agriculture Secretary Arturo Tanco Jr. by Plant Industry Director Eliseo Carandang. The report showed that from January to June this year, the country exported 177,775,259 kilos of fresh bananas in Tanan worth P77,428,073 and overshot last year's first six months record of P56,468,743 by some P20,959,331. Mr. Carandang said that the peak months of the fruit are yet to come and "barring unforeseen circumstances, the country should be able to attain its target of doubling last year's record."

PRICE CONTROL Council enjoined milk manufacturers, producers and wholesalers to comply with the schedule of maximum prices of milk products particularly with the ceiling for freight and handling charges for transporting the commodities for various regions of the country. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., issued the memorandum circular following reports that milk products were being sold in some parts of the country at prices higher than the maximum levels prescribed by the Price Control Council. Any imposition of additional costs of transportation and handling to areas other than those enumerated in the order shall constitute a violation of the Price Control Law, he said.

July 19—

THE PRESIDENT called for more frequent visits and exchanges of information among the countries belonging to the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) in view of the critical situation in Indo-china. The President sounded the call following the conferment of the Ancient Order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, on Deputy Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonkavan of Thailand, who is an official guest of the Philippine government. The President presented the award in recognition of the visiting dignitary's services in the field of international relations, his constant endeavor to strengthen friendly relations and to promote greater understanding through mutually beneficial undertakings, between Thailand and the Philippines. The ASEAN countries, the President said, being very close to each other, with parallel policies and common objectives, their foreign ministers should make more frequent visits and exchange the most current and latest impressions and information affecting the region.

THE FIRST LADY Launched "Palayan ng Bayan" a joint project of Mrs. Imelda R. Marcos with the provincial governors, aimed at contributing some eight million cavans to annual palay production. The project is an extension of the First Lady's Green Revolution project, and will bring into cultivation thousands of hectares of virgin lands throughout the country. Under the scheme, the provincial governors will identify the areas to be placed under cultivation. A provincial team composed of representatives of the Bureaus of Forest Development, Soil, Plant Industry and Agricultural Extension will then evaluate the land as to suitability to rice or other crops. The Bureau of Lands and the Department of Agrarian Reform will formalize land identification, after which authorization for the use of the land will be obtained from appropriate authorities.

GENERAL Auditing Office has authorized all municipal treasurers to serve as retailers of the National Grains Authority to facilitate the distribution of low-cost rice to the barrio people. Auditor General Ismael Mathay Sr. directed the treasurers in a memorandum to act as rice retailers if there are no NGA distributors in their respective localities during the lean months, subject to the following conditions: 1) That the municipality has no cash overdraft; 2) That appropriation for the purpose is duly provided by the municipal council; 3) That the municipality has adequate storage facilities to avoid loss and deterioration of the rice; 4) That the sale shall be strictly on cash basis; 5) That a separate book of accounts shall be kept wherein all transactions shall be entered daily, and monthly reports shall be submitted to the provincial auditor concerned; and 6) The profit, if any, shall accrue to the general fund of the municipality.

BUREAU of Standards was directed immediately to establish standard specifications for brake fluids used in motor vehicles. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., who issued the directive, furnished the bureau with a list of brands which reportedly have been found by the National Institute of Science and Technology as either within or below standard specifications. Secretary Quiazon, however, emphasized that the investigation into the reported sale of unsafe brake fluids is going on with the assistance of other competent government and private agencies. The order requires that all products sold should be properly labelled, including information as to specifications as well as the name of manufacturer and country of origin.

President's Week in Review: July 20-26, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 20—

“THE PRESIDENT announced that Japanese stragglers are welcome to remain in this country as Filipino citizens with all the rights and privileges of Philippine citizenship. He made the announcement during a call at Malacañang of a delegation from the Japan World Golf Corporation which brought to the Philippines some 70 Japanese golfers and media men to see for themselves the operation of the Philippine brand of Martial Law. The President stated that Japanese soldiers who have been here for many years can stay permanently if they wish, after going through all formalities required by Philippine laws.

THE PHILIPPINES widened its trade lead over West Germany last year by wrapping up a surplus of $55.3 million in exports proceeds, or 55 per cent more than what it imported from that country during the year. Trade figures gathered from the West German Federal Statistical Office by the Philippine commercial attache in Bonn-Bad Godesberg, Germany, showed that the Philippines exported a total of $101.5 million in various goods as against imports from Germany in the amount of P56.2 million, or a surplus of $55.3 million.

AN ADVISORY committee for the Hospital Dietitians and Nutritionists Association of the Philippines has been created in the Department of Health. The advisory committee, created through Department Circular No. 261, series of 1973, has for its goal the improvement of patient-care through systematic, efficient and economical dietary management in the hospitals. The newly-created committee is composed of the director of the Bureau of Health and Medical Services as chairman, the chief of the Office of Health Education and Personnel Training as vice-chairman, and 11 regional health directors as members. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan said that proper management of the hospital diet is very important in the speedy treatment and convalescence of patients in the hospital.

July 21—

THE PRESIDENT announced his approval and the adoption of the Four-Year Development Plan for Fiscal Years 1974-77 as prepared by the National Economic and Development Authority. The announcement was embodied in Proclamation No. 1157 issued by the Chief Executive who enjoined all government officers to align their plans and projects with the objectives and policies embodied in the Plan, including the changes that may be made therein. He also called upon the private sector to take full cognizance of the plan and to cooperate fully in the attainment of its goals and objectives. The development plan seeks to attain a more equitable distribution of, wealth, expand employment opportunities, promote social development, stabilize prices at reasonable levels, accelerate economic growth, and promote regional development and industrialization.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 248 extending the period for the registration of reservists to August 31. The President extended the deadline to enable all reservists in the country, as well as those who are abroad, to register in accordance with Presidential Decree No. 183, dated May 6. The Chief Executive warned there would be no further extension after August 31. He said all those who fail to register will be prosecuted and penalized accordingly.

THE PRESIDENT has declared July 24 as a special registration day to enable many qualified citizens throughout the country, including detainees, to register for the forthcoming referendum on July 27. The President noted in Proclamation No. 1166 that many who have been unable to register should be given all the opportunity to exercise their right as citizens in the July 27 referendum which will decide certain issues vital to the country and people.

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 249, authorizing government officials, employees and military personnel who may have been registered as barangay members elsewhere to vote in barangay referendum centers nearest their residences or places of assignment. The new decree also provides for the postponement of the referendum in places where there is a calamity, flood, or other force majeure, violence, terrorism, loss or destruction of referendum paraphernalia or records, and other, similar causes which may make the holding of a referendum in said places impossible. The decree amends Presidential Decree No. 229, which provides for the manner of voting and canvass in barangays.

DEPARTMENT of Trade issued pointers for house and lot buyers to keep them from falling into the hands of certain unscrupulous subdivision owners and dealers. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the public will do well to consider the pointers seriously to protect their own interest and avoid unnecessary litigations. On buying lots in subdivision, the Department of Trade chief said it is necessary to: 1) Check on the reliability of owners, developers; management or sales agents; study their accomplishments and other previous performances; 2) Check veracity of brochures, advertisements and other sales gimmicks; 3) Study carefully the contract to sell or land purchase agreement; 4) Do not buy lot if fees, charges and other obligations are unreasonable; 5) If lot is mortgaged, check if amortization is regularly paid and mortgage is willing to cancel mortgage if purchase price on lot is fully paid; and 6) Seek legal advice.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Presidential Merit Medal on Dr. Carl P. Schaffner and Dr. Hans Kaunitz for their lasting contributions enhancing the coconut industry in the Philippines. In a citation read by Secretary Francisco S. Tatad of the Department of Public Information, Dr. Schaffner was credited with undertaking research and scientific investigations aimed at preventing the growth of salmonella and other bacteria in processed or dessicated coconut. In the citation for Dr. Kaunitz, which was likewise read at the award ceremonies by Secretary Tatad, the professor emeritus on physiology at Columbia University was also credited with undertaking research and scientific investigations to determine the nutritional properties of coconut oil.

BUREAU of Plant Industry is urging the public to plant sweet potato (camote) as it provides essential vitamins and minerals and additional income. The BPI has reported that 134,620 hectares have been planted to sweet potato in the Philippines in 1970. The total yield of 431,893,900 kilos of tubers was valued at P215, 822,900. Sweet potato is propagated by planting tubers, slips, vine cuttings or terminal cuttings. BPI's food technologists estimated that two tubers of sweet potato contains food energy equivalent to a cup of rice. It is said to be rich in vitamins and minerals essential in the human diet.

MALACANANG issued guidelines to be followed on the placement of personnel affected by the implementation of the Integrated Reorganization Plan. The guidelines, contained in Memorandum Circular No. 650 set the priorities for placement of personnel in the following order: 1) Permanent employees presently occupying positions with the same or comparable titles and duties and responsibilities as those in the approved staffing patterns, provided that in cases where the number of positions exceed those in the staffing pattern, the incumbents shall be compared in terms of relative fitness and the most qualified shall be preferred; 2) Permanent employees presently occupying higher level of positions in the same occupational group as those in the approved staffing pattern who have not yet been placed; 3) Permanent employees who are presently occupying allied or functionally related positions at higher or comparable levels with those positions in the staffing pattern provided such employees meet all the requirements for appointment.

ONE of the biggest mail order houses in West Germany is buying $6-million worth of exportable products from the Philippines for distribution in its network of 50 department stores. To supply the huge requirements. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. convened a meeting between the country's leading manufacturers, producers and exporters and representatives of the German firm Neckermann Versand Ltd. of Frankfurt. Secretary Quiazon said the $6-million allocation for the Philippines this year will be for the purchase of garments, shoes, household items, wood products, decorative items, electronic and electricals, leather tires and travel goods and beach items (including speedboats made of fiber glasses). The initial purchase allocations, according to the secretary, will be increased at the rate of 12 per cent per annum.

THE NATION observed the 109th birth anniversary of Apolinario Mabini, the "brain of the Philippine revolution," with floral offerings in three places in Manila and Tanauan, Batangas. Chairman Esteban de Ocampo of the National Historical Commission said the wreath-laying rites will be held at the Mabini shrine in Barrio Talaga, Tanauan, Batangas, the Mabini shrine in Pandacan, Manila and the national library compound in T. M. Kalaw st. Apolinario Mabini was born in 1864 in Barrio Talaga, Tanauan, Batangas, to Inocencio Mabini and Dionisia Maranan. Mabini played a significant role during the second phase of the Philippine revolution. He served first as adviser to Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo and was responsible for laying down the first Philippine Republic. He wrote several decrees, including one which created the revolutionary government on June 23, 1898.

July 23—

THE PRESIDENT issued general orders encouraging the people to discuss and debate freely the question to be resolved in the July 27 referendum and lifting the curfew before and during the national referendum. The President also issued a proclamation declaring July 24 as a special public holiday. In General Order No. 32, the President expressed his desire that the people be afforded the fullest opportunity to discuss and debate freely and publicly the question to be resolved in the July 27 referendum. General Order No. 33 lifts the curfew from 12 midnight of July 23 to 4 a.m. of July 28. The President said that the people should be able to move about freely in order that they can have the fullest opportunity to discuss freely and publicly the questions to be resolved in the referendum.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has created a committee on domestic helpers and hotel workers to study current recruitment practices, policies and procedures in hiring workers for overseas employment. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople said the committee will also look into the employment contracts of overseas workers in order to give them the protection they need. The creation of the committee was prompted by reports on rampant cases of exploitation of Filipino workers employed abroad and the widespread illegal hiring practices by agents and recruiters for overseas employment, Secretary Ople said.

DEPARTMENT of Justice ruled that the death of a public officer will terminate an investigation or bar an impending investigation of unexplained wealth charges against him. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued this opinion in reply to a request from the Complaints and Investigation Division in the Office of the President. He explained that accordingly, the provisions of the Revised Penal Code are supplementary to said law in the absence of any provision to the contrary. "And under Article 89 of the Revised Penal Code, criminal liability is totally extinguished by the death of the convict, as to the personal penalties, and as to the pecuniary liabilities, when the death of the offender occurs before final judgment," the justice chief ruled.

DIETETICS Association of the Philippines should expand its role out to the low-income communities and the remote barrios where malnourished children need most their service. Social Welfare Secretary Estefania Aldaba-Lim stressed this point before the association's convention recently and said that dietetics must not be confined to hospitals, cafeterias, clinics, nursing schools or industrial concerns. It must expand itself as an organized public service, integrated into all levels of health care as well as social welfare. The DSW secretary also noted that the problem of malnutrition arises from the problem of population explosion in the country. Thus applies the simple mathematical proportion, that more births mean more mouths to feed and therefore lesser food.

PHILIPPINE National Bank and other lending institutions have released some P191.5 million in crop loans to farmers under the Masagana 99 rice production drive as of July 19. This was announced by Agriculture Secretary Arturo Tanco, Jr. who said that an analysis of credit support in connection with Masagana 99 revealed a mounting nation wide acceptance by farmers of the program. Masagana 99 was launched by the President only two months ago. Loaning activities are expected to accelerate further this month and August because it is during this period when rice planting is at its peak.

PHILIPPINE Veterans Bank shall more effectively contribute through the veterans sector to the social, economic, and political structure of the society under changes effected by Presidential Decree No. 236 in Republic Act No. 3518, the PVB charter. These reforms which include, among others, the manner for the election of the PVB board of directors, the distribution of stocks among veterans, their widows, orphans or compulsory heirs, and the sale of preferred shares exclusively to veterans, reflect urgent measures that were pending before Congress prior to the declaration of Martial Law.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad called upon government officers to integrate their efforts toward the attainment of the common objectives of the New Society. Addressing a luncheon meeting of government PRO's, the DPI secretary stressed that more than acting as information officers of their respective departments or agencies they owe it to the government and people to get involved in the actual solution of problems of the country. He said that while government public information officers may not have the opportunity to lead or to make decisions for their people, they have the opportunity to provide an insight into policy-making. Petty jealousies, the secretary stressed, should be put aside and instead government PRO's should "work together and in concert add a new dimension to the work of public information."

THE GOVERNMENT is encouraging the reinvestment of P3 billion in accumulated surplus profits of 500 corporations in productive industries and enterprises. This was disclosed by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., as he explained the rationale for requiring these SEC-registered corporations, particularly those having 100 stockholders or more, to declare and distribute their surplus profits as dividends to their stockholders. Addressing members of the Association of CPAs in a developing economy lies in the most efficient allocation and utilization of the country's resources."

MILD "exodus" into the country by well-equipped foreign business firms, which have been attracted by the Government's incentive offers, has started. Latest to join the list of willing takers of the country's improved business climate is the Basic Resources and International Group of Comalco Ltd., a multi-billion dollar Australian-based industrial complex. Mr. Leo Rogers, divisional manager of the company said that the industrial complex is moving into the country due to the very favorable investment climate. He said his group is willing and ready to offer assistance including on-the-job training of technicians, mine and industrial engineers, as well as to management.

July 25—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 224 modifying the service area pattern authorized for departments and agencies setting up regional offices under the Integrated Reorganization Plan. Article I, Chapter 3, Part II of the IRP divides the country into 11 regions, with each region having a designated regional center and a specified area of jurisdiction. The amendatory decree places the province of Pangasinan and the cities of Dagupan and San Carlos under the jurisdiction of Region I (Ilocos Region), with the regional center at San Fernando, La Union. The reorganization plan had placed these territories under the jurisdiction of Region 3 (Central Luzon Region) with regional center at San Fernando/Pampanga. With this change, Region I is now composed of the provinces of Ilocos Norte, Ilocos Sur, Abra, La Union, Benguet, Mt. Province and Pangasinan, and the cities of Baguio, Laoag, Dagupan and San Carlos. The areas remaining under Region 3 are the provinces of Tarlac, Nueva Ecija, Pampanga, Zam-bales, Bulacan and Bataan, and the cities of Angeles, Cabanatuan, Olongapo, Palayan and San Jose (in Nueva Ecija).

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 253 which prohibits the sale, offer or the taking of intoxicating liquors and the holding of cockfights, boxing, horse races, jai-alai or similar sports on the day of the referendum, July 27. The decree which took effect last July 23, amends Sec. 17 of Presidential Decree No. 229 which provides for the manner of voting and canvassing of votes in barangays (citizens assemblies).

DEPARTMENT of Health underlines the need to upgrade the professional status of X-Ray technologists to improve the standards of the growing number of radiation workers in the field of medicine, research and industry. In a speech before the members of the Philippine Association of Radiologic Technologists, Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan said that a committee has been formed to study and solve the problems of radiation workers. The upgrading of the X-Ray technologists' lot has started with a crash training program last July 2 participated in by doctors and technicians from the different health regions. The health secretary said that the training of the technologists would eventually raise their salaries as well as their professional standards.

July 26—

THE PRESIDENT presented the ancient Order of Sikatuna with the Rank of Datu to the outgoing ambassadors of two countries to the Philippines. The Order of Sikatuna was conferred by the President on Ambassador Adel Abdel

Hamid Fadel of the Arab Republic of Egypt and Ambassador Luigi Martelli of the Republic of Italy. The President presented the awards in recognition of the services of the two ambassadors in the field of international relations and for their constant endeavors to foster close relations between their respective countries and the Philippines, and closer understanding through mutually beneficial means between their peoples and the Filipino people.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 235 adding two more branches to the lone branch of the city court of Dagupan to ease the congestion of cases in the area. The decree, which amends Republic Act No. 170, otherwise known as the Charter of the City of Dagupan, notes that there are some 3,500 cases pending at present at the Dagupan City Court. In case of absence, incapacity or incapability of the regular city judges, the auxiliary city judge, or if for some reasons two or more regular judges could not perform their duties, the Supreme Court shall designate the judge of any of the municipalities adjoining Dagupan City to preside over the branch, of the city court of the absent or incapacitated judge. This designated judge shall hold office temporarily until the regular incumbent or the auxiliary judge shall have resumed office or until another judge shall have been appointed. The municipal judge so designated shall receive his salary as municipal judge plus 70 per cent of the salary of the municipal judge whose office he has temporarily assumed.

THE PRESIDENT has acted to ensure the availability in the domestic market of highly-exportable products which have gained wide acceptance in the international market, particularly copra, cement and plywood. In a directive to Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., the President sought strict compliance of the 10 per cent retention of export products to meet the domestic requirements. The President likewise directed the trade secretary to determine the volume of the products being exported, among them food items, copra and lumber with a view to formulating a policy that would ensure an adequate domestic supply of these products to avoid shortage in domestic requirements.

INVESTMENTS in the country reached P5.2 billion during the 1972-73 Fiscal Year, topping the previous year's total by P400 million. Commerce Director Epifanio Castillejos in his report to Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., attributed the rise in investments to the confidence of business on the present leadership. In his report, Director Castillejos said the Bureau of Commerce registered: 1) 19,942 new business with a total investment of P2.8 billion compared to 12,119—P2.4 billion; 2) 5,011 business name renewals involving P2.3 billion compared to 3,591—P2.28 billion; 3) 135 private merchants with capital worth P5.3 million compared to 65—P700,000; 4) 359 bulk sales instruments valued at P14.7 million compared to 202—P14.2 million; 5) 1,264 Filipino retailers who registered under Republic Act 1292, with a total capital of P11.1 million; compared to 801—P6.6 million.

BUREAU of Customs released the guidelines in the imposition of surcharge on importations that had been undervalued, misdescribed, misclassified or misdeclared as defined by Section 2503 of the new Tariff and Customs Code. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said that the guideline will take effect August 1, 1973 and is being issued to ensure an effective and uniform application of the penalties imposed by law in such cases. The Commissioner however pointed out that the customs guideline does not apply in cases where the misdeclaration, undervaluation, misdescription or misclassification was intentionally done nor will good faith on the part of the importer/broker be a valid defense.

President's Week in Review: July 27 - August 2, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 27—

THE PRESIDENT issued General Order No. 34 calling upon all residential and commercial lot owners to utilize their idle, undeveloped lots; by cultivating them for the production of rootcrops and vegetables in line with the Government's program to increase food production. The owners of such lands have been given until July 30 within which to cultivate their properties. Failure to do so would entitle adjoining residents or individuals to utilize the empty lots with the express consent of the owners, if they are in the area, or their implied consent, if they cannot be located.

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 256 allowing any barangay member who, on Referendum Day (July 27-28), in spite of diligent efforts and through no fault of his own could not locate his Barangay Center, to vote in the Barangay Center nearest his residence. The same decree allows any registered barangay member who, on Referendum Day, is staying for any reason in a city, municipality, or municipal district outside of the province where he is registered, to cast his vote in the Barangay Center nearest the place where he is temporarily staying.

THE PRESIDENT extended the period of voting in the referendum to Saturday, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., "to give the people the fullest opportunity to express their views on the issues to be presented to them in the referendum." The President in Presidential Decree No. 254 also extended the period of canvass of votes "until such time as the Commission on Elections may deem it necessary to complete the same." In this connection, the President issued General Order No. 35 extending the suspension of the curfew up to 4 a.m. Sunday (July 29). The President in Proclamation No. 1169 also declared Saturday (July 28) a special public holiday.

SOME 396 rural banks have released a total of P84.7 million for the Masagana 99 rice production program. The amount was loaned out to 90,772 farmers tilling an area of 155,180 hectares under the Government's rice production program. This was the report received by Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros from the CB department of rural banks and savings and loan associations. An additional P4.1 million in similar loans has been approved but still pending release to borrowers. Total loans released so far represent about 70 per cent of the funds made available to the rural banks by the Central Bank for the Masagana program, the report said. Of the P84.7 million total, 56 per cent was reportedly released to Central Luzon farmers; 13 per cent to Western Visayas; and 11 per cent to Southern Luzon; or a total of 80 per cent for the three regions.

BUREAU of Customs informed the President that customs collections for Fiscal Year 1972-73 registered a record high of P2,101,930,949.89, surpassing the P2 billion target by almost P102 million. In a report to the President, Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said the target for the current Fiscal Year (1973-74) is P3 billion of which P2.5 billion will come from duties and taxes and P.5 billion from the export tax.

DEPARTMENT of Trade set a 50-50 per cent export and domestic control of rattan (palasan) poles. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., took this move after ascertaining the maximum domestic requirements of the manufacturing sector. This means that 50 per cent of the rattan's total production will be for export while another 50 per cent will be for domestic consumption. Local users and exporters of rattan poles will be required to submit to the Department their requirements according to grades and measurements as embodied in Standards Administrative Order No. 103 and the corresponding export application form. Furthermore, exporters and domestic end-users will be required to submit authenticated export contracts and purchase orders, respectively, to determine the approximate volume of rattan poles necessary to fulfill their obligations in the export market and the local manufacturing sector.

DEPARTMENT of Health has launched a family planning program among hansenites in various leprosaria to curb leprosy incidence among them. One aspect of the program is the holding of refresher course workshops that involves authorities of leprosy and the patients. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan said in the closing ceremonies of the workshop that family planning is, one of the department's major programs and that it is a humane approach to the country's excessive population growth particularly among hansenites. The health secretary stressed that the family planning project among lepers in the different leprosaria is intended to reduce birth among those afflicted with the disease and thus reduce leprosy incidence.

July 28—

THE GOVERNMENT has harnessed the assistance of various trade and industrial associations in strengthening the country's export promotion campaign. The Department of Trade required various trade and manufacturing chambers to update the list of members in order to strengthen the overall export promotion drive. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., said that aside from strengthening the country's export promotion drive, the compilation will serve as ready reference and guidance of the department and its corps of commercial attaches.

COORDINATING Committee for Manpower Development (COCOMAND) has been created to assist in the setting up of national trade standards and establish closer dialogue between the public and private training institutions. The COCOMAND, which is composed of different government and private agencies involved in manpower development is headed by National ^Manpower and Youth Council Director General Rony Diaz. The agency also intends to initiate and maintain an inventory of training facilities and a directory of instructors and training institution in the country.

PACKAGING industry has been urged to adopt modern techniques and processes of packaging products to make them more competitive in the world market. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., made the appeal before a meeting of the Packaging Institute of the Philippines in Makati. Emphasizing the need for adopting more modern techniques and processes in the packaging industry, Mr. Quiazon said the demands of competition both here and abroad dictate that this particular sector cannot afford to lose out in the market simply because of poor packaging. For this reason the secretary said the packing function now must be approached in the growth sense, that is, it must develop just as rapidly as new products are developed.

THE PRESIDENT has called on the owners of undeveloped or idle lots throughout the country these lots pursuant to the Government's food sufficiency program. In line with this, the Bureau of Plant Industry has been issuing pointers on the proper methods of vegetable and root crop planting. According to the BPL among the locally grown tubers, ubi is one of the most important crops in the country. Ubi has 21 per cent starch content and has been found to be a good source of Vitamins B and C. It can be planted any time of the year. However, planting during the wet season gives a more uniform growth and lessens the cost of weeding. Ubi thrives at low to medium altitudes.

July 29—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 251 which amends Republic Act No. 3844, otherwise known as the "Code of Agrarian Reform in the Philippines," by making the Land Bank, established under the Code an effective and adequate financial institution in the immediate implementation of agrarian reforms envisioned under Presidential Decree Nos. 27 and 85 dated October 21, 1972 and December 25, 1972, respectively.

THE PRESIDENT was informed by another group of travel officials of their readiness to develop tourist sports and to open travel offices here in view of the tremendous tourism potentials enhanced by the improved social and economic development in the country. The group, headed by Gilbert Trigano, president of Club Mediterranee, told the President that its members will be very happy to come to the Philippines "where we can imagine plans that could compete with Hongkong and all the surrounding places for tourists." The President advised the group to submit its proposals, and directed Secretary of Tourism Jose D. Aspiras, who accompanied the group to Malacañang, to look into them.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad welcomed in behalf of the President the educational ship M/V Logos now docked at Pier 15 on its second visit to the Philippines. Speaking to the crew and guests at the ship's dining hall, the secretary said that in the Philippines "we agree with the concept of this gathering of people from various parts of the world who live a life of friendship, love and brotherhood." Secretary Tatad said he is happy the Logos is now making its second visit to the country "so that you could make a part of your experience what is happening here under the New Society."

July 30—

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Philippine Legion of Honor, degree of commander, on General Lai Ming-tang, for meritorious and valuable services rendered to the Republic of the Philippines. General Lai, who was an official guest of the Philippine government, is the chief of the general staff, Ministry of National Defense, Republic of China. The President pointed out that because of General Lai's contributions to Philippine security, the general has not only endeared himself to the Filipino people but also helped strengthen the existing bonds of friendship and cooperation between his country and the Philippines. In accepting the award, General Lai pledged to continue helping strengthen the cooperation between his country's armed forces and the AFP.

THE PRESIDENT reasserted his policy of concentrating the limited resources of the government on priority projects that would contribute directly to the economic development of the country. The occasion was the send-off luncheon given by the President and the First Lady at Malacañang, honoring members of the Comprehensive Employment Strategy Mission of the International Labor Organization, which spent two months here reviewing and reassessing the Philippine economy from the standpoint of employment and development. In behalf of the Filipino people, the President thanked the mission for helping pinpoint "where our orientation was wrong, where our efforts had failed," and to assist the country, "build a strong, viable and independent society."

HEALTH authorities announced that 27 government physicians with various specialties like pediatrics, traumatology, radiology, and surgery are now training at different hospitals in Manila and the Southern Islands Hospital in Cebu City. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan said that this scheduled training is part of the continuing program for training of the different categories and specialties of health department personnel. The hospital training centers are the Dr. Jose R. Reyes Memorial Hospital, National Children's Hospital, National Orthopedic Hospital, Rizal Provincial Hospital, and Southern Islands Hospital.

THE PHILIPPINES has been selected as the official base of operations of the Tasking group of companies, one of Hongkong's biggest industrial aggrupations. Among the latest international corporations moving their headquarters from the Crown Colony to the Philippines, the group will go into other investment projects aside from the manufacture of golf clubs, hardware tools, padlocks, bicycles and parts and strollers for children. The transfer was announced by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., following an official report from a Filipino businessman, who will go on a joint partnership with the Hongkong multinational.

THE PRESIDENT approved for implementation the second study of the United Nations Development Programme and the International Atomic Energy Agency for the establishment of the first nuclear-powered plant in the Philippines. The study envisions a 600 megawatt nuclear plant which will cost about $250 million to construct over a nine-year period. The President directed the government officials concerned to get together with the secretary of finance in order to look for funding, and also to conduct further feasibility studies in comparison with hydroelectric or geothermal powered plants of similar size.

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree creating the PEFTOK Investment and Development Corp. and allocating the P2.2 million appropriated by past Congresses for the Philippine Expeditionary Force to Korea but which remained intact in the national treasury. In creating the PEFTOK firm and authorizing it to use the fund for economic activity, the President defined the government policy of extending to the veterans not only promises or ribbons and medals but also means to improve their condition in life. In organizing the PEFTOK Investment and Development Corp., the PEFTOK Board of Directors hopes to embark on various projects with emphasis on housing.

THE PRESIDENT received Mohammed Isnaeni, deputy speaker of the Indonesian Parliament, who made a courtesy call at Malacañang shortly before leaving for Jakarta. Mr. Isnaeni congratulated the President for his efforts to push through the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, of which Indonesia and the Philippines are members, together with Malaysia, Thailand and Singapore. Mr. Isnaeni said that he was very much impressed by the changes in the Philippines in contrast to what he observed in Hongkong. The President said Indonesia and the Philippines are moving forward but that Indonesia is still the base and anchor of Southeast Asia.

August 1—

THE PRESIDENT has empowered military commissions and provost courts with jurisdiction to try military personnel for military offenses in violation of the Articles of War. The President noted in Decree 255 that the rules governing the creation, composition, jurisdiction, procedure and other matters relevant to military tribunals promulgated pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 39 dated November 7, 1972, did not confer on military commissions and provost courts the jurisdiction to try military personnel for strictly military offenses in violation of Articles of War. To expedite the disposition of such offenses, the Chief Executive directed in Presidential Decree No. 255 that the military commissions and provost courts referred to in Presidential Decree No. 39 be conferred the jurisdiction to try and dispose of these offenses.

THE PRESIDENT appealed to fugitives to return to their homes and live a life of peace to help build a New Society. The President made the appeal through four Higaon-on datus and their followers who had earlier surrendered to the authorities and called at Malacañang to pledge their loyalty and their help in maintaining peace and order. The President assured them that “we will give them some sources of livelihood and protect their rights against the encroachment of rapacious people who will only utilize or exploit them.”

THE PRESIDENT directed all Cabinet members and heads of government agencies directly under his office to submit in the forth-coming Cabinet meeting fresh ideas on how to meet “our new responsibilities to the people.” The President issued the directive during his one-hour meeting with his fiscal and economic advisers, in anticipation of the results of the referendum which indicate a new mandate for the present administration.

DEPARTMENT of Labor and National Manpower Youth Council officials were directed to redesign their policies and programs to dovetail into the President’s priority program for the maximum development of small-scale industries. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople, who issued the directive said these programs mean the systematic training of small entrepreneurs, more adaptive vocational training support for small firms, particularly those in the rural areas, and a strong public employment service to facilitate the matching of men and jobs.

CAMP CRAME extended up to September 21, 1973 the deadline for the renewal of all firearms licenses, certificates of registration and special permits. Col. Alfonso Trance, firearms and explosive unit chief, said the grace period was approved by the PC chief to those firearms holders who failed to beat the previous deadline.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission has directed the health department to adopt a more effective information drive on the guidelines involving the charging of excessive professional fees from medicare patients by government hospitals and physicians. The PMCC’s move came following reports that certain government doctors have continued billing their medicare patients exorbitant rates. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that government physicians are prohibited from engaging in private practice as they are full time government employees.

DEPARTMENT of Trade assured full assistance to the development of the clothing industry to generate more employment and maximize its foreign exchange earnings capability. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., said government agencies entrusted with the development of the economy are coordinating their policies and activities to promote the garment industry. He made the statement during an induction dinner of the Philippine Association of Embroidery and Apparel Exporters Inc. Secretary Quiazon said the Department of Trade has recommended several measures, among which is the grant of preferential interest rates on loans with which to procure local or imported raw materials used in the processing of exportable products. He also urged S for capital investments, including machinery and equipment for new or expanded export products and the relaxation of the surety requirements in the sense that they should be based on export performance and not on every shipment.

BUREAU of Plant Industry reported that ginger (luya), a spice used not only for flavoring food but also in the preparation of confectionary, beverage, perfume, and also in medicine, has been found to be a dollar-earning industry. From a mere $4,190.00 export earnings from 19,007 kg. shipped to Hongkong and Canada in 1970, the figure soared to 1,111,500 kg. valued at $109,006.00 in 1972. In local markets, a kilo of ginger costs as much as P4.50.

August 2—

THE PRESIDENT issued a presidential decree reconstituting the Presidential Committee on Wood, Industries Development, which had been abolished under the reorganization plan, into a planning, evaluation and consultative body. As reconstituted, the PCWID is composed of the secretary of agriculture and natural resources as chairman, a representative of the private sector as vice chairman, and the following as members: the secretary of finance, the secretary of public works, transportation and communications, the chairman of the Board of Investments, the director general of the National Economic and Development Authority, the director of forest management, the commissioner of Forest Products Research and Development, the president of the Chamber of Wood Industries, the president of Philippine Lumber and Plywood Manufacturers Association, the president of the Society of Foresters, the president of the Association of Permanent Foresters, and the dean of the University of the Philippines College of Forestry.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 258 creating the Philippine Center in San Francisco, California, along with a Philippine Center Management Board, under which will be consolidated, integrated, and coordinated the activities of all Philippine government offices and agencies which are at present dispersed in that American City, a situation entailing unnecessary expense and duplication of functions, according to the decree. The Philippine Center will have its own fund to accrue from the sale of all real properties in San Francisco owned by the Philippine government.

PHILIPPINE National Bank scored a breakthrough in the international money with the placement of $30 million in certificates of deposits in London. PNB President P. O. Domingo signed the agreement for the issuance of the certificates subscribed by 21 financial institutions: seven North American, seven European, and seven from Asia and the Pacific. Interest on the certificates of deposit is payable at a rate based on the London inter-bank offering rate for Eurodollar deposits.

DEPARTMENT of Health has tied up its nation-wide cancer detection program on women with its family planning project in a bid to arrest or minimize cancer incidence among the female population, Health authorities took the move following reports from abroad that the use of intrauterine device (IUD) in women increases the incidence of cancer of the cervix. In order to give more impetus to the program, the health department through the Cancer Detection Center, has set up cancer clinic and tumor boards in the different designated medical centers under the department.

CAMP CRAME announced the organization of the Office for Muslim Affairs at the PC headquarters. The new office, which will be made part of the special staff of the PC chief, will assist the chief of Constabulary in promoting and maintaining rapport between the PC command and the Muslim population to enhance Government efforts in implementing socio-economic programs for the development of southern Philippines PC Chief Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos named Col. Mangacop Bangcola, the highest ranking PC Muslim officer in the active service as head of the new office. Col. Bangcola is in his own right the Sultan of Butig, Lanao del Sur.

President's Week in Review: August 3-9, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 3—

COMMISSION on Elections announced that the resounding “yes” answered by the voters in their ballots during the July 27-28 referendum gave the President a “persuasive fresh mandate.” Comelec Chairman Leonardo Perez made the remark at the proclamation of the official results of the national referendum at the poll body’s session hall in Intramuros. Mr. Perez said the affirmative votes prevailed overwhelmingly over the no-votes with a win percentage of 90.67 per cent.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the establishment of a Philippine Center in San Francisco to promote the culture, products and image of the country. The establishment will house various products and cultural arts in the display rooms that will be available for lease to Philippine exporters and businessmen. Aside from propagating culture, the Philippine Center will also encourage foreign tourists to visit the Philippines, broaden the image for Philippine exports and provide a coordinated and efficient public service to enhance the Philippine image.

THE PRESIDENT was informed by two officials of the A. T. Hutchinson Ltd., one of the biggest investment firms in Hongkong and London, that their company has decided to increase its investments in the country. The two officials, Messrs. Robert Boyd, managing director, and Peter J. Pearson, who has been looking after the firm’s substantial investments in the Philippines, took occasion to congratulate the President for the people’s reiteration at the referendum of their faith and confidence in his leadership. The business executives told the President that their company has already substantial long-term investments through the stock exchanges, but that after observing the changed atmosphere and the favorable investments climate, they have decided to pour in more investments.

FUNCTION of assessment and the collection of “S” licenses (Opium License) may be continued by the Narcotics Drug Division even after said division has been transferred from the Bureau of Internal Revenue to the Food and Drug Administration of the Department of Health. Implementation of the Integrated Reorganization Plan caused the abolition of the division in the BIR and its transfer, together with its applicable appropriations, records, equipment and personnel, to the Food and Drug Administration of the health department. The opinion on the division’s still welding the power to collect “S” licenses was issued by Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos in reply to a query from the secretary of health.

DEPARTMENT of Trade spelled out five directions which advertising practitioners are expected to take in line with the revolutionary transformation of Philippine Society. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. noted that “while before, the raison d’etre for advertising was mainly the profit motive, this has now been complemented by the social motive, that advertising should promote the ideals of the New Society.” He made the statement before the regular membership meeting of the Philippine Association of National Advertisers held at the PAL Skyclub in Makati, Rizal. The secretary stressed that advertising should strive to find a healthy balance between sales expectations and social interest.

PRIVATE sector must share the Government’s efforts to promote and ensure optimum health for our people, especially in the field of heart diseases. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan made this assessment during the recent induction of new officers of the Philippine Heart Association. The secretary said that the basis for the partnership of the Government and the private sector is enshrined in the new Constitution stating “the State shall establish, maintain and ensure adequate social services in the field of education, health, housing, employment welfare and social security to guarantee the enjoyment by the people of a decent standard of living.”

THE PRESIDENT vowed to pursue in an atmosphere of unity and urgency, New Society reforms which the people in effect overwhelmingly endorsed in the July 27-28 referendum. In his first nationwide address to the nation after the historic referendum, the Chief Executive enumerated a series of initial moves to improve government service and arrest the reported backsliding of military and civilian government personnel to the pernicious habits of the old society. He said that the primary task of the nation today concerns the betterment of the lot of the people who have expressed confidence and faith on the administration through the referendum.

SWINDLING and other acts of deceit as defined and penalized under Article 315 and 316 of the Revised Penal Code, will also be tried by military tribunals. This was announced by Brig. Gen. Tagumpay A. Nanadiego, AFP Judge Advocate General. He said that this expanded jurisdiction of military courts is decreed in General Order No. 37 which the President issued.

THE PRESIDENT created the Philippine Amanah Bank to promote and accelerate socio-economic development of Cotabato, Lanao del Sur, Lanao del Norte, Zamboanga del Sur, Zamboanga del Norte and Sulu provinces including Basilan and Palawan. Through Presidential Decree No. 264, Marawi City was designated as the location of the Bank. It will be capitalized at P100 million with the shares to be subscribed by government instrumentalities, Filipino citizens or their corporations. Allotted for subscription by foreign nationals or their corporations were 200,000 common shares.

DR. PACIFICO E. MARCOS, Chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission, told hospital authorities and physicians to charge only the authorized medicare rates to medicare patients. Speaking as guest lecturer at a scientific meeting at the University of Sto. Tomas, the PMCC chairman deplored some hospitals and physicians who, he said, are making the implementation of the medicare program "a little difficult." Dr. Marcos said the medicare law has made medical care a legally controlled commodity that is essential to the national economy.

August 5—

THE NATIONAL government has made available P1 5 million to the Agricultural Credit Administration (ACA) to beef up the agency's credit-financing program for agrarian reform farmers. A balance of P25 million, it was gathered, is scheduled for release to the ACA by the national treasury some time next month. The timely release of fund to the ACA was ordered by the President upon the urgent request of Secretary Conrado F. Estrella of the Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR) to which the ACA is attached as its credit arm.

CENTRAL BANK relaxed further the rules on the remittance of foreign investments by allowing the repatriation of foreign investments made in any domestic commercial banks, including the profits and dividends earned. The CB move is calculated to encourage the inflow of foreign equity to the commercial banking system in line with the CB objective of increasing the aggregate paid-in capital of the domestic banking system to P3 billion in a period of five years.

COCONUT water, taken from unhusked nine-month-old nuts, has been found to be a good substitute for dextrose during emergencies. The National Institute of Science and Technology, an agency of the National Science Development Board, said that coconut water could be administered to persons stricken with diarrhea or cholera. A report by the medical research center said intravenous injection of coconut water did not produce fever, nor break red blood cells. Coconut water is said to be sterile and free from bacteria and fungi, if it is removed from the nut with care.

August 6—

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 252 authorizing the creation of a Philippine International Trading Corporation "to provide a formal institutional framework for the promotion of foreign trade and the development of domestic industries." The body, sought in the decree, can take advantage of economies derived from bulk purchases, wide-scale shipping marketing, centralized financing and assistance and other export promotions services in the world market.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 263 upholding the promotion of policemen who have been in the service for 20 years but whose educational qualifications fall short under the Police Act of 1966. The Chief Executive noted that a number of police officers who were already in the service when the Police Act of 1966 took effect were subsequently promoted, although these policemen did not have the educational qualifications prescribed under the law at the time they were promoted. The President stressed that considerations of justice and equity, as well as the interest of the police service, require that appropriate consideration be given to police experience acquired by length of service, as well as special police training, for purposes of determining qualifications for promotion of those who were already in the service at the time of the approval of the Police Act of 1966.

THE PRESIDENT declared a national policy-objective to provide electricity all over the country on an area-coverage service fee basis. The President announced this policy-objective during the call of the presidents and general managers of some 43 rural electric cooperatives throughout the country. To carry out the policy-objective, the President issued a decree converting the National Electrification Administration into a corporation to give it flexibility, ample leeway in movement, funding, and the exercise of discretion.

THE PRESIDENT said that existing problems between the Philippines and the United States will be solved in the mutual spirit of understanding, goodwill and friendship. The Chief Executive made the statement following the presentation of credentials of US Ambassador William H. Sullivan at Malacañang. In accepting the credentials of the new American envoy, the President had attached significance to the United States' act of sending to the Philippines "a veteran with a varied diplomatic background" in the person of Mr. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan replaced Ambassador Henry Byroade, who has signified his intention to retire from the service.

THE PRESIDENT has reasserted his proposal for the establishment of an Asian Forum for the peaceful settlement of disputes among Asian countries and defusing potentially dangerous issues. Speaking at the launching of the Philippine International Friendship Organization (PIFO) Forum in Asia at the Malacañang Heroes' Hall, the President said the fundamental character of the concept of an Asian Forum is for Asian to solve their problems through their own efforts in the spirit of peace, "because in the last analysis, no one will solve our problems for us, for a solution imposed from outside is not a solution.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission (PMCC) decided to give hospitals involved in the Medicare program non-interest cash advance equivalent to the sum of the paid claims for four consecutive months. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC Chairman said that the enlarged cash advance aims to completely eliminate the practice of some hospitals to demand from some Medicare patients advance payments for medical services. This is an expanded version of the present cash advance scheme of the PMCC which gives to a participating hospital 60 per cent of each Medicare claim immediately for the preceding month.

August 7—

PERIOD from September, 1973 to February, 1974, is "Homecoming Season" for overseas Filipinos. The President issued Letter of Instructions No. 105 designating the six-month period as homecoming season for more than 700,000 overseas Filipinos. The Department of Tourism has been designated to coordinate the campaign which will be directed mainly at the United States and Europe. In this connection, a National Hospitality Committee, headed by the First Lady, will coordinate, organize and supervise a nationwide hospitality and reception program for the returning Filipinos.

SOME 77,574 farmers have joined some 1,504 barrio associations (samahangnayon) last July alone in the priority provinces chosen to implement the new cooperatives development program. This was reported to the President by Secretary Jose A. Roño of the Department of Local Governments and Community Development (DLGCD). This brings to 13,960 the total number of barrio associations organized during the past seven months. The total number of farmer-members now is 545,731. The six provinces with the most number of SamahangNayon as of July 1973 were: Iloilo-418; Nueva Ecija-262; Camarines Sur-254; Isabela-226; Albay-166; and Laguna-187.

THE PRESIDENT called on member-states of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to maintain their internal strengths and stability before talking of cooperation or dealing with other regional groupings. The ASEAN is composed of the Philippines, Singapore, Indonesia, Malaysia and Thailand. The President made this observation before the delegates to the two-day Ministers' Conference held in Manila, when they paid their respects to him in Malacañang. He said that it was for this reason that his administration made it a prime concern to see that the government accurately speaks and reflects the sentiments of the people so that it can become an asset and not a liability to the ASEAN.

BUREAU of Customs circularized all brokerage firms doing business in the country to submit to the bureau copies of all bills issued to their customers in the exercise of the brokerage profession. The circular implements the new bureau policy of requiring weekly itemized and detailed statement of accounts being sent to importers," including those made for tourists, transients, visitors, returning residents and persons coming in to settle down, in connection with the clearance and release of their respective importations or shipment of personal effects, as the case may be. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina, who signed the circular, warned brokerage firms that any charge against their clients on expenses classified as "invisibles" could result in the suspension of their operations and eventual cancellation of their brokerage licenses.

August 8—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the secretary of finance to issue cereal bonds up to P200 million for purchase by the Government and other imam wig institutions. The order was contained in Presidential Decree No 262. The proceeds from the sale of the bonds shall be deposited with the Philippine National Bank for the account of the office of the President and shall be used: 1) To fund the development and operation of virgin public lands approved for use under the Palayan ng Bayan project by a National Advisory Council, also created under Letter of Instructions No. 106; 2) To fund awards for Palayan ng Bayan provincial projects in order to provide incentives for outstanding performances in such projects, provided such awards shall not exceed P250,000 for each crop season; and 3) To support the staff that will help manage the Palayan ng Bayan projects.

THE PRESIDENT created the Palayan ng Bayan, National Advisory Council to provide operational, financial and technical advice to provincial governors in the identification and management of their respective Palayan projects. In Letter of Instructions No. 106, the President has designated the First Lady as honorary chairman and the secretary of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources as honorary vice chairman. The formation of the council was in pursuant to PD. No. 262 which authorizes the planting of virgin public lands to rice and other crops in connection with the Government's campaign to attain self-sufficiency in foodstuff.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the secretary of national defense to take over control of all prime commodities, including rice and corn to prevent hoarding and profiteering as well as the disappearance of these commodities from the market. In another directive, the President stopped the National Grains Authority from selling pure rice and to start selling mixed rice and corn instead to tide the people over the lean months up to October. The President issued the directives in an address during the 72nd anniversary celebration of the Constabulary at Camp Crame in Quezon City.

GREATER achievement of the New Society revolves on the restoration of the people's faith in national leadership, and the restoration of peace and order, the improvement in the economy and the purging of the bureaucracy are merely the elementary tests of an effective government. Director Lorenzo J. Cruz of the Bureau of National and Foreign Information made this observation as he summed up the first 10 months of the New Society. Speaking before the Rotary Club of Dagupan City, Director Cruz explained that this popular restoration of faith in the Administration can best be perceived in the way that the people now respond to the social demands of citizenship. Describing last months' referendum as participatory Filipino at its best, Director Cruz said the Filipino people, in expressing their confidence in the Administration, proved that they could see beyond the formal structure of government to its essence.

ALL available resources of the Government were mobilized behind the administration's program to encourage the establishment and the growth of small and medium-scale industries in the rural areas to serve as the backbone of the national economy. At a Cabinet meeting held at Malacañang, the President said that although the proliferation of industries is the prime concern of the Board of Investments and the projected new Department of Industry, he has decided to make it into an inter-agency undertaking with all departments in the government pitching in. The Chief Executive directed BOI Chairman Vicente T. Paterno to prepare a program for the establishment of priorities in the extension of incentives and government assistance.

HEALTH authorities released rules and regulations on hospitals and professional fees for services rendered to Medicare patients in hospitals under the Department of Health. In an administrative order issued to doctors in the different hospitals under the Department of Health, Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan directed that the following rules and regulations are prescribed in connection with the services rendered to Medicare patients in government hospitals under the Department of Health: 1) When a Medicare patient occupies a Medicare service bed, the hospital and professional fees shall not be more than the rates prescribed in Republic Act No. 6111; 2) When a Medicare patient occupies by choice a bed more expensive than a Medicare service bed, the hospital and professional fee shall conform with the rates prescribed by the hospital under the provisions of Administrative Order No. 41, dated July 19, 1967. The difference in cost will be shouldered by the patient; and 3) When a Medicare patient occupying a Medicare service bed has exhausted all Medicare benefits, additional services as may be necessary to complete his treatment shall be given free if the patient cannot afford to pay for such additional services.

DEPARTMENT of Justice has ruled that the rules and regulations governing the examination for admission to the practice of massage and operation of massage clinics, offices or establishments is still enforceable even after the enactment of the Philippine Physical and Occupational Therapy Law, creating the board of examiners for physical and occupational therapists. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued this ruling in reply to a request from the chairman of the board of examiners for physical and occupational therapists. Mr. Abad Santos ruled, "after carefully considering the respective spheres of physical therapy and massage, I am convinced that the two are not identical, physical therapy being broader in scope than massage, as the latter is only one of the means employed in the practice of the former."

August 9—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Decree No. 226 setting forth the mechanics of the registration of ownership or title to lands under Presidential Decree No. 27, which declares the entire country a land reform area. Presidential Decree No. 266 states that the present laws do not adequately provide a method of: registering the ownership of tenant-farmers covered by Decree No. 27 and "there is urgent need of registering such rights to prevent confusion in land titles." The new decree provides, among others "all land transfer certificates issued pursuant to Decree No. 27 shall be filed by the Department of Agrarian Reform and recorded with the Land Registration Commission and forthwith the latter shall transmit a copy thereof to the register of deeds of the province or city where the land lies."

FOREIGN Secretary Carlos P. Romulo has directed all Philippine diplomatic and consular establishments abroad to facilitate the return travel of more than 700,000 overseas Filipinos who may avail themselves of President's decreed "Homecoming Season" for them, the Department of Foreign Affairs announced. The secretary has instructed all Philippine foreign service establishments "to facilitate, with top priority over other consular matters, the issuance of pertinent papers necessary for the return travel to the Philippines of overseas Filipinos applying under their respective jurisdictions."

THE PRESIDENT has appointed Mayor Reuben Canoy of Cagayan de Oro City as undersecretary of the Department of Public Information, DPI Secretary Francisco S. Tatad announced. The President swore in Mr. Canoy in the presence of Secretary Tatad and Director Lorenzo Cruz of the Bureau of National and Foreign Information

BOY SCOUTS of the Philippines and the Gerakan Pramuka of Indonesia are the only scout associations in the Asia-Pacific region that have conservation committees implementing community development programs like reforestation and food production projects in coordination with government campaign. This was learned during the recently-concluded seminar on community development among scout associations in the Asia-Pacific region in Jogjakarta, Indonesia. Assistant National Scout Executive Jovito Angcaco who represented the BSP in the workshop-seminar said members of the ASPAC region were impressed on the present programs of the BSP, including the plan to extend scouting programs in rural areas and the recruitment of out-of-school non-scouts into its fold.

SOME 58,000 hectares of vacant farmlots in landed estates and settlement projects under the Department of Agrarian Reform are being inventoried for the massive Palayan ng Bayan project of the First Lady. In a series of directives, Agrarian Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella mobilized his department's 11 regional offices throughout the country to commit themselves to the food production campaign. In urging them to support the project, Mr. Estrella called for the planting of all available areas in the barrios with root crops and other food crops. The DAR chief also ordered the inventory and utilization of the department's landed estates and settlement projects totalling 58,000 hectares for the campaign. In addition, Secretary Estrella enjoined the government personnel to make available to the farmers facilities like tractors, irrigation pumps and other equipment necessary for the success of the drive.

President's Week in Review: August 10-16, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 10—

THE PRESIDENT took steps to improve postal service notably in Manila, surrounding cities and nearby provinces where exchanges of dispatch and receipt of all kinds of foreign mail and parcels are being heavily handled. President's move was contained in Presidential Decree No. 268, which split Region 4 into two—4 and 4-A. Region 4 now comprises the provinces of, Bulacan, Rizal, Cavite, Romblon and Palawan and cities of Manila, Caloocan, Pasay, Quezon, Tagaytay, Trece Martires and Puerto Princesa, with the regional center in Manila. Region 4-A is now made up of the provinces of Laguna, Batangas, Quezon, Aurora (sub-province), Marinduque, Oriental Mindoro, Occidental Mindoro and the cities of San Pablo, Batangas, Lipa and Lucena, with the regional center in San Pablo City.

THE PRESIDENT has directed four government agencies to devise ways and means to avert a shortage in acacia trees, one of the most used raw materials for the woodcraft industries. In Letter of Instructions No. 110, the President ordered the National Cottage Industries Development Authority, the Bureau of Forest Development, the Bureau of Plant Industry, and the Forest Products Research and Industry Development Commission to replenish gradually the thinning stock of the valuable wood over the next ten years. The President likewise directed the four agencies to conduct comprehensive studies on how to ensure the steady and continued operation of the woodcraft industries, and to prevent the shortage of acacia wood.

GOVERNMENT scientists at the Philippine Atomic Research Center have discovered that kapis shell can be a good radiation detector. The Philippine Atomic Energy Commission reported that PARC scientists have proven that kapis shells can detect stronger radiations from 1,000 up to 10,000 roentgen (a roentgen is a unit of radioactive dose) and can still be reused. Nuclear laboratories are at present using film badges to detect and measure any radiation their personnel may absorb. These badges, which contain sensitive films, can only detect radiation of the ranges of 30 milli-roentgen to 10 roentgen. These films are thrown away after a period of exposure.

BOARD of Censors for Motion Pictures announced the banning of all forms of commercial advertisement in movie houses in major cities and provincial capitals throughout the country. The ban, contained in a memorandum signed by Chairman Guillermo C. de Vega, will take effect starting September 10. Mr. de Vega said the banning of commercial ads was decided upon as a result of continuing criticism that these have practically consumed too much of the moviegoers' time. Violators of the ban will be dealt with accordingly, Mr. de Vega said.

August 11—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 261 prescribing assessment levels for special classes of real property such as educational cultural, scientific, recreational and other kinds which by their nature and use do not fall squarely under any of the classifications specified in PD No. 76. PD No. 261 amends PD No. 76, which classifies real property for purposes of the real property tax into commercial, industrial, mineral, agricultural and residential property.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad announced the establishment of a Muslim Information Center to Maintain effective and close communications between Muslim communities in the South and the rest of the country. The center will also provide assistance to the national government in the conduct of relations with the Muslim world. Secretary Tatad said the Department of Education and Culture, the Commission on National Integration, and the Mindanao State University have agreed to assist the Department of Public Information in establishing the center at the soonest time possible.

THE PRESIDENT has directed Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros to approve the importation of 10,000 tires by tire manufacturers, to arrive before December 31. Under Letter of Instructions No. 111, the importation may be made in behalf of the National Grains Authority, the Bureau of Public Highways, or the Department of National Defense, “whichever is most appropriate.” The President issued the LOI to alleviate the critical tire shortage which has hampered the accelerated flow of grains and held up vital government projects.

DEPARTMENT of Health mobilized its personnel, throughout the country in preparation for the coming visit to the country of Filipinos living abroad. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan took this move following the designation by the Government of a period covering September 1, 1973 to February 28, 1974 as a homecoming season for Filipinos living abroad. The health secretary also appealed to different medical and allied societies for their cooperation along the measures proposed by the President in connection with the expected visit of overseas Filipinos.

EMPLOYERS who fail to report for coverage all employees subject to compulsory coverage under the Social Security Law and to remit the monthly contributions or loan amortizations deducted from wages are liable for prosecution. Even if the business firm has already ceased operations, its liability remains Outstanding if it failed to comply with provisions of the SSS law, or rules and regulations of the Social Security Commission. According to SSS Administrator Gilberto Teodoro, the SSS may go after any head, managing partner or board member of such firm for failure to report for coverage all employees subject to SSS coverage.

August 12—

THE PRESIDENT created the Iron and Steel Authority in a move aimed at ensuring an adequate supply of iron and steel products in the country at reasonable prices and: to explore the integration of the Philippines’ steel industry. As envisioned by Presidential Decree No. 272, the ISA would correct the current imbalance between demand and supply of iron and steel Products. On the matter of integrating the steel industry, the President said this was made necessary by the recurrent shortage of steel products and; their spiralling costs in international markets, as well as the excessive dependence by the Philippines on imports for its steel supplies.

THE PRESIDENT expressed the nation’s appreciation for the assistance and sympathy the Philippines has been receiving from the American government and people. The occasion was the call at Malacañang of 10 United States congressmen in the course of a fact-finding tour of Asian countries. The President said he hoped the visiting solons would see the changes going on in this country and “our efforts to mould our own destiny with our own hands.”

THE PRESIDENT has acted to prevent the unnecessary destruction of roads by careless users, arising from non-observance of the load capacities of public roads and bridges. He issued Letter of Instructions No. 112 directing the secretary of national defense to detain freight trucks and other vehicles as well as their operators carrying logs and other cargoes in excess of the permissible weights as authorized in the Land Transportation and Traffic Code.

August 13—

THE PRESIDENT has created an executive committee to promote and ensure the more rapid and efficient flow of rice, corn and other prime consumer commodities, like sugar and coconut oil from the point of production up to the point of immediate distribution to the final consumer. The executive committee is empowered under a Letter of Instructions to take “over the control and coordination of government agencies in order to carry out, monitor and if necessary, control the distribution of these prime consumer commodities. The committee is headed by the secretary of national defense as chairman with the executive secretary as vice chairman. Members of the committee are the secretaries of agriculture and natural resources, trade, local governments and community development and public information, chief of the Philippine Constabulary and the administrator of the National Grains Authority.

ALL corporations with surplus profits in excess of necessary, requirements for capital expansion and reserves are required under Presidential Decree No. 270 to declare and distribute such excess profits as dividends to stockholders. The decree also notes that many corporations, which have surplus profits even in excess of 100 per cent of the paid-up capital stock do not declare the same as dividends to stockholders. And it is pointed out that this failure to declare dividends when corporations are able to do so, stultifies investors’ interest, in channeling their investible funds in equities even of productive industries and enterprises, thereby retarding the economic growth and development of the country.

SECRETARY of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that P191, 916,574.04 was collected last fiscal year in real property taxes by 61 provinces and 66 cities as against P132, 829,579.69 in 1971 or an increase of P59, 086,994.85 or 44.48 per cent. The provinces registered a higher percentage of increase in the collection of real property taxes amounting to P92, 401, 575.23 in 1972 as against P55, 447,157.05 in 1971 or an increase of P36, 954,418.18 or 66.65 per cent: In 1972, the cities collected P99,514,-998.81 in real property taxes as against P77, 382,421.64 in 1971 or an increase of P22, 132,577.17 or 28.60 per cent. Secretary Virata attributed the increased collection in 1972 to the increased dedication of the provincial and city treasurers and assessors and municipal treasurers. Modern methods of assessment and collection procedures now being implemented have also greatly affected the hiked collections.

ROLE of the Bureau of Agricultural Extension (BAE) in the agricultural development of the country has been explained during the nationwide broadcast, "Pulong-Pulong sa Kaunlaran." BAE Deputy Commissioner Francisco Rentutar said that the BAE is the educational arm of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources in disseminating to the farmers new technology in agriculture from research institutions like the College of Agriculture, Internal Rice Research Institute Bureau of Plant Industry, and other agencies doing research. This function is handled all over the country by fieldmen composed of 3,176 farm management technicians, 975 home management technicians, and 500 rural youth officers.

August 14—

THE PRESIDENT vowed to utilize all the powers under Martial Law to speed up the development of Mindanao and bring the Muslim communities to the same level as the most developed part of the Philippines. The President made this statement as he asked a Muslim delegation from Sulu, Cotabato, the Lanao provinces, Zamboanga and Basilan to now assume a more positive role in helping bring about Mindanao's socio economic development. The President discussed with the delegation ongoing infrastructure projects, industry and trade, including the development of fisheries, and plans to establish an amanah (trust) bank.

THE PRESIDENT exhorted all government officials to join hands in propagating the use of Pilipino to assure the success of the government's reform program in the New Society. Calling on public officials, from Cabinet members down to barangay leaders, the Chief Executive stressed the need for a more widespread use of Pilipino, especially in the discussion of public issues, in order "to give the language a new vitality and strength". In a speech read for him by Secretary Blas F. Ople during the opening ceremonies at the Manuel L. Quezon University ushering in Pilipino Week, the President also said that he has already ordered the translation into Pilipino of educational materials, both for print and for broadcast, "so that government information may achieve maximum effectiveness."

THE PHILIPPINES is using the metric system to keep pace with the advances of international trade. The reminder was issued by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., so that manufacturers and packagers may start adjusting their packaging, processes and procedures on measurements based on the metric system. The metric system or what is now known as the International System of Units (SI) is the international language of measurements and, lately, more and more countries are adopting this system of measurements. The DT secretary said the proposed international change-over will give industrialists the opportunity of standardising and effecting uniformity in container sizes. This would also eliminate uneconomical packaging.

BUREAU of Posts reminded the public to use Anti-TJB postage stamps on their mails beginning August 19 up to September 30, which is the annual implementation of the Anti-TB Stamp Law. Acting Postmaster General Filizardo Tanabe issued the reminder in order to avoid the non delivery of mail matters without the Anti-TB semi-postage stamps mailed during this period. Exempted from this requirement are periodicals or publications received for mailing under any class of mail, including newspapers or magazines admitted as second-class mail; and government offices, agencies and instrumentalities performing governmental and proprietary functions, including provincial, city and municipal corporations as well as government offices and officials enjoying the franking privilege under existing laws.

PUBLIC Assistance Office of the Department of Justice has been created to receive complaints from citizens against any instance of dishonesty, incompetence, laziness, or discourtesy on the part of any government employee in the justice department or any bureau or office under it. The new office will also give free legal advice to indigent or low-income citizens, Acting Justice Secretary Catalino Macaraig announced. The office was set up pursuant to the directive of the President that each department should organize an assistance office which should be a microcosm of the entire departments and should extend immediate aid to the needy.

NATIONAL government has realized a net operating surplus of P516, 026,339.45 in the General Fund in July, 1973, which is the beginning of Fiscal Year 1973-74. This was reported by Secretary of Finance Cesar E.A. Virata who said that the net operating surplus was realized when government income far exceeded government expenditures in the General Fund. Secretary Virata also said that the cash balance of the national government as of July 31, 1973 was P2, 102, 961, 666.96

SECRETARY of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan underlined the importance of the need for anesthesiology and its ever-widening applicability in the rapidly expanding health and medical care programs. There is increasing need for this specialty with the vast changing progress and development of our times, the health secretary said. Speaking before the participants of the anesthesiology in service training of the Department of Health during their commencement exercises held at the Sulu Hotel in Quezon City, Secretary Gatmaitan said that no major surgery is possible without anesthesia and that its important use can be traced to the biblical times.

August 15—

THE PRESIDENT has amended Presidential Decree No. 232 which creates the Philippine Coconut Authority in order to strengthen further the coconut industry. Through PD No. 271, the Chief Executive amended Sections 4 and 5 of PD 232 which pertains to the composition of the governing board and management, respectively, of the Philippine Coconut Authority. As amended, these sections provide that the PCA shall be governed by a nine-member Board which shall meet as often as necessary and the direction shall be in the hands of an administrator. The Board chairman and the administrator, who is also vice-chairman of the Board are both appointed by the President.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. to create the Research Staff for the Codification of Philippine Muslim Laws and a Monitoring and Operations Center under the Presidential Task Force for the Reconstruction and Development of Mindanao. The task force was previously created under Executive Order No. 411, series of 1973. Secretary Melchor is chairman of the newly-formed agencies. The Research Staff shall be based in Manila, while the Monitoring and Operations Center shall be located in the Mindanao State University in Marawi City.

DANGEROUS Drugs Board released the guidelines stipulating the cause for the suspension or revocation of permit or license issued by the Food and Drug Administration to operate a drug establishment. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan, chairman of the Dangerous Drugs Board said that with the guidelines, "our campaign against drug addiction has been further bolstered by dealing on violation pertaining to the sale and traffic of dangerous drugs." The guidelines are: 1) Republic Act No. 3720, otherwise known as Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act states, among other things, that "the policy of the state is to regulate the manufacture, sale and traffic of drugs to protect the health of the people." The policy especially with respect to dangerous drugs, is now in effect, 2) The secretary of health will suspend or revoke the license or permit to operate of any person, drugstore or drug firm that violates the dangerous drugs board regulations pertaining to the sale and traffic of dangerous drugs.

ACTING Justice Secretary Catalino Macaraig Jr. ruled that the usual rate charged for the publication of legal notices in the Official Gazette is not considered a government fee within the meaning of the Philippine Non Agricultural Cooperative Act. The acting secretary issued his opinion in reply to a request from the Editor of the Official Gazette, Department of Public Information. Secretary Macaraig explained that the rates charged for the publication of legal notices in the Official Gazette are collected not for regulation and inspection purposes, but rather to pay for the cost of printing and publication. "Even the Government itself is not exempted from paying for the cost of work done by the Bureau of Printing," he concluded.

August 16—

THE PRESIDENT said the Muslim conflict in the South is but a part of the overall national problem stemming from injustices brought about by a sick society which the administration is now seeking to restructure. In welcome remarks to members of the mission sent here by the Ministers Conference of the Muslim World who called at Malacañang, the President said the armed conflicts are not confined among the Muslims in Mindanao and Sulu but perhaps more true among the Christians in Luzon and other localities, because of discontent and injustices brought about by a feudalistic society. The members of the mission were accompanied by Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo. The mission is headed by Foreign Minister Abdul Ati Al Abedi of Libya; Mustafa Cisse, Senegal Ambassador to Egypt; Foreign Minister Ommar Sakhaf of Saudi Arabia, and Foreign Minister Omar Atef Ghalib of Somali Republic.

THE GOVERNMENT has extended all the support feasible to the sugar producers to increase their yield to meet the increasing worldwide sugar shortage and help the industry usher to a more prosperous footing. In his speech before the convention of the Association of Philippine Sugar Technologists, Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata said the Government has given the sugar planters technical assistance, aside from liberalized financing through the rural banking system to enable them to acquire the needed farm equipment. The World Bank is financing the expansion of sugar development in three new areas as its share in helping patch up the impending shortages.

THE PRESIDENT referred to his financial and fiscal advisers the proposals of two American investors to finance an integrated rice production program, shipping and transportation development. The proposal was made by Messrs. Norman H. Liebman, president of Schwartz-Liebman Textile Company of New York and Philip F. Liebman, financial consultant of the Madestone Group of New York, which specializes in financial shipping and transportation, oil refinery, rice production and milling. The two investors, who have been observing the investment climate here for almost a week, said they are ready to pour substantial investment into the country.

HEALTH authorities disclosed that malaria, one of the major public health problems in the country, has decreased considerably in terms of morbidity and mortality over the last two decades. The major factor contributing to the present malaria situation is the impact of anti-malaria control measures instituted: which succeeded in bringing down to a very low level the transmission of the disease in the previously malarious areas. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan said that the government's malaria eradication program is one big beneficiary of Martial Law. He explained that since the promulgation of PD 70, there has been no case on record of refusal of a house owner to have his house sprayed with DDT.

President's Week in Review: August 17-23, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 17—

THE PRESIDENT urged that the anti-tuberculosis campaign should be spread throughout the country, down to the barrio level, including the Muslims in the South, in order to eradicate once and for all this dreaded disease which continues to take a heavy toll among Filipinos. In a speech at the kick-off ceremonies of the 1973 Anti-TB Educational and Fund Campaign held at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President called upon all Filipinos to involve themselves in the fight against tuberculosis which, he said, is a symbol of degeneracy in society.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue has suspended tax clearance requirements of overseas Filipinos travelling to and from the Philippines during the "Homecoming Season" from September 1, 1973 to February 28, 1974. The move of the BIR was in line with the President's letter of instructions giving a temporary "tax holiday" for overseas Filipinos visiting the country during this period. The tax holiday is one of the incentives being offered under the current drive, spearheaded by the Department of Tourism, to bring home an estimated 700,000 Filipinos residing abroad during the coming Christmas season through 1974. Another incentive is a drastic reduction of the air fares from the United States to Manila.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the initial release of 95- million to start off the Pasig River Development Project designed to cleanse and beautify the historic river and its tributaries and to turn them into one of the major tourist attractions of the country. An expansion of the beautification and cleanliness drive of the First Lady, the project calls for the dredging and removal of all derelicts, the building of roads, parks, lagoons and promenades in certain areas, the installation of ornamental lights and railings, and the planting of trees along both sides.

THE PRESIDENT called for a more lasting unity between the Philippines and the Muslim countries as a means of assuring the dignity of "our respective peoples in their respective regions." In brief remarks delivered during a dinner tendered in honor of the Islamic mission members, the Chief Executive emphasized that though the Philippines and the Muslim countries are "bound by the double tie of common origin and common destiny," this unity has been broken in the past because of long years of colonization. In response, the mission members, through Foreign Minister Ommar Sakhaf of Saudi Arabia, said that they came to the Philippines with "open minds and open hearts," ready to help the Philippine government in whatever way they can for the benefit of Muslim Filipinos.

THE PHILIPPINES' application for provisional accession to the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade has been unanimously approved by the GATT Council. In effect, the Philippines can now enjoy all the rights and privileges of a member of the GATT, except the right to vote. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said that with the Philippines' membership in GATT, the country will now enjoy the MFN (most favored nation) tariff rates among GATT members of which more than 80 per cent of Philippine trade is conducted. The membership will also open additional foreign markets for Philippine products in addition to her traditional markets.

POSTMASTER General Felizardo R. Tanabe exhorted the role of postal employes in the reform-oriented New Society during the closing rites of a two-day seminar on postal matters at the Postal Training Institute. In his speech, the postmaster general emphasized the importance of devotion to one's responsibilities in order to achieve the maximum objective that the Government has conceived for the public. He further stressed the need for self-discipline and diligence in work performance to attain a highly efficient postal service. Mr. Tanabe also announced that the Bureau of Posts has outlined a program of information dissemination which includes the holding of a series of seminars for both postal officials and employees and making use of the newspapers, radio and television.

DEPARTMENT of Finance has adopted a new system in the remittance of national collections to minimize or eliminate malversation of government funds by collecting or disbursing officers. Finance Secretary Cesar E.A. Virata said that the new system involves the remittance of national collections through direct deposit to the Philippine National Bank or its branches by the revenue collecting officers concerned. The revised remittance system applies to all government departments, agencies, corporations and others concerned in depositing national collections in all PNB offices and agencies for credit to the account of the national treasurer.

August 18—

NEWLY-created Philippine International Trading Corporation (PITC) will engage in all aspects of trade—from procurement, marketing, trading, shipping and warehousing to distribution, insurance, financing, and investment promotions—on a scale never before attempted in the Philippines. Disclosing the concept behind the formation of the PITC, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the setup will enable the private business and industry sectors to effect economies of scale in their operations and, at the same time, generate additional revenues for the Government. The PITC was created by the President under Presidential Decree No. 252 issued on July 21, 1973, to secure a more competitive position for the Philippines in international trade.

BUREAU of Customs ordered the transfer of all idle vessels moored alongside the Pasig River to other anchorage areas to clear the way for the beautification and development project of the First Lady. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina likewise directed the head of the three-man Customs group to make a survey of the to check on the number of sunken vessels still to be salvaged and to have them removed not later than September 15. The commissioner vowed full implementation of the anti-pollution regulation and directed the prosecution of any person dumping refuse and other waste material, into the river, particularly crewmember of commercial boats navigating the Pasig River who are under the Customs jurisdiction.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad emphasized the role of Pilipino in uniting the Filipino people and in assuring the success of the Government's efforts to build a New Society. Speaking at the National Teachers College in connection with the nationwide observance of Pilipino Week, the Secretary stressed that in the New Society, the Government is placing heavy emphasis on the development of a national language to strengthen the bond that unites Filipinos. Mr. Tatad enumerated what the administration has done to propagate the national language. This includes the decision of the Board of National Education to use Pilipino as a medium of instruction from the primary level up. The board has also made Pilipino a required course in schools.

FINANCE Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata announced that a total of P114,592,535.40 in special education tax was collected in 1972 by 67 provinces and 61 cities. He said that the amount was appropriated in accordance with the law, for adjustment and payment of salaries of school teachers, repair of school buildings and accessories, barrio high schools, scholarships, textbook and education research. The special education tax is an annual additional tax of one per cent on the assessed value of real property in addition to the real property tax regularly levied under existing laws and is collected by provincial and city treasurers pursuant to Republic Act No. 5447.

August 19—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate implementation of the Pasig River Development Program, which was launched by the First Lady as a joint undertaking of the government and the private sector "within a minimum period of three years." Presidential Decree No. 274 provides for the funding of the program for the preservation, beautification, improvement and gainful utilization of the Pasig River, and at the same time lays down measures to encourage pollution control or to penalize violations of anti-pollution rules. The decree creates a Trust Fund Account to finance the Pasig River Development Program and other river works projects of the national government.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Ancient Order of Sultan Kudarat on the heads of the mission that was sent here by the Ministers Conference of the Islamic World to offer the assistance of the organization in finding solutions to the so-called Muslim problem in this country. Awarded were Foreign Minister Abdul Ali Al Obidi of Libya, Foreign Minister Omar Arteh Ghalib of Somalia and Senegal Ambassador to Egypt Moustapha Cisse. The Order of Sultan Kudarat is a new decoration. The special award is named after the Sultan of Maguindanao who, after beginning to lose the battle against the Spanish colonizers, inspired the Maranaws to carry on the struggle by his patriotic candor and sincerity.

THE PRESIDENT said that, with the advent of the New Society, Filipinos are now in a position to honor the country's heroes not only with ritual and ceremony but also with the supreme tribute of being able to stand "strong, dynamic and free" as a nation. In a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor during the observance of the 95th birth anniversary of the late President Manuel L. Quezon at the Quezon City grandstand, the Chief Executive stressed that the sacrifices of heroes are never redeemed by ceremonies and rituals alone. He added that they find fulfillment only "in the kind of nation and the quality of men that live after them."

HEADS of mission of four Muslim countries said they believe in the sincerity of the President and his program of development and expressed their desire to help their Muslim brothers in the Philippines as well as the non-Muslims in other parts of the country. The foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia, Somalia and Libya and the ambassador of Senegal expressed their views when they called on the President at Malacañang after ending their two-day on-the-spot survey of Muslim Mindanao and Sulu, upon invitation of the President. They urged the Muslims to study themselves and know what the government is doing for their welfare, and how they can help the government help them.

August 20—

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Ancient Order of Sikatuna, rank of datu on Ambassador Bob Josef Lebacqz, outgoing ambassador of Belgium to the Philippines. The President conferred the award in recognition of the Belgian ambassador's service in the field of international relations and his constant endeavor to strengthen the friendly ties between his country and the Philippines. The President said that the outgoing ambassador, who has served in the Philippines for over four years, has been instrumental in promoting greater understanding between his people and the Filipinos through mutually beneficial undertakings. In accepting the award, Ambassador Lebacqz expressed gratitude to the President and, through him, to the Filipino people for their friendliness, hospitality and helpfulness.

THE PRESIDENT received the first copy of the Investment Information Folio prepared by the Philippine Commercial and Industrial Bank for foreign investors. It presents in-depth studies and factual accounts of the country's macro-economic profile, economic policies, investment incentives, taxation, financial systems, trade opportunities, government economic agencies, people and resources. These are supported with graphs and color photos. After poring through the volume, the President congratulated the PCIB officials for their pioneering work, saying, "this is exactly what we need."

THE PRESIDENT has provided another productive incentive for Muslim areas by broadening the coverage of the Agricultural Guarantee Fund in six provinces and one city in the South. Under Presidential Decree No. 275, the President has ordered that the Fund shall cover losses on production loans not only in rice and corn, as originally prescribed in R.A. No. 6390, which creates the Fund, but also in such other essential agricultural projects' as livestock, poultry, fishing, and others. Beneficiaries of the decree are the provinces of Lanao del Norte, Lanao del Sur, Zamboanga del Norte, Zamboanga del Sur, Cotabato, South Cotabato and Basilan City. The decree points out that it is the policy of the government to speed up the development of these areas by encouraging their residents to raise their level of production to attain self-sufficiency immediately.

THE PRESIDENT underscored the many challenges and dangers that the country must face and overcome, even as he hailed as "most courageous, public-spirited and therefore reassuring" the people's initial performance, in the face of the rice shortage. In a speech read for him by chairman Vicente T. Paterno of the Board of Investments at the inauguration of the Peroxide Philippines Corp. plant at Maysan, Valenzuela, Bulacan, the Chief Executive said that the greatest of the challenges is that of transformation not only of decrepit institutions but of the people themselves, as a national and as individuals, while the greatest of the dangers "is that which arises from within ourselves." The Chief Executive lauded the people for their patience and fortitude in facing the rice shortage.

August 21—

THE PRESIDENT received the credentials of former Charge-de-Affairs Frank Borden Clark of the Canadian embassy as the first Canadian ambassador to the Philippines. In presenting his credentials to the President, Ambassador Clark said Canadian financiers, industrialists and government officials are coming to the Philippines to see for themselves the much-improved investment climate in the Philippines, and to participate in the country's economic development. The President assured the Canadian ambassador that the Government will continue with the policy that made possible the improvement which Canadian financiers, industrialists and government officials have noted, particularly in the improved investment climate.

DEPARTMENT of Finance released the rules and regulations implementing the tax amnesty granted to individuals who are required by law to file income tax returns but failed to do so, pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 213. The deadline for the availment of this tax amnesty is on October 31, 1973. The following conditions must be complied with by those availing and are qualified to avail of the amnesty: a) Those who are not liable to pay income tax but required by law to file an income tax return and failed to do so must voluntarily file a return for each year that no return was filed and must pay P10 for each year of non-filing; b) Those liable to pay income tax but failed to file the corresponding income tax return and pay the tax due thereon must file voluntarily a return for each year that no return was filed and pay P10 for each year of non-filing and an amount equal to 20 per cent of the tax due on the return or returns filed; and 3) The return or returns shall be filed and the amounts representing the amnesty tax shall be paid in full upon filing of the return or returns on or before October 31, 1973.

PRIVATE or commercial firms maintaining a security force of their own must secure a license from the Philippine Constabulary. Camp Crame authorities said that employees of these private and commercial firms being made to perform duties as watchmen or security guards should secure their permits to exercise their profession from the PC. Government-owned or controlled corporations are exempted from this requirement. However, their employees performing such guard duties are required to secure their permits to exercise their profession.

August 22—

THE PRESIDENT has created the Coconut Consumers Stabilization Fund to subsidize the sale of coconut-based products at prices set by the Price Control Council, under rules and regulations to be promulgated by the Philippine Consumers Stabilization Committee. The subsidy is intended to last for one year or less. Establishment of the stabilization fund is embodied under Presidential Decree No. 276 issued by the President authorizing the Philippine Coconut Authority to impose a levy, initially, of P15 per 100 kilograms of copra resacada or its equivalent in other coconut products, on every first sale, in accordance with the mechanics established under Republic Act No. 6260.

THE PHILIPPINE Government obtained a $4.2 million concessional loan from the United States government for the early development of the Tiwi Geothermal Energy Resources in Tiwi, Albay, for electric power. The loan agreement was signed in Malacañang by the President on behalf of the Philippines, and Ambassador William H. Sullivan on behalf of the US, and witnessed by General Manager Ramon Ravanzo of the National Power Corporation and Director Thomas Niblock of the USAID. The loan is payable over a 40-year period, including a 10-year grace period during which the interest will only be two per cent. TEN INSURANCE companies made a total investment of P24,328,645.00 in socio-economic projects for the month of July, 1973. This was announced by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata following receipt of a report submitted to him by Insurance Commissioner Gregoria Cruz Arnaldo. The insurance industries had made a total investment of P237,091,562.08 for Fiscal Year 1972-73 for the various socioeconomic projects of the Government. The insurance industry is one of the major sources of investment funds and Secretary Virata has appealed to the insurance companies to help in the economic development by investing part of their funds and earnings in developmental projects.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Philippine Legion of Honor, rank of commander, on Minister William C. Hamilton, former charge d'affaires of the United States Embassy in Manila. Minister Hamilton served as deputy to former Ambassador Henry Byroade from July 1971 until the latter was relieved. He then acted as charge d'affaires ad interim until the arrival of Ambassador William H. Sullivan. The President cited Minister Hamilton for serving with distinction in promoting goodwill and enhancing closer Filipino-American relations, and showing a deep insight into the Filipino way of life. In accepting the award, Minister Hamilton said that although he served only for two years, those years were "full of vibrant memories."

DANGEROUS Drugs Board announced it has approved four claims for reward of informers in connection with the apprehension of pushers of prohibited and dangerous drugs. The individual claims or rewards amounted to three per cent of the value of drugs confiscated from various places by apprehending teams composed of the PC, ASAC, CANU and others. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan expressed elation on the approval of the awards by the DDB, saying that rewarding informants in connection with the apprehension of drug pushers would certainly facilitate putting a stop to the nefarious activities of these wilful enemies of the New Society. These rewards would certainly bolster our campaign for the control of drug addiction or dependence in the country, the health secretary said.

August 23—

THE PRESIDENT has directed a number of government officials to formulate measures to avert a shortage of cooking oil and coconut by-products. Through Letter of Instructions No. 115, the Chief Executive ordered the Administrator of the Philippine Coconut Administration and the secretaries of national defense, trade, and agriculture and natural resources to: 1) Implement a systematic and efficient method of distributing cooking oil and essential coconut by-products to relieve the pressure of demand for these commodities; 2) Require the cooking oil industry to speed up delivery of cooking oil outlets in order to normalize supply and demand; 3) Restore order in the coconut industry which is wracked with internal conflicts between the producers and planters on one hand, and the refiners and the copra and coconut oil exporters, on the other hand; and 4) Introduce other reasonable measures essential to the successful prosecution of government and private sectors efforts to contain, solve and end the crisis in the coconut, industry.

THE PRESIDENT called on radio and television broadcasters to continue helping in the attainment of the objectives of the New Society even as he congratulated them for their contribution in effecting needed reforms for the country. The President told the officers of the Kapisanan ng mga Brodkaster sa Pilipinas following their induction into office, that the present reform movement means a change in the heart, attitudes and purposes of the people and requires passionate adherence to the basic objectives of the New Society. The President said that although ideas and ideologies may be easily discarded by men busy at earning; a living, the repetition of such ideas through interesting and attractive forms will ensure that they will not be easily discarded by the people through lack of time or attention.

DEPARTMENT of Justice set the retirements for registration of a voluntary deed or instrument purporting to be an encumbrance or a conveyance of private agricultural land or any portion of the land. The new circular supersedes Circular No. 17 dated May 29, 1973. It also applies to land within the cities. Acting Justice Secretary Catalino Macaraig Jr. said that under the new justice department circular, the registrant must present an affidavit that the land involved is not tenanted, or if tenanted, the same is not primarily devoted to the production of rice and/or corn as of October 21, 1972 and on or about the date of registration. The circular further provides that if only a portion of the land is primarily devoted to the production of rice and/or corn and such area so devoted is tenanted, no such deed or instrument shall be registered unless accompanied by an affidavit stating the area (size) of the portion which is tenanted and primarily devoted to rice and/or corn.

THE PRESIDENT issued Decree 273 authorizing the Philippine Medical Care Commission to increase the extent and scope of benefits of medicare beneficiaries, provided that actuarial studies show that the resources of the medical care plan permit such additional benefits, without need for additional contributions from employees and employers. The new decree also provides for two additional benefits, covering anesthesiologist's and operating room fees.

DEFENSE Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile ordered the lifting of Constabulary control over the police forces of six more towns following the return of normalcy in those localities. The defense chief's order followed a recommendation from Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, PC chief, who in his inspection trip to these. provinces have found the peace and order condition to have greatly improved since the imposition of Martial Law. The towns are Jose Panganiban, Camarines Norte; Nueva Valencia, Iloilo; Leyte, Leyte; San Francisco and Bantayan, Cebu; and Calapan, Mindoro Oriental.

President's Week in Review: August 24-30, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 24—

THE PRESIDENT urged all overseas Filipinos to visit the Philippines and see the “miraculous transformation” going on, assuring them of their safe return, whether they are for or against the present program of reforms. The President renewed his invitation before the first batch of overseas Filipinos, consisting of 33 journalists and travel agents from the United States and Canada, who took advantage of “Operation Homecoming” recently launched by the President. The President warned that “if there be anyone who dares to touch any special guest of the President, I shall see to it that the full rigor of Martial Law will be inflicted upon him.”

THE PRESIDENT ordered the acceleration in the construction of the projects under the Laguna Lake Development Authority (LLDA), in a memorandum issued to Rizal Governor Isidro Rodriguez. The President expects these projects to be started before the end of the year. The projects are: Mabitac-Sta. Maria (Laguna) irrigation project; Pagsanjan River Delta irrigation system; Teresa (Rizal) groundwater irrigation project; Bay fish nursery project; and hydraulic control structure. The President's order was prompted by reports that the studies for the projects had already been completed.

THE PRESIDENT pledged to implement in complete detail the government plans for the improvement of the condition of the Muslim cultural communities throughout the country with the newly-created province of Sultan Kudarat as symbol and model. In administering the oath of office to Simeon Datumanong as acting governor of the new province in Malacañang, the President said, “Let the province be the symbol and model of the efforts of the Government, and the sincerity of its leaders, to bring about a better life for the Muslims who have many valid grievances for fighting!” The President had created the new province, together with the new province of Magindanao, in order to make it easier to resolve the conflicting political, social and economic questions which had been the cause of trouble in the province of Cotabato proper.

DEPARTMENT of Finance issued guidelines on how local governments can avail themselves of the P133 million Local Government Fund for socio-economic development projects. The Local Government Fund, which was created by the President through Presidential Decree No. 144, is different from the regular Bureau of Internal Revenue allotments shared by local governments from BIR collections. The guidelines follow: 1) Local governments whose annual internal revenue allotment for Fiscal Year 1974-75 will be reduced to 30 per cent or more when compared to the total internal revenue allotment actually received in Fiscal Year 1970-71, may apply for budgetary aid from the Local Government Fund; 2) Aid granted from the Local Government Fund will not be used for the creation of new positions or increases and adjustments of salaries; 3) Financial aid from the fund will be used to defray the cost of on-going or new local development projects; 4) Request for financial assistance for new projects which are financed partly from the 20 per cent development fund shall be accompanied by a development plan or work program duly approved by the secretary of the Department of Local Government and Community Development; 5) All request for budgetary aid or financial assistance shall be made through the board or council; (6) Request for aid must be accompanied by a certificate of the provincial or city treasurer concerned, stating that the total estimated income of the local unit will not be sufficient to cover urgent public services; and 7) All requests for budgetary aid shall be submitted to the President through the secretary of finance who shall determine the reasonableness, financial condition or capacity of the applicant and the economic feasibility of proposed local development projects.

BUREAU of Customs announced that the interisland shipowners and operators have agreed to shoulder the cost of the arrastre charges on coconut edible oil being collected presently by arrastre contractors at the Manila North Harbor. In a report to Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina, Deputy Commissioner Pedro Mendoza Jr. said that the conference of Inter-island Shipowners and Operators Association have agreed to assume the cost of the handling of the oil products in the spirit of cooperation with the Government to bring down the prices of prime commodities and to make cooking oil readily available to the consumers. He said the agreement brings to six the number – of prime commodities whose arrastre charges are being borne by the shipping companies. They are rice, corn, flour, sugar, milk, and now coconut edible oil.

HEAT emitted from gas produced by the burning of coconut shell has been found to be more efficient than diesel oil in the drying of copra. Copra, dried mechanically with heat from burned coconut shell, is white and clean while that dried mechanically from heat produced by diesel fuel, was brown and dirty-looking. This was the report of the first phase of a NSDB project which seeks to develop a copra-drier using coconut shell as fuel for the production of high quality copra. The director of the project is Dr. Ibarra Cruz of the college of engineering, University of the Philippines.

August 25—

THE PRESIDENT directed the director of mines to institute immediate remedial measures against professional claim jumpers and table locators who have unduly delayed and obstructed the exploration and exploitation of the country's mineral resources. The director was likewise instructed to submit without delay a proposed budget which shall enable the bureau to participate more aggressively in the exploitation of mineral deposits, including oil and gas, both in existing mineral claims and in government reservations. The Director was ordered to implement the instructions notwithstanding the contrary provisions of any existing law, rules or regulations as well as the Rules of Court.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad has urged a visiting group of Filipino-American newspaper editors and travel agents to tell the Filipino communities abroad that the changes taking place in the Philippines today have given the Filipino people "a new sense of pride, honor and dignity such as they have never known before." In a speech delivered at the Vigan House at Nayong Pilipino, Secretary Tatad asked the visiting group "to talk to the common folk, simple man and woman in the streets and ask them what their experience has been and what they feel and think of the new way of life." The Secretary asked the group not to be intimidated by a few skeptics who would deliver speeches or write to the newspapers abroad, because "they do not have the benefit of your experience, and have not seen the changes in the Philippines."

"SERVICE from the heart," is the brand of service the Department of Social Welfare must give to the less-privileged who seek its aid. This was the gist of a reminder issued by the DSW Secretary Estefania Aldaba-Lim to the DSW rank and file as a follow up to the President's warning against "back-sliding" government personnel. The DSW head reminded her staff that every client who approaches a social worker must be attended to immediately and treated with utmost courtesy, understanding and competence. She also warned employees against dishonest practices particularly in the handling of relief supplies, adding that any indiscretion along this line will be dealt with accordingly. At the senior staff meeting the secretary also directed the strengthening of the DSW Pag-asa unit, a 24-hour service unit, which attends to indigents in need of help, those suddenly taken ill at night with no money to buy medicine, stranded people with no place to sleep, runaways, abandoned children, and many others.

SHOULD barrio captains be given fixed salaries for their varied duties and responsibilities? Secretary Jose A. Roño of the Department of Local Government and Community Development said that the Government is not in a position to pay barrio captains regular or fixed salaries. He added that government funds have been concentrated in the rehabilitation of flood-devasted infrastructures and for new development projects. He pointed out however, that under the new Local Government Code being drafted, barrio captains will collect per diems when they travel on official business. There are some 33,895 barrio captains and 203,280 barrio councilmen in as many barrios throughout the country, Secretary Roño said.

COLLECTION of specific taxes has a good start this fiscal year as an overall increase of 25 per cent was registered with the collection in July, 1973, amounting to P58,354,133.60 as against the collection in July, 1972, of P46,693,288.74 or an increase of P11,660,844.86. This was revealed by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata following receipt of a report from Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera. Specific taxes are collected from domestic cigarettes, alcohol products, gasoline and other oil products, cinematographic films and matches.

August 26—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 277 in order to attain a more realistic allocation of funds for specified irrigation projects and a greater flexibility in the allocation of funds for unlisted yet urgent irrigation projects. PD 277 amends Sec. 1, Annex 1-D of PD No. 3, which appropriates funds for public works involving rehabilitation and capital development, synchronizing the same with previous public work appropriations. PD 277 notes that the amount of P75,700,000 distributed among the various irrigation projects or systems does not realistically jibe with the actual fund requirements of such projects or systems.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the institution of a National Reference Card System for Filipino citizens and foreign nationals, a system essential to insuring national security and affording convenience in the transaction of official business with government and private offices and agencies. The setting up of the National Reference Card System and the creation of the National Registration Coordinating Committee to implement the project are embodied in Presidential Decree No. 278.

THE GOVERNMENT has added another incentive for exports by creating the Philippine Design Center which will see to it that Philippine products meet the needs and tastes of foreign markets. As envisioned, the Center will develop and maintain a creative research program on the design and adaptability of Philippine-made products. The bulk of the Center's work will focus on the produce of cottage and small-and medium-scale industries which now have high market potentials.

August 27—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate increase in the authorized capital-of the National Housing Corporation to enable the government firm to manufacture low-cost housing components and construct low-cost housing units for the ordinary wage-earners. In Letter of Instructions No. 118, the President stated that the increase of capital from P100 million to P250 million of common shares of stocks will enable the NHC to pay its foreign loan obligations which it incurred in acquiring capital assets such as plants and equipment. The President directed the Development Bank of the Philippines, the Philippine National Bank, National Investment and Development Corporation, the Social Security System and the Government Service Insurance System to subscribe and pay for such additional shares of the NHC common stocks to enable the housing firm to meet its existing foreign loan obligations.

DEPARTMENT of Justice has ruled that under the Civil Engineering Law, a corporation could not be organized and registered for the purpose of practicing civil engineering. Acting Secretary Catalino Macaraig Jr. issued this opinion in reply to a query from the chairman of the Board of Examiners for Civil Engineers of the Civil Service Commission. Secretary Macaraig cited Sec. 24 of R.A. 544, as amended by R.A. 1582, and otherwise known as the Civil Engineering Law which read in part: "The practice of Civil Engineering is a professional service, admission to which must be determined upon individual, personal- qualifications. Hence, no firm, partnership, corporation, or association may be Registered or licensed as such for the practice of civil engineering." The justice chief said that the language of the above-quoted provision gives no room for doubt that no juridical person may now practice civil engineering.

CONTINUED surge in the Philippines' external performance increased by P21 million the country's money supply for a total of P7,121 million at the end of July, 1973. Central Bank statistics showed that supply at the end of July 1973 went up contraseasonally by P21 million or 0.3 per cent. The external sector increased money supply by P207 million as foreign transactions realized a surplus of P27 million in July 1973. One factor given by CB monetary experts for the upward movement of money supply was the continued improvement in the performance of the external sector. Also contributing to the increase in money supply was the private sector which pumped in P194 million to the total money stock, principally due to the increase in credits to the private sector which rose by P335 million.

BUREAU of Customs and the Embroidery Apparel Control Inspection Board signed a memorandum of agreement defining the jurisdiction and area of responsibility of the two government agencies in relation to the operation of the multi-million peso embroidery export industry of the country. Undersecretary of Finance and concurrently EACIB Secretary Alfredo Pio de Roda Jr. and Customs Commissar Rolando Geotina inked the agreement during simple ceremonies held at the conference hall of the bureau. The two officials stressed that with the delineation of the areas of responsibilities and jurisdiction, there will be a more effective supervision over some 40 embroidery factories.

August 28—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the creation of a panel of investigators composed of three lawyers, to be appointed by him, upon the recommendation of the director of mines, to investigate and make reports and recommendations concerning conflicting or adverse claims, protest and others involving mining claims, rights, leases or permits. In Letter of Instructions No. 119, the President directed that the hearing of these conflicts shall be conducted within one week after the issues are joined. The investigation shall be summary in nature, to be finished, if possible, in one sitting. The director is ordered to call for all adverse claims to be filed (even in cases now pending) so that the conflict can be decided with binding effect for all.

THE GOVERNMENT'S tax collection drive in foreign countries where Filipinos are residing has garnered some P31.2 million for Fiscal Year 1972-73. Reports reaching the Bureau of Internal Revenue show that the international tax information campaign of the Department of Foreign Affairs explaining to overseas Filipinos the compelling reasons behind the promulgation of Martial Law and the establishment of the New Society has elicited overwhelming response, according to reports from different Philippine consular missions abroad. The reports stated that thousands of Filipinos enthusiastically paid their income tax returns and other taxes to the BIR through the various consulates and embassies within their respective areas.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 280, authorizing the Food and Drug Administrator to order the closure, or suspend or revoke the license, or any drug firm found administratively to have violated laws and regulations governing the sale or dispensation of prohibited drugs and other substances. Presidential Decree No. 280 observes that while the "state wages a relentless campaign against drug addiction," this effort of the Government has met with "frustration" because prohibited drugs, medicines and other substances are still being sold and dispensed with by some drug establishments in violation of Republic Acts Nos. 3720 and 6425, otherwise known as the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and the Dangerous Drugs Act of 1972. Owners of erring firms shall be given opportunity to be heard in the summary administrative investigation.

THE PRESIDENT has given the Philippine Medical Association and its sister organization, the Philippine Medical Women's Association authorizations to conduct fund drives for the continuance of their respective medical projects. Issuing two separate proclamations Nos. 1171 and 1176, the PMA was allotted one year (from September 1, 1973 to August 31, 1974) campaign period, while the PMWA was granted seven months (from September 1, 1973 to March 31, 1974). The President has enjoined all government officials, military personnel, private and public school authorities and students as well as citizens to support the projects.

ANTI-Smuggling Action Center, in coordination with other law enforcement agencies, seized P136,934,572.93 worth of contraband items in Fiscal Year 1972-73. This was reported to Secretary of Finance Cesar E.A. Virata by General Pelagio A. Cruz, Anti-Smuggling Action Center (ASAC) chairman. Topping the list of apprehensions which resulted in the additional assessment of P72,364,946.22 was technical smuggling. Second was the apprehension in the illegal export of logs which amounted to P39,548,200.75.

THE PHILIPPINES' export earnings from fresh bananas during the first seven months of the current year totalled P87.2 million and exceeded by some P22.1 million the total earnings for the same period last, year.

In a report submitted to Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., Plant Industry Director Eliseo C. Carandang said that from January to July this year, the bureau exported 201,675,710 kilos of fresh bananas to Japan worth P87,255,146 and overshot by P22,119,531 the P65,136,615 registered from the same period in 1972. This year's seven-month figure also exceeded the one-half mark of last year's total earnings which was P127,786,489.

August 29—

THE PRESIDENT issued Letter of Instructions No. 120 directing government officials and employees going on official trips abroad to secure, whenever possible, accommodations on Philippine-owned or operated carriers. Main objective behind the directive is to effect savings in foreign exchange and further improve the country's foreign exchange reserves. The Department of Tourism, headed by Secretary Jose D. Aspiras shall, in collaboration with the Central Bank, prescribe the guidelines to carry into effect the purposes and spirit of LOI No. 120.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said that the ultimate aim of the New Society's reform program is the fostering of the impulse to create, which seeks to enhance their capacities and bring to the world goods which, strictly speaking, cannot be possessed by anyone. In a speech delivered before the Rotary Club of Makati at the Sulu Restaurant, the secretary stressed that any system founded on the need of men to acquire and possess is always doomed to perpetual tension and precariousness. Emphasizing that such a system merely posits the need of men to compete with one another, the secretary pointed out that the country needs something "larger and more constructive as a political ideal."

THE COUNTRY'S foreign exchange transactions for the first seven months of 1973 (January to July) registered an overall surplus of $453 million as compared with only $3 million during the same period in 1972. The Central Bank, which reviewed the country's foreign exchange transactions during the first seven months of 1973, attributed this unprecedented improvement to the strong performance in exports and earnings from foreign tourists. During the first seven months of 1973, export receipts totalled $962 million, 54 per cent or $337 million more than in the comparable period a year ago. This improvement is mainly due to improved world prices for the country's major exports. Import payments were only 1.1 per cent or $7 million higher than the previous year's, despite the 24 per cent increase in L/Cs opened.

CUSTOMS Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina appealed for sustained public support and cooperation in the bureau's war against graft and corruption. He said that the stage has been set in the Bureau of Customs for the public to participate actively and decisively in the fight against irregularities in the Government. Commissioner Geotina made the appeal before officers and members of the Finance Executive Institute of the Philippines during its general meeting held at the Hotel Intercontinental in Makati where he was guest of honor and principal speaker. He pointed out that the Bureau's leadership in a short span of 10 months under Martial Law was able to introduce meaningful and substantial changes that had transformed customs into a worthy organization in

SOME 20 million more Filipinos will be benefitted with the expansion of the country's medicare program. Medicare Chairman Pacifico E. Marcos explained in an interview in Tacloban City that the medicare program would be expanded to include those who are not members of the Government Service Insurance System and the Social Security System.

Dr. Marcos said the President has expressed the necessity of presenting the expansion of medicare to the people in a referendum "as this will involve a greater portion of the masses who will be contributing members of the medicare program." Dr. Marcos further explained that under this expansion plan, both contributor and his dependents will avail of the same privileges. The dependents will divide among themselves the 45 hospitalization days allotted for one contributor.

August 30—

THE PRESIDENT created the Pasig River Development Council to oversee the implementation of the Pasig River Development Program, providing the council with the power to administer the Pasig River Development Program Trust Account. Through Presidential Decree No. 281, the executive secretary was designated overall coordinator of the council. He was personally entrusted with the duty to integrate and oversee the functions and activities of both the Government, as represented by the council, and the private sector who shall form a similar counterpart council.

LABOR Secretary Blas F. Ople called on the government bureaucrats to spearhead the peaceful and democratic revolution initiated by the President under Martial Law. Speaking at a seminar of high level executives of the Department of Health, the labor chief said: "It is you on whom the President has relied for assistance in carrying out the democratic revolution that has caught the attention of the world because of its ability to produce results." Secretary Ople pointed out that under Martial Law, the President could have established a new bureaucracy to carry out the goals of the New Society. Instead, he said, the President decided to trust the old bureaucracy, believing it was not beyond reform and that, given proper motivation, it can improve its mediocre performance in the past. The improvement and changes under Martial Law, according to tire labor secretary, have brought about the reformed bureaucracy.

THE PHILIPPINES is moving towards its scheduled change-over from the English and other systems of weights and measures to the almost universally-accepted metric system. To beat the deadline set forth by the President, the Metric System Board headed by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. took steps to expedite and program the work of adopting the metric system in all sectors of the economy. The Secretary set the deadline on September 21, 1973, for the full submission of definitions of basic and complementary units like the meter, kilogram, ampere, second, kelvin, candela, mole and degree. The deadline for the submission of derived units is December 31, 1973.

KULITIS, also known as Philippine spinach, is a wild-growing vegetable crop rich in vitamins A and C, potash and phosphorous. According to food technologists of the Bureau of Plant Industry, kuliti makes an excellent dietary item that promotes good health and vitality. The shoots and leaves of the crop can be eaten as salad, either green or blended with other vegetables. "They taste just as delectable as other vegetable crops," the BPI food technologists said.

President's Week in Review: August 31 - September 6, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 31—

TIHC PRESIDENT has directed the Securities and Exchange Commission to look into the reported practice of corporate officials of asking their stockholders for blanket authority to run the corporation as they wish, a system which sometimes works against the interests of the investors. In a directive to SEC Commissioner Arcadio Yabyabin, the President said that studies should be made for the imposition of ironclad regulations to prevent the investing public from becoming mere rubber stamp of corporate officers. He stressed that he was not for stifling corporate expansion, particularly of mining and other firms but merely impelled by his desire to protect the investing public.

THE PRESIDENT exhorted all barrio captains to continue performing their dual role as “new representatives of the people” as he declared September 21 of every year as “National Thanksgiving Day”—the day he declared Martial Law. The occasion was the induction of the officers of the National Federation of Associations of Barrio Councils during which the members presented a plaque of appreciation to the President for his timely declaration of Martial Law. Acknowledging the pledge of support and loyalty given him by the barrio captains, the President stressed his joint role with them, saying: “We must see to it that the people have an opportunity to express whatever they have, to express, and you are the ones who should tell me exactly what the people say and feel, about how things are being done, about excesses of government officials, if any.”

TOURISM Secretary Jose D. Aspiras issued the clarification that the temporary tax holiday being granted by the Government to overseas Filipinos coming during the Christmas season applies not only to those residing in North America but also those residing in other countries, such as Europe, Japan and Australia. The secretary issued this clarification in response to numerous queries reaching his office as to the extent of the incentive given by the President to participants in “Operation Homecoming.”

PRICE Control Council, acting to ensure adequate supply of lumber and other construction materials in the Manila area, lifted the maximum price ceilings on lumber and adjusted the price for GI sheets. The council, at the same time, issued implementing circular on the new prices of corn grits as promulgated by the President in Letter of Instructions No. 117. The new prices of corn grits as fixed are P0.83 per kilogram bag FOB, Davao City, Dadiangas, Cotabato City and Cagayan de Oro City and P0.91 per kilogram bag FOB, Cebu City. It was also promulgated that white corn grits shall not be used for purposes other than direct human consumption.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Proclamation No. 1173, declaring the period from November 26 to December 2 as National Music Week for Young Artists. The objective is to encourage young artists to excel in music composition and performance and to make Filipino music part of the cultural life of the people. He called on all citizens and associations to join in celebrating the week to instill among the people a greater appreciation of local music.

September 1—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 282 authorizing stock transactions by members of an operating- stock exchange through members of any other operating stock exchange, when necessary, to execute customers' orders. The transaction, according to the decree, should be pursuant to such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed upon between the executing brokers, provided that the customer shall not pay more than the authorized commission, and an appropriate report on the matter is submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission. The SEC is authorized to promulgate such rules as may be necessary to implement the decree, and to impose fines, suspension or revocation of licenses of the guilty party for any violation thereof, as provided under existing laws.

DEPARTMENT of Trade moved to ensure further protection to investors in domestic corporations registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, particularly those with foreign connections. Following up a directive of the President, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. directed SEC Commissioner Arcadio Yabyabin to prepare a list of domestic firms with foreign connections or tie-ups engaged in the securities and investment business. He likewise directed the commission to look into the activities of these firms in the local securities and investment market, particularly with respect to the use of company funds.

THE GOVERNMENT will effect a tight control on alien retailers in the country starting January next year with the promulgation of guidelines governing the implementation of the Retail Trade Nationalization Law. The guidelines are contained in an administrative order signed by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., and concurred in by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata. The order provides that before an alien retailer or manufacturer can be issued internal revenue and municipal licenses, the alien must first present an alien retail clearance certificate (ARCC), or a processor's certificate of authority (PCA), as the case may be. The certificates are to be issued annually by the Secretary of Trade. Applications for the year 1974 may now be filed with the Department of Trade up to September 30, 1973.

VIRUS particles which may be the cause of cadang-cadang disease have been successfully photographed for the first time in the tissues of diseased coconut palms. This was revealed by Bureau of Plant Industry Director Eliseo C. Carandang, who said that the new finding was a result of a long-term research work by the BPI scientists and experts from the United Nations Development Program's Coconut Research and Development Project. Photographs made through electron microscopes at magnifications up to 200,000 times showed rod-shaped viruses in the sap and some of the cells of palms affected with cadang-cadang. Significantly, these same viruses could not be found in healthy materials. The virus rods are similar in shape to those found in a disease of pine trees in Europe, the virologist said.

September 2—

THE PRESIDENT directed the opening for exploration of some 1.2 million hectares of strategic mineral lands. This region is located near the scene of an oil strike in the vicinity of Borneo. The development of the area was assured after the President approved a $15.5 million service contract with a consortium of American-Canadian financiers. The signing of the contract was held in Malacañang. Robert Mosbacher of Mosbacher Philippines Corporation led the group of foreign capitalists who will operate through a joint venture agreement with local firms.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad urged the country's laurels to extend their expertise and services to the less privileged who need decent homes instead of allowing the realty profession to degenerate into a mere pursuit for profits.

In a speech before the Pasay City Realtors Board Inc. at the Hotel Intercontinental, the secretary said that the realtors' attitude should be centered on their fellowmen, defined by an awareness "that they must also share in the opportunities for a full and richer life." Mr. Tatad likewise challenged the realtors to institute the necessary reforms against irregularities imputed against unscrupulous members of the real estate profession.

GREEN Revolution secretariat committee has reported that P145, 098,288.57 worth of GR produce from schools all over the country was sold and consumed by pupils and students for school year 1972-73. Andres B. Fernandez, chairman of the secretariat committee, said the amount represented the total production from the GR projects of 8,957,433 students. GR projects undertaken in schools were classified into leafy and fruit vegetable production, field crops, fruit production, poultry, swine and livestock and fish production.

September 3—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the release of P5 million for the importation of critical raw materials for the use of cottage industries whose products recently have made significant gains by occupying sixth place among the commodity exports of the country. In his Letter of Instructions, the Chief Executive instructed Secretary of Labor Blas F. Ople, chairman of the Cottage Industries Development Council; Budget Commissioner Faustino Sychangco and Administrator Mario Reyes, executive director, Cottage Industries Development Enterprise, to devise ways and means to ensure a steady supply of critical raw materials and minimize the difficulties often encountered in their procurement.

THE PRESIDENT received officials of the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust, who congratulated him for the success of the reform program, particularly in the monetary system. The President told the bank officials that the changes “you are now witnessing have been brought about by forces beyond our control. Martial Law was imposed as a necessity, an act of survival.” The President said the Government is vent on building the New Society with sweeping changes in the economic and social structure, which had become so corrupted it had become impossible to attain the common goals of society. Mr. James Bodine, FPBT president, was also informed about an intensive food production drive, including cattle ranching, which is attracting big foreign ranchers.

DEPARTMENT of Justice issued a ruling that “no additional fee may be collected for fees rendered for purely administrative or ministerial acts not involving the performance of judicial functions of the court.” The opinion, rendered by Acting Secretary of Justice Catalino Macaraig Jr. was in reply to a query relating to the collection by registers of deeds of an additional fee of one per cent of registration fees for the UP Law Center. Mr. Macaraig Jr., on his part, requested the Commissioner of Land Registration to give appropriate instructions to registers of deeds that additional fees for the Center should be collected only whenever filing fees, as such, are imposed by law or regulation.

DEPARTMENT of Health has created a committee to study the harmful and hazardous effects of smoking on the health of the people. The group was named “Committee on the III Effects of Smoking.” It is composed of well known medical practitioners and specialists in different fields from both the Government and private sectors. The committee, which is instructed to submit its initial report shortly, shall undertake the following functions: 1) To study and compile data on the ill effects of cigarette smoking on human beings; and 2) To recommend measures on how the Department of Health can effectively combat these hazards of cigarette smoking.

September 4—

THE PRESIDENT reiterated his proposal for the establishment of an Asian Forum where the heads of Asian countries, regardless of ideologies, may sit down and discuss their common problems. The President renewed his proposal during the visit of Senator Takuji Kuribayashi of the Democratic Socialist Party of Japan, who is in Manila on the last leg of an observation tour of Southeast Asian countries. The President said the Asian countries have taken a common stand on such issues as rubber production, sugar, the GATT meetings and security matters. He said the African states have a forum, so do the American states and the Europeans, while Asia has only the ASEAN, the Asia and Pacific Council, and the ECAFE.

THE PRESIDENT has observed that Filipinos are beginning to “discover” their own country and are competing with foreigners in the scramble for hotel accommodations and other tourist facilities all over the Philippines. The President made this observation during the call of another group of Japanese business executives who are here to survey investments possibilities. Dr. Kiyotsura Yoshida, president of Nihon Kaihatsu Co. Ltd. of Tokyo, predicted that more and more Japanese tourists would be flocking to the Philippines because of its fine beaches and tropical climate, and its proximity to Japan.

THE FIRST LADY was conferred the degree of Doctor of Humanities (L.H.D.) honoris causa, by the Philippine Normal College for her “rare gift of leadership.” The conferment ceremonies were held at the College Auditorium before dignitaries and members of the diplomatic corps, heads of foundations, professional and cultural organizations and president of colleges and universities.

DEPARTMENT of Justice has ruled that the provincial or city fiscal, not the provincial attorney or city legal officer, should represent the register of deeds in court cases where he is a party. Acting Justice Secretary Catalino Macaraig Jr. issued this opinion in reply, to a request from the register of deeds of Butuan City which was forwarded by the Land Registration Commissioner. Secretary Macaraig pointed out that under Sec. 19 of the Decentralization Act, the functions previously per formed by the provincial or city fiscals were transferred to the provincial attorney and city legal officer, respectively. He explained that registers of “deeds are national officials under the direct supervision and control of the Land Registration Commission and consequently they are not in the service of the cities, provinces and municipalities. He added that hence, it cannot be said that the duty to represent the register of deeds in such cases is among those transferred from the provincial or city fiscal to the provincial attorney or city legal officer pursuant to Sec. 19 of the Decentralization Act.

DEPARTMENT of Health took further steps to get directly involved in the implementation of the Medical Care Act of 1969. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan ordered the 11 regional health directors to direct the personnel of rural health units in the difficult and depressed areas to undertake the immediate operation of community hospitals and health centers already established in their respective areas. The operation of community hospitals and health centers by personnel of rural health units in these areas is only on a temporary basis until the appointment of physicians and other necessary personnel by the Medical Care Commission to regularly operate them, health authorities said. The health secretary said that the establishment of community hospitals and health centers in the difficult and depressed areas is a joint project of the Philippine Medical Care Commission and the Department of Health.

DEPARTMENT of Trade ordered all tanneries to submit their monthly production statistics and the shoe manufacturers their monthly leather requirements. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. required the submission of these reports to determine the actual requirements of the local shoe industry so as to allow the exportation of the excess production. At the same time, Mr. Quiazon requested the Central Bank to prohibit the exportation of rawhide and leather without the necessary clearance from the DT. Mr. Quiazon banned the exportation of these items following a meeting with representatives of the local tannery association, rawhide, skin and leather exporters, the shoe manufacturers and the Marikina Shoe Commission.

September 5—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the compulsory licensing or reprinting of educational, scientific or cultural books and other reading materials as an emergency measure whenever the prices of these materials become so exorbitant as to be detrimental to the national interest. The Chief Executive, in Presidential Decree No. 285, noted that the rising prices of these reading materials have reached serious proportions, hence the necessity of the licensing authority as a matter of national interest and to make them available at cheaper cost. To immediately implement the decree, the President created a committee to determine whether the sale prices of these reading materials are so exorbitant to warrant their reproduction. The committee is composed of the secretary of education and culture, the director general of the National Economic and Development Authority and the chairman of the Media Advisory Council.

EFFECTIVE September 1, overseas Filipinos returning to the Philippines under "Operations Homecoming" will not be asked by the Bureau of Internal Revenue if they had complied with their tax obligations such as the filing of income tax returns. Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera has directed all revenue officers in the Philippines and revenue attaches abroad that returning Filipinos should not: 1) Be required to file income tax returns during the Homecoming period up to February 28, 1973; and 2) Be investigated for any tax liability during the period. Under the tax holiday granted by the Government, any Filipino may leave the Philippines without the necessity of any tax clearance from the BIR.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad asked the government personnel within the bureaucracy to transform themselves into a big moral force to lead all other sectors of the community in pushing the reforms of the New Society. The secretary echoed recent observations made by the President on some backsliding to the practices of the old society both in the public and private sectors. Secretary Tatad, speaking at the symposium on the "Role of the Government Employees in the New Society," before officials and employees of the Central Bank, said that signs of corruption have begun to reappear in certain areas of society "It is a reversion to the same old sickness that made our society so corrupt . . . and the discipline must be strengthened to combat this reversion to the old vices," the secretary said. However, he stressed that his discipline must be supported by a re-orientation, a re-education in the lower ranks of the bureaucracy and among the population so that "they do not seek for themselves favors and special treatment meant only for a few." The secretary concluded that the nation is founded on the strength of its people and .a people can only be strong if their values are intact and free from the sickness that made Martial Law a necessity.

LAND Transportation Commission reported a record collection of P137.7 million for Fiscal Year 1972-73, the highest since 1912 when the office or its equivalent was created. LTC Commissioner Romeo Edu said the 1972-73 collection also topped the collection in the previous fiscal year by P16.5 million. He attributed the increase in collections to the: 1) Increased number of motor vehicles; 2) Payment of registration fees of some 20,000 motor vehicles privately owned by US military personnel in the country; 3) The imposition of Martial Law by the President, prompting owners of hot cars to pay the corresponding taxes due; 4) Mechanization of the cashiers operations which has prevented the tampering and manipulation of receipts; and 5) Installation in 1969 by the LTC of its own plate-making plant, saving the Government some P600,000 every year.

September 6—

THE PRESIDENT warned that the problem of rapid population growth looms large on the country's horizon and unless all sectors of society respond this time to curb this trend, the result will be a deterioration in the equality of human life arising from the failure of the country's socio-political institutions to provide enough essentials of life. In a speech read for him by Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo at the 8th Biennial Conference of UNESCO at the Philamlife Auditorium, the President said that if the population continues to grow at the present rate, there will be "89 million Filipinos crowding the Philippines by the turn of century." The President said that the first major move of the government toward the solution of the population problem was the creation of the Commission on Population in 1969. The Commission has since conducted studies and provided initiatives and guidance in establishment of policies or program that would curb high population growth, according to the President.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the purchase of petroleum drilling and other mining equipment for utilization by small legitimate mining firms that cannot afford the prohibitive cost of such equipment. The President's move will hasten the exploitation and development of the country's mineral resources at a cost of P3 million. Only the mining companies, with confirmed mineral reserves of commercial values and are able to operate such reserves financially, can avail of these equipment through the Bureau of Mines.

THE PRESIDENT told the group from the National Defense College of India that the changes and reforms since the imposition of Martial Law almost a year ago have already brought about salutary affects in the country. The President said that in accordance with the reform program, the Philippines seeks to remove the roots of discontent and grievances which had caused rebellion. "We are engaged in revolutionary change which will alter the entire structure of society, economic, social and political," the President told the visiting group. The President said that the foreign policy of the country has not changed, although it has to be re-examined in order to conform to the revolutionary changes being made.

THE PRESIDENT exhorted the Government's more than 3,000 rice production technicians to make sure that rice farmers who availed of Masagana 99 production loans settled their obligations come harvest time. He issued the appeal after being briefed by Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. that some 500,000 hectares of rice land—only 100,000 short of the government' target—has been planted to rice as of August 31, with two months remaining in the planning calendar. The President said it's up now to the technicians to watch the harvest and see to it that the farmers do not renege on their financial commitments to the Government.

Official Week in Review: September 7 – September 13, 1973

September 7—

THE PRESIDENT increased the membership of the Court of Appeals to one presiding justice and 35 associate justices. The President's move was contained in Presidential Decree No. 289, amending Section 24 of the Judiciary Act. Before amendment of the Act, the appellate tribunal consisted of one presiding justice and 18 associate justices. They were all appointed by the President. Under the decree, the presiding justice, who shall be so designated in his commission and the associate justices shall have precedence according to the dates of their respective commissions, and when the commissions of two or more of them shall bear the same date, their precedence shall be according to the order in which their commissions have been issued by the President. The Court of Appeals shall, as a body seat en banc but it may seat in 12 divisions of three justices each. The 12 divisions may seat at the same time.

THE GOVERNMENT took another move to woo foreign tourists into the country by considering the feasibility of reducing by half amusement tax rates for tourist-oriented establishments. In a directive, the President ordered Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata to look into the feasibility of reducing the amusement tax from 20 per cent to its old rate of 10 per cent for all these establishments duly approved and licensed by the Department of Tourism. At the same time, he ordered the Central Bank to re-examine all policies that have restricted and impeded growth of the hotel and restaurant industry. In a speech read for him by Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras at the opening of the 4th national convention of the Hotel and Restaurant Association of the Philippines, the President signified his intention "to remove all barriers that hinder our country's tourism development, in recognition of its tremendous contribution to the economy."

THE PRESIDENT provided P20 million for the Department of Agrarian Reform to finance the immediate acquisition of 3,000 hand tractors to hasten the pace of Masagana 99 projects and the Palayan ng Bayan through extensive farm mechanization. The P20 million is part of a six-year mechanized program for increased agricultural production. As authorized by Presidential Decree No. 287, a total outlay of P140 million was appropriated to meet the annual purchase of 5,000 hand tractors for six years.

BUREAU of Customs made a record collection of over P564 million for first two months of Fiscal Year 1973-74, indicating that the P3 billion target for the year will be surpassed. This was the report made to the President by Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina, who said that the two months collection exceeded the estimated P423,766,000 by P140,254,426 or 33.09 per cent. Commissioner Geotina attributed the increased collection to much-improved procedures, the high morale and new spirit of discipline, integrity and dedication of customs-men under the New Society.

NEW CONSTITUTION lowering the voting age to 18 has not impliedly lowered from 21 to 18 the age at which a person may have the legal capacity to engage in business pursuant to Article 4 of the Code of Commerce. Teachers whose appointments are under consideration and whose oaths of office have been administered by the school administrative officials are entitled to their salaries. Acting Justice Secretary Catalino Macaraeg Jr. penned these resolving opinions in answer to queries from the Director of Commerce and the Secretary of Education and Culture. In case of age question, Secretary Macaraeg said that the constitutional provision refers to the exercise of the right of suffrage, a political right, by citizens 18 years of age or over. Whereas the Code of Commerce enumerates the qualifications in order that a person may have the legal capacity to habitually engage in commerce, among them, that of having reached the age of 21, he said. "As the two rights are totally distinct from each other, I fail to see how the lowering of the age for the exercise of one could effect the age limit fixed by law for the exercise of the other" Secretary Macaraeg explained.

September 8—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the integration of the country's over 1,500 police forces into one single organization, the National Police Force, as provided by the Constitution. In his address on the occasion of Police Day and the 7th anniversary of the National Police Commission in Fort Bonifacio, Taguig, Rizal, the President said the integration, of the country's police forces into a single organization is necessary in order to rectify the weaknesses of the present police system. The President directed the chairman of the National Police Commission, the chief of the Philippine Constabulary and the director of the National Bureau of Investigation to prepare and submit plans for the police integration so that it can be implemented within one year.

THE GOVERNMENT ensured mobility for Filipino businessmen, who moved in and out of the country, by installing a multiple, visa and tax clearance system. The President directed that such visas and tax clearances for exit and entry would be good for six months or even a year. This concession, intended to spur investments, would favor two sets of businessmen, namely: 1) Filipino nationals working with multi-national companies operating in the Philippines; 2) Filipino businessmen whose activities make it necessary to move in and out of the country. However to prevent abuse of the privilege, those applying for multiple visas and tax clearances, are required to present appropriate certifications. This should show that the nature of their business make it necessary for them to travel in and out of the country. The Presidential directive was addressed to the secretaries of national defense, foreign affairs, and finance and the commissioner of immigration.

THE PRESIDENT created the "Tobacco Industry Promotion and Market Stabilization Fund," to revitalize the native tobacco industry through the Philippine Tobacco Administration. The President signed Presidential Decree No. 288, which allocates a special fund from the proceeds of special taxes collected on tobacco products manufactured out of cigar filler and wrapper leaf tobacco. The decree also provides that this special fund shall be made available as follows: Fifteen million pesos for fiscal year 1973-74, and thereafter, an annual appropriation of P15 million for a period of five years up to June 30, 1978. Thereafter, the amount of P6 million is appropriated annually to carry out the purposes indicated until otherwise provided for by law.

September 9—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 283 authorizing the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office to hold a lottery draw on March 11, 1974, and every year thereafter, exclusively to finance the domiciliary service of the Philippine Tuberculosis Society Inc. The decree notes that the great efforts being undertaken to control tuberculosis through the medium of institutional care have not reached the majority of infectious tuberculosis cases scattered throughout the country. To overcome these shortcomings, the PTS has intensified its domiciliary service which brings free medical, social and educational services to the homes of bed-ridden indigent patients including BCG vaccinations and tuberculin testing of contacts, especially the children, as a preventive measure. Presidential Decree No. 283 amends Republic Act No. 1169 entitled "An Act Providing for Charity Sweepstakes Horse Races and Lotteries."

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 111-A, which details an organization that shall most effectively and economically carry out the powers and functions of the Commission on Audit. PD 111-A supplements PD 111, dated January 26, 1973. This earlier decree declares that the three-man Commission on Audit created in the new Constitution is now in existence, and authorizes the General Auditing Office to serve as its nucleus. The organization of the Commission on Audit, as described in PD 111-A, follows: The Commission on Audit shall consist of the Commission Proper to be constituted pursuant to Sec. 1, Article XII-D, of the new Constitution; and Administrative Service; a Legal Service; and Accountancy Service; a Systems and Training Service; a Program Audit Service; three National Government Audit Offices; a Local Government Audit Office, and a Corporate Audit Office.

ANNUAL observance of Education Week begins today. The theme of this year's celebration is "The Filipino in the New Society." Secretary of Education and Culture Juan L. Manuel has issued a memorandum directing school heads to hold activities and give lessons which would "seek to clarify the new role of the Filipino citizen" in the present society and emphasize the privileges and social benefits he now enjoys.

September 10—

THE PRESIDENT called for fresh dedication to the goals of the New Society and warned anew against complacency and backsliding which could wash out the gains achieved since last year. He sounded the call on the eve of his birthday, during the testimonial parade given in his honor by the Armed Forces of the Philippines at Camp

Aguinaldo, Quezon City. The traditional parade is given by the Armed Forces to the President as their Commander-in-Chief in connection with the celebration of his birthday. Speaking for the military, General Romeo Espino, AFP chief of staff, pledged to the President "our fullest measure of dedication and loyalty, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." The President in return thanked the AFP for its manifestation of loyalty to the Republic.

RUSSIAN trade and oil exploration mission signified keen interests in assisting the Philippine oil exploration program and expanding the current trade relations between the two countries. N. P. Shirjaev, head of the eight-man economic mission, said in a conference with Director-General Gerardo P. Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority that the aim of the mission in the country is to foster closer economic cooperation between the Soviet Union and the Philippines, "based on the principle of reciprocity and mutual benefit for the two nations." The Russian Mission is divided into an oil exploration and trade team, composed of oil exploration experts and officials of the Russian Ministry of Foreign Trade.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady led the people in paying their last respects to Rufino J. Cardinal Santos who was interred at the Manila Cathedral crypt in Intramuros at high noon.

The First Couple participated at the funeral rites requiem Mass officiated at the main altar by Julio Cardinal Rosales of Cebu, the only remaining Filipino prince of the Catholic Church and concelebrated by other ranking members of the Catholic hierarchy. The body lowered into its final resting place at 12 noon amid the sounding of taps and the booming of an 11-gun salute.

DEPARTMENT of Health has dispatched a team of 14 health officials and employees to Mansalay, Oriental Mindoro, to render medical and health services to a cultural community group of 8,000 Mangyans. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan said that the health mission to the hinterlands of Mansalay in Oriental Mindoro was the result of representations made by the president of the Philippine Public Health Association and director of the Bureau of Quarantine of the Department of Health. The Mangyans who are the object of the health mission live far from the health facilities provided in Mansalay and therefore their health needs have to be attended to at least in a special way, the health secretary said.

September 11—

THE PRESIDENT directed Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo to finalize negotiations for the opening of diplomatic relations with four communist countries in Eastern Europe—Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland and Hungary. Secretary Romulo was also told by the President to ask Philippine chiefs of missions in African and Middle East countries to act in concurrent capacities in nearby countries where the Philippines has no diplomatic mission.

THE PRESIDENT announced the creation of the Department of Industry primarily to push through the development of small and medium-sized industries. The head of the new department is Chairman Vicente Paterno of the Board of Investments.

SOME 600 infrastructure projects and other undertakings have either been started or inaugurated in different cities, municipalities and barrios throughout the country as gift to the President. The projects included emergency hospitals, multi-purpose and feeding centers, irrigation system and assorted public works projects. The project costs ranged from as high as P3 million to as low as P2,000. Among the biggest undertakings is P3-million manpower training center at Iligan City. The other places which have the most number of projects and undertakings inaugurated were in Nalbagan, Negros Occidental—29, Cotabato—17, Capiz—15, Baguio City—14, Dagupan City—13, Pangasinan—13, Cabanatuan City—12 and Legaspi City—11. Most of the projects were self-help undertakings which were completed as joint efforts between the people and the government.

THE PRESIDENT announced that the Philippines is ready to set up a two-million-ton integrated iron and steel plant, a key step that will place the country in the rank of industrialized nations. The plant is estimated to cost $800 million. The project was revealed in a speech of the President read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. before the eight-nation Southeast Asia Iron and Steel Institute at the Hyatt Regency Hotel. The President invited member countries of the institute to share the facility should they be needing semi finished steel until the appropriate time that they can set up their own steel-producing facilities. He said that countries outside of the region are welcome to invest in the venture.

GOVERNMENT'S agrarian reform and agricultural production programs got a big boost with the signing of a P50-million Belgian franc ($1.5 million) loan agreement between the Philippines and Belgium. The loan agreement was signed by Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo and Belgian Ambassador J. L. Lebacqz at the Department of Foreign Affairs. Although the agreement did not specify the purpose of the loan, the recipient Philippine government intends to utilize the proceeds of the loan in the implementation of various development programs in the New Society, particularly in the fields of agrarian reform and agricultural production.

September 12—

THE PRESIDENT has appropriated the total amount of P406.88 million for the rehabilitation and development of Mindanao tagged as one of the more urgent and priority goals of the government. The amount, appropriated under Presidential Decree No. 290, include the following; Rehabilitation, P25,071,000; institutional building of local government, P1,007,000; food production, P3,096,000; health, P22,063,000; education and manpower, P33,052,000; and infrastructure, P320 million. The Chief Executive stressed that the policy of the Government to promote and accelerate growth and development of Mindanao is one of the more urgent and priority goals.

THE PRESIDENT lauded the country's colleges and universities for their services in the education of the youth. Addressing the heads of public and private colleges and universities, the President said that the Philippines has the second highest percentage of college students in relation to its population. This was due, he said, to the joint efforts of the private and public sectors, with the former assuming the greater bulk of educating the youth. The President was presented with a bronze bust by President Salvador P. Lopez of the University of the Philippines as the State University's "most outstanding and distinguished son."

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission advised Medicare members who are away from home to provide their families with the necessary papers for hospital admission as Medicare beneficiaries. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman said that there are reports that Medicare legal dependents who do not have the necessary documentations are encountering difficulties in seeking hospital admissions as Medicare patients. Dr. Marcos said that the Medicare member whose legal dependents do not live with him should always provide the latter with the following: 1) A duly accomplished Employer's Medicare Contribution Certification and Member's Authorization which are Parts I and II of PMCC Form No. 1; 2) A duly validated information for Medicare membership if the employee is a GSIS member or SSS Form E-1 if the employee is an SSS member; 3) A duly accomplished affidavit that the wife or husband is not an employee or annuitant and therefore a legal dependent; and 4) A duly accomplished affidavit that the parent is wholly dependent for support from the Medicare member who may be a son or a daughter and that the parents' other children are not supporting him.

THE PRESIDENT called upon all boy scouts and scouters to carry on in the highest tradition of good scouting, the current efforts of the Filipino to build a progressive and prosperous New Society. In a speech read for him by Secretary of Defense Juan Ponce Enrile during the cornerstone-laying ceremonies for the million-peso annex building of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines in Ermita, Manila, the Chief Executive noted that the BSP has participated in many development programs of the Government, including food production, tree-planting and reforestation, community beautification and sanitation campaigns, and anti-narcotics drive.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism announced that the foreign tourist arrivals for the month of August totaled 19,793 representing an increase of 59 per cent compared with August of last year. Japanese arrivals increased by a record-breaking 118.8 per cent from 2,455 in August last year to 5,299 last month. British arrivals registered an increase of 89.5 per cent. Australian tourists were up by 36.8 per cent from 837 in August 1972 to 1,145 last August. Americans increased by 23 per cent from 4,067 to 5,033. Tourism Secretary Jose D. THE PRESIDENT created a special committee on rice procurement to monitor and control effectively pricing and procurement activities of government entities and the private sector for the coming Masagana 99 produce and other future crops. In a letter of instructions, the Chief Executive designated the secretary of agriculture and natural resources as chairman of the special committee, with the undersecretary of national defense, the commissioner of customs, the administrator of the National Grains Authority and the president of the Philippine National Bank, as members.

September 13—

THE PRESIDENT has formed a special committee to conduct a study on how to cut down the use of electric power in all public buildings and public entities. The Presidential committee is composed of the secretaries of national defense, public works, transportation and communications and of local government and community development. The committee was directed by the Chief Executive to study how public buildings and government agencies could cut down on their power consumption particularly for lighting purposes by at least 10 per cent.

THE GOVERNMENT gave official recognition to Muslim holidays when the President decreed that such holidays shall be officially observed in all Muslim areas. Under Presidential Decree No. 291 the following shall henceforth be recognized as Muslim holidays: 1) Sid-Ul-Adha (Hariraya/Hadji) which falls on the tenth, day of the 12th lunar month of Sull-haj; 2) Muharram (ashura) which falls on the 10th day of the first lunar month Muharam; 3) Hid-Ul-Fitr which falls on the first day of the 10th lunar month of Showwnl; and 4) Maulod-En-Nadi (prophet's birthday) which falls on the 12th day of the third lunar month of Rabbi-Awwal. The action of the President, the latest in a series of official decrees promulgated to rehabilitate and develop the Muslims regions and accelerate Muslim integration into the streams of national life would enable Muslim Filipinos to observe their holidays which is equally observed by Muslims all over the world.

FOREIGN Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo called on all Asian nations to join the Asian Forum which, in the words of the President, "will put back into Asian hands the future of Asia and lessen the danger that we shall again be a plaything of the gods." Secretary Romulo made the appeal in a luncheon meeting given in his honor by H. E. Gough Whitlam, Prime Minister of Australia at the Parliament House. Addressing the top Australian state officials, Secretary Romulo said: "Now that we and other countries of Southeast Asia and the Southwestern Pacific face an uncertain future, there is every reason why we must get together in our planning rooms to build a new structure of relationship to symbolize, and translate into action, our common aspirations for the prosperity and the peace of our region."

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of P3.75 million for prawn and shrimp development project in Iloilo, which promises not only to provide the country with its biggest dollar earner but will also make it the center of prawn and shrimp production in Asia. Upon the President's instruction, Agriculture Secretary Arturo Tanco Jr. turned over the amount, representing initial contributions of the Philippines and Japan, to the Mindanao State University, which is supervising the project. The contributions represented P1.7 million from the National Grains Authority, as proceeds of the Japanese-donated rice; P1.5 million from the MSU; P500,000 from the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources; and P50,000 from the Bureau of Fisheries.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

September 14—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Special Committee on Rice Procurement to increase the price support from P30 per cavan of 50 kilos to P35 in anticipation of the Masagana 99 harvest. In issuing the directive, contained in Letter of Instructions No. 129 addressed to the secretary of agriculture and natural resources, the administrator of the National Grains Authority and the secretary of national defense, the President took into account the impending Masagana 99 harvest and the need to support farm prices at a level that will enable farmers to make profit. The President authorized the committee to call for the full cooperation of all government agencies concerned, all sectors of the grain industry, shipping and transportation companies, and all other government and private entities which could lend assistance to the rice procurement program.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., exhorted the business sector to channel some of its resources in the search for alternatives that will bring down the cost of manufactured products. Speaking before members of the Makati Rotary Club, the trade secretary stressed the importance of research and development in industry in relation to price stabilization. Stressing that the task of price stabilization of basic commodities should not be of the Government alone, Secretary Quiazon said the industrial and trade sectors should involve themselves, in the effort “not just a gesture of cooperation with the Government but as an effort at self-interests.”

THE PRESIDENT moved to formalize trade relations at the earliest possible time with the Union Soviet Socialist Republic (USSR), particularly in view of the current oil crisis. In accelerating the formalization of the RP-USSR trade relations, the President ordered a study of all possible obstacles in the forthcoming relations and their possible remedies. The President issued the directive to Executive Secretary-Alejandro Melchor Jr. during the courtesy call made by the combined-Russian trade and oil exploration missions headed by V. N. Yakubenck, representing the USSR state committee for external economic relations and N. P. Shirjaev, head of the department of trade with Asian countries. In receiving the Russian mission, the President said, “I am certain this is the beginning of close relations that should exist between our two countries on matters of trade and mutual help.”

AGGRIEVED taxpayers may now file formal protests against local tax ordinances. Acting Secretary of Finance Alfredo Pio de Roda Jr. said this new government policy is one of the main features of the Local Tax Code promulgated into law by Presidential Decree No. 231. In all cases, a formal protest may be filed within 120 days after the approval of the tax ordinance of any local government or after the date of its initial implementation. The secretary of finance shall have 60 days after receipt of the protest to decide the case. The formal protest supported by a certified copy of the ordinance being questioned shall be forwarded by the provincial or city treasurer as the case may be to the secretary of finance 15 days from the date of his receipt thereof together with the action he or the provincial or city fiscal may have taken thereon.

TOURISM Secretary Jose D. Aspiras told leaders of the travel industry in Asia that the Philippines has become one of the strongest assets of tourism in the Pacific area. Mr. Aspiras keynoted the opening in Hongkong of a meeting of the Asian regional chapters of the Pacific Area Travel Association (PATA), a promotional instrumentality of countries in the Pacific basin. Mr. Aspiras told the convention that 12 months after the imposition of Martial Law, the Philippines has become one of the most attractive destinations in the Pacific and improved its capability of involvement in regional and international tourism. What used to be one of the weakest links in the Pacific chain of travel destinations has become one of the strongest contributors to the growth of tourism in the area, the tourism secretary said referring to the Philippines. The meeting was attended by heads of tourism offices in Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Hongkong, Macao, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and Indonesia.

September 15—

THE PRESIDENT has exempted the Aquaculture Department of the Southeast Asian Fisheries Development Center (SEAFDEC), located in Iloilo province from the payment of gift, franchise, specific, percentage, real property and all other taxes, duties and fees provided under existing laws, decrees and ordinances. According to Presidential Decree No. 292, this exemption shall extend to goods imported and owned by the Aquaculture Department and to goods brought in or imported for the personal use of foreign personnel whose services are paid by the Aquaculture Department.

DEPARTMENT of Trade is embarking on an intensified export promotion program designed to project the country's new export products and maintain the foothold of traditional exports in the international market. In accordance with this new program, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. directed all commercial attaches to submit a list of Philippine experts which have the most potential in their areas of assignment.

DEPARTMENT of Trade approved the application for the exportation of 30,000 kilos of buri fiber to Hongkong. This brings the country's total export of the commodity of 33,000 kilos since the promulgation of Presidential Decree No. 180 which relaxes the ban on the exportation of buri fibers provided under Republic Act No. 4666 and authorizes the trade secretary as the duly authorized representative of the President "to grant prior authorization to export buntal fibers." In approving the export application, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. stressed that applications for exportation will be approved provided the guidelines are followed.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development Is launching a pre-service training program for the recruitment of field workers who will serve in the barrios. The recruitment of more field-men will fill the agency's urgent needs as it goes full blast in implementing the three-pronged program of the department in cooperative development, community development and local government, according to Secretary Jose Roño. The training of field workers before hiring them makes the department's recruitment system unique and more professional-like.

September 16—

THE PRESIDENT issued guidelines aimed at ensuring uniformity in the tax treatment of consultants contracted by the Philippine Government, its agencies, entities and instrumentalities in connection with projects financed with foreign loans. The guidelines are in addition to those already observed in the review and approval of projects proposed for foreign financing. The President ordered the secretary of finance and the director general of the National Economic and Development Authority to observe the guidelines he had set in Letter of Instructions No. 128.

DEFENSE Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile warned anew that he will not hesitate to recommend to the President the immediate replacement of municipal officials who are found to be sliding back to the malpractices of public servants in the old society. He said that the military's drive against these erring and abusive officials will be conducted without letup and that proper disciplinary measures will be instituted to the extent that they are not performing their jobs and are harassing their constituents. Secretary Enrile said that the Government is interested in preserving the permanence and durability of the reforms so far achieved under the New Society and it will be harsh with those who would seek to undermine these gains.

DEPARTMENT of Public Works, Transportation and Communications has done more to push infrastructure projects in 10 months of Martial Law than the two years before the New Society. In a report to the President, the department said that 25.6 per cent of its infrastructure project was accomplished during the first 10 months under review. According to the department report, the declaration of Martial Law accelerated the progress of the infrastructure program because politicking, bureaucratic red tape and incompetent field workers were removed. Other projects which made considerable progress during the period under review were: highways, by 14.7 per cent; power, 5.7 per cent; and irrigation, 2.9 per cent.

September 17—

THE PRESIDENT urged local historians to spearhead a nationwide effort to trace the ancient origin of the Filipino race as he deplored the lack of historical writing on the subject. Meeting the members of the National Historical Commission headed by Esteban de Ocampo, the President asked the historians to concentrate on researches and studies on the earlier migrations before the three-waves that came from Malaya. He also asked them to trace the origin of the Filipino alphabet. The President challenged the younger generation of historians to write long and sustained observations of historical events.

THE PRESIDENT has directed the postmaster general to issue a stamp in honor of the great Filipino hero, Sultan Mohammad Dipatuan Kudarat. The President's Letter of Instructions No. 126 directs that the stamp, which shall bear the facsimile of the medallion of the ancient Order of Sultan Kudarat, shall be made available within Fiscal Year 1973-74. The stamp is in recognition of the Muslims' contributions to Philippine nationhood, particularly to the struggles, in which Sultan Kudarat featured during his lifetime, against foreign domination for 400 years.

BUREAU of Forest Development underscored the urgent need for the conservation of the remaining forest cover to maintain better quality environment. Forestry Director Jose Viado explained that forest can tribute much to the production of oxygen which makes the people feel comfortable and at the same time, consume much carbon dioxide found in the air that is harmful to human existence. The forestry official also said about 10 per cent of the solar energy reaching the planet earth is necessary to vaporize water from the surface of plants.

September 18—

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree converting the National Social Action Council (NASAC) into a corporation and providing government assistance to the organization to enable it to participate more effectively in nation-building. The President signed Presidential Decree No. 294 in the presence of NASAC delegation who called at Malacañang headed by Bishop Mariano Gaviola, NASAC chairman. The President said that in pursuit of their respective developmental program, the Government, ecumenical faith and the private sector realize the need of collaboration and cooperation.

PERFORMANCE—as much as seniority—will be a basis for advancement in the new civil service. Secretary of Labor Blas F. Ople emphasized this as he reiterated the Government policy that the new civil service will not shield nor protect incompetent and corrupt government personnel. Addressing the Civil Service Commissions's convocation that capped the 1973 Civil Service Week, Secretary Ople warned that a second “purge” of government personnel may be necessary to carry out the President's directive to arrest backsliding in the public service. Secretary Ople said the main thrust of the civil service reforms is to bring about a rapid and thorough-going professionalization of the public service.

THE PRESIDENT issued Proclamation No. 1185 declaring September 21 a special public holiday. The day, which is the first anniversary of the declaration of Martial Law, had been proclaimed earlier by the Chief Executive as National Thanksgiving Day. . The proclamation notes that Martial Law declared under the authority of the Constitution to restore peace and order in the country has provided the opportunity as well as the means among the people the will to build the New Society which would reflect their greatest aspirations.

THE GOVERNMENT is intensifying the campaign to establish a more efficient dental health service because of the “terrible attrition that diseases of the tooth are wreaking on the health and vitality of the people.” This was revealed by Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad as he expounded on the Government's efforts to improve the country's dental services before the Manila Dental Association. Secretary Tatad explained that the heart of the Government's intensified campaign includes dental public health, the science of preventing and controlling dental diseases; preventive services, consisting of measures that are initiated before any clinical signs of symptoms of dental diseases appear; and health promotion, the application of measures that contribute to the protection of the community's total health.

September 19—

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the Foundation for Youth Development in the Philippines, Inc., to conduct its first national education and fund campaign from September 8 to December 31, 1973. He signed Proclamation No. 1182 which calls upon "all government officials, military personnel, public and private school authorities and students, and those citizens and residents of the Philippines, regardless of nationality or creed," to give generously to the foundation so as to raise the youth's productive power and enhance their usefulness as citizens and community members.

STERILIZATION of both sexes by tubal ligation and vasectomy are acceptable methods of contraception as long as the subject's consent is given intelligently. As such, sterilization cannot be considered as mutilation within the contemplation of Art. 262 of the Revised Penal Code. This was the opinion by Secretary of Justice Vicente Abad Santos in reply to a query submitted by the executive director of the Commission on Population. He further pointed out that the purpose of surgical sterilization is not transplantation but family planning and population control, motives which are not contrary to law or public policy.

THE FIRST LADY gave the go signal to put up a $60-million medical center complex that will provide services to some five million persons in Metropolitan Manila. To be named the Philippine Medical Center, UP, the building complex will rise on a 50-hectare site in Diliman and will be affiliated with the University of the Philippines. The medical center will house the Philippine Health Sciences complex which is dedicated to improving health conditions in the country.

DR. PACIFICO E. Marcos, chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission said that improvements on health and medical care delivery call for more doctors and nurses in the rural areas. He appealed to members of these professions to voluntarily heed the demand for their services. He said they should not wait for impositions by the people for their needed services. Dr. Marcos was the keynote speaker at the 10th anniversary of the Academy of Nursing of the Philippines held at the Philamlife open pavilion. The anniversary theme was "Delivery of Health Care Services in the New Society." Dr. Marcos said that doctors and nurses should no longer fear of "remaining in the mire for life when they are assigned in rural areas. A system of promotion for government doctors and nurses is being evolved so that a physician and a nurse would be assured of chances for better assignment and professional advancement, he explained.

PHILIPPINE exports to the United Kingdom performed creditably during the past fiscal year, reducing the trade gap that has characterized trade with the country over the years. At the close of Fiscal Year 1972-73, according to Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., Philippine exports to the UK showed a growth of about 15 per cent over the figures for the previous fiscal year. In terms of values, Philippine exports went up from FOB $3,360,140 to $15,457,230.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 299, making the barrio captain and the barangay chairman persons in authority, and the barrio councilmen, barrio policemen and barangay leader and any person who come to the aid of persons in authority as an agent of a person in authority. The decree amends Article 152 of Act 3815 (Revised Penal Code) which defines those who are persons in authority and agents of a person in authority.

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that mankind shall at last attain its dream of brotherhood and lasting peace with the establishment of economic and cultural relations among countries of varied political ideologies. In brief remarks at a dinner given at Malacañang in honor of members of a combined Russian trade and oil exploration mission, the President observed that while men claim to be dominant and supreme in the animal kingdom, they are still slaves to age-old enemies: disease, impoverishment and war. He said that the mission is visiting at a time when the Philippines is seeking to re-structure its own society and eradicate the causes that had kept this nation from moving forward toward progress and modernization.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated two general orders to give full protection to tourists and transients. Issued by the President were: 1) General Order No. 38 authorizing the arrest and detention of persons involved in crimes punishable under the Revised Penal Code and other special laws where the offended party is in the Philippines as a tourist or a transient. 2) General Order No. 39 giving military tribunals concurrent jurisdiction with the civil court over crimes committed against tourist and transients. General Order No. 39 amends General Order No. 12 dated September 30, 1972, vesting the military tribunals with exclusive jurisdiction to try and decide certain criminal cases to the exclusion of the civil court.

PHILIPPINE Atomic Energy Commission announced that licenses are required to manufacture, use, import or export radioactive materials. The PAEC made the announcement in view of the increasing use of nuclear energy in the country. To obtain a license, applicants are required to pay a filing fee of P5 for each initial, or renewal of application. A license fee shall be collected annually from each licensee based on the following schedule: 1) Less than one curie, P10; 2) One curie to less than 100 curies, P50; 3) 100 curies to less than 500 curies, P100; 4) 500 curies or more, P500.

THE PRESIDENT warned squatters occupying banks of rivers, creeks, esteros, drainage channels and similar outlets to move out or face the legal consequences. The structures constructed by squatters on these portions of the public domain have obstructed the continuous flow of the waterways causing recurrent floods, the President said. In issuing Presidential Decree No. 296, the Chief Executive prescribed the following penalties for its violation; a fine of not less than P5, 000 nor more than P10,000 or imprisonment of not less than two years nor more than 10 years or both such fine and imprisonment. Within 90 days from the promulgation of PD 296; on September 18, 1973, the squatters are obliged to demolish such illegal constructions at their expense.

TOTAL of P4.9 billion taxes has been collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue since the imposition of Martial Law. The amount represented a 46 per cent increase over the same 12-month period before Proclamation No. 1081. The announcement came on the heels of "Operations Non-Filer" pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 213 giving tax amnesty to persons who had failed to file their income tax returns.

THE PHILIPPINES export earnings from fresh bananas during the first eight months of this year have already overshoot the P100-million mark. President's Week in Review: September 21-27, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

September 21—

THE PRESIDENT reported that the reform program under Martial Law has established a pattern of social, political and economic stability, even as he urged Filipinos to aspire to new heights of national development. Speaking in a nationwide radio-tv broadcast on the occasion of the first anniversary of the signing of the declaration of Martial Law, the Chief Executive outlined the achievements effected under the New Society and called for hard work among the citizens to consolidate the gains earned so far. "Hard work awaits us," the President said, "but the future we face is bright, for national development is within our grasp."

THE PRESIDENT has ordered three government agencies and the private banking institutions to set up the machinery for the effective implementation of the Government's cereal procurement programs for Masagana 99 rice harvests and future crops. To effect a smooth procurement program, NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco has outlined a series of conferences with the DANR, Philippine National Bank and a consortium of private banking institutions to prepare the most feasible buying scheme of grains.

DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs, to further encourage investments in the Philippines, adopted guidelines on the issuance of multiple exit permits to Filipino personnel of regional or area headquarters of multinational companies established in the Philippines. Acting Foreign Affairs Secretary Manuel Collantes said the guidelines were issued in implementation of the President's instructions to insure mobility of those engaged in business or industry.

LABOR Secretary Blas F. Ople said that 12 months of Martial Law had brought stability to employment and business in Greater Manila. Secretary Ople indicated that the much improved economic conditions had enabled manufacturers and service industries to cut down on lay-offs or hold on to their work force to keep up with the demands of customers. Based on an employment figure of 833,940 workers in Greater Manila, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Employment Service said an average of 10,000 workers were separated from their jobs in 1972 or 1.25 per cent, compared to only 4,158 monthly in the first six months of 1973 or 0.48 per cent. He saw the stable employment figure of workers as a sign that industries were maintaining their present forces with a tendency to increase them to cope with expansion.

THE PRESIDENT appointed former Education Secretary Onofre D. Corpuz as chairman of the newly-created Task Force on Human Settlement. Simultaneously, the President earmarked P0.5 million for the operations of the task force. The task force will prepare a study on the nature, policy issue, and strategies for an over-all framework plan for the country which would pinpoint priority areas for human settlement projects to serve as a general scheme for development.

September 22—

THE PHILIPPINES and the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) established formal diplomatic relations it was announced by the Department of Foreign Affairs. The Philippine-East German agreement is the first of four contemplated agreements with socialist countries of Eastern Europe which the President had specifically instructed Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. September 24—

THE PRESIDENT called on the country's barangays to serve as nerve centers in a nationwide physical fitness program in a three-pronged approach to the promotion of public health. In an address to some 600 members of the medical profession to start National Medicine Week, the Chief Executive also made rural service a requisite for graduation of college students involved in human settlement and development, including doctors, lawyers and engineers. The President likewise announced he will initiate moves to amend the dietary deficiency of low-income groups through the equitable sharing of the benefits of modernization and development.

THE PHILIPPINES and the Polish People's Republic established diplomatic relations, according to the Department of Foreign Affairs. The formal letters of agreement were signed by Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo and Polish Foreign Minister Stefan Olszowski at the Philippine Mission to the United Nations in New York. According to a report of the Foreign Office the newly established diplomatic relations, which will be at embassy level, will be based on the principle of peaceful co-existence, mutual respect for each other's sovereignty, and non-interference in each other's internal affairs. Both sides expressed the desire to develop and strengthen friendly and mutually beneficial relations.

DEPARTMENT of Agriculture and Natural Resources warned the government's more than 3,000 farm production technicians against "overstating Masagana 99 harvest as this might raise false hopes in the public mind." The warning was issued by the chairman of the Masagana 99 management committee, to clamp down on overblown estimate of expected harvest. The Masagana 99 harvest, based on early reports has yielded an average of 98.9 cavans per hectare in some 9,945 hectares already harvested.

September 25—

THE PRESIDENT directed the Bureau of Immigration and Deportation to take necessary measures to protect foreign nationals from harassment and unnecessary or unauthorized investigations. The President's order was contained in Letter of Instructions No. 133 which also directed the commissioner of immigration and deportation to conduct a general registration of foreign nationals in the country within three months. The registration is necessary because records on the number, status, location and other important information about foreign nationals here are either lacking, incomplete or not up to date, thereby making it difficult to collect statistics when the need arises.

OUR SYSTEM of justice has finally achieved the twin ideals of swiftness and fairness. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos stressed this in a speech on the new conduct of justice in the country during the first day of seminar on national development sponsored by the Departments of Public Information and of Foreign Affairs at the Asian Institute of Management building in Makati. The justice chief said that in the to Society, all persons now have the constitutional right to a speedy disposition of their cases before all judicial, quasi-judicial, or administrative bodies. "Such an acceleration in the tempo of appellate decisions is a great leap forward that is sure to lift the hearts of many long-suffering litigants," Secretary Abad Santos explained.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said that there must be conscious link between the manager who plans for the state. Speaking before the Association of Management and Industrial Engineers of the Philippines at the Hotel Intercontinental, the information secretary stressed it would be advisable for both the state manager and the business manager to be governed by the principle of oneness of purpose and interest. Secretary Tatad said the national push toward development is an enterprise in which the Government and private enterprises are the principal managers. He added that the Government will continue showing its concern for the growth of the society by sustaining its high regard for professionalism in business and industry.

COUNTRY'S foreign exchange reserve has reached a record high of $751.22 million as of September 18, 1973. At the same time, the Overall income of the country for Fiscal Year 1972-1973 was P10.559 billion as against P7.63 billion the preceding fiscal year. This rosy picture of the public finance was drawn by acting Secretary of Finance Alfredo Pio de Roda Jr. during the second day of the discussion series on national development at the Asian Institute of Management building in Makati. The acting secretary said that at the end of FY 1972-1973 the Government had a cash balance for all funds in the national treasury of P2.44 billion as against P1.26 billion in FY 1971-72.

September 26—

THE PRESIDENT moved to hasten the Pasig River Development Project of the First Lady by ordering the immediate settlement of salvage claims and the disposition of salvaged derelicts. In Letter of Instructions No. 134, the Chief Executive directed the Commissioner of Customs to effect the early return of the investment of salvaging companies or groups of persons to replenish their operating capital.

THE GOVERNMENT has brought about a new economic climate defined by far-reaching reforms in taxation and investments, and a redirected and rational planning of the economy. With these economic achievements, the roles of Government, business and labor in the ultimate objective of dispersing the gains of progress and development to the broad masses of the people are more than ever clearly defined. Director Lorenzo Cruz of the Bureau of National and Foreign Information these observations in a speech before the San Juan Rotary Club. Mr. Cruz, in enumerating the economic gains achieved in the last 12 months which had revitalized the country's economy, stressed that these gains are only the initial steps towards the building of a prosperous nation "where every man, woman and child will have the opportunity to lead a full and rewarding life."

THE GOVERNMENT and the United Nations Development Programme have allotted P2.8 million and $597,900 respectively for the formulation and implementation of an integrated export promotion program for the Philippines. The National Economic and Development Authority announced that NEDA Director Gerardo P. Sicat and UNDP resident Representative William Harding have signed the project document for the promotion program. The project, which will be coordinated by the NEDA in coordination with the Board of Investments and the Department of Trade, aims to develop an integrated medium-term export promotion program through an effective government agency solely concerned with export matters.

THE PRESIDENT exempted overseas personnel of the Department of Foreign Affairs and the Reparations Commission reassigned to their home offices here from the payment of all duties and taxes on their personal and household effects. Presidential Decree No. 301 also granted the exemption on overseas DFA and Reparations Commission personnel who have died, resigned or retired from the service. The decree also required that personal effects must not exceed 30 per cent of the total amount received by such officer or employee in salaries and allowances during his latest assignment abroad but not to exceed four years. The decree provided further that these exemptions shall not be availed of more than once every four years and that the officer or employee concerned must have served abroad for not less than two years.

THE PRESIDENT has released P9.9 million for Highway Special Fund for the repair and construction of various roads and bridges in Luzon and Mindanao. Road repair works to be funded out of the amount ordered include: Sayre Highway in Bukidnon, P265,000; Janiuay-Lambunao-Calinog-Capiz road and Dasmariñas-Carmona road, Cavite, P300,000; Cotabato-Bukidnon road, Cotabato-Lanao road, Cotabato-Davao and Kidapawan-Allah Jct. road, P243,250; Baguio-Bontoc road, P160,000; Jaro-Manduriao road, P117,000; Apalit Macabebe-Masantol road, P266,000.

THE PRESIDENT proclaimed October 7 to 13, 1973, as "Hispanic Week" to accentuate the country's cultural heritage from Spain and reassert the Government's efforts to effect goodwill and understanding with the Spanish-speaking world. The Presidential proclamation said the forthcoming celebration must remind the people of the lasting contribution of Spain to the country's political and social development and growth as a nation, as well as to enhance the country's historical and cultural ties with the Spanish-speaking world.

COUNTRY'S external trade registered an overall surplus of $79 million last August as compared with only $7 million for August 1972. The Central Bank said that the marked increase surplus for August 1973 is mainly due to a merchandise trade surplus of $32 million and an invisible surplus of $47 million. Exports receipts for the period under review reached $177 million while import payments were registered at $145 million, or a merchandise trade surplus of $32 million. Non-trade transactions, on the other hand, registered a surplus of $47 million or $28 million more than the surplus in August, 1972. Invisible receipts of $149 million were 88 per cent or $70 million higher largely due to loans of the private sector and services income. Invisible disbursements also rose by $42 million to $102 million due to increased payments of loans of the private sector, services rendered by non-residents and Philippine Government expenditures abroad. As a result of these developments in the country's foreign exchange transactions, the international reserve increased by $68 million.

September 27—

THE PRESIDENT assured Filipino oldtimers in the United States who are willing to spend their here that they could acquire land under a Government policy which would grant them reacquired Philippine citizenship. The Chief Executive made the assurance in response to a proposal of an official of a US investment firm to establish a housing settlement here for Filipino oldtimers. The President said these old-timers-natural-born Filipinos who have acquired American citizenship—may avail themselves of the same rights as every Filipino in the acquisition and ownership of land once they reacquired Philippine citizenship.

DEPARTMENT of Finance authorized provincial and municipal governments to collect all amusement taxes starting October 1. The transfer to local governments of authority to collect amusement taxes is contained in Presidential Decree No. 231 or Local Tax Code. Amusement tax on admission is collected from proprietors, lessees or operators of theaters, cinematographs, concert halls, circuses and other places of amusement.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the creation of a Philippine House at the world-famed Las Vegas Strip in Nevada to serve as the Center for the promotion of Philippine trade and tourism. The Nevada Philippine House will be the latest addition to the growing chain of Philippine Houses in important centers of the world. The House will be established by the Department of Trade in collaboration with the Filipino Trade Corporation, a 100 per cent Filipino firm. Earlier, the President had authorized the establishment of Philippine Houses in Singapore, Frankfurt, Tokyo, San Francisco, Sydney (Australia) and Toronto (Canada).

SOCIAL Security System announced that effective January 1974 it will require all employer to submit an annual register containing a complete list of employees, dates of their employment and effective dates of then-separation from employment. This is in accordance with Section 24-D of Presidential Decree No. 24 providing for the compulsory submission of an annual register by all employers in the private sector. The SSS said this requirement is distinct from the existing provision on the employment records and reports in Section 21-A of the Social Security Law which requires each employer to immediately report to the SSS the names, ages, civil status, occupation, salaries and dependents of all his employees.

BUREAU of Lands has launched a nationwide campaign to distribute land patents to settlers with Mindanao as one of the principal target areas. Acting Lands Director Ramon N. Casanova has been assured by regional land directors that district land officers are now capable of processing and issuing patents for areas not exceeding five hectares. The drive will benefit occupant settlers on public lands which have been declared disposable for agricultural purposes. Under the program, the settlers who have developed portions of public lands not then open for disposition, may legalize their possession and be granted the necessary titles.

DEPARTMENT of Health has broadened its family planning and nutrition programs to complement the Government's development efforts. Spelling out their urgent role in the building of the New Society, Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan said the department has decided to place priority on the family planning and nutrition programs since they are closely tied up with the Government's development program. Speaking during a symposium of the Philippine Public Health Association in Dagupan City, Secretary Gatmaitan said the family planning program is vital because of its inter-relationship with development efforts which could be hindered by the country's tremendous population growth. He said the health department is also giving priority to nutrition program because it is closely linked with national growth progress.

President's Week in Review: September 28 - October 4, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

September 28—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the military and provincial officials of Cotabato and Sultan Kudarat to extend all possible assistance for the rehabilitation of Muslim evacuees and surrendered outlaws. The Chief Executive directed the Special Presidential Assistance for Returning Evacuees (SPARE) to expedite the granting of loans to evacuees and surrenderees in the form of farm input and shelter provisions. The President issued the order after he was informed by a group of surrendered outlaws led by Datu Abdullah Sangkil that Muslim outlaws are afraid to surrender because they have no assurance of protection and rehabilitation.

THE PRESIDENT has appropriated P500,000 as operation funds of the Task Force on Human Settlements which will conduct a study on the nature, policy issues and strategies related to a comprehensive and integrative human settlement program in the Philippines. Executive Order No. 419 which created the task force, pointed out that the benefits of national progress will be attained only if the accelerating growth of human settlements is directed and ordered towards meeting the requirements of national development in line with the objective of effecting social, economic and political reforms.

SECRETARY of Justice Vicente Abad Santos opined that the $4.2 million loan agreement entered into by the Philippine government and the United States Agency for International Development to help finance the Tiwi geothermal project is valid and legal. Secretary Abad Santos rendered this opinion in compliance with a standard clause in the loan agreement requiring the borrower government's secretary of justice to first declare the loan contract valid and legal before the amount is released by the lender government. The justice chief said that the legal authority for the Philippine government to contract the loan and relend its proceeds to the National Power Corporation is provided for in Republic Act 4860, as amended by Presidential Decree Nos. 81 and 150. The loan will finance the foreign exchange costs of goods and services required for the NPC's Tiwi geothermal project.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development has listed 17 first class-A cities out of the country's 61 chartered cities. The latest DLGCD statistics listed the following cities under the Class A bracket (cities whose incomes exceed those of other cities and are paying higher salaries to employees): Angeles, Bacolod, Baguio, Basilan, Batangas, Butuan, Cagayan de Oro, Caloocan, Cebu, Davao, Iligan, Iloilo, Olongapo, Pasay, Tacloban, Toledo and Zamboanga. Manila and Quezon City are exempted from the classification having incomes which far exceed those of the first class-A cities. Eight cities were placed under the category of first class cities (annual incomes exceeding P1.5 million). These are Cabanatuan, Cadiz, Cotabato, Dagupan, General Santos, Legazpi, San Carlos and San Pablo.

THE GOVERNMENT has set up 593 children's centers in rural areas throughout the country to provide child care and pre-school training to thousands of barrio children. The children's center not only nurture preschoolers for indigent rural families but also train countless mothers in bringing up children. At the helm of this project is the Bureau of Agricultural Extension, assisted by the rural health officer, the home management technician, rural health nurse and volunteer leaders.

September 29—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 302 officially delineating the jurisdiction of the new province of Tawi-Tawi to cover seven former municipalities of Sulu. The new decree established the capital of Tawi-Tawi at Bato-Bato, Balimbing. Included under the jurisdiction of the new province are the municipalities of South Ubian, Tandubas, Simunul, Sitangkai, Balimbing, Bungao, Cagayan de Sulu and Turtle Islands. Tawi-Tawi was one of three Mindanao provinces recently created by the Chief Executive to uplift the socio-economic well-being of Muslim communities in the region.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad called on the medical sector to train young people and volunteers for rural health services. During the closing ceremonies of "Medicine Week", the secretary told the medical practitioners to tap the pool of young people and volunteer workers who can minister to the day-to-day public health needs of the barrios if they were properly trained. Young people must be trained to assist in rural health programs of the Government, he stressed.

DEPARTMENT of Trade announced that stock exchanges members may now transact customers' orders with other stock exchanges through the latter's members. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. has approved the rules drafted by the Securities and Exchange Commission to implement Presidential Decree No. 282. Under the approved rules, brokers of two or more stock exchanges involved in a transaction shall file a formal written agreement with the stock exchanges concerned and the Commission. Pending appropriate study of the participating brokers' shares in commission, the matter shall be governed by the agreement. Once the transaction is finalized, the broker shall go directly to the transfer office of the listed company for the issuance of corresponding stock certificates in the name of the person specified in the transfer instruction. The person who will be issued the stock may issue a stock power corresponding to the total shares in his name, as guaranteed by the executing brokers and validated by the clearing houses of the exchanges. The uniform settlement date shall be four days from the execution of the transaction. Uniformity will also govern price fluctuations, and ex-dividend and ex-right dates of each particularly listed security.

September 30—

THE PHILIPPINES and Hungary established formal diplomatic relations, the third the Philippines has signed with Easter European socialist countries in 10 days. Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo signed the formal accord with Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter at the Philippine Mission offices in New York. Similar accords were previously signed with East Germany and Poland.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr., warned government personnel and lawmen detailed with the Department of Trade against dishonesty, abuse and inefficiency. Secretary Quiazon issued the warning, in Circular No. 3 (series of 1973) even as he disclosed that he had instituted measures to ferret out abusive and corrupt officials and employes of offices, bureaus and agencies under his department. He stressed that there is no room in the government service for those who abuse the powers of public office, who neglect their duties and who harass and intimidate the people they are sworn to serve.

MEMBER of the Government Service Insurance System who has retired or who has been separated from public service can apply for a renewal of his medicare membership even if he has not done so within the prescribed 60-day period for such renewal. The Philippine Medical Care Commission (PMCC) decided this recently in a resolution it passed relaxing a provision of the Medicare Law (Republic Act 6111) requiring a retired or separated GSIS member to apply for a renewal of his medicare membership within 60 days from termination of his service, otherwise he would not be covered anymore by the health insurance scheme.

ACTING Social Security Administrator Reynaldo Gregorio has issued a reminder to all SSS members regarding the importance of having only one SSS number. He emphasized that the crediting of all contributions made in behalf of an SSS member is processed through his or her number. Job applicants, therefore, who were already given an SSS card need not obtain another number if they are merely transferring jobs or getting reemployed. Having one SSS number facilitates the proper crediting of all contributions which are the basis for computation of the amount of benefits or service loans.

October 1—

THE PRESIDENT appointed the vice-governor and two provincial board members of the new province of Tawi-Tawi. Appointed upon the recommendation of Acting Tawi-Tawi Governor Romulo M. Espaldon were Hadji M. Amilhasan as vice-governor, and Alawangsa M. Amilbangsa and Yap Lipae as provincial board members. The new officials appointed by the President shall hold office until their successors shall have been elected in the election for provincial and municipal officials following the issuance of Decree No. 302 and shall have qualified, unless sooner removed, at the pleasure of the Chief Executive.

OVERSTAYING Chinese who have behaved properly during the last 27 years may be given preference to stay in the Philippines, but those who have become undesirable will be unconditionally deported. Immigration Commissioner Edmundo M. Reyes explained the Government's position on the overstaying Chinese issue as he confirmed reports that the Philippines and Taipei are now finalizing an agreement to resolve the problem. Although he did not elaborate on the details of the agreement, Commissioner Reyes said the Philippines is awaiting minor details regarding the response of the Nationalist Chinese government.

THE PRESIDENT designated November 1, 1973 to November 30, 1974, as the period for the membership, educational and fund drive of the Safety Organization of the Philippines, Inc. (SOPI), a civic, non-profit, non-sectarian and non-political organization which has spearheaded the private sector's accident prevention movement. Proclamation No. 1183, issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. by order of the President, points out that safety and accident prevention have long been adopted as a policy. The proclamation declares the whole month of November 1974, as the World Safety and Accident Prevention Month in the country to extend their full support and assistance to these activities and projects of the SOPI.

PHILIPPINE exports to Malaysia for the first time overshot imports by US$100,000 during the first semester of 1973, the Department of Trade reported. Philippine exports to Malaysia during the period amounted to US$797,468 against its imports of US$697,347 or a trade balance of US$100,121 in its favor. This half-year performance was a sharp contrast to that of last year when the Philippines incurred a negative balance of US$3,013,128 with Philippine exports totalling only a measly US$865,614 against its imports of US$3,898,742.

THE PRESIDENT called on the youth to prepare themselves to assume the mantle of leadership in the continuing "revolution" for reforms in the New Society. Speaking at the opening of the five-day convention of the Philippines Jaycees at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang in connection with the organization's silver jubilee celebration, the President said the present revolution is a lifelong struggle and that he, as President, was a mere instrument in bringing it about. The President said the primary purpose of the revolution was to dismantle the leftist-rightist apparatus and the secessionist movements and at the same time to restructure society to uproot the valid sources of grievances. The President added that these long-range reforms are not intended for the present generation but for the younger generation. The youth must therefore prepare to take over the mantle of leadership in the field of reforms, he said.

THE PRESIDENT has released P10 million for the improvement and conversion of, temporary bridges in the country. Bureau of Public Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino reported that the P10 million fund release from the national revolving fund for national bridges will finance, among others, the conversion of the Mendiola bridge into a six-lane major thoroughfare. The new fund release will augment the P13 million earlier released by the President for the infrastructure activities of the highways bureau.

DEPARTMENT of Trade has ordered all commercial attaches to conduct a systematic and comprehensive study of various tariff and non-tariff barriers being imposed by other countries on the country's exports. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the study will provide the basis for the country's policies in connection with multilateral negotiations with, the view of protecting and promoting the country's trade interests. The commercial attaches were instructed to consult with official government agencies on such matters as discretionary licensing, health and sanitary regulations, packaging and labeling regulations, state trading, customs valuation procedure, government monopoly and import quotas.

October 3—

DEPARTMENT of Trade has authorized the establishment of Philippine Houses in Florida and Los Angeles, in the United States, and Vancouver, Canada, for the promotion of the country's exports and tourism. Trade Secretary

Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. has signed a memorandum agreement with Mr. Jack Skaff of Aimest Consulting Corporation, a Florida-based corporation, for the setting up of the Houses.

BUREAU of Customs collected P828 million in taxes and duties in the first three months of Fiscal Year 1973-74, which represented a 110 per cent increase over collections during the same period last year. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina revealed that P713.6 million was collected by the Port of Manila. With this collection, Commissioner Geotina expressed optimism that the customs bureau will be able to realize its collection target of P3 billion for this year.

SOME 280 units of irrigation pumps have been distributed to Muslim farmers in Mindanao, the National Irrigation Administration reported. NIA Administrative Alfredo L. Juinio said each pump can irrigate an average of 10 to 15 hectares. Recipients are required to pay a down-payment of 10 per cent of the total cost of the engine, with the balance payable within 10 to 13 years. At the same time, the NIA also reported that six national irrigation projects in Mindanao which could irrigate a total of 10,881 hectares have been completed.

BUREAU of Vocational Education reported that Government vocational schools have a present enrolment of more than 120,000 students. BVE Director Andres E. Asistin said latest data received by the bureau's central office showed that 121,390 students are now taking industrial, agricultural, fishery and vocational courses. This enrolment showed a 19,000-increase from the 102,264 figure during the schoolyear 1969-70. The increase in enrolment underscores the growing popularity of vocational-technical education in the country in view of the industrialization and developmental projects initiated by the Government.

October 4—

THE PRESIDENT received the letter of credence of Ambassador Milton Telles Ribeiro as the new ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Federative Republic of Brazil to the Philippines. In presenting his credentials to the President, Ambassador Ribeiro pledged to further strengthen the cordial ties existing between his country and the Philippines. The President expressed satisfaction and gratitude to the Brazilian government for its decision to send a man whose long service in Southeast Asia spans several years. The Ambassador is "attuned not only to our climate but also to our modes and our culture," the President said.

ARCHIPELAGIC doctrine of national territory engrained in the new Constitution of the Philippines has strengthened the country's position to push through its principle in the United Nation Seabed Committee. This was contained in a report of Ambassador-at-Large Arturo Tolentino on the meeting of the UNSC in Geneva last July and August. The report has been submitted to the President. The Philippine position on the archipelagic concept, which is supported by other nations including Indonesia, provides that a country will exercise full dominion and sovereign rights over waters and seas between islands comprising the archipelago.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism announced that overseas Filipinos visiting the Philippine under "Operations Homecoming" will enjoy discounts on hotel billeting, restaurant services, tour trips and store purchases. The Hotel and Restaurant Association of the Philippines (HRAP), the Association of Tour Operators of the Philippines (ATOP), and a group of department stores have volunteered to extend these benefits to the Balikbayan project. The tourism department said that the home-coming guests need only present their hospitality cards and passports to be entitled to the discounts.

DEPARTMENT of Trade assured foreign businessmen who will reside in Manila once their multinational companies regional headquarters are relocated here of adequate housing facilities. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. has ordered a study on housing rentals in the exclusive villages in Greater Manila where foreign nationals taking advantage of the country's business and investment climate—are expected to stay. Mr. Quiazon said the study is in line with the Government's program to attract foreign multinationals to establish their regional headquarters in the Philippines.

DEPARTMENT of Trade limited the exportation of plywood solely to registered producers and their authorized agents under the revised guidelines on plywood and lumber export issued recently. Under the revised guidelines, registered plywood producers and their agents are required to submit under oath to the trade department a recapitulation of total monthly production and sales (domestic and foreign) within 30 days after the end of each month. Mr. Quiazon said a quota of 70 per cent of total production will be allowed for plywood exports allocated on a case to case basis determined by performance in production and export sales of different plywood firms in Fiscal Year 1972-73. The lumber industry is allowed to export a quota of 30 per cent of total production, as allocated to various lumber exporters.

BOARD of Transportation directed the foreign truck operator who have existing contracts with oil companies for transporting oil at rates lower than 30 centavos per ton to file for the prescribed rates within 30 days. The board issued the order following complaints from several truck operators that some truck owners have resorted to offering hauling services at rates lower than the prescribed rates as authorized by the BT. The BT said that henceforth, oil companies entering into hauling contracts with truck owners are enjoined to require the presentation by the contracting party of a certified true copy of its operating authority or certificates of public convenience.

President's Week in Review: October 5-11, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 5—

THE PRESIDENT made available the Industrial Guarantee Loan Fund to cottage industries in a move to broaden the industries role in the expansion of the country's economic base. The IGLF will enable small cottage industry producers to borrow money without any collateral, under a supervised credit system similar to the Masagana 99 loaning policy. The IGLF was only available to small and medium scale industries. The Chief Executive also sought the assistance of all sectors of the economy, including bankers, judiciary and executive department officials, to help formulate policies to promote cottage industries. These moves highlighted the keynote speech of the President before the First National Conference of Cottage Industry Producers and Exporters at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. The President said the government is encouraging cottage industries because they not only encourage the dispersal of talents but help smoke out hidden wealth.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera said overseas Filipinos who will visit the country under "Operations Homecoming" will not be required to present tax clearance certificates. Mr. Vera said the visiting Filipinos need not even present VIP or hospitality cards, which under a revenue order, serve as a tax clearance for their return trip abroad. The revenue commissioner added he has ordered travel agents and airline companies to indicate on the passenger manifests the passport number and date of arrival of non-resident Filipinos so that their failure to get their VIP or hospitality cards will not hinder their departure for abroad.

CIVIC organizations should involve the people benefiting from community projects in the formulation and implementation of such programs to foster bigger civilian participation. Information secretary Francisco S. Tatad made this statement in a speech at the Silver Jubilee celebration of the Philippine Jaycees in Angeles City. He explained that it is not enough that civic organizations involve their own members in their community projects. What is required, he pointed out, is the common involvement of all, including those who are expected to benefit from such projects. He added that the Government will continue to find concrete ways to involve the greatest number of the people. But civic organizations, he said, must now formulate new programs that will afford the people to involve themselves in community work.

NATIONAL Grains Authority has lifted the ban on the use of white corn for the manufacture of animal feeds in view of the recent bountiful harvest of corn in the country. The grains agency, however, said the corn support price of the Government of P1.30 per kilo must be observed in the cereal's purchase. The announcement was made during a meeting of NGA officials and officers of the Philippine Association of Feed Millers at the NGA's central office.

October 6—

THE PRESIDENT created the annual Panday Pira Award which will be conferred upon outstanding cottage industry producers and entrepreneurs actively involved in the national effort of promoting the country's fledgling cottage industry. Named after the eminent Filipino cannon-maker of early times who was known for his excellent indigenous craftsmanship, the Panday Pira Award was created to encourage cottage industry workers to continue with their productive endeavors.

THE PHILIPPINES and Czechoslovakia established diplomatic relations, the fourth agreement the Philippines has signed with Eastern European socialist countries in 16 days. The Department of Foreign Affairs was informed of this development through a cabled message from the Philippine Mission to the United Nations. The mission said Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo signed the formal accords with Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister Bohuslav Chnoupek at the Philippine Mission offices in New York.

THE GOVERNMENT has collected a total of P214,986.77 from 17,910 non-filers of income tax returns in the provinces who have so far availed of the Government's tax amnesty offer. Commissioner Misael P. Vera said the "broad masses are demonstrating their involvement in the New Society as evidenced by their active participation in the government through the payment of taxes.” What makes this more encouraging, he noted, is the fact that the response is more evident in the provinces and cities outside the Greater Manila area. Deadline for the filing of income tax returns under the amnesty offer is October 31.

DEPARTMENT of Trade reported that Philippine export products have won wide acceptance in Toronto, Canada, through the relentless sales promotion thrust being waged by the recently established Philippine House. Canadian export-import firms and Filipino store operators have come to accept the Philippine House as their service agency and supplier. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., disclosed that since the opening of the display house in April, this year, total spot sales alone amounted to more than $30,000 consisting of garments, rum and beer, food items and cottage products.

October 7—

THE PRESIDENT released P6 million for the advance exploitation of Pantabangan Dam, which is being constructed to irrigate some 10,000 hectares of ricelands in the dam area. The amount will be used by the National Irrigation Administration for the closure of the dam’s diversion panel, so that water can be stored up and used for irrigation purposes even during construction work on the main dam. Agriculture Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon Jr. said in an announcement that the President’s move will mean an additional harvest for the country of at least 800,000 cavans of rice worth about P28 million. It will also give farmers extra income amounting to P18 million annually.

FOREIGN Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo has sounded off a group of Asian foreign ministers on the immediate formation of a “continental organization to express the Asian point of view,” a re-emphasis on the President’s Asian Forum. The secretary discussed the establishment of a forum in a dinner he tendered for Asian foreign ministers and permanent representatives, at Waldorf Astoria Hotel. He expressed regrets that the most “populous continent on earth” had no organization similar to the association of American states or the federation of African unity. Secretary Romulo observed that the Asian gathering was a “harmony in brown” and reflected “a common denominator in culture and in aspirations, despite the diversity of Asian customs, languages and beliefs.”

EXPORT earnings from copra and coconut products surged by 38 per cent to $242.6 million in the first 10 months of this year, compared to the same period last year. The 38 per cent rise in export receipts was posted despite a 12.78 per cent drop in volume exported, from 1.315 million long tons from January to September last year, compared to 1.147 million long tons during the same period this year. The increase in the value of coconut exports despite a decline in volume was due to a 54.82 per cent rise in the price per long ton of copra, 58.3 per cent in coconut oil, 67.63 per cent in copra meal and 54.43 per cent in desiccated coconut. These are gleaned from comparative reports on the value and volume of coco exports secured from the United Coconut Association of the Philippines.

October 8—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the conversion of the Major Ferdinand E. Marcos Hospital in Bayombong, Nueva Vizcaya, into a veterans regional hospital with a minimum capacity of 100 beds. The order contained in Presidential Decree No. 306, also provides for the establishment of field hospitals in places where units of the USAFIP NL (United States Armed Forces in the Philippines, Northern Luzon) were established. In converting the hospital into a veterans regional hospital, the President took into consideration the increasing need to extend greater assistance to the country’s war veterans, their offsprings, orphans, widows and other relatives, including the “bolo men.”

PHILIPPINE exports for the first nine months of 1973 earned $1,337 billion, which accounted for 53.5 per cent more earnings for the same period last year. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said the earnings from January to September this year posted an increase of $465 million over last year’s January-September figure amounting to $871.6 million. Export wharfage dues collected for the January September period totalled P17.236 million, up by 240 per cent for the same period last year. The top ten Philippine exports are: copper concentrates ($23.3 million); logs ($21.2 million); copra ($13.7 million); gold (P18.6 million); plywood ($6.01 million); coconut oil ($5.79 million); desiccated coconut ($3.6 million); lumber ($3.1 million); handicrafts ($2.9 million); and cement ($2.6 million).

AGRICULTURE Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. declared a 5,000-hectare area in Laguna de Bay a permanent fish sanctuary in line with the Government's efforts to conserve and develop the country's rich fishery resources. In an administrative order implementing Presidential Decree No. 43, the Bureau of Fisheries was directed to establish, maintain and supervise a fish sanctuary that would serve as a natural spawning ground for various commercial fish specie indigenous to the lake. The order in effect declared off limits to all fishermen a 5,000-hectare area in the middle of the 90,000-hectare lake. Anyone caught violating the sanctuary will be fined not more than P5,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years or both.

HANDICRAFT manufacturers in Albay have chalked up an impressive $57,995.67 in exports of cottage industry products in a week's time last September. This was gleaned from a report of the Research and Standardization Bureau (RSB) branch office of the National Cottage Industry Development Authority in Legazpi City. The RSB branch office likewise reported the approval of 19 export applications amounting to US$81,411 from September 17 to 21.

October 9—

THE PHILIPPINE Government adopted complete neutrality in the Middle East conflict which appeared to have escalated with the renewed fighting among the Israelis and the Egyptians and Syrians. The Philippine position was agreed upon in the Cabinet meeting presided by the President in Malacañang. The Cabinet also agreed that the Philippine Government will exert all efforts to support the quest for peace in the troubled Middle East.

THE PRESIDENT authorized all government librarians to attend the convention of the Philippine Library Association in Manila on October 25-29. The theme of the convention, in commemoration of the association's golden jubilee anniversary, is "Libraries and Infrastructure Development." Memorandum Circular No. 661, issued by Acting Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, by authority of the President, authorizes government librarians to attend the convention on official time.

NATIONAL Grains Authority warned rice and corn dealers that they will be dealt with severely if found using the ganta as a system of measurement and not the kilo as decreed by the President. The NGA warning followed a series of inspections of public markets in the Greater Manila area and the provinces which indicated that many rice and corn retailers were still using the ganta as a measuring device. Pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 4 otherwise known as the NGA Act, violators will be punished by an imprisonment of not less than one year and a fine of not less than P4,000.

DEPARTMENT of Public Information announced that the DPI launched in Vigan, Ilocos Sur, the first community newspaper on cooperative basis. Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said this was the initial step to blanket the country with community newspapers. Briefing students from the University of the Philippines College of Agriculture, Mr. Tatad explained that the launching of the community newspaper concept is part of the DPI's campaign to develop mass media in the rural areas. He deplored the fact that for many years, the emphasis of media development has been in the urban areas, leaving the rural areas to be serviced by small publications put out by enterprising young men or groups.

THE PHILIPPINES exported recently a total of 847,372 worth of potatoes, mangoes, onions, mongo and dried beans to Hongkong, Guam and Japan. This was reported to Bureau of Plant Industry (BPI) Director Eliseo Carandang by the BPI plant quarantine office. Mr. Carandang, expressing elation over the growth of the country's fruit and vegetable export industries, said "this is a clear indication that the Philippines is now producing high-quality crops that can meet other countries' requirements."

BUREAU of Customs has limited to P350 the maximum amount of brokerage fee customs brokers could charge for services rendered in connection with the clearance of import and export products. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said that the public availing of the services of customs brokers will no longer be bothered by the so-called "invisible" expenses. To stop this anomalous practice, Mr. Geotina said the bureau pegged the brokerage fee in line with the "prevailing sense of morality and value being advanced in the Government." In a memorandum, the Customs official warned that brokers could no longer charge more than the maximum amount under pain of suspension of their business or cancellation of their license.

October 10—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the implementation of an energy plan which calls for the maximum conservation of fuel and the use of all available substitutes for oil. The President, at the same time, appealed to the people to support and organize efforts to save oil due to the worsening crisis in the Middle East brought about by the undeclared war between two Arab countries and Israel. In connection with this, the Government has set a plan for the conservation of oil. The plan calls for: fuel conservation and substitution for oil.

DEPARTMENT of Justice has ruled on the validity of the formation of a proposed non-profit, non-sectarian and non-political association by government employees. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos, in an opinion, said he was not aware of any law, order, directive or regulation which would be contravened by the formation of the association, "so long as the purpose for which it is organized are lawful." However, Secretary Abad Santos said that each individual government employee, who is a prospective member of the association, shall comply with the requirements prescribed by the Revised Civil Service Rules if the same are applicable.

TOTAL of 19,708 foreign tourists visited the Philippines last September, breaking all previous records of tourist arrivals in a one-month period. The Department of Tourism said the number surpassed by 34.6 per cent the 10,675 foreign tourists who visited the country during the same month last year. For the second month in a row, Japanese tourists outnumbered the Americans. Japanese visitors last month numbered 5,875 as compared to last year's 1,434, or an increase of 309.6 per cent. A total of 4,541 American tourists visited the country last month, reflecting an increase of 33.3 per cent over the arrivals of 3,406 during the same period last year. Arrivals from Australia also rose by 62.2 per cent, from 813 in September 1972 to 1,360 last month. On the other hand, 1,324 British tourists visited the country last September, registering an increase of 72 per cent from arrivals of 769 during the same month in 1972. Coming second to the Japanese were Filipino residents abroad with 1,373. In September last year, only 731 Filipinos visited the country.

THE GOVERNMENT has collected a total of P11.4 million in income taxes from Filipinos abroad from January to September this year. Bureau of Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera said the collection represented remittances made by Philippine foreign service establishments and revenue attaches in the United States, Europe and Asia. Mr. Vera also said that some 5543,739.14 are still collectible from 15 Philippine embassies and consulates. The BIR commissioner noted that the big collection of $962,146 was made on income tax for the year 1972 from Filipinos in the United States after the effectivity of Presidential Decree No. 69 which amended the income tax law governing Filipinos abroad.

PRICE Control Council lifted the government price ceiling for common wire nails and reinforcing steel bars to counteract the shortage of steel products and other construction materials. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., concurrent chairman of the price body, signed the PCC circular allowing the prices of common wire nails and reinforcing steel bars (structural grade, plain and deformed) to float in the market.

NATIONAL Grains Authority announced that there is sufficient supply of starch to meet industrial and household requirements. The announcement was made after a meeting between NGA Administrator Jess Tanchanco and other NGA officials and starch manufacturers. During the meeting, NGA officials also announced that there will be no exportation of starch for at least this month and until domestic supply is assured of stability.

October 11—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the government's active participation in oil exploration through an integrated program that shall spell out the national policy and the guidelines. Secretary of Information Francisco S Tatad at a briefing, disclosed that the Chief Executive directed the inter-agency committee, headed by the National Economic and Development Authority, to prepare a decree that shall define the powers and responsibilities of the appropriate agency for the purpose. The President also instructed the committee composed of chiefs of government agencies engaged in the energy development effort, headed by NEDA Director General Gerardo Sicat, to work out the details, proposals, changes and other matters concerning the energy development project.

THE PRESIDENT received the senior officers and officials of the Royal College of Defense Studies of London, who called to pay their respects to him following their arrival in Manila. The group, which is currently on an observation tour of the Far East, had been briefed about the local situation by officials of the Departments of Foreign Affairs and of National Defense. The Chief Executive told the group that the New Society is designed to remove and extirpate the root causes of rebellion through a series of reforms—land reform, labor reform, educational reform, political reform, increased social services, peace and order, and economic reform. However, the President said, until the various reform take root, the Philippines will not go back to any system which will allow the oligarchs or the rich to take over political leadership and corrupt the system all over again.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue ordered its agents to continue collecting amusement taxes on admission in places where the local governments have not yet passed appropriate ordinances imposing this tax. Acting Finance Secretary Pedro M. Almanzor said the amusement tax on admission is one of the three national taxes and fees transferred to the local governments as provided for by the Local Tax Code promulgated under Presidential Decree No. 231. Mr. Almanzor said that while the transfer of the amusement tax is supposed to take effect last October 1, the local governments cannot enforce collections of the same without the necessary ordinance enacted for the purpose. He added that in order not to disrupt tax collection functions, BIR collection agents shall continue collecting the amusement tax on admission until such time that all the local governments shall have passed the necessary ordinances.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 19—

THE PRESIDENT proclaimed October 21 as Tenants' Emancipation Day to mark the historic date when tenants were freed from the bondage of landlords by the promulgation of Presidential Decree No. 27. The decree, promulgated by the President in his own handwriting on October 21 1972 extended the coverage of the land reform program to an lands devoted primarily to rice and corn and tilled by tenants. After signing the proclamation, the President directed the Department Agrarian Reform to attend to the appropriate observance every year of tenants Emancipation Day in cooperation with tenants or their organizations.

DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs announced that an agreement between the Philippines and Switzerland on the reciprocal abolition of visa requirements for diplomatic officials, special and service passports, was already signed. Acting Foreign Secretary Manuel Collantes signed for the Philippines while Swiss Ambassador Ferdinand M. Dufour signed for Switzerland. This agreement exempts Philippine and Swiss holders of diplomatic, official, special and service passports from the usual visa requirements. Bearers of regular passports, however, are not included in the waiver.

THE PHILIPPINES' fish production reached an all-time high of 1.1 million metric tons in 1972, registering an increase of 7.8 per cent from the production of 10 years ago, according to the Bureau of Fisheries. Fisheries Director Felix Gonzales said that the total fish production in 1962 was only 483,948 metric tons as compared to last year's 1,122,486 metric tons. At present, the Philippines' fisheries resources cover an area of 643,343 square miles with 126,000 hectares of freshwater and 367,000 mangrove swamp areas. In view of this, Director Gonzales said the fishing industry is expected to become a major dollar earner for the Philippines.

SECRETARY of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata announced that some 32,172 defective instruments of weights and measures were either confiscated or sealed in the nationwide campaign launched by the Department of Finance against the use of defective weighing instruments in public markets and other places. Secretary Virata made the announcement after going over reports from 27 provincial treasurers and 14 city treasurers. Section 289 of the National Internal Revenue Code penalizes any person who uses such defective instruments of weights and measures by a fine of not less than P200 nor more than P4,000 or by imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than two years or both.

October 20—

THE PRESIDENT appointed Justice Querube Makalintal as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, succeeding former Chief Justice Roberto Concepcion who has retired. A graduate of the College of Law of the University of the Philippines, Class of 1933, the new Chief Justice was a private practitioner for 13 years until he entered the government service as judge of the Court of First Instance, in Iloilo. In 1954, he was named solicitor general and in the same year, was named to the Court of Appeals. He rose to become presiding justice of that body in 1961. He was appointed associate justice of the Supreme Court in 1962 and was the senior ranking associate justice at the time the former chief justice retired.

SECRETARY OF Justice Vicente Abad Santos said the new Constitution has been in effect since January 17, replacing the old Constitution. He rendered this opinion in answer to a formal request from Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad who said that in spite of the ratification and adoption of the new charter, queries from here and abroad persist as to whether it is not in fact the old Constitution that it still in force. He stated further that the President certified and proclaimed the new Constitution in effect in Presidential Proclamation No. 1102 after an overwhelming majority of the members of the barangays in the Philippines voted in favor of the adoption of the new charter.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has issued supplementary guidelines in the implementation of the President's order to stagger work hours in the Government as well as in private establishments. The guidelines, embodied in a circular signed by Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople, seek to relieve workers and employers of any inconveniences resulting from rigid implementation of the general order without deviating from its objectives.

NOT MORE than P500 in Philippine currency notes may be brought into the country by an incoming traveller for the duration of the demonetization period ending December 31, 1973, the Central Bank announced. This regulation is contained in Central Bank Circular No. 383 released as an amendment to CB Circular No. 265, which had earlier set the P500 limit that an incoming or outgoing traveller may bring in or out of the country. The amended circular is calculated to sterilize the reported large amounts of illegally hoarded pesos abroad, notably in Hongkong, which have contributed to the depreciation of the Philippine currency.

THE GOVERNMENT convened the country's rice millers, traders and warehousemen in a conference to spur an effective rice procurement program under the intensified Masagana99 production drive. Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. and Grains Administrator Jesus Tanchanco spearheaded the conference at the auditorium of the Development Bank of the Philippines. During the conference, Secretary Tanco urged the rice millers, traders and warehousemen to shoulder the buying of some 131 million cavans of palay expected to be generated by Masagana99.

CENTRAL Bank Monetary Board announced the reorganization of the Land Bank of the Philippines with the appointment of a high-ranking official as its president. Chosen LB president by the bank's Monetary Board with the advice and consent of the President was Mr. Basilio Estanislao, a special assistant to CB Governor Gregorio S. Licaros in charge of the supervision and examination sector which has jurisdiction over all banking as well as non-bank financial institutions. The Land Bank was reorganized under Presidential Decree No. 251 to make it more of a financial institution, with development, commercial and merchant banking functions, in implementing the requirements of the land reform program.

October 21—

THE PRESIDENT has appointed three new associate justices to the Supreme Court, including the first woman member of the highest tribunal. Named to the high court are: 1) former Senator Estanislao Fernandez; 2) Associate Justice Cecilia Muñoz Palma of the Court of Appeals; and 3) Ramon Aquino, a well-known law practitioner and author of law books.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad told a peace and prosperity rally in Marawi City that nothing stand in the way of the full development of Mindanao and that the government is committed in seeing to it that there is an equal sharing of progress in the country. The peace, order and prosperity rally was organized by citizens of Marawi one year after the short-lived October 21 Marawi uprising. The secretary appealed for brotherhood among Christians and Muslims, saying that all of them have invested life and honor in the building of one Filipino nation.

BUREAU of Public Works has reported to the President that damages to infrastructure facilities throughout the country wrought by typhoons Luming and "Narsing" amounted to at least P16.7 million. Of this amount P5.8 million represent damaged flood control and drainage facilities while P5.2 million represent destroyed school buildings. The rest are for damages to government buildings, hospitals and sanitariums, waterworks, wells, springs, portworks, shore protection works and others. Of the P16.7 million total damage inflicted by the two typhoons, P14.59 million was caused by typhoon "Luming" while only P2.11 million was caused by typhoon "Narsing."

JULIO CARDINAL Rosales "enthusiastically endorsed" the idea of President Marcos to "return Christ to Christmas" with the revival of the traditional Church liturgy and rituals, as well as native customs which once made the Philippine Christmas celebrations unique, solemn and colorful. In a conference with Secretary of Tourism Jose D. Aspiras, the Cardinal and Mons. Mariano Gaviola, who was also present, pledged to endorse the project to the other members of the Church hierarchy. Describing the President's proposal as "wonderful," the Cardinal and Bishop Gaviola expressed confidence that the Church leaders will approve it "with enthusiasm."

October 22—

THE PRESIDENT renewed his appeal to the entire people to support the land reform which is basic to the government's development program. The President sounded the appeal before thousand of emancipated farmers who had come from as far north as Ilocos and Isabela to as far south as Sulu, Cotabato and Bukidnon, to join the celebration of the first anniversary of the proclamation of land reform at Camp Aguinaldo, Quezon City. In addressing the huge assemblage, following a thanksgiving parade during which the farmers marched before the grandstand, bearing placards and streamers, and waving their hats, the President pledged that "there is no turning back, no withdrawing from the land reform program, and that the government will never hesitate in the implementation of the program."

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said the Muslim communities of the Philippines can look forward to a long period of sustained development and growth until the real conditions of these areas are transformed. The secretary made these remarks in colorful ceremonies at the Mindanao State University, where the youngest member of the President's Cabinet was installed Sultan A-Makalangkap (bearer of truth) by the prestigious 32-member sultanate league of Marawi City. The first member of the President's Cabinet to be given the honorary title, Secretary Tatad expressed the determination of the President to bring the level of development in the Muslim areas. He further stated that it is for this minority that the New Society was launched, and it is for this minority that the New Society will be created.

NATIONAL Prime Commodities Council appealed to gasoline dealers to police themselves and to work out a system of allocation of fuel to their consumers. The council also appealed to the consumers to help conserve not only gasoline but also other petroleum products. The council issued the twin appeals in a meeting with gasoline dealers and representatives of the public transportation sector at the National Prime Commodities Operations Center in Camp Crame, Quezon City.

October 23—

THE PRESIDENT expressed concern over the fate of the Mangyans of Mindoro and reiterated the government policy of either absorbing the cultural minorities into the mainstream of national life or preserving their tribal cultures. The President expressed his concern for the Mangyans during his meeting with the survey mission of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development which submitted a report on the integrated development program for the two Mindoro provinces. Headed by Roy Hewson, the FAO-IBRD mission includes Roy Spinks, economist; John Clifford, engineer; Gerald Clarke, agronomist; Raymond Igo, irrigation engineer; and John Cole, economist.

THE PRESIDENT received the officials of B. F. Goodrich, who came to thank him for the restoration of peace and order in Basilan which enabled their plant there to operate. The President, in turn, requested the Goodrich officials to help the government in extirpating the root causes of grievances. The Goodrich officials who called on the President were O. Pendleton Thomas and Gerald Alexander, chairman and executive vice president, respectively, and Donald Ress and William Mitchell of Goodrich Philippines. The Goodrich officials pledged to cooperate and support the government programs to promote the New Society.

THE PRESIDENT told surrendered leaders of Yakans of Basilan who had fled to the hills that the time has come for all Filipinos, Muslims as well as Christians, to unite and work together for the improvement of the living conditions of everyone under the New Society. In his meeting with the Yakans, who were brought to Malacañang following their recent surrender, in connection with the government's policy of attraction, the President assured them that they would be extended all possible assistance to lead normal lives. Hadji Salajin Mutamad, Yakan tribal leader in Basilan promised to return to Basilan and convince his followers numbering about 100 armed men, as well as those of allied groups, to come out of hiding and take advantage of the opportunity granted them by the President to lead more productive lives.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad called for an overhauling of the concept of liberal education to make it an effective partner in the country's development. Speaking before faculty members of the University of the East on the occasion of the Silver anniversary of UE's School of Arts and Sciences, the Secretary pointed out that the "movement towards development" launched under the New Society needs the support not only of those educated in the humanities. The new concept of liberal education, he said, trains man so that he may fully understand his human condition, his environment and his culture for the purpose of enlightenment and coping with life. The secretary stressed that this education in liberation will go a long way toward attaining the New Society's goals of "transforming the national consciousness, of effecting the cultural revolution that we have spoken of."

THE PRESIDENT directed the budget commissioner to release P2 million from the Calamity Fund to the Bureau of Plant Industry for use in the immediate purchase and distribution of good palay seeds for lending to farmers in Cotabato, Central Luzon, Laguna and the Bicol area who lost their rice crop due to floods, plant diseases and typhoons "Luming" and Narsing and who, by virtue of their location, are capable of replanting their farms. The director of the Bureau of Plant Industry was instructed to administer the seed purchase and distribution.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue has realized P65.6 million back accounts in the form of uncollected withholding taxes. The amount was due from interest payments remitted by local banks to foreign creditors in the names of local firm-debtors. The P65.6 million collection was the result of a directive from Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata for the BIR to exert effort in the collection of taxes due on interest payments made to foreign creditors.

NATIONAL Labor Relations Commission capped its first year of operations with the payment of P68.7 million in restitutions to 12,240 workers. This was the highlight of a report submitted to the President by Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople on the first anniversary of the founding of the NLRC under Presidential Decree No. 21. The report said that for the period, the NLRC, headed by Undersecretary of Labor Amado G. Inciong, received a total of 6,275 complaints of which 5,145 were settled. The payments to workers were in form of back wages and other benefits, such as separation pay and increase in wages received by the workers.

October 24—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 318 limiting the power of chartered cities to increase taxes on petroleum products. The decree provides that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 24 of Article 3, Chapter II of the Local Tax Code, "the cities shall not increase the rate of taxes imposed by them on petroleum products and prevailing at the time of promulgation of the order of the Oil Industry Commission dated October 20, 1973, increasing the price of petroleum products which is likewise the date of effectivity of PD No. 314, increasing the specific tax on petroleum products."

THE PRESIDENT received the Prime Minister of the People's Republic of Bangladesh, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, in the course of the latter's stopover in Manila on his way home from Tokyo, Japan. The President, with some members of the Cabinet, had a cordial talk with the Prime Minister on matters of mutual interest. The President and the Prime Minister expressed mutual satisfaction on the quality of bilateral cooperation between the Philippines and Bangladesh, and jointly voiced the hope that there would continue to be a strengthening of relations.

DEPARTMENT of Justice has ruled that domestic private companies with at least 60 per cent Filipino capital may acquire private lands in the Philippines under the new Constitution, Secretary of Justice Vicente Abad Santos issued the opinion in reply to a request from the Commissioner of Land Registration. The justice secretary said that although the new Constitution provides that no private corporation or association may hold alienable lands of the public domain except by lease, he asserted that domestic private companies with 60 per cent Filipino capital may acquire lands under the new charter.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said no one may collect fees of any kind from media personnel in connection with their work. The DPI chief at the same time announced that the collection of fees from media establishment by the Media Advisory Council has been suspended. The secretary invited parties from whom the MAC had collected fees in spite of the memorandum to report to the authorities so that the violators could be apprehended.

THE PRESIDENT expressed gratification over the findings of a 160-man survey mission of the Kam Ngan Stock Exchange of Hongkong which arrived here in the Philippines to study the investment and business possibilities in the country. Mr. Woo Hon Fai, chairman of the Kam Ngan Stock Exchange, which is the biggest in Hongkong, informed the President that “your country is ideal for foreign investment, especially” by the people of Hongkong.” Mr. Woo Hon Fai said they had observed the general peace and order situation, the abundance of the country’s natural resources, its sufficient labor force at reasonable wages, very sensible labor laws and attractive government incentives which include protection of foreign investments. The President in return expressed the hope that more frequent mission will arrive and help in the economic development program under the New Society.

October 25—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 320 increasing the national aid share that should be provided to provinces, cities and municipalities for road maintenance funds to conform with the changes in the amounts accruing to their roads and bridges fund as a result of the implementation of PD 144, which revised the distribution of income derived from taxes to local governments. PD 320 increases the allocation for contingent emergency expenditures from five per cent to 10 per cent of the Highway Special Fund. The decree likewise increases the allocation for discretionary fund from five per cent to 10 per cent of the Highways Special Fund.

THE PRESIDENT has amended the provisions of the Special Calamity Fund of 1972 to authorize payment beyond June 30, 1973 of obligations for materials used and services rendered in calamity projects from the unexpended balances of the Calamity Fund. The amendment is embodied in Presidential Decree No. 319 which states that the present provisions of the Special Calamity Fund Act of 1972 specifically provide under Section 1 that no funds therein appropriated shall be expended beyond March 31, 1973, and that any unexpended amount beyond March 31, 1973, whether obligated or not shall automatically revert to the General Fund, except those for on-going projects started before March 31, 1973, disbursements for which may be authorized until but not beyond June 30, 1973.

THE PRESIDENT has proclaimed the third week of November of every year as “Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Week” to increase the understanding among the people of the adverse effects of dangerous drugs on their health as well as on the social and economic conditions of the country. In Proclamation No. 1192, the President points out that intensive and well-coordinated preventive education and community information on the evil effects of the dangerous drugs will in a large measure help in the prevention and control of drug dependence.

THE PRESIDENT inducted Querube Makalintal as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Among those who witnessed the induction of Makalintal were the First Lady, incumbent and former justices of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, members of the Cabinet, other members of the judiciary and close relatives and friends of the inductee.

President's Week in Review: October 26 - November 1, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 26—

THE PRESIDENT reminded all municipal judges of their role to uproot the causes of valid grievances by preventing the miscarriage of justice. The President described the municipal judges as the backbone of the judiciary who are the deciding factors in many of the things that the government is doing. The President said that under the New Society, it is necessary to act upon the complaint of any citizen who has any grievance, whether such grievance is valid or not. Addressing the closing day of the eight national convention of the League of Municipal Judges at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President said he will soon issue a decree creating the Sandiganbayan and Tanodbayan, which are provided for under Article XIII of the Constitution.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Proclamation No. 1198 declaring October 27 a legal holiday in the Muslim provinces to give Muslims an opportunity to properly observe "Hariraya Puasa," marking the end of their fasting season. The event, also called Eid-UI-Fitr and Eid-UI-Adha, falls on the first day of the tenth lunar month of Shawwal in the Hijrah calendar. Capping the Muslim feasting month of Ramadan, the religious observance coincided with October 27, 1973 in the Gregorian calendar. The President also directed that all Muslim employees working outside the Muslim provinces and cities shall be excused from work during this holiday without diminution in salary. The President has also issued Presidential Decree No. 322 amending PD No. 291 which prescribes the observance of Muslim holidays as legal holidays.

NATIONAL Grains Authority and the National Irrigation Administration signed an agreement designed to intensify further the Government's cereal program. Under the agreement, rice farmers serviced by the NIA may pay their loans or irrigation fees and other charges in the form of palay. The NGA, in turn, will buy the palay at the Government support price of P35 per cavan of 50 kilos. This way, the Government will be able to collect its receivables from farmers without much difficulty and at the same time assures farmers of a ready market for their harvest at a reasonable price.

DEPARTMENT of Finance warned government officials and employees who fail to deduct or remit in time the withholding tax on their personnel's wages will be subjected to administrative action pursuant to the provisions of Presidential Decree No. 6. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata issued the warning in view of reports that many government offices have been remiss in the remittance of withholding taxes. The finance secretary said that public officials or employees who fail to remit the withholding taxes may not be held liable for surcharges and interest but can be administratively charged with "negligence in the performance of their duty."

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission called on the country's drug manufacturers to study the possibility of compressing protein from its natural form into pills or capsules. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that protein in pills or capsules would have far-reaching effect on the Government's health and nutrition program. Speaking before members of the Drug Association of the Philippines, Dr. Marcos noted that the nutritional deficiency of the people is in protein and not in vitamins. At the same time, he appealed to the drug manufacturers to sell their products at reasonable prices so that Medicare program can be expanded further.

THE PRESIDENT received the credentials of the new Indian and Belgian ambassadors to the Philippines. In separate ceremonies held at the Malacañang Ceremonial Hall, the President received the letters of credence of Ambassadors P. S. Naskar of India and Louis Vandenbrande of the Kingdom of Belgium as ambassadors extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the Philippines. Ambassador Naskar said that because of the program of reforms, the Philippines is now poised to achieve new heights in the field of social and economic development. Ambassador Vandenbrande, on the other hand, noted the progress made by the Philippines after liberation, and its contribution to every move to promote world peace. In return, the President expressed the hope that as both the Philippines and Belgium face new opportunities, their relations will come closer with more contacts between the citizens of both countries. The President also expressed gratitude to the government and people of India for the assistance and technical equipment given to the Philippines for the rehabilitation of the Philippine National Railways.

THE COUNTRY'S pineapple industry registered a total of 282 million kilos in 1972, according to the Bureau of Plant Industry. During the 12-month period, 29,630 hectares of land were planted to pineapple, producing 282,085,600 kilos. According to the bureau, pineapple is grown extensively in Northern Mindanao, Bicol Region, Southern Tagalog, Cagayan Valley and Western Visayas. The BPI said that pineapple ranks third in money value after banana and mango, and fourth in hectareage among the country's major fruit crops.

October 27—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 323 providing for a more reasonable tax scheme for overseas Filipinos, by allowing certain exemptions or deductions from their gross incomes. The issuance of the decree was prompted by the government's awareness of the heavy tax burden borne by non-resident Filipinos who have established their residence abroad. It was also pointed out that consistent with the reforms under the New Society for a better tax administration, it is envisioned that overseas Filipinos can better meet their obligations of citizenship through voluntary compliance with reasonable, just and fair-tax laws. PD 323 amends Sec. 21 of the National Internal Revenue Code.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 299-A reducing from 35 per cent to 15 per cent the tax on dividends received by a domestic or resident foreign corporation from a domestic corporation through the amendment of Sections 24, 29, 53 and 65 of the National Internal Revenue Code. This tax on dividends has been reduced to encourage more capital investments for large projects.

DEPARTMENT of Health has enjoined the country's health officials to organize educational activities to create public awareness on the dangers of drug abuse. The DH issued the call pursuant to Proclamation No. 1192, declaring the third week of November every year as "Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Week." In a related development, the Dangerous Drug Board urged professional, civic and religious groups to hold seminars, symposia and panel discussions during the "Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Week."

DEPARTMENT of Trade approved an application to construct housing communities for the retired Filipino and foreign servicemen and businessmen in the Philippines. The "retirement communities" will be opened to retired servicemen and businessmen of whatever nationality who meet the requirements regarding financing status, entry, lease clauses and Philippine government clearance. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the housing complex will be constructed by a Guam-based construction firm in joint venture with Filipino partners.

October 28—

THE PRESIDENT said an increasing part of every official peso expenditure will be devoted to economic development and social amelioration as the reform program of the government moves on. The President, in reply to a question from the press, said this is the meaning of the shift in orientation in government spending under the New Society. Prior to the proclamation of Martial Law, the operations of government represented the bigger portion of government spending as against capital expenditures for development. This is a conscious policy that forms part of the effort of the government to remove the inequalities in society that spawn disaffection and, sometimes, dissidence.

THE PRESIDENT has proclaimed the period from November 11-17, 1973, as "Management Consciousness Week," in line with the policy of the government to promote management consciousness in both the public and private sectors to help achieve the developmental goals of the nation. Proclamation No. 1187, issued by Acting Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, by order of the Chief Executive, pointed out that management consciousness is essential to promote better business practices, increase production and improve public administration and services, which are vital prerequisites to economic development, social progress and stability.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 317 amending certain sections of Act 2427 (Insurance Act) so as to broaden the cooperatives base and enable cooperatives to expand their activities in coordination with the economic, social and agrarian reforms of the government. PD 317 amends Sec. 200 (B) of the Insurance Act to the effect that the supervision and control of the insurance commissioner shall not apply to cooperatives undertaking insurance on the life, health, property and other risks of its members or those of the individual members of the member-societies.

THE PRESIDENT was informed by officials of one of biggest independent manufacturers of car components in the world, the Dana Corp., that they have decided to make Manila their Southeast Asian headquarters because of the favorable investment climate in the country. Led by Frank Groper and Robert Davis, the Dana officials said they arrived at the decision after making a survey of investment possibilities in various Southeast Asian countries.

THE PRESIDENT directed General Romeo Espino, AFP chief of staff, to set aside 30 hectares of land in Fort Bonifacio for a Maharlika Village to serve as a Muslim residential area. The President ordered General Espino to draw up the plans for the village, and to determine priorities in accommodation therein. The President's directive for setting up the Muslim village is in line with the government's policy of like treatment for both Christians and Muslims.

October 29—

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office the three new and eight incumbent members of the Supreme Court. The new appointees are Justices Estanislao Fernandez, Cecilia Munoz Palma and Ramon C. Aquino. The three new associate justices will hold office during good behavior until the age of 65. The eight incumbent associate justices who were made to continue in office by the President under Sec. 10 of Article XVII of the Constitution, will hold office until the age of 70, unless sooner replaced.

THE PRESIDENT called upon the country's librarians to help the government face squarely the challenges posed by the 20th century. The librarians, according to the Chief Executive, are in the best position to obtain the deepest understanding of the needs, values, aspirations and resources of the national community. In a speech read for him by Secretary of Education and Culture Juan L. Manuel during the closing ceremonies for the golden jubilee celebration of the Philippine Library Association, the President stressed that imbued with energy, dedication and idealism, many librarians are destined to become planners and doers, not merely operators of libraries.

THE PRESIDENT declared November 1, 1973, a special public holiday. The Chief Executive noted in Proclamation No. 1199 that paying homage to the dead on All Saints Day is "one of our cherished traditions and, in keeping with that tradition, the people should be given full opportunity to observe the day with all its religious fervor."

THE PRESIDENT exhorted foresters to redouble their total effort towards the important task of protecting and conserving the valuable forest resources of the country not only for material progress or for its aesthetic value, parks, games and wildlife but also for the prevention of soil erosion and flood control as well as the maintenance of the proper ecological balance of nature for the welfare of this and the generation that will come after. In a message to the Society of Filipino Foresters, the President said the forest resources will long continue to be one of the major pillars of our economy, particularly in the earnest efforts of the New Society towards industrialization, stabilization of the international trade and the general uplift of the standard of living of the Filipinos.

October 30—

THE PRESIDENT directed the Department of Trade and the Department of Industry to set up the proper "desks" that will attend to inquiries from, and provide other assistance to, foreign investors desiring to participate in the country's economic development. The President issued the order after receiving several foreign missions which had decided to make further investments in the country but would want to have a "one-stop shop" in dealing with the government, and some sort of "marriage bureau" to enable them to enter joint ventures with local companies.

FOUR Government agencies and two private organizations signed a memorandum of agreement organizing a nationwide medical self-help program through the barangays. The agencies which signed the agreement were the Department of Health, Department of National Defense, Department of Local Governments and Community Development, Office of Civil Defense, the Philippine National Red Cross and the Philippine Medical Association. The inter-agency project headed by the Department of Health was designed primarily for residents in the remote areas which seldom get proper health and medical attention. The project was conceived by the agencies in support of the national health program initiated by the President.

SCIENTIST from the National Institute of Science and Technology (NIST) reported that coir dust coming from coconut husk can be made into useful active carbon. A group of NIST engineers showed in laboratory scale that the decolorizing effect of active carbon produced from coir dust compares favorably with commercial active carbon. The group found out that coir dust already contains 20.78 per cent fixed carbon. However, the NIST group said more development works are needed before the process could be applied in commercial scale.

October 31—

THE PRESIDENT said that in 10 years the Philippines will have graduated from a source of primary products to an exporter of finished products. The President based his prediction on the emphasis being given by the administration to the promotion of processing of local products, and on the wide acceptability that Philippine products are finding in the world market today. The President made this prediction during the call of Alberto Peissevaux, managing director of Compagnie Franciere Eternit of Brussels, and H. Clive Hemming, executive vice president of Eternit Corp. of the Philippines. The group informed the President of the vast changes that they had noticed which according to them are “very encouraging for investors.”

THE GOVERNMENT is calling on all gasoline users to exert their utmost to help in the conservation of fuel. “This is an urgent call,” Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad stressed in a briefing for newsmen. He said the country faces a reduction of 15 to 20 per cent in crude oil supply because of cutbacks in production in the Middle East. These cuts are without regard to the 70 per cent increase in posted prices, which means that there will be less crude at any price. However, the implementation of the National Energy Plan of the government is being sped up, particularly with respect to the development of substitutes for oil, and the reduction of fuel consumption for the transportation system, Secretary Tatad said.

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 327 extending the period granting amnesty to persons who are required by law to file income tax returns from October 31, 1973 to November 30, 1973. The decree notes that the entire country had had inclement weather for the past few weeks brought about by three typhoons that caused considerable damage to public and private properties, with consequent and unexpected financial difficulties among the poorer sectors of the community and considerable delay in the tax filing campaign.

November 1—

THE PRESIDENT said that the government has no intention of utilizing the Philippine International Trading Corp. to take over in any way the private sector’s present channels of export and import. The statement was issued by the President in view of some apprehensions in the business circles, particularly abroad, that the PITC would take over some export and import channels. The PITC, however, would be available immediately to normalize the price situation during emergencies, as in the case of shortages of food, fuel, steel, animal feeds, and fertilizers, as well as in any conspiracy to rig artificially the prices of essential commodities.

THE PRESIDENT issued a proclamation declaring Sunday, November 4, this year, as President Carlos P. Garcia Day in the province of Bohol and the City of Tagbilaran. The day marks the 77th birth anniversary of the late fourth President of the Republic and first president of the 1971 Constitutional Convention. In his proclamation, the President said that the people of Bohol, the birthplace of President Garcia, should be given full opportunity to pay homage to one of their province’s greatest sons.

THE PRESIDENT created an administrative committee to manage a portion of land set aside as a Muslim housing village in Bicutan, Taguig, Rizal. The committee, created through Letter of Instructions No. 142 will take charge of operations for the establishment of the Maharlika Village, conceived to give substance to the policy of the government concerning the economic, social and cultural development of Muslim Mindanao. Named chairman of the administrative committee was the executive secretary. Appointed members were the presidential assistant for housing and resettlement, and the chief of staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines.

PHILIPPINE trade representatives in Jakarta, Indonesia reported that the country is a good market for Philippine-manufactured optical lenses. The number of spectacle-users in the country as estimated by the Indonesian Optical Association, is placed at 1.5 per cent of the population or roughly 1,800,000 persons with a growth rate of 1.5 per cent annually. The demand, according to the study, will stem from the present number of spectacle-users who will be needing replacement spectacles or parts and from the accretion of new wearers to this group. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. was informed that Indonesia still relies on imports of this item. There are two optical manufacturing companies in Indonesia but the production capacities of these two manufacturers are "relatively small."

President's Week in Review: November 2-8, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 2—

THE PRESIDENT directed Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile to inventory existing oil supplies in the country in the face of cutbacks in production and deliveries. This would cover importers of crude, refineries and processing plants, distributors and gasoline stations. The President has also ordered the printing of fuel ration cards to prepare for the possible rationing of fuel. In this connection, barangays were directed to update their listing for this purpose.

THE PRESIDENT has issued Proclamation No. 1194 extending the period of the annual educational and fund campaign of the Community Chests and Councils of the Philippines, Inc. (CCCPI) from October 31 to December 31. Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. said the extension was aimed at enabling the organization to realize its fund campaign goals. Proclamation No. 1194, which was issued October 19, superseded Proclamation No. 1128 of April 12 which set the CCCPI's campaign period from June 1 to October 31.

DEPARTMENT of Finance dismissed 12 backsliding municipal treasurers, suspended six others and fined five more. The penalties on the 23 personnel were imposed by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata after they were found guilty of administrative charges filed against them pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 6. The total number of officials and employees of the Department of Finance and its bureaus and offices who were either dismissed or considered resigned as notoriously undesirable has now reached 1,127.

THE PRESIDENT speeded up the establishment of a Muslim housing village in Bicutan, Taguig, Rizal, with the creation of a committee to take charge of the project. Named chairman of the administrative committee was Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. The committee was created through Letter of Instructions No. 141 issued to give substance to the policy of the government concerning the economic, social and cultural development of Muslim Mindanao.

PHILIPPINE Tobacco Administration and Agricultural Credit Administration launched an integrated financing program for small growers of cigar-filler tobacco in major tobacco-producing areas. PTA Chairman-General Manager Demetrio P. Tabije and ACA Administrator Teofilo T. Azada adverted that the "joint venture" is aimed at increasing the income of the small farmers and expanding the production of this crop which has demonstrated an infinite potentiality for earning foreign exchange. Under the said program, farmers can avail of the production and working capital loans from a special fund that these agencies allotted for the purpose.

November 3—

THE PRESIDENT said the encouragement of sports is one of the keystones for developing the capacities of the youth and "their outlook for a world that can be peaceful." In a speech read for him by Secretary of Education Juan Manuel at the opening of the Asian Zonal Volleyball Championship at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum, the President noted that in all of the developing countries in Asia today, the promotion of sports is a crucial factor of development. "Regional competitions among our nations show finally not the superiority of one nation over another, but our common aspiration to development and brotherhood," the President said.

THE PRESIDENT has directed that some 500,000 customers of the Meralco shall become owners of the public utility firm as a result of the proposed transfer of the holdings of the Lopez family in the Meralco Securities Corp. to the Meralco Foundation. This is in line with the government policy to encourage the private sector, particularly public utility firms engaged in the exploitation of natural resources, to broaden their ownership. The 500,000 customers comprise about 80 per cent of Meralco's light and power consumers. They include only those whose electric bills did not exceed P100 a month for the one-month period ending October 31, 1973.

FORMER US Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the New Society in the Philippines “has already achieved a record of successful accomplishments” and expressed hopes it will continue to move forward. The former US official made the statement during a formal dinner given in his honor by Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo in New York.

THE GOVERNMENT authorized the establishment of two more Philippine Houses in two European capitals in line with its efforts to promote Philippine exportable products as well as tourism. The two new houses will be located in Rome, Italy, and Vienna, Austria.

November 4—

THE PRESIDENT spurred faster implementation of the land reform program, but issued guidelines to protect small landowners, particularly those owning 24 hectares of rice and corn lands or less, who may be adversely affected. Noting that the small landowners constitute part of the economic middle class which the government is trying to build, the President said measures should be taken to forestall the possibility of an economic dislocation as a result of the current drive to uplift the lives of tenants. Through Letter of Instructions No. 143, the President directed a number of government officials to make studies to determine, among others, the possible effects, especially on small landowners, of the full and speedy implementation of land, reform.

THE PRESIDENT included blackmarketing of gasoline or of any other oil product in the category of crimes against national security and will be triable by military tribunal. The President took this move even as he warned against the temptation of engaging in the illegal traffic of gasoline and other oil products in the face of the critical supply of these commodities all over the world.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., by order of the President, proclaimed the period from November 6 to 13, 1973 as “Purchasing Week,” in line with the government policy to attract investments from both Filipinos and foreigners. Proclamation No. 1200 points out that nationwide efforts of industrialization and socio-economic development can be enhanced effectively not only by making the citizens more aware of the benefits that will accrue to them from industrialization but also by making industries more socially oriented.

November 5—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated Presidential Decree No. 329 allowing private citizens to file their complaints or grievances against “backsliding officials, at the minimal cost of ten centavos per telegram thru the Bureau of Telecommunications and all private telecommunications, telegraphic and similar establishments. Under the decree, the complaints and grievances by private citizens maybe addressed to the President, the secretary of national defense in his capacity as chairman of the special Cabinet committee to cheek on backsliding, all action committees of this special Cabinet committee, as well as all provincial governors, and city mayors.

THE PRESIDENT hailed the plan of two Munich aircraft factories to enter into a joint venture with a local firm to establish what may ultimately become the nucleus of an aircraft industry in the Philippines. Fritz-Deter Winkleman of Helicopter Technik and Gerd Schonbuchner, regional sales director of Dorneir GMBH, both of which firms are based in Munich, Germany, called on the President to seek permission to establish a factory in the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan, in cooperation with Malayan Motors Corp. The two business executives said they plan to make the Philippines their base of operations in Southeast Asia because of the investment incentives offered by the government and the generally favorable business atmosphere.

DEPARTMENT of Trade said the Philippines is registering a $14.6 million balance in her favor, in total trade with socialist, and communist countries as of the month of October. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. said that since the issuance of Executive Order No. 384 by the President promulgating policy guidelines and trade with socialist and communist countries, the country has increased its exportation of both new and traditional products. Total Philippine exports to these new outlets amounted to US$38,420,272.62 while total Philippine imports from the same sources amounted to only $23,781,473.59. Philippine exports consisted mostly of Portland cement, plywood and veneer, crude coconut oil in bulk, buri fibers and apitong logs and copra.

PHILIPPINE Government and the United Nations Development Programme launched a joint forest management project designed to optimize timber yield and improve forest conservation measures in the country. The project is financed by UNDP contribution of $764,800 and a Philippine government counterpart fund of P3,737,600. The project document was signed by Director-General Gerardo Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority, William M. Harding, UNDP resident representative to the Philippines, and Campbell R. MacCalluch, country representative of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the Philippines, at the NEDA conference hall.

DEPARTMENT of Health has underscored the need of training medical specialist to spearhead the move of providing blood banking services in the rural areas. Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan noted that "blood banking services are needed in the rural areas in times of natural calamities." Speaking at the 4th National Scientific Seminar of the Philippine Society of Pathologists in Baguio City, he also pointed out that Martial Law has beneficial effects on blood banking in the country. Although warning against erring blood banks, Secretary Gatmaitan said that most of the country's blood banks "are beyond reproach due to the sense of responsibility and dedicated service of those who are professionally managing these banks." In issuing the warning, he said that there is no allowance for human error in blood transfusion because such an error may mean the death of the patient.

November 6—

THE PRESIDENT directed all government offices to effect the highest possible savings on energy consumption by working without air conditioning and by suspending less essential activities that make use of petroleum products. The Chief Executive likewise urged the private sector to observe the same measures. In order to further conserve motor fuel, the President has directed that appropriate bus stops and jeepney stops be now installed and properly marked on the various city routes in order to minimize unnecessary stops of public vehicles.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Gold Cross on Major Gaetano Faillace (ret.) of the United States Army for gallantry in action during the Liberation of Manila and for providing a detailed and accurate photographic record of the Battle of Manila. During his call on the President, Faillace presented to the President photographs of Malacañang Palace taken in 1945.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission requested hospitals to comply faithfully with the provision of the Medicare Law which specifically enumerates a number of medical and surgical services as not covered by the Medicare Program. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that some hospitals and physicians have been giving false hopes for themselves and for their patients by applying for payment of non-compensable services. RA 6111 otherwise known as the Philippine Medical Care Act of 1969 excludes from the Medicare Program the following services: cosmetic surgery or treatment; dental services, except major dental surgery or operation which needs hospitalization; optometric services; chronic psychiatric illness; services which are purely diagnostic; and normal obstetrical services.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has issued new guidelines in the licensing of recruiters or recruiting firms engaged in overseas employment. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople said that under the rules, all work contracts should be authenticated by the Philippine labor attache, the Philippine consulate or the appropriate foreign government agency at the site of work before they can be processed by the Office of Manpower Services of the labor department. The purpose is to protect the workers from racketeering recruiters or from exploitation by unscrupulous employers abroad.

DEPARTMENT of Agriculture and Natural Resources recommended a shift to pulpwood tree farming pending the phasing out of log exports. Secretary Arturo R. Tanco, Jr. said that two pulpwood species—the "Benguet Pine" and the "Albizia Falcata"—can generate a sizable income for long-range investors. In recommending the shift to pulpwood tree farming, he said the total ban on log export to be imposed by 1976 will encourage pulpwood processing in the Philippines. He added that market for pulpwood "is limitless" and processing it locally on a massive scale will not only help supply the increasing market for wood but will also open new horizons in the industrial sector.

November 7—

THE PRESIDENT call on both the government and private sectors to support the setting up of a national auditorium for local chess players. Speaking during the closing rites of the First Philippine International Chess Tournament, held at the Maharlika hall of Malacañang, the Chief Executive took note of the sad showing of the local boys in the tourney and expressed the need for an auditorium) to give Filipino players more chances of being exposed to tournaments.

THE PRESIDENT approved the prizes recommended by the Department of Local Government and Community Development in connection with the Balikbayan contest for bringing back the most number of overseas Filipino. Under Letter of Instructions No. 105, the period from September 1(1973 to February 24. 1974 has been designated by the Chief Executive as a homecoming season for Filipinos or their families and descendants who are now residents or citizens of other lands Pursuant to the said Letter of Instructions, prizes shall be awarded to provinces, cities, municipalities and barrios which succeed in inviting tor a home visit the most number of overseas Filipinos. A total of P4 million to be paid out of excess income takes is allocated for the purpose.

COMMISSION on Elections Chairman Leonardo B. Perez declared that the President's continuance in office after the termination of his term on December 30 is mandated by the new Constitution. Chairman Perez said one of the basic changes under the new charter is the elimination of December 30, 1973 as the cut-off date for the term of the President. The Comelec chairman said the legal reality do not arise from the will of the President but from the mandate of the sovereign people. "He did not need to; the people gave it to him that he may continue to implement his program of reform," Chairman Perez added.

ROOT CROPS can now be irradiated to increase their yield and decrease maturation periods. This new breakaway from the usual irradiation treatment of other agricultural crops like rice was successfully accomplished by a professor of the University of the Philippines, department of botany. According to observations made by the said professor, irradiated rootcrop yields much higher than a normal root-crop including increases in the quantity and vitamin content.

November 8—

THE PRESIDENT called on government finance experts to help transform the national budget into a "living vehicle" for the attainment of overall developmental goals. These technical men, according to the Chief Executive, can pinpoint wastefully operated areas in the government service which can be done away with, thus effecting savings. Moreover, they can discern the more important programs which could hasten progress provided these are supported with more adequate funds, he said. In a speech read by Assistant Executive Secretary for Development Affairs Ramon B. Cardenas at the convention seminar of the Philippine Association for Government Budget Administration held at the Development Academy of the Philippines in Tagaytay City, the Chief Executive called on his fiscal experts to come up with "more positive and concrete suggestions for my consideration."

THE PRESIDENT said the growing energy problem resulting from a cutback on oil supplies will require a greater measure of sacrifice from the people. He said that this sacrifice must be shared by all, "the high and the low, the rich and the poor."The President made the remarks in a speech delivered for him by Secretary of General Services Constancio E. Castañeda at the second national convention of purchasing and material managers. The organization is composed of purchasing specialists from both the government and private sectors. Stressing that there should now be a spirit of innovation and a dynamic response to the emergency, the President called on the purchasing officials to be more "selective in building up inventories of stocks needed by their offices or their establishments."

THE PRESIDENT and the Cabinet took cognizance of the existence of a crisis in oil in view of the cutbacks in deliveries of crude to the extent of 25 per cent. The following policies were laid down during the Cabinet meeting:

- 1) The present requirements of production and essential social services will be maintained, including the need of expanded activity in these areas, but there will be necessary cuts in the general consumption of fuel; 2) A National Allocation Board was created during the meeting with the principal task of managing strategic resources and determining their allocation to the various sectors of society; 3) Motor fuel allocation will be rationed per family, with an allocation of 200 liters a month per car, for a maximum number of two cars per family; and 4) That starting November 12, government offices go on a three-day weekend, to minimize energy consumption in the offices.

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree codifying, revising and updating all forestry laws in order to conserve more effectively the nation's public forests and at the same time provide suitable agricultural land for the people. In the course of his address before delegates to the first annual conference of lumbermen, foresters and forest concessionaires gathered at Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the Chief Executive emphasized the serious need to effectively conserve the nation's public forests, including watershed areas, to protect and preserve national parks. He stressed the urgency of giving force and effect to the code "in the quickest possible manner and time," pointing out that the Filipino people had suffered from the last catastrophic flood and droughts throughout the country.

THE PRESIDENT reiterated the Philippine government's full support for the full implementation of United Nations Resolution J-242 as a necessary step for the restoration of peace in the Middle East. The resolution, adopted unanimously by the Security Council on November 22, 1967, calls for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territories seized in the 1967 Middle East conflict. The President made the statement during the presentation of the credentials at Malacañang of the new Egyptian ambassador to the Philippines, Abdel Monein Zabi El-Shenawy, who replaces Ambassador Adel Abdel Amid Fadel.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. directed the Fair Trade Board to investigate reported malpractices by certain gasoline station operators, in particular the adulteration and selling only of premium gasoline. Secretary Quiazon took the move in response to various calls for assistance and complaints from various sectors. The Secretary said the erring parties will be immediately prosecuted for breach of the fair trade law.

SECURITIES and Exchange Commission warned the investing public against putting money in so-called "fixed-interest guaranteed plans" unless these have been licensed by the commission. SEC Commissioner Arcadio Yabyabin took this action in view of report that a number of firms are selling plans guaranteed either to make your money grow or make you a "millionaire." Commissioner Yabyabin explained that the SEC has previously ruled that said plans are securities in the meaning of the Securities Act (Commonwealth Act No. 83) and therefore, require registration before these companies can solicit funds from the public. Banks selling bonds or trust funds are not covered by the SEC warning.

November 16—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the takeover by the government of the entire domestic sugar supply to ensure its availability in the market at officially prescribed socialized prices. The Chief Executive issued the order in view of reports that sugar has become scarce to general consumers in the traditional retail outlets. The Chief Executive stressed that all steps must be taken to avoid any difficulty in the procurement of any essential commodity that would compound the existing energy crisis.

SECRETARY of Public Information Francisco S. Tatad urged the members of the Philippine Association of National Advertisers to use their influence to make the mass media a source of excellence and nourishment under an enlightened society. Keynoting the opening day of the 1st national advertisers conference at the Pines Hotel in Baguio City, Secretary Tatad invited the advertisers to assess the problems of media accurately and without hesitation and then to help push internal reforms in media to assure the success of their endeavors. He stressed there is no controlled press in the country but much work has to be done to get the best out of the media. The secretary said that because of their role as the life and blood of the mass media, the national advertisers can do much to improve the standards of performance in the mass media, to raise the level of intellection in society.

THE PRESIDENT, through Proclamation No. 1205, has proclaimed the period from November 25 to December 1 every year as "Social Welfare Week" for the promotion of a higher quality of life among the people. In the said proclamation, the Chief Executive called upon all social workers and others engaged in socio-economic development to redouble their efforts to create a society that shall strive to attain the full economic and social development of the people. In a separate order, the President directed the proclamation of the period from November 26, 1973 to December 2, 1973 as "Amateur Radio Week" in connection with the 41st anniversary celebration of the Philippine Amateur Radio Association on November 26, 1973. The order as contained in Proclamation No. 1204 underscores the necessity to focus public attention on the important role that the Philippine Amateur Radio Association plays in radio broadcasting service in times of national emergencies, disasters and calamities, and in promoting and fostering friendly international relations.

PERIOD of the annual educational and fund campaign of the Community Chest and Council organizations in the Philippines has been extended to December 31, 1973 by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. under Proclamation No. 1194, to enable them to realize their fund campaign goals. THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 304 which provides that the "realty tax on real property actually, directly, and exclusively used by the owner for educational purposes as prescribed PD 261 shall begin to accrue on January 1, 1975 instead of January 1, 1974. These real properties shall be listed and assessed for taxation purposes during the calendar year 1974 on the basis of 15 per cent of their current and fair market value in accordance with the provisions of PD 76, as amended by PD 261.

INTERNAL Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera issued the clarification that the income tax exemption for retirees covers social security benefits, gratuities, pensions and other similar benefits from foreign sources. Accordingly, similar benefits received by resident citizens, resident aliens and non-resident citizens from foreign governments or from foreign private entities during the taxable year 1973 (January 1 to December 31, 1973) and thereafter are exempt from Philippine income tax. Commissioner Vera issued the clarification in accordance with Presidential Decree No. 220 which exempts social security benefits retirement gratuities pensions and similar benefits from payment of income taxes.

SUPREME Court resolved to constitute itself into two divisions of six members each. This is in pursuance of Section 2 of Article X of the new Constitution. The first division will be composed of Chief Justice Querube Makalintal, as chairman, and have Justices Fred Ruiz Castro Claudio Teehankee, Felix V. Makasiar, Salvador V. Esguerra and Cecilia Muñoz Palma as members. The second division will consist of Justice Calixto O. Zaldivar, chairman, and for members, Enrique M. Fernando, Antonio P. Barredo, Felix Q. Antonio, Estanislao A. Fernandez and Ramon C. Aquino.

November 18—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 305, further amending certain sections of the National Internal Revenue Code governing private educational institutions, so that exemptions from the “income tax of such institutions be removed, and a fixed rate of tax be imposed on all their income. The decree provides that private educational institutions, whether stock or non-stock, shall pay a tax of 10 per cent of their taxable net income from the operation of the school, related school activities, and on their passive investment income consisting of interest dividends, royalties and the like. A corporation or association organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific athletic or cultural purposes, or for the rehabilitation of veterans, no part of the net income of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, shall be exempt from the tax on corporation. However the income of any of the foregoing organizations of whatever kind and character from any of their properties, real or personal, or from any activity conducted for profit, regardless of the disposition made of such income, shall be liable to the tax imposed under this title.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the National Prime Commodities Operations Center to see it that there will be no cutbacks in production and personnel layoffs in industry as a result of the energy crisis. The presidential directive was disclosed by Col. Pacifico Lopez de Leon, NPCOC executive director, during the concluding session of a three-day workshop on energy and oil sponsored by the Research and Management Associates.

THE PHILIPPINES and Bulgaria formally established diplomatic relations at embassy level. The Department of Foreign Affairs said a joint communique was signed at the Philippines Mission to the United Nations by Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo and Bulgarian Deputy Foreign Minister and permanent UN representative Guro Grozev.

November 19—

THE PRESIDENT has created a special Rizal Day committee to ensure the successful observance throughout the Philippines of this year’s 77th death anniversary of Dr. Jose Rizal on December 30. Under Administrative Order No. 357, the special committee to take charge of all arrangements is composed of Education Undersecretary Narciso Albarracin as chairman and Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes as vice chairman. Under the said administrative order, the President authorizes the committee to meet at the call of the chairman, for the purpose of discharging its function, and it may create sub-committees, as necessary, the committee is likewise authorized to call any department, bureau, office, agency or instrumentality of the government, including government-owned or controlled corporations, for such assistance as it may need in discharging its duties and functions.

THE PRESIDENT received Australian Foreign Affairs Secretary Alain P. Renouf who made a courtesy call on the Chief Executive in the course of a brief stopover in Manila en route to Australia. Secretary Renouf informed the President that Prime Minister Gough Whitlam supports the President’s Asian Forum proposal. The Australian official also briefed the President on the latest developments in Europe, and exchanged views with the President on a wide range of matters of mutual interest between the Philippines and Australia.

THE PRESIDENT welcomed a joint government-private investment group from Singapore who had come to the Philippines to consider possible technical and financing assistance for a proposed pier complex for the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan. Headed by Jacob Ballas, former president of the Singapore-Malaysia Stock Exchange, the group was made up of Chong Kek Clio and Teoh Jing Seng, director and assistant director, respectively, of the Singapore Port Authority, and Khor Tiam Siew, investments director of the Singapore Government Development Bank.

THE PRESIDENT was informed by the representatives of the companies entering into a joint venture that another large combine is now being formed to join the search for oil in the Philippines. Joseph D'Andrea, president of Westrans Industries of New York, and concurrently of Basic Petroleum, and Robert Spurlock and Donald Robilaud, chief negotiator and attorney, respectively, of Sun Oil, informed the President that they had already submitted their application for oil exploration and drilling on a service contract, with the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources. The oil officials expressed eagerness to start operations as soon as possible because of the current world oil and energy crisis.

November 20—

THE PRESIDENT commended over a hundred experts in the study and prevention of mental retardation for their dedication and their participation in the first Asian Conference on Mental Retardation now being held in Manila. The President said that mental retardation, which affects three per cent of world's population, including 75 million in Asia and one million in the Philippines, is of such dimensions that no single government can hope to face it and succeed. "We must salute you who have dedicated your entire lives to retrieving from the ash can of humanity those who 'have perhaps been retarded by retarded policies and set aside, constituting a burden we must all carry,'" the President added. THE PRESIDENT reiterated the government policy of guaranteeing the free flow of foreign capital, investors and personnel in the Philippines. The President told an Italian Economic Mission currently conducting a market and investment possibilities survey of the country that the government guarantees the free flow of foreign investments as well as of foreign investors and personnel from the managerial to the technical levels. The President was informed by the Mission that they are much impressed by the favorable investment climate here and are exploring investment possibilities as well as a market for their products, which consist mostly of machineries for agriculture, construction and plastics manufacture.

THE PRESIDENT, through Proclamation No. 1208, has declared the period from November 21 to November 27 as "National Employment Development Week" as a means of rallying the unqualified support of government and the private sectors in the implementation of national employment programs. The proclamation stresses that there is an urgent need for economic reforms in the country to enable the unemployed to obtain gainful employment. Proclamation 1208 underlines the fact that the government is putting emphasis on an employment strategy that serves not only to enhance further economic progress but also to increase employment and employment opportunities for the benefit of the majority of the Filipino people who have been 'by-passed in the process of economic growth.

THE PRESIDENT said that the program of reforms has all the signs of succeeding and that conditions have improved with Martial Law. The President, however, pointed out to Hongkong publishers and editors who called at Malacañang that Martial Law, Philippine style, is not the same as the martial law experienced in some other countries. In the Philippines, the President pointed out, the Constitution continues to exist and the President continues to retain civil authority although he may also be the commander-in-chief of the armed forces. The President was informed by the group that they were very much impressed with the very attractive investment climate and the generally peaceful atmosphere.

THE PRESIDENT gave the nationwide land reform program another boost when he directed all employees of the national government and all officers and men of the Armed Forces of the Philippines to submit individual land ownership declarations. The directive, contained in Memorandum Circular No. 679 issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. on the authority of the President, gives the government personnel and AFP men up to December 15 to submit their declarations.

November 21—

THE PRESIDENT said that Filipinos are committed to athletics and that they are believers in the classic maxim correlating "a sound mind and a sound body." The President made this observation during the call at Malacañang of heads of the different delegations participating in the First Asian Track and Field Championship meet being held at the Rodriguez Sports Center in Marikina, Rizal. The President at the same time congratulated the sports officials for having succeeded in bringing a conglomeration of 321 athletes from 18 Asian countries to the Philippines. He said that athletics often succeed in promoting goodwill among nations where diplomats, politicians and chiefs of state, fail.

THE PRESIDENT assured a 15-man group of realtors from Hawaii who have just formalized an overseas contract for the sale of land in the vicinity of the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan, that their interests will be protected by the government. The group, belonging to the Ray-Bar Corp. of Hawaii, had just formalized an $11.4 million contract to sell overseas some 1,155 lots in Phase I of the Landoil Resources land development program in Bataan.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. batted for long-range export development and promotion, as he noted that exports have emerged as the main avenue for further economic growth. Secretary Quiazon made the assessment at the opening session of the three-day symposium on Export Development and Promotion jointly sponsored by the Departments of Public Information and of Trade at the DBP Auditorium, Makati, Rizal. Secretary Quiazon said that export development and promotion can best be carried out through the cooperation of government and private sectors based on a clear and accepted understanding of objectives. He also added that the New Society has brought many innovations and reforms which have invigorated a rather anemic export situation.

THE PHILIPPINES was extended by the Japanese government a ten billion yen or approximately P220 million commodity loan. The loan was signed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Tokyo, Japan, in a formal exchange of notes with Philippine Ambassador to Japan Roberto Benedicto. Riyoshisa Mikanagi, director-general of the Japanese Economic Cooperation Bureau, signed the formal note in behalf of Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira. The loan will be used for the purchase in Japan of such raw materials and light capital goods as are enumerated in a list agreed upon by the competent authorities of both the Japanese and the Philippine governments.

November 22—

THE PRESIDENT said that the health requirements of the country are given high priority in the administration's program of reforms. In a speech at the opening ceremonies of the annual convention of the Philippine Hospital Association, the President said that the country has been divided into 11 regions, with one major hospital to be set up in each region. He said the program also calls for the establishment of four medical centers at strategic points. The President disclosed that he has authorized the initial release of P100 million for the construction of hospitals, including 19 in the Muslim areas.

THE GOVERNMENT has stabilized the supply of sugar in the retail market, the National Prime Commodities Operations Center was informed. Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad said that during the meeting of the NPCOC, Brig. Gen. Prospero Olivas, the President's representative and military supervisor of the sugar industry, reported that the government's inventory of sugar stocks at this time stands at 1,707,483.05 piculs of domestic sugar, or 119,045.71 short tons. The NPCOC assured that there will be no curtailment of supply and no price increases and the socialized pricing of sugar will be strictly enforced. At the same time, the NPCOC directed the Philippine Highway Patrol Group to coordinate with the various police agencies in the Greater Manila area to effect the immediate installation of taxi stands in the area as a practical means of conserving fuel.

REPRESENTATIVES of all marketing arms of cement companies have been called to a meeting to thresh out what appears to be an artificial shortage in the cement market. Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile, chairman of the National Prime Commodities Operations Center, warned that the government will not stand for any cartelization of cement that results in a supply squeeze and a rise in prices particularly of stocks diverted to the blackmarket. The secretary sees indications of hoarding as the cause of the artificial shortage for it was reported that in the first nine months of 1973, the industry produced 72 million bags, and yet there is a shortage.

THE PRESIDENT received Foreign Minister Bohuslav Chnoupek of Czechoslovakia who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang. The President said he considered it historic that the foreign minister of Czechoslovakia should make the first official visit after the normalization of relations between the two countries. Foreign Minister Chnoupek informed the President that his country is interested in developing ties, with the Philippines. He said it is in line with Czechoslovakia's foreign policy of peaceful cooperation between states with different social systems.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. by order of the President issued Proclamation No. 1206 declaring the last week of November of every year as the “Food Science and Technology Week” to focus public attention on the important role that the food technology profession is playing in the promotion of the proper processing, handling and utilization of foods. The proclamation places under the auspices of the Philippine Association of Food Technologists, Inc. the proper observance of the week.

President's Week in Review: November 23-29, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 23—

THE PRESIDENT expressed determination to push through his administration's program of reforms until the centuries-old dreams and aspirations of the Filipino people are realized. Keynoting the sixth general convention of the National Council of Churches in the Philippines, meeting at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President said it is his "moral obligation as President to see through all the reforms, and I would rather die than see them discontinued." Denning the moral basis of what he described as the constitutional authoritarian revolution, the President said "we are obligated to eliminate all the vices of the old society so that the poor will no longer suffer and the affluent will participate in democratizing wealth, which will no longer be used to brutalize and degrade man but to uplift him and return to him his dignity." In closing, the Chief Executive lauded the various churches of the country for coming together.

THE PRESIDENT ordered a direct inquiry into reported unauthorized fuel cuts made by certain sectors of the oil companies on agriculture and industry, and alleged allocation increases for certain non-productive purposes. The President designated Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile, chairman of the National Prime Commodities executive committee and the National Allocation Board, and Oil Industry Commission Chairman Ponciano Mathay to undertake the inquiry.

The PRESIDENT expressed hope that with the establishment of full diplomatic relations between the Philippines and Czechoslovakia, trade, and cultural exchanges could now be intensified between their peoples. The President made the remarks during a dinner he gave in honor of Foreign Minister Bohuslav Chnoupek of Czechoslovakia at the Heroes Hall of Malacañang. With a sense of gratification, the President cited the fact that Czechoslovakia was the first country in Eastern Europe to open full diplomatic relations with the Philippines. Also, Czechoslovakia was one of the first to express support for the archipelagic doctrine sponsored by the Philippines as part of the proposed law of the sea. In response, Foreign Minister Chnoupek expressed the happiness of his country over its new relations with the Philippines. He said that his country hopes that the talks on arms will end in favor of an era of dialogue and cooperation among nations. "We are for peace, for reduction of tension, for security, for mutually advantageous cooperation," Chnoupek said.

THE DANISH government agreed to extend a $5.4 million (30-million Danish Kroner) loan to the Philippines under the Danish development aid program. The agreement to grant the loan was signed at Malacañang by Hans Jespersen, head of the Danish International Development "Agency (DANIDA), and Assistant Executive Secretary Ramon Cardenas, who represented the Philippine government.

November 24—

THE PRESIDENT has approved a recommendation, from, the Philippine Constabulary waiving various travel requirements for Filipino Muslims joining the government-sponsored pilgrimage to Mecca next year. As authorized "by the Chief Executive, the Muslim pilgrims will no longer be required to submit their birth certificates or birth affidavits, tax clearance and police (and similar type) clearance. They will also not be asked to pay travel and other taxes relative to travel abroad. Furthermore, the pilgrims will not be required to get their passports for an official travel document will be issued to them. To avoid confusion, a certificate of citizenship by the local representative of the Commission on National Integration will be given to each Muslim pilgrim.

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 338 to amend certain provisions of Presidential Decree No. 251, which exempts the Land Bank from all national, provincial, municipal and city taxes and assessments enforced or hereinafter established, among other provisions. Under PD No. 251, it would appear that the exemption from such taxes would be enjoined not only by the Land Bank but also "by persons and other entities doing business with the Bank," when it is not the intention of PD No. 251 to endow such exemption to the clients of the Land Bank. PD No.

338 further amended the second paragraph of Sec. 98 of Republic Act No. 3844, the Code of Agrarian Reform in the Philip pines, which had been amended by Sec. 21 of PD No. 251.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., by order of the President, issued Proclamation No. 1207 declaring the period from December 9 to 15, 1973 as “Government Employees Week” to have the public realize the existence of loyal and efficient state workers. The said proclamation calls upon all citizens to give a thought to the dedicated, honest and hard-working government employe in grateful appreciation of his services. The executive secretary stresses that the week should be devoted to maximizing service efficiency and promoting better relations between the public and the government employees. The proclamation notes there are legions of unsung heroes in the government whose existence has remained unnoticed, hence, the need to focus public attention on their efficient and dedicated service to the government.

November 25—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 842 creating and establishing the Philippine Center for Advanced Studies (PCAS) at the University of the Philippines. PD No. 342 lists PCAS objectives as follows: 1) Bring together specialists from various disciplines to con duct systematic research at fundamental levels; 2) Assist the central government in the formulation of policies and programs; 3) Address itself to the examination of issues of central concern to the government such as problems of national integration, social, technological and cultural change, social effects of national policy, international developments and their impact on national life, as well as security and strategic problems, and 4) Establish degree programs and participate in “existing instructional programs in order to produce Filipino experts or specialists for the nation. The PCAS shall be an autonomous unit of the UP system, with a seven-men board of trustees which formulates and reviews the objectives and policies as well as nominates the PCAS officers and staff.

THE PRESIDENT formalized the creation of the provinces of North Cotabato, Maguindanao, and Sultan Kudarat out of the province of Cotabato through the issuance of Presidential Decree No. 341. Two related decrees were issued at the same time, PD No. 341 which creates the municipality of Datu Paglas in the province of Maguindanao and PD No. 339 which creates the municipalities of President Quirino, Mariano Marcos, and Esperanza in the province of Sultan Kudarat.

NATIONAL Cottage Industries Development Enterprise have jointly started stockpiling critically needed raw materials for cottage industries. Trade Undersecretary and NACIDA Administrators Mario R. Reyes said that the move was taken to assure the continued and steady flow of raw materials to the nation’s cottage industries in the face of an acute shortage of imported raw materials. Undersecretary Reyes also said that the measures would enable the cottage industry producers to meet the volume and quality requirements of the export market and save them trouble from non-fulfillment of delivery quotas.

November 26—

THE PRESIDENT acted to alleviate further the oil shortage by allowing the importation, free from customs duties, of naphtha and other processed products as may be determined by the Chief Executive upon the recommendation of the National Economic and Development Authority. Through Presidential Decree No. 343, the importation, free from customs duties, maybe made by persons or entities duly authorized by the Oil Industry Commission, for a period of 45 days from approval of the decree (November 26, 1973) unless sooner terminated by the President.

THE PRESIDENT appointed Mr. Felimon C. Rodriguez, a well-known business executive, as acting president of the Philippine International Trading Corp., and declared the new government agency officially operational. The President announced the appointment of Mr. Rodriguez as PITC president during the courtesy call of the 11-man trade mission from the People’s Republic of China, led by Director Yao-Ting Wang of the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade. The PITC was established by Presidential Decree No. 252, issued last July 21, for the purpose of strengthening the country’s position in the international trade.

THE PRESIDENT granted a 60-day reprieve to three death convicts who were scheduled to be executed in the electric chair for the gun-slaying of a Chinese national and a policeman in Leyte in 1958. Given a lease on life were Valentin Suparable, Antonio Pacli and Benjamin Pacli. The execution was suspended upon recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole, which has asked for sufficient time to study the petition of the convicts for executive clemency.

November 27—

THE PRESIDENT proclaimed a state of public calamity in the provinces of Capiz, Negros Occidental, Aklan, Nueva Vizcaya and the Cagayan Valley, which suffered widespread destruction to property and loss of lives caused by the strong winds and heavy rains of typhoon “Openg.” The Chief Executive issued the proclamation (Proclamation No. 1210) to prevent the excessive increase in the prices of essential commodities due to profiteering and hoarding, as well as to enable government and civic relief and welfare agencies to carry out their objectives effectively.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered substantial increases in the per diem and other travel expenses for government officials and employees traveling on official business abroad and within the country. The presidential directive was contained in Executive Order No. 421, covering the travel of officials abroad, and Presidential Decree No. 344, regulating the traveling expenses of officials and employees when on official travel within the Philippines. These increases seek to alleviate the plight of public officials and employees sent on official mission or business in the light of the continuing rise in the costs of hotel or other accommodations, transportation and other expenses incident to travel within the country and abroad.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad voiced a strong appeal that “libraries be brought to the people,” because libraries are not merely repositories of information and knowledge but “powerhouses of human motivation for achievement.” The secretary sounded the appeal during the celebration of National Book Week sponsored by the Library and Library Science Departments of the Philippine Normal College. The secretary stressed that a library is useless if it stands like a parthenon on an inaccessible hill; it must be brought down and play its vital role in the life of the people. “The books do not belong to the shelves as prey to dust and the ravages of time; they belong to the people.”

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the city of Manila to tap its idle P3, 696,922 sinking fund for public market construction, purchase or repair, and use it for urgent public outlays. The President’s directive is contained in Presidential Decree No. 345.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Presidential Merit Medal on C. Allan Foran, former president of Ford Philippines, “in appreciation of significant contributions to economic development, particularly in car manufacture and technology.” It was Mr. Foran who was responsible for Filipinizing the Ford management and personnel force up to 99.9 per cent, and it was he who constantly sought to inculcate the values of skill and efficiency and substantially upgraded the Filipino’s skill in mechanics and technology.

November 28—

THE PRESIDENT directed all gasoline stations, distributors and dealers of gasoline and other oil products to service the public during all hours of the day and night outside the four-hour curfew, notwithstanding any existing directive from any national or local agency limiting their operation to certain specific hours. The President also directed the oil companies to make available to all their outlets at least one week’s supply of gasoline and other oil products to ensure a steady supply through these outlets.

ALL government agencies involved in the energy conservation program were directed by the President to review all existing emergency policies that have been adopted in the wake of the oil crisis, with the end in view of facilitating the normalization of the local oil situation. The President’s action was prompted by a communique from Algiers that the Arab summit conference there had decided to ease the oil squeeze on the Philippines and Japan.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., issued Memorandum Circular No. 684, extending the deadline for submission of land ownership declarations of government personnel to December 15, 1973. The circular amends Memorandum Circular No. 679 directing all employees of the national government and the officers and men of the Armed Forces to submit through their office or unit heads land ownership declarations not later than November 24, 1973.

November 29—

CUTS on the fuel allocations to industries have been restored to not more than 20 per cent reduction of the first nine-month monthly average to maintain production and avoid layoff of labor. At the same time, all provincial governors have been ordered to organize local allocation boards for the conservation and disposal of fuel in their respective provinces. The order to restore cuts in the fuel allocations to industries was issued by Secretary of Industry Vicente T. Paterno, who is chairman of the Petroleum Operation Center under the National Prime Commodities Executive Committee.

THE PRESIDENT told a visiting member of the Parliament of India that the present program of reforms in the Philippines is nothing more than the implementation of the massive war on poverty. "When we speak of poverty," the President told Dr. V. K. R. V. Rao, "we speak in terms of the farmer who has known disease and hunger." The President pointed out that 75 per cent of the people in the country live on farms but because of poor conditions they are forced to move to urban centers. The President said this is being done by providing them with incentives such as the establishment of cottage and small and medium-scale industries in the countryside, compact farming, marketing, cooperative, irrigation, electrification, and others.

President's Week in Review: November 30 - December 6, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 30—

THE PRESIDENT exhorted the organizers of the Mabuhay ang Pilipino Movement to go to the barrios and act as “motivators” of the changes going on even as he congratulated them for the success so far achieved by the Movement. Addressing the officials, coordinators, and members of the Movement on the first anniversary of its launching, the President said that the movement is a success considering the fact that it has spread to 29 provinces in Luzon, 14 in the Visayas and 11 in Mindanao; and 32 cities, with 292 municipal charters and many more barrio chapters. However, the President said, there are 1,400 municipalities and 40,000 barrios throughout the country, and the MPM should now go to the barrios and provide the necessary organization to make the people in the barrios “initiators of change.”

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that the coming here of the trade mission from the People's Republic of China not only would promote the expansion of commercial relations between the Philippines and mainland China but would also contribute to the unity and brotherhood among men in Asia as well as in the rest of the world. The President was host at dinner held in Malacañang in honor of the 11-man mission which is currently on a 10-day exploration of local trade possibilities, as guest of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines.

WORLD BANK tourism development mission which had just gone through an extensive three-week survey of investment possibilities in the Philippines informed the President that they are impressed by the tourism assets of the country, principally its scenic spots, fine beaches, ideal climate and its “very warm and hospitable people who have the facility of the language.” “We found your assets very outstanding, Mr. President, and hope to be of assistance in the various phases of development of your country,” Dr Philip Glaessner, deputy director of the WB tourism department and head of the group, said.

EDUCATION Secretary Juan L. Manuel said the new Constitution is “a powerful instrument for social reform.” Secretary Manuel in a speech before the Philippine Constitution Association (PHILCONSA) on the occasion of Bonifacio Day said that among the provisions which make the Constitution a powerful instrument for social reform are those on the development of a more intense nationalism, the stress on the obligations of citizenship, the new concept of social morality and the dominance of social justice ideals. The secretary said that under the new curriculum, the Constitution will be taught on all levels. The ultimate goal is to make the Constitution a living part of the people's daily activities, the secretary said.

BOARD of Regents of the University of the Philippines approved unanimously the conferring of the award, Doctor of Humanities, honoris causa, to the First Lady in recognition of her various works and support to the propagation of the arts and the execution of projects aimed at improving the well-being of the people.

December 1—

THE PRESIDENT forged an agreement of cooperation with Muslim rebel leaders from Sulu, Basilan, and Zamboanga del Sur during his trip to Sulu recently. At the same time, the President appealed to the people of these areas to join the efforts of pacification, even as he directed Commodore Romulo Espaldon, SOWESCOM chief, through Letter of Instructions No. 149, to take more energetic steps towards in forming the citizens in the area of the program he has enunciated for the economic development and rehabilitation of these provinces.

IN SPORTS, acts of greatness and human courage, even when they end in defeat, are just as important as the medals and trophies that symbolize victory. This was stressed by the President in a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. at the opening ceremonies of the 7th Asian Basketball Confederation championship at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum. The Chief Executive pointed out that in athletic competitions, man tests the limits of his endurance, speed and strength, moving him to perform courageous feats worthy of admiration.

Whether these feats end in victory or failure is of no moment, added the President, because the eventual victor is “the human spirit, the capacity of man to achieve and to exceed the limits of his sense of accomplishments.”

THE PHILIPPINES is the new “banana king” of Asia. In 1971, the Philippines exported 185,000 tons of bananas or about 31 per cent of Asia’s total banana exports of 594,200 tons. The next year saw the Philippine banana exports leap to 52 per cent of the regional total of 618,900 tons. The second biggest producer of banana is Taiwan.

December 2—

THE PRESIDENT directed heads of government departments, bureaus and offices to enjoin their personnel to engage in food production activities, in furtherance of the government’s self-sufficiency program. The President’s directive is contained in Memorandum Circular No. 687, issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. by authority of the President. The circular emphasizes it is imperative that the time and effort of these personnel be devoted to productive activities in line with the New Society’s objective of achieving greater food sufficiency.

THE PRESIDENT said the government is exerting efforts to broaden the benefits for retired government employees and that a scheme that would increase the pensions of other retirees to a more equitable level would be perfected soon. In a speech read for him by Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes at the Biennial National Convention of the Philippine Government, Retired Employees Association, held at the GSIS Social Hall, the President assured retired employees in the public service that the government will listen to every proposal of the association that will reasonably enhance the living conditions of retirees or help them lead lives of usefulness and self-respect.

SECRETARY Francisco S. Tatad paid tribute to the work of radio amateurs in this country and abroad, and said the New Society has not been slow in recognizing their worth. The secretary, as guest speaker of the Philippine Amateur Radio Association on the occasion of Radio Amateur Week, said that by and large amateur radio in this country has been dominated by a strong sense of responsibility, leadership, and patriotism. This is the very reason why the government pays tribute to the work of the radio amateur in designing a week of every year as Radio Amateur Week.

December 3—

THE PRESIDENT invited overseas Filipinos to take advantage of the Balikbayan project in order to see for themselves what is actually taking place in the new Philippines. The President issued the invitation through Mr. Precioso M. Nicanor, who took his oath of office as president of the Philippine Communities Executive Council in the Eastern United States, before the President.

THE PETROLEUM Operations Center was given blanket authority by the Executive Committee on Prime Commodities to monitor and settle all problems concerning petroleum products in the country. This was made at the meeting of the committee at Camp Crame, Quezon City, during which Secretary of Defense Juan Ponce Enrile, committee chairman, strictly enjoined the POC to establish priorities in fuel allocations so as not to slow down the nation’s economy. With the authority, the committee empowered the POC to determine allocations, restorations on cutbacks, the movement of petroleum products from abroad and within the country, and other matters pertinent to petroleum products.

TWO GROUPS of investors from London and Hongkong apprised the President of their plans to invest in the country, during separate courtesy calls at Malacañang. The groups are composed of officials of the Fleming Bank of London and a 30-man Kowloon (Hongkong) economic survey mission touring the country and looking for investment possibilities. Both groups informed the President that they are hopeful of making investments here. In his talks with the foreign investors, the President gave assurance that their investments will be protected by the government and that they are free to make remittances of profits and capital.

December 4—

THE PRESIDENT hailed the influx of Japanese investors into the country as an indication that the level of trade between the Philippines and Japan will continue to rise. The President told a visiting foreign investment research mission from Fukuoka, Japan, who called at Malacañang, that “today Japan has already taken the premier position from the United States as the Philippines’ trading partner.” Speaking for the mission, Tsukasa Shishima, president of Sogo Bank of Fukuoka, said the mission found the effects of Martial Law “very good for the Philippines.” Mr. Shishima informed the President that many of the members of the mission are coming back to enter into joint ventures with local companies.

THE GOVERNMENT policy to set up two copper smelters in the Philippines, to be operational by 1976, was announced by the President. The Chief Executive decided to set up the two smelting plants, one in Northern Luzon and another in the Visayas, during his meeting with mining representatives and Chairman Vicente T. Paterno of the Board of Investments, who is concurrently secretary of industry.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad urged the private sector, the media industry and government to pool their resources and promote new avenues of mass communication for national development. Speaking at the seminar of the Philippine Executive Academy at the Pines Hotel in Baguio City, Secretary Tatad noted that the nation is at a state when the vital organ of public opinion is no longer a huge impersonal media industry but the live forums of people discussing with one another in the barangay, in the schools and in the offices. The secretary expressed the hope that the academy, the participants at the seminar, the media industry and the government will find it possible to pool their minds and start an earnest and practicable program to link together mass communications in the country.

THE PRESIDENT received Dr. J. Englebert Dunphy, chairman of the board of trustees of the American College of Surgeons who, together with his wife, called to pay his respects to the President. Noting the plan to build a modern medical center and hospital in the Philippines, Dr. Dunphy said that this plan will not only arrest the brain drain but will attract foreign students who will take special training in the facilities offered by the Philippines.

December 5—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate implementation of his agreement with former Muslim rebel leaders, for the development of Muslim areas, particularly in the rebuilding of homes destroyed in military operations and the establishment of light industries to provide jobs. The President issued the order to Secretary of National Defense Juan Ponce Enrile and Commodore Romulo Espaldon, chief of the Southwest Command, during another conference with the former rebel leaders in Malacañang.

SIX members of the 15-seat board of directors of the Philippine Shippers’ Council have been named by the President to facilitate the development and growth of Philippine foreign trade and the national economy, by enhancing the interest of local shippers. The new appointees increase the actual membership of the board to 11. Appointed to the board were: 1) Eduardo Cojuangco, to represent the cement industry; 2) Antonio Florendo, to represent the banana industry; 3) Geronimo Velasco, to represent the pineapple industry; 4) Romulo Lumaig, to represent cottage industry products and handicrafts; 5) Jose de la Rosa, representing wood products, and 6) Delfin Gonzales, representing base and precious metals.

AKASAN bin Hadji Abdul Rahman, director-general of the National Land Rehabilitation and Consolidation, and spokesman of a group of officials representing the Malaysian ministry of land development, lauded the bold thrusts achieved by the New Society through the implementation of the land reform program. The Malaysian official made the observation after a study tour of land reform areas in the Cagayan Valley and in Central Luzon. The NLRC official, who travels a lot as representative of the Malaysian government, said; “I’ll always have good words for the Philippines wherever I go. I am most impressed by the enthusiasm of the people working hard to make land reform in this country a success.”

SECRETARY of Tourism Jose D. Aspiras called upon operators of business establishments and police authorities to ensure the health and safety of tourists in the country. Speaking before the MMP officers and owners of sauna baths, hotels, motels, cocktail lounges and other establishments at the Philamlife auditorium, Secretary Aspiras asked the operators to cooperate in the government's drive to promote tourism not only in the city but throughout the country. More than 200 operators of these establishments, mostly in the tourist belt area responded favorably during the four-hour meeting which was called by the Manila Metropolitan Police upon the request of the Department of Tourism.

December 6—

DRAMA of national development has been lifted from the "sterile" pages of theory and is now witnessed by the millions of this nation in its "actual setting." The President gave the closing remarks through Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes at the conclusion of the Second Refresher Seminar of the Philippine Executive Academy in Baguio City. In all this, the President observed, the government has been the "principal agent of change," because sound management and administration is "most gravely sought in the government machinery." In a parting word, the President expressed hope that the seminar would give rise to a determined effort on our part to translate what we have learned into indicators of growth and change in our society."

THE PRESIDENT appealed to all employers to "endeavor with their honest best to maintain employment levels during this critical period, adding that both management and labor must bear with fortitude the burdens imposed by the times. In his keynote speech at the opening of the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines the President stressed: "The government responsibility is clear—employment must be safeguarded." At the same time, the President renewed his appeal to the more affluent sectors to desist from any undue display of wealth and conspicuous consumption.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. signed Proclamation No. 1211 declaring the period from December 7 to December 15, 1973, and the second week of December of every year thereafter as "Atomic Energy Week." The Philippine Atomic Energy Commission has been directed to undertake such activities as may be necessary to ensure the successful observance of the week. The proclamation notes that mankind today faces an actual worldwide shortage of energy-producing fossil fuels and a major source of power is nuclear energy. It stresses the need to accelerate the pace of atomic energy development in the country.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized heads of departments, bureaus and offices of the government, including government-owned or controlled corporations, to nominate a senior official based in the Mindanao region to attend the first session at government expense of the Mindanao State University-University of the Philippines Executive Development" Program. Memorandum Circular No. 678, issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., by authority of the President, points out that the MSU and the UP, in response to national policy to promote the well-being of the cultural minorities, have entered into an agreement whereby the UP, through the Philippine Executive Academy, will provide the technical expertise and services in the design and management of an appropriate executive development program for the Mindanao region, with MSU providing financing assistance.

President's Week in Review: December 7-13, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 7—

THE PRESIDENT stressed that the country's development efforts are aimed not only at putting the Philippines on equal footing with other countries of the world but also at generating greater economic benefits that could adequately be distributed among the people. These benefits will be made possible by the sacrifices that Filipinos are now willing to make for their country, the President added. In a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. at the regional conference for development planning for East Asian countries in Tagaytay City, the President said that with Martial Law, the people are now imbued with a sense of purpose in working toward development goals. "Today, for the first time since we became a nation, we are at last on the road to development," the President pointed out.

PHILIPPINE National Red Cross was challenged by the President to come up with a strategy to increase further its already proven capacity to provide relief to the needy, in peace or in war, even as he lauded the organization for its efforts to look ahead of problems, identifying them in advance and adopting solutions even before problems arise. In a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. at the opening of PNRC's three-day 10th Biennial National Convention, the President described the PNRC method as the "dependable approach to any task," adding that "the amoeba-like, hit-and-run approach of the old society is unworthy of the new Filipino and must be discarded forever." The PNRC was assured -by the President that "within reason," the government and people will back up any strategy that the Red Cross may adopt to meet emerging needs.

December 8—

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr., by authority of the President, issued Proclamation No. 1213 declaring the period from December 9 to December 15, 1973 as "Savings and Loan Week" to focus national attention on the increasing role and involvement of the entire savings and loan industry in the mobilization of voluntary domestic savings for development purposes. The proclamation points out that the government's massive effort towards the socio-economic upliftment of the people includes inculcation of the thrift habit among the people and the provision of adequate financing facilities for housing and extension services, and for small and medium-scale industries.

SECRETARY of Labor Blas F. Ople summed up the major accomplishments of his department in connection with the agency's 40th foundation anniversary. According to the secretary, the Department of Labor scored impressive gains in three main fields—workers' protection, labor relations and manpower development and utilization. These gains, the secretary emphasized, were geared toward improving the social landscape as well as promoting economic growth.

PERIOD from January 14 to 20, 1974, has been proclaimed as "Insurance Week" under' Proclamation No. 1209. Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. issued the proclamation by order of the President. The observance of-the week will be under the auspices of the insurance commission and the entities involved.

CENTRAL Bank issued a circular requiring the approval and registration with the CB of all royalty or rental contracts and film distribution agreements. The CB circular, which drastically amended existing regulations on royalties and rental contracts, also set a ceiling on the royalty or rental rate that may be stipulated in the agreement. The CB likewise required these contracts to have a fixed term of not exceeding five years, renewable upon the approval of the CB in consultation with the Board of Investments.

December 9—

ALL government personnel are enjoined to give full support and participation to the “Ugnayan,” a project under the First Lady’s continuing cultural development program. Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, in Memorandum Circular No. 688 issued by authority of the President, suggests that government personnel enlist as members of a circle or assist in the organization of circles in their respective barangays. The Ugnayan will have its premiere performance using indigenous musical instruments. In addition to linking the past and future, the project also promotes and widens the traditional values of bayanihan and the spirit of barangay, through mutual sharing of cultural experience. Thus, the Ugnayan means community inter-linking through music.

ADVERTISING agencies can be held liable for the three per cent contractor’s tax only on the amount actually retained by them as their commission from the media. The Department of Finance, in an opinion handed down by Acting Secretary Pedro M. Almanzor, upheld the stand taken by the Association of Philippine Advertising Agencies that gross receipts, as basis for the collection of the contractor’s tax, should not include any amount payable to the media. Advertising agencies are among business firms subjected to a three per cent contractor’s tax under Sec. 191 (16) of the National Internal Revenue Code, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 69.

SECRETARY of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan defined the important role of the physician in the control of drug addiction problem, particularly in such aspects as prevention, treatment, rehabilitation and research. The secretary made this statements at the round table conference of the Manila Pharmaceutical Society and the Manila Medical Society of Manila in celebration of Pharmacy Week. He said that though the key factors in the development of drug abuse or misuse are the interplay between the chemical nature of the drug, the personality traits of the individual and the environment, the physician as the socially-approved arbiter on the dispensing of drugs, plays a critical role in the use as well as misuse of psycho-active medications.

CENTRAL Bank of the Philippines cautioned the private banking sector to desist from launching or going into promotional ventures, particularly those touching the lottery principle, to attract additional depositors without the CB’s approval. According to the CB, while it is pleased with the positive response from the banking sector of supporting the government’s national savings campaign program, it views with “alarm the uninhibited promotional ventures of some banks which, if not placed under reasonable restraint, might result in cut-throat competition among the different banking sectors and, therefore, jeopardize the entire national campaign.”

December 10—

THE PRESIDENT placed crude oil and other fuel oils and petroleum-based products under the control of the Philippine National Oil Co.

Under General Order No. 41, all crude oil and other fuel oils as well as all petroleum-based products, whether imported or produced by the local oil refineries, are placed under the control of the national oil firm and the sale and distribution of these products shall be under its supervision. The President placed these products under government control because these are considered strategic materials and vital to the security of the country and it is necessary that the government, during this critical period, be in possession of all information on the available supply of crude oil, other fuel oils and petroleum-based products.

THE PRESIDENT was informed that the European Economic Community (EEC) has taken great interest in the Philippines and looks forward to greater Philippine exports, particularly in handicrafts, which are considered labor-intensive. The report was made by the EEC representatives who called on the President in Malacañang. They also informed the President that their mission came to the Philippines to explore ways to strengthen the cooperation between the EEC and its nine-member states with the Philippines, especially by furnishing information on business, industry and foreign trade.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. reminded shipping agents and Philippine companies operating ocean-going vessels to submit full reports on their fuel requirements to the department. This applies to vessels which have not been traditionally getting their fuel in the Philippines but which, because of the oil restrictions, cannot now get their fuel needs from their usual suppliers abroad.

December 11—

THE PRESIDENT has appointed Secretary of Industry Vicente O. Paterno as chairman and acting president of the Philippine National Oil Co. and six others as members of the firm's board of directors. Named to the board are: Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile, Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr., Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata, Panfilo O. Domingo, president, Philippine National Bank; Solicitor General Estelito Mendoza, and Leonides S. Virata, chairman, Development Bank of the Philippines.

THE PHILIPPINES exported $19.1 million more than it imported from communist countries from May 19, 1972 to November 6, 1973, according to the Department of Trade. Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. said the value of Philippine goods sold in the communist markets for the 17-month period was $40,810,622, while that of import was $21,651, 000. Secretary Quiazon said goods sold to communist countries consisted mostly of cement, plywood and veneer, coco oil in bulk, buri fibers, apitong logs and copra.

ASIAN Development Bank has approved a $29.6 million loan for the development and expansion of the Manila International Airport. The amount will be used for Phase I of the long-term master plan for the MIA, international gateway to the Philippines. The ADB loan is for a term of 20 years, including five-year grace period, with interest at seven and a half per cent per annum.

SECRETARY of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan stressed the need to develop the infrastructure of health services and to install a health delivery system. In a speech delivered before about 500 public health workers in Bulacan, the secretary said the goal of the country's health service is "to reach the maximum number of population with at least the minimum of basic service, including those of material and child care, family planning and nutrition."

GOVERNMENT employees who are jailed but later released are not entitled to back salaries for the period! of their detention. This decision was rendered by Secretary of Justice Vicente Abad Santos based on the case of a customs employee who was detained in Camp Crame and later acquitted. The justice secretary added that there is no law authorizing the payment of back salaries in such a case.

December 12—

THE PRESIDENT called for stronger relations among the member nations of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) which he said, is rapidly gaining recognition in other parts of the world, such as the European Economic Community. The President told visiting officials and students of the Indonesian National Defense College who paid their respects, that the day will come when the ASEAN will provide the answer to the possible withdrawal of major powers like the United States from the region. The visiting Indonesian Defense College group was led by Maj. Gen. Soeparno Soerjatmadja.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. said that the present energy crisis underlines once again the need to rationalize the oil industry and bring it in line with the fundamental guidelines of the national development effort. Speaking at the opening of the conference-workshop on energy sponsored by the Department of Public Information and the Development Academy of the Philippines in Tagaytay City, the secretary stressed that the organization of the Oil Industry Commission some years back was hardly the last step toward the rationalization of the industry. Secretary Melchor pointed out that the government is interested in the economic and efficient operation of the refineries. This includes the minimization of waste, improvement of structural designs to exploit economies of scale, expansion or redesigning of inefficient refineries to make the best possible use of existing investment and the provision of tie-up with petroleum-related industries in the interest of developing petrochemical industry.

IMPLEMENTATION of the United Nations Security Council's Resolution No. 252, which the Philippines supports, can bring lasting peace to the Middle East. The President made the assessment during the courtesy call of Syrian Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khadam at Malacañang. The President added that the Philippines adheres to the basic principle of self-determination of races and nations, their independence and freedom in internal affairs, the integrity of territories, and the sanctity and inviolability of boundaries. In reply to the President, Deputy Prime Minister Khadam said, “We know what the Philippines has given for its freedom and liberty and we know what you, Mr. President, are doing to maintain these principles for the benefit of your people.”

BUREAU Directors Association Incorporated (BUDIEAS) resolved to adopt the necessary positive measures to purge their own ranks of misfits, to accelerate government efforts to national development and progress. The resolution, endorsed unanimously by the BUDIRAS general membership, highlighted the association’s second quarterly general meeting held at the constabulary headquarters roof deck conference room in Camp Crame, Quezon City. It was the organization’s response to a call made by Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile in a speech keynoting the affair that BUDIRAS keep the initiative of reform.

December 13—

THE PRESIDENT urged all Filipinos working abroad to keep in mind their Filipino identity always and thereby maintain their reputation for integrity, competence and compassion. In his keynote speech at the opening of the 1973 national convention of the Philippine Nurses Association, the President forthwith directed the Department of Health, in cooperation with the Philippine Nurses Association, to work out certain amendments to the nursing law so as to upgrade and improve the nursing profession. These amendments shall include the creation of a Board of Nursing Education to take charge of the accreditation of colleges and schools of nursing and the upgrading of nursing education.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has warned recruitment agencies against compelling workers, whom they are placing in jobs abroad, to purchase air tickets from travel agencies owned or patronized by such firms. In a memorandum circular, acting Labor Secretary Amado G. Inciong said violation of the directive could lead to cancellation or suspension of the agency’s license to operate. The circular was issued in view of complaints received by the department that excessive travel fees were being applied on job applicants by some recruiters to purchase air tickets only from travel agencies chosen by the employment agencies.

COUNTRY’s fishery exports for the ten-month period from January to October 1973 amounted to P104.2 million—the highest in the history of the local fishing industry, the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources reported. The 10-month export represented an increase of about P33 million (or roughly 30 per cent) over the export receipts last year, which totalled P70.5 million for the entire year. Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco, Jr. said experts predict fishery exports will hit the P125 million mark.

US Ambassador William H Sullivan assured the Philippine government of continued American assistance for the security and economy of the Philippines “while it is preparing for self-reliance.” In a luncheon speech before the Manila Lions, Ambassador Sullivan said the US would maintain its Seventh Fleet and 13th Air Force for the protection of the Philippines and other Southeast Asian countries.

President's Week in Review: December 14-20, 1973

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 14—

THE PRESIDENT was informed that the Philippines was elected to the 23-man Drafting Committee of the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea, being held in New York. The news of the Philippines' election to the committee was wired to the President by Ambassador Arturo M. Tolentino, head of the Philippine delegation. The election of the Philippines to the committee is significant in view of the fact that the Philippines is the strongest exponent of the archipelagic theory.

LOCAL officials in Sulu and other trouble areas in the South were warned by the President against raking up old wounds and maltreating former enemies who have joined the government drive to bring about peace and order. In his conference with some 27 former rebel leaders, 12 of them foreign-trained, who came to Malacañang accompanied by Commodore Romulo Espaldon, head of the Southwest Command, to pledge their support and cooperation to the government, the President expressed the hope that more and more of those still out of the folds of the law will return.

THE PRESIDENT also expressed the hope that the various athletic competitions being held in the Philippines will help bring about brotherhood among men and the unity of nations. The President told the basketball delegations from 13 Asian countries participating in the VIIth Asian Basketball Confederation's championship games that usually the athletes succeed where statesmen and leaders fail to bring about brotherhood among men and unity among nations. The President said he sees in the championship games, not just the victory, of one team over another but an "Asia getting together, joining hands, and seeking one single dream and attaining it."

INCREASE in trade between the Philippines and Romania was predicted by Maximilian Vardon, director of Romanian Exhibits during his courtesy call on the President. Director Vardon said that through the exhibits and his attendance at lectures held at the University of the Philippines, he has found what his country can import from the Philippines, and what the Philippines can get from Romania. The President, in response, congratulated President Ceausescu and the people of Romania for their rapid progress which has reached a 13 per cent rate of development annually.

December 15—

THE PHILIPPINES was assured by the Shah of Iran of an uninterrupted flow of crude oil at original delivery levels following personal representations made by the President through the First Lady. The Shah expressed understanding of and sympathy for the Philippine oil situation and assured the First Lady that Iranian deliveries would continue at existing levels.

SECRETARY of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the Philippine government, through the Department of Trade, will undertake extensive export promotion to fully realize the benefits of the Generalized Scheme of Preferences (GSP) among Philippine exporters. For this purpose, GSP experts from the European Economic Community will be invited to the Philippines and a trade mission to the EEC countries is being considered as part of the implementation strategy. This was revealed by Secretary Quiazon in closing remarks he delivered before the two-day seminar on "the EEC-GSP at the Ramon Magsaysay Hall of the Social Security System building.

CHAIRMAN Florencio A. Medina of the National Science Development Board strongly urged the government to hasten the steps towards the construction of the proposed nuclear power plant as part of the long-range plan to diversify the country's energy sources. Speaking in a workshop sponsored by the Department of Public Information and the Development Academy of the Philippines in Tagaytay City, Chairman Medina said that the country's fuel strategy should aim for less dependence on fossil fuel. In view of the tightening oil squeeze, he stressed that the government can no longer afford to procrastinate or change its mind in its plans to build a nuclear plant.

December 16—

THE PHILIPPINES has begun exploring the possible barter of Middle East crude oil with cement and sugar. The President authorized initial exploration of the subject during recent conversations between the First Lady and the Shah of Iran, Mohammed Reza Pahlevi. The barter scheme, he said, is intended to assure a stronger Philippine foothold in the Iranian crude oil market, which has assured the Philippine government of uninterrupted deliveries up to the level of existing sales.

NEW SOCIETY was established for all Filipinos, and unless we are able to effectively enlist the poor, the ignorant, and even the misfits into it, not all the talents of the present community leaders will save us from our present vicissitudes, Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad told the Dagupan Jaycees. Expressing confidence that the economically and socially distressed masses, who are mostly in the rural areas, are quite capable of achievement, the secretary pointed out that the means are there, the infrastructure will be provided by government; they only need the motivation, the challenge and the pressure of responsibility. Addressing himself directly to the Jaycees, the secretary said that the greatest accomplishment of the Jaycee movement will be that its "leadership enkindles a passion for leadership to among less gifted fellows."

AGRICULTURE Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon Jr. lauded the country's rural radio broadcasters for playing a major role in the success of the Masagana 99 rice production program. In a keynote speech before the seminar-workshop on rural radio broadcasting at the UP College of Agriculture in Los Baños, Undersecretary Drilon pointed out that more than half of the country's population is reached directly by radio, even the remotest areas. It is in this instance, he said, that radio stands above the other means of communication. He underscored the need to further train our radio broadcasters to improve their skills in absorbing scientific information and simplifying them into presentations useful to the farmers.

BACOLOD is becoming a major fishing port of the South and may even grow as big as the Navotas (Rizal) fishing port of Luzon. In a report to Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., Fisheries Director Felix R. Gonzales said that Bacolod has now 108 deepsea fishing vessels with an aggregate of 4,588 gross tons. Director Gonzales reported that the expanded fishing fleet is expected to produce some 4,950 metric tons of fish for fiscal year 1973-1974. This incremental production of Bacolod is already about one-fifth of the expected national production of 22,000 metric tons of fish worth about P4.5 million.

December 17—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the the finance secretary, the Bureau of Internal Revenue commissioner and other entities concerned to exercise all the necessary caution and prudence in entering into any negotiated contract or bid in the construction of the national office building of the Bureau of Internal Revenue at the Government Center in Quezon City. The directive embodied in Letter of Instructions No. 152 is intended to facilitate the construction being undertaken and at the same time ensure the structural integrity of the designs, plans and specifications of the building.

THE GOVERNMENT is now seeking relocation of oil and chemical storage away from population centers, particularly in the urban areas. The relocation plan was arrived at in the wake of the disaster at the Meralco Rockwell Station in Makati, Rizal where several persons were killed and injured and some homes burnt down.

AGRARIAN Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella called on land owners to desist from filing charges against their tenants. Secretary Estrella warned that "these ejectment suits or other acts of harassment by landowners intended to eject or remove their tenants cannot be sanctioned by the government." The DAR chief said that unless certified by him as a proper case for trial, no court shall take cognizance of any ejectment case "or any other case designed to harass or remove a tenant of an agricultural land primarily devoted to rice and corn."

VICENTE T. Paterno, chairman of the Board of Investments and currently chairman of the Cement Industry Authority, directed the Philippine Cement Corporation "to suspend all exports of cement in view of the petroleum shortage.” The suspension of exports is calculated to cut down on the bunker fuel consumption of the cement industry.

December 18—

THE PRESIDENT directed Budget Commissioner Faustino Sychangco to release P28 million to pay for 25 per cent of the retirement gratuities of retired government personnel in time for Christmas. This is the second 25 per cent gratuity payment for some 8, 716 former employees of the government. At the same time, the President authorized the Budget Commissioner to release P50, 000 for the purchase of the national colors to drape the caskets of deceased veterans.

GERONIMO Z. Velasco was inducted into office by the President as president and chairman of the Philippine National Oil Co. Mr. Velasco succeeds Secretary of Industry Vicente T. Paterno who is currently chairman of the Board of Investments.

THE PRESIDENT conveyed the gratitude of the Filipino people to the Summer Institute of Linguistics for its work in bringing enlightenment to the cultural minorities of the country during the last 20 years. The President took public cognizance of “the debt of gratitude of the entire Filipino people to the Institute,” during the conferment on the President of the Presidential Award of Distinction by the Board of the International Institute. The President was cited, among others, for his continuous support to the SIL activities, his understanding of the needs of the cultural minorities, and his warm compassion and abiding concern for their welfare, and the policy of integrating them into the national mainstream or preserving the purity of their cultures.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad proposed that private media help to build a more extensive communications infrastructure in the rural areas to effect the widest possible social mobilization of the citizenry. At the same time, he called for more scientific and more advance training for those who desire to engage in the practice of media. Speaking on media strategies for 1974 at a seminar sponsored by the Philippine Mass Communications Research Society, the Secretary said that ultimately the media will have to stop looking to the cities alone and devote more attention to the rural areas, where majority of the population live.

THE PRESIDENT expressed satisfaction over the steady stream of returning Filipinos who have come to see the progress of the New Society, because, he said, it is the best argument against the derogatory information being peddled abroad against the country by some elements. The President welcomed to Malacañang some 60 overseas Filipinos, mostly heads of Filipino organizations abroad, who have come to see for themselves the true situation in the Philippines, under the Balikbayan Program of the Department of Tourism.

December 19—

FINANCE Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata stressed that assessments of real properties by provincial or city assessors are appealable to the board of tax (assessment) appeals of the province or city. The secretary said that real property owners who are not satisfied with the assessment of their properties under Presidential Decree No. 76 may appeal to their respective tax appeal boards within sixty days from the date of receipt of the written notice of assessment. If the property owners are still not satisfied with the tax appeals board’s decision, they can still elevate their appeal to the central board of tax appeals headed by the secretary of finance.

SECRETARY of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan assured Filipino nurses he would work to solve the problems plaguing their profession in the country. Secretary Gatmaitan gave his assurance at the close of the convention of the Philippine Nurses Association at the Manila Hotel. According to him, there are plans to increase the number of nursing graduates by expanding educational facilities. However, emphasis would be placed not only on quantity but also on quality of graduates, the secretary said.

DEPARTMENT of Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata directed customs authorities to hasten the early completion of Manila port facilities to keep pace with the fast-increasing domestic and international trade and the rapid growth of local industries. The finance chief issued the instruction to Commissioner Rolando Geotina, Deputy Commissioner Pedro C. Mendoza Jr. and Manila Port Collector Augusto T. Africa during a two-hour ocular inspection of port facilities in the South and North Harbors together with members of the staff of Secretary Virata.

EXPORT Processing Zone Authority established an interim direct-dial telephone link between Manila and the Bataan Zone. The interim direct-dial telephone was inaugurated with a phone call between Director-General Gerardo Sicat of the NEDA in Manila and EPZA Chairman Teodoro Peña in Bataan. The telephone communication system, which features an SEL 5-50-6 PABX switchboard with 50 lines, cost P3,237,815.

BUREAU of Animal Industry is undertaking programs on animal production designed to provide the nation with a sufficient supply of animals and animal products and contribute positively to the growth and development of the Philippine economy. BAI Director Pedro G. Refuerzo said the animal industry is concentrating on the provinces where livestock raising has reached the stage where it can be most rapidly advanced.

December 20—

THE PHILIPPINES chalked up an unprecedented balance of trade in her favor amounting to $237,005,630 in total trade with 127 new and traditional trading partners as of the quarter of 1973. In her new trade relations alone with socialists and communist countries, the Philippines registered a total balance in her favor amounting to $11,999,164. Of the biggest trade partners—Japan and the US—the Philippines has a favorable trade balance of $99,415,000 and P204, 839,776, respectively. According to the latest statistics submitted by Department of trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., the Philippine exports amounted to $38,420,272.62 against imports valued at $26,421,107.92 or a total balance of $11,000,164.08 in favor of the Philippines. Total trade amounted to $64,841,397.92.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development reported that a total of P4 million has been collected throughout the country from members of 8,448 Samahang Nayon chapters. The DLGCD's Bureau of Cooperatives Development said the amount represented membership fees and annual dues collected from May to November.

THE FIRST Lady and her children, Bongbong and Irene, spread cheer to 10,000 indigent children from Manila and suburbs at the traditional, annual "Maligayang Pasko" Children's Festival held at Malacañang Park. Assisted by wives of ranking government and armed forces officials, volunteer ladies and representatives of business and civic organizations, the First Lady and her children plodded through the different distribution booths, handling out gift bags to the less fortunate kids who were brought to the park from "Tulungan Centers," orphanages and other charitable institutions.

BUREAU of Cooperatives Development of the Department of Local Government and Community Development has started implementing the Barrio Savings Fund under the Samahang Nayon program. Cooperatives Undersecretary Orlando Sacay made the announcement after receiving a memorandum-circular from the Central Bank's department of rural banks and savings loans associations. The memorandum-circular enjoined all rural banks all over the country to implement the Barrio Savings Fund.

Gonong, first assistant provincial fiscal, as judge Of the Court of First Instance of Ilocos Norte with station at Batac; 4) Judge Rafael Mendoza as judge of the Court of First Instance of Cebu and the Cities of Cebu, Danao, Lapu-Lapu and Mandaue, Branch VI, with station at Cebu City; 5) Romeo N. Firme, assistant fiscal of Manila, as judge of the Court of First Instance of La Union, Branch IV, with station at Bauang; 6) Judge Felicidad Villalon as judge of the Court of Agrarian Relations, First Regional District; Branch I, with station at Tuguegarao, Cagayan; 7) Juanito Cagampan, as city judge of Dagupan City, Branch II; 8) Ricardo Resultan, as city judge of San Carlos City (Pangasinan); and 9) Assistant Provincial Fiscal Rodolfo R. Aquino as district state prosecutor for the Third Judicial District, Dagupan City.

THE GOVERNMENT and the Philippine Hospitals Association have launched a nationwide project designed to make the people—particularly those in the rural areas—more hospital-conscious. The project, known as “The Barangay Hospital Support Association,” will put into positive action the spirit of bayanihan in the country’s 35,000 barangays to cover the all-embracing field of health care. The PHA, headed by Dr. Jose Caedo, will work in coordination with the Department of Local Governments and Community Development.

DEPARTMENT of Finance directed all provincial and city treasurers to accept real estate tax payments beginning January 1, 1974 based on the assessed valuation of properties as of December 31, 1973. The directive was issued by Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata following complaints reaching his department that some property owners have not yet received their owners copies of their tax declarations covering their real properties as assessed pursuant to the provisions of Presidential Decree Nos. 76 and 261.

DEPARTMENT of Health announced that the menace posed by Anopheles gambiae, the deadly malaria-transmitting mosquito brought to Palawan by a team of Japanese researchers last February, is over. According to Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan, “there is sufficient conclusive evidence to warrant the termination of the project.” The African Anopheline mosquito whose name was derived from Gambia, an African country, created a big stir in the Philippines when it was discovered that the team of Japanese researchers had surreptitiously brought a colony of the mosquito for study purposes.

DEPARTMENT of Trade has introduced 16 Philippine exportable products in Canada during the past three months in a bid to capture an equitable portion of that country’s export market. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., identified the new export products as textile, oil paintings, wooden furniture, handicrafts, shoes, foodstuffs, automotive parts and accessories, plastic products, wall tiles, edible decorations for the pastry industry, children’s wear and baby dresses, iron wire and rattan furniture.

December 29—

THE PRESIDENT called upon the nation to keep the momentum of its unprecedented 10 per cent national growth in the various areas of economic activity. Latest reports have also pointed to a 60 per cent rise in exports, of which 23 per cent represents new products; and to the increase in the foreign exchange reserve from $300 million before Martial Law to about $1 billion today. Talking at Camp Aguinaldo on the Occasion of the 38th anniversary of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, the President also called upon the military establishment to sacrifice, if necessary, its power supply of gasoline in order to maintain the energy required for the operation of the nation’s booming industries.

PHILIPPINE Veterans Investments Development Corp. and the three-man Philippine Veterans Assistance Commission were both activated by the President. In activating the PVIDC, which was created by Presidential Decree No. 243, the President appointed and inducted into office the officers of the corporation and placed P10 million at its disposal to start its operation. In establishing the PVAC, headed by Brig. Gen. Teodorico P. Almuete (ret.), the President called attention to the inadequacy of government services for veterans and their dependents.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad exhorted the youth to emulate Dr. Jose P. Rizal who advocated reforms, not through violence, but by articulating the aspirations of the Filipino people against the excesses and injustices of his time. Speaking at the 12th National Rizal Youth Leadership Institute at Teachers Camp, Baguio City, the secretary pointed out that Rizal's influence—and in the final analysis his leadership—filtered through the media of literature and communications, and these were and are preeminently the means whereby ideas take hold of the consciousness of the masses of men. He urged that “we must again make the effort to rediscover Rizal, search anew for the real springboards of his thoughts, and find again what he wanted to say to Filipinos of his time and of future generations.”

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated a presidential decree providing for annual special group term insurance for members of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, renewable annually, in an amount not exceeding P6,000 per member, in addition to the compulsory insurance for members of the AFP by the Government Service Insurance System as provided by existing law. Included in this special insurance coverage, aside from the AFP members in the active service, are cadets of the Philippine Military Academy, cadets of the Philippine Air Force Flying School, probationary officers, trainees and draftees.

DEPARTMENT of Local Governments and Community Development has directed its fieldmen to help in relief and rehabilitation operations in, the provinces earlier proclaimed in a state of calamity by the President. DLGCD Secretary Jose Rono urged DLGCD field workers to coordinate with the National Rescue and Relief Coordinating Center for relief and rehabilitation operations. Specifically, Secretary Roño directed DLGCD workers to help in the rehabilitation of projects destroyed by the recent typhoon in the provinces of Aklan, Capiz, Negros Occidental, Cagayan and Nueva Vizcaya.

December 30—

LAND Bank of the Philippines shall be recipient, for relending purposes, of proceeds of loans, credits and indebtedness secured by the President under the Foreign Borrowing Act (Republic Act 4860) as amended by Presidential Decree No. 150 dated March 13, 1973. To make this possible, the Foreign Borrowing Act was amended further by PD 351. Under PD 351, not only the Development Bank of the Philippines but also the LBP is authorized to relend the proceeds of the Foreign Borrowing Act to pay for the direct and indirect foreign exchange requirements including peso costs for industrial, agricultural, and other economic and social development projects. Also under the new decree, government-owned or controlled corporations as well as local governments may also qualify to benefit from the relending of the proceeds of the Foreign Borrowing Act.

CUSTOMS Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina reported that the Bureau of Customs registered an all-time high collection of more than P3 billion from January to December this year. The P3 billion collection for the calendar year, compared to the same period last year, showed a 70 per cent increase, or more than P1.3 billion. Commissioner Geotina added that this peak collection so far by the customs bureau was backed by an array of accomplishments which had transformed the bureau into a model government agency.

DIRECTOR General Gerardo P. Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority disclosed that the Philippines has availed itself of $254-million long-term development assistance from both bilateral and multilateral financing institutions in 1973 to finance various development projects throughout the country. Total government contributions in peso counterpart funds is estimated to exceed P1.8 billion for these development loans from international lending institutions like the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the Overseas Economic Cooperation Fund of Japan, the United States Agency for International Development and bilateral or country-to-country loans from foreign governments. According to Director Sicat, these development loans, which do not include short-term loans, are the biggest development assistance availed of by the country in the last several years.

December 31—

THE PRESIDENT took twin measures intended to stabilize and safeguard Philippine civil airline operations that have been placed solely under the Philippine Airlines not later than January 2, 1974. In parallel directives, the President ordered the chairman and members of the Civil Aeronautics Board: 1) To issue an order requiring the surrender of possession of the property and facilities of both Air Manila Inc. and Filipinas Orient Airways to the Philippine National Bank, and 2) To direct the Philippine Airlines to honor unserviced tickets already sold and all confirmed bookings of Air Manila and Filipinas Orient Airways, in order to avoid public inconvenience.

MUSLIM rebels were reassured by the President that the government “welcomes as brothers and as friends” those who wish to return to the folds of the law and lead more productive lives. The President gave the reassurance to another batch of Muslim rebel leaders who had decided to come down from the hills and cooperate with the government. Habib Mohsin, who headed the group, promised the President that they would do all they could to persuade all their followers, numbering about 300 operating in Zamboanga del Sur, Basilan, Tawi-Tawi, and the Cotabato provinces to come out of hiding and cooperate with the administration in carrying out its program of rehabilitation and development of their communities.

THE PRESIDENT granted executive clemency to 122 more convicts upon recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole in keeping with the New Year tradition. The Chief Executive had granted executive clemency to 195 others on the eve of Christmas. Of the pardoned convicts this New Year, eight were granted absolute pardon, one special absolute pardon, 97 conditional pardon with parole conditions, and 16 commutations of sentences.

THE GOVERNMENT purchased 91,284 cavans of palay worth P3,174,940 from March last year to January 2, 1974, according to the National Grains Authority. NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco said the purchases were made under the NGA’s direct procurement program aimed at realizing its buffer stock of 10 million cavans. Mr. Tanchanco said the 91,284 cavans were bought at the Government support price of P35 a cavan of 50 kilos, or P0.70 a kilo.

THE FIRST LADY, representing the President, called for “affirmative resolution and positive action,” from all segments of the nation in the task of nation-building. The occasion was the cornerstone-laying of the Muslim Maharlika Village in Bicutan, Taguig, Rizal. In her brief remarks, the First Lady emphasized that the brotherhood of all Filipinos is “demanded of us” and the rise of a Muslim community in the heart of Greater Manila indicates the true meaning of “our membership in the national community.”

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture is helping control population growth by reorienting the values and attitudes of the people, according to Education Secretary Juan Manuel. Secretary Manuel made the statement before participants in the National Multi-Sectoral Seminar on Population Education at the Development Academy of the Philippines in Tagaytay City. The education secretary said that a program on population education attuned to the existing beliefs and conscience of the Filipinos is the most effective instrument in the campaign against population growth in the country. The Philippines is the only country in the world which has embarked on a nation-wide population program through the formal school system, he said.

DEPARTMENT of Trade announced that the Philippines exported more than $9 million worth of lumber and plywood last month to bring the total export receipts for these products to $46.6 million during the last five-month period ending December 1973. President's Week in Review: January 4-10, 1974

President's Week in Review: January 11-17, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 11—

THE PRESIDENT described the young generation of officers in the Armed Forces of the Philippines, particularly those from the Philippine Military Academy, as the “indestructible youth who have written a history of achievement.” In his speech at the commencement exercises for PMA s Class 1974 in Baguio City, the President emphasized that as the Armed Forces enters new dimensions in bolstering its role in socio-economic, political and cultural transformation of the country, the young leaders from the PMA should be well trained in mind and body to meet their expanding tasks. The President said the PMA should stand in the forefront of national development as an institution for scholars and leaders trained not only in the art of arms but of government and of molding the New Society.

INDIVIDUALS whose incomes are fixed in nature have to file their income tax returns not later than March 15 beginning this year. Other income tax filers, including non-resident citizens, shall file their returns on or before the old April 15 deadline. The new deadline is provided in Presidential Decree No. 371 and is applicable this year to income derived in 1973. The object is to reduce the work load on the last day (April 15) for the filing of income tax returns and to prevent undue inconvenience to taxpayers.

THE PRESIDENT has acted to protect the nation's fast-disappearing cultural properties by imposing more stringent regulations on their movement plus a limited form of registration. Presidential Decree No. 374 designates two priority levels of cultural properties which shall be accorded utmost protection by the state through the National Museum. Only the National Museum, or any institution duly authorized by the museum director, may now carry out exploration, excavation, or diggings on government and private property for archaeological or historical purposes.

DEPARTMENT of Trade directed the increase of the sulphur contents of motor oils and gasoline “both regular and premium” in view of the current energy squeeze. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the move will have the following effects: 1) It will allow maximum utilization of the available supply of crude oil; 2) It will help maintain prices of petroleum products at normal level; and 3) It will boost the country's oil supply.

THE GOVERNMENT assured that the country's fertilizer requirements —both for foods and export crops—will be fully met in 1974. Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. gave the assurance in a statement to allay fears that the Government will be unable to fill the soaring demand for fertilizer brought about by its intensified food production drive. At the same time, Secretary Tanco directed the National Food and Agriculture Council “to see to it that Masagana 99 farmers get the needed fertilizer supply for the dry season rice crop.”

January 12—

THE PRESIDENT has further strengthened the cooperative movement by exempting from the jurisdiction of the Government Printing Office (formerly the Bureau of Printing) the printing of educational and training materials in agriculture, land reform, cooperatives and family Planning. The exemption is embodied in Letter of Implementation No. 24 which amends Regulation No. 40 of Letter of Implementation No. 23.

THE PRESIDENT has issued a third tax amnesty decree covering all previously untaxed income or wealth acquired prior to 1973, to enable those who failed to avail themselves of the tax amnesty provided by Presidential Decree No. 23 to come within the folds of reforms in the New Society. Under Presidential Decree No. 370, the taxpayer must file a return with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on or before June 28, 1974. The return shall be kept confidential and shall not be subject to verification or investigation. If the tax does not exceed P10,000 it must be paid at the time of filing of the return but not later than June 28, 1974. Amounts exceeding P10,000 but not more than P50,000 may be paid in three equal installments, the first not later than June 28, 1974, and the second on or before September 30, 1974. Amounts exceeding P50,000 but not more than P300,000 may be paid in three equal installments, and the last of which will be on or before December 31, 1974. In meritorious cases and where the amount exceeds P300, 000, the BIR commissioner may grant time extensions, and the last installment may be paid not later than May 31, 1975.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture released the school calendar for schoolyear 1974-75. The opening date for the schoolyear will be June 3, 1974, and will end March 22, 1975. The schoolyear will consist of not less than 40 weeks, and the semestral term for collegiate courses shall consist of not less than 18 weeks with two weeks of semestral vacation. The long vacation is scheduled for March 23 to May 31, 1975. The Christmas vacation will be from December 15 to 28, with classes resuming on January 2, 1975. According to the schedule, collegiate summer classes will cover the six-week period from April 7, 1975 to May 17, 1975, while secondary summer classes will cover the period from April 7, 1975, to May 24, 1975. In addition to legal holidays, the secretary of education and culture may authorize the observance by all public and private schools of other special holidays, subject to the issuance of memoranda by the respective bureaus concerned.

January 13—

THE PRESIDENT has created the position of a second deputy director general in the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA). Under Presidential Decree No. 372, the following other changes were effected in the Integrated Reorganization Plan of the government as it applies to the NEDA: 1) In case-of illness or any other cause creating a vacancy in the position of director general, the President shall designate which of the two deputy directors general shall temporarily perform the functions of the office; 2) The NEDA director general is authorized to “use any savings from any item in the lump-sum NEDA budget for strengthening the NEDA office; 3) The seven member NEDA Investment Coordination Committee is enlarged to 10, with the addition of the secretary of finance, the president of the Land Bank, and the president of the Amanah Bank, provided that “the head of any other financial institution that may hereafter be created may be designated by the President as member upon recommendation of the NEDA;” and 4) The director general and his deputies may now be appointed as part-time” members of government bodies. The earlier proviso required them to work full-time in the NEDA and provided that they may not be extended any other appointment to public office except as ex-officio members of government bodies provided for by law.

MALACANANG announced two measures intended to set up the economic development of Mindanao and Sulu. In one measure, the President directed an increase in the number of Armed Forces engineering units for assignment to Muslim areas and ordered that development work in those areas be pursued immediately. In the second measure, the Office of the President systemized the funds disbursement program of the Presidential Task Force for the Reconstruction and Development of Mindanano (RAD), for greater efficiency and effectivity. In a complementary move, the President ordered the National Power Corporation to install transmission lines in the South.

THE GOVERNMENT is setting up a system under which it will buy locally manufactured composite fertilizers at prices that will be reasonable to farmers and will also assure profits to miners of phosphate and guano deposits. With agricultural development getting another share of his attention, the President ordered the Bureau of Mines to submit to him a report on the locations of phosphate and guano deposits throughout the country. These deposits are used in the manufacture of composite fertilizer.

January 14—

THE PRESIDENT has approved the application of the Kawazaki Steel Corp., one of Japan’s largest, to set up a $100-million iron ore sintering plant in the Philippines. The President gave the go-signal for the project during the call of Ichiro Fujimoto, president of the corporation. The project was the first to materialize in accordance with the agreement forged by the President and Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, for the acceleration of cooperation between the Philippines and Japan, particularly in economic development.

THE PRESIDENT has exempted from taxation all donations to the National Museum, the National Library and the archives of the National Historical Institute. Presidential Decree No. 373 provides that all monetary contributions and the equivalent monetary value of works of art, antiques, manuscripts, books or other articles of cultural, historical or scientific significance, donated to the three government agencies are deductible from the donor's taxable income.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism announced it will intensify its promotional program in the country's traditional foreign tourism markets which include Japan, the United States, Australia, Europe and Hongkong. Anticipating possible adverse development, Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras is concentrating promotion in these five tourism markets. The secretary said the Philippines is in the best position to compete for more tourists because of favorable developments on the home front beneficial to tourism.

January 15—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady led the nation in extending a red carpet welcome to Singapore Prime Minister and Madame Lee Kuan Yew upon their arrival in Manila to start a three-day state visit. The Singaporean statesman is the second state visitor to the Philippines in two weeks. The first was Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka of Japan.

OFFICE of the President reminded all public officers to file with their department heads concerned, their statements of assets and liabilities under Republic Act No 3019, as amended, otherwise known as the Anti-Graft Law. Under Sec. 7 of the law, the statement of assets and liabilities shall be filed within 30 days after the approval of the Act or after assuming office, and within the month of January of every other year thereafter, as well as upon the expiration of a public officer's term of office, or upon his resignation or separation from office.

THE PRESIDENT has included the 200-year old Basilica of Taal, Batangas and the church of Sta. Maria, Ilocos Sur, among the national shrines, monuments and landmarks of the nation. The inclusion is effected under Presidential Decree No. 375 which is an amendment to PD No. 260.

January 16—

THE PRESIDENT and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew held a conference at Malacañang on matters of mutual interest to the Philippines and Singapore on the second day of the premier's state visit to this country. Following the conference, the prime minister proceeded to the Rizal Park and Fort Bonifacio, Rizal, where he made floral offerings at the monument of Jose Rizal and at the Libingan ng mga Bayani.

OFFICE of the President has issued Memorandum Circular No. 696 requiring the submission of additional information on government officials and employees who are recommended for official travel abroad. The circular was issued by Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, by authority of the President, to facilitate the processing of requests for travel authority.

HIGHWAYS Commissioner Baltazar Aquino says the government has spent P1.5 billion in eight years of road-building since January 1966. The Bureau of Public Highways has paved 6,975 kilometers of concrete and asphalt roads and constructed 19,340 kilometers of feeder and gravel roads during the period. It has also built 1,312 permanent bridges with a total length of 46,086 lineal meters.

January 17—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady led the official send-off for Prime Minister and Madame Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore upon the conclusion, of their three-day state visit to this country at the Manila International Airport. In a brief press conference at the MIA, shortly after the prime minister's plane had taken off, the President told news men that the Singapore prime minister had a very successful visit during which they had long conversations, both formal and informal on various subjects affecting not only the two countries and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) but also of the entire world. The President paid tribute to Prime Minister Lee whom he described as one of the recognized Asian leaders and statesmen who have a splendid background of achievements behind them.

THE PRESIDENT stressed that it is necessary that each and every citizen take the initiative in order to strengthen the Republic, whoever he is, whether he is in government or outside. The President spoke over a radio-TV hookup from the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang on the occasion of the first year of the existence of the new Constitution. The Chief Executive also took the occasion to describe the Constitution as the people's "earnest of self-denial," their pledge that future generations will enjoy the blessings of freedom "founded on solid and stable ground. The President also added: "Today we must adhere to the Constitution and whatever power is exercised must be found within the limitation and authority granted by that same Constitution."

LABOR Secretary Blas F. Ople exhorted union leaders to be vigilant in protecting workers' rights and encouraged the nation's labor force to participate actively in working for the goals of the New Society. Secretary Ople made the exhortation at the induction of the incoming officers of the Bulletin Employees Union (BEU) at the Army and Navy Club. The labor secretary assured the workers that the Department of Labor, particularly the National Labor Relations Commission, was always willing to help them and protect their rights. However, he encouraged unions to settle disputes between them and management through dialogues, negotiations and bargaining. He urged workers to exhaust all venues open to them to reach an agreement with management without calling on the Department of Labor or any of its agencies.

President's Week in Review: January 18-31, 1974

Official Week in Review: February 1 – February 7, 1974

February 1—

THE PRESIDENT directed all government financing institutions to foreclose all loans of delinquent borrowers with arrearages amounting to at least 20 per cent of the total outstanding obligation. The Chief Executive took this step to effect the early collections from large borrowers from government financial institutions who have long records of failure to pay their obligations. The government financial institutions were directed to foreclose the collaterals or securities for any loan after the lapse of 60 days from the issuance of the presidential directive.

THE PRESIDENT signed a $50-million loan agreement with Interbanks, a consortium of Italian banks, for the development of the various geothermal energy sources and the Caliraya hydroelectric pumping station in Laguna by the National Power Corporation. In signing the loan agreement, the President conveyed the gratitude of the Philippine government and people for the accommodation “which reflects the growing confidence of the world financing circles and the Italian government in the success of the Philippines.” The loan agreement was signed by Gino Uglietti and Aldo Clemente, general manager and manager of the foreign department, respectively, of Interbanks.

THE GOVERNMENT moved to expand the country’s sugar production in view of the increasing demand for sugar in the Philippines and the world market, the National Economic and Development Authority announced. The expansion program involves some relaxation of Government policies affecting the sugar industry, particularly those related to the improvement of milling capacities and increasing sugar productivity at the farm level, the NEDA said.

DEPARTMENT of Finance reminded local government officials that the ceiling or maximum tax rates provided under the Local Tax Code are not supposed to be imposed during the first year of the Code’s implementation. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata issued the reminder following numerous complaints that the rates of tax particularly on business as provided under the ordinances have gone several times higher than the previous rates.

February 2—

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 388 creating the Philippine Sugar Commission to give sustained support to the sugar industry and to provide conditions needed for its continued growth and development. PD No. 388, which shall also be known as the Philippine Sugar Commission Decree, seeks to improve present sugar laws which were enacted based on conditions existing in the years 1933 and 1935 and which may no longer be realistic and adequate to promote the industry’s development.

ADMINISTRATIVE control over the Culion Colony has been restored to the secretary of health by the President through PD No. 384 so that appropriate measures could be undertaken to protect the natural resources inside the reservation for the benefit of leprosy patients. Records disclose that the health secretary’s authority over the colony, spelled out in Sec. 1066 of the Revised Administrative Code, was withdrawn by virtue of Sec. 22 of R. A. 4073 which repealed Sections 1060-1071 of the Code.

THE GOVERNMENT has warned fertilizer and farm chemical dealers against illegal practices in the sale of fertilizers and chemicals needed by Masagana 99 farmers. Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. issued the warning in the wake of mounting complaints that agricultural dealers would not sell farmers the needed fertilizers if the farmers refused to buy their brand of pesticide.

February 3—

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 383 allowing flexibility in the deadline for the annual submission of the Investment and Export Priorities Plan by the Board of Investments. PD 383 amends Sec. 18 of R.A. 5186, otherwise known as the Investment Incentives Act, which fixed the submission deadline on January 31 of every year. Deadline flexibility is needed, according to the President, to give the BOI ample time to study the exigencies confronting the country's industries at present.

February 4—

THE PRESIDENT emphasized the importance of intensive schooling for all sectors of society to achieve faster the New Society's program of change. Addressing the faculty members and students of the National Defense College of the Philippines who called to pledge their continued loyalty and support to the President and the administration, the President said the idea behind the intensive training and schooling going on throughout the country today is to impart new orientation and new attitudes to as many people as possible at the shortest time possible in order to create an interaction among the different sectors of society.

THE PHILIPPINES pressed for the institution of new safeguards to contain marine pollution in Southeast Asia. Keynoting the ASEAN Experts Group Meeting on Marine Pollution held in Manila, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said seas, oceans and marine life are being damaged by the increasing danger of pollution. The trade secretary reminded the delegates that the oceans are not so deep and vast as to escape the accumulated effects of pollution. "This is to say nothing of the effects of oil pollution on the tourist industry and the water sports of the surrounding waters and beaches," he said. Included in the conference are 10 foreign representatives, 14 observers from the Government sector and five observers from the private shipping sector.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture underscored the need for an intensive in-service training program on guidance counseling for teachers, as a solution to the problem of inadequate guidance services in the country's educational system. Education Secretary Juan Manuel pointed out that the need is not so much on the number of guidance counselors as the equipping of school personnel with requisite guidance competence through massive, systematic in-service training programs. The secretary in a speech before vocational guidance counselors in Marikina, Rizal, also recommended the maintenance of continuing guidance support activities like job surveys, community employment needs surveys and the projections of industry needs.

February 5—

THE PRESIDENT commended the Bureau of Customs officials for their success in cleansing their ranks and for increasing collections, but warned them not to "sleep on their laurels and, instead, continue exerting more efforts." The President made this admonition during the call of the 70-man Customs group headed by Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata, Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina, and Deputy Commissioner Pedro Mendoza Jr., at Malacañang. The Customs men called on the President on the occasion of their bureau's 72nd anniversary.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad announced that formal protests were filed by the Philippine government with the governments of the Republic of China (Taiwan) and the Republic of Vietnam against display of force in the Spratlys. The Philippines urged the two governments that the question involving this territory be brought to the United Nations or to the allies so that it may be resolved to the satisfaction of all concerned.

PHILIPPINE Jaycees was lauded by the President for adopting for the year a program parallel to that of the government. The President was informed by David D. Chua-Unsu, national president of the Philippine Jaycees, during the induction of the organization's officials in Malacañang, that the Jaycees have adopted a two-point program for 1974, involving:

- 1) Man and his environment, which encompasses population control, environmental control, food production and conservation of energy; and
- 2) Neighborhood development, association, or the KKK (Kilusan ng Magkakapitbahay sa Kaunlaran), and family planning.

THE PHILIPPINES reversed trade trend with France by posting a $2 million trade surplus in 1973 as against a trade deficit of $19 million in 1972. This was the highlight of a briefing given by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. for the members of the visiting committee on finance, economics and planning of the French National Assembly. The trade secretary said that the 1973 performance of Philippine exports to the French market exceeded expectations with export receipts amounting to more than $19 million in 1973. In contrast, Philippine imports from France decreased by $8.1 million, or 31.5 per cent of the total 1972 level.

UNITED Nations Fund for Population Activities has approved the Department of Social Welfare's proposal for the nation-wide expansion of its Population Awareness and Sex Education Program. The UNFPA will soon release P3.5 million for the intensive implementation of PASE to reach out a target clientele of 651,200 out-of-school youth within a period of three years, the DSW said.

February 6—

THE PRESIDENT formally received the final draft of the comprehensive employment strategy for the Philippines which was prepared by the International Labor Organization survey mission headed by Dr. Gustav Ranis of Yale University. Upon receipt of the 500-page report which was sent by Dr. Abbas Ammar, first principal deputy director general of ILO, through Director Hugo Lane of the ILO area office, the President ordered a study of present government policies for purposes of comparison with those recommended in the report.

CENTRAL Bank is issuing new P200 million worth of certificates of indebtedness to mop up excess funds for developmental projects. The Central Bank is issuing the new certificates in view of the increase in money supply which reached the P8.2 billion level for the month of December. The increase in money supply—about P894 million or 12.3 per cent in December—was brought about by the increase in the country's international reserves by $42 million from the end of 1973 to January 29, 1974.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has warned field representatives of the National Labor Relations Commission against exercising regulatory powers over labor contractors. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople said NLRC field representatives were not vested with such powers under Presidential Decree No. 21 which created the NLRC, and under any of its implementing orders.

February 7—

THE PRESIDENT promulgated the Forestry Reform Code of the Philippines to promote the wise utilization, conservation and development of the forest resources of the country, including their associated services relating to water supply, recreation and wildlife preservation. The code likewise seeks to safeguard the national interest in the maintenance of a wholesome ecological environment and accelerate the rehabilitation of denuded lands, including those under private ownership, as well as provide a stable forestry agency and a body of laws and regulations adequate to achieve the national policy.

THE GOVERNMENT is stepping up the shift in the- overall development program from urban centers to the rural areas starting this year, according to the National Economic and Development Authority. NEDA Director-General Gerardo P. Sicat said that as a rule, rural-oriented development programs will be given priority over urban-oriented programs. At the same time, the NEDA official said the President told the NEDA to give priority to the development of new sources of energy, followed by food production, and substitution and production of scarce commodities.

DEVELOPMENT Bank of the Philippines has amended its loans policy to small foreshore and river fishermen to make it easier for them to get loans. The current policy on the small foreshore and river fishermen loan will allow each fisherman to borrow a maximum of P3,500 provided that the loan is secured by chattel on durable goods acquired with loan funds. Under the amendment, the requirement may be substituted in the following manner: 1) That borrowers shall form themselves into groups of five and the loan of each group-member shall be secured by the guarantee of the other four members of the group; 2) All members of the group shall be jointly and solidarity liable for the loan granted to each member of the group; and 3) That in the grouping of fishermen-borrowers it is necessary that fishermen-borrowers are land-based and reside in the same village and that they operate in the same fishing ground.

NEW format of “Typo A” treasury warrants will be issued by the Bureau of Treasury beginning this month. National Treasurer Vicente P. Rodriguez said that the new treasury warrants bear the seal of the Republic of the Philippines on the left side and the Rizal monument at the center with the background printing of the words “Bagong Lipunan” and the facsimiles of the Philippine flag in light color all over the warrant. The announcement was made by National Treasurer Rodriguez for the information of the 400,000 national government officials and employees who receive their salaries in treasury warrants twice a month as well as the banks, provincial, city and municipal treasurers, postmasters and other officials who cash or receive warrants as deposits.

THE GOVERNMENT netted P77.2 million in the intensified anti-smuggling operations in 1973. Last year’s anti-smuggling campaign, bolstered by Martial Law, increased by over P18 million the previous year’s collection of P59 million from contraband goods. The Anti-Smuggling Action Center—the Government’s coordinating anti-smuggling body—reported that the big increase in anti-smuggling collections came from logs and confiscation and taxation of PX and commissary goods.

President's Week in Review: February 15-21, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 15—

THE PRESIDENT reiterated the Government's policy of affording every Filipino an equal chance to reach a position of leadership regardless of his birth or status in life. The President was guest speaker at the Working Youth Day celebration at the Maharlika Hall in Malacañang. The rites coincided with the 81st birth anniversary of the President's mother, Mrs. Josefa Edralin Marcos. "Remember, every Filipino is a prospective leader irrespective of the dignity of his birth or the affluence of his family, or lack of it," the President said.

APPEAL for an immediate friendly consultation among the countries involved in the dispute over the Spratlys Islands in the South China Sea was aired by the President. The Chief Executive likewise reiterated the position that the Philippine government is not claiming any of the islands in the Spratlys group but the Kalayaan group of islets near the Spratlys.

THE PRESIDENT hailed the Mindanao Executive Development Academy for implementing the government policy leading to the improvement of the quality of leadership at all levels in order to attain the competence needed to meet the challenges of the New Era. In brief remarks before the first graduates of the academy who called at Malacañang, the President pointed out that under the government reorganization program, the country has been divided into 11 regions with a regional director for each region. He said that these regional directors will be "mini-department secretaries" who will solve on the spot the problems brought to thorn by the people, instead of coming to Manila for assistance. Accompanied to Malacañang by Salvador P. Lopez and Mauryag Tamano, presidents, respectively, of the University of the Philippines and the Mindanao State University, which are sponsoring the Mindanao executive development program, the first batch of graduates was composed of 50 local executives, 30 Muslims and 20 Christians, both from government and the private sectors.

THE PRESIDENT extended the Balikbayan program for another six months—from March to August this year—to enable more overseas Filipinos and their families to visit the Philippines. The second phase of the Balikbayan program will draw on the country's many colorful fiestas, and festivals as its theme. In view of this, the President directed Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile to allow cities and municipalities to celebrate fiestas provided the celebrations are in keeping with a standing order against ostentation and lavish display of wealth. The President decided to extend Balikbayan in response to numerous requests from individuals and Filipino communities as well as from officials of the foreign service.

THE GOVERNMENT, through the Bureau of Internal Revenue, has created four new revenue district offices and redistricted five others to facilitate tax collection in newly created provinces. Finance Secretary Cesar E A Virata said this brought to 97 the total number of revenue district offices throughout the country. The new district offices are located in the provinces of Nueva Vizcaya Quirino. Maguindanao, North Cotabato, Sultan Kudarat, Zamboanga del Sur, Basilan and Tawi-Tawi.

February 16—

THE PRESIDENT approved a package of measures to cushion the impact of rising prices on the low-income segment of the populace and to assure a continuous fuel supply for the country. Some of these measures are: 1) Grant of a P50 emergency cost-of-living allowance to government employees, whose take-home pay is not more than P600; 2) Approval of a decision of the Oil Industry Commission granting reasonable oil price increases—premium gasoline will now cost P1 02 per liter, and regular gasoline 96 centavos per liter; 3) Approval of a Board of Transportation decision for a realistic adjustment of transport fares; 4) Signing of a decree, recommended by the Department of Finance and the National Economic and Development Authority, increasing the specific taxes on gasoline, diesel, kerosene, lubricating oil, bunker oil and diesel oil, and imposing specific taxes on other refined and manufactured mineral oils; 5) Signing of an executive order recommended by the NEDA and the Department of Finance imposing higher taxes on premiums derived on several export products as a result of the worldwide price increases; and 6) Approval of a decree granting discounts on real estate taxes to help relieve the adverse effects of price increases.

PHILIPPINE Legion of Honor (degree of commander) was conferred by the President on Brig. Gen. James A. Grimsley, Jr. of the United States Army for “exceptionally meritorious and outstanding humanitarian service to the Republic of the Philippines.” Assuming the post of chief of the Joint United States Military Advisory Group (JUSMAG) on August 8, 1971, Gen. Grimsley was chiefly responsible for the deployment of a 123-man disaster relief force which distributed over a million pounds of food and inoculated over 300,000 victims of the great flood of 1972.

BUREAU of Customs has designated the Pasig River bank from its mouth at the Manila Bay to Jones Bridge as exclusive loading and unloading area for cargoes from and into watercraft. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina explained that for easy identification and reference of vessels desiring to berth along the Pasig River banks, the area designated for berthing purposes will be numbered. He said the south bank of the river will bear even numbers, while the north bank will bear odd numbers. Each berthing space measures 10 meters long, he added.

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System has reminded heads of Government offices to insure all public properties with the GSIS. GSIS General Manager Roman A. Cruz, Jr., who issued the reminder, said that R.A. 656, as amended by Presidential Decree No. 215, requires all “governments,” except municipal governments below first class level, “to insure its properties” with the GSIS General Insurance fund.

February 17—

THE PRESIDENT asked the Filipino people to show once again their sense of unity and national identity in the face of adversity even as he formally announced the package of measures adopted by the government to cope with the problems of insufficient and costly oil supply as well as of rising prices. Specifically, the Chief Executive called on the private sector to join hands with the government in confronting the challenges posed by the current crises, for “to do nothing would mean a possible disintegration of the economy and the setback of the programs of the New Society.” In a nationwide radio-television address, the Chief Executive stressed that at no other time in the country’s history has a sense of unity and national identity been as valuable as it is now.

FOREIGN Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo underscored the importance of vocational education and the role played by the university in the development of the human person at the inauguration of the liberty and museum of the University of the East. Secretary Romulo who is president emeritus of the University of the Philippines, said that it is the task of the university to help the youth discover his own potentials and then to create the opportunities which will enable him to realize those potentials in the context of the needs of his particular society.

THE GOVERNMENT, through the Fertilizer Industry Authority, authorized a set of price increases for food crop fertilizer under a new subsidized pricing scheme. Executive Director Daniel G. Carreon of the FIA announced that the price increases have become “inevitable” in view of the escalating costs of fertilizers and fertilizer ingredients. Nitrogenous fertilizer, he pointed out, is petroleum-based.

February 18—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady led the official welcome for Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon and Princess Sofia of Spain, who arrived for a four-day state visit. The Spanish prince is the fourth state visitor to the Philippines in two months. The first was Prime Minister Kakei Tanaka of Japan, followed by Prime Ministers and Mesdames Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore and Gough Whitlam of Australia.

FOREIGN TOURISTS are granted a 50 per cent discount on the amusement tax as additional incentive to accelerate the growth of tourism. To enable them to enjoy the discount, foreign tourists shall have to be properly identified, according to Presidential Decree No. 386 issued recently. The Chief Executive states in the decree that the government is committed to the policy of developing tourism into a major dollar-earning industry, and experience has shown that incentives previously granted to tourists were found to be effective.

THE PRESIDENT conferred on Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, the heir to the Spanish crown, the Order of Sikatuna (rank of rajah), the Philippines' highest state decoration. In return, the state visitor conferred on the president the Grand Cross of Military Merit, consisting of a medal with a red-and-white sash. Assisted by the First Lady, the President also decorated Princess Sofia with the Order of Gabriela Silang. The First Lady was likewise presented the Grand Cross of Isabela Catolica by the Spanish prince. The exchange of decorations was held at Malacañang.

FOREIGN tourist arrivals in Manila last January reached 36,680, or an increase by 175.5 per cent the arrivals of 12,213 in January last year according to the Department of Tourism. Statistics released by the department placed the Japanese as the biggest arrivals, totalling 10 290 compared with 5,015 in January last year, or an increase of 307.6 per cent. The second highest arrivals were overseas Filipino residents totalling 6,157 compared with 1,409 in January last year, or an increase of 667 per cent. Majority of the Filipino arrivals came as Balikbayan homecomers.

February 19—

THE PHILIPPINES and Spain will conclude a basic agreement of technical cooperation on the occasion of the four-day state visit to the Philippines of Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon. Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo and Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina Mauri will sign the agreement on behalf of their respective governments. The conclusion of the technical cooperation agreement is expected to consolidate further the traditionally friendly relations existing between the two countries.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture announced that the Youth Civic Action Program will be integrated in the total school program this school year. Education Secretary Juan Manuel said that the rules and regulations governing the program are contained in a primer recently released by the DEC. The YCAP will be implemented in all levels—elementary, secondary and post-secondary—in public and private schools throughout the country.

February 20—

THE GOVERNMENT has increased the support price for corn grains, from 50 centavos per kilo, or P25 per 50-kilo cavan, to 62 centavos per kilo, or P31 per 50-kilo cavan ex-farm, to enable farmers to make a profit and to meet higher costs of fertilizers and other production inputs. Letter of Instructions No. 165 also imposes price ceilings on corn grits and corn by-products to dampen further price increases toward the traditional shortage in month of March. The price ceilings are: corn grits, P1.45 per kilo; Tiktik (mesh No. 22), 70 centavos per kilo; Tahop (corn bran), 45 centavos per kilo; and White corn grain, 80 centavos per kilo.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady treated Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon and Princess Sofia of Spain, as well as members of their official entourage, to typical Filipino dishes at luncheon given at the Turo-Turo Restaurant of the Nayong Pilipino in Pasay City. There, the state visitors got a glimpse of the Filipino Pageantry at a fluvial procession staged on an artificial lagoon, typical of colorful river festivals in some cities and municipalities on fiesta time.

February 21—

THE PRESIDENT directed Budget Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco to release P1 million immediately for the relief and rehabilitation of the people of Sulu and Tawi-Tawi who were victims of Maoist violence. At the same time, the President directed Rear Admiral Romulo Espaldon of the Southwest Command, concurrently military governor of Sulu, to accept the surrender of Mayor Aminkadra Abubakar of Jolo and members of his police force who had signified their desire to return to the ways of peace.

THE PRESIDENT said that he and Prince Juan Carlos of Spain have reached agreement in many areas of interest to both Spain and the Philippines. In an interview by media representatives at the Manila International Airport, shortly after the Prince and his party took off for New Delhi, the President told newsmen that the visit of Prince Juan Carlos is novel in many ways. First, he said, it is the first truly official reacquaintance between Spain and the Philippines which separated under violent circumstances 75 years ago. The President said that on the basis of mutual dignity and trust which resulted in the brotherhood of the two countries, he and Prince Juan Carlos have reached a number of agreements.

TOTAL OF P77,699,235 is now available for budgetary aid or financial assistance for development projects of local governments, the Department of Finance announced. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata ordered the transfer of the amount from the Bureau of Internal Revenue to the Bureau of the Treasury which will release the funds to needy local governments upon recommendation of the Budget Commission and the approval of the Office of the President.

NATIONAL Grains Authority announced that there will be no increases in the floor price of palay and in the ceiling price of rice. NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco said the announcement was issued to prevent any undue speculations among rice traders and others engaged in the grains business.

BUREAU of Posts announced the revision of the Zip Code from the alpha-numeric characters to numerals. Postmaster General Felizardo Tanabe said the revised postal numbering system eliminates the region or zone as identified in the former Zip Code. The new postal numbering system, now known as the Postal Code System of the Philippines, will be fully implemented as soon as the new automatic sorting machine arrives from Japan.

President's Week in Review: February 22-29, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 22—

THE PRESIDENT issued a set of directives aimed at cushioning the impact of newly-authorized increases in fertilizer prices both on the farm and on the end consumer sectors. The first of these directives, contained in a letter of instructions to the Departments of Finance and of Agriculture, the Central Bank and the Philippine National Bank is an order to earmark, from various sources, a subsidy fund with which the Fertilizer Industry Authority can directly subsidize the users of fertilizer for food crop production and slow down further fertilizer price increases.

RELEASE of P16 million has been ordered by the President to start the operations of two newly created government corporations, the Department of Finance announced. On orders of the President, the Bureau of the Treasury released P10 million as an initial capital stock of the Philippine Aerospace Development Corporation and P6 million for the initial operations of the Philippine International Trading Corporations.

THE COUNTRY exported P13.5 million worth of fresh bananas last January which was higher by P0.82 million compared to the record of the same period last year. This was reported to Plant Industry Director Eliseo Carandang. The report showed that last January, the country exported 35,734,517 kilos of fresh bananas to Japan worth P13,520,158. Compared to the January record of last year which was 29,911,733 kilos worth P12,695,396, last month's total earnings was higher by P824.762.

BUREAU of Cooperatives of the Department of Local Government and Community Development has collected some P4.7 million in fees and dues from 9,504 Samahang Nayan chapters as of January. In his report to the President, DLGCD Secretary Jose A. Roño said the 9,504-barrio associations have a total membership of 463,264 farmers from 11,973 barrios all over the country. Of the 14,973 barrios covered, 5,469 are still undergoing pre-organizational activities, he added. Mr. Roño said the fees and dues collected will accrue to the Barrio Savings Fund which is primarily intended as investment by the Samahang Nayan.

FOREIGN gift items sent through the mails and valued at more than P10 are subject to customs duties and compensating tax, according to the Bureau of Customs. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina issued this clarification in answer to complaints by recipients of gift items who maintain that the articles are unsolicited gifts and should not be taxed. The commissioner added that under the new Tariff and Customs Code, the Bureau of Customs is under obligation to levy the customs duty at the rate fixed by the Code depending on the kind of merchandise or articles brought or sent in through the mails.

February 23—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the Budget Commission to release P20 million to pay the police salary subsidy to policemen whose salaries are below the minimum pay scale. Acting on the President's directive, the commission issued budget allotment No. A-190/3-04 for an initial P10 million release to the National Police Commission. The second installment of P10 million will be released through the Napolcom in the first week of April 1974.

THE PRESIDENT received officials of Reynolds International, who called to pay their respects, following their arrival recently on a business trip. J Louis Reynolds and Bruce Gralon, chairman and executive vice president, respectively of Reynolds International, together former Ambassador William McCormick Blair of the United States, informed the President of the plan to tap the geothermal energy in Leyte for the operation of a projected aluminum smelter plant.

NATIONAL Grains Authority Administrator Jesus P. Tanchanco reiterated that the government has pegged at P.80 per kilo the floor price for palay, or P40 per cavan of 50 kilos. The NGA, he said, has not raised the price and warned people engaged in the grain business from speculating. For commercial rice, the NGA chief said the ceiling price remains at P1.90 per kilo.

February 24—

INCREASE in the support price for corn highlighted the government's multi-pronged campaign to help the farmers cope with the rising prices triggered by the energy crisis. The subsidy involves the increase from 50 centavos to 65 centavos per kilo, or from P25 to P31 per 50-kilo cavan. Together with this increase in the support price for corn, the government also imposed price ceilings for corn grits and corn byproducts to halt further price increases, especially towards March, a traditional corn shortage month.

KING Faisal of Saudi Arabia lauded the President's deep concern for the rights and socio-economic welfare of Filipino Muslims. The King made the statement during a two-hour audience recently with Dr. Mauryag Tamano, president of the Mindanao State University, and Salipada Tamano, director of MSU's Institute of Islamic and Arabic Studies at the King's Palace in the city of Jeddah. Dr. Tamano said that during the conference, King Faisal also declared he was highly gratified with the administration's full assistance to Filipino Muslims through various programs designed to uplift their economic well-being.

EXECUTIVE committee has been created to take charge of preparations for the holding of the 18th session of the governing council of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) to be held in Manila from June 5 to June 24, 1974. Memorandum Circular No. 706, issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., by authority of the President, designates Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes as committee chairman.

February 25—

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office three associate justices of the Court of Appeals, at ceremonies attended by members of the judiciary, and friends and relatives of the inductees, at the Malacañang Reception Hall. Inducted by the President were Justices Jose G. Bautista, Sixto A. Domondon and Buenaventura A. de la Fuente.

THE PRESIDENT received the unqualified support and cooperation of the Federation of Filipino-Chinese Chambers of Commerce and 57 affiliated associations in the Greater Manila area for the stabilization of prices of prime commodities. The manifestation of support was made in response to the President's appeal, made a few months back, for trade groups to help arrest run-away prices.

BUDGET Commission announced that upon the instructions of the President, government employees whose salaries or wages are less than P600 a month will get their emergency cost-of-living allowance immediately. The rules and regulations on the grant of said allowance have been issued by Budget Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco. The grant of the allowance, embodied in Presidential Decree No. 390 issued by the President recently, was one of the measures taken by the President to cushion the impact of rising prices on the low-income segment of the populace.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said that the advent of acupuncture is most welcome and ought to be encouraged particularly in the rural areas where more than 50 per cent of the people still do not get adequate medical care. Keynoting the First National Acupuncture Convention and Seminar of the Philippine Acupuncture Association, the secretary emphasized the need to train men and women in art like acupuncture in order to give relief to those who have been denied it either because they do not have the means to pay for medication or because those who can offer them medical services are not accessible to them.

COUNTRY'S foreign exchange transactions registered an overall surplus of $41 million in January 1974 as compared with the P32 million recorded in January 1973, the Central Bank reported. Merchandise trade, which a year ago resulted in a surplus of $7 million, ended up with a deficit of $14 million as the marked advance of 104 per cent in imports outpaced the 77 per cent expansion in exports. Import payments, which a year ago suffered a slash of $26 million, rose from $95 million to $185 million. The sharp increase may be attributed to world-wide cost-push pressures.

February 26—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of P43.8 million to the Export Processing Zone Authority (EPZA) in Mariveles, Bataan, to hasten its development work and finance its infrastructure projects, facilities and utilities that make up the conveniences of the modern industrial estate rising in the Mariveles area. At the same time, the Chief Executive also directed the Infrastructure Operations Center in Camp Aguinaldo, Quezon City, to release 30 pre-fabricated buildings for the housing projects in the zone.

GOLDEN Heart Presidential Award was conferred by the President on Dr. John Hannah, former administrator of the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), for his deep interest in fostering the economic and social development of the country. As administrator of the USAID in Washington, D.C. from 1969 to 1973, Dr. Hannah sought to strengthen the program of assistance of the USAID in the Philippines and contributed to its rapid expansion.

THE GOVERNMENT has released P281.8 million to local governments as internal revenue allotments from July, 1973 to January, 1974, the Department of Finance announced. Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata disclosed that the released amount was part of the total sum of P483 186,607 appropriated as internal revenue allotment to local governments for Fiscal Year 1973-1974. The balance of P201,339,766 will be released to local governments until June, 1974, the finance secretary explained.

RELEASE of P75.5 million has been approved by the President for six major projects being undertaken by the Bureau of Public Highways with commodity loans from Japan. BPH Commissioner Baltazar Aquino said the six projects are: Lumban-Caliraya-Cavinti road; Davao-Calinan-Bukidnon road; Marikina-Infanta road; Layag Junction-Mariveles road; Agoo-Tubao-Baguio City road; and Lamut-Banaue road.

February 27—

THE PRESIDENT and the Cabinet decided that there shall be no contraction of the economy. On the contrary, there shall be increased agricultural and industrial production to cope with rising levels of prices and the increased costs of development, and to sustain the momentum of growth. These decisions were reached during a five-and-a-half hour session of the Chief Executive with the Cabinet — the longest session ever of the present Cabinet — to draw a basic strategy for the Philippine economy in the face of worldwide inflation and soaring prices.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad voiced the need to found new development banks in key sectors of the economy even as he expressed hope that the 31 existing development banks in the country will expand. Having proved its validity, the private development banking system should now face the challenges of dispersal and growth, he said. This growth, he added, could only come about from the development bankers' meaningful response to the needs of the economy, particularly in the rural areas, and from their effective use of management skill in handling resources. In a speech before the Development Bankers Association of the Philippines as it kicked off the observance of the Private Development Bank Week, the Secretary said the value of development banking is now recognized by almost everybody everywhere. The potentials of the system should now be realized on a wider basis and its effects on priority projects multiplied, he stressed. Those in finance and those in government charged with the task of helping private development banks grow should join hands in working for these objectives, Secretary Tatad said.

NATIONAL Economic and Development Authority called on private industries to find ways and means of providing economic aids to their employees. NEDA Director-General Gerardo P. Sicat, who made the appeal asked private entrepreneurs to look into the feasibility of adopting one or a combination of the following measures: 1) Adoption of profit-sharing schemes; 2) Provision of cost-of-living allowances or commissaries in the form of essential commodities to low wage earners; and 3) Granting of across-the-board increase in wages.

February 28—

THE PRESIDENT has directed a restudy of the forestry code to allow expanded exportation of logs and other wood products until 1975, the regeneration of the coconut industry, and the full utilization of all cement plants and sugar mills in the country to power the 1974 export drive. He asked that the implementing departments and agencies of government accord his directives "life-and-death urgency."

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said that one of the major components of the government's development blueprint is a population program which aims to reduce the population growth rate from 3.01 per cent in 1970 to 2.55 per cent in 1977 by persuasion, not by force. The secretary told the first general assembly of the Christian Communicators of the Philippines at the Sacred Heart Novitiate in Novaliches that population control as an integral part of the development program is a definite manifestation of the government's concern over the population explosion and its commitment to bring about a reduction of the fertility rate.

THE PRESIDENT received Stephen Mosher, board chairman and chief executive of Boise Cascade Corp., a foreign firm which proposed to expand its wood processing investments in this country by $74.3 million. The President expressed gratification over the ever-increasing confidence of foreign investors in the Philippines. Accompanied to Malacañang by Secretary of Agriculture Arturo R. Tanco Jr. and Director of Forest Development Jose Viado, Mr. Mosher informed the President that his company intends to engage in pulp production, reforestation and kaingin management and log barging.

THE PRESIDENT received officials of the Mitsubishi Corp. of Japan, who called to pay their respects following their arrival on a business trip. In receiving the Mitsubishi officials, the President assured them that Japan has been very helpful to the Philippines and that the government is prepared to extend all available support "within the limits of our laws and our standards." Earlier, the President and the First Lady also received Ambassador and Mrs. Ernesto Madero of Mexico who called to say farewell before leaving for Mexico where the outgoing envoy is being reassigned. In receiving Ambassador and Mrs. Madero, the President and the First Lady expressed the hope that they will return to the Philippines even as private citizens.

President's Week in Review: March 1-7, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

March 1—

THE PRESIDENT has cancelled the licenses of 33 timber concessionaires either for violation of forestry laws and regulations or for the concessionaires' failure to establish processing plants as required by law. In meting out disciplinary action to the erring concessionaires, the President said that forest resources should be utilized and developed to improve the economy without sacrificing ecological balance. The cancellations, exercised by the Chief Executive under Art. XVII, Sec. 12 of the new Constitution, affirmed the revocation of these licenses by the secretary of agriculture and natural resources after a field evaluation of each licensee's performance.

PHILIPPINE National Bank has granted a total loan of P255 million to some 278,993 farmers cultivating 376,663 hectares of rice lands under its Masagana 99 rice production program as of January 30, 1974. The PNB's financing scheme which is divided into two phases showed that under Phase I some 213,633 farmers got loans amounting to P195,884,165 while under Phase II 65,360 farmers got only P59,042,249.00.

PHILIPPINE Legion of Honor with degree of commander was conferred by the President on Lt. Gen. Louis H. Wilson, commanding general of the United States Fleet Marine Force Pacific, "for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service" to the Philippines. In his capacity as chief of the US FMF, which is based in Honolulu, Lt. Gen. Wilson "added immeasurably to the development and expansion, and enhancement of the capability of the Philippine Marine Brigade to perform its role under the New Society."

March 2—

THE PRESIDENT has increased the floor prices of Virginia tobacco and instituted a set of related measures to accelerate the development of the local tobacco industry for the benefit of millions of Filipinos dependent upon it. The new floor prices are P5 a kilo for grade A, P4.50 for grade B, P1 for grade C, P3.50 for grade D and P3 for grade E. These new prices were prompted by the increased costs of production inputs like fertilizers, insecticides and fuel as well as by the President's desire to augment the income of tobacco farmers.

BUREAU of Public Highways has been authorized by the President to use the past years' unspent balances of the Highways Special Fund for the repair of typhoon-ravaged roads throughout the country. According to BPH Commissioner Baltazar Aquino, his bureau has P6, 684,080 in accumulated balances as of June 30, 1973 for road repair work. These accumulated funds will augment the inadequate available funds for the rehabilitation and improvement of national, provincial and municipal roads destroyed by calamities.

MONETARY Board has adopted twin measures designed to boost local gold production and enable Philippine gold producers to hedge on their gold output. Implementing Presidential Letter of Instructions No. 171 directing the Central Bank "to take all necessary steps for the establishment of a gold refinery," the board directed the CB to set up a CB-owned gold refinery suitable in design and capacity for the needs of the country, as soon as practicable. Under the gold financing plan, gold producers who have to sell their gold output on spot basis will be financed by domestic commercial banks. The board said this would enable gold producers to defer actual exportation but nevertheless immediately realize the peso proceeds of their gold production on the basis of the prevailing free world prices.

March 3—

THE PRESIDENT has appropriated P185 million to liquidate the Bureau of Public Highways' obligation to the Philippine National Bank incurred in the purchase of heavy construction equipment for the government's infrastructure program. The appropriation of P185 million, made through Presidential Decree No. 393, would be sufficient to shoulder the payments in accordance with the amortization schedule, assuring the exclusive use of rentals for the maintenance and repair of the equipment. The P185 million appropriation will come from the Rehabilitation, Improvement and Betterment Section of the Highways Special Fund.

RESPONSIBILITY for the construction of Bataan Zone's Dam No. 1 has been turned over by the President from the Export Processing Zone Authority to the National Power Corp. The Chief Executive said he would like to see the project completed as soon as possible, and water impounded in the reservoir starting June next year. Letter of Instructions No. 168 of the President directs the NPC to review and evaluate the plans, designs, cost estimates and other contract documents of the project, as prepared by the Engineering and Development Corp. of the Philippines and to negotiate a new contract with the Pacific Equipment Corp. After its completion, the dam will be turned over by the NPC to EPZA for custody and administration.

THE PRESIDENT issued a series of directives to alleviate the plight of the people of Jolo, which was razed to the ground by Maoists last month, and to speed the town's rehabilitation and recovery. At the same time, the President appealed to the people who are still in hiding to return to the folds of the law. Following a two-hour conference with the military top brass who gave the President a complete briefing on the Jolo situation, the President: 1) Ordered the release of P10 million to the Philippine Amanah Bank for the grant of loans to the people of Jolo, and he also ordered the Philippine National Bank to start giving all forms of loans—personal, commercial and industrial; 2) Directed the payment of all vacation pays of teachers and government officials, and the suspension of payments of loan amortizations and interests to government financing institutions; 3) Ordered suspension of compliance with all requirements like the filing of income tax returns and the payment of taxes until Jolo is rehabilitated and has recovered; 4) Ordered the release of P1.5 million to be given to some 2,000 Muslim students depending for support on their parents in Jolo, to help them out while their parents are recovering from the calamity in Jolo, and 5) Ordered the immediate construction of a bigger and modern marketplace where the people of Jolo can bring in their goods and generate more income.

March 4—

THE PRESIDENT underlined the sugar industry's key role in the government's strategy to combat inflation through export promotion even as he noted with gratification the industry's transformation into a sector conscious of its social responsibility to the workingman. Addressing the opening of the 1974 Sugar Industry Convention, the Chief Executive stressed that sugar, being the country's top foreign exchange earner, will play a major part in the current drive to increase export earnings with which to shoulder the incremental cost of much-needed imports.

THE PRESIDENT has streamlined export procedures for enterprises registered in the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, in line with his policy of accelerating and expanding the country's export trade. Under Letter of Instructions No. 167, zone-based exporters will now need only an export permit issued by the Export Processing Zone Authority (EPZA) to effect the actual flow of their finished products from the zone. Eliminated by the Chief Executive are the requirements for the filing of the Report of Sales with the Central Bank and of the Export Entry with the Bureau of Customs. Zone enterprises are also exempted now from securing clearances from the Bureau of Internal Revenue prior to exportation. The export permit, to be accomplished by the exporter on EPZA Form No. 8103, takes the place of existing export licenses, specifically Central Bank E.D. Form No. 102.

EDUCATIONAL, scientific and cultural articles and materials imported under the UNESCO 1950 agreement are free from customs duty but not from compensating tax, according to the Bureau of Customs. Customs Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina issued this clarification in answer to queries from students of correspondence schools abroad that they have been levied taxes at post offices on school materials sent by their schools. The Commissioner explained that while Customs Administrative Order 211 dated August 27, 1956, admits educational, scientific and cultural articles and materials free of duty, paragraph 9 of the same order provides that "nothing in this order shall be interpreted to mean that any of the articles or materials mentioned herein is exempt from internal revenue taxes."

DEPARTMENT of Finance released P750,826 for the province and municipalities of Sulu to assist them in their rehabilitation program. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said the amount represents three months advance in internal revenue allotments to the province and municipalities of Sulu. The three-month allotments were for the months of March, April and May. For Fiscal Year 1973-74, the finance department has allotted P3 million to Sulu province and municipalities. Out of the P3 million, P2 million has already been released by the finance department. At the same time, complying with the directive of the President, the finance department suspended the payments of all national and local taxes, including that of filing and payment of income tax returns, in Jolo.

March 5—

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, on Ambassador Ernesto Madero of Mexico for services in the field of international relations. The President cited Ambassador Madero for constantly endeavoring to strengthen the friendly ties between Mexico and the Philippines and promoting closer understanding between the Filipinos and Mexicans through mutually beneficial undertakings. In accepting the award, Ambassador Madero assured the President and the First lady that at his new post as director general of Mexico's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, "I shall continue to be close to the Philippines."

TOTAL trade between the Philippines and the socialist and communist countries amounted to $72.2 million from May 19, 1972 to January 19, 1974, with the balance of trade tilting in favor of the Philippines, the Department of Trade announced. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon said that the total Philippine exports to the socialist and communist bloc countries during the same period amounted to $42.9 million, or a balance of trade of $18.7 million in favor of the Philippines. Philippine exports for the period in review consisted mostly of Portland cement, plywood, veneer, crude coconut oil in bulk, woodcraft, buri fibers, abaca and copra.

THE PRESIDENT received Soichi Yokoyama, president of the Bank of Tokyo, which is co-manager of the Japanese consortium of banks that is extending a new US$150-million stand-by credit to the Central Bank of the Philippines. The Bank of Tokyo and Fuji Bank are leaders of the consortium of Japanese commercial banks that had been extending US$50 million stand-by credit lines to the Central Bank. This credit was particularly useful during the first two years of the 1970 exchange reform program.

COPPER concentrates dislodged centrifugal sugar as the Philippines' number one export in January, 1974 compared to the same period last year. Export proceeds from this product amounted to $27,750,000 FOB value in January this year against $12,433,000 in January last year, or an increase of 123.2 per cent, the second highest percentage increase registered by the Philippines' leading exports. The highest increase was posted by desiccated coconut, up by 228.94 per cent, from $1,099,000 in January 1973 against $3,615,000 in January 1974. These figures are contained in a review of the country's trade performance during the first month of this year as recorded by the Bureau of Foreign Trade. Going over these figures, Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said that value-wise, logs and lumber came second to copper concentrates among the leading exports in January.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has banned all its officials and employees from interceding for persons seeking employment in Greater Manila offices and overseas firms. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople issued a memorandum order specifically banning department officials and employees from accompanying job applicants to employment offices in Manila and interceding in their behalf in the filing of applications for employment abroad. The secretary stressed that personnel who would violate the order would be dealt with administratively. Such practice invites charges of favoritism against the department, he explained.

March 6—

THE PRESIDENT said that the Philippine economy will continue to move forward notwithstanding the world energy crisis, inflation and shortages in food and raw materials. In welcoming a 30-man survey mission from the Chinese Manufacturers' Association of Hongkong at Malacañang, the President pointed out that the country is blessed with rich natural resources and that while the cost of oil, capital goods and raw materials might have gone up, so have the cost, he said, of Philippine exports such as sugar, copper, gold. The President said that while Philippine society has adopted the egalitarian principle, it is fundamentally a free enterprise society which guarantees protection for investment, especially where investment is fair and just to labor which, he said, is its partner in productive enterprise.

CREATION of T'boli town in South Cotabato was decreed by the President to give some 150,000 hill tribesmen representing nearly 10 per cent of the 1.7 million-odd ethnic mountain people, a more effective collective voice in government. Sprawling over 130,000 hectares (326,234 acres) of forested mountains and rugged valleys in the Mindanao frontier land, the new town encompasses the areas being occupied by Ubo, Blaan, Manobo Blit and T'boli tribes. The municipality also includes the rainforest preserve of the famed Tasaday cave people. Seat of the town government will be the Kematu settlement of the T'bolis.

THE PRESIDENT received the credentials of Ambassador Phagna Ratana Vibhittr Keo Viphakone of the Kingdom of Laos to the Republic of the Philippines. In presenting his letters of credence and of the recall of his predecessor, Prince Khaming, the new envoy of Laos said his primary mission is to work towards the maintenance and development of friendly relations and cooperation between his country and the Philippines. The President, in return, expressed hope that as Laos' present difficulties dissipate and the country starts on the road to economic recovery, the Philippines can look forward to a "closer partnership with Laos to the end that peace and tranquility could be restored rapidly in this part of the world."

March 7—

EXTRAORDINARY gains made on oil inventories as a result of government-approved price increases, will be channeled to the public interest in the form of special economic and social development projects. This is the gist of Presidential Decree No. 389-A, which provides a basis for an administrative machinery through the Oil Industry Commission to effect public use of the private gains. The decree amends Republic Act No. 6173, charter of the Oil Industry Commission, to empower the Commission "to take such measures, including the payment by the companies benefited, to a special fund created by the decree, to be determined by the commission in an appropriate directive of such inventory gain, as would assure that said extraordinary gain would redound to the public interest." The decree further amends R.A. 6173 by transferring appeals from the commission's price-fixing orders, from the Supreme Court to the Office of the President, and shortening the period of time for making the appeal from 30 days to just seven days.

PHILIPPINE exports for the first two months of 1974 showed an impressive performance, raking in dollar earnings never before recorded in the history of the country's export trade for a 60-day period, according to the Bureau of Customs. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina reported that for the January-February period, the country earned a total of $365,659,581. He said the amount—based on actual shipment from the different ports in the country—represented an increase of $136,407,786 or 60.1 per cent over $229,251,795 earned for the January-February period of last year.

THE PRESIDENT has promulgated Presidential Decree No. 401 penalizing the unauthorized installations of water, electrical or telephone connections, the use of tampered water or electrical meters and other illegal acts in the use of these vital public services. He emphasized the urgent need for putting an end to these illegal activities, because, he said, they not only run counter to the objectives of Proclamation No. 1081 but also prejudice the economic well-being of both the companies (public utilities) concerned and the consuming public.

TWO GOVERNMENT agencies have called on the country's municipal mayors to support the national family planning program. The appeal was embodied in a joint memorandum circular issued recently by the Department of Social Welfare and the Department of Local Government and Community Development. The DSW and the DLGCD requested the mayors to initiate the promulgation of an ordinance requiring couples applying for marriage license to present a certification that they have undergone family planning counseling. DSW social workers will provide the family planning orientation which will include discussions in husband-wife relationship, sexuality in relation to reproduction, psycho-social barriers to the acceptance of contraception.

President's Week in Review: March 8-13, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

March 8—

THE PRESIDENT and visiting Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Omar Al Sakkaf restated their two countries' common commitment to peace, in brief remarks at dinner in Malacañang. Reiterating the Philippines' stand of rejecting war as an instrument of national policy, the President stressed that the country will always be against the use of violence in the acquisition of territory. He said that as the Philippines recognizes the right of Arabs to demand the return of their seized territories, so does the Philippines emphatically declare its right to defend itself "within our limited resources" against lawless elements. In response, Foreign Minister Sakkaf said that what the Arab world desires is peace, because the word Islam, with which all Arab nations are identified, means peace. Saudi Arabia specifically, he said, has always been calling for peaceful coexistence. "We want people to get together and work together for peace," he said.

UNITED STATES looks forward very much to maintaining the close ties that have existed for so long with the Philippines, the President was informed by United States Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Rush, during the luncheon given in his honor by the President and the First Lady at Malacañang. Secretary Rush said that "no countries in the world today have as close relations as the United States and the Philippines, in the economic and political field, and the United States intends to maintain its friendship and mutuality of interests with the Philippines."

PHILIPPINE exports to Saudi Arabia have been constantly on the rise since 1970 but oil imports continued to wipe off the gains resulting in constant trade deficit for the Philippines. From January to November last year, the Philippines realized export proceeds amounting to only $371,735 against $37,206 for the same period in 1972. But imports also grew from $50,639,725 in 1972 against $89,954,960 in 1973. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr. said the Philippines has to increase its exports to Saudi Arabia and at the same time try to reduce the levels of oil imports to narrow the huge trade gap. The Philippines' leading exports to Saudi Arabia during the past two years were: cordage, cables, ropes and twines of abaca and hemp, pineapple juice, cigars and cheroots, portland cement, angles, shapes and sections of aluminum.

THE PRESIDENT has appointed the mayor, vice mayor and six councilors of the newly created town of T'boli in South Cotabato. Appointed are Mayor Mai Tuan, Vice Mayor Dimas Tanco, and Councilors Norberto Lapastora, Pandalat Dala, Angkuy Bontol, Fludi, Tuan, Leonardo Derilon and Felino Ofong.

DEPARTMENT of Trade said owners and proprietors of retail establishments and stores violating the Price Tag Law face arrest or detention. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. issued the warning as he noted that most of the reports to his office involve violation of this law.

PHILIPPINE National Bank has approved the increase in loan value of the sugar crop financing from P33.25 to P60 per picul. The approval of the PNB board, headed by newly reelected Chairman Juan Ponce Enrile, for an additional financing of P26.75 per picul will mean an increase of P361 million, making a total of P810 million from the present P449 million loan exposure to the sugar industry. The total loan portfolio is estimated to finance 13.5 million piculs of sugar for the crop year 1974-75 representing PNB's assistance to the crash program in sugar production.

March 9—

THE PRESIDENT assured Saudi Arabia's Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Omar Sakkaf that government resources are committed to the rehabilitation program of Mindanao, Sulu, Palawan, and other Muslim areas. The President gave the assurance to the visiting dignitary during a briefing on the progress of rehabilitation work in Mindanao. The briefing was given by the Presidential Task Force for the Rehabilitation of Mindanao.

THE PRESIDENT has acted to spur the development of Baguio City into a world convention capital by donating to the Government Service Insurance System six hectares of land in three parcels on which to construct a Convention Center equipped with all the essential facilities and amenities necessary to service local, regional and international conferences. The donation, worth P7,147,440, will serve at the same time as the national government's contribution to the GSIS Retirement Insurance Fund, according to Presidential Decree No. 396 signed February 27, 1974.

THE COUNTRY last year earned some P508 million from exports of cottage industry products, some P248 million (or 95 per cent) over the P260 million income of 1972. Also last year, 6,795 industries with investments amounting to some P19 million were registered with the National Cottage Industries Development Authority (NACIDA) which generated an estimated 131,429 factory and contractual workers. During 1971, only 4,141 industries with some P10 million capitalization were registered while 94,454 factory and contractual workers were afforded employment by the industry. This unprecedented increase in the exports earnings was attributed by the NACIDA officials to the improved climate and the encouraging incentives extended by the government to exporters, investors and producers of cottage industry products.

March 10—

THE PRESIDENT announced he has promulgated a decree setting aside for exclusive ownership of Muslim communities or of the country's mountain tribes the ancestral lands they are occupying at present. The presidential announcement was made in response to a toast offered by visiting Saudi Arabian Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Omar Sakkaf during a dinner that Sakkaf tendered in honor of the President and the First Lady at Malacañang. These ancestral lands, according to the President, shall be closed to Christian occupancy, settlement and possession and "any deficiency in the matter of titling shall be made up at the government's instance."

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. issued Memorandum Circular No. 408 creating a steering committee that will coordinate and integrate all land and water resources development programs in various major river basins starting with Central Luzon. The said memorandum was an offshoot of Presidential Decree No. 35. Under this decree, the National Irrigation Administration has been directed to conduct studies that will extend the benefits of the Upper Pampanga River Project to the provinces of Pangasinan, Tarlac, Pampanga and Bulacan.

A NIA representative will head the steering committee, which will have members from the following agencies: the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, National Power Corp., the Metropolitan Waterworks & Sewerage System, the Local Water Utilities Administration, the Bureau of Public Works, and the Department of Agrarian Reform.

March 11—

THE PRESIDENT received a group of prestigious leaders of the British business world, who had come to survey future investments opportunities and the general trade and industrial situation in the Philippines. Sir Archibald Forbes, chairman of Midland Bank Ltd., which was controlling interest in Cook International, said his group "looks forward very much to discuss with you and our colleagues and other business leaders future investments with reference to trade and industry in the Philippines." The President in return informed the group that the government is engaged in inviting investments through assurance of total commitment for their protection.

FULL pardon was extended by the President to Lt. Hiroo Onoda of the former Japanese Imperial Army, who came out of hiding, ending a 30-year saga of survival in the jungles of Lubang Island in Mindoro. The President said he had given full and complete pardon to Lt. Onoda for any violations he may have committed during and after the war, not only in recognition of his courage, but also in the hope that the world will be able to ban wars completely and establish brotherhood among nations, especially those in Asia.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad urged an honest and earnest review of the advertising industry to make it truly responsive to the goal of national development. Through such a review, he suggested that mediemen, advertisers, advertising agencies, men in government and community leaders will devise instrumentalities that will give the partnership of the advertising industry and government continuity and force. He sounded the appeal during the presentation to him of a Plaque of Appreciation by the Association of Philippine Advertising Agencies. Secretary Tatad said a portion of these goals have been achieved “but many remain to be attended to.”

March 12—

THE PRESIDENT has acted to maintain government ownership of tracts of land that are now serving as site of the Export Processing Zone Authority in Mariveles, Bataan, as well as site of a low-cost housing project for EPZA workkers. He has issued Presidential Decree No. 403, giving the EPZA or, that failing, the government, the right to redeem EPZA lands which might be foreclosed by any lending institution. In issuing P.D. 403, the President puts in the proviso that “should the lands he used as collateral for any loan contracted by the grantee from any lending institution, the said lands, in the event of foreclosure, shall be subject to repurchase by the Authority, or in default thereof, by the Government within a period of five years from the date of foreclosure sale.”

THE GOVERNMENT has launched a program to make the country self-sufficient in corn and feedgrains. Dubbing the program “Masaganang Maisan,” the President has called on various government entities to intensify the production of corn, sorghum and soybeans, as well as provide the producers of these grains reasonable support prices and an efficient system of buying stations. Under Letter of Instructions No. 175, the secretary of agriculture and natural resources, through the National Food and Agriculture Council (NFAC), is directed to oversee and coordinate the activities of all participating government and private agencies.

THE PRESIDENT has approved the release of P307,392,000 to boost the government’s roadbuilding program, the Bureau of Public Highways announced. Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino said the amount will be used for the construction of bridges and farm-to-market roads and the repair of roads and bridges damaged by recent floods and other calamities. Mr. Aquino stated that P36 million will be used in the construction of farm-to-market roads included in the Capital Development Program while P32 million from the calamity fund will be used in the repair of roads and bridges damaged by floods and other calamities. He added that P3.9 million will be spent for priority projects throughout the country.

DEPARTMENT of Justice has ruled that the provision in the new Constitution providing for the compulsory retirement of judges upon reaching the age of 65 does not apply to incumbent judges as long as they hold the same office or are appointed or transferred to another court of the same rank and category. In this case the retirement age is still 70. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos issued this opinion in reply to a request from Secretary Guillermo C. de Vega, presidential assistant.

March 13—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady requested Foreign Minister Omar Sakkaf to convey their sincere greetings and good wishes to King Faisal upon his return to Saudi Arabia. Before leaving Malacañang for the Manila International Airport, Minister Sakkaf called on the President at the Study Room and expressed anew his faith in the sincerity of the government program for the welfare of the Muslim Filipinos, and his confidence in the ultimate return of peace and order to Mindanao. During the meeting, the President requested Minister Sakkaf to transmit to King Faisal a message of sincere greetings and good wishes, as well as gratitude for the sending of his minister of state for foreign affairs on an official visit to the Philippines.

SPECIAL inter-agency task force has been created to oversee the rehabilitation of the town of Jolo, in Sulu which was burned by Maoist rebels to cover their retreat from government forces last month. The task force will supervise all the rehabilitation activities in the ravaged town in cooperation with the Department of Social Welfare, the Special Program of Assistance for the Rehabilitation of Evacuees (SPARE), other government agencies and private organizations working the area. It will also establish rehabilitation guidelines and priorities and determine the forms of assistance needed from the government and business sectors to restore normalcy in Jolo. The task force’s creation is contained in Memorandum Circular No. 411 issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. on the authority of the President.

THE PRESIDENT received Masanori Kambayashi, president of Nichimen Co. Ltd. of Japan, who called to pay his respects. Mr. Kambayashi submitted to the President the program of investments of his firm in the Philippines, including the P33 million projects already approved by the Board of Investments, as well as those still being proposed, such as participation in local oil exploration. Mr. Kambayashi expressed the hope that in line with the Philippine-Japan treaty of friendship, the Philippine-Japan Economic Cooperation Committee (PJECC), and the recent visit of Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka to the Philippines, more Japanese investments will be encouraged and initiated in the Philippines.

THE GOVERNMENT has allocated a total of P1 million for the construction of 27 reservoir dams and farm ponds throughout the country. The projects, a joint undertaking of the National Food and Agriculture Council, Bureau of Soils and the National Economic and Development Authority, will be finished by June this year. Called demonstration projects for soil and water conservation, the farm ponds and dams will impound water during the rainy season and prevent soil erosion and floods.

President's Week in Review: March 15-21, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

March 15—

THE PRESIDENT commended the Logistics Center of the Armed Forces of the Philippines for the vital role it is playing in bringing about the success of the government's reform program. In a speech delivered at the AFP Logistics Center in Camp Aguinaldo, Quezon City, on the occasion of the 12th founding anniversary of the outfit; the President commended the organization, particularly for its establishment of field maintenance and fabrication centers in Mindanao. The President said the setting up of such centers for the servicing and repair of heavy equipment is in line with the government program to develop Mindanao and Sulu.

THE PRESIDENT called for closer economic cooperation between the Philippines and Japan in the face of the numerous crises facing the world. Addressing the Filipino and Japanese delegates to the RP-Japan Economic Cooperation Committee, the President endorsed Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's efforts to prevent misunderstandings and irritations which may arise between the Philippines and Japan.

NATIONAL Grains Authority was instructed by the President to buy white and yellow corn grains, sorghum and soybeans at Government support prices. NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco announced this as he explained that the cereal energy will buy directly from farmers and producers without the aid of middlemen. The NGA, he said, will buy corn, sorghum and soybeans at government support prices set by Letter of Instructions No. 175.

DEPARTMENT of Finance, stopped provincial, city and municipal treasurers including their subordinates from leaving their official stations without prior authority from the department. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata issued the directive to all local treasury officials in line with the policy of conserving fuel and to achieve economy in the disbursement of local funds. In a provincial circular issued to all provincial and city treasurers, Secretary Virata said that the department has observed that provincial, city and municipal treasurers as well as other local treasury officials and employees travel to Manila and other places outside their official stations without prior permission from the Department of Finance.

March 16—

THE PRESIDENT declared that it is the official policy of the Philippine government to utilize investments coming from abroad to build a bigger and broader base for all the wealth in this country. In brief remarks at luncheon given in honor of the Japanese members of the Joint Philippine-Japanese Economic Cooperation Committee, the President served notice that it is the policy of government to encourage foreign investments and domestic investible funds to move in all levels, to the provinces and to cities other than Manila. The President expressed confidence that foreign investors, including Japanese businessmen, were aware of the Philippine policy. He said he only wished to reiterate these well-known principles of the New Society which, he said, the Filipinos "value and hold dear."

INCENTIVE allowances and bounsos have been provided for government technicians assigned in banks and financial institutions which are participating in the government's supervised credit programs to spur agricultural production. Embodied in Presidential Decree No. 409, these incentives are retroactive, covering the technicians' participation in the Masagana 99 rice program and all other government undertakings involving special financing. The grant of the incentives is aimed at giving technicians enough encouragement, to maximize their participation in the campaign of the government to give much-needed loans to farmers through supervised credit schemes.

THE PRESIDENT observed the emergence of a "new Asia," with sports as one of the vital channels along which the continent's diverse peoples move toward solidarity and self-consciousness. Noting that not a year passes now without a multinational sportsfest taking place in some Asian city, and that in the Philippine alone, during the last five months, no less than six Asian sports contests took place, the President said he sees "this growing solidarity in Asian sports not only as the catalyst for the progressive development of Asian youth, but as the harbinger of greater and firmer community among Asians." The President made these remarks in a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor at the opening of the six-nation Second Asian Men's Softball Championships and Third Asian Women's Softball Championships in Marikina, Rizal.

THE PRESIDENT enjoined the Philippine national basketball team which will play a series of games in Peking to "win not only your games but also the goodwill of your hosts." The President told the team's players and officials during their farewell call that the Philippines has a policy of friendship with all nations, and that they can act as ambassadors of goodwill to foster closer relations between the Philippines and the People's Republic of China.

March 17—

EXECUTIVE committee has been created by the President to take charge of the planning and execution of commemorative activities for the 32nd anniversary of the fall of Bataan and the fall of Corregidor in World War II. Designated chairman and co-chairman of the committee are Defense Undersecretary Manuel Q. Salientes and Maj. Gen. Fabian C. Ver, commander of the Presidential Security Command. The committee is empowered to call upon any department, bureau, office, agency or instrumentality of the government for such assistance as it may need, and to create such committee, sub-committee or staffs as may be necessary.

TIMELY relief from the fertilizer crunch is expected with the President's order throwing guano deposits wide open to public exploitation. The order adds an estimated half-million tons at least of badly needed plant nutrients to the nation's dwindling reserves. As of February 25, the Fertilizer Industry Authority said, the supply exceeded the total national demand of 900,000 tons this year by only 27,000 tons. Under Presidential Decree No. 412, which follows the President's order to the Bureau of Mines to report the location of all guano and phosphate deposits in the country, all guano deposits on private or public lands are excluded from the operation of the Philippine Mining Act (R. A. 137). This enables simultaneous exploitation of a guano deposit by more than one miner, and it also saves the miner from having to undertake expensive and time consuming procedures like applying for mining leases, mineral surveys, and administrative hearings.

THE PRESIDENT announced he has ordered a restudy of the local tax structure, particularly the possibility of exempting rice and corn traders from the one per cent tax, as further incentive to the grains industry. He likewise said he is considering the feasibility of leasing virgin lands for the production of grains, as well as looking into the creation of a Grains Industry Development Foundation. In a speech read for him by Administrator Jesus Tanchanco of the National Grains Authority at the 20th convention of the Confederation of Filipino Rice and Corn Association at the Teachers Camp in Baguio, the President outlined the program of government assistance to the grains industry, including land reform, through which farmers were made owners of the land they till; the extension of massive credit facilities to the agricultural sector; and the grant of technical and other forms of assistance to farmers.

THE GOVERNMENT has adopted enough safeguards to minimize the effects of imported inflation to provide a more equitable distribution of benefits in the rural areas, according to the Department of Finance. In a speech delivered at the commencement exercises of Ateneo University, Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that the Philippines is a dynamic, fast-moving and fast-growing nation. The finance secretary also enumerated the following safeguards to minimize inflation: increased production targets supported by increased volume of supervised credit for food, export, and domestic industries to provide continuous flow of goods; adjustments of wages and prices; better price for Philippine export products; meticulous examination of imports; continuous development of more export products and markets other than traditional trading partners; and, the signing of agreements for mutually beneficial economic, social and cultural relationship with many countries.

NURSING graduates need not go elsewhere in order to find opportunities for service, according to Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan. The health secretary emphasized this point in his address before the graduating class of a School of Nursing in San Fernando, La Union. Secretary Gatmaitan said that the exposure to actual field conditions would serve to awaken a wider social consciousness in the prospective nurse so she may know her obligations to society. This will also help alleviate or even solve the drain in health manpower which has plagued our health care system for sometime, the secretary added.

March 19—

THE PRESIDENT said the government intends to make the [unreadable] program truly universal by having it cover the entire population of the country. The President made this announcement in accepting the “Most Exalted Humanitarian Diamond Award,” which was conferred on him and the First Lady by the National League of Puericulture and Family Planning Centers, at the Malacañang Ceremonial Hall.

DEPARTMENT of Public Information and the Department of Foreign Affairs promulgated an order aimed at strengthening the working relationship between the officials of the foreign service of the Philippines and information attaches and other personnel abroad of the DPI. Under the agreement signed by Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo and Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad at the DFA, information attaches or DPI representatives abroad shall, among other things, be under the administrative supervision and control of the chief of mission or principal officer of the embassy or consulate to which they are assigned.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development, the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the Central Bank of the Philippines signed a joint arrangement to bolster the collection of the Barrio Savings Fund of the Samahang Nasyon for the second crop of Masagana 99. The three agencies have agreed that: 1) The DLGCD shall furnish all rural banks and PNB branches lists of registered Samahang Nasyon and their bonfide members. The same lists will also be furnished to the chairman of the provincial action committee of the National Food and Agricultural Council (NFAC) for distribution of all farm management technicians; 2) The farm management technician will include in the loan the amount to be collected for the BSF which is five per cent of the total loan proceeds to be released if the farmer is a member of a registered Samahang Nasyon; and 3) The participating rural bank or PNB branch upon releasing the loan to the farmer-borrower will deduct five per cent from it and credit the amount to the account of the Samahang Nasyon.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development has directed its fieldmen to strictly enforce the collection of contributions to the Barrio Guarantee Fund among Samahang Nasyon members. DLGCD Secretary Jose Roño issued the directive after receiving reports that “a good number of Samahang Nasyon members seem to demur from complying with this particular aspect of the program.” To bolster the savings program of the Samahang Nasyon movement, the DLGCD official also instructed field officers to be the first to contribute to the BGF.

March 20—

THE PRESIDENT served notice that there will be no extension of the 1975 deadline beyond which the nation’s lumbermen may not export unprocessed logs. At the same time, the President announced that he has approved the increase from 60 to 80 per cent the amount of raw logs which lumbermen may export this year to enable them to generate sufficient funds for the establishment of their own processing plants. In his brief remarks at the induction of officers of the Philippine Chamber of Wood Industries held at Malacañang, the President emphasized, however, that the increase of exportable raw lumber to 80 per cent is good only for 1974. He said that the rate for next year still will have to be decided, adding that government policy should be flexible and adaptable to changes in the world economy.

THE PHILIPPINES continued to maintain its lead in its trade with socialist and communist countries as it chalked a US$12.3 million trade surplus as of March 19, 1974. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said that trade with these countries has assumed new dimension with the offer of the Chinese and the Russians to provide shipping services to Philippine exporters. Speaking before the Manila Javcees, Secretary Quiazon said that the Philippines appears to be strengthening its position in its trade relations with these countries by maintaining a favorable balance of trade. Latest statistics compiled by the Department of Trade show that total trade with these countries from May 1972 to March 1974 reached $80,398,309 with exports totalling $46,376,372 against imports of $34,021,936. Philippine exports to these countries consisted mostly of portland cement, plywood and veneer, crude coconut oil in bulk, burí fiber, abaca and logs.

THE PRESIDENT received two top rank officials of the Mitsui Bank of Tokyo, who paid their respect following conclusion of a joint venture agreement with the Far East Bank of the Philippines. Yasushi Kaneko and Taizo

Nakamura, managing director and deputy general manager, respectively, of Mitsui Bank, arrived in Manila where they acquired for their bank 12.5 per cent equity in the FEB.

THE GOVERNMENT is initiating an intensified export development program to raise sufficient funds that would defray the increasing cost of imports, especially of petroleum products. This was disclosed by Director-General Gerardo P. Sicat of the National Economic and Development Authority in a speech before officers and members of the Philippine Institute of Certified Public Accountants. According to the NEDA official, this export development strategy calls for expansion in the volume of traditional export products and the acceleration in the development of industries with promising potentials in the world market.

March 21—

THE PRESIDENT appealed to the beneficiaries of the massive land reform program to pay for their lands as soon as they can without waiting for the amortizations to fall due, in order to help speed up land reform. "The success of the land reform program is irreversible," the President told some 15 former landowners who came to receive full payment for their lands, and 45 farmers who had completed payment for their lands and were given the titles thereto.

CHIEF Justice William Richardson of the Supreme Court of Hawaii hailed the program of reform instituted by the President for being "very successful." The distinguished jurist, who called on the President, together with Mrs. Richardson and Chief Justice Querube C. Makalintal, said: "Recent events proved the President right."

CENTRAL BANK announced that money supply as of the end of February 1974 rose by P242 million or 3.2 per cent compared to its position a month ago, to level at P7,767 million. On an annual basis, the expansion was P1,134 million or 17.1 per cent. Both components of money supply contributed to the total increase currency in circulation, by P95 million or 2.9 per cent and peso demand deposits, by P147 million or 3.5 per cent. The continuous favorable performance of the external sector which realized a total surplus of S68 million during February 1971, and the increased availments of credits by the private sector, contributed to the expansion of money supply by P386 million and P43 million, respectively.

To operate under the Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications, the council shall exercise broad powers, including: 1) The coordination of water resources development activities within the context of national plans and policies; 2) The review and approval of water sources development plans and programs; and 3) The undertaking of hydrologic surveys and the establishment of observation station networks and data center for the scientific survey of surface and ground water potentials.

SOCIAL Security System warned employers against failure to comply with the SSS Law regarding the payment of sickness benefits to qualified SSS members. SSS Administrator Gilberto Teodoro said the SSS Law provides that "the payment of such (sickness) allowances shall be promptly made by the employer every regular payday or on the 15th and last day of each month. . . for as long as such allowances are due and payable." Failure to comply with this provision, he pointed out, shall subject the employer to the penalties of a fine of not less than P500 nor more than P5,000 or imprisonment for not less than six months nor more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

DEPARTMENT of Health has organized a six-man medical team to check the reported outbreak of El Tor and gastro-enteritis in Jolo, Sulu. Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan said the medical team is composed of two doctor-epidemiologists and four nurses. The team will replace the first medical team which was dispatched to Jolo recently to attend fire victims on orders of the President.

March 30—

THE PRESIDENT has converted the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage System into a stock corporation with a capital stock of P1 billion to enable the system to undertake a long-range development program to fill the increasing demands of an expanding population, including the needs of growing and other commercial establishments. The conversion, embodied in Presidential Decree No. 425 will also give the system a wider latitude of fiscal projections that it is allowed at present. The decree authorized the system to adopt measures to enhance the maximum utilization of national resources to prevent environmental pollution.

FOREIGN investors were urged to recognize native abilities to organize and manage Philippine-based enterprises so as to make foreign investments in this country a dynamic partner in developing the economy. This was advocated by top Filipino government and private sector leaders during the whole-day forum on the role of foreign investments in national progress sponsored by the National Economic Protectionism Association (NEPA). Sixto K. Roxas, president of Bancom Development Corp. and one-time chairman of the National Economic Council, in a speech before the forum, voiced the Filipino view that the country adopt an adroit, flexible, foreign investment policy."

March 31—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the dispersal of ownership of the Planters Products Cooperative Marketing and Supply, Inc. (PPI) in order to diversify the ownership of PPU among all fertilizers-consuming farmers, and to enable the government to fully support the necessary expansion of fertilizer production. The President pointed out that the expansion of fertilizer production. The President pointed out that the expansion of domestic fertilizer production will have to be dramatically accelerated to meet the rapidly rising local demand for fertilizer. Such expansion will entail heavy government involvement in the future including possible government guarantees of million of dollars.

BOARD of governors of the Development Bank of the Philippines may now have a vice chairman who shall preside over the meetings of the board in the absence or temporary incapacity of the chairman. The designation of the vice chairman from among the eight members of board is provided for in Presidential Decree No. 423, which amended section 14 of Republic Act No. 85, as amended by R.A. 3517. The amendatory decree was issued by the President in pursuance of the policy to promote efficiency in the public service.

THE FIRST Lady appealed to everyone to get involved in the green revolution, stressing that a developing nation like the Philippines needs the cooperation of all to make the country self-sufficient in food. She pointed out that the struggle against hunger knows no class or barrier as man must eat to survive, and “we can overcome this problem by relying ourselves by getting everyone involved.” The First Lady was guest of honor at the launching of “Green Race ’74” under the auspices of provincial, city municipal and other officials of Luzon provinces, held at Greenhills, Pasig, Rizal.

THE PRESIDENT has appointed to new positions five provincial and city treasurers in Mindanao, upon the recommendation of the secretary of finance. The appointees are: 1) Fernando A. Miguel, provincial treasurer of Cotabato, as provincial treasurer of North Cotabato, provincial treasurer of Sultan Kudarat; 3) Tamagantang Pangilamen, city treasurer of General Santos City, as provincial treasurer of Maguindanao; 4) Sixto L. Chavez, assistant provincial treasurer of Sulu, as provincial treasurer of Tawi-Tawi; and 5) Arturo H. Ramos, assistant provincial treasurer of South Cotabato, as city treasurer of General Santos City.

April 1—

THE PRESIDENT received the four-man goodwill mission from the Khmer Republic, headed by Foreign Minister Keuky Lim. In welcoming the members of the mission, the President requested them to convey to the head of government of the Khmer Republic the strong support of the Philippines to the proposal for a negotiated peace in that country. The President also expressed the hope that the peace situation in the Khmer Republic had considerably improved.

MASS media must serve the needs and goals of their specific setting, Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad told the ASEAN Training on Mass Media at the University of the Philippines. Rejecting a generally held view that the mass media are governed by concepts common to all nations and traversing all social and economic climates the secretary said that the “value of media as a social activity or institution is solely determinable from the kind of support that they give to a society and its purposes.” The secretary admitted that his subject, “Communication and Development,” has been obscured by many lofty misconceptions. But he proposed a conceptual framework for the media in our country as well as a practicable program for transforming this model a reality, so as to “bring down from the sky” the nebulous subject.

DEADLINE for all cooperatives in the country to comply with re-registration requirements has been extended to June 30. This was announced by Secretary Jose A. Roño of the Department of Local Government and Community Development (DLGCD). In making the announcement, Secretary Roño said no other extension will be made after June 30 to enable the DLGCD to finalize and put its records in order. Henceforth, he said all cooperatives are advised that failure to submit and comply with all the requirements will be considered sufficient ground for non-registration.

April 2—

THE PRESIDENT received the letters of credence of Ambassador Cai Torne Oskar Melin as the new non-residing ambassador extra ordinary and plenipotentiary of the Kingdom of Sweden to the Philippines. The new Swedish envoy also presented to the President the letter of King Carl Gustaf, recalling his predecessor, Ambassador Karl Henrik Andersson. In accepting the credentials of the new envoy, the President assured Ambassador Melin of “Our continuing cooperation and constant widening of our contact.” The Swedish envoy, on the other hand, expressed the “sincere wish of my government and my people that the Philippines may continue its successful course to still greater prosperity and happiness.”

THE PRESIDENT has discontinued, effective April 1, 1974, the use of the coupon system (gas receipts and has issue card) in the allocation of gasoline in the light of the easing up of the available crude oil supply, but oil conservation will continue to be observed. Abolition of the coupon system, according to Letter of Instructions No. 178-A, is likewise intended to provide the impetus to maintain the momentum of the country’s economic growth.

DEPARTMENT of Finance announced that the Government will continue to impose the dumping duty on white cement imported from Japan and Taiwan. The announcement was made after Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata denied a motion for reconsideration filed by the Fil-American Hardware and Construction Supply which protested the duty imposition. The department said investigation showed there was dumping and that white cement from Japan was being imported and sold in the Philippines at prices (US $29.69) lesser than the fair value (US $60.90). The department fixed the dumping duty on white cement imported from Japan at US $31.21 per metric ton as required by the Tariff and Customs Code.

DEPARTMENT of Labor noted a sharp increase in the number of private firms reporting compliance with the President's appeal on emergency allowances. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople said that the number of responding firms rose to 4,132 from 3,100 listed. This reflected an increase of more than 1,000 firms complying with the reporting requirement under Letter of Instruction No. 174 in less than one day, he said. Mr. Ople said that on the basis of 4,312 responding firms 222,525 workers will be benefitted by the allowances.

April 3—

THE PRESIDENT announced that no Presidential Decree has been issued granting tax amnesty or immunity from tax investigation for the taxable year 1973. This announcement was made to dispel all speculations about the issuance of such a Presidential Decree.

DEPARTMENT of Finance ruled factories are not supposed to pay business taxes to the cities or municipalities they are located unless sales are made or goods sold are invoiced at the factories. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata issued this opinion in answer to inquiries from several business firms. However, the municipality may levy permit fees and other regulatory fees on the factories located within their territorial jurisdictions, the secretary said.

THE PRESIDENT and First Lady received a high-level woman delegation from Romania which arrived to look into the possibility of promoting greater cooperation and stronger friendly relations between their country and the Philippines. The delegation was composed of Madame Suzana Gidea and Madame Florida Andrei, with Mr. Radui Liviu acting as interpreter. The delegation expressed belief that the establishment of Romanian embassy in Manila and a Philippine embassy in Bucharest could help promote cooperation between the two countries along economic, social, cultural and industrial fields.

April 4—

THE PRESIDENT was today presented with a draft of the Muslim Law Code of 1974, with codification of Muslim substantive law to be made later. The presentation was made by the research staff for the Codification of Philippine Muslim Laws, a unit under the Presidential Task Force for the Reconstruction and Development of Mindanao and Sulu.

NATIONAL Power Corp. has reported to the President that it has begun a massive 12-year power expansion program which will save the Philippines some P7.5 billion in oil importations over a 10 year (1975-1985) period. The NPC also expect that by the early Eighties, the national government will be saving three times the foreign exchange (estimated at $700 million this year) at present expended for energy imports. All this will be made possible, according to NPC General Manager Ramon R. Ravanzon, once the potentials of indigenous energy sources-geothermal, coal hydro-power are harnessed, and nuclear power plants are established.

BOARD of Investments and the Bureau of Internal Revenue have signed an agreement governing procedures on the availment of incentives under the Investments Incentives Act (R.A. 5186) and the Export Incentives Act (R.A. 6175). The agreement is designed to facilitate matters affecting investors and registered enterprises on the availment of benefits under the two laws. For this purpose, the two government bodies created the BIR-BOI working committee so as to weld harmony and cooperation in the performance of their respective function in connection with the implementation of the two laws. Under the agreement, the working committee will be composed of two BIR representatives and two from BOI.

TRADE between the Philippines and the United States has remained consistently in favor of the Philippines since 1969, according to the Department of Trade. Trade Officer-in-Charge Mario R. Reyes said that in 1973, trade between the two countries amounted to $1.1 billion, the highest during the last five years. Of this amount, he said, $671,308,445 represented exports against the Philippine imports of $449,492,080. He said the Philippines posted a balance of trade amounting to $221,816,365 in 1973, or an increase of $151,154,700 compared to the $70,661,665 registered in 1969.

Office of the President of the Philippines. (1974). Official Week in Review. Official Gazette of the Republic of the Philippines, 70(14), ci-civ.

President's Week in Review: April 5-11, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 5–

THE PRESIDENT is firmly convinced that greater production for export and domestic use will beat the present inflation crisis which has added $1 billion or more to the Philippines' operations bill. He rejects retrenchment as a solution. In Letter of Instructions No. 161-A he appeals to the entire nation to join the general sustained efforts at survival through accelerated and increased production of both export and domestic products. He urges the people "to participate actively at their initiative, without waiting for detailed instructions."

THE PRESIDENT has reserved around 40 hectares of the public domain in the municipality of Tigbauan, Iloilo, for the use of the Aquaculture Department of the Southeast Asian Fisheries Development Center (SEAFDEC) in its research studies on the spawning and culture of shrimps, prawns and other crustaceans and fish species. The order is contained in Proclamation No. 1246.

April 6–

THE PRESIDENT directed the Oil Industry Commission (OIC) to conduct an overall study of the petitions of local oil companies for an increase in price for their petroleum products. In issuing the order, the President made it clear to the OIC that should it be found out after the study and evaluation of the petitions that there should be an increase in the price of petroleum products, such an increase in price should only be made once.

The PRESIDENT boarded the ship, the RPS Ang Pangulo, for his traditional annual spiritual retreat. Retreat master is Rev. Fr. Michael McPhellen, professor of the Ateneo de Manila economics department. Other retreatants with the President on Board the RPS Ang Pangulo are some members of his Cabinet.

DEPARTMENT of Labor extended to May 7 the reporting deadline for compliance with the Presidential appeal for the grant of emergency living allowance to workers. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople said that based on the latest reports from the Labor Statistics Services, a total of 10,220 establishments had reported compliance, benefitting 528,374 workers in manufacturing, commerce, agriculture, services and other industries. Secretary Ople expressed the gratitude of the workers and the Government to the cooperating firms, calling this response "an index of the nation's social conscience and the economic statesmanship of industry and business."

BACKPAY Certificates of Indebtedness may be used by original holders for the payment of hospital bills in the Government Service Insurance System General Hospital, according to the Department of Justice. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos rendered this opinion upon request of National Treasurer Vicente P. Rodriguez. Secretary Abad Santos said that the GSIS General Hospital may be deemed a government hospital since its under a corporation owned or controlled by the government governed by the Uniform Charter for Government Corporations. He added that considering that the grant of backpay is an act of liberality on the part of the government, the provision of law allowing the acceptance of Backpay Certificates of Indebtedness in payment of debts to its agencies or instrumentalities should be construed liberally.

April 7–

COUNTRY'S land reform program is boosted anew with the creation of an inter-agency committee for the development and financing of industries in agrarian reform areas to benefit both farmers and landowners. Organized by the Office of the President through Memorandum Circular No. 717, the Committee will identify top-yielding projects in land reform localities, and help redirect idle agricultural capital into industrial production. Under this plan, the government hopes to increase the income of former landowners as well as of the farmers benefited by the land reform program.

April 9–

THE PRESIDENT stressed the importance of self-reliance, saying that if there is any lesson taught by Bataan, it is that the Filipino people should never depend wholly upon an ally no matter how strong that ally might be. In a speech at ceremonies commemorating the 32nd anniversary of the Fall of Bataan held atop historic Mount Samat in Pilar, Bataan, the President said that the Filipinos should make it too costly for any enemy to transgress so that no one might again dare trespass “upon this sacred soil.” The President’s remarks were prompted by an announcement made earlier by United States Ambassador William H. Sullivan on the finalization of a contract between the Philippines and the US governments that would allow the Philippines to manufacture its own weapons of defense.

TRANSPORTATION companies operating under certificates of public convenience are not required to pay the franchise tax levied by provincial city and municipal governments. A circular issued by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata ordered provincial, city and municipal companies to refund the amounts paid or credit such payments to the account of the taxpayer for application to other tax obligations due to the province or city.

CHAIRMAN Leonardo B. Perez of the Commission on Elections has stressed his position that the national leadership and the Filipino people should take full advantage of the transition period as provided under the new Constitution to give the present leadership and the whole nation ample time to pursue the massive program of political, social, economic, cultural and scientific reforms.

SOCIAL Welfare Secretary Estafania Aldaba-Lim noted the marked change in the values of the Filipino women from complacency to commitment which is in line with the spirit of the New Society. Speaking during the induction of officers of the Zambales Ladies Circle, she lauded the women in their effort to support the government’s program. She also exhorted them to work along the modern concept of social work—not in doling out good to the needy but in restoring them into a life of dignity by giving them means of self-support.

VARIOUS Philippine Houses abroad, which carry displays of local exportable products, will also exhibit Philippine books and periodicals for a more effective dissemination in foreign countries of the best in Filipino thought and literature. The project, a brainchild of Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad, with the cooperation of Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon, seeks to put up a Philippine Bookshop in each and every Philippine House abroad, to complement the displays of handicraft, woodcraft, footwear and other items.

April 10–

THE PRESIDENT emphasized the need for more production and called on the local officials of Northern Luzon to take the initiative in increasing the production of staples and root crops. In this connection, the Chief Executive stressed that the government will put heavy emphasis on production-oriented infrastructures, particularly irrigation systems and feeder roads. The President delved on these matters in meetings held in Bagabag, Nueva Vizcaya; Caoayan, Isabela; Vigan, Ilocos Sur; San Fernando, La Union, and Laoag City during which he exhorted the local officials to coordinate with agriculturists and development officers of the national government in the current production drive.

THE PRESIDENT has directed the registration with the barangay or municipal registration centers from April 25 to May 10, 1974 of all resident aliens as well as all former foreign nationals who have acquired Philippine citizenship. The order, made pursuant to Presidential Decree NO. 278 dated August 24, 1973 and Presidential Decree No. 278-A, is aimed at facilitating the implementation of the National Reference card System, whereby all citizens and aliens in the Philippines will be given national identification cards.

BRANCH XII of the Court of First Instance of Leyte was converted by the President into a Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court for the provinces of Leyte and Southern Leyte, including the cities of Tacloban and Ormoc. This is the sixth JDRC in the Philippines. The others are in the cities of Manila, Quezon, Caloocan, Baguio and Iloilo. According to Presidential Decree No. 411, Branch XII of the CFI, with official station at Tacloban City, has yet to be organized; hence, its conversion into a juvenile and domestic relations relation court will not adversely affect the administration of justice. The official station of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court shall be in Tacloban

City. It shall be a court of record for which a judge, who possesses the same qualifications, enjoys the same privileges and receives the same salary as a judge of the Court of First Instance, shall be appointed by the President.

April 11–

AFTER an inspection survey of five Northern Luzon provinces, the President issued from Baguio City a series of directives designed to remedy certain problems facing the people of Northern Luzon. In his directives, the President: 1) Ordered the restructuring of all unpaid crop loans extended to farmers under the Masagana 99 program, and the increase of the loan ceiling by the Agricultural Credit Administration from P2,000 to P5,000; 2) Ordered suspension of the payment of arrearages of Ilocos Sur to two government financing institutions, and the working out of a satisfactory solution; and 3) Directed that the five-peso minimum price for top-quality Virginia tobacco leaf be enforced strictly and that the four per cent research and regulation fee be borne by the buyer and not the farmer.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered P2 million released in partial payment for back pensions and death gratuities accrued since 1969 for disabled ex-servicemen or their widows and orphans. Under Presidential Decree No. 357, the President ordered the P2 million fund for back pensions and death gratuities taken from the government's share of the earnings of the $31 million fund that the United States government paid some years ago in final settlement of the claims of some 73,000 recognized guerillas who were not paid in full or not paid at all.

THREE judges of Courts of First Instance in Manila, Nueva Ecija and Caloocan City were appointed by the President. Appointed to one of the Manila CFI's was Judge Antonio Cinco of the Cebu CFI. Assistant Solicitor General Jaime Lantin was named CFI judge with station at Guimba, Nueva Ecija and Assistant Solicitor General Bernardo Pardo as CFI Judge of the 7th Judicial District, with station in Caloocan City. The President made the appointments upon the recommendation of the Supreme Court.

President's Week in Review: April 12-18, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 12—

THE PRESIDENT has declared a general amnesty for violation of the election laws and related statutes in the five elections since 1965, including the election of delegates to the Constitutional Convention. Main beneficiaries of the amnesty declared under Presidential Decree No. 433 are public school teachers, other government, officials and employees, members of the armed forces, PACD officers, policemen, and treasurers. This new amnesty follows PD 384 dated January 3, 1974, which amnestied all persons who, as first offenders, failed to register or vote in connection with the July 27-28, 1978 national referendum.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the restructuring of all unpaid crop loans extended to farmers under the Masagana 99 program, and the increase of the loan ceiling by the Agricultural Credit Administration from P2,000 to P5,000. The order was one of several directives issued from Baguio by the President following a Northern Luzon survey to check on the peace and order situation and the economic conditions in the region.

April 13—

LOCAL governments have been authorized, by virtue of Presidential Decree No. 432, to grant emergency cost-of-living allowances to their low-salaried personnel. The decree was issued by the President in line with the policy to alleviate the plight of those belonging to the low-income groups who feel most the effects of the spiralling costs of prime commodities brought about by the energy crisis, and worldwide inflation.

INTERNATIONAL Labor Organization has accelerated its contribution to Philippine development since the proclamation of Martial Law through its joint projects with the Department of Labor and other Philippine government institutions. This was gathered from a report to Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople of the DOL's international labor affairs service. The report showed that the ILO, together with the United Nations Development Program, was responsible for the "landmark report" on the Philippine economy from the standpoint of employment policy by the 30-man expert task force headed by Dr. Gustav Ranis. The report has been submitted to the President.

PUBLIC Works Director Desiderio Anolin cited Bureau of Public Works engineers and workers in Western Mindanao for their work dedication. Director Anolin's assessment was made after a four-day inspection of BPW multi-million-peso development and rehabilitation projects in that region. He said BPW engineers and workers have shown that sacrifice and dedication could spur completion of projects way ahead of schedule.

April 14—

THE PRESIDENT has amended certain provisions of the Local Tax Code, generally reducing the rates by more than 50 per cent, and making the Code more responsive to changing patterns of business and economic trends. It has thus become a more effective instrument by which local governments may generate urgently needed revenues without unduly disturbing price levels in the domestic market. The Local Tax Code, enacted under Presidential Decree No. 231, took effect on July 1, 1973. It is amended by Presidential Decree No. 426, which was signed by the Chief Executive on March 30, 1974.

THE PRESIDENT called the attention of local officials to the urgent need to increase production for local consumption and export, and to raise foreign exchange needed for principal imports, particularly oil and capital goods. During a two-hour conference with the officials of Baguio City, Benguet, Ifugao, Kalinga-Apayao and Mt. Province held at the Mansion House, the President emphasized that the Philippines is hard put to raise the $1 billion needed this year to support the additional importation cost of oil and capital goods. The President called upon the local officials to go to the people and motivate them on the program of government under the New Society.

PHYSIQUE Culture Association of the Philippines Inc. has been authorized to conduct an educational, membership and fund campaign from March 31, 1974 to March 30, 1975 in connection with the association's objective of promoting the physical and mental well-being of the people and their development into good and useful citizens. Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. urges nationwide support for the fund drive in Proclamation No. 1250, noting that physique culture is the underlying basis of all sports activities and the development of a healthy and contented citizenry.

April 15—

ENDING his six-day inspection of Northern Luzon provinces and cities with a conference with Pangasinan and Tarlac officials at the Sison Auditorium in Lingayen, Pangasinan, the President urged the officials to prepare a list of promising industries that will increase export earnings.

As in his meetings earlier in other towns and cities during the Holy Week, the President hammered on the theme of increased production. He had cited rice production, and increased export earnings through medium and small-scale industries. Now, in Lingayen, he mentioned in particular barakbak, bocayo, coconut, charcoal, and guano industries. The President, at the same time, called on the citizens to get involved in the increased production program and to inform him of anything that should be brought to his attention.

THE PRESIDENT has created a task force to speed up the industrial development of Sapang Palay and provide jobs for 45,000 urban squatters relocated there. Under Memorandum Order No. 416-74, the President directed the task force to accelerate the establishment of factories in Sapang Palay, and specifically to: 1) Assess the physical improvement needed to develop and improve immediately the Sapang Palay industrial estate sites and provide maximum employment opportunities, and 2) Identify and mobilize the sources of funds, prepare an integrated plan to carry out the physical development of the estates, and outline a strategy for attracting industries to the area.

April 16—

THE PRESIDENT armed local governments with the means to assist actively in the construction of roads and bridges and in their maintenance and repair. He did this by increasing the specific tax on petroleum products and giving provinces, cities, and municipalities a share of that tax. Presidential Decree No. 436, which effects this combined tax and public works reform, comes into full force and effect as of this day.

LETTER of Instructions No. 166 was amended by the President by reducing the research and regulation fee of four per cent to a straight fee of ten centavos per kilogram of flue-cured tobacco sold, and shifting the burden of payment from the producer-seller to the buyer. The President said this has become necessary in order to relieve the former of the present burden of contributing to the support of trading centers. At the same time, the President said this would provide added incentives to both cigaret manufacturers and tobacco exporters who have been adversely affected by increased costs in redrying and processing tobacco. “

DELEGATES to the first meeting of senior officers on rice of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations were received by the President. In welcoming the delegates, the President observed that the meeting is very timely in view of the world food shortage which requires that “we exploit all possible sources of food.”

April 17—

THE PRESIDENT has granted the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) broad powers leading to the raising or lowering of tariff barriers in favor of or against certain importations, in the interest of the economy. The President has issued Letter of Instructions No. 177 streamlining the NEDA functions relative to the matter, and setting rules on Tariff Commission investigations in support of the NEDA.

THE PRESIDENT has acted to save rice and corn farms that face foreclosure, while at the same time ensuring that their obligations to government lending houses are met. As a preliminary step, he has required the production of certain data on which to base a program of action, in memoranda fired to the Development Bank of the Philippines, the Philippine National Bank and its subsidiary, the National Investment and Development Corp., the Government Service Insurance System, and the Social Security System. These institutions had been ordered by the President under Presidential Decree No. 385 to foreclose mandatorily all loans with arrears amounting to at least 20 per cent of the total outstanding obligation.

NATIONAL Grains Authority has been directed by the President to study and submit a report on the feasibility of exporting high quality Philippine rice to cover payments for the importation of cereals to meet the deficit expected during the lean months of August and September. The Chief Executive cautioned that such, a move, if feasible, should be undertaken only if adequate domestic supplies of rice and corn are assured.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture announced that starting the next school-year it will require all colleges and universities in the country authorized to accept foreign students by the Commission on Immigration and Deportation to set up a foreign student section in their respective admission offices. Secretary Manuel said the foreign student section will be responsible for assistance to foreign students complying with enrollment requirements especially in the release of student grades for presentation to the DEC for renewal of appropriate permits. He said this move was taken in order to expedite the issuance of student visas to incoming foreign students and facilitate upon arrival their registration during the enrollment period.

April 18—

THE PRESIDENT urged farmers to increase their coconut production and contribute their full share to the nation's economy by taking advantage of the current high prices for coconut products. Because of the very attractive price levels, Philippine income from coconut products has increased tremendously. The President, in his talk with provincial, city and municipal officials in Tolosa, Leyte, pointed out that Leyte and Samar are the country's premier coconut-producing provinces and should take the lead in the program for increased production.

THE PRESIDENT announced that the government will ask the big industrial corporations to go into rice and corn production in an effort to achieve self-sufficiency in these staples. In meetings with provincial, city, municipal and barrio officials during his tour of the Central and Western Visayas, the President pointed out that large industrial firms are usually heavy buyers of these commodities and they should be asked to produce at least for their workers.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad and the non-resident Swedish ambassador to the Philippines, Cai Torne Oskar Melin, jointly expressed hopes of closer cooperation particularly in those areas where Sweden could provide technical assistance in Philippine development. The Secretary mentioned to the ambassador that the Philippines has launched a full-scale development program that calls for intensive activity in the exploration for oil and other mineral resources as well as for various types of energy, the development of major exports, such as wood, fibers, copra and other agricultural products, shipping, electrification and others. The ambassador remarked that Swedish investment and technology could possibly come in many of these areas mentioned. He expressed particular interest in shipbuilding, Sweden being the biggest shipbuilding country after Japan.

THE PRESIDENT told a group of war veterans to "add the weight of your collective influence in helping bring home to the people the urgency of increased production." The President's speech was read for him before the 8th Annual Assembly of the Government Employees' World War Veterans League, at the GSIS Social Hall, by Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes. Citing the League's record of identifying itself with the worthy causes of all worker groups, not merely of its own, the President said, "I have called upon our local officials to rally the people behind the drive for greater production, even as I now call upon you, as leaders and leading citizens in your respective communities, to help similarly in arousing public awareness to this great need."

DEPARTMENT of Tourism said that 95,759 tourists have arrived in Manila during the first quarter of 1974, or an increase of 55,989 compared with the 39,806 registered during the same period in 1973. The biggest arrivals during the period were Japanese numbering 38,019, up by 294 per cent compared with 9,650 during the first quarter of 1973. The second biggest arrivals were overseas Filipino residents numbering 14,454 compared with 3,888 during the same period last year, or an increase of 271 per cent.

President's Week in Review: April 26 - May 2, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 26—

THE PRESIDENT has paved the way for a faster and more judicious resolution of contested assessments on real properties. This was made possible with the creation of the Board, of Commissioners and Staff to assist the Central Board of Assessment Appeals which is the final arbiter of all disputed real property assessments. This is contained in Presidential Decree No. 434 which further amends PD No. 76, dated December 6, 1972, requiring all persons, natural or juridical, owning or administering real property, including the improvements thereon, to file sworn statements of the true value of such property.

CENTRAL Bank has prohibited commercial and savings banks from accepting deposits of dollar notes and other foreign currency notes acquired by local residents from tourists, transients and U.S. military and civilian personnel in the Philippines. The CB's move is designed not only to discourage blackmarketeers from buying dollar notes from these sources and depositing them with these banks but also to improve the peso exchange rate against the dollar quoted in the blackmarket.

April 27—

THE PRESIDENT appealed for a "renewed sense of loyalty" to the rule of law under the New Society. "We are engaged, more than anything else, in a crucial experiment for survival," the President said in a speech before fellow alumni of the University of the Philippines College of Law at a reunion held at the DBP auditorium in Makati, Rizal. "We talk of an economic development program but it is the moral development of our race which is ultimately at stake," he added.

DEPARTMENT of Agrarian Reforms has announced that landowners whose landholdings have been transferred to tenant-farmers pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 27 have until June 30 to meet with their tenants" and agree on the average-gross harvest of their property. In an open letter addressed to landowners, Agrarian Reform Secretary Conrado F. Estrella said that the DAR has set up Barrio Committees in Land Production to determine the average-gross production of specific land category, if landowners fail to decide the case with their tenants before the June 30 deadline.

THE PHILIPPINES exported P49.7 million worth of fresh bananas during the first three months of this year, exceeding by P12.09 million the total earnings during the same period in 1973. TWO-PRONGED move for a massive and accelerated port development program has been launched by the President. On the one hand, he has created a policy committee to hasten the establishment of a Philippine Ports Authority. On the other hand, he has provided for the greater funding required. Administrative Order No. 360 empowers a special committee headed by the finance secretary to provide direction, coordination, guidance and effective management leading to the establishment of the Philippine Ports Authority, including port management units in selected ports. Using such sums as necessary from the Portworks Special Fund under the Bureau of Public Works, the committee shall hire consultant services, and review and approve their recommendation on procedures and staff plans.

THE PRESIDENT underscored the importance of exchanges of visits between friendly, countries, even as the First Lady told airport welcomers she was happy to be back from her successful cultural trip to Indonesia. Nations cannot individually stand alone and isolated, he said. The problem of Indonesia's stability for one thing, he said, would affect the Philippines in the same manner that any instability in our country would affect Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand, and other countries in the region.

April 29—

THE PRESIDENT called upon alien residents of the country to cooperate with the alien registration program of the government which, he said, has been launched for their own security and convenience. In brief remarks before a delegation from the Federation of Filipino Chinese Chambers of Commerce which called at Malacañang, the President emphasized that this government program does not represent a change in policy on aliens in this country. "There is no intention to prejudice any alien," the President said. "On the contrary, this is for the security and protection of aliens who are in the Philippines legitimately."

DONATION consisting of 77 barrio schoolbuildings with an aggregate value of P2.5 million, to be constructed in different parts of the country was presented to the President. The presentation was made by a delegation from the Federation of Filipino Chinese Chambers of Commerce of the Philippines which called at Malacañang.

THE PRESIDENT received the credentials of Ambassador Rudolf Kozusnik of Czechoslovakia, the first diplomatic envoy to be accredited to the Philippines by this eastern European socialist, republic. In accepting the credentials, the President noted the "historical parallel" between the Philippines and Czechoslovakia which, he said, should place the two countries closer together. "Having gone through the same struggle for self-determination should be a common bond between us, the President told the new ambassador.

April 30—

RUSSIAN bank executives were assured by the President that the Philip pines is moving toward the normalization of relations with socialist countries The President gave this assurance to Viatcheslav Ivanovich Ryzhkov, director and general manager; and P. K. Teo, manager and adviser of Moscow Narodny Bank Ltd., of Singapore, who called to pay their respects to the President. . The two bank executives, who were accompanied to Malacañang by Secretary Blas F. Ople of Labor, had come to the Philippines to assess local economic conditions and look for possible areas of investment.

EDUCATION Secretary Juan L. Manuel called upon school superintendents to draw up a workable plan and effective program for the development of moral values. The DEC secretary was keynote speaker during the five-day conference of some 200 superintendents from the Bureaus of Public and Private Schools held in Baguio. Secretary Manuel said that if there was any sector of the society which was greatly benefited by the national direction and the favorable environment and climate under the New Society, it was education because it was the first to reel from the impact of destructive youthful demonstrations in the recent past.

May 1—

THE PRESIDENT signed the Philippine Labor Code and declassified the Ranis Report on Comprehensive Employment Strategy, as a fitting climax to the observance of Labor Day in the Philippines. The President signed the Labor Code before a thousand labor leaders who had gathered at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang to hear the President's Labor Day address. Describing the Labor Code as an earnest of his pledge to improve the life of the worker, the President said, "Let it be accepted as a charter of human rights as well as a bill of obligations for every working man."

INTERNATIONAL Bank for Reconstruction and Development has granted another $19 million loan to the Philippines to help finance one of its irrigation projects. The World Bank credit is aimed at boosting the funding requirements of the Aurora-Peñaranda irrigation project in Quezon Province.

THE PRESIDENT said that the increase in officers and men of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, which would total to about 256,000 by the middle of next year, is hewed primarily at the development efforts of the country and only secondarily at its defense. The AFP is estimated to have a troop strength of 100,000 this year. Addressing the officers, men and civilian employees of the Philippine Air Force at Nichols Air Base on the occasion of the PAF's 39th anniversary, the President said that the increased troop strength might include reserve and home defense forces and possibly part of the local police finally incorporated into a national force.

RELEASE of P3 million for the improvement of a port road in Cagayan has been ordered by the President. The road—a 66-kilometer stretch from the junction of the old Pan Philippine Highway line at Barrio Dugo, Camalaniugan serves the Casambalangan port in Sta. Ana which is now being developed to replace the old port in Aparri. The work also serves the towns of Lallo, Buguey, Sta. Teresita, Gonzaga and Sta. Ana along the northeast coast of Cagayan.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission (PMCC) urged government dentists to perform their work with renewed vigor. Speaking on the theme "Exploring New Approaches in Dental Public Health in the Context of the New Society," PMCC Chairman Pacifico E. Marcos said that renewed vigor in the government's dental services could be one of the new approaches in dental public health. Dr. Marcos keynoted the 12th annual convention of the Department of Health National Association of Dentists held at the session hall of the Quezon City Hall. He urged dentists in the public service to render direct medical services particularly to the country's children 90 per cent of whom, he said, have incidence of dental disease.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 3—

THE PRESIDENT has broadened the powers of the Philippine Coconut Authority, which is now given charge of a price stabilization scheme for coconut-based products. Under Presidential Decree No. 414, the PCA is also to manage the Coconut Consumers Stabilization Fund, which was formerly handled by the Coconut Consumers Stabilization Committee. The PCA will unify and systematize the operation of this fund to fuel research, production expansion, extension services and similar programs to boost the coconut industry.

THE GOVERNMENT has allowed the price adjustments for six basic commodities to insure the continued supply of the items in the domestic market. The six commodities affected are: drugs and medicines, infant dietetics, local canned milk, edible oil, writing pads and notebooks and plywood. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., concurrently Price Control Council chairman, said that the price adjustments fixed by the PCC were given clearance by the President to enable manufacturers and/or suppliers to cushion the impact of the energy crisis and international monetary developments on their operations. The manufacturers/ suppliers' justifications for the price adjustments range from increases in the cost of raw materials, the revaluation of the currencies of source countries and the devaluation of the US dollar, increase in packaging materials cost and increase in overseas and local freight costs.

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the choice of Manila as the headquarters of the Association of Pediatric Societies of Southeast Asia and Western Pacific as a signal honor for the Philippines. The President was informed by a delegation representing the participating countries at the First Asian Congress of Pediatrics now being held in Manila, that the unanimous decision to make Manila the headquarters was a tribute to the splendid showing of Filipino doctors, and the availability of adequate manpower and facilities in the Philippines. The Congress, the first to be held anywhere, served as a forum for the exchange of information and experience on child health, care and development, among the Asian countries.

MOBILE teams have been created for the Presidential Task Force for the Reconstruction and Development of Mindanao to identify specific priority projects in predominantly Muslim localities, especially the Lanao, Zamboanga and Cotabato provinces. Representing some of the government agencies involved in the development of Mindanao, the members of the team are charged, through Memorandum Circular No. 425, with the task of making an immediate listing of priority projects, along with implementation guidelines and criteria for financial-support. The Presidential Task Force is the body coordinating and monitoring the activities being undertaken by the different government agencies to spur the development of Mindanao.

CASH down payment that private end-users have to pay for reparations goods or services has been scaled down from the old 10 per cent to just five per cent. The reduction is effected under Presidential Decree No. 443, retroactive to November 9, 1973, the date of effectivity of PD 332, which had earlier amended the Reparations Law. In lowering the down payment, the President hoped to help end-users in putting up their projects which will eventually contribute to the national economy.

DR. PACIFICO E. MARCOS, chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission (PMCC), told graduating interns of the University of the Philippines College of Medicine that the new Constitution gives the State the police power to require the members of the various professions to render civil service. Dr. Marcos who was guest speaker at the second interns' commencement exercises of the UP College of Medicine held at the Philippine General Hospital, and that this police power of the State on the professions is derived from the constitutional provision which makes it a duty of every citizen to contribute to the welfare and development of the State. Dr. Marcos at the same time, proposed a revision of the medical curricula in order that intermediate medical skills can be provided to those who may drop out and thus their years of formal training may not go to waste.

May 5—

AIRCRAFT for agricultural purposes, including spare parts and accessories may now be imported free of customs duties under Presidential Decree No. 440. The objective is to provide all possible incentives to investors to develop the nation's vast agricultural resources and hasten farm development and production through use of aircraft. The free importation privilege comes under amended section 105 of the Tariff and Customs Code, which provides that any article coming in duty-free may not be sold, bartered or used for purposes other than that for which they were intended without prior payment of duty and other charges. Any violation of this provision shall subject the imported article to forfeiture proceedings.

FINANCIAL sinews of the Land Bank have been further strengthened by allowing government firms including government financial institutions to invest in or accept Land Bank preferred shares in payment for any of their assets; This is effected under Presidential Decree No. 444, which adds a new section to the Land Bank charter (Republic Act No. 3844, as amended by PD 251), after Section 77.

THE PRESIDENT said the present situation inexorably leads toward the normalization of relations between the Philippines and the People's Republic of China. "It is our hope that soon we will have full diplomatic relations, the President told the basketball team of the People's Republic of China who called on him at Malacañang. "Undoubtedly the events in Asia today point to one thing, and that is, that we must now understand each other and appreciate the different situations in which" we discovered our countries and peoples," the President said.

ALL nurses desiring to practice midwifery must first register with the Board of Midwifery and the Professional Regulation Commission before they can practice the profession. Health Secretary Clemente Gatmaitan said this ruling includes registered as well as private nurses who are not exempt from registration. The secretary also cited provisions 20, 22 and 28 of the Philippine Midwifery Law which expressly states that no person may practice midwifery without having been duly registered as midwife.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture will start this year a program for the formation and development of desirable moral values and attitudes among pupils and students. Education Undersecretary Narciso Albarracin, program coordinator, said the project which will utilize the resources not only of the schools but the whole community, will cover teachers and education officials whose main weapons will be love and persuasion.

May 8—

THE PRESIDENT announced an innovative experiment to return political power to the people and at the same time strengthen the basic concept of the New Society that all patrimony and wealth belong to the nation. The President made the announcement during his keynote address in opening the conference of the Southeast Asian Institutions of Higher Learning (ASAIHL) at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. The President announced in his speech that all lands within the territorial boundaries of the municipality of Jolo shall be titled in the name of the entire community and turned over to all residents, subject to approval in a referendum by the people of Jolo themselves. The President said the experiment in land ownership is in line with the New Society's aim of democratizing all aspects of Philippine society, and emphasized the government's inclination not merely to assimilate the Muslim and other minorities but to allow the development in their "pristine purity" of the varied and different cultures, thus attaining unity in diversity.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad said the Filipino character will be the decisive setting of the Philippine struggle for development, and that success will depend on the Filipino's capacity for education, self-possession and pragmatism. Speaking at the Second Annual Cultural Conferences of the Philippine Government Cultural Association on the subject of Filipino destiny, the secretary said that "from the matrix of his past, from his pre-occupations today, we may hope that the Filipino's society tomorrow will be dynamic, progressive and humane." The secretary added that whereas other nationalities derive the concept of what they are from diverse factors such as religion, and culture, the "Filipino-ness" of the Filipinos derives solely from nationhood.

CALL was sounded by the President for a new breed of government property and supply officers who can bring to their tasks initiative, dedication and imagination. He urged the supply officers to develop "the habit of conservation, the capacity to husband our resources, the ability to anticipate and meet demands and goals." In making procurement operations cheaper, faster and more effective, the President said, the supply officer is contributing to making the New Society a perpetually just and good society. The President's speech was read for him before the Local Government Supply Management Association of the Philippines at the Session Hall, Quezon City Hall, by Secretary Constancio Castaneda of General Services.

DEPARTMENT of Finance announced that starting next month, provinces, cities and municipalities will receive the first of monthly allotments from specific tax collections to finance the building, maintenance and repair of roads and bridges. Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata announced this as he released the rules and regulations on the determination and release of the specific tax allotments to local governments in accordance with Presidential Decree No. 436. The initial Specific tax allotments covering the period from April 16 to May 31, 1974 are scheduled to be released to the local governments within the first fifteen days of June 1974. The allotment checks for the month of June shall be released within the first five days of June 1974, and all releases thereafter shall be made within the first five days of the following month.

AGRICULTURE Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon Jr., has accentuated the increasing challenge facing the new breed of professionals in relation to the changes now sweeping the country as the citizenry continues to build a new Society. Addressing this year's graduating class at the University of the Philippines in Baguio City recently, he pointed to the need for the "new leaders" of the community to seek purpose and pursuit as pre-occupations of life. Mr. Drilon added that these changes demand that the gains and the momentum already achieved should be sustained and accelerated.

DEPARTMENT of Labor has now the power to discipline private watchmen or security agencies found to have violated labor laws or against which there is a pending labor claim by any of their employees. Labor Secretary Bias F. Ople said that under a memorandum agreement with the Philippine Constabulary, the DOL has to clear any security firm for any labor law infraction before it can be issued by the PC a renewal permit or new license to operate. The labor chief said this requirement ensures the protection of special watchmen and security guards from abuse or exploitation by their employers.

May 9—

THE PRESIDENT announced that he would call upon Barangay leaders to cooperate with the local police forces in ferreting out crimes all over the country and in bringing criminals to justice. In a speech before the national convention and seminar workshop of the Philippine Confederation of Chiefs of Police (PCCP) at the Maharlika Hall, the President said that although the crime situation in the Philippines seems to be under control, there still are instances of petty crimes reported in certain sections of the country. "It is therefore necessary that we now obtain the services and support of the entire citizenry," the President said, adding that no stable civil order can be attained without the cooperation of the citizens.

UNCONDITIONAL support and loyalty of the Filipino Muslim of Mindanao and Sulu was received by the President. The pledge was in the form of a resolution unanimously adopted by the Sultans of the 19 ruling houses of Mindanao and Sulu. The Sultans personally presented the resolution to the President. In accepting the resolution, the President approved a request for the holding of a seminar in Marawi City to explore all possible means of helping the government in the prosecution of the development program for Mindanao and Sulu. In adopting the resolution, the Sultans lauded the President for adopting the policy of strengthening Muslim communities through economic and social development; development of the Muslim individual by giving him more opportunity to serve in the government, including the armed forces; and his sincerity in prosecuting the Mindanao development program.

AGENCIES engaged in various programs and projects for out-of-school youths will soon be coordinated and their functions and efforts pooled under a single development policy. This was the message given by the President in a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. at the close of the five-day 22nd National 4-H Club Congress at the College of Agriculture in Los Baños, Laguna. The President said that the government will place these programs under one umbrella through the National Manpower and Youth Council.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad proposed an integrated approach to the problem of juvenile delinquency, saying that it is a national problem that demands the attention of parents, the police, social welfare institutions, the socio-economic planners, education and manpower development agencies. He proposed closer interaction among the agencies involved in meeting the problem, particularly the social welfare and police agencies. Speaking at the seminar-workshop of the Philippine Confederation of Chiefs of Police at Philamlife Auditorium, the secretary said there should be a competent documentation of the problem on an inter-disciplinary basis, with the police and the social worker exchanging relevant statistics. He also proposed that educational institutions enlist the police agencies in teaching the value of authority to the youth.

THE PRESIDENT said the programmed integration of the country's police forces into a unified command will be implemented throughout the country in 1975. He said the overall objective of the plan is to strengthen the government's peace-keeping activities and go to give proper protection and incentive to the forces' rank-and-file. The President made these remarks in a speech before chiefs of police all over the country who are in Manila attending a week-long seminar workshop on Modern Police Administration and Crime Prevention. During the occasion, held at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President also signed a decree amending the Police Act of 1966 to suit the needs of the envisioned integration.

GRATITUDE of the people and government of the Philippines was extended by the President to the Republic of China for a $25,000 seed donation to the First Lady's Green Revolution. In presenting the donation, Ambassador Liu Chieh of the Republic of China said the donation of various vegetable seeds is a token of support to the First Lady's Green Revolution. He expressed hope the seeds would bring "greater abundance."

He said the standardization scheme will be implemented through provincial and regional laboratories of the Bureau of Soils and the Philippine Sugar Institute.

May 12—

THE PRESIDENT has harnessed the country's 35 stock savings loan associations to: help in the financing of agricultural projects by empowering them to grant loans under the Land Reform Program. Under Presidential Decree No. 450, the agricultural loans may be medium-term (one to five years) or long-term (more than five years). But the President said that such stock savings and loan associations should also help in the financing of agricultural projects and boost the country's food production.

CONSULTATIVE council composed of Muslim leaders has been created by the President to involve the Muslim community in the governments policy formulation activities, especially in relation to the development programs for Muslim Mindanao. In an executive order issued by the President, the council is charged with the task of advising the President on Muslim affairs and of acting as the representative body for the Muslim communities. In signing the executive order, the President stressed that it is the New Society's aim to achieve national unity through the involvement of all sectors in government activities.

THE PRESIDENT'S order reducing the tariff rates on imported coconut oil substitutes by 10 to 30 percent is a boon to local consumers and will result in net earnings for the government up to about $25 million annually. Agriculture Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon Jr., who is concurrently chairman of the Coconut Consumers Stabilization Committee, said the new tariff rates embodied in Executive Order No. 428 will encourage the importation and use of oil cheaper than coconut oil.

GROUP of American rubber and tire manufacturers lauded the President for his "expert handling of the Mindanao development efforts despite such obstacles as the oil shortage and worldwide inflation." The American businessmen, all occupying top positions in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, also thanked the Chief Executive for the return of normalcy in the South which, they said, enabled their rubber plantation to operate in full capacity. The group was composed of Russel DeYoung and Charles J. Pilliod, outgoing and incoming chairman, respectively, of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, and I. B. Thomsen, president of Goodyear International.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad endorsed the promulgation of an advertising code of ethics aimed at upgrading the advertising industry in the country. The draft of the code has been completed, and it represents, he said, a significant convergence, if not agreement, of many interests and hopes of the advertising industry, the government and other sectors of the society. Secretary Tatad said that probably the most important feature of the proposed code is that it is something born not of one viewpoint but of many viewpoints, not of the realities of power and authority but of the reasoned interplay of ideas among men of different persuasions.

May 14—

THE PRESIDENT granted local private educational institutions authority to raise tuition fees provisionally by 15 percent pending the final action of the Department of Education and Culture on their individual applications to increase tuition fees. The President took this action upon recommendation of the Coordinating Council of Private Educational Associations (COCOPEA) in order to give parents of school children time to prepare for, and budget, the school expenses of their children in the next schoolyear, which opens in two weeks' time.

VALUE of photography and the other arts in "recapturing for man his sense of community with others," was stressed by Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad. The secretary's speech was read for him at the award ceremony, First International Color Slides Competition, Thomas Jefferson Center, by Bureau of Broadcasts Officer-in-Charge Antonio de los Reyes. Secretary Tatad noted the ability of photography to make positive statements about the life of man on this planet, and its importance as a medium to recreate the drama of human life. "But most important of all, perhaps, it has brought all humanity a sense of the sameness of their experiences."

CELEBRATION of the 76th anniversary of Philippine Independence on June 12 will start eight days earlier, on June 5. In a proclamation signed by the President, he said the celebration should be made a "proper occasion to again make a reaffirmation of our continuing commitment to the ideals that had set fire the hearts and minds of our people and united them in nation-building. It is but fitting and proper to ensure a nationwide awareness and involvement in the celebration of this significant milestone and to project the goals and objectives of the New Society."

May 15—

THE PRESIDENT stressed the utmost importance of making an accurate compilation of statistical data for the government's proposed data bank, with the nationwide filing of statements of assets on or before September 30, 1974. At the same time, he warned tax evaders that they have a last chance to make good on their undeclared incomes and wealth earned or realized prior to 1973. They should make the disclosures and corresponding payments not later than June 28, 1974. The President made these points clear in Letter of Instructions No. 185 addressed to the secretary of finance, and all other officials down to barangay heads.

THE PRESIDENT paved the way for the full utilization of drying and storage facilities purchased by the defunct Rice and Corn Administration in the current national food production drive. Called butler up-country warehouses, these drying and storage facilities for grains have not been placed into maximum economic use owing largely to the RCA's failure to settle its obligations with the Philippine National Bank which financed the purchase of the storage houses. To settle the legal and financing problems involved, as well as to remove a major stumbling block in the full utilization of the warehouses, the President issued Letter of Instructions No. 185 transferring to the national government, through the Department of Finance, the outstanding obligations of the RCA in connection with the importation and installation of the warehouses. The LOI also bestows on the National Grains Authority (NGA) the ownership and administration of the drying-storage facilities so that ways and means could be devised to put them into maximum use.

May 16—

THE PRESIDENT said that more than one-half of the entire expenditures of the government goes to infrastructure and other public works projects that have, to do with production. This is a record that is much better than many, if not all, of the neighboring countries of the Philippines, he told some 400 members of the District and City Engineers League (DAGEL) and the Bureau of Public Works Association of District Engineers (BPW-ADE) during the opening session of their annual convention at the Malacañang Maharlika Hall. The increase in capital expenditures, the Chief Executive also said, is deliberate and in accordance with the policy that most of the government money be spent on infrastructures than on routinary or administrative expenditures, such as salaries for government officials. In his speech, the President also announced the conversion of the former Bureau of Public Highways into the Department of Public Highways and the elevation of Public Highways Commissioner Baltazar Aquino to secretary of the new department.

MORE communal lands, aside from those already declared in the burnt-out town of Jolo, are expected to be proclaimed by the President for human settlements. Addressing a convention of city and district engineers, the President directed the new secretary of public highways and the director of public works to submit separate lists of infrastructure projects where it will be necessary to declare public lands communal property.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the Oil Industry Commission to collect amounts not exceeding P0.15 per liter of refined petroleum products from persons or companies engaged in importing, manufacturing, or marketing those products. To effect the collection, the President issued Presidential Decree No. 456 directing the OIC to issue an appropriate order. The decree cautions the OIC that in collecting payments for the Special Fund it shall take into account the Fund's special requirements in relation to its purposes, the effect of the payments on the oil prices, and its cost impact on the economy, the consuming public, and the oil industry.

President's Week in Review: May 17-30, 1973

President's Week in Review: May 31 - June 6, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 31—

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that his informal talks with President Soeharto of Indonesia have set a precedent for other leaders of Southeast Asia to meet informally on problems affecting the region. In an interview at the Nichols Air Base after disembarking from his plane from Manado, North Sulawesi (Celebes), the President also enumerated some areas of agreement reached with President Soeharto during their talks: 1) Economic cooperation between their two countries, including the updating of their border crossing and barter trade agreements; 2) Philippine assistance to Indonesia in the latter's manpower training program, not only on the unskilled but also on the highly skilled technician levels, especially in logging, and 3) Complementation in the development of industries.

ACTING Postmaster General Pedro P. Gambalan reminded all postal patrons to use postal code numbers instead of zip codes on all mail matter to speed up handling and delivery of their mail. He said the new postal code system is in effect due to the acquisition by the Bureau of Posts of an automatic letter-sorting machine from Japan through reparations. The system uses four numerals to be read by the automatic sorting machine. Its first two numbers represent the provinces in the Philippines, and the last two, the names of post offices within each province. The machine is capable of sorting 22,000 letters per hour—speeding up the movement of mail which has recently been the subject of public complaints.

HIGH school graduates who had enrolled in short-term courses and who now wish to pursue four-year college degrees are exempted from the requirements of the National College Entrance Examination (NCEE). Secretary of Education and Culture Juan L. Manuel issued an order to this effect to the Directors of Private Schools, Public Schools, and Vocational Education and the coordinator of state colleges and universities. These collegiate programs or short-term courses include secretarial and vocational-technical courses which are terminal in nature.

June 1—

THE PRESIDENT fired off an order to look into the progress of the establishment of wood processing plants, as required in the Forestry Code. He directed Secretary Jose Leido Jr. of Natural Resources and Director Jose Viado of Forest Development to "check which of the timber concessionaires are faithfully complying with these policies, and submit your report to me within one week."

SELECTED executives from the private sector shall now be admitted into the year-old National Defense College of the Philippines, training ground for upper-level national defense leaders and civilian government officials. At the same time, a rigid system of screening candidates has been devised in order that only the best qualified may be enrolled in the defense college, which has been placed directly under the defense secretary. These are the major features of Presidential Decree No. 452, which amends PD 190 that created the college last May 11, 1973.

The decree was issued in order that the purposes and objectives of the National Defense College of the Philippines can be effectively and satisfactorily attained.

JUSTICE Secretary Vicente Abad Santos ruled that advance deposits for the use of a dwelling unit; or for land should not be more than, the equivalent of two months' rent. Secretary Abad Santos issued the opinion in answer to a query from Presidential Staff Director Genaro A. Eslava of the Office of the President. Mr. Abad Santos pointed out that the house rental law provides that "no lessor of a dwelling unit or of land on which another's dwelling is located may demand a deposit, for any purpose, of any amount in excess of two months' rental in advance."

PAYMENT of retirement gratuities has been suspended to former Congress and Commission on Appointments employees who are working again in the government. A memorandum circular issued by Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes says payments are being held in abeyance while it is determined whether such employees are entitled to the current gratuities payment, or might even have to refund part of the partial gratuity payments they already have received.

June 2—

AUTHORITY over and responsibility for the development and regulation of civilian shipping are reposed for the first time in just one body, the Maritime Industry Authority (MIA). The MIA, created under Presidential Decree No. 474, gathers together functions that had previously been fragmented among various government agencies, resulting in inadequate and inefficient shipping facilities and services.

UNIFIED surveying and mapping service working on comprehensive plans and using common standards is the objective of Memorandum Order No. 431 which Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor issued recently. MO 431 creates a 12-man committee that shall coordinate the activities and standardize the practices of about a dozen mapping and surveying agencies of the national government. The committee shall direct the agencies to use common standards for map and chart bases, procedures, methods and equipment, which the committee shall recommend.

SECRETARY of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata approved a customs administrative order allowing the entry duty-free, of aircraft spare parts and accessories imported by agro-industrial companies to be used in their agricultural and industrial operations. The duty-free entry will be allowed only if the importer is certified by the Secretary of Agriculture as a duly established agro-industrial company, and upon presentation of a sworn statement that the articles are not available locally in reasonable quantities, quality and price.

June 3—

THE PRESIDENT has taken steps to carry out major organizational changes embodied in the new Labor Code that he signed last May 1. He issued two Letters of Instructions. In LOI No. 191, the President directed that the CIR shall automatically lapse on October 31, 1974, end of the sixth-month transition period provided in the Labor Code. The CIR was ordered to stop accepting new cases, and to transfer all pending cases filed after October 14, 1972 to the Bureau of Labor Relations for appropriate action. In LOI No. 190, the President directed the orderly abolition of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, the Workmen's Compensation Commission, and the regional Workmen's Compensation Units, and after October 31, 1974, it will be the SSS and the GSIS that shall process and pay workmen's compensation claims. The President has said that under the new arrangements, the government will save P28 million a year in dubious workmen's compensation claims and another P12 million in administrative expenses, while facilitating payment of benefits.

PRIVATE employers in the country were given by the President a 60-day period within which to comply with the government appeal for them to grant their workers emergency allowances or be compelled to do so by mandatory decree. The President issued the warning upon receipt of the latest report from the Department of Labor showing slow compliance on the part of private employers with an earlier Presidential letter of instructions appealing for such allowances. The appeal is contained in Letter of Instructions No. 174.

THE PRESIDENT underscored the role of Filipino athletes as ambassadors of goodwill. Receiving the 27-man Philippine swimming team which called to pay their respects, the President pointed out to the swimmers, whose ages range from nine to 17 years, that while sports development is one of the goals of the New Society, winning the goodwill of other nations is a lot more important than winning medals. Some 250 swimmers from 15 Asian countries will; participate in the three-day Fifth Asian Swimming Championship competition to be held at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum on June 28-30.

June 4—

THE PRESIDENT gave final instructions to the Philippine delegation to the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea, who called at Malacañang before leaving on June 11. The conference will be held in Caracas, Venezuela, from June 20 to August 29 this year. The delegation is headed by Ambassador Arturo M. Tolentino and Secretary Vicente Abad Santos of Justice, co-chairman and Solicitor General Estelito P. Mendoza, as vice-chairman. The President is attaching much importance to this conference in view of the Philippine proposal for the international adoption of the "archipelago theory" which was reported to be gaining wide support.

PHILIPPINE Legion of Honor, degree of commander, was conferred by the President on Admiral Noel Gayler, commander-in-chief, United States Forces in the Pacific, for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service to the Republic of the Philippines." Through the award, the President conveyed the "sincere and heartfelt appreciation of the Filipino people and government for all the support of the U.S. government and Admiral Gayler, the highest representative of the U.S. government in the Pacific, towards the attainment of the Philippines' self-reliant defense posture."

June 5—

THE PRESIDENT called on the rich countries of the world to shoulder a major responsibility in international development even as he stressed the importance of fostering closer cooperation among all countries to promote worldwide economic development. While recognizing the desirability of self-help and regional cooperation among developing countries, the President emphasized that these could be frustrated without the cooperation of affluent countries. The President delved on these points in his address at the opening of the 18th session of the governing council of the UNDP in Pasay City. In his speech, the President also thanked the UNDP which has been the Philippines largest multilateral source of pre-investment and technical assistance. He expressed gratification over the assurance made by the UNDP donor countries that they would exert every effort not only to maintain but also to increase substantially the level of their assistance so as to keep the momentum of development in the Third World.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady led the nation in the observance of World Environment Day. Watching from the balcony of Malacañang, the First Couple applauded as a long fluvial parade participated in by government officials and employees, private citizens and representatives of the American community, passed by Malacañang as it sailed up the Pasig River. The celebration of World Environment Day was provided in Proclamation No. 1149 which was issued last June by the President.

June 6—

THE PRESIDENT and the Cabinet decided to give social and economic development the lion's share in the next fiscal year's national budget. Going over the budgetary proposal for fiscal year 1975, the President and the Cabinet agreed that economic development should get a share of more than 46 per cent, and social development over 18 per cent. The single biggest increase of outlay will go to public works. This will make possible the continuation of the government's infrastructure program needed to sustain the policy of industrial expansion in the countryside.

RELEASE of P96.54 million was ordered by the President to meet the needs of millions of students in the school year just opened. Meeting his Cabinet, the President set aside the following appropriations: 1) P39.54 million for the construction of new school buildings and erection of prefabricated school-houses to relieve the schoolrooms shortage caused by the tremendously increased in school population; 2) P20 million for printing of basic textbooks needed in public schools; 3) P22 million additional appropriation for vocational schools, plus the allocation of 692 prefab school buildings to accommodate some 40,000 students who failed to qualify in the recent National College Entrance Examinations; 4) P10 million to subsidize public general secondary schools, including barrio high schools; and 5) P5 million for purchase of athletic supplies and equipment in connection with sports development program for the public schools.

THE PRESIDENT praised the noble undertaking of the United Nations Development Programme and declared that the Filipino people are proud to associate themselves with it. He spoke at a dinner that he and the First Lady hosted at Malacañang in honor of Representatives of more than 70 nations attending the 18th session of the UNDP governing council. In response, Horst Moltrecht, UNDP first vice president from the Federal Republic of Germany, praised the President's address at the council's opening session about the basic problems that developing countries are facing and the increasing role the UNDP has played in their economic development.

President's Week in Review: June 7-13, 1974

President's Week in Review: June 14-20, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 14—

THE PRESIDENT led the nation in a quiet observance of the 29th anniversary of the Fall of Besang Pass by laying a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Libingan ng Mga Bayani, Fort Bonifacio, Rizal. Congratulating the men of the US Armed Forces in the Philippines, North Luzon (USAFIP-NL), for their victory at Besang Pass, the President, however, warned them against "living in memory and resting on laurels, when the country is faced with more sophisticated enemies."

THE PRESIDENT moved to arrest moral decay and loss of cultural values resulting from practices like those that recently erupted in the basketball scandals. He ordered severe penalties under Presidential Decree No. 483 for betting, game-fixing, point-shaving, and other illegal and unethical machinations in amateur and other sports as engineered by gambling syndicates. At the same time, he insured that civic-spirited citizens who come out to denounce these baneful practices shall not be harassed in nuisance suits, PD 483 increases the penalty for violations of the foregoing nature to a maximum of six years imprisonment and a fine of P2.000, with subsidiary imprisonment in case of insolvency, if the offender is an official, like promoter, referee, umpire or coach.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY Alejandro Melchor Jr., directorate chairman of the National Computer Center, announced that the government's 16th Computer Programming Course will start July 1. Except for a minimal charge to cover the direct cost of test and issue materials, the 11-week course is offered free to AB and BS degree holders, not over 25 years of age, and proficient in the fields of engineering, mathematics and other related sciences.

June 15—

THE NATION moved another step closer toward the nationwide integration of all local police forces as required by the Constitution. The police and fire departments, along with the town and city jails in six provinces were welded together in six more pilot areas, under Presidential Decree No. 482. This is the second PD on the matter. The first PD 421, created the initial pilot Metropolitan Police Force in four cities and 13 towns within the Greater Manila Area, more than two months ago. These pilot projects are expected to produce more effective police and safety work in close collaboration with the Philippine Constabulary which in all cases, acquired immediate jurisdictional control.

THIRTY-EIGHT former rebel leaders from Tawi-Tawi pledged to give their all-out support and defend with their lives, if need be, the efforts of the President to bring peace, unity and progress to Muslim Mindanao. The promised to return to the hills and persuade those who had fled with arms to return to the fold of law. The rebel leaders, who had surrendered a total of 1,750 assorted firearms to the government spoke to the President in Malacañang, in the company of Rear Admiral Romeo Espaldon, military governor of Tawi-Tawi and head of the Sulu Sea Frontier Command.

June 16—

GOOD progress in a preliminary geological survey in Samar aimed at identifying deposits of aluminous clay to be processed in a projected smelter, was reported by Director Juanito C. Fernandez in Letter of Instructions No. 184, the President had ordered the entire island of Samar closed to mining operation (prospecting) almost two months ago, pending determination of all possible areas containing these minerals by the Bureau of Mines. The Bureau of Mines has sent five parties to expedite the work. They are now in Northern Samar working southward. Despite the rough terrain, inaccessibility, the parties have produced results. What is found in Samar is aluminous day or bauxitic clay of good quality, at a ratio of 7 alumina to 1 silica. The purpose of survey is to assure a sufficient supply of ore in connection with the government-approved plan to set up an aluminum smelter at the Tungonan hot springs in nearby Ormoc City, Leyte. The smelter will tap the geothermal energy at the hot springs.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. issued Memorandum Circular No. 417 creating two high-level teams to pave the way for the establishment of the aluminum smelter. One will handle engineering matters and the other will concentrate on the legal side. The teams will coordinate with Reynolds Aluminum in undertaking studies leading to the establishment of the first aluminum smelter in the country. The circular also designates the program execution monitoring office of the Development Management Staff as the coordinating secretariat for the studies.

June 17—

THE PRESIDENT congratulated the Philippine Basketball Team, saying it has performed a “yeoman’s duty” not only in the world of athletics but also in the world of international relations. In his send-off talk to members of the team who called at Malacañang, the President said that their various trips abroad, including the historic one to Red China, gave the world a glimpse of the nature of the New Society. “It is our hope that the outside world will see the Philippines through you, through your sportsmanship, your athletic prowess, talent and general disposition, as well as your achieving inclinations.”

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., on order of the President, has issued Proclamation No. 3276, declaring the period from June 22 to 29 as professional consciousness week. In proclaiming the special week, it was recognized that with their thorough preparation and expertise, professionals are a distinct segment of society which must bear a heavier portion of the responsibility and the burden of nation-building. The proclamation further emphasized the need for upholding the spirit of professionalism as the goal towards which all non-professional workers should strive, meaning excellence and thoroughness in whatever job a person is engaged.

DEPARTMENT of Health advised the public to take precautionary measures against gastro-enteritis, cholera El Tor and typhoid fever as the incidence of these acute intestinal diseases usually reaches its peak in July and August. The Disease Intelligence Center of the Department of Health attributed the prevalence of these acute diseases during rainy season to poor environmental sanitation.

June 18—

THE PRESIDENT said that it has been his obsession as head of the country to include in the program of the New Society the development of the youth with the boy scouts movement as one of the principal vehicles for such development. In assuming the office of the Chief Scout of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines in ceremonies held at Malacañang, the President pledged all available resources of government, as well as those in the private sector which supports the New Society, for the advancement of scouting in this country. The ceremonies were considered a milestone in the history of the scout movement here in that for the first time in 50 years, the President of the Philippines has accepted the position of Chief Scout.

CENTRAL Bank of the Philippines has been authorized by the President to operate a security printing press, for the printing of bank notes and such other security papers as the plant facilities might permit. In Presidential Decree No. 484, the President said it is only “appropriate” for the CB to operate such a plant considering its responsibility and authority over the currency issue of the country.

June 19—

THE PRESIDENT reassured that existing valid private rights shall be respected in carrying out the new government policy on the disposition and utilization of land. The President gave the reassurance during his conference with policy advisers at Malacañang. The President stated that private rights to properties, whether titled or not, shall be recognized. He expressed his desire to have the implementing rules and regulations flexible enough to avoid possible injustice that might arise from the plan. Among the private rights on untitled lands that must be recognized are: 1) Rights declared for taxation purposes; 2) Those pending administrative and judicial adjudication; 3) Those with incomplete titles; that is, those under continuous, uninterrupted, exclusive and notorious possession for 30 years, as recognized by the Civil Code; 4) Those where sales, free patent and homestead applications had been filed and applicant has complied with all the conditions required by law, making issuance of title mandatory.

June 20—

THE PRESIDENT hailed as “ambassadors of goodwill” the participants in the First World Invitational Karate Tournament at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum, and expressed hope that they will contribute toward the attainment of world unity. “You are most welcome not only as participants but also as ambassadors of goodwill from your countries,” the President told some 77 karate experts from seven countries, who called to pay their respects. “You symbolize the efforts of mankind and of humanity to join hands and attain the oneness that has eluded political leaders, as well as well-meaning and sincere men who seek to eliminate divisive factors in our world.”

NATION’S minority groups were urged by the President to hasten the organization of barangays in their respective villages so that they may be able to participate more actively in the affairs of government. In his meeting with a delegation from the Mindanao Highlanders Association, the President said he had dispatched officers of the Department of Local Government and Community Development to different sections of the country to help organize this smallest political unit among the minority groups and thereby enable the administration to assist them more effectively. Accompanied by Commissioner Mama Sinsuat of National Integration, the delegation which represented 36 non-Muslim tribes in Mindanao called at Malacañang to pledge, their loyalty and to offer their services to the government, particularly in the current pacification campaign in the area.

THE PRESIDENT declared June 24, 1974 as a special public holiday in the City of Manila. This marks the 403rd anniversary of the founding of Manila as a Christian capital city and is popularly called “Araw ng Maynila.” In proclaiming June 24 as a special public holiday, the President stated that the residents should be afforded an opportunity to celebrate this milestone in their city’s history with appropriate ceremonies.

President's Week in Review: June 21-27, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 21—

THE PRESIDENT cited karate as symbolic of the efforts of poor developing nations with limited resources to overwhelm big obstacles to their development and security. Opening the three-day First World Invitational Karate Tournament of the Philippines at the Jose Rizal Memorial Coliseum, the Chief Executive stressed that, like in the science of karate, small nations are tackling great problems through the employment of balance, timing and art. The President also underlined karate's role in developing the poor countries' greatest asset—their human resources, emphasizing that karate is not only physical discipline but also spiritual and mental discipline; not an art for aggressive destruction, injury or killing, but an art to discipline the body, mind and spirit. Earlier during the program, the President was conferred the honorary degree of ninth dan (red belt) by Gogen "Cat" Yamaguchi, 10th dan grandmaster and founder of the Japan Goju-Kan. It was the first honorary karate title to be presented to a chief of state.

MUSLIM conference held in Marawi City under the auspices of the Federation of Muslim Royal Houses of Mindanao and Sulu unanimously approved resolutions expressing "complete support to the on-going policies and programs of President Marcos for the Muslim communities. This was the gist of the report of Sultan Harun Al-Rashid Lucman, chairman of the Coordinating Committee who was authorized by the conference to convey to Malacañang the "full confidence of the Muslim communities on the leadership and ability of the President to solve the problems of the region in the context of building a new nation based on the unity of the people." Sultan Lucman headed a delegation to the Palace. It formally presented a copy of the communique issued by more than 2,000 conferees with the unanimous support, Lucman said, of some 20,000 observers from all over Mindanao and Sulu. The President, in turn, congratulated all those who participated in the conference for their valuable contribution to national unity.

June 22—

DEPARTMENT of Industry has been created by the President to integrate industry activities of the government into a single, unified structure. Under Presidential Decree No. 488, the DOI shall be the primary policy, planning, programming, coordinating, and administrative entity of the government in the development, expansion and diversification of industry. The issuance of PD 488 is the go-signal for the organization of the Bureau of Industrial Coordination and the Bureau of Industrial Information and Programs, which are also directly under the DOI.

THE PRESIDENT amended certain provisions of the Investment Incentives Act (Republic Act No. 5186) and the Export Incentives Act (Republic Act No. 6135) primarily to encourage more investments and expand existing ones. In particular, the amendments widen the scope of tax credits, invite wider participation from government financial institutions, and open up new opportunities for the construction of additional infrastructures from the private sector.

The main features of the amendments are: 1) The inclusion of basic services among the industries that may be registered under the Investment Incentives Act and 2) The authorization of the preparation of a Public Utilities Priorities Plan along with the present Investment and Export Priorities Plans. The amendments are contained in Presidential Decree No. 485.

June 23—

CONSTANT vigilance coupled with continued efforts towards the buildup of our length as a people and nation are at the core of the Philippine strategy for survival. The President spoke at the 17th annual General Assembly of the Veterans Federation of the Philippines at Fort Bonifacio through Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile. The President also cited several measures oriented both to the future and the continuing search for survival. "All projects and Programs are by way of redeeming the hopes and dreams of those who fought to keep this land whole and free," the President told the assembled veterans.

THE PRESIDENT has taken steps to meet the greatly increased requirements of the local cigarette industry for imported blending tobacco leaf. He issued Presidential Decree No. 446 which increases the allowable importation of blending leaf tobacco by one million kilos a year. The new importation level is now six million kilos a year, which may not be exceeded "unless the exigencies of the industry require otherwise." These measures are expected to lessen the cost of locally manufactured cigarettes and protect the consuming public which eventually is made to pay for any increases in cost.

OFFICE of the President reminded the public that September 30, last day for filing statements of assets, liabilities and net worth is fast approaching. Under Memorandum Circular No. 745, Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor cited Revenue Regulations 4-74, which govern the filing. These regulations are based on Presidential Decree No. 379 as amended by PD 417. Any person required to file the statement under PD 379 who knowingly makes a false declaration or who deliberately fails to comply with any of the provisions hereof, shall upon conviction, pay a fine of not less than P5, 000 and be imprisoned for not less than two years. If the offense is committed by a juridical person, the manager or person in charge of the management of the business or affairs thereof shall be responsible therefor and, upon conviction, shall pay a fine of not less than P5.000 and be imprisoned for not less than two years.

UNIVERSAL Friendship Week (July 15-21) was proclaimed by the President to coincide with the weeklong 1974 Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, the Philippines eyeful spectacular that is expected to place Manila in more than half a billion tv sets all around the world on July 21. In Proclamation No. 1280, the President said the holding of the pageant in the Philippines will provide a golden opportunity to cement relations with other countries.

June 24—

THE PRESIDENT emphasized the need for developing, along with the economy, the human resources, which he called the most precious resources of any country. Addressing the first batch of students of the Development Academy of the Philippines, who are about to finish a 10-week course, the President revealed that since his first year in office in 1966, he had envisioned the creation of a career executive service and the Development Academy of the Philippines. The President said that constraints and limitations, particularly financial ones, prevented the early implementation of his plans. However, he said, because of their importance, he saw to it that they were immediately implemented under the New Society. "While we have vast untapped natural resources, he said, "our most important and valuable resources up to now are still our manpower—the nature, the character, the intelligence and the capacity of the population."

THE PRESIDENT authorized the takeover by the Central Bank of the Continental Bank to protect its depositors from undue risks in the face of repeated violations, of banking laws and practices by the same bank. The President based his action on the recommendation of the Monetary Board. He asked the Central Bank and the Philippine Deposit Insurance Corporation (PDIC) to expedite payment of all insured deposits, and the Central Bank to gather and hold the assets of the bank in order to protect the claims of other creditors. The President also asked the Central Bank to grant accommodations to other banks and investments 'houses whose credits with Continental Bank will be frozen on account of its closure. In authorizing Continental Bank's closure, the Chief Executive took into consideration such violations as grant of huge loans to certain corporations without collaterals or supporting papers and without the usual credit investigations.

THE PRESIDENT said he will "personally attend" to the government program of increasing cattle production in the country, not only for domestic consumption but also for export. The President made this announcement at the Manila International Airport while inspecting a planeload of Brahman breeders consisting of 290 heifers and five bulls which arrived from Texas on board a Flying Tiger cargoliner. The President w is accompanied by Director Pedro G. Refuerzo of the Bureau of Animal Industry. The shipment was imported by the Philippine government, together with another shipment of 260 heifers to "beef up" the country's cattle raising industry which has not made appreciable progress due to the reluctance of cattle ranchers to expand operations because of poor returns.

June 25—

THE PRESIDENT of the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) governing council said the Philippines has gained an incalculable amount of respect and goodwill from some 70 nations around the world as a result of the successful meeting here of the UNDP. In a personal letter of thanks to the President, Ambassador Narciso G. Reyes, president of the council, said the statement made by the President at the opening session of the council made a "crucial contribution" to the deliberations. The President, replying to the expression of thanks from the UNDP officials, expressed satisfaction with the work of the UNDP and pledged continued Philippine support for all its efforts.

June 26—

THE PRESIDENT directed Secretary of Natural Resources Jose Leido Jr. to submit, an official list of timber agreements and licenses recommended for cancellation in view of their apparent failure to put up wood processing plants. The government has required concessionaries to set up their own processing plants in line with its decision to ban the exportation of unworked logs and other raw wood products starting January 1, 1976.

June 27—

THE PRESIDENT received the letters of credence of Ambassador Klos Visessurakarn as the new ambassador plenipotentiary and extraordinary of Thailand to the Philippines. Ambassador Visessurakarn replaces Ambassador Swate Komalabhuti who was recalled by the home office for reassignment after completing his regular tour of duty in the Philippines. In presenting his credentials to the President, the new Thai envoy said that his people have been watching with great interest and admiration the remarkable progress and development achieved by the Philippines "under the able and inspiring leadership of the President and the firm determination of the people to work selflessly for the common good." In his reply, the President said that the observation made by the envoy, who is a frequent visitor to the country, was "but another indication that we are on the right path and, God willing, we will stay on that path until our objectives are fully attained."

THE PRESIDENT has appointed 14 municipal judges on recommendation of the Supreme Court, as follows: Lino V. Quezon to Mariano Marcos town, Sultan Kudarat province; Julian B. Lukban to Paracale, Camarines, Norte; Conrado D. Diestro to Maayon, Capiz; Calixto A. Esparagoza to Padada, Davao del Sur; Mariano C. P. Gonzales to Dingras, Uocos Norte; Efren S. Ubungen to Cabugao, Ilocos Sur; Enrico Lanzaneas to Calamba, Laguna; Manuel Ma. Ubay-Ubay to Jassan, Misamis Oriental; Roger A. Domagas to Mangaldan, Pangasman; Florenio E. Tierra to Quezon, Quezon; Apolinar P. Antazo to Montalban, Rizal; Niceto Lanuevo to Quinopondan, Eastern Samar; Car to A. Eisma to Jolo Sulu and Zenaida P. Placer to Agusan del Norte.

Official Week in Review: June 28 – July 4, 1974

June 28—

THE PRESIDENT said no civilian or military official presence of any kind will be allowed at the nationwide consultation of the barangays on September 1, to allow the people “complete freedom” in judging the performance of military and civilian officials. The nationwide consultation, referred to as “Pulong ng Mga Barangay”—(Gathering of Barangays), is being called by the President as a form of national integrity day, to ascertain popular support for individual military and civilian officials in key positions in the government. This popular assessment of official conduct is an attempt to comply with the principle laid down by the President in his political writings and speeches to the effect that public officials must be accountable to the people at all times.

THE PHILIPPINES has exerted efforts to make sports a purposeful instrument for youth development, the President said at the start of the 14-nation Asian Age Group Swimming Championships at Rizal Memorial Coliseum. “I am aware that sports promotes not only physical fitness but also the qualities of discipline, brotherhood and leadership,” the President said in a speech read for him by Geronimo Velasco, Philippine National Oil Company president-chairman. The government’s sports development program supplements traditional reliance upon the universal educational system to lay the groundwork for citizenship and leadership. In this work, the administration has called on the participation of the private sector, from trade unions and private industry to civic and religious organizations.

June 29—

THE PRESIDENT declared the Philippine government rejects and will continue to reject a military solution to its problems in Muslim Mindanao and will instead continue to pursue a fullscale socio-economic and political program for the advancement of the country’s minorities. The President made this statement at luncheon in honor of the visiting foreign minister of Lebanon, Fouad Naffah. As a proof of this, the President declared that a government loan recently signed by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata with the Kuwaiti government will be used exclusively for projects in Mindanao. This is the first Arab loan to the Philippines—the first Asian loan from Kuwait—in the amount of five million Kuwait dinars or $17 million.

REGION 4 of the Department of Public Highways was divided by the President into two, to be known as Region 4–A and Region 4–B, to assure better administration and more thorough supervision of highway projects in all the provinces and cities within the region. Each region is headed by a regional director and both shall have regional offices in the Greater Manila area. Region 4–A comprises the following cities and provinces: Batangas City, Caloocan City, Cavite City, Lipa City, Lucena City, Manila, Pasay City, Quezon City, San Pablo City, Tagaytay City and Trece Martires City and the provinces of Batangas, Cavite, Laguna, Quezon and Rizal. Region 4–B comprises Puerto Princesa City and the provinces of Oriental Mindoro, Occidental Mindoro, Palawan, Marinduque and Romblon.

ORDER of Sultan Kudarat was conferred by the President on Foreign Minister Fouad Naffah of Lebanon in recognition of “extraordinary services to the cause of Filipino nationhood,” particularly during the Islamic Conference held in Kuala Lumpur. In accepting the award, Minister Naffah said he was highly honored because it was conferred on him not only by the President but by the architect of the New Society. The Lebanese foreign minister said the award was symbolic of developing friendly relations between the Philippines and Lebanon, and, in general, between the Philippines and the Arab world.

June 30—

THE PRESIDENT signed a socio-economic development-oriented budget of P14,164,010,000 for fiscal year 1974 to give full implementation to his anti-inflation policy of accelerated and increased agricultural and industrial production. The amount, which reflects the increased cost of development, will be drawn from resources, conservatively put at P15,639,000,000 by the Budget Commission. The new budget reflects the resolute effort of the government to maintain its economic performance in 1973, which registered an unprecedented growth rate of ten per cent. Despite the pressures of increased cost of government as well as socio-economic development, the government expects a more than satisfactory performance.

CHARTERED cities are now authorized to give financial aid to courts of first instance. Under Presidential Decree No. 500, a city may now share in the expenses relating to the construction, repair and alteration of the courthouse or courtroom and court offices, and the cost of equipment and supplies, of a court of first instance or similar court within its jurisdiction. PD 500 comes into effect notwithstanding Section 190 of the Revised Administrative Code which provides that the expenses for the maintenance of courts of first instance are to be borne by the provinces concerned. The decree notes that this provision incapacitates cities not expressly authorized by their charters to extend financial aid to the courts of first instance within their jurisdiction. Courts of first instance and similar courts in cities should be assured of adequate financial support to enable them to attain optimum performance, according to the decree.

THE PRESIDENT has set aside P1 million to preserve, restore, or reconstruct certain national shrines, monuments, landmarks, or cultural treasures for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1974. Under Presidential Decree No. 496, the same amount shall be set aside in each succeeding fiscal year's budget for the same purpose. One-half of the amount shall go to the National Museum to take care of the national cultural treasures. The other half shall go to the National Historical Commission which has charge of several shrines, landmarks and monuments.

CONTRACEPTIVE devices as aid in the nation's family planning program may now be transmitted through the mails. This was not possible under the Revised Administrative Code which laid down postal rules and regulations prohibiting the use of the mails for the purpose. However, the President issued Presidential Decree No. 495 amending Section 1954, Paragraph (C) of the Revised Administrative Code. PD 495 exempts contraceptive devices that are non-abortive and are not intended for indecent and immoral purpose from the list of absolutely non-mailable matters provided by Section 1954, Paragraph (C) of the Revised Administrative Code.

July 1—

ELECTRIC cooperatives have been returned to the supervision and control of the National Electrification Administration in line with the government's policy to accelerate rural electrification. The return is effected under Presidential Decree No. 501, which exempts electric cooperatives from the regulatory powers of the Bureau of Cooperatives Management, Department of Local Government and Community Development. With electric coops returned to the NEA, they are expected to get a boost as soon as the NEA is converted into a national corporation. As such, the NEA will promote, organize, register, assist and regulate electric cooperatives.

PERSONS who failed to make full disclosures of their untaxed wealth and income under Presidential Decree No. 370 can now file "rectified" returns, liabilities and net worth as required by Presidential Decree No. 379. Deadline for the submission of these statements is September 30, 1974. The chance for taxfilers to rectify their returns under the tax amnesty decree is made possible through Letter of Instructions No. 200 issued by the President.

July 2—

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the purchase by the national government of a 95,732 square meter piece of land in Makati, Rizal, to be used for the construction of an underground drainage main, in line with the flood control program in Greater Manila. The authorization is spelled out in Presidential Decree No. 502. The area will be purchased from the National Power Corp. which had formerly used it as right-of-way for the former Caliraya transmission lines.

THE PRESIDENT extended the term of the Presidential Commission on Reorganization to December 31, 1974. The extension, embodied in Executive Order No. 1286, would enable the Commission to continue its task of recasting the governmental structure. The Commission's term expire June 30, 1974, under a previous executive order.

SECRETARY of Labor Blas F. Ople has urged all cottage industry producers and exporters to have themselves listed in the Philippine Directory of Cottage Industry Producers and Exporters now being published by MAI

Directories for the Chamber of Cottage Industries of the Philippines. In a signed message, Secretary Ople also said that the directory will help achieve for the cottage industry heavy demand and establish communication lines abroad for cottage industry products.

CENTRAL BANK of the Philippines requires all investment houses to publish quarterly consolidated statements of their operations in accordance with Section 12 of Presidential Decree No. 129 otherwise known as the Investment Houses Law. The investment houses were told to publish their consolidated statements beginning with the end of the second quarter this year, which was June 30. Thereafter, statements shall be published every September 30, December 31, and March 31 of every year or of such other date as the CB may require. The quarterly publication shall be made within 300 days from the end of a particular period. It was specified that those statements shall be published in any of the three daily newspapers with the highest number of paid nationwide circulation certified by the appropriate government agency.

July 3—

THE PRESIDENT has created the “Gawad Mabini” award to give fitting recognition to the Department of Foreign Affairs personnel and other deserving Filipinos who have rendered distinguished service to the country at home or abroad. Named after the Philippines’ first secretary of foreign affairs, Apolinario Mabini, the decoration will be given on July 22 of every year, the hero’s birth anniversary. As provided in Presidential Decree No. 490, the award has three ranks, namely: Dakilang Kamanong, Dakilang Kasugo and Kasugo.

July 4—

THE PRESIDENT congratulated Eugene Torre, Asia’s first international grandmaster, and assured him of full government support in the development of Filipino chess players. The 22-year old Filipino chess grandmaster, who received a rousing welcome on arrival from Nice, France, called on the President to pay his respects and to thank him for the parental concern he and the First Lady had shown to him. The President also gave the go-signal for the holding of a grandmasters’ tournament in the Philippines this coming October.

AN AREA consisting of 23.5 hectares in Lucap, Alaminos, Pangasinan, has been proclaimed as a national reservation and site for a marine fisheries multi-culture farm. Under Proclamation No. 1282 issued by the President, this area in three lots has been withdrawn from sale or settlement in Lucap Bay, subject to private rights if any there be. The place has actually been used to carry on experimental projects on marine species of shells and fishes since 1961. The presidential proclamation formalizes its disposition as a national reservation.

PERIOD from October 22 to October 26, 1974—and the third week of October of every year thereafter—has been declared “Midwifery Week.” Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., who issued the proclamation, pointed out that, as members of health teams, midwives contribute to the task of nation-building by promoting maternal and child health practices. The promotion of maternal and child health, it was stressed, fits into the goals of the New Society which demands of every citizen full contribution to national development.

President's Week in Review: July 5-11, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 5—

THE PRESIDENT predicted a new era of Philippine-American friendship marked by greater understanding and cooperation, with the replacement of the Laurel-Langley Agreement which expired July 3, and the review of the two countries' economic and defense arrangements. Speaking at a dinner on the occasion of Philippine-American Friendship Day in Malacañang, the President said that "never under any circumstance will friendship between the Philippines and the United States be erased by our two peoples, and that instead it shall strengthen with time." In his response, United States Ambassador William H. Sullivan paid tribute to the Philippines as in fact the nation in Asia that compelled the United States to abandon its policy on colonialism.

ALL heads of departments and chiefs of bureaus and offices of the national government are authorized to incur obligations for July and August 1974 not to exceed two-thirds of the total expenditures under Presidential Decree No. 233 (the old fiscal year's budget) during the first quarter of fiscal year 1974. Pending approval of the cash budget for the first quarter of fiscal year 1975, the same heads of offices are authorized to withdraw cash from the national treasury but in no case shall the total cash withdrawn during July and August 1974 exceed the level of cash withdrawals authorized for each of them for the months of July and August 1973. The foregoing are the salient provisions in Budget Memorandum Circular No. 148 issued by Budget Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco, pending distribution of copies of the General Appropriations Decree for FY 1975 and the release of the advices of allotments for the first quarter of FY 1975, so as not to disrupt normal operations.

July 6—

THE GOVERNMENT took another step to speed up the grant of ancestral lands to members of the cultural minorities with the issuance of the rule implementing Presidential Decree No. 410. The decree provides that lands of the public domain occupied and cultivated by members of the National Cultural Communities by themselves or through their predecessors in interest or ancestors for at least thirty years before March 11, 1974 shall be granted to such occupants. Exempted from the coverage of the Decree are lands of the public domain previously reserved for settlement purposes under the administration of the Department of Agrarian Reform and other areas reserved for other public or quasi-public purposes, including proclaimed forest reserves, watershed forest reserves, national parks, forest areas essential to research, scenic, recreation or fish and wildlife purposes.

DEVELOPMENT Academy of the Philippines and the National Electrification Administration (NEA) created a rural electric cooperatives' federation designed to complement government efforts for the total electrification of the country. Supplementing the creation of the Federation of Electric Cooperatives of the Philippines (FECOP) is the proposed Electric Cooperatives Insurance Society of the Philippines which will set up a P15 million insurance guarding fund. The federation which will integrate all electric cooperatives into a unified movement was conceived after a six-month study by the DAP.

July 7—

THE FIRST Lady presented to the Filipino people, through the President, the Folk Arts Theater which she called the "symbol of the unity of our race." With the opening of the theater, the First Lady stressed that the folk arts now have a permanent home, to serve in the "further consolidation of the Filipino spirit." The formal opening of the Folk Arts Theater was preceded by a spectacular two-and-a-half-hour pageant-parade in front of a presidential reviewing stand facing the theater.

BUREAU of Customs became the top revenue earner of the government last fiscal year with an unprecedented collection of P4.976 billion. This year's total customs collection exceeded last year's P2.09 billion by more than P2.75 billion, or by more than 131.75 per cent. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina said the total collection this fiscal, year “reflected the success of the bureau’s determined efforts fir maximize the efficiency of the service and achieve a new spirit of integrity, dedication and discipline among officers and men of the New Society.”

July 8—

THE PRESIDENT has earmarked a total of P5.3 billion as counterpart funds for 50 ongoing infrastructure projects with foreign loan components. The exact amount earmarked as counterpart funds for the foreign loans to complete the 50 ongoing infrastructure projects is P5,344,704,006.00.

July 9—

CENTRAL Bank has required anew the domestic private commercial banks to maintain a balanced foreign exchange position for every acceptable foreign currency other than the U.S. dollar. In a memorandum to agent banks, the CB also ruled that, effective immediately, they may, at their option, run and oversell or overbuy foreign exchange position in any of the acceptable foreign currencies in the normal course of their foreign exchange operations.

MINING firms are exempt from sand and gravel tax as prescribed under Section 10 of the Local Tax Code (PD 231). This was clarified in a ruling issued by Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata. Secretary Virata said since the mining of aggregates which includes sand and gravel as authorized under Placer Lease Contract issued by the Bureau of Mines comes within the legal contemplation of Section 5-m of the Local Tax Code as amended by PD 426, the imposition of the sand and gravel tax no longer holds valid in such operation.

July 10—

THE PRESIDENT has set aside 5,000 hectares as the site of a self-contained satellite city at the far outskirts of Antipolo, Rizal. Preliminary studies by the Housing and Urban Development Team envision a well-planned growth center outside of Metropolitan Manila. It will have all the necessary service facilities, and a well-balanced housing. Under Proclamation No. 1283, the townsite consists of 3,780 hectares segregated from the Marikina watershed reservation, plus 1,225 hectares of alienable and disposable land in Antipolo.

THE PRESIDENT pressed for the acceleration of nationwide rural electrification which, he said, is one of the most crucial phases in the economic development program of the country. Addressing presidents and general managers of Rural Electric Cooperatives at Malacañang, the President stressed the importance of providing cheap electric power, particularly in the outlying areas, as a means of improving the living conditions of the people. “As we move forward in our efforts at economic development, we must continuously support and press for the electrification of the rural areas which account for 70 per cent of our entire population”, the President said.

PROMOTION of 265 officers to full colonel in the armed forces effective May 1, 1974 has been approved by the President. Those promoted include 64 in the Philippine Army regular force and 15 in the reserve; 40 in the Philippine Army regular force, nine in the reserve, and two in the retired list; 49 regular Philippine Air Force officers and 19 reservists; three regular Philippine Navy officers (rank of captain) and 20 reservists; three regular Judge Advocate General Service officers and two reservists; 12 Medical Corps regular officers and six reservists; one regular officer of the Medical Administrative Corps; one Nurse Corp regular officer and six reservists; four Dental Corps regular officers and two reservists; two Chaplain Service regular officers and two reservists, and three Corps of Professors regular officers.

July 11—

THE PRESIDENT asked his economic advisers to draw up a program that would give the country the fullest benefits from science and technology. The President called for a comprehensive review and drastic revision of existing state policies that might have contributed to the slow growth of science in the country. In a three-hour meeting with his advisers in the National Economic and Development Authority, the President who is also the chairman of NEDA, said it was high time the government concerned itself with the growth of science, particularly in the field of gainful research.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad put in a good word for peace through love of books at ribbon-cutting ceremonies aboard the world-girdling library ship m.v. Logos. Secretary Tatad praised the work of the Logos, which brings a wide assortment of educational texts into many ports of the world. He said the plans of the Philippines for a wider book distribution have a source of inspiration in the Logos. The secretary represented the President in welcoming the Logos on its third visit to the Philippines. It first came here in July 1972 and was here again in August last year.

THE PRESIDENT expressed gratification over the continuing support given by the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines to the government's general effort at reform, as he swore in the chamber's new set of officers. The President expressed the hope that the CCP, along with other chambers in the Philippines, will coordinate with the government in the effort to solve the lack of trained technical personnel. In his report to the President, Dominador I. Lim, CCP president, said that the organization recognizes and fully subscribes to the social overtones of the Four-Year Development Plan, in the belief that man is the ultimate object of development. Mr. Lim said that during the 70th anniversary of the CCP last year, the organization raised P500.000 as a fund for the promotion of small and medium-scale industries.

SECURITIES and Exchange Commission reported a marked increase in the number of new companies and investments here in the fiscal year just past (July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974). During the 12-month period, the SEC said, close to P2 billion in new capital was invested in the country. The 2 billion consisted of P789 million in paid-up capital of 4,101 new domestic companies and 1,824 new partnerships and P1.2 billion in paid-up capital of 28 foreign companies registered with the SEC. The remarkable increase in investments during the period reflected the bullish climate for investment and improved confidence of business men and foreign investors. The sharp rise in investments was also in response to the various investment, economic, financial and banking reforms undertaken by the New Society, the SEC reported.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 26—

THE PRESIDENT authorized, the Central Bank to build an international conference center and bring Manila a step closer to becoming the financial center of Asia. Under Presidential Decree No. 520, the CB will organize and capitalize an independent corporation to operate the conference complex to be named the Manila International Conference Center. The giant joint conference of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank scheduled in Manila in 1976 will be hosted by the center. A portion of the reclamation area near the Cultural Center of the Philippines is being eyed by the CB as site for the conference center which will be one of the most modern of its kind in the world.

THE PRESIDENT hailed the 10 outstanding Ilocanos who received the "Tawid" (Heritage) awards for 1973 and said they reflected the "new achieving spirit" of the Filipino and the transformation of our moral and spiritual infrastructure under the New Society. The President's speech was read for him by Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, Medicare chairman, before a distinguished Ilocano audience that gathered at the Cultural Center's Little Theater for ceremonies held once every two years under the auspices of the Ilocano Heritage Foundation. The President pointed out that the key factors in the national drive for reforms are not only natural resources and capital wealth. "We have to strengthen our national character, firm up the collective backbone," he said. He was happy to observe that the Ilocano pioneering spirit and habits of frugality and industry have become a part of the national character.

July 27—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the payment of 10 percent salary increases to officers and enlisted men of the Armed Forces of the Philippines effective July 1. Earlier, the President also authorized a 10 percent across-the-board salary increases to officials and employees of the national government to cushion the effects of the rising cost of living. He also urged private companies to follow the move taken by the government and on their own initiative grant salary increases to their employees.

DEPARTMENT of Trade laid down a six-point program for the current year in an effort to further intensify government efforts to promote foreign trade. The six-point program, designed to provide the best framework for carrying out the promotional drive, included: 1) Encouraging the coming into the country of more trade missions and the sending of local trade missions in priority areas abroad; 2) Intensification of the market research program; 3) Stepped-up trade information both here and abroad on local products; 4) Expansion of foreign markets for traditional and non-traditional Philippine products; 5) Rationalization of export transport policy through the pooling of exports, bulk imports and shipping facilities; and 6) Establishment and support of Philippine Houses in key cities of the world to serve as display and sales centers for locally-made products.

SECURITIES and Exchange Commission disclosed that 52 firms whose stocks are listed in the country's stock exchanges declared a total of P948 million in cash, stock and property dividends last year. The declaration of dividends is pursuant to the government policy of diffusing inequability private ownership and profits. Based on the figures released by the SEC, these companies paid a total of P413 in cash dividends, P489 million in stock dividends and P25 million in property dividends. Of the 52 firms, the top 10 corporations declared cash stock dividends amounting to P831 million.

July 28—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the construction of small airstrips along national highways in strategic sections of the country to link up urban and rural communities. The scheme calls for the construction of extra lanes every hundred kilometers or so along highways, on which light planes could land and take off. According to the President, the airstrips could also be used for emergency landings specially for light aircraft which usually are not equipped with adequate air navigational facilities; He said that the landing airstrips could facilitate the inspection of various ongoing infrastructure projects all over the country. The President issued the order during a conference with Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., Secretary of Health Clemente Gatmaitan, and Secretary of Public Highways Baltazar Aquino.

THE GOVERNMENT has broadened its fertilizer policy to apply the privilege of tax exemption to locally procured fertilizer or fertilizer inputs, under recently issued Presidential Decree No. 517. Under earlier PD 135, which PD 517 amends, the privilege was limited to imported fertilizer and fertilizer inputs. Additionally, the new decree extends the period during which the Fertilizer Industry Authority can purchase tax-free fertilizer or fertilizer inputs either here or abroad, from two years (PD 135) to five years. This will give the FIA added flexibility in procuring fertilizer in view of foreseeable continued tight supply. PD 517 specifically applies the tax exemption to naphtha, a fertilizer input that is locally processed from imported crude.

THE PRESIDENT appointed three highly experienced educators to the helm of three government technological institutions to further boost administration efforts to promote vocational education in the country. Appointed were: 1) Antonio T. Federizo as acting president of the Bulacan College of Arts and Trade (BCAT); 2) Jack Smith as acting president of the Tarlac College of Technology; 3) Dr. Paulino L. Villagonzalo as acting president of the Polompon Institute of Technology.

DEPARTMENT of Public Highways announced the launching of a P10 million feeder road program. Public Highways Secretary Baltazar Aquino said most of the farm-to-market roads would be built in Central Luzon to boost the main thoroughfares being constructed with the $68 million loan from the World Bank. The National Government had earlier allotted P60 million for feeder roads in other parts of the country, adding that some P60 million more would go to secondary roads to support main thoroughfares.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture urged private educational institutions to set up pension plans for some 55,000 academic and non-academic personnel. Director Julian Yballe of the Bureau of Private Schools said the need is for private institutions to guarantee employee retirement, disability and death benefits which would supplement benefits they get from their membership in the Social Security System. Earlier, DEC Secretary Juan Manuel had recommended a pension plan as a legitimate application of salary increases and other benefits schools would be required to give their personnel under Presidential Decree No. 451 which lifted the ban on tuition fee increases.

July 29—

CITY judges were granted salary increases by the President. Presidential Decree No. 516 signed by the President fixed the salaries of judges in the cities of Manila, Quezon, Caloocan, Pasay, Baguio and Cebu at P35,000 annually. Judges in second and third class cities will be paid P25,000 and the rest will get P20,000. One of the reasons for the salary increases was the removal of income tax exemption privilege from members of the judiciary which they enjoyed before the new Constitution took effect. Earlier, salaries of court of first instance judges also were raised to P40,000 a year.

DEPARTMENT of Trade created a committee to assist prospective buyers of subdivision lots. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. made this move due to mounting complaints against owners and or developers of subdivision lots not only in the Greater Manila area but also in other parts of the country. Specifically, the committee was assigned to advise prospective buyers of subdivision lots before entering or signing the proposed contracts so as to avoid misunderstanding between the buyers and the subdivision owners.

DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs announced the establishment of a Philippine consulate in Port Moresby, capital of Papua New Guinea. The new consulate, to be headed by Consul Ruben Mendoza, will initially service the needs of the continually increasing Filipino community in the country. The Foreign Office said there are now some 300 Filipinos in Papua New Guinea.

July 30—

THE PRESIDENT accepted an offer of the Philippine Ambassadors Association to assist the government in its many projects. Former Ambassador Emilio Abello, president of the association, relayed the offer to the President during the induction of PAA officers by the Chief Executive at Malacañang. Mr. Abello told the President that the association was organized not merely for the purpose of getting together “but, more important, to offer you and your government whatever services we can do to assist you in the administration of the affairs of the state.”

MONETARY Board authorized the progressive increases in the interest rates for savings and time deposits but stayed the lending charges at 12 and 14 per cent. Under the new rates, saving deposits in thrift banks (savings banks, rural banks, and loan and savings associations) will now earn 6.5 percent interest annually; 8.5 percent on 90-day deposit; nine percent on 180 days; 10 percent on 360 days; and 11.5 per cent for time deposit on two years. Beyond two years, there will be no interest ceiling. Interest payments will depend on the prevailing market rates. With respect to savings on commercial banks, the interest rate remains at six percent. To encourage the small depositors, the interest rates on savings balances of not less than P200 will be 8 to 8.5 percent which is equivalent to the yield on the 90-day deposits.

THE PRESIDENT received New Zealand Defense Minister Arthur J. Faulkner who had come over on a three-day official visit. The visiting official informed the President that he was looking into the advisability of New Zealand's setting up a permanent embassy in Manila next year, and the Philippines' setting up its permanent embassy in Wellington. The President and Mr. Faulkner also exchanged views on worldwide inflation, food and fuel shortage as well as developments in the Pacific area.

DEPARTMENT of Trade approved the exportation of crude coconut oil valued at $2,760,000 to the People's Republic of China. The export transaction approved by Secretary of Trade Toadio T. Quiazon, Jr. was concluded by Legaspi Oil Compny Inc. of Makati and the National Cereals, Oils and Foodstuff Import and Export Corp. of Peking, China. This new export to China was the second to be approved in one week by the department.

NATIONAL Grains Authority expanded its cereal buying program to include four other staple crops. NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco said the agency would buy mongo, corn, soybeans and sorghum from farmers at government support prices through the Samahang Nayon and from farmers cooperatives accredited by the Department of Local Government and Community Development. Mr. Tanchanco said that NGA would procure these commodities on a cash basis at government support prices of P31 per cavan of corn of 50 kilos, P31 per cavan of sorghum and P110 per cavan of soybeans. The price support for mongo will be announced later, he added. To boost the country's cereal stocks, the government had earlier launched a comprehensive palay buying program.

THE PRESIDENT decreed the mandatory payment of emergency allowances to workers in the private sector effective August 1 to enable them to cope with the rising cost of living. Presidential Decree No. 525 required all employers who have not paid employees emergency allowances in accordance with Letter of Instructions No. 174, shall pay their employees receiving less than P600 a month a monthly emergency allowance of P50 each if their capitalization is more than P1 million; P30 a month if their capitalization is more than P100,000 but not exceeding P1 million; and P15 a month if their capitalization is P100,000 or less. The decree does not apply to severely distressed industries, as defined by the Department of Labor.

DEPARTMENT of Labor's Region IV announced the payment of a total of P33,705,881 in compensation benefits to nearly 10,000 workers during fiscal year 1973-74. In a report to Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople, Region IV Administrator David P. San Pedro said the amount increased by P4.9 million over the previous year's total. He said 9,589 workers benefited from the payments as compared to 9,135 beneficiaries in the preceding year. A total of P39,504,612 in restitutions of various benefits to some 14,500 workers was paid by the regional office during the period, according to Administrator San Pedro.

GUIDELINES for the prompt disposition of compensation cases pending before the workmen's compensation units in the Workmen's Compensation Commission and in the 12 labor regional offices were issued by the Department of Labor. Department Order No. 3, which was issued by Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople, provides that amicable settlement of all claims shall be free and voluntary, written in a language known to parties, and final and binding between them. The order likewise provides that should the parties fail to arrive at a settlement, a decision shall be rendered within three working days thereafter if the evidence on record is sufficient to support the decision. Otherwise, the case shall be heard and decided on the merits.

July 31—

THE PRESIDENT urged the timber producing members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations or ASEAN to coordinate their policies to stabilize the world market for wood products in the face of erratic business conditions. He made the appeal in a speech before the 14th annual assembly of Philippine Lumbermen at the Philippine Village Hotel in Pasay City.

DEPARTMENT of Health was ordered by the President to launch a nation-wide drive against dirty facilities used in catering to tourists and other travellers. Signing Presidential Decree No. 22, the Chief Executive directed the secretary of health to organize a system of supervision and enforcement of sanitation rules to insure basic facilities for the health and convenience of tourists and to project a favorable image of the country and its people. Under the decree, violators will be fined from P2,000 to P5,000 or penalized with from two to five years imprisonment or both fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

LOCAL Tax Code and the Real Property Tax Code have been pointed to as heavy contributors to the rapid development of local government financial structures. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata, in a speech delivered at the provincial Development Project Convention, said that the rates of taxes as provided in the Local Tax Code give the local government the necessary leeway so that taxation can be used as an instrument for the establishment of more business and industry. He urged the provincial authorities to undertake more infrastructure projects in order to hasten the economic and social development in the provinces, particularly in the countryside.

IMMIGRATION and Deportation Commissioner Edmundo M. Reyes underscored the role of tourism in promoting greater international understanding. Tourism, he said, is the most potent influence in the emergence of a new robust process of people-to-people communication in the world. He noted that tourist promotion in Asia is now being undertaken to a greater extent than in the past by its own people. By bringing people close together, Commissioner Reyes said, tourism also boosts international trade and commerce. This it does, he said, by creating “a healthy and congenial psychological climate for the exchange of goods and services.”

NATIONAL Science Development Board honored 14 Filipino scientists and researchers who have contributed to the enrichment of scientific knowledge towards the realization of the development goals of the New Society. The awardees, six of which were cited for their scientific research and eight for their published works, were presented plaques by NSDB Chairman Florencio A. Medina in a fitting ceremony held at Club Filipino in San Juan, Rizal. Among the awardees were F. Landa Jocano, Benjamin Cabrera, Josefina Gonzales, Carmen Velasquez and Augusto Litonjua.

President's Week in Review: August 2-8, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 2—

THE PRESIDENT told some 100 heads of delegation to two world Chinese conferences in Manila that the free enterprise policy of the government has made it easy for foreign businessmen to enter the country. The two conferences were the Sixth World Chinese Banking Amity Conference and the Fourth World Chinese Tourism Amity Conference whose delegation heads paid a courtesy call on the Chief Executive. The President explained that before the new policy foreign businessmen, especially Chinese nationals, found it very difficult to enter the Philippines.

MANILA office of the Philippine Amanah Bank at Doña Amparo Building on España was inaugurated by the President with the First Lady cutting the ceremonial ribbon. Diplomatic representatives of four Muslim countries—Indonesia, Malaysia, Saudi Arabia and Egypt—witnessed the affair, described by the President as yet another indication of the government's policy to achieve national unity. "The success of this bank will mean the acceleration of the social, economic and political progress of Mindanao and will make our Muslim brothers equal partners of their brethren in Luzon and the Visayas in the adventure of nation-building," the President declared.

CENTRAL Bank reiterated that the country welcomes more foreign investments in the newly-liberalized areas of the Philippine economy. CB Governor Gregorio S. Licaros said these liberalized areas are economic ventures listed by the Board of Investments for Filipinos' major participation. The CB official said that after three years from the date the projects are listed in the BOI's annual investments priorities plans and the measured capacities are not applied for by Filipinos, the same areas of investments are opened 100 per cent to foreign investors. Aside from this, Governor Licaros said that full foreign ownership is possible in industries included in the Export Priorities Plan and those industries included in the pioneer areas of investments as defined in the investment Priorities Plan.

DEPARTMENT of Labor called on Philippine organized labor to avoid being drawn into "trade union wars" which could have an unsettling effect on the labor relations and industrial productivity. In a meeting with leaders of major labor federations, Secretary Blas F. Ople stated that they should instead seek an orderly restructuring into responsible industrial unions in accordance with the New Labor Code. Mr. Ople who called "trade union warfare" as "wasteful and counter-productive" said the government support of trade union unification and restructuring was based on the principle that a "reorganized trade union movement would pursue policies in harmony with the priorities of national development and with regard for our competitive position in the world."

August 3—

PROMOTIONS for 1,616 officers in the Armed Forces of the Philippines, ranking from full colonel down to first lieutenant, were approved by the President. These promotions were based on recommendations of various AFC promotions boards with favorable endorsements by the AFP chief of staff and the secretary of national defense. The President said that the qualifications and fitness of officers recommended by the boards for promotion but whose names are not included in the released list, are still being studied and evaluated.

DEPARTMENT of Finance said that P57.4 million worth of Premyo savings bonds was sold by the Securities Servicing Department of the Central Bank during its first day of public offering held last August 1. The brisk sale of the bonds was mainly attributed to the enthusiastic response of the people on the new government savings program. The CB reported that the biggest buyers were the commercial banks which, in turn, will sell these bonds to their clients or individual buyers.

August 4—

THE PRESIDENT required aliens seeking entry or permanent residence in the country under the provisions of the Immigration Act to pay higher fees. Signing Presidential Decree No. 524, the Chief Executive raised 33 specific fees collectible from such aliens. These fees, originally fixed in 1940 were last raised in 1950. Religious missionaries admitted into the country as aliens are exempt from payment of monthly extension fees payable by temporary visitors. Foreign government officials, their families, attendants, household helps and employees, and non-immigrants in transit to a destination outside the Philippines are also exempt from paying their passport visas.

DEPARTMENT of Trade stressed that the long-term solution to the rapidly-spiralling of price of prime commodities is the expansion in production and increase in productivity. Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., who is concurrently Chairman of the Price Control Council, asserted this as he discussed the rationale behind the government pricing policy. The trade official explained that the price control being instituted by the government is only an interim measure to discourage price manipulation and speculation. He said that the real factors that would cushion the impact of prices are the intensification of food production, expansion of exports, and the development of alter native sources of energy, among others.

MALACANANG, through Assistant Executive Secretary Ronaldo Zamora, ruled that apartment owners are prohibited from charging new or incoming lessees rentals higher than those paid by previous lessees during the effectivity of an existing presidential decree on rentals. The ruling was handed down by Secretary Zamora in reply to an inquiry sent to Public Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad by an apartment dweller in Paco, Manila. The opinion was a clarification of Presidential Decree No. 20, freezing rentals for lower-income groups. In his opinion, Secretary Zamora said that all the unauthorized increases in rentals must be refunded or applied to future payments of the lessors.

BUREAU of Standards has promulgated new standard code for food processing establishments and the processing and handling of frozen foods, the Department of Trade announced. The new standard code contains the guidelines for the production of quick frozen foods to maintain the latter's quality particularly those for export. Specifically, the new code provides for the direct supervision and control of food processing establishments so that proper care in the environmental and personal hygiene requirements in these firms for the protection of the consumers are complied with strictly.

DEPARTMENT of Labor prodded sugar cane planters to give plantation workers the benefits due them under an existing social amelioration fund. In a meeting with representatives of the sugar industry, Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople noted that reports from the department's Bacolod City office indicated that "certain" planters had refused to distribute the amelioration fund to their workers. Under the amelioration fund planters would help the workers through cash bonuses and amelioration projects based on an assessment of P0.90 per picul of sugar determined by the Sugar Quota Administration.

PHILIPPINES and West Germany signed an agreement to train Filipino military personnel in West Germany starting this year. Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo and Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile signed the agreement for the Philippines, while German Ambassador to the Philippines Baren von Buddenbrock signed for West Germany. The grantees will study in the German Army Command and General Staff College, which is equivalent to Fort Bonifacio's Army College. The grantees will be provided with accommodation, food, clothing and personal needs in barracks. The requirement for grantees is to know German.

August 5—

THE PRESIDENT directed barangay and barrio officials to help regular police agencies in the maintenance of peace and order in their respective communities. The President's order was embodied in Presidential Decree No. 528 which declared as a matter of government policy that these local officials took a more active part in peace-keeping duties of the barangay and barrio officials. To give teeth to the decree, the President ordered that barrio leaders who, without justifiable cause, fail to furnish police agencies with the necessary assistance, be made liable for a six-month to one year imprisonment and perpetual disqualification from public office.

SECURITIES and Exchange Commission disclosed that the total foreign investments pumped into the country last year amounted to P64 million. The figure is 185 percent higher than the P22 million combined paid-up capital of corporations organized during the preceding year. The SEC statistics also showed that a big chunk of the investments was siphoned into the various commercial activities. The next biggest investments were channelled to the manufacturing sector.

BOARD of Investments said that 266 BOI-registered firms invested an aggregate amount of P5.9 billion as of September, 1973. The BOI said that these projects, registered under the Investment Incentives Act, have contributed to the country's overall economic development efforts. Of these projects, 125 were agro-based; 48 were engaged in the manufacture of chemicals and chemical-based products; 24 in mining and mineral processing and 54 were in the engineering field. The BOI said that foreign equity participation in the BOI-registered firms totalled P322 million or 21.1 percent of the total subscribed capital. Among the foreign investors, the Americans appeared on top by contributing 61.1 percent of the total foreign equity participation.

August 6—

THE PRESIDENT granted another incentive to oil explorers when he authorized the tax-free importation of machinery and equipment, spare parts, and materials required in oil explorations. The same privilege and been previously granted by Presidential Decree No. 87 to contractors, all of them aliens, entering into service contracts with local concessionaires. Under Presidential Decree No. 529, the President decreed that explorers should enjoy the same exemptions in the payment of customs duties and compensating tax. Earlier, the government also had provided other incentives to oil explorers, like the repatriation of capital and profits.

FOREIGN Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo called on Asians to end the "slavish imitation" of the past and solve their own problems with methods relevant to their experience. Speaking before the faculty and student body of the Seoul National University in South Korea, Secretary Romulo observed that Asian nations are in varying stages of modernization which indubitably calls for new institutions. He recalled that in the past, Asian countries had adopted models imported from the West in the hope that they would fit "the unique situations in which we now find ourselves."

CENTRAL Bank allocated an additional fund (credit) amounting to $25 million to cover the importation of the country's textile and tobacco manufacturing industries. The import fund will be used for the importation of raw cotton and unmanufactured tobacco to meet the raw-material requirements of the covered industries during the rest of the year. The Monetary Board which approved the resolution for the allocation of the fund said that the credit line will take effect immediately and will be available to textile firms and tobacco manufacturers up to June 30, 1975.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission required clinics and hospitals to become members of the Philippine Hospitals Association before they can participate in the Medicare program. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that the PMCC passed the resolution in the wake of reports that some hospitals were allegedly charging Medicare patients exorbitantly or were committing abuses and showing, non-cooperation with the Medicare program. Dr. Marcos, however, said the PMCC will allow non-PHA member hospitals and clinics reasonable time urged to immediately provide the provincial or city Board of Assessment may be sent either in person or by mail to the PHA's headquarters at the GSIS Hospital, Quezon City, or to its provincial or city chapters.

DEPARTMENT of Finance acted to facilitate decisions on contested real property assessments. In a letter to Secretary Jose Roño of the Department of Local Government and Community Development, Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata suggested that provincial governors, provincial boards, city mayors, and municipal boards or city councils be urged to immediately provide the provincial or city board of Assessment Appeals sufficient appropriations for the purchase of office equipment, supplies and materials, communication, travel and transportation facilities including per diems in order to perform their functions efficiently. He also stressed that the provincial or city Board of Assessment Appeals should be provided with office spaces for hearing purposes inasmuch as the Board has only 120 days within which to decide numerous appeals involving contested appeals on assessments of real properties

DEPARTMENT of Agriculture announced the creation of a citizens' complaints unit to attend to complaints relating to the activities of its bureaus and agencies. Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., said the unit will absorb the functions of the citizens' complaints section which was recently abolished. The new unit will bring complaints to the attention of heads of bureaus or agencies. It will also adopt and follow a systematic method of reporting so that the office of the secretary is properly informed of the progress and actions taken on the complaints and to inform the complainants.

August 7—

THE PHILIPPINES and the United States concluded a loan agreement under which the US government will grant an additional $18-million loan for the rural electrification program of the country. The President and US Ambassador William H. Sullivan signed for their respective governments. Chairman Ramon Ravanzo of the Board of the National Electrification Administration and Director Thomas Niblock of the US Agency for International Development acted as co-signers. The loan, payable in 30 years at three percent interest with a grace period of 10 years at two percent interest, will finance the costs of materials and equipment for 15 additional electric cooperatives.

CENTRAL Bank issued guidelines for the establishment of money shops by banks. Under the guidelines, banking institutions qualified to set up money shops in the markets are stock savings and loan associations, commercial, savings, and development banks which should be at least 70 percent Filipino-owned. The setting up of money shops in the markets is designed to check loan sharks' who lend money to stall holders at exorbitant interests. Money shops lend money to stall holders up to P10,000 each with 14 percent interest per annum.

August 8—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the integration of the police forces, fire departments and jails in 17 provinces. The Chief Executive announced this in Camp Crame in the course of his speech keynoting the 73rd anniversary of the Philippine Constabulary. He said the police forces, fire departments and jails would be integrated in the provinces of Benguet, La Union, Bataan, Rizal (except those cities and towns already integrated under the Metropolitan Police Force), Cavite, Batangas, Quezon, Iloilo (including Guimaras), Negros Occidental, Negros Oriental, Leyte, Davao del Norte, Davao del Sur, Davao Oriental, Lanao del Norte and Lanao del Sur.

President's Week in Review: August 9-15, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 9—

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 513 providing a system for the proper recording and keeping of mining documents. Under this decree, registers of deeds in every provincial capital or city will continue to act as ex-officio mining recorders. But their work will be limited to the registration of mining instruments (except original declarations of location) relating to mining claims located prior to May 18, 1974 under Commonwealth Act No. 137. These ex-officio mining recorders shall be responsible for the safekeeping of such recorded documents in their custody and the issuance of certified true copies thereof, subject to payment of fees to accrue to the province or city concerned for the maintenance of the office of the mining recorder. Mining instruments registered under Presidential Decree No. 463 after May 18, 1974 shall be recorded with the Bureau of Mines regional officers (four of them) and such persons as may be appointed or designated by the mines director. The director shall be responsible for the proper recording of such documents and shall issue forms and regulations as are required to implement Presidential Decree No. 513.

DEPARTMENT of Finance said that domestic labor earned P85 million in the processing and manufacture of embroideries and garments for export during the 1973-74 fiscal year. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that the labor intensive industry's earnings during the period was 83 percent higher than the previous year's earnings of only P47 million. The finance official said that the significant increase in the operations of embroidery firms is due to several reasons such as the favorable climate for investments, full government assistance and incentives in the form of tax exemptions and tax credits on certain importations, and the presence of skilled and comparatively cheap labor supply.

TO ASSURE the continuity of the supply of wheat and ensure the price stability for the industry and consuming public, the Central Bank approved a foreign exchange outlay of $68 million to cover the wheat importation of local flour milling industry. The CB said that the out lay which will be in the form of a credit line provided by the United States' Commercial Credit Corp. will be used solely by the country's flour millers for the importation of their wheat requirements for the first semester of 1975. The Monetary Board okayed the outlay upon the recommendation of the Development Bank of the Philippines, the agency that approves all the applications of the industry for the opening of the letter of credit and the purchase of foreign exchange for the importation of wheat.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism adopted rules and regulations governing the management and operation of hotels all over the country. With the adoption of the rules and regulations, the Philippines became one of the few countries in the world to implement such requirements. Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras signed the hotel code in the presence of leading hostelry operators and other members of the local tourism industry. Under the' new code, hotels will be classified according to the star system, ranging from one star (economy class) to five stars (deluxe class) subject to demerits or reclassification. All hotels will be required to register with the Department of Tourism for licensing purposes, subject to ocular inspection.

August 10—

"JEEPNEY Cooperatives" experiment will no longer be confined to the Greater Manila area. Under the new setup, the same guidance and assistance extended by the government to Manila drivers will be given to provincial drivers desiring to organize their own transport cooperatives. Metropolitan Manila area, however, remains the priority area for the establishment of transport cooperatives. The widening of the experiment's coverage is in response to pleas from various drivers' groups in the provinces, following the success of the idea in the Greater Manila. Another innovation introduced is the broadening of the membership base for the cooperatives, to include not only drivers but also owners, operators and workers in the transport industry. The changes are embodied in Memorandum Order No. 438, issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor upon the President's authority. Memorandum Order No. 438 broadens the scope of Memorandum Order No. 395 which created a committee, headed by Asst. Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, to study ways and means to encourage the organization of transport cooperatives.

August 11—

THE PRESIDENT issued three presidential decrees imposing death penalty for four more crimes—piracy, highway robbery, cattle rustling and illegal fishing. Presidential Decree No. 532, the Anti-Piracy Law, imposes the death penalty for piracy if murder or homicide is committed as a result or on the occasion of the piracy, or when the offenders abandon their victims without means of saving themselves. Presidential Decree No. 533, the Anti-Cattle Rustling Law, provides the penalty of life imprisonment to death if a person is injured or killed as a result or on the occasion of the commission of cattle rustling. Presidential Decree No. 534, or the Anti-Illegal Fishing Law, also imposes penalties up to death on fishermen who use explosives or poisonous substances in their operations and if such use leads to the loss of lives.

DRASTICALLY liberalized and comprehensive investment incentive scheme was offered by the government to the tourism industry when the President signed Presidential Decree No. 535, otherwise known as the Tourism Investment Program of 1974. Some of the incentives are designed to make investments in hotels and tourism-oriented facilities more attractive while others are meant to attract foreign investors and foreign financing into the Philippines. The incentives are available to Filipino-owned enterprises, or those controlled by Filipinos to the extent of at least 60 percent, whose foreign exchange earnings in the year during which the incentives are granted are at least 50 percent, if they are in the Greater Manila, and are at least 35 percent in the case of those outside Manila.

DEVELOPMENT Bank of the Philippines has taken another step to revive the abaca industry as one of the country's major crops. The DBP said it increased the loan ceilings of abaca projects from P2,500 per hectare to P5,000 per hectare for new projects and to P3,000 per hectare for the rehabilitation of existing projects. The DBP indicated that the amended credit assistance is designed not only to revitalize the abaca industry, but also to make the lending program of the bank more responsive to the needs of the farmers.

August 12—

THE PRESIDENT signed Presidential Decree No. 537 ordering the organization of municipal circuit courts out of the 1,444 existing municipal courts all over the country. The Chief Executive decreed the formation of municipal circuit courts to effect savings in government operations through the abolition of dormant municipal courts. In signing the decree, the President pointed out that a number of municipal courts did not receive a single case for investigation or trial during fiscal year 1971-72 and a still much bigger number received not more than 60 cases during the same period. The Supreme Court was vested with the power and function of carrying out the organization of municipal circuit courts as envisioned by Presidential Decree No. 537 through implementing orders on a province to province basis.

PHILIPPINE National Bank disclosed that the Government earned a total of P129 million in the form of taxes, licenses, inspection fees and specific taxes from the tobacco industry in 1973. The bank's statistics also showed that last year, the farmers produced 64,700 metric tons of tobacco valued at P175 million, placing tobacco in the third slot among the country's commercial crops. As such more than two million people are directly or indirectly dependent on the industry either as producers, factory workers and others involved in the transportation, distribution, and marketing of leaf tobacco and tobacco products.

THE GOVERNMENT "intends to break the psychology that sustains the inflation in the Philippines without resorting to drastic measures," According to the Central Bank. CB Governor Gregorio Licaros said that inflation and high prices are the twin problems that beset the world's economies today. For the Philippine economy, Governor Licaros stated that among the measures instituted by the CB in a bid to cushion the impact of inflation are the freezing of house rentals below P300 and the allocation of a certain percentage of production of exportable items for domestic markets so as not to dislocate the local supply-demand situation.

August 13—

THE PRESIDENT directed stricter enforcement of existing laws and rules and the adoption of more forceful measures to stabilize the prices of prime commodities, particularly foodstuff, by narrowing the price gap between producers and consumers; Presiding over a meeting of the National Economic Development “Authority at Malacañang, the President directed the reduction of the number of middlemen dealing in these goods and the regulation of their profits within reasonable levels. He traced the increased markup in the prices of commodities, especially foodstuff, in the urban communities like Greater Manila, to the fact that these commodities pass through many hands before reaching the consumer.

THE PRESIDENT called on the Filipino people to help promote national unity through a more intensified propagation of the national language. In a speech read for him by Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople at the start of the observance of National Language Week at La Consolacion College auditorium, the President stressed that unification efforts would be incomplete without the full development of a national language. In line with this policy, the Chief Executive urged the Department of Education and Culture to intensify the development of Pilipino and to oversee the implementation of the approved bilingual system of instruction for the country’s schools. The bilingual system, which calls for the use of both Pilipino and English as medium of instruction from the grades up to the university level, is being gradually implemented starting this schoolyear.

THE PRESIDENT moved to facilitate the establishment of a 3,000-hectare iron and steel complex in Villanueva, Misamis Oriental. The first step is the lease of a 138-hectare site for the P1 .5-billion iron ore sintering plant to be put up by the Kawazaki Steel Corp., the Japanese industrial giant that will process five million tons of raw iron ore initially a year for Kawazaki’s requirements in Japan and ultimately will also provide for a projected integrated steel industry in the Philippines. The integrated steel complex will be located in an 800-hectare lot adjoining the Kawazaki project. These two projects will be the core’ of the 3,000-hectare industrial complex under the Phividec Industrial Authority, which the President created.

CENTRAL BANK adopted new rules to boost further the stock transaction of foreign investors who have bought CB-approved Philippine securities traded in the local stock exchanges. Under the new rules, foreign investors may re-invest the peso proceeds from the sale of the securities they held to other CB-approved securities without necessarily keeping themselves within the limitations imposed by the CB. One of the limitations that the CB has removed was the 15-day limit or period within which to re-invest the proceeds they realized from their initial investments in CB-approved securities. As a result of this, foreign investors can take enough time to select the stock they desire to buy.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture approved the implementing guidelines for the revised secondary education program which cover such areas as the nomenclature of subjects, class scheduling, teaching load, student promotion and classification, grading periods, practical arts requirements, electives, instructional materials, guidance programs and other curricular offerings. The revised program, being implemented this schoolyear, has two essential features: the integration of academic and vocational courses in all levels in secondary education and the scheduling of classes patterned after college. Under the new class schedule the 40 minutes every subject daily schedule has been scrapped and the new one-hour scheduling of subject may now be implemented.

August 14—

THE PRESIDENT simplified the system of valuation of real property left by deceased persons by doing away with the present method of having two sets of valuation, one by local assessors and the other by the real property valuation committee operating under the Department of Finance. Presidential Decree No. 539 provides that “the estate shall be appraised at its fair market value as of the time of the death or as on six months thereafter, at the election of the executor or administrator, using for the purpose the current and fair market value as reflected in the schedules of values prepared by the provincial and city assessors pursuant to Commonwealth Act No. 170, as amended by Presidential Decree Nos. 76 and 261.”

BOARD of Investments ruled that foreign-owned firms existing prior to the enactment of the Foreign Business Regulation Law (RA 5455) in 1968, are not subject to the provision of the law. The investment body said that existing firms which are engaged in domestic operations may expand their operations without seeking prior authority from the BOI provided that the expansion is financed out of the internally-generated funds such as the declaration of stock dividends. Foreign-owned firms which have limited their manufacturing and marketing operations in the domestic market must raised their additional capital out of their own resources or other local resources.

NATIONAL Science Development Board announced that it had completed 116 research and development projects during the 1973-74 period. The list of accomplishments submitted by NSDB Chairman Florencio Medina to Malacañang included the fields of agriculture and natural resources, engineering and trade, new sources of energy, food, medicine and nutrition, inventions, science, education and science projects. The accomplishment report also gave emphasis on the initial success chalked up by the government in solving the problems of bringing remote communities and barrios "closer to the 20th century."

August 15—

THE PRESIDENT approved the holding of two more international conferences in the Philippines. The first conference that of the International Conference on the Development of Tourism and Air Transport, will be held in February next year. The second conference, whose date has not yet been decided, will be participated in by developing countries in Asia. The conference on tourism and air transport will be attended by some 300 presidents of national airlines, ministers or directors general of tourism and government authorities. They will assess the effects of inflation on tourism and air travel, and seek common solutions.

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that the example set by the participants to the 12th World Junior Chess Championship would be emulated by the world's younger generations. The President made the statement before the participants who called on him at Malacañang. He said that "perhaps, it is these younger generations which some day will see the dream of man attained, when mankind will have become one human family." In the past, the President noted, man had been prevented from uniting into one family by hatreds, conflicts and differences. The Chief Executive said that by their example, chess players have shown the world's younger generations that they can get together in an age of confusion and violence, to participate in a tournament that "tests your minds, talents and capability."

President's Week in Review: August 16-22, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 16—

THE PRESIDENT said that the government has adopted an economic policy that is energetic and persevering in the pursuit of national goals, and adaptive and responsive in changing situations. Addressing the closing session of the 21st National Convention of Manufacturers and Producers at Maharlika Hall in Malacañang, the President said the objectives of this policy continue to be the increase of domestic production, and the moderation of inflation concurrent with the distribution of income. The President pledged that in the pursuance of these objectives, the government will use all mechanisms available, including but not confined to, the regulation of money supply and credit, as well as fiscal, diplomatic and trade instruments.

SECRETARY of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo announced that the Philippines and Thailand have called for a conference of Southeast Asian nations to constitute an Asian Forum to discuss and tackle problems of vital interest to the region. In a joint communique signed in Bangkok, Thailand by Secretary Romulo and Thai Foreign Minister Charunphan Isarangkun Na Ayuthaya, the two foreign ministers stressed the need for evolving a Southeast Asian community "viable and strong enough to remain independent" if the region is to achieve integrated political and economic power. The communique also reiterated the Philippines' and Thailand's firm adherence to the ideals and principles of the ASEAN declaration to intensify ASEAN collaboration in all fields of common endeavor.

August 17—

THE PRESIDENT called a meeting of the National Disaster Control Committee in view of the extensive floods in Luzon provinces caused by the intermittently heavy rains the past few days. He also sent Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Jr. and Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile to make an on-the-spot inspection in Central Luzon. In other moves, the President ordered the release of P2 million to the Department of Social Welfare for the extension of relief aid to flood victims. Likewise, the President released P5 million from the Special Highways Fund for contingencies.

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System disclosed that its assets hit the P4 million mark in Fiscal Year 1973-74. The figure is 10 percent more than the preceding year's total of P3.4 million, or an additional amount of P393 million earned during the period in review. GSIS General Manager Roman Cruz Jr. said that the increase in assets is due to the full implementation of reforms in GSIS finances, operations and services. As a result of the increase in the total assets, correspondingly the total investments rose from the 1972-73 figure of P2.5 million to P2.8 million or an increase of 9.7 percent during the period in review. Bulk of these investments were in the form of service loans extended to members. Also, the GSIS financed low cost housing projects.

BUREAU of Customs adopted the concept of one arrastre contractor per pier at the North Harbor to pinpoint responsibility and increase efficiency. This is the second part of a three-phase move conceived last year by labor and customs officials in a bid to have the entire Manila domestic port serviced by a group of new arrastre contractors. Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina, who signed the contract papers of the arrastre firms said the eight contractors will service the eight piers of North Harbor with a 10,000-man labor force. Commissioner Geotina, In signing the contract, warned that the bureau would cancel the efficacies of the instrument should it discover that the arrastre and stevedoring firm violate any of the two-point conditions set. He said "these are the rendition of an efficient and effective service and the full satisfaction of what is rightfully due the 10,000 waterfront workers and laborers at the North Harbor."

August 18—

STATE of public calamity was proclaimed by the President in Greater Manila and 13 provinces in Luzon where floods spawned by heavy rains had wrought widespread destruction in these places. The President announced the emergency measure after meeting with his Cabinet in Malacañang. The provinces covered by the proclamation were Rizal, Tarlac, Pampanga, Bulacan, Nueva Ecija, Bataan, Zambales, Lagtina, Cavite, Quezon, Benguet, Pangasinan and the sub-province of Aurora. Explaining his move, the President said that while the initial damage caused by the floods was not as extensive as that of the 1972 calamity, the state of emergency was, still needed to cushion the impact of the disaster. At the same time, he warned hoarders and profiteers, who might take advantage of the floods, that the full force of the law will be applied to them.

REPORTS of widespread destruction in flood-ravaged areas in the provinces prompted the President to order the postponement of the “Pulong ng mga Barangay,” originally scheduled on September 1. The move, the President explained will enable people in the disaster areas to devote their time to the urgent task of reconstruction. The Pulong was originally called by the President in his Independence Day address to give the people a forum where they can ventilate their grievances against elective and appointive officials and military officers and men.

August 19—

THE PRESIDENT had issued a decree limiting the amount of increase in the assessed valuation of real property which in effect will greatly reduce the tax liability of real property owners. Presidential Decree No. 532 cushions the impact of the recent sharp upward valuations of real properties, which in some cases have tripled or even quadrupled the 1973 tax levies on land. The decree provides that “increases in the assessed valuation of real property shall be gradual from 1974 to 1977 and in no case shall the increase in any year be more than 100 percent” of the 1973 assessed valuation.

THE PRESIDENT urged all barangays to involve themselves in the relief and rehabilitation efforts on behalf of the flood sufferers. He said that while the government has mobilized all its agencies for the extension of relief aid and the rehabilitation of damaged crops and infrastructures, there are many number of ways by which the barangays could help in alleviating the sufferings of the flood victims and in speeding up rehabilitation and reconstruction work.

NATIONAL Grains Authority assured the public that the country’s rice supply is sufficient to meet the needs of the entire populace. NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco said that the rains and floods did not cause any damage to the government rice stored in NGA warehouses in Central Luzon and the Greater Manila area. He also said that there are good harvests from the Visayas and Mindanao. According to Administrator Tanchanco Japan, China and Thailand have also made commitments for a total of 50,000 metric tons of rice for the Philippines.

BUDGET Commission said that national government employees who were granted a 10 percent salary increase based on their basic pay as of June 30 are still entitled to an emergency living allowance of P50 if their salaries or wages were less than P600 before the increase was implemented. Budget Commissioner Faustino Sychangco, who issued the clarification, said that Budget Circular No. 240 provides that notwithstanding the 10 percent across-the-board salary increase, the emergency cost of living allowance under Budget Circular No. 238 and 238-A dated February 18 and April 30, respectively, will be continued.”

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture announced that schools found violating rules on state scholarship programs shall face either blacklisting or revocation of permits to operate, or both. DEC Chairman of State Scholarship Council Pablo Mateo issued the warning amid reports that some schools where state scholars are enrolled allow grantees to enrol in higher courses without the necessary prerequisites to the course. One school for example allows grantees to take up English 3 ahead of English 1 and even reports passing grades instead of failing marks to the Bureau of Private Schools. Chairman Mateo said schools deliberately and consistently committing such violations will be blacklisted from among institutions state scholars can enrol, as well as face other appropriate measures which the bureau will take against them.

GOVERNMENT’S vegetable and bean production program exceeded its target production for the last fiscal year by producing 864,188, metric tons of various vegetables and beans, the Bureau of Plant Industry announced. BP1 Director Bernardo S. Castillo said this represented a 2.9 percent accomplishment of the target production which was 839,823 metric tons. In terms of hectareage, he said the program also exceeded the target area of 80,144 hectares by planting a total of 97,847 hectares, representing a 122.1 percent accomplishment. The program implemented in 21 priority provinces and one city, is aimed at increasing the country's produce by extending to farmers the scientific methods of production. The program also undertakes a nationwide equitable distribution of quality seeds and planting materials and extends to farmers technical assistance on the control of plant pests and diseases and on the proper use of fertilizers.

August 20—

THE GOVERNMENT banned travel abroad by any state official or employee without the approval of his office. The travel ban was one of a series of moves taken by the Chief Executive to conserve dollars and combat inflation. The President also: 1) Suspended overtime work in both national government offices and government corporations; 2) Disallowed further purchases of furniture by government offices and firms; and 3) Prohibited recourse to unprogrammed appropriations without the specific approval of the President himself. The President likewise issued a hand written memorandum cutting to one-half the 216-member athletic delegation to the Asian Games in Teheran. The presidential action followed recent world developments which have affected the national economy.

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office Carlos J. Valdes as Philippine ambassador to the Vatican. He succeeds Alberto Katigbak who has been reassigned to the home office. The new ambassador, a lawyer and accountant, is president of the Philippine Institute of Certified Public Accountants, governor and treasurer of the Philippine Council of the International Chamber of Commerce and president of the Manila archdiocesan community development.

NATIONAL College Entrance Examination Board of the Department of Education and Culture ruled that all Filipino and United States World War II veterans wishing to enrol in four-year degree courses in the Philippines are exempt from taking the NCEE. DEC Undersecretary and NCEE Board Chairman Narciso Albarracin said the exemption, which is non-transferable, was precipitated by an appeal of US veterans who did not qualify in the NCEE. The board also decided that honor graduates of secondary schools who did not qualify in the 1973 NCEE for courses requiring at least four years of study and who plan to take the 1974 exams cannot enrol provisionally in such programs pending results of this year's NCEE.

August 21—

THE PRESIDENT called on the sugar industry to strive for greater production and of higher technology in order to meet the growing demand for the commodity here and abroad. In a speech read for him by Philippine Ambassador to Japan Roberto S. Benedicto at the annual convention of Philippine Sugar technologists in Cebu City, the President said that increasing sugar production is imperative to meet not only the Philippine sugar commitments in the world market, but also to provide for domestic supply requirements. Sugar, the President stressed, will have high priority in all government actions for a long time.

DEPARTMENT of Finance disclosed that the national government netted a surplus of P579.3 million in the general fund for the month of July this current fiscal year. Secretary of Finance Cesar E.A. Virata said the total operating receipts of the general fund for the month of July was P1,793,571,244 while the operating disbursements totalled P1,214,182,321 resulting in the surplus of P579.3 million. The finance official also stated that the total increase in the cash balance of the general fund for the month in review alone was P792, 480,486.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture announced that all teachers and school officials who do not report drug pushers and/or users in or outside school premises face dismissal, fine or disciplinary action. DEC Undersecretary Narciso Albarracin said the stepped-up campaign against drug abuse was brought about by reports of the upsurge of drug abuse among secondary and college students. The DEC official further added that the DEC will conduct drug education seminars for private school administrators in cities with reported upsurge in drug abuse like Manila, Bacolod, Olongapo, Zamboanga and Davao.

DEPARTMENT of Finance released the rules and regulations on the tax-free local purchase of articles by aliens and Overseas Filipinos coming to settle in the Philippines. The rules are pursuant to Presidential Decree No. 439 which authorizes the tax-free purchase of vehicles, house hold appliances, professional instruments and other tools of trade, occupation or employment. The persons qualified to avail of the tax-free privileges are: 1) Holders of foreign passport arriving in the Philippines with Philippine visa issued pursuant to Section 13 of the Philippine Immigration Act of 1940 as amended. These affects foreigners coming to settle for the first time in the Philippines; and 2) Overseas Filipinos and/ or their families and dependents were permanent residents or immigrants of other countries. The goods that may be purchased under this privileges are: brand-new locally manufactured household appliances: brand-new vehicles listed under the Progressive Car Manufacturing Program and other brand-new tools for trade, occupation or employment.

August 2—

THE PRESIDENT directed the implementation of a 10-point plan designed to speed up the government's rehabilitation and replanting program in flood-ravaged areas. The President outlined the plan in a presidential decree and a letter of instructions after assessing the latest comprehensive reports on Luzon flood damage. The 10-point scheme includes the lifting of the P5, 000-ceiling on rice crop loans and the increase of the Masagana 99 loan from P1, 200 to P1, 500. After meeting with Finance Secretary Cesar E.A. Virata and Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., the Chief Executive also lifted the ban on overtime work for personnel engaged in the rehabilitation effort in calamity areas for the duration of the emergency.

DEPARTMENT of Finance assured provincial, city and municipal officials that it will sustain its efforts to improve financial management in the local governments. Finance Secretary Cesar E.A. Virata said that the attainment of financial stability by local governments is a pre-condition to their transformation into autonomous and self-reliant communities. He made the assurance as he clarified certain provisions of Presidential Decree No. 477 and Presidential Decree No. 464. It was explained that the supervisory authority of the Secretary of Finance over the financial affairs and financial agencies of local governments was derived from the Revised Administrative Code. He said that the term direct "executive supervision" pertains only to administrative and disciplinary matters and does not in any way come in conflict with the duty of the local chief executives to exercise, in conformity with law, general supervision over the government of the province and municipalities.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development directed all cooperatives to stop engaging in the insurance business or mutual benefits plans without proper authority. DLGCD Secretary Jose Roño noted that some cooperatives were doing business either directly through issuance of policies or indirectly through mutual benefit plans "without actuarial studies and certificate of authority." He said the insurance business is a specialized kind of activity which involves tremendous risks and which requires authority from the DLGCD and the office of the insurance commissioner.

DEPARTMENT of Finance reported that 15 insurance companies invested a record high of P169.6 million in socio-economic projects during the month of July alone this current year. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that the July investment was unprecedented for the insurance industry in a single month. By way of comparison, the Finance official said the investments made last June amounted to only P68.9 million. Of the 15 insurance firms, the Philippine American Life Insurance Company poured in the biggest investment amounting to P163 million, the finance secretary added. A major source of investment funds for socio-economic projects, the insurance industry has invested the total amount of P4.194 billion in the fiscal year 1972-73.

PHILIPPINE National Railways recorded a total gross earnings of P29.1 million from January to May this current year. As gleaned from the data released by the National Economic and Development Authority, the gross earnings realized by the PNR from its passenger transportation service alone during the first five months of 1974 totalled P20.6 million, accounting for about 70.7 percent of the overall gross receipts. The country's railway system was able to chalk up this impressive performance due to the rehabilitation and modernization program of the PNR undertaken by the company for the last three years. This program includes the acquisition of new rail cars and engines, the introduction of new service and the reopening of the old service lines. Apart from this, the PNR also acquired several passenger buses to ease the traffic congestion particularly in the greater Manila area.

President's Week in Review: August 23-29, 1974

President's Week in Review: August 30 - September 5, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 30—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of P44.2 million for the repair and cementing of national roads in Central Luzon, including Greater Manila. The P44.2 million earmarked for the repair and cementing of roads is broken down as follows: 1) P30.095 million will go to the repair of national roads in the disaster areas, 2) P14.105 million for concrete paving of 10 principal road sections in Metropolitan Manila. The President, likewise, ordered the release of P5 million for the repair of communal irrigation systems in the calamity areas. Another P1.5 million was released for the repair of irrigation pumps. The amount will be used for the rehabilitation of 150 to 200 irrigation systems and 4,000 pumps.

THE PRESIDENT created the Filipino Muslim's Welfare and Relief Agency to handle any assistance from the Islamic Conference for the benefit of Filipino Muslims. The conference is the confederation of Islamic nations throughout the world. The aid was offered during the last meeting of the Islamic Conference in Kuala Lumpur. At that assembly, the Muslim countries took cognizance of the efforts being undertaken by the Philippine government for the upliftment of Muslims in Mindanao. In Executive Order No. 432, the President charges the new agency with the exclusive responsibility of disposing this aid, so that "maximum benefit" could be obtained from it. Acting Gov. Simeon Datumanong of Sultan Kudarat was named chairman of the agency, with Minister Sergio A. Barrera as the co-chairman.

MONETARY Board has allowed foreign management firms, which entered into a management contract with domestic private commercial banks with foreign equity, to designate a foreigner to hold one of the responsible positions in the local bank they are managing. The MB regulation modified the prior limitation on the authority of the management companies to appoint foreigners to hold decisive positions in the managed bank but subject to the conditions imposed by the Central Bank. One of these conditions is the program for ultimate Filipinization of any such staff or line position which may be temporarily held by such foreigner under the management contract or similar document.

August 31—

THE PRESIDENT met with National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) board and heard representatives of coconut farmers and other sectors of the industry on their petition either to lift controls on trading or reassess the ceiling price set for exports, to make it "more responsive" to world trade developments and to allow copra trading to resume. It has allegedly stopped almost completely. Acting on the reports submitted by the representatives of coconut farmers and other sectors of the industry, the President immediately directed NEDA to assess the situation and take steps to protect farmer-producers and to ensure increased dollar earnings by allowing continuous trading and exports of copra and coconut oil. In its three-and-a-half hour meeting, following the guidelines set by the President, the NEDA board took the following steps: 1) Adopted a flexible price policy. The NEDA board agreed to scrap fixed export and domestic floor prices which were established earlier this month to guarantee continuity of exports and thus protect the reputation of the Philippines as reliable supplier. 2) Approved measures to help farmer-producers. The NEDA authorized the Philippine National Bank to enter into copra-purchasing operations working closely with the 877 town chapters of the Philippine Coconut Producers Federation to replace the domestic floor-price mechanism and maintain reasonable prices to farmer-producers. However, the PNB operations should not completely replace traders and exporters of the private sector.

DEPARTMENT of Agriculture said that the country's export earnings from fresh bananas during the first seven months of the current year totaled P154.6 million, exceeding by 77.2 percent of the export receipts recorded for the same period last year. In a report submitted to Secretary of Agriculture Arturo R. Tanco Jr., Acting Director Bernardo Castillo of the Bureau of Plant Industry said that from January to July this year the Philippines exported fresh bananas worth P154.6 million to Japan. This figure is P69 million more than the last year's level of only P87 million. Because of this favorable trend, BPI officials predicted that this year's foreign exchange earnings from fresh bananas would far exceed that of last year. The Philippines is now the biggest supplier of fresh bananas to Japan, Ecuador and Taiwan are second and third respectively.

September 1—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Government Service Insurance System to speed up the construction plans for modern Manila Hotel. The Chief Executive issued the order to GSIS General Manager Roman Cruz Jr. following the call of S. Bechtel, head of a well-known construction firm. The President said the renovated hotel should be operational by 1976. He, however, stressed the need to retain the hotel's present facade while making the rest of the building's facilities as modern as possible. He also noted that Manila Hotel has been associated with so many historical events of the country that it has become a sort of national museum.

THE GOVERNMENT will not institute new tax measures to sustain its policy of an expanded economic activity as a means to cushion the impact of the worldwide inflationary pressures. Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata said that the present tax policies are suffering since there is more than enough cash balance in the government securities to sustain its operation. The finance official added that the government has started to phase out the operation of premium duty on export items and probably by next year, the export tax shall have been scrapped altogether. This indicated that the country's budding export earnings are sufficient to meet the needs of government operations.

DEPARTMENT of Trade said that the country's exports to Australia had increased in 1973 compared to the figures in the previous years. A study conducted by the Trade Department on the effects of general system of preference for Philippine exports to Australia showed that last year the total Philippine exports to Australia amounted to $17 million against the 1972 figure of $8 million. The increase of Philippine exports to Australia was largely due to intensive export promotion drive launched by the government coupled by the recent world inflationary trends. Among the leading export products to Australia in 1973 were logs, lumber, handicraft products, crude coconut oil, desiccated coconut and furniture, among other things.

RETIREMENT plan for private school teachers and other school employees will be enforced starting next school year. The retirement plan, which was approved by Education Secretary Juan L. Manuel, is aimed at giving a sense of security to both teaching and non-teaching personnel. The scheme would require all private schools to grant retirement disability and death benefits. Secretary Manuel approved the benefit scheme after consulting with officials of private schools and private school organizations.

September 2—

THE PRESIDENT congratulated the five awardees of the Ramon Magsaysay Award for 1974, for their outstanding achievements in their respective fields. Composed of two from Japan, and one each from the United States, India and the Philippines, the awardees paid their respects to the Chief Executive, accompanied by Chairman Manuel P. Manahan and other officials of the Ramon Magsaysay Award Foundation. The awardees for 1974 are: 1) Governor Hiroshio Kuroki of Miyazaki Prefecture, Kyushu Island, Japan, for government service; 2) Miss Fusaye Ichikawa of Aichi Prefecture, Japan, for community leadership; 3) Fr. William P. Masterson of Brooklyn, New York, an oldtimer in the Philippines, for international understanding; 4) Shrimati M. S. Subbulakshmi of India, for public service, and 5) Zacarias Zarian, a Filipino from Batangas, Ilocos Norte, for journalism, literature and creative communication arts.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue has issued a memorandum circular prescribing a uniform schedule for the exchange of dollars or any other foreign currency into pesos for revenue tax purposes. BIR Commissioner Misael P. Vera said the uniform rate of exchange will be followed this fiscal year up to June 30, 1975. The memorandum circular prescribes, among other things, that where the currency involved is other than US dollars, the foreign currency shall first be converted to US dollars at the prevailing rate of exchange between the two currencies. The resulting amount shall then be converted to pesos.

DEPARTMENT of Trade urged the operating stock exchanges to exercise strict control in the release of information by their member-brokers which might tend to influence the stock market one way or the other. Secretary of Trade

Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., directed the Securities and Exchange Commission that all new reports of listed companies be cleared by the SEC before they are released to the public. Secretary Quiazon's call came in the wake of reports that the behavior of the stock market since the past week has been partly influenced by rumors being spread around by investors and or brokers.

September 3—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate fielding of all available units of the Manila Transit Corporation to ease the transportation problem in Greater Manila. The Chief Executive took this step after noting that great number of commuters in various areas of Metropolitan Manila lose valuable manhours waiting for transportation. Meeting with Public Secretary David Consunji and Jose Crisanto Jr., MTC president and general manager, the Chief Executive directed the MTC to: 1) see to it all idle bus units in the premises of bus firms be rebuilt and rehabilitated so that they could be fielded as soon as possible. 2) speed up the acquisition of additional buses.

September 4—

JEEPNEYS will not be automatically banned upon organization of transport cooperatives. Assistant Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, chairman of the Committee Transport Cooperatives, issued the statement to allay jeepney drivers' and operators' fears of losing their means of livelihood once a transport cooperative is established in their area. One of the objectives of a transport cooperative, Reyes explained, is to enable the members to acquire managerial and operational expertise in preparation for their participation in the envisioned Mass Transit System. This will include the operation of buses, which provide safer and effective service to the riding public and assure better traffic flow.

CENTRAL Bank disclosed that the 35 stock savings and loan associations in the country had topped all banking institutions with a record of 50.20 percent increase in their savings deposits as of June 15 this year. This year's figure is P32.1 million more than the P64 million registered in June 30 last year. CB data as of June 15, 1974 showed that the thrift banks had a total of P96.1 million in savings deposits. The thrift banks performance enabled them to occupy the premier position among the banking institutions, capping the first year of the National Savings for Progress campaign spearheaded by the CB.

September 5—

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Ancient Order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, on outgoing Malaysian Ambassador Datuk Ahmed Zainal Abidin. In presenting the award, the President cited the Malaysian envoy for his services in the field of international relations as a worthy spokesman of his government and people in the Philippines. The Chief Executive said Ambassador Abidin was instrumental in promoting understanding between the two countries through mutually beneficial undertaking. In separate ceremonies at the Malacañang ceremonial hall, the President likewise received the letters of credence of: 1) Ambassador Yaday Prasad Pant, as non-resident ambassador of Nepal to the Philippines and 2) Ambassador Maseo Sawaki, as ambassador of Japan to the Philippines, replacing Ambassador Toshio Urabe.

BOARD of Investments reported that 231 export-oriented firms had registered an unprecedented export earnings of $59.7 million for the fiscal year 1973-74 ending June 30. The export receipts of the BOI-registered firms represented an increase of $41.1 million over that of the preceding year. The increase in exports of these enterprises is due to the export expansion of a variety of products such as garments textile yarns, fabrics, cordage, electric components, fish and seafoods preparations.

President's Week in Review: September 6-12, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

September 6—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of P10 million from the calamity fund to speed up the rehabilitation of fishpond and fishpen projects devastated by the recent floods. Most of the outlay will go to the purchase of fingerlings and fry for restocking purposes. The residual of the outlay as well as repayments of loans therefrom shall go into a revolving fund for the same or similar purpose. At the same time, the President directed the Central Bank, the Philippine National Bank, the Development Bank of the Philippines and the Agricultural Credit Administration to consolidate and restructure all past-due obligations of fishpond and fishpen operators. The four government financing institutions were also asked by the President to grant a three-year moratorium on the payment of past-due obligations and to make the ceilings for fishpond and fishpen loans more flexible. These moves are among the measures taken by the President to put back in shape flood-hit fishponds and fishpens.

ORDER of Sikatuna, rank of Datu, was conferred on Foreign Minister Alhaji A. B. N'Jie of Gambia by the President, "for his sincere and earnest endeavors to promote friendly relations" between his country and the Philippines. In receiving the award in ceremonies held at Malacañang, the Gambian foreign minister expressed the hope that the "magnificent gesture" will mark the beginning of closer relations between the two countries, "so that developing nations will work together for peace and happiness throughout the world."

MAJ. GEN. Ismael Lapuz (ret.) was appointed by the President as Philippine ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the Republic of China. His predecessor, Ambassador Pelayo F. Llamas, was recalled to the home office for reassignment. Immediately after signing the appointment, the President administered the oath of office to the new ambassador in the presence of a large gathering composed of close relatives and friends of the inductee at the Malacañang Reception Hall.

September 7—

THE PRESIDENT hailed the P242 million Pantabangan Dam, biggest infrastructure in the Philippines, not only as an outstanding engineering feat but as a symbol of the total effort through many directions to improve the Filipino quality of life. In a speech read for him by Secretary of Agrarian Reform Conrado Estrella at the Pantabangan Dam inauguration in Nueva Ecija, the President pointed to the mammoth dam as a milestone in the people's march toward growth and fulfillment by way of the "integrated approach." Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., formally opened the two dome-shaped 10-meter diameter intake gates. Present at the rites were members of the Cabinet who included, aside from Secretaries Melchor and Estrella, Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata of Finance, Secretary Vicente Paterno of Industry, Secretary of Information Francisco S. Tatad, and Budget Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco, Nueva Ecija officials headed by Gov. Eduardo L. Joson and Russel J. Cheetham of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

THE PRESIDENT broadened the scope of price control to include paper products used in the manufacture of socialized commodities. Affected by the President's action are paper products used either as raw materials or for packaging and labeling such as, but not limited to, newsprint, bond paper, paper board, cardboard, carton, corrugated board, paneling materials and paper strips. In Letter of Instructions No. 212 issued to the Price Control Council, the President notes that the prices of paper products have unreasonably risen, increasing in the process the prices of controlled commodities that utilize these paper items. The President stressed that if the prices of these paper products are allowed to remain uncontrolled, low-income consumers of socialized commodities will suffer an intolerable burden.

September 8—

FASTER and more effective agricultural services will be rendered to thousands of farmsteads throughout the country under a reorganized Department of Agriculture provided by Presidential Decree No. 547. This decree integrates an army of some 6,500 farm extension workers from four of the department's five bureaus as well as from the Department of Agrarian Reform. In addition, it decentralizes the function of the Department of Agriculture among 11 department-wide regional directors. These regional directors shall integrate the implementation of the related field programs of the Bureaus of Soils, Plant Industry, Animal Industry and Agricultural Extension. The fieldmen belonging to each of these bureaus are now directly responsible to the regional directors, who in turn report directly to the department secretary. This pattern supports the regional development concept of the President as carried out through PRODs and PRAOs (presidential regional officers for development or action officers), as well as through the regional development councils organized by the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA).

EXECUTIVE Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., by order of the President, issued Proclamation No. 1300 proclaiming September 19 as Law Day. It was stressed that the administration of justice is indispensable to a sound and vigorous democracy. It was also pointed out that it is but fitting that the important role played by lawyers in the administration of justice and in enhancing the rule of law be duly brought to the attention of the people. The Integrated Bar of the Philippines and lawyers' associations were called upon to mark the day with appropriate ceremonies.

September 9—

THE PRESIDENT has strengthened the organization of the Department of Public Highways by creating a Project Execution Service as the fourth of the major services in the department proper. The DPH reorganization is effected under Presidential Decree No. 548, amending PD 458 which created the DPH. The Project Execution Service of the DPH assumes certain functions discharged by the former Bureau of Public Highways before this bureau was elevated into a department. PD 548 states that in the main the Project Execution Service shall undertake the evaluation of the performance of the different offices and units under the department.

CITY Public works supervisors are placed directly under city engineers as provided for under Presidential Decree No. 549. Prior to the issuance of the Decree conflict arises as while charters of various cities provide for a Department of Engineering headed by the city engineer, Republic Act No. 5185, the Decentralization Law, at the same time, authorizes city governments to create the position of city public works supervisors, thus resulting in conflict and overlapping of functions. This situation is not conducive to the best interest of the public and the Decree orders that "the provision of Sec. 18 of RA 5185 to the contrary notwithstanding, the city public works supervisor shall be under the direct supervision of the city engineer."

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad called for a massive educational campaign on cancer that goes down to the barrio level without the driving force of fear or pessimism. The message of hope and comfort, rather than of fear and panic, must be emphasized in this kind of information drive, he said. Addressing the First National Congress on Recent Advances in Oncology, the Secretary pointed out that there is more to the communication of information than merely knowing one's subject. Information, particularly cancer information, he said, must be conveyed at proper levels of understanding. Cancer education, he said, should aim at changing the climate of fear prevailing regarding the disease.

September 10—

THE PRESIDENT revealed that prior to the proclamation of Martial Law the country's military leadership made a solemn pledge of honor to uphold at all times the supremacy of civilian authority symbolized by a civilian President. He disclosed that the military officers whom he had consulted in all-night sessions at the Pangarap at Malacañang Park pledged that should the President be immobilized or should he fall, another civilian leader would assume the presidency and the military would submit and subordinate itself at all times in accordance with the mechanism to be embodied in a decree to be issued simultaneously with the proclamation of Martial Law. The President made this revelation at the Loyalty Day parade and review given in Camp Aguinaldo on the eve of his 57th birthday anniversary, as commander-in-chief of the Armed Forces of the Philippines. He made it to debunk speculations here and abroad that the military would ultimately take over the government because it has become powerful, while the President is supposedly isolated, assertedly because he has no base with the masses except the military.

September 11—

RELEASE from political detention of former opposition Senator Jose W. Diokno, along with four other who had been taken into government custody upon the proclamation of Martial Law was ordered by the President. The four others are: former Secretary Eleuterio Adevos, Angel Baking, Antolin Oreta Jr., and Benjamin Guingona. All of the detainees signed a pledge of loyalty to the Constitution and the Republic.

THE PRESIDENT marked his 57th birth anniversary by working with the people in the barrios, releasing political detainees and meeting with his Cabinet on urgent problems including the need to cut power costs. Starting at daybreak, the President flew to three towns in Pampanga where he ate breakfast with fisherfolk, led the blasting of an illegal dike and helped in the replanting of a ricefield damaged by floods, and then surveyed the Bulacan-Nueva Ecija road construction before meeting with the Cabinet. Meeting with the Cabinet towards noon, he: 1) Decreed cuts on power for all consumers; 2) Raised the ceiling of housing loans from the Social Security System from P30,000 to P50,000 per applicant, effective immediately; 3) Created the Philippine Foreign Loan Guarantee Corporation to secure capital inflows into the country; and 4) Directed the Philippine National Bank to come to the rescue of the wood industry and; indirectly, some 4,000 to 5,000 laborers who had been displaced as a result of certain difficulties being met by the industry.

THE PRESIDENT enjoined all bus operators to field all new units as fast as they are finished by local assemblers in order to improve the transportation service. "I want nothing better on my birthday than to see all transportation companies provide an effective and efficient service to the people," the President told Justo de Dios, president of the Bus Operators Association of the Philippines. De Dios had come to Malacañang to show the first 15 new buses ready for duty under the financing arrangement made by the Development Bank of the Philippines and the Manila Transit Corporation with truck suppliers.

September 12—

LEONIDES S. Virata, chairman of the Development Bank of the Philippines, has been designated by the President as acting president of the billion-peso Philippine Foreign Loan Guarantee Corporation which was created under Presidential Decree No. 550. The loan guarantee firm was established to enable the Philippines to absorb greater capital inflows that it needs for economic development and growth, particularly in agriculture and industry and in social services. The new firm is a wholly-owned government entity and subject to provisions of existing laws and regulations applicable to government-owned corporations.

CELEBRATION of History Week is now bracketed within two of the most significant dates in Philippine history; namely, September 15 and September 21. Marked originally during the week-long period, September 17-23, it has been moved forward two days, under Proclamation No. 1304, to September 15-21. Justifying the change, Chairman Esteban de Ocampo of the National Historical Commission said: "These are the most appropriate days for History Week. September 15 was the date when the Malolos Congress, which drafted the Constitution of the First Philippine Republic, was convened in 1898. On the other hand, it was on September 21, 1972, that the President proclaimed Martial Law, which has brought new life and vigor to our democracy."

President's Week in Review: September 13-19, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

September 13—

THE PRESIDENT said the government seeks to expand trade relations with all countries of the world. The President reiterated this basic policy before the members of the Philippine Industry Study Mission who made a courtesy call before leaving for Moscow. Addressing the 12-man industry study group to Russia, the President expressed the hope that their mission would lend to increase trade between the Philippines and Soviet Russia. The study group, which was invited by the Soviet Russian Chamber of Commerce, will not only explore possibilities to increase trade but also observe production methods of possible value to the Philip pines. The mission is composed of representatives of various industries such as mining, textile, food, crude oil, and petrochemical headed by Filemon C. Rodriguez, president of the Philippine International Trading Corporation (PITC).

September 14—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered that foreign exchange expenditures for government travel abroad be cut down drastically. He directed that the pruning should be made in unnecessary travel to a variety of conferences which the Philippines can afford to miss. The President instructed department heads to prune down travel lists and to judiciously screen them. The President was informed by Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros that before Martial Law, government officials spent around $50 million a year for travels abroad. He said that if travel budget could be brought down to $25 million a year, that should be satisfactory.

THE PRESIDENT has declared September 17 as "General Makabulos Day" in the province of Tarlac. The day, which is not a special public holiday, marks the birth anniversary of Gen. Francisco S. Makabulos, a native son of Tarlac and well-known figure in the Philippine revolution. In declaring General Makabulos Day, the president said that it is desirable to fittingly commemorate his life and heroic deeds for the emulation of the people.

September 15—

SEPTEMBER 16 marks the start of "Design Consciousness Week," coincident with the anniversary of the Design Center of the Philippines, which was created on September 16, 1973. According to Proclamation No. 1259, Design Center Philippines has made possible a "breakthrough in organized and coordinated efforts toward product design improvement and quality control," and has been a key factor in enabling cottage industry products to occupy sixth position among the country's leading exports. Under the proclamation, the third week of September of every year has been declared "Design Consciousness Week" to underscore the need for continuous upgrading of product design, quality and adaptability to functional needs and aesthetic taste of the foreign market.

September 16—

THE PRESIDENT created an ad hoc committee to study the problems of the sugar industry and the to recommend a flexible policy for the industry. The President directed the committee, to be headed by Dr. Gerardo Sicat, director general of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA), to meet at-once and to take up the problems of the industry. Sugar producers will submit these problems to the committee.

PRESIDENTIAL Medal of Merit was conferred by the President on Dr. Hugo C. Lane, director of the area office of the International Labor Organization (ILO) in Manila. The President presented the award in recognition of Dr. Lane's exemplary and dedicated service as local ILO director during which he effected close involvement and collaboration with the government in such fields as manpower development, promotion of employment, protection of labor, and the pursuit of peace through social justice. In accepting the award, Dr. Lane said that nothing could have been achieved without the strong and continued support of Philippine government officials who are now working in close cooperation with both labor and management.

September 17—

MUCH can be done to improve records management in the government, and this is a challenge that confronts not only the records officers but all other officials and employees who must act as guardians of vital documents that, pass their way. The President had a good word for Records officers for their concern over accelerating reforms in their immediate sphere of activity, in his speech that was read for him by Secretary Constancio E. Castañeda of General Services at the opening ceremonies of the First Conference-Seminar for Government Records Officers, held at the San Miguel Auditorium in Makati, Rizal. The President spoke highly of the role of records management as a key to efficiency and performance in development. Particularly in the government service, the, sound organization and care of public document is an inescapable obligation, he said.

SECRETARY of Information Francisco S. Tatad told a gathering of historians that writing contemporary history brings them right into the home grounds of development communication. The secretary spoke at the opening of the two-day seminar on "History and the New Society" under the auspices of the National Historical Commission at the National Library. The present trend, according to the secretary, is for more and more historians, like communicators, to be writing close to the current scene and thus help measure change or even bring it about. He cited for example how distinguished foreign scholars have assessed the impact of Martial Law in the Philippines. In a very real 'sense, the secretary said, the historian is concerned like the journalist and the communicator with present change. He is concerned with the impact of events upon the current scene and its course. He does not wait for the objectivity of time or distance, but involves himself in history as it unfolds from day to day.

A NUMBER of judges from the country's higher courts have been ordered transferred by the President. At the same time, the President boosted the educational system by naming highly qualified men to top posts in the Visayas State College of Agriculture. Ordered transferred were: 1) Court of First Instance Judge Eduardo Bengzon, from Dumaguete City to Batangas City; 2) Court of Agrarian Relations Judge Ramon Britanico from Ozamis City to the Court of First Instance of Bacolod City; 3) CFI Judge Bernardo Fernandez, from Olongapo City to Manila; and 4) CFI Judge Florelia Castro Bartolome from Malolos, Bulacan to Pasig, Rizal, but with station in Makati (Branch XV). Appointments to the Visayas State College of Agriculture were topped by Dr. Fernando A. Bernardo. He was named school president. Rufino D. Ayaso and Lauro A. Castillo were appointed members of the board of trustees, to serve for four years and three years, respectively.

September 18—

THE PRESIDENT has appropriated P16 million to subsidize the importation of metals needed in the manufacture of milk cans, and thus arrest the further increases in the prices of milk. The appropriation, provided for in Presidential Decree No. 554, covers the reimbursements of customs duties incurred by steel companies in the importation this fiscal year of steel slabs, hot-rolled coils and unwrought tin used in making tin plates for milk cans. In issuing PD 554, the President noted that world market prices of the vital metals are increasing, threatening to cause corresponding increases in the price of milk, to the detriment of the general public.

THE PRESIDENT said that the Philippines is happy to be able to bring together in friendly competition representatives of 42 nations with diverse ideologies, beliefs, persuasions and forms of government. Welcoming delegates to the 28th World Weightlifting Championships at the Rizal Memorial Stadium, the President said that this competition transcends the usual divisive lines that separate the human family. "I am indeed happy to note that here we see all the countries represented which, in other dimensions and in other fields may be bitter competitors," the President said. Headed by Goddfried Shodl, president of the International Weightlifting Federation, some 500 officials and athletes participating in the championships paid a courtesy call at Malacañang.

September 19—

STEPS are being taken to upgrade interisland shipping following orders issued by the President at a recent Cabinet meeting to accelerate the implementation of the government's interisland shipping program. At the meeting, the President said interisland shipping "has become one of the principal obstacles to our economic development," and directed that local shipping interests and related government agencies meet immediately to take up their problems.

The goals of the program are: 1) To increase production and productivity in the various islands and regions of the archipelago through effective sea linkage; 2) To provide for the economical, safe, adequate and efficient shipment of raw materials, products, commodities, and people; 3) To enhance the competitive position of Philippine flag vessels in the carriage of foreign trade; 4) To strengthen the balance of payments position by minimizing the outflow of foreign exchange and increasing dollar earnings; and 5) To generate new and more job opportunities.

President's Week in Review: September 20-26, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

September 20—

THE PRESIDENT said that the official visit of the First Lady to the People's Republic of China will start the machinery for the eventual normalization of relations between that neighboring country and the Philippines. The President made this statement shortly after the Philippine Airlines jetliner bearing the First Lady and members of her party took off at the Manila International Airport. He said that the eight-day visit, which was being made upon the invitation of Premier Chou-en Lai, and the first made officially by a representative of the Philippines and the President, would pave the way for formal negotiations for the establishment of diplomatic relations between the Philippines and the People's Republic of China.

OFFICE of the President proclaimed the period from September 20 to September 27 as National Student's Week to commemorate the declaration of Martial Law (September 21, 1972), from which the youth continue to benefit directly. In Proclamation No. 1316, the youth are urged to continue helping build a stronger Philippines by constructive involvement in national affairs. They were exhorted to direct their energies and cultivate their creativity toward community development, in particular. They were also urged to press ahead with projects that will strengthen the bonds between students, youth, and government.

THE PRESIDENT proclaimed September 21, 1974, a special public holiday, to mark the second anniversary of the declaration of Martial Law. Martial Law, he said, has aroused among the people the will to build a New Society which would reflect their deepest aspirations, and in the brief span of two years, the people have made great strides toward attainment of that society and gained momentum toward specific economic and social goals. This unprecedented progress and the historic opportunity to discover and employ our people's competence to achieve it, he observed, are considered by the great majority of Filipinos a proper object of solemn remembrance and celebration.

September 21—

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 557 on Thanksgiving Day, declaring all barrios in the country as barangays. The President, in his Report-to-the-Nation address, noted that certain degree of confusion had arisen concerning the distinction between the barrio and barangay. "As of today," he said, "this distinction ceases. I have here with me a decree which constitutes the barrio itself as the barangay. I now sign the decree in your presence and formally declare the fusion of the two units. The barrio is now the barangay." To strengthen the barangays as "dependable government units at the grassroots levels," the President also signed PD No. 558, which allocates a share in highway special fund to the barangays, and PD No. 559 declaring specific funding beginning Fiscal Year 1976-77.

DEPARTMENT of Finance reported that the specific tax collections for the months of July and August this year registered an unprecedented record about P300 million, or an increase of 123.36 percent over the collections of the same period last year. Internal Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera said the specific tax collections for the month of August alone amounted to P140 million, an increase of P66 million or 89.59 percent over the collection of the same period last year which amounted to only P73 million. The BIR commissioner predicted a P2-billion collection for this fiscal year considering the present trend of collection of specific taxes.

September 22—

THE PRESIDENT declared that it is policy of the New Society and the government of the Republic to encourage interest in all forms of sports as a means of improving the nation's human resources. The President made the announcement at the opening ceremonies for the 28th World Weightlifting Championships held at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum. "I am certain that many of our people are wondering what the President of the Philippines is doing in this world weightlifting tournament at the coliseum,” the President said in his brief remarks. “I came here to demonstrate that it is our policy to support all forms of athletic activity.

September 23—

THE PRESIDENT announced a plan to shorten the medical course in the country. In a speech read for him by Health Secretary Clemente Gatmaitan at the opening of Medicine Week celebration, the President said the program will enable schools to produce more doctors who will serve in the rural areas instead of turning out “exportable” ones. He said the Department of Education and Culture is looking into the feasibility of making it possible for medical students to work in public medical services at any given year of their college course. At the same time, the President said the government will take immediate steps to provide wages for doctors.

CENTRAL Bank disclosed that the country registered a total balance of payment surplus of $128 million during the first seven months of 1974 despite the deficits in July and August. The CB also reported that the country’s foreign exchange position last month improved considerably compared to the preceding month by cutting down the July deficit of $45 million to only $25 million last month. The international reserves of the country rose by $12 million last month for a total of $1,207 million during the first seven months of the current year.

September 24—

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development bared plans to give a “quick course” for barangay leaders on the Revised Barrio Charter particularly on the provision on funding of local projects. Secretary Jose Roño Jr. said there is a need for the seminar particularly for the barangay leaders who will, for the first time, start enjoying the privileges and assistance given to barrios under the Barrio Law. “As barangay captains, they should know what barrio captains and other village officials know specially with regard to the 10 percent share of the barangays, after the barrios have been converted into barangays. The barangay leaders should know how to administer and spend the barangay funds to implement local projects and activities,” Roño said. OFFICE of the President issued Proclamation No. 1317 declaring September 28 as Wenceslao Q. Vinzons Day in Camarines Norte. The day will be the 64th birth anniversary of an “outstanding hero and martyr of World War II and native son of Camarines Norte.” The proclamation says it is fitting to commemorate his birthday and recall to mind his exemplary love of country.

September 25—

THE PRESIDENT directed the Department of Foreign Affairs, the National Economic and Development Authority and other government agencies to implement the newly signed trade agreement between the Philippines and the People’s Republic of China. The agreement was secured during the First Lady’s current visit to China. The Chief Executive issued the directive after receiving a preliminary report on the First Lady’s visit from Gov. Benjamin Romualdez of Leyte. “Under the accord, China will sell high quality petroleum to the Philippines and buy Philippine products like coconut products, lumber, sugar, copper ore, and other metals. Upon instructions of the President, a Philippine economic mission will leave for Peking.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture will start implementing next school year shortened curricula for medicine, engineering and nursing if the drafts now being prepared by three task forces will be approved. The President has directed the National Board of Education, the country’s highest policy making body for education, to decide on the shortening of college courses as soon as possible. Education Secretary Juan Manuel said the department wanted to implement immediately the -proposed shorter programs for medicine, engineering and nursing. However, he said, implementation of the programs, if they would be approved would be gradual, similar to the adoption of the revised secondary program. For this purpose Secretary Manuel has directed Private Schools Director Julian Yballe to form a task force which would draft the shortened curricula. Director Yballe has been meeting with deans from various colleges in connection with the proposal to shorten some courses.

September 26—

THE PRESIDENT directed the National Economic and Development Authority to take charge of the full and immediate implementation of the trade agreement between the Philippines and the People's Republic of China which was concluded in the course of the current visit there of the First Lady. Presiding over a NEDA board meeting at Malacañang, the President was given a briefing on the world economic situation, particularly the recent trends and forecasts of movements in key economic indicators of countries with which the Philippines has trade relations.

OFFICE of the President has issued Proclamation No. 1309 declaring October 1974 as International Trade and United Nations Month, centering around United Nations Day (October 24). The month-long celebration suggests its increase importance in the thinking of the administration, which gave it only one week last year. The Chamber of International Trade, in cooperation with various government and private entities, has programmed for the month a series of activities revolving around the theme, "Expanding Frontiers for National Growth and World Understanding through Trade, Tourism, Industry and Exchange of Information." The presidential proclamation urges full support of the celebration by the government, in line with the policy of breaking down ideological barriers among nations by a broader exchange of culture, goods and ideas.

DEPARTMENT of Finance issued the rules and regulations for the immediate reduction of the franchise tax payable by power companies and the tariff duty on fuel oil used in the generation of electric power. Among the fuels are: 1) A franchise tax of two percent of the gross receipts of power generating firms will be collected in lieu of all taxes and assessments of whatever nature imposed by any national and local authority; 2) An ad valorem duty of 10 percent instead of 20 percent will be levied on petroleum oils as well as fuel oil to generate electric power by electric utilities; 3) All electric franchise holders were ordered" to reduce the rate of electricity charged to consumers. Such reduction will be effective on all consumers' billing for the month of September 1974.

President's Week in Review: September 27 - October 10, 1974

President's Week in Review: October 11-17, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 11—

THE PRESIDENT formally established the Career Executive Service of the Philippines by extending appointments to the first 52 graduates of the CES development program of the Development Academy of the Philippines, as career executive officers. At the same occasion he also presented certificates of graduation to a second batch of 57 graduates of the same executive course. The rites were held at Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. After presenting the certificates to the fresh graduates the President signed and distributed the appointments of the first graduates who completed their training last June 30. They were given their ranks, assignments and emoluments. Describing the formal establishment of the CES, the President recalled that as early as 1966 he had dreamed of a CES which is nonpartisan, development-oriented, professional, and committed to justice and well-being and liberty of the people. The President said that circumstances then prevailing and even shortly after did not make possible the establishment of such a CES and it has only been under the New Society, when the atmosphere has dissolved the obstacles to good government and opened up a world of new options to the people, that the CES could be set up. "Today, therefore," the President announced, "we shall install and establish the CES, which not only puts an end to partisanship in matters of appointments to the public service but demonstrates our fidelity to the ends and purposes of the New Society that we are building."

ESTABLISHMENT of cottage industries, the President said, as well as of small and medium-scale industries in the countryside, is one of the basic objectives of the New Society. The President officiated at the first annual Panday Pira Award held at Malacañang. The awards were given in recognition of significant contributions to the development and promotion of cottage industry. The awardees were: 1) Raoul E. Cawagas, in recognition of his outstanding achievements as manufacturer of scientific instruments for science studies and school laboratories; 2) Don Laureano A. Guevarra (posthumous), as "father of the Marikina shoe industry"; 3) Sister Bernarda Lapinid, O.N.D. as "catalyst and prime mover of a social-oriented cottage enterprise in Cotabato"; 4) Elisa Nieva Pununcialman, for her successes in the shellcraft industry, and 5) Segundina C. Vixcarra, for outstanding achievements in cottage production and entrepreneurship. The awards were created by the President under Proclamation No. 1188 issued on October 6, last year, to give due recognition to those who have rendered significant contributions to the cottage industry of the country, and to encourage them to continue with their productive endeavors.

LEADERS of industry uniformly hailed speedy Presidential action reducing the price of industrial fuel oil by P5.00 a barrel. They said this price reduction will be reflected to a greater or lesser degree in the reduction of their costs of production, depending upon how much oil they use in their operations. Any relief that the government can provide, they said, is most welcome, in the face of adverse factors like imported inflation. Industries determined by the National Economic and Development Authority as strategic and in which the special price of industrial fuel oil sold through Petrophil would result in maximum benefits are cement companies, textile plants, wood processing companies, pulp and paper plants, Philippine flag shipping and electric cooperatives.

October 12—

MEMBERS of Samahang Nasyon will be covered by life insurance to strengthen the base of social security. Cooperative Undersecretary Orlando Sacay said the newly organized Cooperative Insurance System of the Philippine (CISP) will undertake the insurance coverage. Formed last January, CISP's paid-up capital, including surplus, amounts to P3,544,523.75. A total of 8,477 Samahang Nasyon chapters representing some 400,000 farmers are members of the CLSP. The package insurance contract insures Samahang Nasyon members from a minimum of P2,000 to a maximum of P5,000. CISP waives medical examination of the insured members. The CISP premium is P8 a year per P1,000 coverage for group life insurance which is renewable. An additional premium of P1 per P1,000 coverage entitles a group to accident insurance.

DEPARTMENT of Local Government and Community Development and the Bureau of Agricultural Extension have agreed to integrate their programs and resources to promote and develop farmers' association, including the Samahang Nayon, throughout the country. Director Clemente Terso Jr. of the Bureau of Cooperatives Development said that while the DLGCD organizes Samahang Nayon chapters whose membership includes not only tenant-farmers but also owner-cultivators of farm, the BAE has been forming farmers association solely for farmers. In many barangays, he said, Samahang Nayon members are also members of farmers' associations. He said that since both associations' aim is geared toward the welfare of the farmers, the efforts of these agencies should be merged as one to insure better coordination and working relations and better approaches and techniques.

October 13—

THE PRESIDENT has appointed three of the five members of the new Philippine Racing Commission which he created sometime ago under Presidential Decree No. 420. The commission is composed of sportsmen closely acquainted with the requirements and problems of the sport. It is headed by Eduardo Cojuangco Jr., the former congressman from Tarlac. Two of its members are Luis Yulo, the Canlubang industrialist, and Federico B. Moreno, PVTA chairman. The President appointed them to serve terms of four years. Two other members remain to be named. The commission takes over from the Games and Amusements Board, headed by officer-in-charge Luis Tabuena, all supervisory and regulatory functions that have to do with horse-racing, except those concerned with betting.

October 14—

THE PRESIDENT said that the delivery of oil to the Philippine; from the People's Republic of China is a symbol of the desire of the Filipino people not only to establish an independent foreign policy led also to lay the foundation for the stability of the Philippine Republic. The President made this statement in brief remarks delivered at the Bataan Refinery in Limay, Bataan, where he and the First Lady formally took delivery of the initial shipment of 125,000 barrel of crude oil from the PROC. under the agreement brought home by the First Lady after her visit to the Chinese mainland. The First Lady, who spoke before the President, also said that the first shipment is symbol of the profound change which has taken place in this country's relations with China and the new spirit of friendship and cooperation which now enforce that relationship.

THE PRESIDENT deserved the Philippine experience in medical care as an emerging success in probing a major frontier of the social security question. He said we are still far from full realization of our national health goals, and the current world inflation has created a grave problem for the medicare program. "But we have taken significant steps . . . there is more agreement that development must be measured in terms of social benefits and social well-being," the President said. The President cited figures that more Filipinos are receiving better health care than ever before, in a speech read for him by Medicare Chairman Pacifico E. Marcos. The speech was read at the opening of the five-day Round Table Meeting on Organization of Medicare at the Social Security System Bldg., with 10 Asian and Oceania nations represented by 47 delegates and 167 observers. The figures cited by the President showed that this year, a total of over a million beneficiaries have enjoyed medicare benefits since such benefits became available on April 1, 1972. Of these beneficiaries, 377,987 are either SSS or GSIS members.

October 15—

THE PRESIDENT rallied the people behind the cooperative movement, which he described as the basic program of the New Society, and pledged all-out support to it. Addressing the 550 heads of cooperatives and Samahang Nayons who organized the Cooperative Insurance System of the Philippine (CISP), which was inaugurated at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President warned that if the cooperative movement failed, the New Society may also fail. The President called on all farmers to unite behind the cooperative movement and enjoined the administrators and organizers to coordinate their efforts in order to keep the movement going forward.

THE PRESIDENT acted to assure safety of National Power Corporation teams in the field to enable that government firm to prosecute effectively its accelerated power development program. The NPC is in the midst of a massive power expansion program which is expected to provide additional hydropower potential of three million kilowatt-hours and a geothermal potential of 1,330,000 kilowatt-hours by 1985, and save the country some P7.5 billion in oil importation over a 10-year period starting next year. In the LOI, provincial commanders, all provincial city and municipal officials, all police agencies, all barangay heads and others concerned are directed to help the NPC field units so that they can pursue their work without obstruction, interference and hindrance from local inhabitants, particularly in the matter of preliminary feasibility studies of potential power resources. The LOI focuses particular attention on two dam site projects Nos. 2 and 4 in Kalinga-Apayao, one of the mountain provinces, where preliminary studies, investigation and survey are being conducted along the Chico River. The LOI says that should the studies indicate that the project in the area is justified and has to be undertaken, the necessary steps should be taken to effect the proper relocation of the inhabitants to a suitable place.

October 16—

MEETING of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) as presided by the President for a periodic and continuing assessment of the nation's economy. It was agreed during the meeting that the rate of economic growth in the Philippines continue to be higher than it is in most countries, especially among those having political and more serious economic problems. The President directed that on-going high priority development projects shall be continued in order to sustain the nation's economic growth. He said that special emphasis shall be given to projects along the lines of food production, like irrigation, flood control, farm-to-market roads, and related projects. High priority shall likewise be placed on such other growth-stimulating infrastructures as highways, airports, waterworks, rural electrification, portworks, transportation and telecommunications.

October 17—

SECRETARY of Labor was directed by the President to immediately undertake and effect the organization of new offices created under the Labor Code (Presidential Decree No. 442), to ensure the implementation of the Code on the date of its effectivity, which is November 1, 1974. The secretary was also told to organize other administrative entities authorized under the Integrated Reorganization Plan which along with the new offices under the Code, are intended to carry out effectively the programs and activities arising from the implementation of the Code Budget estimates for the new offices, to be drawn from the authorized appropriations of the Department of Labor, and from the unexpended funds of the Court of Industrial Relations, which is abolished, shall be prepared for the approval of the Office of President. The Budget Commission is directed to give priority of action on the budget estimates submitted to it for consideration. Bureaus, offices, services and other entities in the Department of Labor whose functions and structures have been aligned in accordance with the Integrated Reorganization Plan and the Labor Code and whose budgets are already incorporated in the new Appropriations Act (Presidential Decree No. 503) are to be staffed immediately so that they could commence operations.

President's Week in Review: October 31 - November 5, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 31—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady visited a large garments factory as a model of the First Lady's principal project for the amelioration of resettled squatter families. The First Lady plans to set up labor-intensive industries in Carmona, Cavite, and in Sapang Palay, Bulacan to accommodate the unemployed among the squatter families who have been resettled there. The First Couple visited the Gelmart Industries Philippines, along the Manila South Superhighway. It employs over 1,000 workers, mostly women, in the manufacture of women's bra, knitted gloves and stockings, and infant wear which are exported to the United States and Europe.

THE PRESIDENT conferred on Msgr. Josef Koenen of the Caritas organization in Germany, the Order of Golden Heart in a ceremony held at Malacañang. As a representative of Caritas, Dr. Koenen was cited for having been the prime mover in enabling the Philippines to be a recipient of outstanding contributions from the institution, chiefly for relief to the distressed during calamities. Similarly, Dr. Koenen was cited for having been responsible for extensive social services rendered by Caritas to Filipino communities in Germany, particularly Filipino nurses employed in various establishments in that country. The Caritas are Catholic social welfare institutions organized in different countries of the world.

UNDERLINING the speed with which the government acts on worthy proposals for Philippine oil exploration, the President directed the Petroleum Board to approve its 12th service contract negotiated in less than a week's time between the government and a multinational exploration company. Trend Corporation of the United States, the latest foreign venture capital to join the search for oil in the Philippines, will be the operator under the service contract of a concession of more than 400,000 hectares in the Bicol offshore area. The President directed that negotiations for the service contract be expedited after Trend committed itself to drill at least one well each year from the second to the seventh years of the contract, in addition to the first test well.

November 1—

THE PRESIDENT, accompanied by the First Lady, flew through driving rain to conduct a personal survey of the extent of destruction wrought by the past four typhoons which successively hit Central and Northern Luzon recently. In the course of the survey, the President authorized the initial release of P7.5 million for the immediate repair and reconstruction of damaged public works installations, and for the prompt relief and rehabilitation of the stricken provinces. Provinces which will share in the P7.5 million outlay are Abra, Batanes, Benguet, Cagayan, Ifugao, Isabela, Kalinga-Apayao, Nueva Vizcaya, Quirino, Ilocos Norte, Ilocos Sur, La Union, Mt. Province and Pangasinan.

November 2—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady, in the course of their tour of Northern Luzon, to assess the damages caused by four successive typhoons, dropped in at Batac, Ilocos Norte, hometown of the President, for the traditional Filipino homecoming on All Saints' Day. There the First Couple conducted an inspection of the Don Mariano Marcos Memorial Hospital and made a personal donation of an unspecified sum from the Marcos Foundation, for the improvement and expansion of the hospital's facilities. "This is my way of remembering our late father on All Saints' Day", the President said of the donation. The check was turned over to the hospital director, Dr. Eugenio Mendoza Jr., by Mrs. Josefa Edralin Marcos, the President's mother, who joined the First Couple in the traditional visit to the old hometown.

November 3—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 571 extending amnesty to leaders, officers and members of the Partido Komunista ng Pilipinas (PKP), Hukbong Magpapalaya ng Bayan (HMB), Malayang Samahan ng Magsasaka (MASAKA), Malayang Pagkakaisa ng Kabataang Filipino (MPKP), at Samahang Pambansa ng Kababaihan sa Pilipinas (SPKP). Also included are those who may not be leaders or members of these groups but may have committed any illegal act to promote their political beliefs or to enhance acceptance of their ideas, views, and opinions about the social order, economic system or form of government in the Philippines. An earlier decree, PD 124, as amended, which expired on July 15, 1973, expressly excluded leaders and officers of these groups from amnesty benefits.

THE STAGE is set for a picture-project in urban renewal covering the Tondo foreshore area, with the chartering of the Tondo Foreshore Development Authority under Presidential Decree No. 570. With an initial outlay of P30 million, the Authority shall resolve the slum and squatter problems in the foreshore area, which “exemplifies a social in justice incompatible with the goals of the New Society,” according to the decree. The President named Brig. Gaudencio Tobias (ret.), director general of the Authority. Tobias helped lay the ground for the under taking with the planning group known as Tondo Foreshore Urban Renewal Project.

THE PRESIDENT has appointed 13 new municipal judges and has signed the transfer to other stations of six others. The new appointees are: Plaridel Mar Israel, Iguig, Cagayan; Francisco Collado, San Fernando, La Union, Branch II; Genaro V. Catalan, Los Baños, Laguna; Alejandro Arenas, Gasan, Marinduque; Jeremias A. Castro, Masbate, Masbate; Jose G. Montemayor, Sta. Rita, Pampanga; Abelardo G. Biala, Mapandan, Pangasinan; Leon M. Montefalco, from Diadi, Nueva Vizcaya to Aritao, Nueva Vizcaya.

November 4—

CURRENT world food crisis is a problem that must be solved not merely on a national level in developing countries but through close cooperation on a global scale, the President said at the opening of the 12-day “Conference on Plant Protection in Tropical and Sub-Tropical Areas” This will require the escalation of both technical and financial assistance to developing countries, from the wealthier and more technologically-advanced developed countries, the President added. Moreover he said, international organizations, like the United Nations, will need to assume an even more decisive and greater coordinating role in meeting the global problem. The resident’s speech was read for him by Agriculture Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon, Jr.

MALACANANG has granted extensions to the fund campaigns of the Consumers Union of the Philippines and the Community Chests and Councils in the Philippines, in separate proclamations. Under Proclamation No. 1345, the national membership, consumers’ education and educational fund drive of the CUP is extended to March 31, 1975. Its original fund drive was authorized from October 1, 1973 to October 31, 1974. Under Proclamation No. 1341, the period of the annual educational and fund campaign of the Community Chests and Councils in the Philippines has been extended to December 31, 1974. The money raised will go toward the support of the services of the various CC welfare agencies.

MALACANANG declared the period from November 2 to November 8 and the first week of every November thereafter as Packaging Development Week. In Proclamation No. 1343, it was noted that Philippine industry is continuously increasing its output of Philippine-made products both in volume and variety and that the consumers’ acceptance of “Made-in-the-Philippines” products will depend not only on the quality of the product but the appeal of its packaging presentation. It was pointed out that the marketability of products labeled “Made-in-the-Philippines,” both on the domestic and export market, can be improved by better packaging and the development of packaging components from local materials through the joint efforts of the Packaging Institute of the Philippines (PIP), representing the private sector, and the Design Center Philippines (DCP), representing the public sector.

November 5—

FRANK W. ZINGARO, president of the Philippine-American Chamber of Commerce of New York, with Mrs. Zingaro, paid a courtesy call on the President. Mr. Zingaro said he had known the President from a “long way back” and he wanted to renew old times. They were accompanied to Malacañang by local Caltex officials including W. C. Dunning, managing director; R. J. O’connor, and Francis Ablan, and their ladies. Later, the President also received officials of the Meiji Seika Kaisha Ltd. of Japan, reputedly the world’s fifth largest producer of antibiotics. Headed by T. Nakagawa, president, the MSKL officials are looking into the possibilities of entering into joint ventures with local firms for the establishment of a cocoa plantation and factory for the processing of chocolate products for export.

LAND reform has progressed to a point where all the big landowners, with lands as small as 24 hectares in area, have been dismantled, and the next step is due. The President made this known at a briefing that he gave the International Advisory Committee of the Chase Manhattan Bank on board the Presidential yacht RPS Ang Pangulo. The President explained that land reform is the keystone in the government program to extirpate the causes of the rebellion that had brought about the operation of the Constitutional self-defense mechanism called Martial Law. But while the big landholdings are being distributed to the actual tillers, no tenant will be allowed to acquire his piece of land unless he participated in a package service, the President explained. These included his membership in a cooperative, rural credit, infrastructure support, electric power, and small-scale industries.

THE PHILIPPINES plans the complete liquidation of its unemployment and underemployment problems “within this decade” by means of a bold program of human resources development and utilization. This was the President’s message delivered to the First Asian Regional Conference on Human Resources Training and Development at the Philippine Village Hotel. Some 250 delegates and 79 observers representing 20 Asian and Oceanian countries are attending the four-day conference. To fuel the employment program, the government has encouraged more investments—domestic and foreign. The volume of foreign investments alone has already increased in the first semester of the year by 109 percent over the previous year. Another measure is to reverse the country’s traditional export patterns by switching from land-based exports to labor-based products reflecting more value added, more labor added. Employment in public works will be doubled by applying more labor-intensive construction techniques in projects directly supporting food production, like irrigation and farm-to-market roads, with P500 million for each fiscal quarter appropriated. In addition, a nationwide network of public employment exchanges and a machinery for the export of excess manpower to job markets abroad has been created under the new Labor Code. The President’s speech was read for him by Secretary Blas F. Ople of the Department of Labor.

THE PRESIDENT discussed the need for technical and financial assistance for the development of local energy sources, particularly coal, with Udo Kollatz, deputy minister for economic cooperation of the Federal Republic of Germany. The German minister made a courtesy call on the President after a four-day stay here, during which he visited the national shrine on Mt. Samat, and the International Rice research Institute in Los Baños. The President expressed the hope Germany will send technical men in coal production so that coal can be tapped as another energy source along with hydroelectric and geothermal, to replace oil partially. The President also expressed hope the Philippines will receive a bigger share of the German tourist market, reputedly the biggest in the world, with the utilization of chartered flights which are economical and popular among the tourists.

President's Week in Review: November 6-21, 1974

President's Week in Review: November 22-28, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 22—

THE PRESIDENT welcomes delegates from six nations participating at the 7th Annual Conference of Special Forces Commanders held at Camp Capinpin in Tanay, Rizal. "I am indeed very happy to meet all of you who are in command of the special forces of your respective countries," the President told the delegates. "I know the valuable participation of special forces in military operations because we ourselves have been engaged in counter-insurgency, as well as in preparations for any event that may threaten our security," he added. The conference is held annually to promote mutual understanding, coordination and support among the special forces of allied nations, especially in this region. The last gathering was held in Indonesia. The United States is scheduled to host next year's meeting.

HONORE Bornacini, president of Minera Grisco of Mexico, reputedly one of the biggest silver mining companies in the world, was received by the President on a courtesy call. Mr. Bornacini heads a group of Mexican businessmen looking for investment opportunities in joint venture with local mining and development firms. In receiving him, the President pointed out that as a sister country for many centuries back, the Philippines welcomes the participation of Mexico in its economic development.

THE PRESIDENT received Sir Robert Clark, chairman of the King Ranch of Australia, who arrived in the Philippines to look into the operations of the King Ranch in Biliran, Southern Leyte, and another cattle ranch in Busuanga, Palawan, which will be established before the end of the year. The cattle king informed the President that some 3,000 breeding cattle and equipment are ready for shipment to Busuanga. The promotion of cattle-raising industry is one of the primary projects of the President, because it will not only improve the meat diet of the people, but may prove to be a major dollar-earning export industry, considering the vast pasture lands available and the favorable climate for raising cattle.

November 23—

OFFICIAL Philippines trade and economic mission, which returned recently from its initial visit to Peking, has entered into export agreements covering coconut oil, logs and plywood, copper concentrates, and sugar. The Philippines will export the following to the People's Republic of China: a) 5,000 to 10,000 long tons of crude coconut oil within January to June 1975, in lots of not less than 3,000 long tons each per shipment; b) 30,000 to 50,000 cubic meters of logs, to be delivered between January and March 1975; c) 2,000 cubic meters of lauan plywood; d) 4,000 metric tons of copper concentrates from Philex Mining Corporation and Atlas Consolidated; and e) 10,000 to 30,000 metric tons of raw sugar. China and the Philippines shall still have to conduct further negotiations on specifications, like prices, terms of payment, and other conditions relative to the agreements, and conclude relevant contracts. In all the agreements, Felimon C. Rodriguez, president of the Philippine International Trading Corporation, signed for the Philippines.

NOVEMBER 24—

THE PHILIPPINES has formalized the machinery for sugar trading, giving the government a more direct and active role. The objective is to protect the sugar industry and the national economy as a whole from uncertain fluctuations in the price of sugar rising from current worldwide shortage and increasingly speculative interest in the trade. The President issued Presidential Decree No. 579 under which the Philippine Exchange Company, Inc, a wholly-owned Philippine National Bank subsidiary, may be authorized by the President to purchase sugar allocated for export to the US and world markets in a quantity and at a price to be fixed in accordance with regulations that shall be established by the Sugar Quota Administration, the PNB, and the Department of Trade, with the approval of the President. The proceeds of the sugar trading operations shall be used to pay the PEC loans from PNB or the loans obtained from foreign creditors. The PEC shall charge a commission of 2 1/2 percent on gross sales, of which one percent shall cover overhead expenses, and 1 1/2 percent shall be set aside to fund the PNB "Sugar Development Program."

DUPAX del Sur, a new town in Nueva Vizcaya, has come into being with the issuance of Presidential Decree No. 586. The old town of Dupax becomes Dupax del Norte. Dupax del Sur's seat of government is the old poblacion of Dupax. Malasin is the seat of the municipal government of Dupax del Norte. This decree effects Republic Act 6372 which created the new town out of the existing town of Dupax in 1971. A plebiscite which was held on November 8, 1971 in conjunction with the local elections that year, as well as remarks submitted during the July 1973 referendum, overwhelmingly approved the separation of barrios and sitios to form the new municipality. The new town consists of the barrios of Mangayang, I-Iyo or Palabutan, Banila, Carrolotan, Ganao, Abaca or Kawala, Lukidnon. Abuyo and Lublub, and the sitios of Santa Maria, Tanibong, Gabut, Cayno, Narra, Aruat, Cabnawan, Dahilang, Ginir, Sequep, Padalis, Pass, Bato, Sinao, and Binai.

November 25—

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office former Judge Venicio Escolin of the Court of First Instance of Iloilo as associate justice of the Court of Appeals. With the recall to active duty and appointment as Judge Advocate General of the Armed Forces of former Associate Justice Guillermo V. Santos, the 36-man appellate court had only 27 members. Justice Escolin's appointment leaves eight more vacancies in the appellate court. Following the induction, which was held at Malacañang in the presence of members of the Cabinet and of the Court of Appeals, as well as close relatives and friends of the inductee, the President announced his intention to appoint more in order to organize at least one new division in the appellate court to speed up the disposition of cases.

November 26—

THE PRESIDENT moved to shield rice farmers from increasing production costs by ordering effective immediately; 1) a 33 percent increase in the Masagana 99 loan ceiling from the present P1.200 per hectare to P1,600 per hectare, to enable them to absorb higher costs of fertilizers farm chemicals, and the like; and simultaneously. 2) An increase in the palay floor price up to P50 per cavan (from the old P45 level) to further prop up the selling price of their production. The Chief Executive ordered the Central Bank, the Philippine National Bank and the Agricultural Credit Administration to raise the rice loan ceiling by P400 per hectare, and the National Grains Authority (NGA) to raise the palay floor price to P50 per 50-kilo cavan for the harvest beginning with Phase IV (November 1974 to April 1975) of the Masagana 99 program. Both increases in the loan ceiling and the palay support price are aimed at minimizing the effects of imported inflation on the government's efforts to achieve self-sufficiency.

November 27—

THE PRESIDENT allayed the fears expressed by residents of the Tondo foreshore land that they will be resettled far from their places of work under the government development program. The President told the eight-man Citizens' Committee, representing about 30,000 families living in the Tondo foreshore land and Isla Puting Bato, who called at Malacañang, that only 10,000 families can be accommodated in the foreshore land under the government development program. However, the President emphasized, nobody will be resettled outside Tondo. All the rest will be resettled in Dagat-Dagatan, which is now being reclaimed by the government at an expense of P103 million. The President assured the Tondo foreshore land residents that the government is prepared to enlarge the Dagat-Dagatan reclamation project to accommodate everybody.

THE PRESIDENT has moved to curb rampant gold thievery in the mines by providing stern measures which he set forth in Presidential Decree No. 581. The decree not only would make conviction for the crime simpler but would impose stiffer penalties. And it also punishes those who knowingly buy stolen gold. The decree is aimed in particular at "highgrading," the term by which the theft of gold ores or rocks is known. It says highgrading damages not only the mining operator but also the government. The government would lose foreign exchange and the taxes that the stolen gold could have generated. It denounces high-grading for promoting blackmarketing and the smuggling of the precious metal abroad.

NEWLY created Philippine Council for Print Media will be given custody of pertinent records of the abolished Media Advisory Council and the Bureau of Standards for Mass Media. A request to this effect from Hans M. Menzi, chairman of the council, has been approved by the President. Menzi said the Philippine Council for Print Media will need these files as proper basis for discharging its mandated functions under Presidential Decree No. 576.

DR. SUBROTO, Indonesian minister of labor, transmigration and co operatives, was received by the President. Dr. Subroto informed the President that his visit was in accordance with the agreement reached in the last Menado summit in which the President and President Suharto agreed to initiate a conference among the labor ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). Secretary Blas F. Ople of Labor, who accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Subroto to Malacañang, said he and Dr. Subroto are ironing out details in order to give employers and workers a seat in the ASEAN table through their labor ministers. The President also endorsed the various programs being ironed out by the two labor officials, including: 1) Possibility of cooperation in manpower training for the timber industry in Kalimantan; 2) Accommodation of two or three merchant marine trainees from Indonesia, and 20 Indonesian trainees for on-the-job training in the mine, and 3) The organization of the Samahang Filipino-Indonesia, both in the Philippines and Indonesia.

November 28—

THE PRESIDENT announced a nationwide hospital upgrading program which will cost the government about P240 million in total capital outlay alone. The President announced the plan before some 800 delegates and guests of the Silver Jubilee and 25th Annual National Convention of the Philippines Hospital Association at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. In response to the requests made by the PHA which were previously discussed between the President and the PHA head, the President: 1) Announced that since November 1 when he visited the Northern Luzon Regional Hospital, he has already lifted the ban on the purchase of hospital equipment for government hospitals. 2) Directed the Medical Care Commission to submit plans before the end of the year for the universal coverage by the Medicare of the entire population by next year. 3) Directed the Medical Care Commission to consult the various sectors involved, particularly the PHA, in order to decide whether to increase the P12 maximum expenditure per bed per day to P16.80, and in order to finance the increase, to raise the personal contribution of all GSIS and SSS members from P3.75 to P5.00. 4) Directed the Development Bank of the Philippines to study the possibility of reducing the 12 per cent interest on hospital loans, and to explain why only P12 million of the P300 million earmarked for hospital loans upon instruction of the President was availed of. 5) Directed Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan of Health to organize a Board of Hospital Investments to study the proper places for hospital construction or expansion, the requirements for hospitals of every region, and the equipment and incentives required for such hospitals. 6) Directed that once created, the BOHI sit down with the National Economic and Development Authority to study the projection of costs for hospitals which, according to PHA, have increased substantially, resulting in a loss of P7, 000 per bed a year. 7) Directed Chairman Leonides S. Virata of the Development Bank of the Philippines to obtain concessional loans for hospitals from abroad, at the lowest rates and longest period of amortization possible.

THE PRESIDENT directed that all privately owned idle lands be identified and made available for full utilization in the increased food production program of the government. The President issued the directive during his conference with Presidential Regional Action Officers (PRAO), who reported a number of private idle lands in the country, including some 70,000 hectares in the Cagayan Valley and about 250,000 hectares in Mindanao. He ordered the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Agrarian Reform to get together and pinpoint these idle lands and also to determine what crops are suitable for planting in these areas. According to the PRAOs, these areas are being held by their owners primarily for speculation.

THE PRESIDENT was informed that the publishers have organized themselves into the Philippine Council for Print Media, the body that will henceforth regulate all Philippine print media. The Council for Print Media, according to Brig. Gen. Hans M. Menzi, its chairman, will cover all newspapers, periodicals, magazines, journals, publications and all advertising in the print media. In accordance with Presidential Decree No. 576, the Council for Print Media is preparing the rules under which the council will carry out the duties. The officers of the Philippine Council for Print Media are: Brig. Gen. Hans M. Menzi, chairman Raul Locsin, vice chairman: Rosario Olivares, director; Juan Perez director: Kerima P. Tuvera, director. The Council for Print Media is distinct from the Council for Broadcast Media, which is also authorized under PD 576 to supervise the operations of radio and television stations.

President's Week in Review: November 29 - December 12, 1974

President's Week in Review: December 13-26, 1974

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 13—

THE PRESIDENT has separated the Philippine Coast Guard from the Philippine Navy and placed it directly under the secretary of national defense, at the same time enlarging its functions and consolidating the fragmented ones. Presidential Decree No. 601, which amends the Coast Guard Law (Republic Act 5173), stresses, among other things, the involvement of the PCG in the improvement of sea safety measures, marine pollution control, maritime industry development, merchant marine manpower development, and law enforcement at sea.

NUCLEAR science development in this country was given a big boost by the President when he issued a decree transferring the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission to his office and ordered the release of P2 million for the Commission's special projects. The President signed the decree transferring the PAEC from the National Science Development Board to the Office of the President at the closing ceremonies of the second observance of Atomic Energy Week at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. At the same time, he: 1) Pledged "total and complete support" for all projects of the PAEC, and 2) Directed Gen. Florencio Medina, PAEC chairman, and other commissioners to notify him immediately any time a problem regarding their projects arises.

THE PRESIDENT announced the designation in an acting capacity of three provincial treasurers and five city treasurers, who are currently officer-in-charge of their respective offices. Designated by the President were: 1) Richard Baticados as provincial treasurer of Capiz; 2) Henry C. Rañola as provincial treasurer of Romblon; 3) Doroteo V. Macalalad as provincial treasurer of Southern Leyte; 4) Wilfredo Cabili as city treasurer of Butuan; 5) Juanito G. Caliwaliagan as city treasurer of Canlaon; 6) Lucio M. Bagnol as city treasurer of Gingoog; 7) Hugo B. Daguman as city treasurer of Ozamiz, and 8) Santos Satorre as city treasurer of Tacloban.

THE PRESIDENT received top executives of Peñarroya of France, one of the world's largest mining investors, who offered to help open up the French market for Philippine copper. Headed by Jean Ybes Eichenberger, board vice chairman and president-director general of Compagnie de Mokta, a sister firm, the group explained that France imports some 400,000 tons of copper metal a year and they proposed that the Philippines share that market. The French executives said that they already have executed a contract with Atlas Consolidated Mining and Development Corporation, which will supply them 24,000 metric tons of refined copper a year as soon as Atlas's proposed copper smelter goes on stream. Peñarroya has a network of 20 trading posts around the world. It has established one in Manila. The group was accompanied by former Agriculture Secretary Benjamin Gozon and French Ambassador Charles Guy de LeStrange.

December 14—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of an additional 454 persons arrested and detained after the proclamation of Martial Law. This brings to 1,076 the total number of released detainees since the President announced the government policy to "progressively relax" the rigid exercise of authority and restore national unity, in a nationwide radio-TV address last December 11.

THE PRESIDENT has approved the staffing pattern for 12 regional offices of the Bureau of Posts, paving the way for a more efficient and effective nationwide postal service. Approved were the appointments at large of 12 regional directors and 13 assistant regional directors, aside from opening more than 1,900 new positions for postal employees, including more than 1,000 mail-carriers, 87 postmasters, scores of drivers, all few lawyer's to man the legal staffs of the various regions, and others. Most of the regional directors and assistant regional directors (two of the latter for Region 4), already carry appointments in acting capacity. They are as follows: Regional directors: Servillano Abad, Beatriz Alaan, Eutropio Val. Apalisok, Genaro Basilio, Simplicio Dizon, Gerardo Escalada, Cesar Juan, Laureano Lapitan, Jose Navarro, Manuel Romero, Fabian Santos, and Angeles Zaragoza, Assistant Regional Directors: Hermelo Battad, Rodolfo Bisco, Lamberto Corro, Hortencio Cos, Augusto Donado, Bienvenido Ferrarico, Alfredo Fulache, Jaime Jacala, Reynalclo de Jesus, Felipe Lazaro, Bienvenido Leetura, Ponciano Osero, and Eliseo Velasquez.

December 15—

PHILIPPINE National Railways can now go full steam ahead on its half-billion-peso modernization program as the President cleared the way for speedy procurement of equipment and supplies in the face of rapidly rising costs. Under recently issued Executive Order No. 438, all bids and negotiated contract proposals for supplies worth P50,000 to P100,000 are now delegated to the PNR board for approval, and those below P50,000 to the PNR general manager, in line with government policy to grant greater autonomy to corporate governing bodies. The new supplies procurement policy applies to the PNR rehabilitation, selective modernization and mass rail transit projects, as well as to others that may follow.

WORLD Hard Fibers Conference slated early next year in Manila will spotlight the Philippines as a major producer of abaca and provide added boost to the emerging program to rehabilitate the industry. Recognizing its importance, the President issued Administrative Order No. 362 naming Agriculture Undersecretary Jose D. Drilon Jr. and 12 others to a committee that will prepare the ground for the confab. The conference, scheduled on January 22 to 25, is the 18th Session of the Food and Agriculture Organisation's Inter-Governmental Group on Hard Fibers. It will be the first FAO meet to be held in Asia and only the second outside Rome, FAO's headquarters.

December 16—

THE PRESIDENT announced the start of the government's program to upgrade the capability of the Philippine Navy with the acquisition of modern ships. The President made the announcement during the trial run in Manila Bay of the RPS Guimaras, a high-speed ship built for relief and rescue operations during calamities. Expressing satisfaction over the ship's performance, the President said more ships of the same type and capability but varying in length and size, will be procured by the government for the navy. The RPS Guimaras, which has an overall length of 145 feet, was procured through reparations from Japan.

THE PRESIDENT has issued appointments in acting capacity to 16 chairmen and members of various boards of examiners. Of these, nine are reappointees and seven are newcomers whose records have been carefully looked into and found to be outstanding in their respective professions. The complete list follows: Dr. Remedios Abella Lim, reappointed chairman, of the Board of Chemistry; Capt. Jose P. Castillo, reappointed chairman of the Board of Deck Officers; and Bernardo J. Gallego, reappointed chairman of the Board for Engine Officers; Crispin, T. Ubaldo, reappointed member of the Board of Civil Engineering; Capt. Juanito R. Sarita, new member of the Board for Deck Officers; Dr. Federico L. Vila, new member of the Board of Dentistry; Luis S. Tomacruz, new member of the Board of Electrical Engineering; Manuel G. Anonuevo, reappointed member of the Board of Geodetic Engineering; Dr. Rosa Blanca S. Paredes, new member of the Board of Optometry, vice Antonio Joson Jr.; Uldarico Encenzo, reappointed member of the Board of Sanitary Engineering; Domiciano Natividad, reappointed member of the Board of Accountancy; Mrs. Marcela R. Ordonez, new member of the Board of Nursing, vice Laura Madrazo; Mrs. Isabel T. Faberes, new member of the Board of Customs Brokers; Jose P. Sto. Domingo, reappointed member of the Board of Sugar Technology; Dr. Geronimo de la Cerna, reappointed member of the Board of Veterinary Medicine; and Diosdado Monzon, new member of the Board of Master Plumbers, vice Arcio Casing.

December 17—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the release of 111,845,944 for the payment of the remaining 25 percent of gratuities of some 3,173 government retirees, in time for the Christmas holidays. The President gave explicit orders to rush payment so that the government retirees and their families will be able to celebrate Christmas and the New Year with traditional joy and happiness. The beneficiaries include employees separated from Congress and the Office of the Vice President, retirees under Republic Act Nos. 660, 1616, and 910, separated employees of the 1971 Constitutional Convention, employees separated under Letters of Instructions Nos. 11, 12, 14 and 14-A, and retired and separated officers and enlisted men of the armed forces.

AMBASSADOR Peter G. F. Henderson of Australia was received by the President. The envoy called to say goodbye preparatory to his return to Canberra to take charge of the administrative affairs of the home office of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Ambassador Henderson, who served as envoy to the Philippines for 18 months, said he was very much impressed by the progress of the country, and the frequent visits of foreign heads of state and other dignitaries to the country in the last two years.

THE PRESIDENT has created a steering committee consisting largely of Cabinet members to pave the way for the successful hosting of the prestigious International Monetary Fund-International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank) annual conference in Manila on October 4 to 8, 1976. Chairman of the committee created under Administrative Order No. 364 is Secretary of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata, with Central Bank Governor Gregorio S. Licaros as vice chairman. The committee will take charge of preparations and arrangements for the projected meet of the IMF-IBRD board of governors, which has accepted the Philippine invitation to hold the meeting here. The IMF-IBRD conference, which is of ministerial level, will be participated in by finance ministers and governors of central banks of 126 nations, as well as by some 4,000 delegates including international bankers.

December 17—

THE PRESIDENT directed the Office of the Executive Secretary to conduct hearings on Presidential Decree No. 601 which made the Philippine Coast Guard into a major service command. The directive was issued after several offices outside the military establishment sought clarification of certain provisions of the decree affecting their respective functions. In issuing the directive, the President in effect suspended the effectivity of the decree until such time as the issues are resolved.

December 19—

THE PRESIDENT presented awards to the Ten Most Outstanding Young Men for 1974, who were chosen by the Philippine Jaycees for excellence in their respective lines of endeavor. Recipients of the 1974 TOYM awards during the ceremonies held at the Maharlika Hall of Malacanang were: Ramon Barba, agriculture; Jose Mari Chan, arts; Jose de Venecia Jr., business; Rev. Leonardo Z. Legazpi, education; Dr. Arcadio Alcid Tandez Jr., humanitarian services; Rodolfo D. Robles, law; Tyrone Reyes, medicine; Gov. Simeon Datumanong of Maguindanao, public administration; Filemon N. Uriarte Jr., science; and Eugene Torre, sports. A special award was presented by the Philippine Jaycees through Chief Justice Querube C. Makalintal of the Supreme Court, to the President for his exemplary accomplishments during his student days and in Congress, as well as his exploits during World War II where he emerged as the most decorated Filipino soldier.

INTEGRATION of benefits at present separately administered by the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, the Social Security System, the Government Service Insurance System, and the Philippine Medical Care Commission has been suspended by the President for the period from November 1, 1974, when the Labor Code went into effect, to January 1, 1975. The suspension effected under Presidential Decree No. 608, would enable the completion of actuarial and financial studies leading to the establishment of a sound foundation for the State Insurance Fund that will be governed by an Employment Compensation Commission created in the Labor Code. The said presidential decree suspends effectivity of Titles II and III, Book IV, of the Labor Code. These titles are respectively entitled "Employee Compensation and State Insurance Fund" and "Medicare."

MAYOR, vice mayor, and six councilors of the new municipality of Dupax del Sur, Nueva Vizcaya, have been appointed by the President. They are Mayor William Giron, Vice Mayor Mata L. Reyes, and Councilors Liberate Pudiquet, Remigio Duza, Menas Inocian, Rodrigo Modi, Herminio Vicente, and Rodolfo Caanawan. The new town came into being last November 20, 1974 with the issuance of Presidential Decree No. 586, which put into effect Republic Act 6372. The law, enacted in 1971, created the new town out of the existing town of Dupax.

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath of allegiance to the Republic of the Philippines to 12 foreign nationals belonging to the Society of Jesus who have spent many years living and working among the people of the country. Those who took their oaths of allegiance before the President were: 1) Msgr. Albert van Overberke, Belgian, bishop-prelate of Bayombong, Nueva Vizcaya, who was granted Philippine citizenship under Presidential Decree No. 587, last November 22; 2) Fr. Juan Andechega, 56, Spanish, parish priest of the Mary the Queen Church, San Juan, Rizal; 3) Fr. Maximo Barbero, 42, Spaniard, head of the Religious Department, Xavier School, San Juan, Rizal; 4) Fr. Jose Calle, 52, Spaniard, Loyola Heights, Quezon City; 5) Fr. Jose Caycedo, 56, Columbian, superior of Xavier School, San Juan, Rizal; 6) Fr. David Clifford, 63, American, teacher at the Xavier School, San Juan, Rizal; 7) Fr. Joseph Kaufmann, 59, Hungarian, student counselor at Xavier School, San Juan, Rizal; 8) Fr. Louis Papilla, 61, Hungarian, assistant principal, Xavier School, San Juan, Rizal; 9) Fr. Francis Parisi, 56, Italian director of the Guidance Center, Regina Bldg., Escolta, Manila; 10) Fr. Robert Ricard, 50, Canadian, principal, Santa Maria Catholic School, General Blanco, Iloilo; 11) Fr. Pierre Tritz, 60, French, professor at the University of the East, Far Eastern University and Xavier School; and 12) Fr. Ismael Zuloaga, 46, Spanish, director of the Xavier School, San Juan, Rizal.

THE PRESIDENT received Manette Manalang-Villamor, widow of the late Col. Jesus Villamor, who paid her respects before returning to Washington, after a three-week stay in the Philippines. The widow of the Filipino hero who holds the Philippine Medal of Valor and the Distinguished Conduct Star, as well as the Distinguished Service Cross of the United States, is trying to put together a book which was started by her late husband regarding the exploits of the Filipino underground during World War II.

MALACANANG has issued a proclamation authorizing the Philippine Amateur Track and Field Association to conduct a fund drive from December 15, 1974 to February 28, 1975. The organization needs financial support for the Philippine participation in the Second Asian Track and Field Championships to be held in Seoul, Korea, in June 1975.

December 20—

THE PRESIDENT presided over a three-hour board meeting of the National Economic and Development Authority for a year-end review of the overall economic situation and discussions on prospects for the coming year. It was agreed at the meeting that the growth momentum of the economy has been maintained throughout the year, with a balance of payments surplus at the year's end. It was also agreed that the fiscal position is strong due primarily to compensatory measures adopted by the government to carry on with its major infrastructure projects considered vital to development. In the course of the meeting, the President ordered the NEDA board to study the problems of the copper industry as they relate to the entire mining industry, and to recommend solutions to them. At the end of the meeting, the President administered the oath to Filologo Pante Jr. as NEDA assistant director general.

THE PRESIDENT sought to stabilize the prices of paper products for school use and for packaging purposes by directing Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., who is also chairman of the Price Control Council (PCC), to instruct all manufacturers of paper and paperboard to sell certain paper products directly to manufacturers of socialized or controlled commodities at prices currently charged to commission agents or intermediary distributors. The order was issued, pending determination of maximum price ceilings for these products as directed in LOI 212 issued last September 5, in view of numerous complaints that the prices of paper and paper board used as raw materials for writing pads and notebooks or for packaging or in making socialized or controlled commodities have unreasonably risen. This rise in prices, it was found out, was brought about by the trading of these commodities through commission agents and other intermediary distributors who have to make their commissions.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad hailed the inter-agency project on fish protein concentrate (FPC) as "one concrete project with a concrete objective" behind which he pledged the full support of the Department of Public Information. Speaking during the signing of the memorandum of agreement binding the DPI, the University of the Philippines and the Food and Nutrition Research Center of the National Science Development Board in a joint project to produce FPC on a pilot scale, Secretary Tatad said that FPC could be the long-awaited answer to the country's quest for cheap food that will bridge the protein-calorie gap. He expressed optimism that with the UP and NSDB fully behind the project, it is assured of successful implementation.

THE PRESIDENT said that appointment and advancement in the Career Executive Service are based solely on merit, capability, talent, dedication and loyalty to the public service. At the same time, the President said the retraining of key officials in development management, including the members of the Cabinet, will continue to upgrade the efficiency of the public service. The Chief Executive made this announcement during the commencement exercises of the third session of the Career Executive Service Development Program at the Development Academy of the Philippines in Tagaytay. To dramatize his determination to keep politics and other personal considerations out of appointments, the President appointed on the spot the graduates of the third session of the CESDP as CES officers. The President also appointed and swore into office Nicanor Fuentes, the most outstanding graduate of the first session of the CESDP, as deputy director-general of the National Economic and Development Authority, and Dr. Jesus Azurin, also an outstanding graduate of the second session, as undersecretary of health.

PHILIPPINE Charity Sweepstakes Office was authorized by the President through Presidential Decree No. 610, to hold annually a sweepstakes draw exclusively for the benefit of the Philippine Veterans Assistance Commission (PVAC) to support and maintain veterans assistance projects. The special draw shall be held on the Sunday closest to the Fall of Corregidor which falls on May 6 every year. The fund campaign is in consonance with the provision in Section 3 of PD 244 which authorizes the PVAC to actively solicit, campaign for and receive contributions, donations and other valuable properties or money from private persons and government agencies or institutions. The PVAC is charged with establishing, maintaining and making available to Filipino veterans and ex-servicemen all services needed to provide for employment, medical care, education, and other related services.

MALACANANG authorized the Zarzuela Foundation of the Philippines Inc. to conduct a nationwide fund campaign from January 1 to December 31, 1975 through Proclamation No. 1356. The Foundation is a cultural organization committed to the revival, propagation and presentation of the Filipino zarzuela, which was one of the most popular forms of entertainment among Filipinos from the Spanish period to 1935. The President, in the proclamation signed by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr., called upon all citizens and residents, as well as cultural organizations of the country, to assist in the foundation's laudable objectives by giving generously and to actively support the campaign.

December 21—

THE PRESIDENT and the Cabinet met for a year-end assessment of the economy and agreed that despite threats of recession abroad, the Philippines has performed well and can look forward to a vigorous new year. At the said-meeting, both the President and the Cabinet agreed that food production, low-cost housing, agriculture and infrastructure buildup should continue to have high priorities in 1975.

THE PRESIDENT called on the military to prepare for their role in peacetime under the concept of a Citizen Army, as conditions in the country are fast returning to normalcy. At the same time, the President expressed the latitude of the people to the Armed Forces of the Philippines as it celebrated its 39th anniversary at Camp Aguinaldo in Quezon City. Under the Citizen Army concept, which is provided for in the Constitution, the President pointed out that the armed forces is a citizen army, an army of the people. The President, therefore, called on the military and defense establishment to gradually implement a program to gain the direct support of the people as an organization. The President urged the armed forces to maintain its level of achievement during the past two years, which, he said, were high watermarks not only in the history of the country out of the organization.

December 22—

THE PRESIDENT paved the way for the speedy rehabilitation of destroyed or damaged fish pens in Laguna Lake by directing the grant of temporary license for a period of three years to existing fish pen operators who have heretofore been operating without license from the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources. The grant of the license would enable the fish pen operators to avail themselves of financial assistance as provided for by Letter of Instructions No. 235, from the Development Bank of the Philippines (DBP) or any government financial institution, as well as to restructure their fish pens as to make them conform with rules and regulations governing the size and location of fish pens. No temporary license will be issued however if the fish pen or any portion of it is inside a sea lane or a fish sanctuary. The issuance of the temporary license is subject to the condition that the fish pens are restructured not later than December 31, 1977.

SEMI-autonomous organization has been created by the President for the maintenance of an effective research program attuned to the needs of forest management, production and protection. Presidential Decree No. 607 sets up a Forest Research Institute (FORI) in the Department of Natural Resources that will integrate and conduct forest production and harvesting researches all over the country in line with the national forestry research program developed by the Philippine Council for Agricultural Research (PCAR). The policy-oriented economic research of the Bureau of Forest Development will, however, remain with the said bureau- In issuing the decree, the President stressed that scientific forest management, rational development and vigilant protection are essential to the continuous productivity and economic utilization of these resources.

December 23—

INSTITUTE of Labor and Manpower Studies in the Department of Labor has been created by the President through Presidential Decree No- 620 The President created the Institute in order to enable the department to cope with the expanded tasks and responsibilities as-r signed to it under the Labor Code, which resulted in, increased complexity of its technical and administrative functions. The Institute shall be headed by the executive director who must be a holder of a master's degree in economics, public administration, or any of the social sciences, with at least five years experience on the labor or in manpower fields. The director will be appointed by the President and will be under the direct supervision of the secretary of labor, who will provide the policy guidance, aided by a Council composed of the secretary and undersecretary, assistant secretaries and bureau directors of the department.

AREA reserved for the resettlement of residents of Pantabangan, Nueva Ecija, who were displaced because of the construction of the huge Pantabangan dam complex, has been expanded by the President. The expanded reservation is located in Pantabangan. Other relocation areas designated in Presidential Proclamation No. 983 are located in Bongabon, Nueva Ecija; Dupax, Nueva Vizcaya, and Maria Aurora, subprovince of Aurora. Expansion of the resettlement area in Pantabangan, made through Proclamation No. 1355, was necessitated by the fact that substantial parts of the area reserved in Nueva Vizcaya and Aurora had been developed by cultural minorities. The National Irrigation Administration and Department of Agrarian Reform will jointly, administer all resettlement areas after the transfer of settlers therein in accordance with the memorandum of agreement between the two agencies.

THE PRESIDENT has given agricultural education another big boost by granting autonomy to the Tarlac College of Agriculture (TCA) so that it can perform more vigorously its vital role in the economic development of the country. Through Presidential Decree No. 609, the Chief Executive separated the TCA from the Tarlac College of Technology in Camiling, Tarlac. The now independent state college aims to provide professional, technical and special instruction for special purposes and to promote research extension services and progressive leadership in agriculture, agricultural education, home technology and other related educational fields.

December 24—

THE PRESIDENT asked the housing agencies and labor to get together with government as well as private financing institutions and get financing support for low-cost housing projects that may not be covered by the P500 million fund ordered set aside for worker's housing. The President directed the secretary of labor, along with the Government Service Insurance System, the Social Security System, the National Housing Corporation and the People's Homesite Housing Corporation to start meeting with the DBP and the PNB on the financing of such projects. At the same time, the President directed the secretary of finance and the executive secretary to study what possible incentives could be given to private financing institutions, including insurance firms, to get involved in financing low-cost housing. The effort to raise housing funds from private sources underlines the priority that has been put on housing for workers and low-salaried individuals.

PRESIDENTIAL Commission has been created by the President to review the Code of Filipino Muslim Laws prepared by a research staff he had earlier organized under Memorandum Order No. 370. The codification of Filipino Muslim laws was ordered by the President as part of the effort to achieve national unity and to promote the development of Mindanao and Sulu. In the executive order creating the commission, the President said that "the realization of the aspirations of the Filipino Muslims to have their system of laws enforced in their communities will reinforce the just struggle of the Filipino people to achieve national unity." The chairman of the commission is the dean of the Institute of Islamic Studies of the Philippine Center for Asian Studies, with a Supreme Court representative as vice chairman. Its members are representatives of the Department of Justice, the Integrated Bar of the Philippines, the University of the Philippines Law Center, the Catholic hierarchy, two reputable Muslim lawyers, two learned Ulama and the project officer of the research staff for the codification of Filipino Muslim laws. The research staff created under Memorandum Order 370 shall serve as the secretariat of the commission.

December 25—

THE PRESIDENT has directed the secretary of labor to supervise and control the social amelioration program of the sugar industry. In Presidential Decree No. 621, the President has also ordered the labor secretary to issue rules and regulations on the “proper and equitable” implementation of the program. The decree was issued in response to verified reports that some sugar farm and mill workers have failed to enjoy their legitimate share in the benefits of the program.

PHILIPPINE Tobacco Board (PTB) has been authorized by the President to fix the floor prices of Philippine-grown tobacco to protect the tobacco farmers’ interests in view of the rising cost of production and prices of prime commodities caused by unprecedented worldwide inflation. In a presidential decree issued by the President, the PTB was directed to fix, upon the recommendation of other agencies concerned, a “reasonable and flexible” floor price at which tobacco traders may buy all types of tobacco, except flue-cured Virginia tobacco. Violation by any person of the fixed floor price policy or any of the implementing rules and regulations shall be enough grounds for the cancellation of his permit to trade, and shall be punishable with a fine of not more than P2,000 or imprisonment of not more than one year or both at the discretion of the court.

December 26—

THE PRESIDENT has named Minister Vicente Romero ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary, and Luis Tabuena as acting chairman of the Games and Amusement Board (GAB). Ambassador Romero was a foreign affairs career minister stationed in Hawaii, while Chairman Tabuena was officer-in-charge of GAB. The President has likewise appointed the president of the Pampanga Agricultural College (PAG) and school superintendents of four southern cities. Named president of the agricultural college was Felix V. Remigio. Appointed city superintendents of schools were Pedro C. Aguilar, Cebu City; Iliminado Protasio, Cotabato City; Leopoldo Etulle, Lapu-Lapu City; and Asinudin Saipudin, Pagadian City.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 18—

THE PRESIDENT said that the Philippines which is as adversely affected as any other country by the energy crisis, hopes to start construction of nuclear power plants by June this year. The Chief Executive expressed this hope during the visit of Lord Goronwy-Roberts, Parliamentary undersecretary of state of the United Kingdom, who called at Malacañang following his arrival on an official visit. Lord Goronwy-Roberts conveyed his government's wish for the continued success and prosperity of the Philippines, and the hope for more and closer cooperation between the United Kingdom and the Philippines. The President said that although the cost of fuel imports rose sharply from $200 million to $700 million, forcing the Philippines to borrow $700 million in foreign exchange, the rise in exports resulted in a surplus of $96 million, instead of an expected deficit of $400 million. He said the Philippines is tapping other sources of energy, particularly hydroelectric and geothermal, in order to minimize as much as possible the importation of crude oil which is the source of 75 percent of power used in the country.

THE PRESIDENT said that based on a report submitted by the Petroleum Board, eight exploratory oil wells would be definitely drilled this year. Four other wells could be drilled, also this year, depending on the results of various geological and geophysical studies, he said. The statement was issued after the Petroleum Board briefed the President on the marked acceleration this year of the country's petroleum exploration program. The program has gained tremendous momentum since the issuance of Presidential Decree No. 87, also known as the Oil Exploration and Development Act of 1972.

COMMANDER A. P. Diete-Spiff, military governor of Riverstate, Nigeria, was received by the President following his arrival on a three-day survey trip. The Nigerian official said he had heard of the progress of the Philippines in the last few years and had come to see if he could borrow some ideas from the Philippine experiment which would fit into his own five-year development program. He also invited the Philippines through the First Lady to participate in the "Black World Cultural Festival" to be held in Lagos in November. He said some 50 countries from Latin America, Asia and Africa are participating in the festival. The President and the First Lady thanked the Nigerian official for the invitation, and expressed the hope that he will be successful in his mission.

January 19—

THE PRESIDENT has ordered the adoption of the P1,600 per hectare Masagana 99 loan ceiling to help the "Sabog-Tanim farmers cope with the increased prices of rice production inputs. He directed, through Letter of Instructions No. 242, the release of the required loans to the rice farmers beginning this month to provide them sufficient credit to buy the required inputs, like fertilizer and pesticides. The P1,600 loan ceiling will apply exclusively to all the areas involved in the government's rice recovery program dubbed "operation Recovery," a direct seeding or "sabog-tanim" program covering 150,000 hectares in 56 provinces, to be launched this March.

EXTENSION of the post-operative tariff protection has been ordered by the President to be given to the local manufacture of lubricating oil, including lubricating oil base stock, as a preferred pioneer industry by increasing the customs duty on the product from the present 30 percent to 50 percent through Executive Order No. 447. The Tariff protection was extended after studies conducted by the Board of Investments indicated that the local production of lubricating oil's base stock by the Philippine Petroleum Corp. is viable and needs protection against competing imported items.

January 20—

ALL voters who registered for the last referendum, except those from Manila, Quezon City and Caloocan City do not have to register anew for the forthcoming referendum. This was announced by the President. All the registry lists used for the last plebiscite, July 27 and 28, 1973, outside of those used in the three cities are considered valid for he referendum next February 27, the Chief Executive added. He issued this statement in view of some confusion on the matter of who are required to register for the forthcoming referendum.

THE PRESIDENT called on the wealthy and the affluent to help in the New Society's efforts to improve the lot of the poor and less fortunate people of the country. The Chief Executive issued the call during the inauguration of the P30-million Asian Transmission Corp. plant and the ground-breaking ceremony for the Canlubang Urban Development Project, both in the Canlubang Sugar Estate in this province. During the inauguration of the ATC plant, which is the Chrysler Philippines' commitment to the government's progressive car manufacturing-program, the President expressed the hope that the plant will serve as a model for others throughout the country. He also took the occasion to extend the gratitude of the Filipino people to the government and industrial sector of Japan for their continued assistance and interest in the Philippines.

January 21—

THE PRESIDENT called on developing countries of the world to assert themselves forcefully in the formulation of global economic policies that would hasten the solution of the world's serious problems. He issued the call during the presentation of credential of Ambassador M. B. Bhatti, Pakistan's new ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the Philippines, vice former Ambassador Abdul Aziz Farooq. He also received the letters of credence of Ambassador Daniel Gerald Nutter as Australian ambassador to the Philippines vice former Ambassador Peter Graham Faithful Henderson. "The world is beset with crisis," the President said, "and it is incumbent on the developing countries of the world to assert themselves forcefully in the formulation of world economic policies."

TEACHERS, especially in the field of non-formal education, should try to impart literacy with Philippine cultural concepts, values and attitudes and the knowledge of Philippine, political philosophy or ideology so that the greater masses of the people may participate in political processes and in the task of nation-building. This view was expressed by Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad as he keyed the commencement exercises of the Foundation for Youth Development in the Philippines at the Central Luzon Teachers College in Bayambang, Pangasinan. Citing the Ranis Report which said that "the number of people now being reached by non-formal education greatly exceeds the total number of students in the school system," Secretary Tatad said that the New society's stress in education is on the developmental type that combines the better aspects of liberal education and the technical. He added that the thrust today is on functional education because the previous variety has ceased to be relevant to existing conditions and was markedly impractical, highly Western, abstract, and too other-wordly. The DPI Secretary exhorted the graduates to have an understanding of the Philippines' basic philosophy or

THE PRESIDENT received Maerks McKinney Moller, chairman and principal owner of the A.P. Moller Shipping Company, Scandinavia's largest shipping firm. Mr. Moller, together with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Christian Lund, informed the President of his company's plans to improve its shipping services in the Philippines, particularly improve through conversion to full container service in September. The President thanked them for their continued interest in the development of the Philippines and invited them to participate in oil drilling activities in the Philippines.

CUSTOMS Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina reported to the President an increase of 77.5 percent in customs collections during the last six months of 1974 over those for the same period in 1973. In his report Commissioner Geotina said that total customs collections for July to December, 1974 reached P3,431,720,527, compared to only P1,933,248,688 for the same period in 1973. The customs commissioner pointed out that the total collections for the period were 27.2 percent above budget projections or an excess of almost P710 million. Commissioner Geotina said that only an economic recession of such magnitude as to cause a drastic reduction of dutiable imports and a voluminous drop of Philippine exports on which export premium duties are levied would prevent an estimated customs collection of P6.2 billion, instead of the previous estimate of P5.7 billion, or an increase of P500 million for the current fiscal year.

January 22—

THE PRESIDENT received the Grand Cordon of the Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem, Knight Hospitalier, and became the first leader in Asia to receive the ancient award. The presentation was made by Sir Roland Anthony Podesta, bailiff of the order's Priory of Australia, "as a testament of faith in your leadership and in the numerous achievements of your New Society." The award consists of a white cross about three inches wide hanging by a red sash with a white-hemmed red robe, and an accompanying diploma written in Latin on parchment. The award is given by the Order of St. John only to heads of states, and the President is the first head of state to receive the award in all Asia.

THE PRESIDENT warned that he would cancel the licenses of all wireless communications companies which cannot deliver messages on time. He also directed the Bureau of Posts to sort all air mail letters coming from abroad right at the Manila International Airport instead of the main office of the Bureau. The Chief Executive, at the same time, ordered the Bureau of Posts to install more post office boxes for traders and businessmen at the Post Office. The threat to cancel licenses of wireless companies was made following receipts of many complaints against clients not receiving messages from them on time. The President stressed that he would not tolerate wireless companies not performing their functions properly.

AMBASSADOR Zdzislaw Regulski was received by the President as the most non-resident ambassador of Poland to the Philippines. In presenting his credentials to the President, the Polish ambassador expressed the hope of further developing Polish-Philippine relations particularly in the cultural field, in order to promote greater understanding between them. In response, the President expressed elation over the initiatives being undertaken by the Philippine and Polish governments to promote foreign trade between them.

January 23—

THE PRESIDENT called anew on the rich and the affluent to help in spreading the benefits of wealth for everyone to share. Addressing some 70 participants in the RP-Canada World Youth Exchange Program, who called to pay their respects, the President said: "I have always maintained that the rich and affluent who acquired their property by inheritance and, perhaps through the corruption of the old society, should now help in spreading, the benefits of wealth for everyone to enjoy." He said that he does not intend to bring the rich down to the level of the poor but that he intends to bring the poor to the level of the rich, if not in material possessions, in hope and expectation. The President called on the youth to continue the crusade so that the generations to follow will inherit a better Philippines.

FIVE-hectare portion of the Dagat-Dagatan resettlement area in Navotas, Rizal, has been set aside by the President as the official site of the contest and demonstration for the 1976 International Architectural Competition. The contest and demonstration will be held in connection with the United Nations Conference-Exposition on Human Settlements in Vancouver, Canada. In issuing Proclamation No. 1372, the President hailed the choice of Manila as a demonstration site for the planning of an ideal settlement, as a signal recognition of the innovative human settlements program undertaken by the Philippine government.

MEMBERS of the board of the Compania General de Tabacos de Filipinas of Barcelona, Spain, were received by the President. They called at Malacañang to pay their respects following their arrival in Manila. The Tabacalera officials, headed by Chairman Manuel Meier, will hold their board meeting in Manila, to discuss the expansion of operations of their company in the Philippines. This will be the first time in 94 years that their board meeting is being held in the Philippines.

January 24—

THE PRESIDENT re-structured the Department of Public Highways by creating three additional offices in the department to enable it to perform its functions "with increased effectiveness and efficiency." The Chief Executive released Presidential Decree No. 636 which amends PD 458, creating the DPH. The new decree establishes a Special Projects Service to be responsible for the management and implementation of all special projects financed wholly or in part by foreign loans. The decree likewise creates an administrative division in the Bureau of Construction and Maintenance and a spare parts division in the Bureau of Equipment. The Special Projects Service shall be headed by a director and assisted by an assistant director to be appointed by the President upon the recommendation of the secretary of public highways. The Bureau of Equipment is responsible for the management and "control of all equipment belonging to the DPH, including their repair, maintenance and allocation to the department field offices.

THE PRESIDENT hailed the graduation of the first 46,000 farmers who took the Masaganang Maisan School on the Air course as a big step in the food production drive. He also lauded the distribution of the first 100 shares of stocks of Planters Products to the first 100 farmers who had been adjudged outstanding graduates of the school on the air as a milestone in the democratization of wealth under the New Society. Expressing the gratitude of the entire country to the Rural Broadcasters Council headed by F. Rey Pacheco, and the Kapisanan ng Mga Broadkaster sa Pilipinas (KBP) chaired by Romeo Jalosjos the President said that their generous contribution has enabled the government to bring to the mass level the products of scientific research in farm techniques.

FORMER Secretary of Education Onofre D. Corpuz was inducted by the President as president of the University of the Philippines, vice Dr. Salvador P. Lopez who, in turn, was appointed President congratulated Dr. Lopez for his successful leadership during the most tumultuous history of the state university. He also upheld academic freedom in the university, saying that there has to be a zone of sanity, of clear unadulterated thought, so that turmoil can be seen at a distance and hopefully provide an approach to the service of society. He added that the new leadership is now faced with challenge of maintaining the intellectual integrity of the university.

April 7—

THE PRESIDENT gave the Philippine Coast Guard the sole authority to issue permits for salvaging derelicts and sunken vessels or wrecks, and the Bureau of Customs the sole authority to issue permits for salvaging cargoes carried by sunken vessels. Previously, both agencies had the power to issue permits for these purposes independent of each other, resulting in an overlapping of functions between the two agencies. No license or permit for salvage operations, however, shall be valid unless approved by the President. The President made the clear division of functions between the two agencies, through Letter of Instructions No. 263, directed to the Coast Guard commandant and the customs commissioner, "to promote simplicity, economy and efficiency in the government service and to provide a healthier economic atmosphere for the salvage operations business."

THE GOVERNMENT has acquired ownership of Luzon Stevedoring Corporation, with the sale of 99.8 percent of the company's outstanding shares of common stock to the Philippine National Oil Co. and the Land Bank. The purchase was consummated at signing ceremonies held at the Lusteveco's main office at Port Area, Manila. PNOC Chairman and President Geronimo Z. Velasco signed the documents of sale in behalf of the buyers. Alberto M. K. Jamir, director and corporate secretary of Lusteveco, represented some 150 shareholders who sold 3,005,790 out of a total of 3,010,900 shares outstanding. In a statement, Chairman Velasco said that acquisition of said corporation by the PNOC will enhance the latter's operational flexibility and assist in the rationalization of the petroleum industry. At the same time, the acquisition by the Land Bank of part ownership of Lusteveco is consistent with its policy of diversifying its asset portfolio, he added.

HOLDERS of doctor of philosophy degree (Ph. D.) in chemistry or their equivalent are now allowed to register as chemists without the need of examination. The new chemistry law, as provided-by Presidential Decree No. 683, recognizes the "long and rigorous training" of Ph. D. degree holders.

THE PRESIDENT received Ichiro Fujimoto, president of Kawasaki Steel Corp., who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang following his arrival here to inspect the progress of the work on the P1.5 billion iron ore sinter plant being set up by his company in Misamis Oriental. Secretary of Industry Vicente Paterno, concurrently chairman of the Board of Investment, who was present during the call, explained that the sinter plant, which is exclusively owned by the Kawasaki Steel Corp., will process iron ore from nearby countries, primarily Australia, mix it with limestone from the Visayan islands and burn it into a sinter. This raw material will be shipped to blast furnaces in Japan to produce steel, Secretary Paterno said.

THE PRESIDENT received officials of the First National City Bank of New York, headed by George J. Vojta, executive vice president, who paid their respects at Malacañang. Mr. Vojta, who also heads the bank's international banking group, informed the President that his company is inaugurating the Citibank Center building in Makati, Rizal, as a manifestation of faith and confidence in the future of the country. "You have done well," Mr. Vojta informed the President, "and our chairman has asked me to convey his congratulations and best wishes" FNCB, or Citibank, has reputedly the largest banking network in the world, with branches, subsidiaries and affiliates in 103 countries.

EXACTLY $159 million (P1.113 billion) in new foreign equity investment poured into various local enterprises last year, the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) reported. As registered with the Central Bank, last year's new foreign equity investments bring to $335 million the total approved foreign investments since February 21, 1970. Of the $159 million, $146 million or 92 per cent was in cash, the NEDA said. Unremitted dividends, profits and loans and technical fees converted to equity amounted to $10 million or six per cent while investment's in kind came to P3 million or two per cent of the total. Investments inwardly remitted amounted to $123 million, the NEDA reported. This represents an increase of 84 per cent over the previous year's total of $103.32 million. The increase in foreign equity investments was registered during the year in spite of inflation, recession and rising prices of oil, the NEDA said. This was a result of a much improved business climate which includes improvements in peace and order, increased government support for industrial development through attractive and liberalized investment incentive measures, priority allocation of loans to the industrial sector and continuing government aid to industry the NEDA added.

THE GOVERNMENT has signed a P754 million loan, agreement with 55 electric cooperatives in a move to step up rural electrification in the country. Col. Pedro G. Dumol, acting administrator of the National Electrification Administration (NEA), said in a conference with the mass media and representatives of the business sector the amount includes funds for the procurement of $26.5 million worth of electrification equipment and materials. As of last fiscal year, Acting Administrator Dumol, said, 778 towns and 63 cities have been served with electricity by NEA cooperatives and private franchise holders. NEA cooperatives cover 122 towns and seven cities while private franchise holders have 656 towns and 56 cities, including the Greater Manila Area. Acting Administrator Dumol said the electrification in the country will be a continuing program as envisioned by Presidential Decree No. 40 and Letter of Instruction No. 38 which provides for the integration of private and municipal systems into electric cooperatives.

DEPARTMENT of Labor warned seamen applicants to refrain from dealing with unauthorized persons in their quest for employment aboard foreign-going vessels. The warning followed reports that certain persons and agencies were still entertaining seamen applications despite circulars instructing otherwise. Under the new Labor Code, only the National Seamen Board has the authority to recruit Filipino Seamen for employment aboard ocean-going vessels free of charge. Acting Labor Secretary Amado Inciong said any recruitment activity shall be ground for the revocation, suspension or cancellation of the license granted to recruiting shipping agents or representatives.

April 8—

THE PRESIDENT said that the greater monument which Filipinos can build in fulfillment of the dreams of the heroes who gave their lives in Bataan is a New Society where the people can live in freedom, peace and prosperity. At the unveiling of a Bataan Memorial erected at the center of the Ayala triangle in Makati, Rizal, the President pointed to the monument and stressed that it was not only a homage to the past but was also a symbol of the future. Depicting the gallantry, the struggle and the suffering that was Bataan, the memorial was of five bronze figures of mound representing the hills of Bataan where Filipino and American troops made their gallant stand against the invading Japanese forces in the early months of World War II. "Today, we are building a greater monument," the President said. "As memorials like this remind us of the turbulence of war, they also remind us of the dangers that confront us while building a nation. If there be any leader who shrinks at the threat of the hooting crowd, then he must face the accusations of those men for whom this memorial is built."

THE GOVERNMENT approved the exportation of four major Philippine products to Mainland China valued at $4,448 million (P29.59 million). The approval was made by the Department of Trade under the provisions of Executive Order No. 384 which set the guidelines for trade with socialist and communist countries. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. said the export to be made by the Philippine International Trading Corporation (PITC), a semi-government trading agency, consists of copper concentrates, $1.7 million; crude coconut oil, $1.79 million; and sawn logs and plywood, $740,996.

April 9—

THE PRESIDENT and President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania pledged to promote closer cooperation and understanding for the mutual benefit of the peoples of the Philippines and Romania. The two heads of state exchanged pledges during the welcome ceremonies held at the Manila International Airport where the President and the First Lady led the official welcome for President and Madame Ceausescu, who are on a four-day state visit to the Philippines. In welcoming the visiting Romanian President, the President said the event marks the start of a new era for the further strengthening of the bonds of friendship and mutual understanding between the two countries which opened diplomatic relations only three years ago. The President said that with the visit, the two countries can now move into cooperation not only for mutual advancement and prosperity, but to advance the cause of peace and international understanding.

THE PRESIDENT and visiting President Nicolae Ceausescu of the Socialist Republic of Romania exchanged decorations in a ceremony held at Malacañang. The President conferred on the Romanian President the "Order of Sikatuna, rank of rajah," while the latter conferred on the former the "Steaua Republicii Socialiste Romania, Clasa I." The President also conferred the "Order of Gabriela Silang," on Madame Ceausescu while President Ceausescu likewise conferred the "Order of the 23rd August" award on the First Lady. The "Steaua Republicii Socialiste Romania, Clasa I" award represents the star of the Romanian Republic in solid gold. It is awarded to foreign heads of state who foster the promotion of international friendship and cooperation. The "Order of 23rd August" conferred upon the Philippine First Lady, is similarly made of gold and is conferred upon First Ladies of foreign heads of state. The award has been established to commemorate August 23, 1944, the day Romanian workers liberated their country from Hitler's war machine.

NATIONAL Grains Authority Administrator Jesus Tanchanco signed for the Philippine government an implementing contract for the supply of US $1.5 million rice donation from Japan under the Kennedy Round Agreement. Co-signing in behalf of the Japanese suppliers, Mitsui, Nichimen, Ataka and Sumitomo, was assistant General Manager Juri Kudo of the Mitsui and Co., Ltd., Manila branch.

April 10—

THE PRESIDENT and visiting President Nicolae Ceausescu of the Socialist Republic of Romania briefed one another on the economy of their respective countries for the purpose of exploring possible areas where the two economies could complement each other to their mutual advantage. In the course of the briefings, the two Presidents witnessed the signing of a contract for the acquisition by the Philippine government of an oil drilling rig. The contract was signed by Geronimo Velasco, president of the Philippine National Oil Company, and Emilian D. Uleia, president-director general of Industrial Export, Bucharest, Romania. The President likewise expressed the hope that a similar agreement with Romania for the acquisition of equipment for the exploitation of the Philippines' rich geothermal power resources, would soon be finalized. Accompanied by their First Ladies, the two heads of state boarded the RPS "Aug Pangulo" on Pier 15 in Manila.

NATIONAL Grains Authority will collect irrigation fees which will be in palay form starting July 1 this year. The NGA will remit to the National Irrigation Administration (NIA) the money value of the total palay collected as fees from farmers all over the country. Under the revised rate of irrigation fees, a farmer will pay two-and-a-half cavans per hectare during wet season, and three-and-a-half cavans of palay per hectare during dry season. The revised system of collecting irrigation fees was signed by NGA Administrator Jesus Tanchanco and NIA Administrator Alfredo Juinio.

FOUR revised secretarial courses have been approved for implementation beginning school year 1975-76 by Secretary of Education Juan L. Manuel. The revised programs are the live-month non-credit courses in typing, stenography, and office procedures; one-year general clerical courses; two-year junior secretarial course; and the four-year bachelor of science in secretarial administration. Private Schools Director Julian B. Yballe said the Bureau of Private Schools would give schools currently offering six-month secretarial courses one year to prepare for the five-month non-credit course in typing, stenography, and office procedures; and the one-year general clerical course. The new five-month non-credit course is described as purely technical program consisting of at least 50 hours of practicum. It will be open to high school graduates, whether or not they pass college entrance examination.

MALACAÑANG has authorized the National Youth Council Philippines to conduct an educational, membership and fund drive from April 1 to September 30, 1975. Proclamation No. 1410, issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. for the President, said proceeds of the fund campaign would finance the First Asian Youth Cultural Festival, known as "KULTURASYA", to be held in Manila in December this year, and the NYCP's charitable, educational, civic and benevolent activities. In issuing the proclamation, the Executive Secretary called upon all citizens, professionals, military establishments, business and economic sectors, local government, institutions of learning and other groups, whether Filipinos or aliens, to contribute their share in the undertaking.

April 11—

PHILIPPINE export earnings for the first three months of 1975 totalled $590,947,891, with sugar as the prime export product, Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina reported. Basic and premium duties collected from the export trade amounted to P581.3 million. The top 15 export products and their earnings were: sugar, $78,473,471; copper concentrates, $24,972,510; coconut oil, $18,696,526; logs, $13,704,098; bananas, $11,538,179; copra in bulk, $11,365,750; molasses, $4,825,967; handicrafts, $3,203,387; abaca fiber, $2,427,357; desiccated coconut, $1,737,556 ; plywood, $1,575,613 ; lumber, $1,507,232; cement, $1,404,135; copra cake expeller pellets, $1,337,874, and chrome bearing iron ore, $1,239,262.

April 12—

THE GOVERNMENTS of the Republic of the Philippines and the Socialist Republic of Romania formally laid the foundation for lasting cooperation with the signing of five documents in Malacañang. Signed by the President in behalf of the Philippines, and by President Nicolae Ceausescu for Romania, the documents were: 1) Joint Solemn Declaration; 2) Joint Communiqué; 3) Basic Agreement in Economic and Technical Cooperation; 4) Trade Agreement; and 5) Agreement on Scientific and Technical Cooperation. The President said that the documents not only constitute “pledges to international cooperation, but constitute a symbolic manifestation of the faith of the two countries in the future, despite tensions and actual wars that ravage many parts of the world.” Continuing, the President said that “the documents represent a promise to our peoples that we join hands in seeking to elevate the standards of living of the individual nations and countries,” and, at the same time, seek “to attain the greater goals of international peace and the establishment of one family of humanity.”

THE PHILIPPINES has begun a hard-headed reassessment of its security ties with, the United States, including the continued presence of American military bases, after the President had stated that developments in Indochina have compelled the government to review its policies on security and development. The President made the statement during a dinner hosted by visiting Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu, the first socialist head of state ever to visit the Philippines. As of April 1, three government agencies had been put to work on the question of the usefulness to the Philippines of the American military bases. In a recent meeting of the Joint Mutual Defense Board, the President directly asked the American panel to inform the Philippine government how useful the bases were to the United States, and for how long they would continue to maintain them in the Philippines. The Philippines, maintains a mutual defense treaty with the US which in theory says that an attack on the Philippines will be considered an attack on the US and will be instantly dealt with. Philippine officials today, however, doubt that such a proviso protects the country enough.

April 13—

THE PRESIDENT hailed the visit of President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania to the Philippines as a very short but productive one. The President and the First Lady led the official sendoff for President and Madame Ceausescu and their party. In bidding goodbye to the Romanian president, the President said that “your visit has been too short but it was marked by a relaxed and free exchange of ideas which led to the most productive conversations and negotiations resulting in nine agreements.” The President said that the visit is historic because it opens the gateway to Philippine relationships with countries of Eastern Europe. Before boarding the plane, President Ceausescu expressed confidence that with the signing of the agreements by him and the President, the foundation for a lasting cooperation and friendship, particularly cooperation in the economic, technical, scientific and cultural areas, will have been laid. The Romanian President said that in establishing the foundation of lasting cooperation between Romania and the Philippines “we are also contributing to the cause of international collaboration.” He reiterated his invitation to the President and the First Lady to visit his country, saying “we are looking forward with great joy to receiving you in Romania as soon as possible.”

THE PRESIDENT and President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania approved the contract previously entered into by the Philippine National Power Corp. and the Import-Export Enterprise of Romania. The two heads of state signed the contract shortly before the departure of President and Madame Ceausescu at the end of their four-day stay in the Philippines. Under the contract, the Import-Export Enterprise of Romania will supply the equipment and financing at concessional terms for a 50-megawatt thermal unit which, can be fired with, either coal or crude oil in Cebu. In approving the contract, the President said that it was another manifestation of collaboration between the two countries in economic matters. He also thanked President Ceausescu for the grant of the loan under concessional terms. In response to the President, President Ceausescu urged the organization in the Philippines and in Romania of groups to expand economic, technical and scientific collaboration between the two countries.

April 14—

THE PRESIDENT created the Farm System Development Corporation to promote and help farmers organize irrigation associations geared for the improvement of agricultural methods. He assured, through Presidential Decree No. 681, that these associations, together with other farm-related entities which similarly aim to improve farming, processing and marketing methods, will be given “every tenable support by the national government to make them effectively established and operationally stable. With an authorized capital stock of P800 million, the corporation has been authorized, empowered and directed to promote the organization of, and assist farmer associations, particularly irrigation associations, to achieve the objectives of hastening rural development.

STAGGERED working hours will be in effect for the duration of the summer season. The Office of the President issued Memorandum Circular No. 812-A prescribing the working hours from April 1 to June 15, inclusive, to give ample time to government employees for weekend visits to the province and to promote local tourism. Under the circular, heads of departments and of independent offices, as well as of provincial, city and municipal governments have been granted the discretion to group their employees into two to let these groups enjoy a three-day weekend alternately. The usual office hours (7:30 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.; and 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays) will be observed, except that the group scheduled for a three-day weekend will work only from 7 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Fridays and from 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Mondays. These working hours shall not apply to the offices in Baguio City, whether national, provincial or municipal, and to officers and employees engaged in field work.

April 15—

THE PRESIDENT ordered, through Presidential Decree No. 684, the formation of barangay youth organizations to give the young a medium through which they could express their views and opinions on issues of great significance. To be known as “Kabataang Barangay”, these youth organizations shall be formed in every barangay and will be composed of all residents who are less than 18 years old. In defining the youth organization, PD 684 stipulates that the affairs of the said organization shall be administered by a barangay youth chairman, together with at least six barangay youth leaders, all of whom shall at least be 15 years old but less than 18 years old. They shall be chosen by a barangay youth assembly from among its members at a meeting called for the purpose. The President saw the need of organizing the country’s youth in the result of the last referendum where they “congenitly displayed their zeal and capability to participate in the ventilation of vital national and local issues affecting their welfare and the future of their country.”

REASSESSMENT of security arrangements with other countries, the President said, is a matter of necessity for the Philippines and is not intended to embarrass anyone. The President made this statement during the call of the Class of 1975 of the National Defense College of the Philippines, who came to pledge “undying loyalty to the President, and “unswerving support” to his program of reforms, inferring to the United States, the President said “there is no hostility which motivates the reassessment,” adding it is “an inquiry on the part of a younger brother addressed to an elder brother on whom he depended, not because of especial relations, but because of written treaties and agreements.” The President emphasized that these written treaties and agreements were signed by the duly authorized representatives of government and duly ratified and confirmed by the respective Congresses of the Philippines and the United States.

LAND Bank of the Philippines has approved P13,259,050 worth of loans to LB bondholders and other clients from May 1974 to March 31, 1975. Land Bank President Basillio Estanislao said that most of the loans were granted to LB bondholders, whose lands were transferred to farmer-tenants by virtue of Presidential Decree No. 27. The projects for which the LB loans were granted were catfish culture, piggery projects, trucking, rice milling, hand tractors farming, infrastructure project, construction of truck and vehicle bodies, marble and metal craft, rubber footwear manufacturing and fishing. He said the LBP was also granting medium and long, term loans to finance industrial, agricultural and other types of projects. Priority areas in the grant of LBP loans are board of investment-registered industries, labor intensive projects, and export-oriented enterprises.

April 16—

THE PRESIDENT warned that developments in Indochina signify a patent change in the balance of forces in Southeast Asia which could lead to an increase in insurgency and widespread instability in this region. In a major foreign policy speech at the traditional annual reunion of the University of the Philippines Law Alumni Association, the President asserted that this change in the balance of forces would compel nations in the area to re-examine their problems on security which could result in new tensions in this part of the world. In his speech, the President recalled that in the past, the people have not been privy to behind-the-scenes discussions about security arrangements that vitally concerned them. "Under the New Society, I feel it is my sworn duty to take the people into my confidence because my predecessors, for reasons of state then obtaining, were compelled to withhold information from the people," the President said. "I believe that in view of the new situation in which we find ourselves, they must be told frankly and without equivocation what clarifications and safeguards we are seeking to ensure our national security," he added. The President further added that the future of RP-US relationship must be discussed as early as possible on the basis of complete reciprocity of interest. With the rapid developments in the region, the President said that more fundamental clarifications have to be made if the present basic RP-US relationship is to continue, particularly, he said, clarification on the problem of common defense against external aggression.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad has urged local drug manufacturers to invest a part of their time and resources in programs that will improve the environment. Addressing the Chamber of Filipino Drug Manufacturers at Makati, Rizal, Secretary Tatad said the industry must continue to be aware that the very operations of medical care in the country today are transforming the lives of the people. He also said he believes that in common with the objective of dispersing the fruits of the cures of medical science, the industry must invest in programs to acquaint people of their health needs "to keep them away from hospitals and medicine." Secretary Tatad observed that in discussing how the goals of the Filipino drug manufacturers might be advanced and its business interests secured, one must speak of how fast the industry is catching up with the boon of medical science in the world and how bravely it penetrates the life of our society.

COMMISSIONER Misael P. Vera has ordered all regional directors and revenue district officers to stop all investigations, more particularly those on the 1974 returns, until further notice from his office. He said no authorization to investigate shall be issued without his specific approval and any authorization already issued by revenue district officers and regional directors were considered cancelled. Taxpayers were requested to report immediately to the commissioner any authorization served on them without his written approval. Commissioner Vera also announced he had created a special group of ranking officials in the national office to look into issuances of authorizations in violation of standing regulations and to submit a report immediately on the matter.

SPOUSES and dependents of American servicemen and civilians and employees working in US military bases in the Philippines are subject to documentary and science stamp taxes on the tax clearance certificates procured by them, regardless of whether the cost of transportation is borne by the US government. Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera issued the ruling to resolve a controversy between military bases authorities in Subic Naval base and the revenue district officer of Olongapo City. The BIR chief's ruling upheld the stand taken by Olongapo district officer Ladislao Firmacion that spouses and dependents of the US servicemen and civilians employed in US military bases were not exempt from the payment of documentary and science stamps.

April 17—

THE PRESIDENT received Datuk Lee San Choon, Malaysian minister of labor and manpower, who paid his respects to the President following his recent arrival as official guest of Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople. The Malaysian minister, who had visited the International Rice Research Institute (IRRI) and the UP in Los Baños, as well as the Development Academy of the Philippines, in Tagaytay, expressed confidence in the bright future of the country under the President's leadership. The President and the Malaysian labor official exchanged views on fast moving events in the region, particularly in Phnom Penh and Saigon, and expressed deep concern for the security of the region.

THIS year's summer rice harvest under Phase IV of the Masagana 99 program rose by 15 per cent or from 72 cavans per hectare last year to 82 cavans. According to Agriculture Secretary Arturo R Tanco Jr., the 82 cavans per hectare yield under the Masagana Phase IV "is a 100 per cent improvement over the measly 40 cavans per hectare a farmer got before inception of the Masagana 99 rice production programs in 1973 " Reports consolidated by the National Food and Agriculture Council (NF AC) from 28 provinces showed that more than 6.3 million cavans of palay were initially harvested from 76,520 hectares.

April 18—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the initial release of P6 million for the construction of the building for the School Economics of the University construction of the Philippines in Diliman, Quezon City. The President announced plans for the building at the closing session of the 10th Training Program in Development Economics, sponsored jointly by the University of the Philippines and the National Economic and Development Authority, at Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. The training program, which is similar to the training program at the Development Academy of the Philippines in Tagaytay, and others, seeks to strengthen the planning staffs of government agencies, regional, national and local by enabling participants to acquire the correct perspective in economic development and evaluation.

THE PRESIDENT directed Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile to promulgate rules and regulations to ensure the effective implementation of the decree penalizing the illegal trading and export of Philippine sugar. In Presidential Decree No. 686, the defense secretary was also ordered to require, if necessary, all sugar producers, millers, warehousemen, traders and other persons handling stocks of sugar to submit monthly reports under oath on the sugar actually being handled and traded by them. This, the President said, would enable the government to monitor sugar movements all over the country.

THE PRESIDENT announced he would call a meeting of the Foreign Policy Council to consider the various options available to the Philippines in view of developments in Cambodia and Vietnam. In a speech at the annual alumni homecoming and national convention of the UP Vanguard, Inc., the President said he intends to hold the meeting at Malacañang. The President said that he has also invited fellow members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations to join hands in a study of the problems and to formulate regional solutions to them. Among the questions to be considered during his meeting with foreign policy advisers, according to the President, are: 1) If the RP-US Mutual Defense Treaty does not guarantee any defense of the country, is the Philippines going to discard the pact? 2) The taking over of US military bases in the Philippines, if necessary, and the change in administration of those bases; 3) The upgrading of the capability of the armed forces in order to maintain facilities for international protection; and 4) Possible establishment of a neutral zone in the general area to be known as Southwest Pacific Area.

CENTRAL Bank has liberalized further its policy regarding foreign investments in Philippine stocks. Through a memorandum issued by the Central Bank, the Monetary Board allowed the direct reinvestment of cash dividends and proceeds of sale of stock dividends accruing to foreign investors in other Philippine stocks traded in the local exchanges. The memorandum, in effect, amended another memorandum to authorized agent banks, dated August 9, 1974, which only allowed the direct investment in CB-approved Philippine securities under Circular No 365. This circular required the registration of foreign investors in local stocks with the CB.

April 19—

THE FIRST Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, left for Jakarta on two important missions for the country and for the President. The First Lady was invited by Madame Suharto to attend the inauguration of Mini Indonesia Indah, the Indonesian version of Nayong Pilipino. The First Lady also brought with her a message from the President to President Suharto, regarding the advisability of holding a summit meeting, of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to discuss urgent matters, especially the latest developments in Indo-China. MALACANANG has created an inter-agency committee to evaluate and recommend a mode of mass transit for Metropolitan Manila. Memorandum Order No. 503 issued by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor named National Economic and Development Authority Deputy Director General Antonio Locsin as chairman of the committee. The inter-agency committee shall evaluate and recommend alternative mass transit modes, the transport requirements or urban development and the development of satellite growth centers.

MONETARY Board has increased the loan value of refined gold bought by commercial banks from gold producer from 80 to 100 per cent. The loan is payable in one year. This Monetary Board action is contained in an advice sent to commercial banks. It amends Circular No. 401 which previously authorized commercial banks (gold dealers) with P1 billion assets and P100 million networth to buy and sell gold and extend financing to local gold producers. With the new circular, the primary gold producer will get an additional 20 per cent in credits for its gold output. Where before if the value of the producer's gold was P10 million, it could borrow from commercial bank gold dealer P8 million. Now, that producer can get P10 million. According to the CB the increase in loan value "may be regarded as an initial step towards the adoption of appropriate guidelines which were ordered by the President sometime in January this year, to accelerate an increase in gold production."

April 20—

THE PRESIDENT ordered that areas covered by the Leyte geothermal reservation be extended outside of its present boundaries to speed up the government's search for geothermal energy. The President added 73,265 more hectares to the previous 34,360 hectares of reservation established under Proclamation No. 1112. In issuing Proclamation No. 1412, amending Proclamation No. 1112, the President said that "subsequent studies conducted in the exploration area indicated that the probable geothermal reservoir extends outside of the boundaries established for reservation."

April 21—

THE PRESIDENT appointed Judge Mariano V. Agcaoili of the Court of First Instance of Manila as associate justice of the Court of Appeals. He will take the place of Justice Ruperto G. Martin who was elevated recently to the Supreme Court by the President. One of the ablest judges in the Manila CFI, Justice Agcaoili has been dubbed “the fastest gavel among Manila judges in 1974.”

MONETARY Board has given rural banks broader powers and wider scope of operations by allowing them to invest in allied undertakings such as warehousing, processing mills, drying facilities and storage companies. Rural banks may make equity investments in companies organized for these undertakings provided that such business are for agricultural production or other agricultural purposes. However, the Central Bank laid down a set of guidelines covering the investment of rural banks in such allied undertakings. It shall not be allowed to invest in an allied undertaking if a stockholder or group of stockholders owning more than 20 per cent of the voting stock of the rural bank owns or controls directly or indirectly (within the third degree of consanguinity or affinity) 30 per cent or more of the voting stock of the allied undertaking, except as may otherwise be authorized by the monetary board.

HEALTH Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan underscored the need for a continuing process of updating and upgrading the competency of the country’s medical practitioners. Speaking before the graduating class of the UP postgraduate circuit course at Tacloban City, Secretary Gatmaitan said this continuous process is needed in view of the rapid and tremendous expansion of medical knowledge that resulted in major changes in the management of disease. He added this process could not only be a continuous education. The health secretary said it is in the light of this consideration that the department of health has always supported proposals on programs designed to provide continuing medical education. He said the department has already arranged for the holding of postgraduate courses, scientific meetings, seminars and similar activities in collaboration with various government and private agencies, including the training courses organized for specialty groups like anesthesiologists, radiologists, surgeons, dentists and other disciplines.

THE PHILIPPINES now occupies the ninth position among the world’s major flu-cured tobacco producers and is the fifth biggest flu-cured tobacco producer in Asia, registering a total production of 65.7 million pounds in 1974, according to the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration (PVTa). Quoting from the latest issue of the Foreign Agriculture circular, PVTa Chairman-General Manager Federico B. Moreno said that outside the United States, important upward trends in burley production are occurring in Italy, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, Japan, the Philippines Argentina and Yugoslavia. The same publication, Moreno said reported a slump in the production of cigar tobacco as a result of a lower Philippine tobacco crop last year.

FOREIGN Corporations which enter into mining service contracts with local groups must pay the latter 60 per cent of the proceeds of production after deducting costs and expenses. This was the official ruling handed down by the Securities and Exchange Commission as it rejected the royalty scheme as basis for payment of the operation by a foreign firm of a Philippine mine. The ruling, unless reversed by higher authorities, becomes the implementing government policy for the exploration, development, exploitation and utilization of the country’s natural resources under the service contracts authorized by the new Constitution and Presidential Decree No. 151.

BOARD of Investments Chairman Vicente T. Paterno defended raw material producing nations’ aspirations to form commodity unions by saying that such organizations are advantageous to both producing and consuming nations. Brushing aside charges of some consuming nations that commodity unions are actually “cartels”, Chairman Paterno said, “I maintain that such associations (commodity unions) should be encouraged rather than dissuaded.”

THE PHILIPPINES is making a strong bid for the inclusion of most of its export products to the United States for duty-free treatment under the US Generalized System of Preference (GSP). Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. directed the Bureau of Foreign Trade to prepare a list of Philippine products for inclusion in the GSP. The additional products recommended for GSP eligibility considered of lead tobacco, coconut oil, cordage, abaca placements and tablemats, tuna, fruit mixtures, fruit peels, pineapple juice, scrap tobacco, cigars and cheroots, lace net articles and other furnishings.

April 22—

THE PRESIDENT said that the transfer of political responsibility for the Muslim areas into Muslim hands is the most important solution initiated by the government in dealing with the Mindanao situation. The Chief Executive made this statement before some 400 officials of the Department of Education and Culture and superintendents of public, private and vocational schools, who called at Malacañang to renew their pledge of loyalty to the President and all-out support of the goals of the New Society. The President said he had created the Southern Philippines Development Administration to take the place of all the agencies involved in the rehabilitation and development of the South, such as the National Integration Commission, Mindanao Development Authority, Special Program of Assistance for Returned Evacuees (SPARE), and the Presidential Task Force for the Rehabilitation of Mindanao. He also said he had accepted the resignations of the governor of Sulu and governors of Lanao del Norte and Lanao del Sur. In place of the governor of Lanao del Sur, the President said he had appointed Brig. Gen. Mamarinta Lao. In addition, the President said he had relieved the mayors of Salvador, Sapad and Magsaysay, Lanao del Sur, who had abused their power by taking over Muslim lands. In this way, the President said, government offices will be run by Muslims themselves in the areas where they live.

JUSTICE Department ruled that an erring government officer or employee found guilty of administrative charges does not necessarily forfeit his right to retirement and other benefits so long as the penalty he incurs is less than dismissal or removal from office. Acting Justice Secretary Catalino Macaraig issued the ruling in response to a request for opinion made Agriculture Secretary Arturo Tanco Jr. The request concerned a government official who was administratively charged but who, during the pendency of the formal hearing against him, reached the compulsory retirement age of 65 years.

April 23—

CLIMAX of the Zamboanga Peace Conference was the meeting between the Filipino Muslim leaders and former rebel commanders at Malacañang on April 21, 1975. The highlight of the meeting was the declaration of the President that “henceforth, the responsibility and authority in Southern Philippines, particularly in the Muslim communities, shall be transferred and delegated to Filipino Muslims.” This is in accordance with the constitutional and New Society policy on local autonomy. In line with this pronouncement, the President announced that the eleven (11) regional divisions of the whole country under PD No. 224, dated June 22, 1972 shall be modified. Under this set-up, all the regional centers are in non-Muslim cities. The President ordered that two regions shall be organized, namely: 1) Lanao del Norte, Lanao del Sur, Maguindanao and Sultan Kudarat as Central Mindanao region with the regional center at Cotabato City; and 2) Sulu, Tawi-Tawi, Basilan, Zamboanga del Sur and Zamboanga del Norte as Southern Mindanao region with regional capital at Jolo, Sulu. The objectives of this regional re-organization is to group together economically contiguous areas in accordance with their cultural groups and historic associations. The establishment of regional centers in Muslim areas is to insure the development of the Muslim areas and greater national attention to local needs.

THE PRESIDENT called on the private sector to join hands with the government in providing the optimum level of medical care services for the people. The President issued the appeal in a speech read for him by Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan of Health, at the opening of the 68th annual convention of the Philippine Medical Association, at the University of Sto. Tomas. The President pointed out that when the reform program was launched to provide every man his measure of justice, peace and dignity, “we aimed not merely at the distribution of material benefits but of social benefits as well.” The President expressed confidence that jointly, the government and the private sector can accomplish more and that, therefore, the cooperation of the two sectors which has been successful in the past, shall continue for the sake of the country and the people.

SUSPENSION of the issuance of any titles or granting of any rights to any portion of land within the former naval reservation in the Ternate-Naic-Looc area in Cavite was ordered by the President because the initial survey reports show that the former US naval reservation, which was transferred to the Philippine government, has been encroached upon by private claimants, some of whom have obtained titles. The President ordered a general review to be undertaken for the purpose of determining the validity of such titles and claims. Titles or rights obtained by fraud will be reviewed and proceedings undertaken for their immediate cancellation. The participation of any employee in any branch of the government shall be investigated and all the parties found guilty of fraud shall be prosecuted.

THE PRESIDENT returned the power to give appropriate examination for public school teachers to the Civil Service Commission by amending provisions of Republic Act No. 6040. He made the announcement before some 400 school superintendents and officials who made a courtesy call at Malacañang. Under Section 9 of R.A. 6040 of August 4, 1969, the Department of Education and Culture was given sole power to conduct appropriate examinations for public school teachers "with the assistance of the Civil Service Commission." Accordingly the president issued Presidential Decree No. 688 returning such power to the CSC by amending Section 9 paragraph 7 of R.A. 6040 which amended section 23 of R. A. 2260 "insofar as the teachers' examinations are concerned," and all provisions of other acts and decrees inconsistent with the provisions of the new decree. In issuing the decree, the President said the move was necessary "to give meaning and substance to Articles 11 (1) and (B) of the new Constitution. Besides, the President pointed out in the decree, the CSC has better facilities than the DEC, to give appropriate examinations for public school teachers.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the accommodation of an additional 300 qualified applicants for the National Integrated Study Grant for the coming school year. This increases the number of scholars under the scholarship program of the Commission on National Integration, from 4,000 to 4,300 for the school year 1975-1976 under Letter of Instructions No. 271 authorizing the increase in the number of CNI scholars. The President also directed that such grantee receive an allowance not exceeding P1, 500 yearly during the prescribed period of grant, or P150 monthly, exclusive of tuition and other school fees. The President directed the budget commissioner to release the necessary funds so that the LOI can be implemented immediately. The LOI underscores the importance which the President attaches to the extension of all available opportunity to deserving members of the cultural minorities to acquire the benefits of education so that they can become useful members of society.

FINANCE Secretary Cesar Virata abolished the special committee on claims for reward in the finance department and replaced it with an inter-agency committee. The creation of the new committee was embodied in Department Order No. 11-75 to facilitate the processing of reward claims in the department and the various bureaus and offices under it. Secretary Virata directed the old special committee on claims for reward to turn over all its records to the new inter-agency committee.

OFFICE of the Solicitor General said that aliens residing in the provinces will have to come to Manila if they wish to apply for naturalization decree. Judge Hugo R. Gutierrez Jr. of the OSG said the applicant's presence is necessary because he has to be interviewed by the processing officers. He is also required to affix his thumbmark and to swear and subscribe to all statements he makes in his application. The interview of provincial applicants will be given priority so that their stay in the city will not be unduly prolonged, Judge Gutierrez said.

BOARD of Investments (BOI) ruled that only BOI-registered knitting and textiles companies will be allowed by the Central Bank to import machineries and equipment. The ruling made by the investment body was an offshoot of a complaint filed with the Central Bank by Textile Manufacturers Association of the Philippines (TMAP). It petitioned the Central Bank to temporarily stop dollar allocations for local textile and knitting mills to prevent the entry into the country of used and new knitting machineries and equipment. It claims that "the industry is already suffering from overcapacity." The CB, acting on their petition asked the BOI to adopt the guidelines to be implemented by the CB regarding the dollar allocations of applicant textile firms.

April 24—

THE PRESIDENT proposed the formation of a continuing organization of Asian States, as a step to an integrated regional plan of development. The President advanced the proposal in his keynote address during the opening ceremonies of the Eighth Annual Meeting of the Board of Governors of the Asian Development Bank at the Cultural Center of the Philippines. The President said such organization, which may be called the Organization for Asian Unity or Organization of Asian States may operate on a broad scope and act as a guarantee that none shall develop at the expense of others, and that benefits shall be enjoyed by all. In his speech, he also set the tone of the meeting by suggesting that the ADB come up with a fresh new vision so that it will become an instrument of reconstruction and rebuilding of nations and the region.

PRESIDENT Suharto of Indonesia is anxious for an early ministerial meeting among members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) that can facilitate an ASEAN summit. This was the report of the First Lady to the President on her return from Indonesia where she attended the inauguration of the “Indonesia Indah” upon the invitation of the Indonesian First Lady, Madame Suharto. The President had taken advantage of the visit by sending a personal message to President Suharto proposing a summit meeting among the ASEAN heads of state in the light of recent developments in Indo-China and the rest of Asia.

April 25—

THE PRESIDENT met with the executive committee of the Foreign Policy Council in the light of recent developments in Asia. At the meeting which was held at Malacañang, the Foreign Policy Council reviewed the three existing military agreements between the Philippines and United States with particular emphasis on the bases agreement and recommended to the President that the status quo is no longer tenable in the light of the present realities. The Council, presided over by the President, received and discussed extensive studies from the Department of Foreign Affairs, Department of National Defense, and the Philippine Center for Advance Studies, all of which recommended several alternatives with respect to the bases agreement. The Council also agreed to widen its consultations with the various sectors of society including academicians students, youth, civic, and business groups. The President reiterated his statement that national survival dictates the urgent review of the agreements and the adoption of the only alternative that best serves the national interest. He expressed confidence that as an old ally, the US would not fail to appreciate the position of the Philippine government.

April 26—

THE PRESIDENT simplified the procedure for the transfer of unclaimed balances of ‘idle’ accounts in financial institutions to the government through Presidential Decree No. 679, which amends Act No. 3636. The simplification was made, among other things, to reduce the cost of publication in newspapers of general circulation of sworn statements of these unclaimed balance prior to their transfer to the government. The President noted that publication costs in the last few years have increased and sometimes more than the aggregate amount of the unclaimed balances to be escheated.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad stressed the need for a suitable program of development to harness talents in science and technology for the country’s economic development. Secretary Tatad sounded this call during a speech at the symposium jointly sponsored by the Philippine Association of Physicists, the Mathematical Society of the Philippines and the Southeast Asian Mathematical Society at the Benilda Hall of the De La Salle College on Taft Avenue Manila. He said that the government, as an incentive, is giving active assistance to qualified mathematicians and physicists in order to develop a corps of scientists in the country. Secretary Tatad assured the representatives of the different science organizations that with the main thrust of the government in scientific endeavors, and through the mutual cooperation of both these organizations and the private sectors, scientists will contribute more to the growth, development and prosperity of the country.

May 11—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the construction of the Magat River multi-purpose Project in Isabela, through Presidential Decree No. 693, to bolster the government's food production and industrialization efforts in the province. Estimated to cost about P3.5 billion, the project was given an initial appropriation of P2.4 billion by the President out of the national budget. The foreign exchange component is $160 million. PD 693 authorizes the President to borrow an amount not exceeding $300 million to finance the foreign exchange requirements of the nine-year project. The decree also empowers the National Irrigation Administration to collect from the users of the irrigation dam such fees or charges as may be necessary to, among others, finance the continuous operation and maintenance of the projects, and recover within a reasonable period its financing and construction costs.

BUREAU of Internal Revenue has chalked up a record high collection of P5.8 billion for the 10-month period from July 1974 to April this year. Commissioner Misael P. Vera said this exceeded by P1.4 billion the collection for the same period last year. He attributed the increased collection to various government tax reforms, and the increased awareness of taxpayers and improved BIR collection efforts.

GARMENT export had the highest foreign exchange earnings last year among the non-traditional products shipped by export-oriented firms registered with the Board of Investment (BOI). Statistics released by the investment body showed that garments had a total export income of $32,039 million in 1974, $20,121 million or 169.1 per cent more than the preceding year's $11.918 million. The export income accounted for roughly 22 per cent of the total export earnings ($140,103 million) of non-traditional manufactures shipped by the BOI-registered companies. According to the BOI figures, the total earnings generated by the non-traditional export last year was 44.8 per cent higher than the $96.790 million realized the previous year.

May 12—

SECRETARY of Finance Cesar E. A. Virata has directed the Bureau of Customs to facilitate the collection of P120,713,195.36 from 24 big business firms. The list of the accounts was submitted to Secretary Virata by Acting Customs Commissioner Pedro C. Mendoza. Acting Commissioner Mendoza said that arrangements have been made with some of the business firms for the payment in installment of their accounts with the bureau of customs. However, Commissioner Mendoza said that some of the accounts have been getting bigger in the past months due to non-payment or small payments by some of the companies while, at the same time, incurring more receivables with the bureau of customs. Secretary Virata said that the bureau should institute ways and means by which to effect immediate or substantial collections from the outstanding receivables.

OFFICE of the solicitor general extended the deadline for the filing of applications for naturalization by decree to June 11. The deadline was originally set for May 15, 1975. Solicitor General Estelito Mendoza, head of the three-man naturalization committee, said the President extended the deadline to enable applicants in the provinces to come up with the needed documents and other requirements. He said the Chief Executive was of the opinion that the May 15 deadline would not allow sufficient time for the committee members to process the applicants' papers.

May 13—

THE PRESIDENT reiterated the Philippine policy of inviting and welcoming foreign investments to participate in the country's economic development. He extended welcome to officials of Metallgesellschaft, a German steel conglomerate which plans to set up a local office, and Noritake of Japan which has entered into a P65 million joint venture for the manufacture of chinaware in the Philippines. The President assured them that it is the government policy to encourage investments and will extend all available support within the framework of the policies and laws of the country.

A $5 MILLION Philippine government bank will be organized in the state of California to be known as the Philippine Bank of California, for the following objectives: 1) To tap the deposit potentials of the Filipino community in the American West Coast; 2) To facilitate trade between domestic and West Coast firms; 3) To allow greater participation of the Philippines in international banking operations; 4) To establish in that area a financial entity with a Filipino identity and help develop solidarity between Filipinos here and abroad, and 5) to enhance our country's image internationally. In Letter of Instructions No. 279 issued by the President, he directed five government financial institutions to invest in the new bank, each to the extent of 20 per cent of the proposed initial authorized capital of $5 million. These financial institutions are the Philippine National Bank, the Development Bank of the Philippines, the Land Bank of the Philippines, the Social Security System, and the Government Service Insurance System. Their individual subscriptions will be paid to the PNB which is charged with the establishment and organization of the new bank.

May 14—

REVENUE Commissioner Misael P. Vera disclosed that the government's tax amnesty program has netted close to P1.5 billion. He said the vigorous campaign initiated by the BIR in tax information and the lenient attitude of the government towards tax evaders contributed to this encouraging result.

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission called attention to the repeated failure of some private corporations to remit to the SSS the Medicare contributions of their employees. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, Medicare chairman, said many employees have complained to him against the practice. The complainants, he added, also denounced their employers for "investing their contributions in high-yield deposits in the money market." He said private corporations are not the only delinquents in turning over Medicare contributions of their employees to the SSS.

THE PRESIDENT directed Secretary Cesar Virata of Finance to look into the possibility of injecting more funds into the abaca industry revival program of the country. He issued the directive during the call of Josept N. Sbath, chairman of Polyres Ltd. and president of the Panamanian corporation helping the government to revive the industry in Davao. Mr. Sbath, who was accompanied by Ramon Arnaiz, informed the President that Col. Francisco Gomez of the Gomez Cellulose International Inc., has developed a high-yielding variety that promises to place the Philippines back to its position as the world's major abaca producer. He also lauded the abaca stripping machine invented by Col. Gomez, which, he said, could revolutionize abaca fiber precessing.

FOREIGN tourist visitor in Manila from January to April this year nave reached 184,199 arrivals representing a 47 per cent hike over the same period last year, the Department of Tourism announced. The biggest arrivals during the four-month period were Japanese, numbering 91,117. This represents an increase of 91 per cent compared with 47,673 arrivals during the same period last year. The next biggest arrivals were Balikbayans from overseas totaling 20,469, up by 25.6 per cent compared with last year's figure of 14,352.

May 16—

THE PRESIDENT issued three decrees providing for the proper exploitation and conservation of the nation's natural resources which he considers vital to the security of the Republic. He signed the decrees in the presence of a large delegation of ranking officials of the Department of Natural Resources headed by Secretary Jose Leido Jr. The delegation paid a courtesy call at Malacañang on the occasion of the department's first anniversary. The decrees issued by the President: 1) One providing for the rehabilitation of open and degraded lands through industrial forest plantations and tree farms, granting incentives therefor; 2) Another revising and consolidating all laws and decrees affecting fishing and fisheries so as to stimulate increased production of fish and at the same time ensure the wise utilization and conservation of marine resources; and 3) A third decree revising Presidential Decree No. 389, otherwise known as the Forestry Reform Code of the Philippines, so as to provide for the proper classification, management and utilization of lands of the public domain, and to maximize their productivity in order to meet the demands of an increasing population.

THE PRESIDENT ushered in a new era to systematize the construction and maintenance of farm-to-market roads by providing for better coordination between the national government and the local governments. Addressing the closing ceremonies of the 21st annual convention of the District and City Engineers League (DACEL) at Maharlika Hall in Malacañang, the President announced the issuance of two presidential decrees; namely: 1) Amending the Department of Public Highways Act (P.D. No. 458) by creating the new Bureau of Barangay Roads; and 2) Amending the Special Highways Fund Act (R.A. No. 917) to provide a subsidy of 50 per cent of expected equipment rentals, whenever necessary; and the release of P2,500 per physical kilometer of existing feeder roads within the barangay areas, to be determined by the barangay council, without any counterpart release from the local government. The new Bureau of Barangay Roads, which is specifically charged with supervising the construction and maintenance of farm-to-market roads, in coordination with the barangay councils, will be headed by a director and an assistant director to be appointed by the President on recommendation of the secretary of public highways.

May 17—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Fertilizer Industry Authority (FIA) to roll back retail prices of fertilizers by as much as 25 per cent. The substantial reduction in fertilizer prices will directly benefit both the foodcrop and export crop sectors under a newly-approved scheme which will cost the government about P350 million in direct subsidies for Fiscal Year 1975-76. The President's decision was described as "very timely" in view of the advent this month of the planting season for the main rice crop this year.

LOCAL canned meat processors and traders assured consumers that prices of canned meat and raw meat products will not be increased despite the hike in petroleum prices. The assurance was made during a meeting convened by Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., at the Department of Agriculture in Quezon City. The meat processors, led by Pure Foods Inc., said their substantial inventory of low-priced Australian beef will enable them to absorb higher fuel prices without increasing" the retail prices of canned meat products. The processors and traders, who control the sale of meat in the country, said that they have enough stocks to supply the country's needs for 12 weeks. They also said they are preparing a formal pledge to be presented to the President to the effect that they "will hold down retail prices of canned meat products at current levels for as long as permissible for the sake of consumers."

THE PHILIPPINES imported $991 million worth of goods while it exported $825,609,730, both figures representing the first four months of calendar year 1975. The $164,613,125 difference apparently was caused by heavy imports, mostly capital goods for the country's infrastructure and industrialization program. These bureau of customs statistics were forwarded by Acting Customs Commissioner Pedro C. Mendoza Jr. Value of exported products last April amounted to $234,661,839 with sugar as the number one export product with a combined value of $90,147,493. Converted into pesos, the total four-month import value figures run up to P6.9 billion since monthly import bills amounted to an average of about P1.7 billion. Import value figures indicate that April registered the highest with P1.9 billion.

May 26—

THE COUNTRY aims to build its own capabilities in development and security that will not depend on the temporary grace or favor of any other nation. This was stressed by the President in a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor at the Memorial Day services for World War II American soldiers at the Manila American Cemetery and Memorial, Fort Bonifacio. The President said that the country's capacity for self-defense must be rooted in the bedrock of national will "constantly nourished by acts of self-reliance and self-sacrifice." No amount of military hardware or superior technology can take the place of the fighting strength that can derive only from self-reliance, the President pointed out. The President also said that the events in Indochina forewarn the other nations of Southeast Asia and that the time for self-reliance is at hand; that there can be no substitute for independence and need to master one's own destiny. Extolling the role of soldiers, the President said they are taught not to ask what they die for; "the presumption is that the political judgment which sends them to their deaths is infallible." He said soldiers are mere surrogates of the people who, in the last reckoning, must decide whether the cause they fight for is just and necessary. Recalling the heroism of American and Filipino soldiers in the last war, the President said that "we will not only venerate them but also learn from them and from their sacrifice." He said their graves are also signposts of history.

THE PRESIDENT held a long conference with Admiral Noel Gayler, commander-in-chief of the United States Armed Forces in the Pacific on the entire question of American bases in the Philippines and the whole range of U.S.-Philippine security arrangements. Accompanied to Malacañang by Ambassador William H. Sullivan, Admiral Gayler arrived in Manila in the course of an inspection tour of U.S. military installations in the area. The President has called for a reassessment of U.S.-Philippine security relations in the light of recent developments in Asia, particularly in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

THE PRESIDENT was informed by an American oil executive of the discovery of new geothermal resources in Laguna. Fred Hartley, the chairman-president of the Union Oil of California, reported to the President that if these resources could be developed properly, it could light up the whole of Luzon. The American executive informed the President of the drilling operations of his company in Tiwi, Albay and Los Baños, Laguna. According to Mr. Hartley, his company is in the process of drilling its third well in Los Baños and that the results are "very, very encouraging."

PHILIPPINE Medical Care Commission (PMCC) extended Medicare coverage to board members of government-owned or controlled corporations who are not members of either the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) or the Social Security System (SSS). Medicare premiums for board members concerned are to be paid by government-owned or controlled corporations wherein they are directors. The board secretary should certify that the board member is not a member of the GSIS or SSS. Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, PMCC chairman, said that this extension of medicare coverage to another set of beneficiaries is the fifth action of this office on persons who are or were in one way or another connected with the government but who are not compulsory members of the GSIS.

May 27—

THE PRESIDENT inducted members of the National Commission on the Role of Women with the First Lady as chairperson, in a ceremony held at Malacañang. The President created the commission under Presidential Decree No. 633 in response to an appeal of the United Nations for member countries to put up their respective bodies to ensure the full integration of women for economic, social and cultural development at national, regional and international levels. Recognizing the significant contribution of Filipino women as citizens, homemakers, workers, and volunteers, as well as their increasing participation in the development of friendly relations and cooperation among nations, the President stressed the need for a body to review, evaluate and recommend measures to insure the full integration of women for national and international development.

MOBIL Petroleum Co. Inc. sold and assigned to the Philippine National Oil Co. three per cent of the shares of common capital stock of the Bataan Refining Corp. The agreement restructures the equity ownership of the Bataan Refinery into 60 per cent PNOC and 40 per cent Mobil. The previous ownership was 57 per cent-43 per cent for the state-owned company. This restructuring of the BRC equity structure will enable it to solve problems associated with the expiration of parity and the Laurel-Langley Agreement affecting its private lands. The transaction involves the transfer of 33,540 shares of BRC from Mobil to PNOC at a price of $1.187 million. Bataan Refining Corp. owns and operates the Bataan Refinery at Limay, Bataan which has a rated capacity of 110,000 bls/day. Signatories to the agreement were Geronimo Z. Velasco, president of PNOC, and Robert D. Wales as attorney-in-fact of Mobil Petroleum.

PERSONNEL of private schools, whether they hold teaching or non-teaching positions will start enjoying retirement benefits this year. Atty. Antonio Dumlao, officer-in-charge of the Bureau of Private Schools said the requirement for retirement plan in private schools was one of the reasons why the government is granting new increases in tuition fees.

PHILIPPINE National Bank has released P30 million as working capital for the textile industry. Benedicto Dacanay, executive secretary of the Textile Mills Association of the Philippines (TMAP) said that the amount is part of the P100 million set aside by the PNB to help finance the operation of the distressed textile industry. He said the P100 million being funded by the PNB will be secured by inventories of textile mills. The local textile industry, which has been undergoing difficulties since the oil crisis, will use the PNB loan for its operational expenditures. The amount will also prevent the industry from increasing its prices and laying off workers.

May 28—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the initial release of P50 million for setting up of four prefabricate plants that will produce schoolbuilding components in strategic places in the country and speed up the construction of badly needed schoolrooms. The four plants, which will be under the direct supervision of the director of public works, will be put up in Manila, Northern Luzon, Mindanao and the Visayas. According to Presidential Decree No 703 issued by the President, the prefab schoolbuilding components produced by these plants shall be paid from the allotments for the construction of schoolbuildings to the various district and engineering offices of the Bureau of Public Works. A schoolbuilding Components Trust Fund is established under the decree to be constituted from income derived from the operation of these plants. This fund shall be spent solely for the operation and maintenance of these plants, including the construction of buildings, acquisition of equipment, like motor vehicles which may be needed from time to time, salaries and wages of personnel, and other operating expenses.

May 29—

THE PRESIDENT took strong measures to strengthen the rural banking system in order not to endanger the success of the agrarian reform program. Reacting to reports that many farmers who secured loans under Phase 4 of Masagana 99 refused to pay their loans believing they were government dole-outs, the President announced during the opening session of the 22nd annual convention of the Rural Bankers Association of the Philippines, at Maharlika Hall, that: 1) Farmer-borrowers who have no reasonable cause not to pay their loans will be referred to the secretary of national defense for necessary action; 2) Farmer-borrowers whose crops were destroyed by natural calamities or force majeure will be assisted by restructuring their loans for a reasonable period, during which the Central Bank will extend the necessary financial assistance to the rural banks in question; and 3) He will issue a decree transferring from the rural banks to commercial banks some of the burden of extending loans to agriculture.

MEMBERS of the Philippine delegation to the International Labor Organization Conference in Geneva called on the President for final instructions before leaving. Secretary Blas F. Ople, who heads the ILO delegation and is sole candidate for president of the ILO conference which is reserved this year for Asia, briefed the President on the agenda of the conference. Secretary Ople said the main items to be taken up at the conference pertain to international developments on rural and migrant workers. The labor secretary expressed particular concern for the welfare of migrant workers because, he said, there are up to now over 600,000 Filipino migrant workers in the United States, including those who have acquired American citizenship.

OFFICIALS of Husky Oil, headed by James E. Nielson, president of Husky Oil Ltd., who arrived recently to observe oil drilling operations east of Balabac, near Palawan, called on the President. Mr. Nielson informed the President that his party is looking into the possibility of helping in the development of the country, particularly in the cattle raising and coal mining industries. The President expressed gratitude for their interest in the country's economic development and voiced his hope that when they return from the oil drilling operations they will have some good news, the prospects for oil.

May 30—

THE PRESIDENT called for the fair and expeditious administration of labor justice in order to maintain social stability for the success of the New Society. He took time off from his pressing duties to administer the oath of office to the 72 labor arbiters of the National Labor Relations Commission, and emphasize the importance of honesty and impartiality in the performance of their work. He told the new appointees who will be the closest point of contract with the people to act independently according to their conscience, and assured them that they have nothing to fear as long as they perform their job correctly.

THE PRESIDENT underscored the need to forge closer economic partnership among members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) as a means of opening up a bigger market base with these countries. In a speech read for him by Economic Planning Secretary Gerardo P. Sicat, the Chief Executive discussed before representatives to the 7th National Marketing Conference at the Hyatt Regency Hotel the mutually beneficial effects of such closer economic relations among ASEAN member countries. The Chief Executive emphasized the need for self-reliance upon the country's own resources and markets in partnership with its ASEAN neighbors in finding and maintaining better terms of trade. At the same time, the President called on the local marketing industry to adopt innovative and developmental marketing approaches that will foster the economic growth of the country.

May 31—

THE PRESIDENT will visit the People's Republic of China from June 7 to June 11 this year. The invitation for the visit was extended by Chairman Chu Teh of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress and Premier Chou En-lai of the State Council of the People's Republic of China in a letter dated May 20, 1975. During the President's visit, questions of mutual interest to the Republic of the Philippines and the People's Republic of China will be considered at the highest level in a cordial and friendly spirit, reflecting the steady improvement in the relations between the two countries.

June 1—

THE PRESIDENT acted to ensure that the deadline for the submission of the final audit reports on the performance of local officials be met, with time to spare if possible. That deadline is August 31, 1975. In Letter of Instructions No. 281, he issued the following directions: 1) All agencies and instrumentalities of the government whose participation in this project may be asked for, should cooperate with the Performance Audit Team and its designated Regional and Provincial Audit Teams, and 2) Member departments of the Performance Audit Team shall assign thereto such personnel as may be deemed necessary and for this purpose shall respectively provide them with all the necessary facilities and underwrite all traveling expenses and per diems to be incurred by their personnel in performance of audit activities.

MORE funds will be made available for the government's social and economic projects this coming fiscal year with the abolition of all existing special and fiduciary (trust) funds. In Presidential Decree No 711 issued by the President, the operations and funding of these funds will be transferred to the general fund which shall maintain the funding of only those activities and functions of those funds which are, as determined by the National Economic and Development Authority relevant to the present social and economic plans. The President said that this transfer of the special and trust funds to the general fund will facilitate the implementation of social and economic programs and other government projects.

CUSTOMS Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina created a new customs office charged with regulating, controlling and coordinating complex container operation in the Port of Manila and other Philippine ports serviced by container-vessels. The new office was created in the wake of the fast increasing number of containers presently being landed in the port of Manila and other major ports of the country which is expected to hit the 75,000 container-per-year mark. Commissioner Geotina said that the office which shall be known as the Integrated Container Control Office will have six members.

June 2—

THE PRESIDENT approved the national budget for the general fund of the fiscal year 1976 amounting to P18,244,200,000, at a Cabinet meeting held at Malacañang. The new budget for the ensuing fiscal year is broken down to P10,995,200,000 for operating expenditures and P7,249,000,000 for capital outlays. The approved budget for the general fund outlays constitutes Part I of the entire national budget. Part II, the appropriations for public works, is still under consideration. The new general appropriations reflect an increase of P1,871,401,000 over that of the current final year; that is, an increase of P1710,826,000 for operating expenditures and P1,150,575,000 for capital outlays. In line with the desire of the President, a Special Development Activities Fund was created totaling P554,104 million, of which P92,657 million will be current operating expenditures and P461,447 million capital outlays. This increases capital outlays by P458 million; that is, from P6,691 billion in FY 1975 to P7.249 billion in FY 1976.

THE CABINET decided to prohibit any government office or agency from directly dealing with foreign government or offices offering assistance, financial or otherwise, without the approval of the Department of Foreign Affairs. The decision was made at a Cabinet meeting to eliminate the possibility of infiltration of government offices by foreign groups under the guise of aid.

CUSTOMS Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina created a new customs office charged with regulating, controlling and coordinating the complex container operation in the Port of Manila and other Philippine ports serviced by container vessels. The new office was created in the wake of the fast increasing number of containers presently being landed in the Port of Manila and other major ports of the country which is expected to hit the 75,000 container-per-year mark. Commissioner Geotina said the new office which shall be known as the Integrated Container Control Office will have six members. The customs port operation service head is officer-in-charge, while representatives from the Association of Customs Brokers, the Association of International Shipping Lines, E. Razon Inc., Customs Metropolitan Police Service and the customs piers and inspection division, sitting as members. He said that as constituted, the ICCO shall enforce customs policies, regulations and procedures related to container operation to ensure maximum efficiency inside and outside the port zones of the country in the handling of this revolutionary system of cargo operations.

June 3—

THE PRESIDENT announced that he has created a caretaker committee made up of members of his Cabinet which will take care of the routine affairs of state during his five-day state visit to the People's Republic of China. He made the announcement in his conference with ranking officials of the Armed Forces of the Philippines to whom he formally presented the members of the committee and whom he directed to extend full support to the committee in his absence. Malacañang, however, made no announcement of the membership of the committee, called the Executive Cabinet Committee, the body will be in constant touch with the President, who will be available for consultations, if necessary.

VARIOUS agencies of government were directed by the President to ensure that the cultural minorities be given all possible government assistance and that their rights be protected. The President issued the directives in the presence of about 70 tribal leaders from Palawan, Mindoro Oriental, and Mindoro Occidental, who came to pay their respects and pledge unstinted cooperation and support to the New Society. He pointed out that under Presidential Decree No. 719, the supervision, control and administration of all non-Muslim cultural minorities are directly under the Office of the President. He said that with this decree, he will be able to pay personal attention to the tribes throughout the country through Secretary Elizalde whom he has designated as his personal representative. The President, however, reiterated the government policy of giving the cultural minorities the choice of either joining the mainstream of national life, or of preserving their identities, customs and traditions.

CUSTOMS Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina said total collections of the bureau for the first 11 months of fiscal year 1974-75 has reached the P6.5 billion mark. He said that there are strong indications that the bureau will exceed the collection goal of P6.7 billion by a wide margin this fiscal year. He said that customs collection machineries all over the country are training their efforts towards a P7 billion collection goal which is not far-fetched considering that the bureau averages P500 million per month.

TRADE Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., urged subdivision owners and developers to redirect their efforts towards the construction of low cost houses to make their role more meaningful in the country's development programs. He exhorted members of the Subdivision Owners Association of the Philippines (SOAP) to adopt housing schemes that cater to lower income earners instead of concentrating on the higher income bracket of the population. He was inducting officer and guest speaker during the induction rites for the directors of the SOAP. He said that there is a big opportunity for business even in low cost housing development because of the country's housing backlog and the increasing annual housing requirements.

June 4—

THE PRESIDENT emphasized the role of women in the program of national development. In a speech read for him by Secretary Carlos P. Romulo of Foreign Affairs, at the opening ceremony of the 29th anniversary of the Civic Assembly of Women of the Philippines (CAWP), the President expressed pride in the fact that when the United Nations declared 1975 International Women's Year, the Philippine was the first to make substantive contribution to this global program. Before the President's address, the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, was proclaimed as "Filipina Exemplar" and most worthy representative of Filipino womanhood during the International Women's Year. The award was conferred on the First Lady by the CAWP in recognition of her love for the country and people, unselfish dedication in serving others, and her abiding faith in God and the goodness of man.

AGRICULTURE Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. said the government has adopted a no-nonsense policy and would apply the full force of the law to anyone caught sabotaging the full food production program. He issued the warning as he cited Presidential Decree No. 669 which imposes stiff on all crimes involving fertilizer diversion. He said that the decree now makes the crime of fertilizer diversion punishable by an imprisonment of from 15 to 20 years. The issuance of PD 669 also arose from reported channeling of fertilizer intended for farmers in Central Luzon into the black market.

NATURAL Resources Secretary Jose J. Leido Jr. said that the Philippines, which have emerged from its insular cocoon has removed the barriers of non-relation with the Socialist countries and the emerging nations of the third world. "In commercial relations, we do not distinguish the political or ideological orientation of other countries, Secretary Leido told an assembly of commercial attaches and analysts recalled from various Philippine posts abroad for a two-month seminar. "In the hard realities of international trade, the economic interest of the country is paramount," adding that the era of isolationism is long gone.

June 5—

THE PRESIDENT exempted cement from the payment of export duty, and also ordered the remission of duties paid on fuel oil used in the manufacture of export cement, in twin moves designed to cushion the impact of the recent oil price hikes on the cement industry. Through Executive Order No. 451, the Chief Executive excluded cement from the list of export products subject to duty. At the same time, he issued Letter of Instructions No. 282 addressed to Finance Secretary Cesar E. A. Virata, Industry Secretary Vicente Paterno and Customs Commissioner Rolando Geotina directing them to grant a duty drawback is a subsidy equivalent to the duty on the fuel oil used for the production of export cement. The President said that the moves are in line with the government's policy to fully use all industrial productive capacity and promote export of Philippine manufacturers to generate foreign exchange for the country.

MALACANANG has designated June 15 to June 21 as National Salesmen's Week to call public attention to the significant role salesmen play in the orderly distribution of the country's agricultural and industrial products. Proclamation No. 1393, which sets aside the week, says that salesmen act "not only as fulfillers of our wants and needs, but also as pillars in the economic stability of the country."

June 6—

ON the eve of his departure for Peking, the President issued Presidential Decree No. 730 granting permanent residence to 1,785 aliens who had entered the Philippines as non-immigrants, including overstaying Chinese nationals. These aliens are spared the requirement under earlier PD 419 to apply for immigrant visas with the Commission on Immigration and Deportation. According to PD 730, many of these non-immigrants have already married and borne families in the Philippines and there is need, for humanitarian considerations, to grant them permanent residence. They have been thoroughly screened by the National Intelligence and Security Agency. Still going on is the screening of aliens permanently residing in this country who have applied for naturalization as Filipino citizens by decree under the President's Letter of Instructions No. 270.

THE PRESIDENT authorized the release of P120 million for the reclamation of a 45-hectare portion of the Dagat-Dagatan lagoon, which covers parts of Navotas, Malabon, and the cities of Caloocan and Manila, enable the government to begin constructing low-cost housing in the area by 1976. The outlay will cover the cost of acquisition of construction equipment including motor vehicles. In Presidential Decree No. 706, the President said the area to be reclaimed is intended not only as a site for low-cost housing but also for the establishment of an industrial zone that will give job opportunities to its residents. Dagat-Dagatan is a relocation area where families affected by the Tondo foreshore urban renewal program will be resettled permanently.

The President received visiting U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs Philip C. Habib. He impressed upon Secretary Habib the Philippine position on the RP-US security arrangements, as previously indicated to American officials, including U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan and Admiral Noel Gayler, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Armed Forces in the Pacific who was a recent Manila visitor. With the President during the call of Secretary Habib were Secretary of Foreign Affairs Carlos P. Romulo, Secretary of National Defense Juan Ponce Enrile, Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor Jr. and Secretary of Public Information Francisco S. Tatad.

June 7—

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that he will return from his five-day state visit to the People's Republic of China with some concrete gains for the Philippines. In a statement shortly before boarding his plane at the Manila International Airport, the President said: "I leave today on a historic voyage to the People's Republic of China in the name of our people and in the pursuit of our highest national interest." Accompanied by the First Lady and their daughters Imee and Irene, the President took off for Peking at 10:30 a.m. On hand to give them a warm send-off were members of the Cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps, justices of the Supreme Court and large delegations from nearby provinces, cities and towns.

DEPARTMENT of Tourism and not the city of Manila has the authority to license, regulate, and supervise tourism-oriented business establishments, such as hotels, resorts, inns, motels, hostels, restaurants, and other related facilities and services which cater to foreign and domestic tourists. Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos has rendered this opinion in answer to a query raised by Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras. Secretary Abad Santos said that with the approval of Presidential Decree No. 189, as well as its amendment, PD 259, the authority to classify, regulate, supervise, and license hotels and other tourism-oriented business establishments has been withdrawn from local governments.

FILIPINO women who become aliens by marriage and foreigners married to Filipino and Americans who have long resided in the Philippines may acquire Philippine citizenship by merely taking their oaths of allegiance to the Republic of the Philippines. This was disclosed by Solicitor General Estelito P. Mendoza, chairman of the special committee on naturalization. He said those who are interested in reacquiring Filipino citizenship do not have to file applications for naturalization by decree as provided for in Letter of Instructions No. 270. All they have to do, Solicitor Mendoza said, is to go to the Solicitor General's Office and take their oaths of allegiance.

June 8—

PRESIDENT and Mrs. Marcos visited a model commune in the city's outskirts to see if Chinese development plans and experience are adaptable to the Philippines. The First Couple motored 35 kilometers out of the city to visit the Red Star people's commune which boasts of 129 production brigades and a total population of 82,000. Started in 1958 the commune has 10,800 hectares planted to wheat, rice, maize, cotton, vegetables, and orchards and it has 200 hectares of fishponds. The commune produced a total of 51,000 tons of cereals in 1974, using mechanization and scientific farming. From the commune the President motored back to the city where he was shown an underground shelter as defense against sudden attack. Started in 1969, underground shelter construction for Peking millions is still being completed. The President expressed optimism over the visit after his meeting with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai.

June 19—

THE PRESIDENT received the pledge of support and loyalty of the Chinese community in the Philippines following the establishment of diplomatic relations between this country and the People's Republic of China. The pledge was given through the officers of the Federation of Filipino-Chinese Chambers of Commerce Inc. who estimated that after the current mass naturalization of aliens in accordance with the President's Letter of Instruction No. 270, some 70 to 80 per cent of federation members would become Filipino citizens. The President emphasized, however, that there are only two choices of citizenship among the Chinese nationals in this country following normalization of relations with PROC. They can either become Filipino citizens or become citizens of the PROC. All other Chinese, the President stated, will have to be regarded as stateless aliens.

LIQUEFIED petroleum gas users get another breathing spell with the two-year extension of the duty-free importation of the fuel granted recently by the President. In Presidential Decree No. 727 signed June 5, the President amended earlier PD 333, which authorizes, among others, the LPG duty-free importation, pointing out that national interest requires that the gas should be made available at low prices to domestic consumers. The privilege, which has been extended up to June 30, 1977, was to have expired at the end of this month.

June 20—

THE PRESIDENT said that the bureaucrats in government should go down to the level of the barangays and serve as the link between the masses and the government. In a speech before the Bureau Directors Association Inc. (BUDIRAS) at the Philippine Village Hotel, the President pointed out that under the old society, the elective officials, particularly the legislators, were supposed to articulate the will of the people. "This must be altered under the present society and each and every bureaucrat should now be capable of dealing directly with the people and serve as a link between the executive machinery of the government and the masses," he said. The occasion was the closing rites of the 13th annual convention of the Budiras where the President was guest speaker.

PRIVATE sector was challenged by the President to support more effectively the nation's continuing struggle for self-sufficiency in rice and corn. In a speech delivered for him by National Grains Authority Administrator Jesus Tanchanco at the annual convention of the Confederation of Filipino Rice and Corn Associations at the Philippine National Bank Auditorium, the President urged the people to "stop thinking in terms of what the government can do for you but what you can do to help your fellow Filipinos."

THE CHIEF Executive conferred the Order of Sikatuna, rank of Datu, on Ambassador Nicolas Martin Alonso, outgoing envoy of Spain to the Philippines. In a citation read by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Ambassador Martin was awarded "for his services in the field of international relations, for having been a worthy spokesman of his government and people, and for having endeavored constantly to strengthen the friendly ties between Spain and the Philippines."

June 21—

THE PRESIDENT said that the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan is a symbol of the determination of the New Society to push through its program of economic reforms and ensure the security of the nation. After conducting a two-hour inspection tour of the area and noting its amazing transformation from a barren countryside to a sprawling 375-hectare multi-million peso industrial complex in six years, the President said that the EPZ has become a dream come true. The EPZ is located on the central shore of Mariveles Bay. It is a modern, fully-equipped industrial estate where capital equipment, raw materials, spare parts and supplies may be imported tax free and customs duty free for use in manufacturing or processing finished products for export.

June 22—

INTEGRATED reception service for rebel surrenderers has been established in Mindanao to speed up the identification, processing and integration into society of some 4,000 former rebels. The system, established by order of the Office of the President, will help the ex-rebels channel their efforts to constructive endeavors. Under this program, rebel returnees shall be referred to Provincial Processing Centers, which shall be designated in each affected province. In these centers, they will undergo the normal briefing and will be asked to list down their grievances, if any. Six government agencies have been designated to coordinate efforts to help the former rebels rejoin civilian life; the Department of Agrarian Reform, the Department of Education and Culture, the Department of Labor, the National Manpower and Youth Council, and the Development Bank of the Philippines.

June 23—

THE PRESIDENT granted the privilege to hold residential lots to Americans who: 1) Formerly were Filipino citizens; 2) Become permanent residents of the Philippines; and 3) Have been residents of the Philippines continuously for at least 20 years. In Presidential Decree No. 713, the President pointed out that during the effectivity of the so-called “Parity Amendment” to the 1935 constitution, the United States citizens who were formerly Filipino citizens and other US citizens who have resided in the country for a long period of time, or have become permanent residents, have acquired in good faith private residential lands in the honest belief that they may continue holding the properties even after the expiration of the treaty. PD 713 allows these Americans residential lots not exceeding 5,000 square meters.

June 24—

LOS Baños which has become famous for its tailor-made high-yielding varieties of rice may soon be producing HYV’s of any number of other crops. To bring this about, the President created the Institute of Plant Breeding at the University of the Philippines at Los Baños, Laguna. Its primary aim is to develop new and improved varieties of important agricultural products in line with the government’s intensified food production efforts. With the establishment of the institute through Presidential Decree No. 729, the President expressed hope that “dramatic increases in productivity of our traditional crops will be made possible in improving plant species.”

June 25—

THE PRESIDENT pushed for a stronger Association of Southeast Asian Nation (ASEAN) to include communist countries, and the creation of a zone of peace and neutrality in Southeast Asia. In a speech read for him by Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile at the inauguration of a center for the veterans of the Philippine Expeditionary Forces to Korea, (PEKTOK) at Fort Bonifacio, Rizal, the President pointed out that times have changed and trade and diplomacy can now flourish between communist and non-communist states regardless of ideological differences.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate arrest and detention of 21 persons who have pending cases of tax evasion or malversation. He issued the order even as he exhorted the officials of the Bureau of Internal Revenue to maintain the high standards of the office and to continue their efforts to increase tax collections. The Chief Executive issued the arrest order to the secretary of national defense upon the recommendation of BIR Commissioner Misael P. Vera.

THE PRESIDENT hailed the new trade agreement between the Philippines and Australia as another manifestation of increasing cooperation between the two countries. He was informed of the signing of the new treaty by Australian Minister for Overseas Trade Frank Crean who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang. The new trade agreement calls for the establishment of a joint RP-Australian commission to meet annually, alternately in each of the two countries, in order to advance the objectives of the agreement. According to Secretary of Trade Troadio Quiazon Jr., the new agreement shows the interest of both countries in the expansion of a two-way trade over a broader range of products and in increasing the level of suitable and constructive Australian investments in the country.

July 11—

THE PRESIDENT proposed a greater exchange of funds, goods and services between the Philippines and the Middle East countries. He voiced the proposal to Fawzi Sultan, managing director of the Bank of Kuwait, who paid his respects before departing, after attending the conference called by the Financial Times of London in Manila to assess the financial market in Southeast Asia. The Kuwaiti bank executive conveyed to the President his bank's desire to participate actively in the economic development of the country. "There should be more contact between Middle East countries and the Philippines," the President said, "especially as we move along in the exchange of funds and services. Some of our men and technologists are now working there and our new market is the Middle East."

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the plan of the Overseas Economic Cooperation Fund of Japan to set up a liaison office in Manila early next year. "That would be a very wonderful idea," the President said when informed of the plan by Saburo Okita, president of OECFJ, who was accompanied by Ambassador Masao Sawaki. The President conveyed the gratitude of the Filipino people "for all the help and accommodations that Japan extended to us, especially in loans, the latest of which was signed by Ambassador Roberto S. Benedicto." Among the loans granted by Japan to the Philippines are those for the Export Processing Zone in Bataan, and the Manila Flood Control Program which will take years to complete.

THE PRESIDENT received John Fairfield Jr., vice president-international of the Stromberg-Carlson of New York, who submitted proposals of his company to put up a plant in this country for the manufacture of electronics telephone equipment for local and worldwide distribution. During his call, Fairfield reported that his company had started its Asian operations with Filipino engineers who help train Vietnamese, Thai and Laotian technicians in the installation of electronic telephone systems in their respective countries. A subsidiary of the General Dynamics Corp. of St. Louis, Missouri, one of the world's biggest suppliers of military equipment, the Stromberg-Carlson hopes to put up its communications equipment factory at the Export Processing Zone in Mariveles, Bataan.

July 12—

THE PRESIDENT is considering the establishment of a special fund for the preservation of the ecological balance and the preservation from further destruction to the country's marine and aquatic resources. During a surprise inspection tour of Laguna de Bay, the President directed Secretary Jose Leido Jr. of Natural Resources and Director Felix R. Gonzales of Fisheries to look into the feasibility of such a project and to pinpoint possible sources of fund. In the meantime, the President also directed the restocking of Laguna de Bay with bangus fingerlings and the demolition of abandoned and colorum fish-pens in the area to continue. The President made a surprise inspection of Laguna de Bay in view of the mass destruction of bangus reportedly due to overstocking and the matting of nets with filamentous algae which prevented the circulation of water which, in turn resulted in oxygen deficiency and "drowning" of the fish.

PERIOD from September 10 to September 21 this year has been declared by the President as the period for the Metropolitan Film Festival to encourage the people to appreciate Filipino cinema and make it part of their cultural life. The Chief Executive also created an executive committee, headed by the chairman of the Board of Censors for Motion Pictures to take charge of its observance. Through Proclamation No. 1459, the President gave the committee the authority to raise funds among all sectors of society including local governments which may donate their amusement tax shares to the MOWELFUND during the period. The festival's theme centers on the achievements under the New Society. The best picture will be conferred the "Dangal ng Bagong Lipunan" award.

July 13—

THE PRESIDENT authorized the conversion of Basilan City High School into a national high school to enhance the government's educational development program in that province. The Basilan City High School is the only public high school in Basilan province, serving both Christians and Muslims. Now called Basilan National High School, it is provided by Presidential Decree No. 709 with an initial funding of P500,000 for its conversion, operation and maintenance during fiscal year 1975. Thereafter, such sums as may be needed for its operation and maintenance shall be included in the annual general appropriations measure. In addition to the sums appropriated, tuition fees of students shall accrue to the national high school for its operation and maintenance. All equipment, property, assets and liabilities of the city high school are transferred by PD 709 to the Basilan National High School.

July 14—

THE PRESIDENT announced the conclusion of a continuing crude oil supply agreement between the Philippines and Iraq. The conclusion of the supply contract was earlier reported to the President by Chairman Geronimo Z. Velasco of the Philippine National Oil Co., who had just arrived from the Middle East. The supply of high-quality Basrah crude oil from Iraq to the Philippines will commence immediately, the President added.

THE PRESIDENT received Dr. George Petrianides of the Gondard Company of Paris who proposed to set up automated compost plants in the Philippines as a means of solving the garbage disposal problem in this country, particularly in the urban areas, and at the same time produce cheap fertilizer with high agricultural potential. The Gondard method processes and recycles garbage and agricultural wastes to produce organic fertilizers which are better than chemical fertilizer because, according to the scientist, they stimulate the growth of healthful bacteria in the soil and improve the texture and chemical properties of the soil. The President referred the proposals to government technicians for study.

July 15—

THE PRESIDENT has approved a P22.399-billion national budget for fiscal year 1976 to back up a policy of dynamic flexibility and to serve as catalyst for the sustained growth and development of the economy. Bigger than the budget for the last fiscal year by P2.23 billion, the national budget, which was signed by the President last June 25, is designed to answer the need for intensified development efforts in the wake of a slowdown in economic activities and the recessionary pressures in developed countries.

July 16—

THE PRESIDENT launched an all-out war on drug abuse. The President's action was prompted by increasing citizen and government agency reports that high schools and colleges, particularly in the Greater Manila Area, have fallen under the grip of the menace. He enlisted the services of the youth, particularly the Kabataang Barangay, students, as well as teachers and the various law-enforcing agencies in carrying out a nationwide preventive educational and police campaign against drug abuse.

THE PRESIDENT put an end to years of violence and lawlessness along border localities in Bukidnon, Agusan, Davao and Cotabato as he granted amnesty to 19 tribal chiefs who had decided to come down from the hills and cooperate with the government. Datu Saligan Gawllan, over-all leader of the Matisalug tribal group whose disputes with settlers, ranchers and timber concessionaires had been held responsible for many of the killings and for the burning of houses in the localities, informed the President they had decided to surrender because they were convinced of the sincerity of the government to help them. PANAMIN Secretary Manuel Elizalde Jr., who was instrumental in the surrender of the tribe, reported to the President the trouble in the area had been brewing for more than 10 years. He said that the trouble between the tribe and the settlers involved disputes on land acquisitions and unscrupulous manipulations of both Christians and other tribal leaders.

THE PRESIDENT conveyed to Satoshi Sumita, president of the Export and Import Bank of Japan, the gratitude of all the peoples of Asia, who stand to benefit substantially, for the adoption of a new policy of granting direct loans to end-users by the Export and Import Bank of Japan. The loan will finance the establishment of the Agus II Hydroelectric Power Project in Mindanao, which is upstream of the Maria Cristina Hydroelectric Power Project.

PERIOD from November 2 to November 30 this year has been proclaimed by the President as Securities Industry Month, in connection with the holding of the First Asian Securities Industry Forum in Manila on November 10 to November 16. At the same time, the President called on all government agencies concerned to help under the auspices of the Department of Trade and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

July 17—

GOVERNMENT employees who have become accustomed to securing free rides had better start digging into their pockets. The President through Letter of Instructions No. 296, prohibits all government officials and employees, including members of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, from asking for or demanding, in any way, free or discounted international or domestic transportation of passenger or property from any foreign or domestic transportation company. Similarly, such airlines, shipping or land transportation companies are forbidden to grant or extend any free or discounted transportation as a result of such demand or request from any government official or employee. Exceptions to this order are cases: 1) When free or discounted transportation is expressly allowed by special law; 2) When there is prior written clearance from the President in the national interest; 3) When the trip is covered by a proper travel order and is related to or connected with the regulation of the operations of the airline, shipping and land transportation company concerned; and 4) When the element of emergency is present. The President stressed that a violation of this prohibition shall be cause for the dismissal from the service of the government official or employee involved. The objective, he said is to instill the proper concept of morality in the government service.

July 18—

THE PRESIDENT ordered government agencies to step up their relief and development operations in Mindanao as a means of bolstering the pacification campaign in the area. He met earlier with Ustadz Kasim Ismail, chairman of the Agama Court of Basilan and the two Zamboanga provinces, who informed him he was authorized by the central committee of the Moro National Liberation Front to determine the sincerity of the government in its current peace negotiations with rebel leaders. Ismail said he will help the authorities to persuade more than 2,000 armed followers under him to cooperate with the government in its effort to rehabilitate his Muslim brothers and develop their localities.

THE PRESIDENT flew to Palawan and inspected the sites for cattle breeding stations and one of the richest fishing grounds in the country, in connection with the food production program of the government. He said the government will take advantage of the currently depressed world prices of cattle to import breeding stock for distribution to private ranchers or government breeding stations, in order to improve the local stock. Accompanied by Secretary of Natural Resources Jose Leido Jr., the President also inspected one of the richest fishing grounds in the country. He directed the organization of the fishermen's cooperatives and the establishment of ice plants and food terminal stations where the catch could be shipped to other localities.

July 19—

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad warned the public that the Department of Public Information has not authorized or endorsed any publication to solicit advertisements in supplements for the observance of the 58th birthday anniversary of the President. He made this announcement in the wake of reports that certain publications are using the name of the DPI in soliciting advertisements for this purpose. In the letters to business firms, these publications supposedly enclose "self-explanatory DPI clearances."

July 20—

THE PRESIDENT exhorted the youth to accept their share of responsibility and participate more actively in the establishment of a New Society under a regime of justice and equality. Addressing the "sunrise graduation" of some 800 Kabataang Barangay leaders at the foot of scenic Mt. Makiling in Laguna, the President said that the New Society will be handed down as a noble legacy to the young but that this legacy would last only if they accepted their heavy responsibilities. "It is for this reason that I ordered the organization of the Kabataang Barangay in the more than 40,000 barangays all over the country, to serve as a vehicle for the participation of the youth in the building of a new nation," the President said. He was accompanied by son Bongbong.

July 21—

THE PRESIDENT led the nation in giving Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramroj of the Kingdom of Thailand a red carpet welcome upon his arrival at the Manila International Airport for a four-day state visit to this country. At the airport to welcome the visiting Prime Minister were members of the Cabinet, justices of the Supreme Court, members of the diplomatic corps and other ranking civilian and military officials.

THE PRESIDENT, later in the evening, conferred on Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramroj of the Kingdom of Thailand Order of Sikatuna, rank of Rajah, at ceremonies held at Malacañang. The decoration is the highest within the gift of the Philippine government conferred only on heads of state. President at the conferment rites were Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo, Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor, Chief Justice Querube Makalintal, Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad, Finance Secretary Cesar Virata, Mons. Bruno Torpigliani, papal nuncio, and members of the visiting official entourage headed by Thai Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonhavan.

THE PRESIDENT called on Japan to take the initiative in helping the countries of Southeast Asia to be self-reliant, independent, and capable of standing on their own feet. He asked Japan to assume this role in this talks with Ikko Kasuga of the Japanese Diet. Head of the Fifth Democratic Socialist Party Mission of Japan to Southeast Asia, Kasuga called at Malacañang to pay his respects to the President. Pointing out that Japan is the foremost industrial nation in Asia and the third most active and prosperous industrial economy in the world, the President said it was his feeling that “Japan should take the initiative to help the nations of Southeast Asia to be self-reliant and independent and capable of standing on their own feet.”

THE PRESIDENT has done honor to Apolinario Mabini by declaring, under Proclamation No. 1464, that from now on July 23, the “Sublime Paralytic’s” natal day, shall be known as Mabini Day.” The same proclamation makes Wednesday, July 23, 1975, a special public holiday in Mabini’s native Batangas and the cities therein. The day is the 111th birthday of the hero who handed down ideals and principles which are now the nation’s treasured legacy.

July 22—

THE PRESIDENT and Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramoj of Thailand discussed the insurgency problems in their respective countries, with particular emphasis on the entry of weapons possibly from Vietnam. At the start of their talks, which were held aboard the RPS “Ang Pangulo” en route to Corregidor, it appears from a briefing given by Prime Minister Kukrit that commercially traded arms were crossing Thai borders, not necessarily in the hands of communist elements but certainly in those gunrunners. On the Philippine side, the President disclosed to the visiting Prime Minister that the Philippine government is investigating reports of the possible landing of arms in this country from sources yet to be pinpointed. They discussed ways and means on how best to solve the gunrunning problem.

DIRECTOR Pedro G. Refuerzo of Animal Industry informed the President that the foot-and-mouth disease is on the decline in three provinces but is spreading to other provinces in Central Luzon. Director Refuerzo said that the animal disease is on the decline in Bulacan, Nueva Ecija and Pampanga, where a total of 8,905 healthy work animals were vaccinated, and 10,017 infected cases were treated since the beginning of this month. The BAI official predicted that the disease will simmer down, but warned that a few cases are being reported in Bataan, Zambales and Western Pangasinan, indicating that the disease is spreading to those provinces.

July 23—

THE PRESIDENT and visiting Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramoj of Thailand strengthened the ties of friendship between the peoples of the Philippines and Thailand when they exchanged approaches to the problems common to their respective countries. Prime Minister Kukrit honored the President at dinner at Hotel Intercontinental in return for the state dinner given in his honor by the President and the First Lady at Malacañang. Addressing the dinner party following the brief remarks by Prime Minister Kukrit, the President said that in his conferences and consultations with the Thai Prime Minister, they have agreed that the threats that face the Philippines and Thailand are more internal and external and that the principal danger is subversion. He added that the key to the “indecisive military battles” is economic in nature, and that if plans for economic upliftment and modernization of their societies fail, “there will be no need for any organized ideology to threaten the established institutions.” The President disclosed that he and the Thai Prime Minister have the same answer to the problems of the economic systems of their respective countries. He said that in both countries, production is encountered by private initiative and distribution has a social focus. For his part, Prime Minister Kukrit expressed gratification to find sincerity and hospitality in the Philippines and was pleased to discover a “common will to abolish social injustice in our countries.” He went on to add that in the Philippines he has found blood relatives instead of friends.

THE PRESIDENT and Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramoj continued their second day of discussions over matters of interest both to the Philippines and Thailand. In a press briefing, Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said that the conferences were agreed on three issues, namely: military bases, strengthening of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and close economic cooperation, in the field of economic cooperation, there was mutual agreement in the harmonization of agricultural and individual policies within the region, including the establishment of a customs union a foreign trade or exchange union.

July 24—

THE PHILIPPINES and the Thailand agreed to strengthen their “growing community of interest” by expanding cooperation between themselves and with other members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). As an initial step their foreign ministries signed a Cultural Agreement leading toward a better and closer understanding of each other’s culture by means of exchange of book, films, and teachers, as well as visits of newsmen, writers and artists. The President and Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramoj of Thailand then issued a Joint Communique reviewing the understandings reached between them during the latter’s four-day official visit to the Philippines.

July 25—

THE PRESIDENT has issued Presidential Decree No. 752 permitting local governments to avail themselves of credit financing for priority projects or for emergency budgetary needs. It is the policy under the Decree on Credit Financing that any local government may resort to borrowings only if the local funds are insufficient to finance a socio-economic developmental project or to meet an impending financial a dislocation that may prejudice that dispensation of public services. The privilege is open to provincial, city, and municipal governments.

MEMBERS of the Australian Parliamentary Goodwill and Fact-Finding Mission were received by the President when they paid their respects following their arrival in Manila. Speaker Gordon Glen Dentorn Scholes, head of the delegation, informed the President that they had been to Pagadian City in the South to survey the work of development in the area, in which Australia is extending some assistance. Speaker Scholes said he was impressed by the steps being taken by the President to develop tourism and to create a favorable atmosphere for foreign investments in the Philippines. The President conveyed to the visiting parliamentarians the gratitude of the Filipino people for the help being extended by their government to the development of Mindanao. He said that because of the support of Australia, the government has been able to launch the massive development of Mindanao, convincing many rebels of the sincerity of the government and affecting their surrender.

July 26—

IN ANOTHER move to solve the serious housing problem, the President offered incentives to domestic corporations who would start low-cost housing projects for their workers. The President, through Presidential Decree No. 745, directed the Government Service Insurance System and the Social Security System to provide domestic corporations and partnerships with at least 300 employees with easy financing and credit terms under any or all of the following schemes: 1) Low interest rates; 2) Lengthening of repayments period; 3) Adoption of a graduated amortization scheme such that smaller amortizations are paid during the initial period of payment; and 4) Government subsidy of a portion of the interest payment; and 4) Government subsidy of a portion of the interest payment. The decree also stipulates that these corporations shall be allowed a reasonable margin of profit if lots and dwelling units are to be sold to their employees on easy installment terms if the dwelling units are to be leased to the workers on a monthly rental basis.

KIDNEY Center of the Philippines was inaugurated at the ABM Sison Hospital with a P1 million pledged contribution of the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda R. Marcos, for its initial trust fund. Speaking at the inauguration rites Mrs. Marcos said the center “provides fresh affirmation of the compassionate efforts of the government and the private sector to give the people the dignity and protection that they deserve as human beings.” The First Lady showed her deep concern to the medical needs of the people when she first initiated the establishment of the Philippine Heart Center for Asia and the Cancer Center.

July 27—

CIGARET smoking will now be a much more expensive habit, as the President increased the specific tax rates on cigarettes based on their retail prices. To promote the use of native cigarettes, however, specially the cheap kinds favored by the rural folks, the tax rates for these have been decreased. On the other hand, locally manufactured cigarettes bearing foreign brand names under licensing agreements are required to pay 50 per cent additional tax. Under Presidential Decree amending Section 137 (b) of the National Internal Revenue Code, as amended, cigarettes packed in thirties are to pay, a lower level of tax than formerly. The same is not the case with cigarettes packed in twenties. They pay a progressively higher level of specific tax, depending on the retail price.

THE PRESIDENT promoted four engineers to positions ranging from acting assistant director to acting director in the various services of the Department of Public Highways. Their promotion was recommended by Highway Secretary Baltazar Aquino based on their ability, competence, efficiency and loyalty to duty, as well as an on the length of their services in the government. Promoted were Amado E. Bandelaria, acting assistant director, Project Execution Service; Jaime S. Sarte, acting assistant director, Bureau of Construction and Maintenance; Laureano S. Mendiola, acting assistant regional director, and Nicasio T. Leoncio, acting director, Project Execution Service.

July 28—

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Golden Heart Presidential Award on Director Thomas C. Niblock of the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) for “invaluable service to the Republic” during the 1972 flood in Central Luzon, Director Niblock, who started as deputy to then Director Wesley Heraldson six years ago, is leaving for Washington together with his family. He will be replaced by Garnett Zimmerly, assistant administrator for the East Asia bureau of the USAID in Washington.

July 29—

THE PRESIDENT and Ambassador William H. Sullivan signed two loan agreements under which the United States Government will provide $10 million to increase agricultural production and improve the living conditions of small rice and corn farmers in the Philippines. The first loan, totaling $3.5 million, will be made available through the Farm Services Development Corp. in the development of small scale farmer-owned and managed irrigation systems. The second loan of $6.5 million will be used to implement the Libmanan/Cabusao Integrated Area project, which is a part of the government’s Bicol River basin development project. Both loans are on concessional terms, with a 10-year grace period, payable at three per cent interest.

CATHOLIC Bishops Conference reiterated its agreement to the President’s basic policy that the government supports all family planning methods and that the choice of method be left to the conscience of individual users. The reiteration was made in the course of the courtesy call of newly elected members of the administrative council of the Rosales of Cebu, council chairman, the group sought to dispel doubts that although the Catholic church is in favor only of natural methods of limiting the size of families, it has no objections to the basic policy of the government to have the choice of method to individual couples.

July 30—

THE PRESIDENT requested the Romanian government through Bogdan Baltazar, Romanian charge d’affaires in Manila, to prepare an aide memoire on the expansion and intensification of the Philippine-Romanian trade and commercial exchanges. He made the request during the call of the local Romanian representative who conveyed to the President a message of gratitude from President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania for the President’s expansion of concern for the victims of the recent flood in Romania. According to Baltazar, President Ceausescu has expressed the desire to import 50,000 tons of Philippine sugar for delivery from September 1975 to January 1976. In order to be able to pay for the sugar, the Romanian President offered to export to the Philippines agricultural machinery, tractors, four-wheel drive vehicles, and rolling stocks for the Philippine National Railways.

July 31—

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree appropriating P18,377,292,000 for development infrastructure projects. Presiding over a three-hour board meeting at the National Economic and Development Authority at Malacañang, the President also issued another decree creating the National Housing Authority and dissolving the existing housing agencies. In appropriating funds for public works, the President pointed out the need to increase the financing of some on-going and previously authorized projects to ensure their completion in view of increased construction costs brought about by circumstances beyond the control of the government and of changes in technical designs and requirements. In creating the National Housing Authority and dissolving existing housing agencies, the President emphasized that the magnitude of the housing problem of the country has grown into such proportions that only a purposeful, determined and organized mass housing development program can meet the need of Filipino families for decent dwellings.

THE PRESIDENT warned that the Filipino people will oppose with determination and with force, if necessary, any attempt on the territorial integrity of the Philippine Republic. He issued the warning during the 74th anniversary celebration of the Philippine Constabulary at Camp Crame, Quezon City, in the wake of confirmed reports of a foreign design to form a separate state out of Mindanao, Palawan, Sulu, tawi-tawi and Basilan with Sabah. In congratulating the PC on its anniversary, the President conveyed the commendation, the respect and recognition of the entire Filipino people “for the services you have rendered to our country and people.”

THE PRESIDENT created the Integrated National Police with the Philippine Constabulary as the nucleus and the integrated police forces of cities and municipalities as components. He signed the decree constituting the INP during the 74th anniversary celebration of the Philippine Constabulary at Camp Crame, Quezon City. The INP will be under director general, who is the chief of the constabulary, Maj. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos. The PC, however will continue to be one of the major services of the Armed Forces of the Philippines. The decree also transferred the National Police Commission, chairman by Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile, from the Office of the President to the Department of National Defense. The President said that the decree was prompted by the fact that the maintenance of law and order seemed to have met obstacles due to the fact that the local police forces were not professionalized and standardized and standardized, and not raised to the level expected of the man in uniform.

August 9—

PHILIPPINE trade with socialist countries increased by 82 per cent to $53.02 million in the first six months of this year, the department of trade reported. Trade figures also show that the country's exports stood at $14.7 million compared to imports of $38.4 million. The department said the country's socialist trade partners, included the People's Republic of China, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, and Poland.

Monetary authorities are the Central Bank and any special funds or institutions exercising specialized central banking functions such as the stabilization funds, foreign exchange fund or other specialized foreign exchange banks.

August 11—

THE PRESIDENT extended the registration of births and deaths to December 31 this year in view of the lack of communications and other facilities needed to convey the importance of the census to the people, particularly in the Mindanao area. The original deadline, as set by Presidential Decree No. 651 issued last January 31, was March 17, or 45 days after the signing of the decree. In the mandatory PD 766, the President ordered the births and deaths occurring from March 17 to November 30 this year must be registered until December 31 “without any fine or fee of any kind.” Babies born after November 30 must be registered 30 days from birth without any fine or fee of any kind, by the attending physician, nurse, “hilot”, midwife, or hospital or clinic administrator, or, in their absence, by either parent or responsible member of the family or any person who has knowledge of the birth. On the other hand, deaths occurring after November 30 must be reported within 48 hours by the nearest responsible relative or any person who has knowledge of the death to the local health officer.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad asked the Philippine printing industry to bid for the Southeast Asian market for its products and services as a way of ensuring the progress of the industry. Speaking at the 12th anniversary and induction of new officers of the Printing Industry Association of the Philippines, the secretary said Southeast Asia offers a rich potential for Philippine printers, provided they are local industry to develop a publishing spirit. He said the industry ought to invest more money in the production of books and periodicals not only to stimulate business, but as its contribution to the development of ideas and thought in the New Society.

FORMER Ambassador John Addis of the United Kingdom to the Philippines was received by the President when he made a courtesy call at Malacañang. The former envoy to the Philippines, who was subsequently transferred to Peking has retired from the diplomatic service and is now a lecturer at Oxford University in London. During an exchange of impressions with the President on their China visits, the former envoy said that following his retirement, he returned to China to conduct an in-depth study of the country and its people and that he learned more during his 10 days' stay in Shantung than he did during the years he was ambassador in Peking. The President and Ambassador Addis showed interest in the new agricultural techniques which increase agricultural production by as much as 30 per cent, as well as the agricultural production by as much as 30 per cent, as well as the massive construction of irrigation systems which now allows cultivation of what was previously arid land, ambassador Addis was accompanied to Malacañang by architect Leandro Locsin.

August 12—

THE PRESIDENT cited the country's economic gains when he received a former United States Treasury official and the head of a religious sect from the United States who made a courtesy call at Malacañang. The Presidential callers were David Kennedy, former U.S. secretary of treasury, and Spencer Kimball, president of the Church of Christ of the Latter Day Saints. During their visit, the President traced for them the events leading to, and following the proclamation of Martial Law, and the progress thus far achieved in the country's program of reforms.

REVENUE Commissioner Misael P. Vera, enforcing, a long-standing provision of the tax code, ordered a crackdown on all land, air and sea transportation establishments both local and international, for non-payment of a two percentage tax on their gross monthly receipts. The crackdown is expected to raise at least P50 million in revenue for the government to finance its huge budgetary appropriations for national economic development programs.

August 13—

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to members of the Council for the Welfare of Children and Youth which was charged with coordinating the implementation of all laws relative to the promotion of child and youth welfare. In inducting the council members, the President pinpointed that about 60 per cent of the 42-million population of the country are below 24 years old and that it therefore becomes necessary for government to orient its policies to meet the special problems of the young population. He stressed the need to coordinate the general as well as specific policies in various departments in order to support the objectives set for the young.

PHILIPPINE Legion of Honor, with the rank of commander, was conferred by the President on Rear Admiral Doniphan B. Shelton, commander of the United States Naval Forces in the Philippines. The President made the conferment in recognition of the American naval official's "meritorious and distinguished services to the Republic," as commander of the US Naval Forces and co-chairman of the RP-US Mutual Defense Board.

CREDENTIALS of Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernardes were received by the President as the ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Brazil to the Philippines. In receiving the letters of credence of the new Brazilian envoy to the Philippines, the President said the Philippines, as one of the developing countries, will exert all efforts to promote the interests of other developing countries.

August 14—

MORO National Liberation Front told the President it has accepted the government's proposal for a ceasefire in Southern Philippines. The MNLF spokesman, former Judge Abdul-Hamid Lukman, saw the President at Malacañang and said the rebel group accepted the ceasefire proposal suggested by the Philippine government panel during conversations with the MNLF in Jedah, Saudi Arabia, in late January this year. Lukman, identified as legal adviser and chairman of the investigating and fact-finding committee of the MNLF central committee, was accompanied in his call on the President by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor and Rear Admiral Romulo Espaldon, commissioner of Region 9.

THE PRESIDENT has extended for another 15 days the fuel subsidy given to certain segments of the transportation industry to keep the prices of commodities down and to help fight the effects here of the worldwide inflation. This was announced by Director General Gerardo P. Sicat of the National economic and Development Authority (NEDA) even as he revealed the general outline of a huge P35.5 billion infrastructure program to be implemented in four years. The fuel subsidy was extended to September 30 within which public utilities can operate under present transportation rates.

BUREAU of Public Works has appealed to the public to support the President's flood control program by refraining from dumping solid wastes or introducing construction which tends to obstruct the flow of waters along esteros and other waterways. The bureau also appealed to the general public to bear with the government for the duration of the implementation of its various projects. The bureau made this appeal as Greater Manila is facing flood problems during the rainy season.

August 15—

THE PRESIDENT directed all government agencies and corporations to assist in the government's export promotion program to increase the country's foreign exchange earnings. He said the expansion and development of foreign trade has become a "principal channel in developing the Philippine economy" and should be given adequate support in view of the current global economic conditions. The President issued the call for a closer inter-government agency cooperation for the expansion of foreign trade negotiations in a speech during the graduation of 30 commercial attaches and analysts held at Malacañang. The President also directed all government agencies and corporations to extend assistance to the export promotion program of the government, now being undertaken by the Bureau of Foreign Trade.

August 16—

DEVELOPMENT Bank of the Philippines has granted a total loan of P168 million to projects falling under the small and medium scale industries for the two-year period from 1973 to 1974, according to Rodolfo Manalo, manager of the industrial projects department of the DBP. Total number of projects covered by the loan has been estimated by Manalo at 1,400. He said that the DBP would like more applications for loans from small-sized and medium-scale industry investors.

August 17—

THE PRESIDENT, through Presidential Decree No. 760, allowed the Philippine registration of foreigner-owned vessels under time charter or lease to Philippine nationals to boost the country's coastwise trade and meet the increasing demands of interisland cargo and passenger traffic. To this same end, the President issued PD 761, lowering the domestic capital ownership requirement for the registration of vessels to 60 per cent, amending Section 806 of the Tariff and Customs Code which requires that, for a vessel to be registered in the country, at least 75 per cent of its capital-stock must be owned by Filipino citizens. This same decree transfer the sole authority over the registration of vessels to the Maritime Industry Authority from the Philippine Coast Guard.

August 18—

BUREAU of Internal Revenue, taking the cue from the government position on American bases in the Philippines, moved to implement all national tax-laws inside these foreign military reservations with a view to collecting about P150 million in revenue. Revenue Commissioner Misael P. Vera directed Lauro Abraham, chief assistant in the office of the commissioner, to enforce Philippine tax laws, particularly those having to do with withholding taxes for bases' personnel and PX goods sold openly inside the military bases. Affected by the BIR move are Clark Air Force Base in Pampanga, Subic Naval Base and San Antonio Naval Reservation both in Zambales and Camp John Hay in Baguio City.

August 19—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate investigation of alleged land grabbing in the Sampaloc Veterans Settlement in Tanay, Rizal. The President issued the order during the 29th anniversary reunion and convention of the Veterans Organization of the Philippines (VOP) and the Marking Fil-American Guerillas (MFAG), held at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. According to Brig. Gen. Agustin Marking, some non-veterans have invaded the settlement and have been reported to seize large areas as big as 200 hectares each, to the prejudice of the veterans for whom the land was reserved. Alarmed by the report, the President directed General Romeo G. Espino, AFP chief of staff, who is president of the Veterans Federation of the Philippines (VFP), to investigate the matter immediately and to apply the full sanction of the law against the culprits.

August 20—

THE PRESIDENT announced a series of actions intended to increase Virginia tobacco production in the north and at the same time improve its position in the export market. He directed the Central Bank to make available to the Virginia tobacco growers an initial amount of P20 million through the rural banks, to help the farmers increase their production and enable them to construct more flue-curing barns. In order to improve the quality of Philippine Virginia tobacco, and promote its competitiveness in the world market, the President directed the Department of Health to stop the distribution of DDT insecticides in the tobacco-growing areas, to avoid toxic sprays that disqualify certain quantities of locally-grown Virginia tobacco from the export market.

DR. JAMAN S. IMLAN has been appointed and inducted into office by the President as acting president of the Mindanao Institute of Technology in North Cotabato. After the induction, the President directed Dr. Imlan to prepare the program for the university.

August 21—

THE PRESIDENT has extended for another month the fuel price support program to further help transport operators bear the prohibitive cost of fuel oil. In Letter of Instructions No. 306, the President extended to September 30 the program which, under earlier LOI 280 signed last May 15, was good only for three months.

PEOPLE of Mindanao were granted virtual autonomy by the President with the purpose of speeding up the development of the island and by restructuring the regional government set up and releasing P62 7 million for Region XI and Region XII. In a series of orders and directives the President: 1) Amended Presidential Decree No. 742, transferring from Region X to Region IX the province of Zamboanga del Norte and the cities of Dapitan and Dipolog; creating Sub-Regions IX-A and IX-B in Region IX; and providing for the appointment of assistant regional commissioners for the sub-regions: 2) Appointed former Judge Abdul Hamid Lukman as assistant regional commissioner for Sub-Region IX-A, composed of Basilan, Sulu and Tawi-Tawi; 3) Appointed Al Caluang as commander of the Paramilitary Force for Southern Look, Sulu; 4) Directed the Budget Commissioner to release P30 million to each of the regional commissioners for Region IX and XII for the construction and furnishing of the regional centers and the purchase of heavy equipment; and P1.35 million each for operating expenses for their offices.

THE PRESIDENT was lauded by officials of one of the world's largest copper producers, for affecting impressive changes and creating a very favorable investment climate in the Philippines. "We congratulate you for the very impressive changes being made," Dr. Milton Stern, vice president of Kennecott Copper Corp., one of the world's largest copper producers, said, "and for creating a very favorable investment climate." The President said he was gratified over the results of the reforms despite the world crises. He said that the Philippines has not fared as badly as other countries because "we have been able to strike a balance in order to avoid the erosion of our foreign exchange." The President exchanged views with his foreign guests regarding the business prospects, particularly for copper which is facing difficulties caused by low price, capital shortage, and stiff competition in the world market.

THE PRESIDENT ordered immediate suspension of the ejectment of bonafide tenants or lessees of agricultural and residential lands converted, or to be converted into subdivisions or commercial centers and establishments. He declared that moratorium through General Order No. 53 in the wake of reports that many owners of agricultural and residential lands converted or still to be converted into subdivisions have indiscriminately ejected their tenants or demolished their tenants' houses without orders from courts or other competent authorities. In his order, the President directed that all order for the ejectment of tenants or the demolition of their houses be hereby suspended "until further order" to prevent the spread of social problems and to "allow a humane solution to the problem."

September 5—

THE PRESIDENT granted absolute amnesty to about 350 former rebels of Basilan who came to pledge their cooperation and asked them to join hands with the government in the development of Mindanao, Sulu, Basilan and Tawi-Tawi. The former rebels were led by Sheik Abdul Hamid Camlian, adviser, financier and organizer of the Moro National Liberation Front, and his son Abdulla Camlian, commander and chairman of the military tribunal. Basilan Revolutionary Committee, and member of the MNLF Central Committee and Military Planning Board. Because of the importance of the event which led at the Malacañang Reception Hall, the President directed that “henceforth this hall be known as the “Hall of Unity and Brotherhood” of the Filipino people. The President also reiterated his pledge of utmost autonomy for the Muslims within the context of territorial integrity and sovereignty under the Constitution, adding that a substantial portion of the funds for development will be diverted to the Muslim areas.

THE FIRST Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, arrived at the successful conclusion of a diplomatic mission entrusted to her by the President, which covered four countries in over a month’s time. In a brief nationally televised report, the First Lady outlined the results of her mission to make new friends while strengthening old ones for the country, to establish new markets and new prices for essential imports like oil, to conserve dollars, and to work with world leaders in the common effort to promote understanding, cooperation and peace among nations. On hand to meet the First Lady were high government officials including members of the Cabinet, and the immediate family headed by the President, and including children Imee, Ferdinand Jr., and Irene.

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to Dr. Manuel S. Alba and Dr. Tito Mijares as deputy directors general of the National Economic and Development Authority, in ceremonies held at Malacañang. At the same time, the President designated Alba as chairman of the Tariff Commission and Mijares as executive director of the National Census and Statistics Office. The duo will hold these positions in concurrent capacity.

ENHANCEMENT, the President said, of labor-management relations is conducive to increased production which, he said, is one of the lasting foundations of peace and stability. Addressing participants to the 10-day Industrial Relations Symposium for Asian countries which just concluded in Manila, the President assured that the Philippine government supports all moves to promote industrial relations and congratulated the delegates for their contributions to world peace. Accompanied by Secretary of Labor Blas F. Ople, present president of the International Labor Organization, some 52 delegates from 19 Asian nations paid a courtesy call at Malacañang, prior to their return to their respective countries on the conclusion of their seminar. Justice Tan Boon Chiang, president of the Industrial Arbitration Court of Singapore, who responded in behalf of the delegates, thanked the President and the Filipino people for the congenial atmosphere with which the symposium was held and the “overwhelming” hospitality accorded them during their 10-day sojourn here.

September 6—

THE PRESIDENT directed all government offices and government-owned or controlled corporations receiving, programming or providing government subsidy to submit to the National Economic and Development Authority a status and evaluation report on any government subsidy they are currently handling. The Chief Executive issued Letter of Instructions No. 305 to this effect since the NEDA, being the highest economic policy-making body of the country, must regularly be informed on the different subsidy programs of the government with respect to the resource needs, the effectiveness and the duration of these programs. He said that the cooperation of all concerned agencies is “imperative” to obtain data for the “effective and rational policy formulation on government subsidies.” The status and evaluation report, according to the LOI, must be submitted within 60 days after the end of each fiscal year. And, also, interim reports shall be submitted whenever requested by the NEDA.

THE PRESIDENT authorized newspapers and other publications publishing judicial notices, public bidding advertisements and other similar announcements to increase their rates to not less than P10 per column inch but not more than 80 per cent of regular commercial display advertising rates. The old rates, as stipulated by Republic Act

No. 4569, was not more than P3 but not less than P2.50 per column inch. The President said that the rate hike, authorized through Presidential Decree No. 795, is needed "to enable newspapers and other periodicals to continue in their task of disseminating news to the people." At the same time, the President also directed, through PD 796, that persons engaged in the printing of any publication appearing regularly and having fixed prices for subscription and sale, and which is not published primarily for advertisements, be exempted from the payment of local taxes. PD 796 amends section 5 of the Local Tax Code.

THE PRESIDENT said that Filipino writers have made a meaningful gift and contribution, through the Palanca Literary Contests, to Philippine life in the past 25 years. In a speech read for him by Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad at the Silver Jubilee of the Palanca Memorial Awards for Literature at the Little Theater of the Cultural Center of the Philippines, the President stressed that the awards are important milestones in the history of contemporary Philippine literature. These awards, the Chief Executive said, have served as a major impetus in the production of Philippine writing of high merit "as the contests gathered together the newest and most prestigious authors."

September 7—

THE PRESIDENT announced that the Philippines is engaged in an experiment in the local production of ballistic missiles in pursuance to its Self-Reliance Defense Program (SRDP). "The defense of the Philippines cannot be left to alliances with other countries," the President said as he witnessed the successful test-firing of locally produced missiles at the northern coast of Luzon. "We must assume that there will be contingencies where even the United States may not be ready to come to our assistance." Dubbed the "Bongbong" rockets, the missiles were fired some 10 to 12 kilometers into the sea from launchers mounted on a military vehicle parked along the shoreline. They constitute part of a mobile defense system against possible invasion from the sea or from the air.

September 8—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady honored President and Madame Francois Xavier Ortoli of the Commission for the European Community at luncheon held at Malacañang. In offering a toast for the visitors, the President said they have come at a time when the Philippines is engaged in reforms in an effort to create a New Society. He said that Filipinos have to install a crisis government in order to meet a modern threat, to meet the problems of the modern world. In his response, President Ortoli assured the readiness of the European Economic Community to extend cooperation in the region. He said he is very much impressed with what he has observed in this country and expressed confidence that the Philippines will succeed in its efforts to give a better life for its people.

THE FIRST LADY said that women in the barrios, with all their virtues of modesty, fidelity, fortitude and industry, need more recognition and attention than what they are getting now so that their integration into the process of national development could be hastened. The First Lady made the observation in a speech during the 9th biennial conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) at the Cultural Center of the Philippines. The First Lady deplored the situation in which thinking, especially in a developing country like the Philippines where the majority live in the rural areas, has become citified and urbanized. But she expressed confidence that this distorted perspective was a mere oversight and not because of deliberate neglect. She said she was glad to note that this tendency to neglect the rural areas is reversing and that government's orientation now is being focused on the countrysides. The First Lady extolled the Filipina's wholehearted acceptance of her role as the bearer, nourisher and cherisher of life, since she exercises crucial influence during the formative years of new generations, unlike her western sister who often "carp at her triangular role of homemaker, wife and mother."

September 9—

THE PRESIDENT received ranking commanders of the Moro National Liberation Front from the Lanao provinces who offered their services to the government in seeking a lasting solution to the peace and order problem in the Muslim areas in Mindanao. The group represents the first batch of MNLF commanders operating in the Lanao area, to return to the folds of the law. Other groups previously brought to Malacañang were from Sulu, Basilan, Zamboanga and Cotabato areas. Ustax Abdul Manan Gamor Amerol, supreme commander of the Gomra Unit who headed this latest batch of surrenderers from Lanao del Sur and Lanao del Norte, said that they realized that they and their children have a better future in this country under the leadership of the President.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the acceleration of work for the construction of the National Power Corporation's geothermal plants in Tiwi, Albay and Barrio Bitin, Bay, Laguna. He issued the order following a briefing which indicated that geothermal resources may ultimately supply a major portion of the country's energy fuel needs. "I am encouraged by what I see," the President told newspapermen at Barrio Masiit, Caluan, where he also inspected a compact farming pilot project. "When the experts say that instead of merely producing 1,200 megawatts, it may produce much more, we have something that we should work on," the President said. He added that he will finalize all contracts with Japanese suppliers for generators for the geothermal plants and authorize the expenditure of funds for the Tiwi and Barrio Bitin geothermal projects which he would like to see accelerated.

September 10—

THE PRESIDENT called for a strong armed forces to guard against all eventualities including aggression in order to guarantee the sovereignty of the Republic when all efforts fail to promote peace and stability. He made the warning at the traditional loyalty parade and review given him in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, on the eve of his 58th birthday, at Camp Aguinaldo, in Quezon City. The President said the four major services, the Constabulary, Army, Air Force and Navy, have reached a level of efficiency which, while wanting in arms, forms a strong united front against perils to the Republic. Finally, the President urged the AFP to continue setting the example and model for the Filipino people in supporting the goals of the New Society.

September 11—

THE PRESIDENT took to the field, spent his birthday among the small farmers and fishermen in Central Luzon, and there held his first Cabinet meeting outside Malacañang in an effort to seek on-the-spot solutions to some of their pressing problems. After partaking breakfast with a farmer's family in Barrio Bonsuran, Pandi, Bulacan, the President convoked members of his Cabinet in a nearby mango groves during which among others, he: 1) Authorized the Land Bank to set aside an initial P2.4 million to be made available as loan to small farmers for the purchase of tractors (hand tillers) ; 2) Directed the release of P80 million for the construction of barangay roads all over the country to enable farmers to bring their produce to market areas; 3) Ordered the Philippine National Bank of the Philippines, the Amanah Bank, and other government financing institutions to pool their resources and make available P150 million as loans to small fishermen's cooperatives and for the establishment of 18 new ice and cold storage plants in strategic sections of the country; 4) Directed the cancellation of licenses of logging concessionaires who do not engage in reforestation, and for concessions in excess of 100,000 hectares, to cancel the excess; and 5) Authorized the release of P4.5 million for the establishment of rehabilitation centers, to hasten the recovery of surrendering rebels.

COCONUT industry was assured by the President of full support from the government and the political leadership because it is one of the country's basic industries. He gave the assurance during the distribution of the first 12 shares of stocks in the newly created United Coconut Planters Bank, at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang on the occasion of his 58th birthday. In his brief remarks, the President directed the Philippine Coconut Authority and the UCPB to see to it that the bank is utilized for the welfare of the small planters, and that the program of coconut hybridization be continued in order to improve coconut production.

EXECUTIVE clemency was granted by the President to 416 prisoners as part of the traditional observance of his birthday. The clemency cases include four absolute pardons, seven conditional pardons, 331 conditional pardons with parole conditions, and 74 commutations of sentence.

September 14—

THE PRESIDENT declared that the compensation for private property acquired by the government for public use shall not exceed the market value declared by the property owner or such property value as determined by the assessor, whichever is lower. In issuing Presidential Decree No. 794, amending Section 92 of the Real Property Tax Code (PD 464), the President pointed out that the private land owners, anticipating expropriation, declare the value of their properties unreasonably high, which when based on the original provision, “often precludes the government from showing the true value of the property.”

THE PRESIDENT has approved P500, 000 to finance the requirements for implementing Letter of Instructions No. 287 and hasten the census of all veterans in the country. Under the LOI, the President directed the secretaries of the Departments of National Defense and Local Government and Community Development, and all other government agencies involved in the project, to update the list of veterans and their addresses. The President said the census is being conducted not only to establish a permanent roster of veterans but also to facilitate the distribution of certificates of stock of the Philippine Veterans Bank to the recipient veterans.

September 15—

THE PRESIDENT witnessed the signing of a final agreement to proceed with the construction and laying of a high capacity submarine telephone cable linking Okinawa, the Philippines and Hongkong at a cost of some US $60 million. At the signing ceremony held at Malacañang, the President said he thought it best that he witnessed the important event, because, while the region already has communications via satellite, it is necessary not only for security purposes but also for the convenience of everyone that there be an alternate means of communicating with one another. The agreement covering construction and maintenance was assigned by M.H. Nieto, president of Eastern Telecommunications (Philippines) Inc. (ETPI); M. Itano, president of Kokusai Denshin Denwa (KDD) of Japan; and A. A. Willett, managing director of Cable and Wireless Ltd. of the United Kingdom.

September 16—

THE PRESIDENT received ministers from three neighboring countries and two groups of business executives who made separate courtesy calls on him. Received by the President were: 1) Dr. Mochtar Kusumaatmadja, minister of justice of Indonesia, who was accompanied by Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos; 2) Minister of Commerce Tongyod Chittavira of Thailand, who was accompanied by other Thai dignitaries and Acting Trade Secretary Mario Reyes; 3) Minister U Ye Goung of Agriculture and Forestry of Burma, who came with Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., 4) Heads of the various Wrigley Companies in Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Hongkong, Taiwan, Singapore and the Philippines, headed by William Wrigley, president of Wrigley company of Chicago; and 5) Officials of the Caltex Oil Company, led by Frank Zingaro, vice president of Caltex International.

ALL GOVERNMENT officials and employees in the Greater Manila area were required by the President to attend the ceremonies at the Luneta commemorating the third anniversary of the New Society. In Memorandum Circular No. 865, signed for him by Acting Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, the President said that since the event underscores the people’s commitment to preserve the nation’s integrity, “it is imperative that the ceremonies commemorating the occasion be witnessed and participated in by the aforementioned officials and employees.”

September 17—

PHILIPPINE house which will bolster an aggressive export drive of the government in the United States West Coast will be established in San Jose, California, in January next year. The memorandum of agreement setting up the House was signed by Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. and the Philippine House’s president, Mrs. Azucena E. Tomas. The agreement provides that the Philippine House will serve as the government’s marketing agency in the area for Philippine-made products.

September 18—

THE PRESIDENT expressed the gratitude of the Filipino people to World Heavyweight Champion Muhammad Ali and challenger Joe Frazier, for choosing Manila as the site of their title match. The President and the First Lady received the protagonists in what has been billed a “Thrilla in Manila,” when they jointly paid their respects to the first couple.

INTERNATIONAL Monetary Fund has granted under its 1975 oil facility a loan of US$115 million to the Philippines. Added to the present Philippine international reserves of $1.70 billion, the IMF loan will boost reserves to $1.825 billion and strengthen the foreign exchange resources of the country. Normally, the repayment period for the loan would be seven years at an interest rate of 7-3/4 per cent per annum, which is more favorable than present commercial rates.

September 19—

THE PRESIDENT announced the beginning of a “sweeping, complete and exhaustive” reorganization of the government to eliminate those who have violated the public trust and reward those who have performed their duties with distinction, courage and dedication. In a report to the Nation on the third anniversary of the New Society, the President spoke of men of wealth and position in government who have failed popular expectations and asked the people to join him in a commitment to do battle against these enemies of the Republic. Government Offices affected by the reorganization were the Commission on Audit, Department of Finance, Department of National Defense, Department of Public Works, Department of Public Highways, Commission on civil Service, Department of General Services, Department of Agriculture, Department of Natural Resources, the Board of Examiners, the Department of Trade, and the Judiciary.

September 20—

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad stressed the need for government communicators to effectively communicate to the people the messages of the national reform program. This task has become more urgent he said, in the wake of the President’s announcement of a sweeping clean up of government. Addressing participants in the conference of the National Association of Government Communicators at El Grande Hotel, Paranaque, Rizal the DPI head said this task is “addressed primarily to the communicator of the message of government because it is the communicator who perceives the weight, validity and acceptance of that message.”

September 22—

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree setting in motion the integrated development of agriculture, natural resources, infrastructure and social services in underdeveloped areas, especially the Mindoro Integrated Rural Development Project. In his decree, the President: 1) Named Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. as chairman of the six-man Cabinet Coordinating Committee for Integrated Rural Development Projects; 2) Created the Executive Committee for the Mindoro Integrated Rural Development Project (MIRDP), headed by Natural Resources Secretary J. Leido; 3) Appointed Carlos Sales of the National Irrigation Administration (NIA) as Project Director; and 4) Released P1.5 million from the Special Activities Fund for the initial operations of the MIRDP office in Metropolitan Manila, under the direct supervision of the Executive Committee.

UNDERSECRETARY Reuben R. Canoy of Information called attention to the need for media men to learn to speak the language of development if they are to become effective “catalysts of change.” He said the realities of our time require us to reject the American concept of a neutral or adversary media. He also noted that prior to the new social order media degenerated into escapism, into “a journalistic supermarket that offered a little of everything for everybody.” The imposition of guidelines for media since 1972 is an attempt to make it responsive to its role in national development, he explained. To be truly effective, Undersecretary Canoy emphasized, a national communications strategy must be the kind that is evolved from the awareness of existing condition in the country. His speech was read for him by Felipe Villaluz before the closing session of the government communicator’s seminar at Parañaque, Rizal.

September 23—

The PRESIDENT emphasized the vital role of the civil service in guaranteeing the continuity not only of the government but of the race and the nation even in the absence of effective leadership. In his speech on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the Philippine Civil Service at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President described the Civil Service Commission as a constitutional body, free and independent of any other power. It must act with initiative, and without much pushing from the Office of the President or any other body, including the judiciary, the President added. The President said the commission under Chairman Jacobo Clave must upgrade the merit system to develop an authentic professional service and institute effectiveness and integrity in performance through the development of positive attitudes among the public servants. In conclusion, the President congratulated the SCS for its 75 years of existence which, he said, “is evidence of the stability and reliability of the system, irrespective of its weaknesses and deficiencies.”

RESIGNATIONS on nine ranking customs officials were accepted by the President and a list of 64 customs employees separated from the service on various counts was announced. Said employees who were separated from the service were guilty of dishonesty and grave misconduct to long and unexplained absences. The highest ranking officer of the Bureau of Customs will automatically assume the duties of the commissioner of customs, in a temporary capacity, it was also announced. That officer is Pedro Mendoza, customs deputy commissioner. He takes over from Commissioner Rolando Geotina whose resignation was accepted by the President on September 19.

September 24—

THE PRESIDENT underscored the urgent need for Asian countries to promote themselves as one tourism region. He emphasized this point in a speech read for him by Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor at the closing session of the Asia and Australasia Hotel and Restaurant Association convention. Tourism is one of the best media for achieving such unity and exposure because it affords direct observation by a visitor of a people’s life and culture through immediate and personal experience, the President said. He said the success of the tourism industry in the Philippines as well as in other countries is the outcome of the close collaboration between the government and the private sector. By its nature, tourism is a cooperative undertaking, he said. He stressed, however, the need to professionalize the industry and to economize and utilize to the fullest the use of existing resources.

THE PRESIDENT accepted the resignation of 18 ranking Bureau of Internal Revenue officers effective September 25, 1975. An additional 114 other government employees were laid off today in the continuing massive cleanup going since September 19. Of this additional list, 94 are from the BIR and include 32 examiners and 14 collectors. There are also 20 customs employees in the new list. This is on top of the 73 customs officials and employees whose separation was also announced. Unless otherwise indicated their separation is as of September 19. While this purge is going on, military officers are being assigned to various government offices, Malacañang announced. Their function is to safeguard government records and property left by those officials and employees ousted in the purge. The military officials are not taking over any offices, it was stressed.

THE PRESIDENT declared October 8 to October 14 of each year "Standards Week" under the auspices of the Philippine Bureau of Standards, Department of Trade, through Proclamation 1327. The declaration coincides with proclamation of October 134 of every year as "World Standards Day" by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) of which the Philippines is an active member. In the proclamation signed for him by Acting Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, the President underscored the "continuing need to instill standards-consciousness among producers and especially consumers in order to hasten the attainment of national development goals."

September 25—

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to National Irrigation Administrator Alfredo Juinio as acting secretary of public works, transportation and communications in a ceremony held at Malacañang. At the induction, the President said that Secretary Juinio retains his position as NIA administrator in a concurrent capacity, "pending further arrangements."

THE PRESIDENT extended welcome to the Jaycess International to hold their Congress in Manila in November of 1977. The President expressed support for the holding of the Jaycees International Congress to Ivan Bumsted, JCI secretary general, who made a courtesy call at Malacañang. The JCI official informed the President that during his brief stay in the Philippines, he has been much impressed by the progress achieved by the New Society, particularly in the rural areas. The President replied that under the New Society, most of the funds of the government are now channeled to the rural areas. In conclusion, the President lauded the Philippine Jaycees for being very active in civic works.

THE PRESIDENT continued to tap young technocrats for top government posits which has been left vacant when the President started cleaning the government last September 19. Appointed by the President were: 1) Associate Justice Francisco S. Tantuico of the Court of Appeals, as chairman of the Commission on Audit, vice Ismael Mathay Sr., retired; 2) Associate Justice Efren I. Plana of the Court of Appeals, as acting commissioner of internal revenue, replacing former Commissioner of the budget, vice former Budget Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco, who is past the retirement age; and 4) Acting Finance Secretary Alfredo Pio de Roda, as acting commissioner of customs, vice former Commissioner Rolando G. Geotina, resigned.

September 26—

THE PRESIDENT appointed 21 professionals as chairman and members of six examining boards, completing membership in three of the boards. Six were appointed to the Board of Medicine, six to the Board of Accountancy and three others to the Board of Civil Engineering completing all three boards. Two members each were named to the Boards of Mechanical Engineering, Deck Officers, and Engine Officers. There are 32 examining boards altogether, 25 of which have three members. Five others have five members each and two have six members each.

September 27—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the separation from the service for various causes, of 1,151 government employees belonging to the rank and file, pursuant to Letter of Instructions No. 309. The separated workers, who had been recommended by their respective heads of departments and agencies for separation, belonged to the Department of Public Works, Transportation and Communications, Department of Public Highways, Department of Agriculture, Department of Natural Resources, and the Board of Transportation.

THE FIRST LADY, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, arrived from New York after another successful diplomatic mission for the Philippines. The First Lady was sent by the President to New York last September 19, to address, on his behalf, the current 30th regular session of the United Nations General Assembly. In her report to the nation upon setting foot at the Manila International Airport, the First Lady said that the Philippine statement she read “committed the Philippines squarely in support of the proposed courses of action and objectives laid down in a resolution adopted by the U.N. General Assembly in a preceding special session. The President and his mother, Doña Josefa Edralin Marcos, led the official welcome for the First Lady, which included high government officials including members of the Cabinet and the judiciary, as well as chiefs of diplomatic missions.

September 28—

FORMER British Prime Minister Edward Heath and his party arrived from Hongkong for a three-day visit to meet the President and discuss with him “major questions on world affairs.” He was met at the Manila International Airport by the First Lady, daughter Imee, and British Ambassador Alexander Turpin. The former British prime minister came on the invitation of the First Lady and will be staying as personal guest of the First Couple. The First Lady said she had met Mr. Heath when he invited her to No. 10 Downing street during Mr. Heath’s term as a prime minister.

Official Week in Review: September 29 – October 5, 1975

September 29—

THE PRESIDENT ordered every government department, agency and office to conduct at least a yearly audit of the performance of its officials and employees in coordination with the Civil Service Commission. This is one of five directives which the President issued in line with his efforts to streamline the civil in the light of the current government cleanup. The other moves taken by the President to improve the quality of the civil service were: 1) A directive to all department and agency heads and the chairman and members that will eliminate red tape in the government; 2) A directive to establish a civil service staff in each department, bureau, office, agency, government owned or controlled corporation, and local government to serve as liaison between all government offices and the CSC; 3) A directive to the above-named government agencies to establish more extensive and intensive continuing program for employee development at all levels; and 4) A directive to the CSC chairman, the education secretary and the Development Academy of the Philippines president to constitute themselves into a committee to work out a program of award for deserving public servants.

THE PRESIDENT approved the request of Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile for an indefinite leave of absence, and will assume the post of defense secretary in acting capacity. This will be the fourth time that the President will be acting defense secretary.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Congressional Accounts Liquidation Office (CALO), Office of the President, to take over the administration of the Congressional Employees Homesite, otherwise known as the House Employees Homesite Administration (HEHA) in Caloocan City. At the same time, he also designated the HEHA barangay chairman as the resident administrator of the homesite. Through Presidential Decree No.801, the President directed the general services secretary and the director of building and real property management to immediately transfer and deliver to the CALO, through the barangay chairman, all records, properties, equipment, cash balances, appropriations and other funds of the homesite. He also ordered the Presidential Assistance on Legal Affairs, upon the recommendation of the barangay chairman, to execute deeds of conveyance in favor of qualified lot awardees covering the lots of the homesite upon full payment.

September 30—

THE PRESIDENT hailed the opening of the Nutrition Center of the Philippines Building in Makati, Rizal, as part of the New Society's investment in the human person, those who live today and those to be born tomorrow. The President inaugurated the NCP Building, assisted by the First Lady, and former Prime Minister Edward Heath of the United Kingdom, who was a special guest. In her brief remarks, the First Lady said that the NCP will be called upon to dedicate its efforts and resources to the three million children between the ages of six months and six years who are undernourished and malnourished.

THE PRESIDENT directed the government's primary financial institutions to refinance and restructure existing loans to poultry and hog raisers, in one of a series of moves designed to revitalize the floundering poultry and hog industry. At the same time, he instructed the National Grains Authority and the Food Terminal Inc., in consultation with the Department of Agriculture, to purchase in bulk local and imported feed ingredients, feed supplements, drugs and other biologicals needed in hog and poultry production. The Chief Executive also ordered the FTI, in coordination with the DA, to provide annual purchase contracts for small and medium poultry and hog raisers at support prices. These directives were contained in Letters of Instructions Nos. 321, 322, and 323 which issued by the President to be implemented immediately.

THE PRESIDENT, while on a routine inspection in Mindanao and Sulu to personally assess the progress of the pacification campaign in the area, met with the MNLF contingent which hijacked a Japanese ship and 108 other rebels who decided to surrender upon learning of the President's presence in the locality. At the meeting which was held at sunrise, the President reiterated his policy of uniting all Filipinos, Muslim and Christian; to give the fullest autonomy to the Muslim areas within the principles of sovereignty and territorial integrity, and to develop Mindanao as much as other parts of the country. The 38-man rebel group which hijacked the Japanese log carrier Suehiro

Maru, held the crew members hostage and demanded a million-peso ransom, finally agreed not only to release the vessel and the hostages, but also to surrender with their firearms.

October 1—

THE PRESIDENT personally congratulated Muhammad Ali and presented him with Presidential Trophy for his convincing technical knockout victory in the 14th round over challenger Joe Frazier at the Philippine Coliseum in Quezon City. Earlier, at Malacañang, the President announced over the radio that he had ordered the World Heavyweight Championship bout to be covered live by local television and radio stations through Channel 4 and Channel 7.

JUSTICE Secretary Vicente T. Abad Santos ruled that aliens are prohibited from employment in any capacity, in any corporation, engaged in particularly nationalized activities. In a letter to Chairman Constante Fariñas of the National Development Company, V.T. Abad Santos said that the election of officers of the Batangas Land Company whereby an alien was elected vice president was brought to his attention in the light of the provisions of the Anti-Dummy Law. The question about the propriety of electing an alien as vice president of the realty corporation was raised. "It is my opinion that while PD No. 715 allows aliens to be elected as directors of corporations engaging in partially nationalized activities, the prohibition in Section 2-A of the Anti-Dummy Law against the employment of aliens in any capacity i.e., control or non-control positions, still remains and is applicable even to the alien directors who represent the alien stockholders in the corporation," Sec. Abad Santos ruled.

EXPORTS of sugar-based products, one of the fastest growing sources of dollar receipts, amounted to P451,805.47, or about P3 million, from July to September 15, 1975. This was gathered from the list of export clearance applications approved by Secretary of Trade Troadio T. Quiazon Jr. The clearance system under the department of trade was established to effectively implement government policies on trading and pricing of sugar. The clearance system was also considered necessary to monitor the export of sugar-based commodities. Secretary Quiazon said the sugar-based commodities, the latest in the list of the country's non-traditional exports, were shipped to the United States, Japan, Hongkong, Singapore, Spain and Canada.

October 2—

THE PRESIDENT approved a memorandum of understanding between the Philippine government and the Sony Corporation of Japan for the progressive local assembly and manufacture of portable color cassettes and video tape recording systems. The memorandum was signed by the First Lady in behalf of the government and by Akio Morita, president of Sony Corporation, in a ceremony held at Malacañang. In authorizing the First Lady to sign for the government, the president said that the cassettes and the video tape recording systems will be utilized principally to disseminate information to the rural areas, in connection with the nutrition campaign which is one of the projects of the First Lady. The President said that the cassettes and VTR systems to be assembled and manufactured here will also be used in educational drive in support of economic development projects of the government.

THE PRESIDENT swore in Governor Angel L. Limjoco Jr. of the Board of Investments as commissioner of the Securities and Exchange Commission in a concurrent capacity. Gov. Limjoco took his oath in the presence of the First Lady and the Limjoca family. Gov. Limjoco replaced former Commissioner Arcadio E. Yabyabin, whose resignation was accepted by the President last September 19, together with those of SEC executive Officer Luis Lara and Senior Executive Assistant Gregorio Catapang.

LEGION of Honor, degree of officer, was conferred by the President on J. Paul Austin, chairman and chief executive officer of Coca Cola Co. for his outstanding service during the liberation of the Philippines from the Japanese occupation forces in 1944. The citation stated that as lieutenant commander of the United States Navy in a motor torpedo squadron, Austin served with distinction in support of US invasion forces in Leyte and in Northern Luzon and contributed significantly to the successful operations of the joint Philippine American forces in the early liberation of the Philippines.

October 3—

J. PAUL AUSTIN, chairman and chief executive officer of Coca-Cola Company on a three-day sojourn in the Philippines made a sentimental visit to the Ilocos where he served for some time as naval officer during World War II. He was accompanied by Deputy Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, in behalf of the President, in helicopter-hops along the Ilocos coast, where he reminisced on historic events which happened some 31 years ago. Governor Elizabeth Marcos-Keon of Ilocos Norte, a sister of the President, led the folks from the provinces of La Union, Ilocos Sur and Ilocos Norte in welcoming Austin and Secretary Reyes.

October 4—

THE PHILIPPINES has been accepted as a full observer-member of the 22-nation Association of Latin American and Caribbean Sugar-Exporting Countries, thus formalizing the loose affiliation which resulted last June after the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, met in New York with the member-nations' representatives to the United Nations. Together, the members of the bloc, which includes Cuba, control 70 per cent of the world's sugar exports. Still the Philippines' top export, sugarcane earned P765-million for the country last year, during which the Philippines ranked 10th among the world's top sugar producers.

October 5—

CENTRAL BANK said that the integrated agricultural financing scheme and the financial-technical assistance by the CB and the rural banks have boosted the countryside development program. CB Gov. Gregorio S. Licaros discussed this scheme in a report to the President, saying "it will contribute substantially to the national food production efforts, ease difficulties and in general improve living standards in the rural areas." The IAF plan, described as a credit supervised scheme, is now being pioneered by the Rural Bank of Mexico (Pampanga) which has initiated new approaches in credit and technology applications.

October 7—

THE PRESIDENT appointed 11 new judges to six key cities. Appointed judges in the following city courts were: 1) Quezon City: Fernando V. Gorospe Jr., assistant fiscal of Manila and former chief of the Commission on Elections' Law Enforcement Department; Perfecto A. S. Laguio Jr., law professor and municipal judge of Las Piñas, Rizal. 2) Pasay City: Mariano V. Lacsamana, assistant fiscal of Manila and former legal officer of the Civil Aeronautics Board. 3) Caloocan City: Filemon M. Mendoza, auxiliary city judge of Caloocan City and corporate legal counsel of Design Center Philippines, 4) Carlos C. Ofilada, former CFI Clerk of Court of Manila and presently Assistant City Fiscal of Quezon City. 5) Iloilo City: Cornelio G. Lazaro, provincial fiscal of Guimaras and former municipal judge; Leonardo E. Lozano, legal consultant of the League of Municipal Mayors of Western Visayas; Simplicia S. Medina, CFI branch clerk of court of Iloilo and member of the Bar since 1957. 6) Mandaue City: Temistocles Boholst Jr., law professor and practitioner since 1957. 7) Surigao City: Salvador C. Sering, city fiscal of Surigao City and former municipal judge, and Diomedes M. Eviota, member of the provincial board of Surigao del Norte and private law practitioner.

THE PRESIDENT appointed 37 more professionals as chairmen and members of 12 examining boards in the Professional Regulation Commission. This makes a total of 58 professionals appointed and 18 examining bodies reconstituted since the President declared all 32 examining boards vacant last month.

CONSULTATIVE Group for the Philippines recommended additional foreign aid of at least P600 million for 1976, while it pledged support to the continued efforts of the Philippine government to promote rapid growth and employment in agriculture and industry, and the expansion and diversification of exports as a means of strengthening the country's balance of payments. The World Bank's European office in Paris reported that the Philippine policy, which was summarized in the President's message to the Group, "received support from the meeting." The fifth meeting of the Consultative Group for the Philippines was held in Paris last October 1-2, under the chairmanship of the World Bank. The Philippine delegation was led by Secretary Cesar Virata of Finance.

MALACANANG released the names of 120 government employees included in the previously released listings since the purge started September 19, but who were no longer in the service prior to the purge or were reorganized out of the service on July 1, 1975. Of the 120 employees, 98 were from the Department of Finance (the Bureaus of Internal Revenue and Customs), 11 were from the Department of Trade, 9 were from the Commission of Audit, and one each came from the Department of Justice and the Department of Social Welfare.

THE PRESIDENT congratulated Erbito Salavarria for his successful defense of his world flyweight boxing crown (NBA version) in a 15-round bout with challenger Susumu Hanagata of Japan in Yokohama. His message follows in full: "Your success defense of the World Flyweight crown in a memorable fight secures your claim to boxing fame and brings immense honor and pride to us in the Philippines. You have shown the boxing world that the tradition began by our celebrated Filipino champions is very much alive and will continue for many long years. On behalf of our people, on my own as well as on behalf of Mrs. Marcos, I sent you warmest congratulations and all best wishes for a happy homecoming."

October 8—

THE PRESIDENT urged the nation to adopt stronger and stricter oil conservation measures in the face of the recent increase in the price of oil. He said oil conservation should help alleviate a balance of payments deficit which is expected to hit about $350 million this year, much of it in payment for the country's oil requirements. The President called upon the Bureau of Customs and the Bureau of Internal Revenue and all government-collecting agencies to redouble their tax-collecting efforts to increase domestic resources.

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that the friendly relations between the Philippines and Poland, one of the Socialist countries in Eastern Europe, will continue to grow. The President told Ambassador Zdzislaw Regulski of Poland, who made a farewell call prior to returning in Poland, that the Philippines welcomes the normalization of relations with all friendly countries regardless of race, creed or ideology. In response, Ambassador Regulski said that it is the desire of his government to maintain closer relations with the Philippines and that it is contemplating establishment of a permanent embassy in Manila in the near future.

THE FIRST LADY, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez-Marcos, underscored the importance of the National Museum Planetarium in the life of the people in this space age. Addressing a huge crowd which attended the inauguration of the PLANETARIUM at Rizal Park, the First Lady said it will complement what is read in books about the heavenly bodies, like the planets, and other marvelous object of creation. She also added that the PLANETARIUM can help develop a working knowledge of the heavenly bodies so the people will "better understand and appreciate our minuteness and place in the Universe."

October 9—

THE PRESIDENT received officials of Triumph International, Germany's largest garment manufacturers, who called to invite him to inaugurate the firm's local factory sometime in March or May next year. Gunther Spiesshofer, president of the company, informed the President that his company had brought in five million Deutschmarks to set up the factory in the Food Terminal compound in Makati. It is now partially operating with 400 workers. Once in full production, the local factory, which manufactures women's apparel and bras and underwear, will employ 1,000 workers and will be exporting $5 million worth of garments yearly. It will be the biggest factory of its kind in the Asian region. The President assured the industrialist that the government welcomes foreign investors and that it will extend all the necessary encouragement and support for their expansion.

MALACANANG released a second list of 35 government employees included in the previously published listings of separated employees but who were no longer in the service when the purge started September 19, or had been reorganized out of the service on July 1, 1975. The new list of names includes 14 from the Department of Agrarian Reform, 10 from the Department of Public Works and Communications, from the Department of Natural Resources, and 2 from the Department of Agriculture.

INDUSTRY Secretary Vicente T. Paterno underscored the need for increased processing of local raw materials into finished products for export—to enhance the industrial development program of the government. At the same time, he called for the development of non-traditional export products in the countryside to help reduce unemployment and underemployment. Secretary Paterno spelled out these measures as determinant factors for economic development in a speech delivered before the national conference on the New International Economic Order and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD IV) at the Ateneo de Manila University. Secretary Paterno, concurrently chairman of the Board of Investments, said the government in pursuing its industrial development program, is giving the priority to the processing of commodities which the country is exporting as raw materials. He said the government is engaged in national programs, foremost of which are the processing of traditional export products into finished goods.

THE GOVERNMENT finalized plans to restrict the exportation of molasses to assure the continuing supply for local end-users, particularly the small poultry and livestock raisers. During a meeting with feed-millers, government officials and representatives of the livestock industry, the conferees also agreed to take steps aimed at rationalizing the manufacture and local distribution of feed ingredients such as pollard and bran. Three government agencies—the National Grains Authority, Department of Trade and Department of Agriculture—proposed measures by which the outflow of molasses to the international market can be controlled to meet domestic requirements.

CENTRAL Bank required all non-bank financial intermediaries performing quasi-banking functions to publish their respective consolidated balance sheets (financial conditions) on a quarterly basis. In a circular letter, dated October, the CB ordered investment houses and financing companies to publish their balance sheets in a newspaper of general circulation within 30 days after the end of each quarter: March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31. The implementation of the new requirement for non-bank financial institutions is part of the overall plan of the CB to keep a closer tab of operation of investment houses and some financing companies engaged in quasi-banking.

October 10—

THE PRESIDENT called for the concentration of the national effort on more specialized lines in order to increase agricultural production. Addressing officials of the Organization for Industrial, Spiritual and Cultural Advancement (International) and its local chapter, who sought to establish an agricultural training center on a 50-hectare parcel of public agricultural land, the President advised the OISCA officials to consult with the proper government officials concerned so that their plan will be integrated with the rural development programs, and the national effort not dissipated. He also pledged government support to the OISCA projects, provided that there be coordination not only with respect to the basic policies but with the actual implementation of plans.

THE PRESIDENT appointed a law dean, a former immigration commissioner and three city judges as associate justices of the Court of Appeals, leaving seven more vacancies in the 36-seat collegiate court. Those appointed are 1) Prof. Delfin Flandez Bataca; 2) Samuel Reyes; 3) Judge Vicente G. Ericta; 4) Judge Lorenzo Relova; and 5) Judge Vicente M. Santiago Jr.

October 11—

THE PRESIDENT made a total of 31 new appointments to the judiciary, upon recommendation of the Supreme Court and the Department of Justice. Of the appointments, 27 are for the Courts of First Instance, three are for the Circuit Criminal Court, and one is for the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

THE PRESIDENT appointed Lazaro R. Banag Jr. associate commissioner of the Professional Regulations Commission and named ten other professionals to reconstitute four more examining boards. Banag takes the position vacated by Jose A. R. Melo, who was recently promoted to commissioner of civil service. Twenty-two out of the 32 examining boards under the Professional Regulations Commission have by now been reconstituted. All positions in the 32 boards were declared vacant by the President last September 19.

October 13—

THE PRESIDENT appointed 10 new Court of First Instance judges, on top of 27 other CFI judges that the President named last week. These appointments reduce to 50 the number of vacancies still existing in the CFIs. The latest appointments follow: 1) Oscar C. Fernandez for Narvacan, Ilocos Sur, Branch II; 2) Regino Veridiano II for Olongapo City, Branch I; 3) Inocencio Maliama for San Jose City (Nueva Ecija), Branch VIII, a new created sala; 4) Jose H. Tecson for Manila, Branch V; 5) Alfredo V. Cruz Jr., for Manila, Branch XXIX, 6) Celso L. Magsino for Pasig, Rizal, Branch XX; 7) Alfredo V. Granados, for Puerto Princesa City; Branch 1; 8) Antonio C. Inalaya, for Balayan, Batangas, Branch III; 9) Alejandro R. Leopando, for Cotabato City, Branch II; and 10) Felintriye G. Saulog, for Sindangan, Zamboanga del Norte, Branch IV.

THE FIRST LADY, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez-Marcos, officially welcomed the delegates to the Third Asian Composers League conference at the Cultural Center of the Philippines. She, at the same time, lauded the conferees for endeavoring to develop an art with which Asians have lived so intimately for centuries. She explained that the Philippines is now striving “as never before” to discover, understand and develop its own music. In this connection, she cited the various institutions and interments to promote music appreciation in the Philippines, such as the Cultural Center of the Philippines, Music Promotion Foundation and many others, designed not only to serve the Filipinos but to promote understanding with the rest of the world. In closing, the First Lady wished the conference success not only in resolving their own problems but in helping unite the peoples of Asia and in the cause of peace, progress and freedom for all mankind.

Official Week in Review: October 14 – October 19, 1975

October 14—

THE PRESIDENT granted complete and absolute amnesty to the leaders and followers of the Blaan tribe in Davao del Sur and the Talaandig tribe in Bukidnon who surrendered to him unconditionally in Malacañang. At the same time, the President took steps to protect them from possible reprisals, enable them to recover their ancestral lands, and promote their economic well-being. Headed by Datu Kaamulan of the Talaandig tribe and Datu Kalibo who represented his ailing father, Datu Dumalao of the Blaan tribe, about 45 former rebel leaders from the two major hill tribes in Mindanao, comprising about 300,000, formally surrendered with their arms to the President. The surrenders pledged their personal loyalty and unconditional support to the President and the present administration, saying that they fought only for their rights and their ancestral lands which had been taken away from them.

RURAL banks with total outstanding rediscounting obligations against supervised credit papers which are already in excess of the new rediscount ceilings for supervised credit, may still avail of the Central Bank financing for the Phase VI of the Masagana 99 rice production program. The CB amended its existing guidelines for the rediscounting by rural banks of loan papers under the supervised credit scheme. The relaxation will enable rural banks which already exceeded the rediscount ceilings fixed by the CB to participate in the financing of the Masagana 99 (Phase VI) and other special cash food production program.

THE PRESIDENT received Gov. Daniel J. Evans of the State of Washington, who paid his respects before returning home from a brief tour of Southeast Asia. During his brief talk with the President, the Washington executive expressed the desire to promote Washington-Philippine trade, particularly in the importation of copper concentrates and Philippine plywood. The President told him that one of the basic policies of the Philippines in its economic development program is the promotion of the country's foreign trade.

October 15—

THE PRESIDENT welcomed back to the folds of the law five rebel leaders from Maguindanao and Siasi, and granted them complete amnesty together with their followers. Four commanders of the Moro Bangsa Army; namely: Commander Labuyo (Laureano Mobadon), Commander Cabili (son of Datu Mando Sinsuat), Commander Bebot (Bebot Ayub), and Commander Danny (Sadik Abubakar), with about 130 followers, pledged their loyalty to the President, and turned over 14 assorted firearms, including one Browning automatic rifle, two FAL automatics, seven Armalites and three .45 cal. revolvers.

October 16—

THE PRESIDENT met with his fiscal policy advisers for two hours in order to obtain an overview of the entire economic, financial and infrastructure development situation in the country. He called the meeting to assess the possible effects of the government reorganization, the removal of many export fees, and the improvement of the tax collection machinery so as to provide government projects with necessary funding. While the President saw the need for cutting down on government expenditures, due to an expected deficit of P4.4 billion, the President emphasized that the government must go on with its housing, agricultural and fisheries production programs. He said that these problems are very urgent because they involve not only economic but even social and political implications.

CENTRAL BANK warned anew the public against transacting business with unlicensed operators—disguised as money market traders or agents of corporations (quasi-banks) authorized to engage in money market operations. This was the third time this year that the CB came up with a warning following report on the increasing number of people having been victimized by individuals posing as money market traders.

October 17—

JAI-ALAI buffs and the “Skyroom” habitués can smile again. The President through Presidential Decree No. 810, granted a 25-year franchise to the Philippine Jai-Alai and Amusement Corporation, a new corporation, to operate and maintain a fronton for basque pelota (popularly called “jai-alai”), pointing out that the game, being of international renown, is important to the country’s tourist industry and tourism program. The new firm is headed by Ramon J. Alegre outgoing general manager of the old Jai-Alai corporation.

THE PRESIDENT said that he will fill up the five remaining vacancies in the Court of Appeals as soon as possible, to speed up the disposition of cases and lessen the burden on the present members. He made this statement after inducting into office the five new CA associate justices; namely; Justice Delfin Flandez Batacan, Samuel Reyes, Vicente G. ERICTA, Lorenzo Relova and Vicente M. Santiago Jr. With the appointment of these five new justices, there are actually only five vacancies to be filled, inasmuch as two vacancies are held in reserve for Commissioner Plana and Chairman Tantuico. The President expressed the hope that the filling up of the vacancies will not only speed up the disposition of cases but lessen the burden on the present justices.

CESSATION of military operations in Lanao del Sur was ordered by the President together with the immediate replacement of the military contingents in the area with Constabulary troops, preferably a mixture of Muslims and Christians. His order was sent to Secretary of National Defense Juan Ponce Enrile in an effort to ease the tension in the area. The assignment of the PC was in response to suggestions by residents. General Romeo Espino, AFP chief of staff, confirmed immediate implementation of the President’s order.

October 18—

THE PRESIDENT appointed five more Court of First Instance judges, in addition to 37 other CFI judges he named recently. With these appointments, the number of vacancies existing in 357 CFIs has been reduced to 45. The latest appointments are: 1) Bienvenido Vera Cruz for Nueva Ecija, Branch II, with station in Cabanatuan City; 2) Hector C. Fule for Cavite City, Branch III; 3) Ramon Mabutas Jr. for Iba, Zambales, Branch II; 4) Bonifacio Caddae Jr. for Tuguegarao, Cagayan, Branch V; and 5) Josue Bellosillo for Iloilo, Branch VII, with station in Iloilo City.

The President sought the early return of some 2,000 Christian and Muslim evacuees who had left Wao, Lanao del Sur, at the height of military operations so that they could be rehabilitated. He directed the Philippine Constabulary to take the necessary steps to help the evacuees return to their farms, following the pledge given by Mama Basak and eight of his lieutenants to help maintain peace and order in the area. Basak’s group is the third batch of former rebels to come during the week to Malacañang to pledge loyalty to the President and support to the New Society.

October 19—

THE PRESIDENT directed the building of a comprehensive national bibliography based principally on published and printed materials which shall be legally deposited in certain designated libraries. Such published and printed materials, from government as well as private sources, shall be provided free of charge by their printers or publishers, as follows: two copies to the National Library and one copy each to the University of the Philippines Main Library, University of the Philippines Library at Cebu City, the Mindanao State University, and the Cultural Center of the Philippines Library. Covered by the order are books, under which term are included all printed literary works, musical arrangements, catalogues, periodicals, government publications, prints, photographs, drawings and other graphic arts, maps, plans, charts and tables, and all supplements thereto. Excluded are legal documents, printed forms, trade circulars, timetables, and other commercial documents. These rules take effect three months after October 18, 1975, the date of approval of Presidential Decree No. 812, the Decree on Legal and Cultural Deposit. The decree declares that the acquisition, organization and preservation of a nation’s intellectual and cultural heritage is a prime duty of the state, and direct the preservation of published and printed materials for posterity.

BOARD of Pharmacy was reorganized by the President by appointing its chairman and two other members of the board. Those appointed were Dr. Esperanza Castro Palting, chairman; Prof. Fernanda B. Tanco and Mrs. Yolanda S. Oporto, as members. Of 32 examining boards, 13 have been completely reorganized. They have been partially reconstituted.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Legion of Honor, degree of officer, on Capt. Alfredo Domingo of the United States Air Force, for outstanding service to the Republic of the Philippines. Capt. Domingo assisted in training the personnel of the Presidential Security Command and in procuring for its security devices, weapons and equipment to upgrade its protective capability.

OVERSEAS Employment Development Board (OEDB) called on all Filipino immigrants to register anew with its immigrant workers department before filing their applications for passports at the Department of Foreign Affairs. OEDB Executive Director Salvador P. Bigay made the appeal as he reiterated that no Filipino immigrant will be allowed to leave the country without first registering with its offices. Director Bigay explained that after resignation, a “blue card” will be issued to immigrants for submission to the DFA in securing their passports and other travel documents. He said the OEDB had sought the assistance and cooperation of the DFA, the commission of immigration and deportation, and the Manila International Airport authorities in implementing the immigrant registration requirement as embodied in the Labor Code.

October 21—

THE PRESIDENT directed Secretary Conrado Estrella of Agrarian Reform and asked Acting Chief Fred Ruiz Castro of the Supreme Court to institute a drastic restructuring of the Court of Agrarian Relations. The President, speaking over a nationwide radio-TV hook-up from Malacañang, on the third anniversary of Presidential Decree No. 27 (Land Reform Code), said that the Court of Agrarian Relations should be so radically restricted that it will free the agrarian dispute proceedings from procedural constraints that are conducive to delay and inordinate expenses.

THE PRESIDENT, while instructing Secretary Conrado Estrella of Agrarian Reform to restructure the Court of Agrarian Relations together with Acting Chief Fred Ruiz Castro, also issued two presidential decrees: 1) PD 815, prescribing penalties for the unlawful ejectment, exclusion, removal or ouster of tenant-farmers from their landholdings; and 2) PD 816, providing that tenant-farmers/ agricultural lessees shall pay the leasehold rentals when they fall due and providing penalties for failure thereof. Following his address, the President distributed the first 100 “Emancipation Patents” to the first 100 land reform farmers who had fully paid for their rentals and amortizations.

THE PRESIDENT issued Letter of Instructions No. 327 extending until the end of the year the fuel price support program, in line with the government policy to provide socialize transport fares for mass commuters. The fuel price support program, initiated under LOI 280, was first extended for three months, until September 30, under LOI 306. This new three-month extension under LOI 327, running from October 1 to December 31, 1975, is the second. The support program consists of a special assistance of 11 centavos per liter of regular gasoline and 6.60 centavos per liter of automotive diesel fuel, accorded to bus and jeepney operators, owners of rice and corn haulers registered with the National Grains Authority.

October 23—

NATIONAL Housing Authority was made operational by the President by inducting into office the acting general manager and the acting board chairman of the NHA. He inducted Brig. Gen. Gaudencio Tobias as acting general manager, and Secretary Alfredo Juinio of Public Works, Transportation and Communications, as acting chairman. In his brief remarks after the induction, the President said their appointments “emphasize the importance of the policy which gives priority to the housing program even when the reassessment of projects showed a deficit in the expenditures of government.”

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office four newly appointed judges of the court of first instance and a woman judge of the juvenile and domestic relations courts. Inducted by the President were: 1) Judge Oscar C. Fernandez of the court of first instance, Branch IV, Narvacan, Ilocos Sur; 2) Judge Hector C. Fule of the court of first instance, Branch III, Cavite City; 3) Judge Felix V. Barbers of the court of first instance, Branch XXXIII, Manila; 4) Judge Bonifacio Cacdae Jr. of the court of first instance, Branch V, Tuguegarao Cagayan; and 5) Judge Ma. Rosario Q. Losa of the juvenile and domestic relations court, Naga City.

THE PRESIDENT has moved to check the upsurge of crimes involving illicit drugs, swindling, robbing and murder by placing these under the exclusive jurisdiction of military tribunals. Pointing out that these crimes cause “physical, social, moral, economic and other forms of dislocation and imbalance,” the President issued General Order No 54, directing the military courts to take over the jurisdiction of the following: 1) All cases involving violation of the Dangerous Drugs Act (Republic Act 6425), except those with respect to mere users or victims of drug abuse, unless they are at the same time charged with other violations of the said law; 2) All cases involving swindling (estafa) as defined and penalized under Articles 315, 316, 317 and 318 of the Revised Penal Code, as amended, when committed in large-scale or by a syndicate; 3) All cases involving robbery when homicide and/or physical injuries, shall have been committed, or when such robbery shall have been committed in band or syndicate; and 4) All cases involving murder, whether consummated, frustrated or attempted, when committed by a band or syndicate. At the same time, he issued Presidential Decree No. 818, increasing the penalties of swindling (estafa) committed by means of bouncing checks.

October 24—

THE PRESIDENT created a committee to consider various petitions for reconsideration from government officials and employees who were separated from the service on September 19 and to conduct a review of all the cases of these officials and employees. The creation of the committee was contained in Administrative Order No. 370, by which the President gave the committee jurisdiction over the cases of all the officials and employees included in the September 19 list, except those who were appointed by him. The committee is composed of Justice Undersecretary Catalino Macaraig, chairman; Civil Service Commissioner Jose A.R. Melo and Assistant executive Secretary Ronaldo B. Zamora, members.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady inaugurated the 16-story Philippine Veterans Bank on Bonifacio Drive, which the President described as the “answer to the carrying need of all Filipino veterans for support from the government.” The President was guest speaker while the First Lady cut the ceremonial ribbon and unveiled the marker for the building. Addressing the over 427,00 veterans throughout the country, the President urged them to use it.

October 25—

EXPERIMENT to grow cotton in the country was a great success. This was declared by Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. during an extemporaneous speech in the business prospects conference held recently. He said that 1,000-hectare experimental cotton planting area in San Fabian, Pangasinan yielded favorable results. He said that the successful experiment meant that the country could embark in a wide-scale planting of cotton. The country imports some $35 million worth of cotton every year.

October 26—

EXPORT earnings from coconut products during the first 10 months of the year dropped by 28.3 percent compared to the same period in 1974. The United Coconut Association of the Philippines (UCAP) said export earnings from coconut products during the period reached $393,146,240: down by $154,551,899 compared to the 1974's $547,689,139. Export volume totaled 1,438,590 tons (in various products and measured in copra terms) and is 64.4 percent larger than the 875,472 metric tons exported during the same period in 1974. However, coconut oil continues to be the top dollar earner of the industry with a 10-month income (1974 bracketed) of $188.659.163 ($350,338,820) on a volume of 472,317 (363,526) metric tons, UCAP said.

October 27—

THE PRESIDENT approved a request by the federation of Metropolitan Manila barangay captains to conduct consultations on city-wide problems including the quality of local leadership. In effect, the President approved the people's demand for participation in the evaluation and solution of problems related to vital and essential city services as well as city and municipal administration. The approval was given in the light of the apparent failure of city and municipal governments in Greater Manila to solve problems related to flood control, garbage disposal, transportation, and other essential services.

President's Week in Review: November 1-3, 1975

President's Week in Review: November 4-10, 1975

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 4—

THE PRESIDENT called on the private sector to participate actively in the affairs of the government, particularly in the implementation and preparation of plans and programs. He made the appeal before some 150 local officials and business leaders from Metro Manila, at the Malacañang Heroes Hall, during a follow-up meeting of the one held last Friday when they presented resolutions for the First Lady to assume the managership of the city. Noting that the conflict of interest may prove to be a deterrent in some cases, the President said he is ready to "waive the conflict of interests provisions of some laws to allow the private sector to actually participate in government, not only on consultative basis but actually and for indefinite periods until the planning and programming is finished." He also called on the barangays to participate in the control of violations of law by the citizenry. He also asked the local media to inform the people of their respective individual and community responsibilities because the citizens' negligence of their community responsibilities has always been the bane of government organizations not only in the Philippines but throughout the world.

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to Mrs. Maria Rocio A. de Vega, widow of Presidential Assistant Guillermo C. de Vega, as chairman of the Board of Censors for Motion Pictures. Mrs. de Vega succeeds her late husband who was concurrently chairman of the board.

November 5—

THE PRESIDENT directed all Cabinet members, bureau directors, top military officers and local government officials to phase out their big cars and use smaller ones in line with the government's fuel conservation program. He issued an appeal to the private sector to avoid or minimize the use of heavy cars which are considered gas guzzlers. Earlier, the President directed Secretary of Finance Cesar Virata to study the possibility of imposing higher taxes on heavy cars. He also instructed the Land Transportation Commission to consider the possibility of imposing higher taxes on heavy cars.

SIX-man oil mission from the People's Republic of China arrived for a series of talks on oil-related matters of interest to both countries. The mission, headed by Chao Mao Chun, was welcomed at the Manila International Airport by their counterparts in the Philippine National Oil Co. led by Chairman Geronimo Z. Velasco.

THE PRESIDENT granted complete and absolute amnesty to about 120 former rebels from Lanao del Norte and Lanao del Sur, who returned to the folds of the law and pledged to convince their comrades who are still up in the hills to return to a life of peace. The former rebels, part of about 400 who planned to personally pledge their support to the President in Malacañang, were led by Hadji Razul Tarotokan of Lanao del Norte and Macud Santican of Lanao del Sur, and their respective district commanders.

November 6—

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath of office to the First Lady as the first manager or governor of the commission-type of government for the Greater Manila area. The induction was held amid the prolonged cheers of thousands of barangay leaders, mayors vice mayors council-men and industrialists from the four cities and 13 municipalities comprising the area. These leaders of cross-section of GMA population gathered at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang to hear the decision of the First Lady.

DEGREE of Doctor of Fine Arts, honoris causa, was conferred on the Duke of Gloucester by the University of Sto. Tomas School of Fine Arts and Architecture at the UST School of Medicine Auditorium. Fr. Leonardo Legaspi, UST Rector, performed the investiture ceremony and personally conferred the degree to the Duke before a large audience of students and faculty members.

November 7—

METROPOLITAN Manila Commission is a public corporation to be administered by a chairman or governor and a vice chairman or vice governor, who shall act as general manager and deputy general manager, respectively, with three commissioners or board members, one for planning, one for finance and one for operation. the President, in signing into effect Presidential Decree No. 824 creating the Metropolitan Manila Commission, also declared that Metro Manila's four cities and 13 municipalities shall continue to exist "in their present form," unless inconsistent with the decree. He also ordered that, until December 31 this year, city and municipal councilors shall become members of the "Sangguniang Bayan which he ordered created for each city and municipality.

November 8—

THE PRESIDENT said the packaging industry must devote its attention to the production of materials cheaper to both manufacturers and consumers if it wants to maintain its foothold in the economic life of a developing country. At the same time, he advocated increased research into new packaging techniques that will produce "the package that truly reflects the real virtues of the product." The President made these observations in a speech read for him by Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad at the World Packaging Congress at the Philippine Village Hotel. He concluded that from the Philippine experience, the growth of industry does not solely derive from learning Western techniques and tools. "We feel that we must develop also inwardly if we are to really grow, and this means that even our products and the packages in which they are encased must reflect ourselves," he said.

THE PRESIDENT has imposed stiff penalties for improper garbage disposal in line with the government's renewed effort to rid Greater Manila of unsightly litter and health hazards. In Presidential Decree No. 825, the President decreed a penalty of imprisonment or a fine of not less than P100 nor more than P2,000, or both at the discretion of the court or tribunal, upon any person who shad litter or throw garbage, filth and other waste material in public places. The decree also orders all educational institutions, public or private, commercial and industrial establishments, residential houses, public conveyances and all other establishments of any kind, to undertake the cleaning of their own surroundings their yards and gardens as well as the canals, roads and street in their immediate premises. Under the penalty provision, if the violator is a corporation, firm or other corporate entities, the maximum penalty shall be imposed upon the president, manager, director or whoever is responsible for its operation.

November 9—

RURAL electrification program of the government gained headway with the lighting up of 10 towns and 13 barrios in Ilocos Sur, thus driving away "the darkness that had enveloped these areas for so many years." Deputy Executive Secretary Roberto V. Reyes, speaking at the energization ceremony in Santiago, Ilocos Sur, lauded the Ilocos Sur Electric Cooperative Inc., not only for lighting up the barrios and towns but also "for lighting up the hearts of the rural folks." The ten towns lighted up by the ISECO were: Salcedo, Burgos, Magsingal, Nagbukal, San Juan, Sto. Domingo, San Idelfonso, San Vicente, Sta. Catalina and Sinait.

November 10—

THE PRESIDENT reiterated his policy to unite all Filipinos irrespective of race or religion as a means of facilitating the economic development of the nation. In his talks with the latest batch of top commanders of the More- National Liberation Front at Malacañang, the President said: "I want every Filipino irrespective of race or religion to be able to stand up in dignity and say he is the equal of any man." Thirteen top MNLF commanders from South Cotabato called at Malacañang to personally present to the President their pledge of cooperation and loyalty to him and to the Republic. They also presented to the President their personal firearms as a token, they said, of their sincerity.

THE PRESIDENT took steps to promote the health and well-being of people in rural areas through direct medical assistance. In Letter of Instructions No. 334, the President directed Secretary of Health Clemente S. Gatmaitan to establish and maintain a schedule of rural visitations and to assign competent health personnel in the rural areas. Similarly, he ordered the health secretary to require rural visitations and to see to it that no health personnel assigned to any particular area should collect his salary, unless he presents a certification signed by the barangay captain or his representative attesting that he had rendered medical service in their area. The President issued LOI 334 after receiving reports that “some of the rural areas throughout the country have been neglected, one way or the other, of direct medical assistance.”

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 11—

THE PRESIDENT suspended the effectivity of the capital gains tax on stock transactions for a period of four months, up to May 1 of next year, in order to study it further. The suspension of the tax was met with a thunderous applause by about 400 delegates and observers from 26 countries, now holding the First Asian Securities Industry Forum at the Philippine Village Hotel. In announcing the suspension of the capital gains tax, at the opening session of the FASI forum at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang, the President expressed the hope that the four-month suspension will improve the local securities market.

PHILIPPINE Navy and the Department of Local Government and Community Development were directed by the President to provide transport facilities and other needs of participants in the Kabataang Barangay Leadership Training in Negros Occidental and Cebu City. In Letter of Instructions No. 335, the President ordered Rear Adm. Hilario Ruiz and Secretary Jose A. Roño to coordinate on the total listing of participants, the schedule of training seminar, including time of departure or arrival.

PHILIPPINE House will soon be established in Brussels, Belgium, to promote Philippine cultural, economic and political interests in that part of the world. A project of the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, the Philippine House in Brussels will be the latest of these national establishment set up in accordance with Presidential Decree No. 487, which authorizes the establishment of Philippine Houses abroad. The Philippine House will be at 229/247 Avenue Louise where most of the major government and European Economic Community (EEC) authorities converge.

November 12—

THE PRESIDENT hailed the Philippine Marine Brigade for its contribution in the government's efforts to bring about national unity and to seek dignity and equality for every citizen of this country. In a speech before officers and men of the brigade who were observing the 24th anniversary of its founding, the President said that the nation today is engaged in a revolution that intends to return dignity and equality to every human being. "And thus, when you go to battle, you fight for these ideals," the President said. "You fight not only for your country but for the ideals of every human being who seeks decency and dignity."

THE FIRST Lady paid homage to the nation's artists saying that "art is the strongest binding force of a nation and the artist is its most committed and its most effective citizen." Keynoting the opening of the "Alay kay Botong" art exhibit at the Rizal provincial capitol in Pasig, where the works of only natives and residents of Rizal province are featured, the First Lady also gave tribute to national artist and "dear friend" Carlos "Botong" V. Francisco as "exemplar of the joining of artistic endeavor to community development."

November 13—

THE PRESIDENT ordered a more aggressive and widespread information campaign to indoctrinate the masses on the oil and energy conservation program. At a meeting of the board of the National Economic and Development Authority at Malacañang, the President directed the Department of Public Information and the Philippine National Oil Co. to draw plans on how the local governments, the barangays, department of education and other government agencies could assist in the dissemination of conservation measures.

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to three ranking officials of the department of agriculture, in a ceremony held at Malacañang. Inducted were Miguel Melgar Zosa, as assistant secretary of agriculture; Salvador E. Escudero III, as director of the Bureau of Animal Industry; and Domingo F. Panganiban, as director of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

November 14—

THE PRESIDENT expressed the gratitude of the government and the people of the Philippines to the People's Republic of China for the continuous supply of crude oil by the PRC to the Philippines. He conveyed the Filipino people's gratitude to the PRC at the signing of an agreement by the two countries to continue with the oil supply to the Philippines. The agreement was signed by the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, who initiated the oil negotiations with the PRC, on behalf of the Philippines, and Chao Mao Chun, managing director of the China National Chemical Import and Export Corp., who heads the PRC oil Mission to the Philippines.

THE PRESIDENT called on all members of the Moro National Liberation Front still hiding in the hills to return to society and to help build a strong and united Philippines. He sounded the appeal even as he granted full and complete amnesty to about 240 former rebels from Southwestern Mindanao, who had come to Malacañang to pledge their unconditional support to the New Society. The former rebels, nine of whom are foreign trained under 11 commanders, came from Zamboanga del Sur, Zamboanga del Norte, Sulu and Basilan, bringing with them their firearms consisting of high powered rifles including AK-47, G-1, M-16, M-14, BAR's and carbines.

INDUSTRIALISTS and manufacturers were called upon by the President to join the government in the conservation program and to diversify their products and markets. The President sounded the call in the wake of increased prices of oil, during the Silver Jubilee Convention of the Philippine Chamber of Industries at Makati, Rizal. He said this savings is vital because of the imbalance in the country's balance of payments, with an expected deficit of $800 million, in addition to the expected P4.4 billion budgetary deficit. He warned that if the country is forced into further expenditures, inflation might take place and the one who will suffer most will be the wage and salary earners. The President assured them that the political leadership has faced up to the crisis in the past and will now face this crisis and continue to progress with the same momentum "we have initiated in the past."

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to the newly elected officers of the Association of Asian-Pacific Securities Administrators in a ceremony held at Malacañang. Inducted were officers elected by delegates from 28 countries attending the First Asian Securities Industry Forum. The first organization of its kind in the world, the association unanimously elected Manila as the site of the secretariat's headquarters. The association was organized to promote the healthy development of the securities industry in the region.

November 15—

THE PRESIDENT issued a decree changing the names of the provincial, city and municipal boards or councils into Sangguniang Bayan and increasing their membership so as to include representatives from the local Katipunan Ng Mga Barangay, the Katipunan Ng Mga Kabataang Ba-rangay and other sectors of the population. He signed the decree amid the cheers of provincial governors, city mayors, KB and KKB heads on the provincial and city levels, who converged at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang from all over the country to present him with resolutions petitioning for the representation of the barangays in the local legislative bodies.

THE PRESIDENT directed all departments, agencies and offices of the government, as well as all barangays, to appoint an energy conservation officer. He issued the directive in pursuance of the all-out drive launched earlier to conserve fuel in an effort to offset the increased cost of crude oil which the country imports. In his directive, the President told all energy conservation officers to be principally in charge of monitoring compliance with the directive, and to get actively involved in the nationwide propagation of educational and information materials on the conservation drive. He also directed the conservation officers to devise the most convenient system of reporting the wasteful use of energy and non-compliance with conservation measures so that appropriate official action could be instituted.

November 16—

WORLD market sales of sugar-based commodities, one of the latest groups of non-traditional products, hit the monthly level of $1 million in October. Based on the records of the department of trade, total exports of sugar-based commodities for October amounted to $1,274,394.97. The sales volume for October is $823,000 more than the combined sales from a three-month-period from July to September this year. The sugar-based commodities were shipped to the United States, Australia, Canada, Denmark, Guam, Hongkong, Japan, Singapore and Taiwan.

November 17—

THE PRESIDENT through Letter of Instructions No. 337, returned to local officials the authority to call upon the local police for the enforcement of laws and maintenance of peace and order in their respective areas of jurisdiction. Under Presidential Decree No- 765, which integrated the local police forces throughout the country, the operational and administrative control of local officials had been transferred to the Integrated National Police, with the Philippine Constabulary as the nucleus.

THE PRESIDENT received officials of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD), who took up with him the various Philippine projects financed by the World Bank. Burke Knapp, IBRD executive vice president, who was scheduled to see the President, could not make it owing to illness, but Bernard R. Bell and Richard A. Cambridge met with the President and Finance Secretary Cesar Virata. The IBRD officials said that the World Bank is anxious to give support to programs aimed at improving living conditions among the urban poor, like the First Lady's project in the Tondo Foreshore, or Dagat-Dagatan area. They were assured by the President that the project will be the best of its kind as it is based on a thorough study oh human settlements. He explained that the Philippines is the first country to conduct such a study on human settlements.

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Presidential Golden Heart Award on a German philanthropist whose generosity in terms of talent, services' and funds helped the medically indigents in the Bicol Region and the victims of calamities in Luzon. Recipient of the award is Dr. Dietrich W. Luppá, president of Gemeinschaft Zur Forderung Sozial-Medizinischer Stiftungen, a charitable foundation of West Germany. In the citation read by presidential aide Maj. Arturo C. Aruiza, the President cited Dr. Luppá for his dedication to the humanitarian cause as exemplified by his various acts of charity. In accepting the award, Dr. Luppá expressed gratitude to the President and pledged to do his best to continue helping the medically indigent people of the Philippines.

THE PRESIDENT hailed the arrival of the table tennis team from the People's Republic of China as another step in strengthening the friendly ties between the PRC and the Philippines. Yen Hsin, president of the All-China Sports Federation, Hopei Branch, and head of the delegation, speaking through an interpreter, thanked the President and the Filipino people for the very warm reception and hospitality accorded to them.

November 19—

THE PRESIDENT, through Presidential Decree No. 828, created the Office of the Court Administrator in the Supreme Court to assist the high court in the exercise of its administrative supervision over all courts. Under the new Constitution, the power of administrative supervision over all courts has been transferred from the Department of Justice to the Supreme Court as provided in Article X, Section 6, of the Charter. To be headed by a court administrator and assisted by three deputy court administrators, these administrators shall have the same ranks, privileges, and compensations and qualifications as those Of the presiding justice and associate justices of the Court of Appeals, respectively.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said the Chinese language press has become a potent force in strengthening understanding and interaction among Asian peoples. Speaking at the 8th annual general meeting of the Chinese Language Press Institute at Hilton Hotels, Secretary Tatad said the Chinese press throughout Asia "no longer reflects the insularity of the Chinese community from the rest of Asian societies." Stressing there is in Asia a "thirst for regional communion," he urged those in communications to build "the real infrastructure for meaningful communications and contact among all the peoples of Asia."

November 20—

THE PRESIDENT directed the Philippine National Oil Co. (PNOC) to assume responsibility for undertaking a comprehensive program for the development and use of the country's coal resources in line with the government's policy of exploring and exploiting energy sources others: than fuel oil. In Letter of Instructions No. 339, the Chief Executive ordered PNOC Chairman Geronimo Velasco to undertake initially the following: 1) Survey industrial and power companies using fuel oil and determine the market for coal among such companies; 2) Estimate the additional capital required to effect a change of fuel requirement in these companies partially or wholly from fuel oil to coal and workout with the Development Bank of the Philippines feasible financing plans for such conversion; 3) Submit a comprehensive report to the President on the above matters together with the policy recommendations relating to the development and procurement of domestic coal, financing to be made available to companies converting to coal usage, and coal importations to increase domestic supply.

THE PRESIDENT ordered two guidelines under which domestic corporations starting low-cost housing projects for their workers may avail themselves of the incentives offered by the government. In Letter of Instructions No. 338, the President specified that: 1) the interest rates on loans granted the employee borrower shall not exceed six percent per annum, and 2) the repayment period shall be 25 years. LOI 338 is a follow-up of Presidential Decree No. 745, which directed the Government Service Insurance System and the Social Security System to provide domestic corporations and partnerships with at least 300 employees easy financing and credit terms.

THE PRESIDENT expressed gratifications over the sending of a 12-man buying mission to the Philippines by the Canadian Importers Association, and the arrival of an investment survey team of the Girard Trust Bank of Philadelphia. Addressing the Canadian buying mission headed by Peter J. Dawes, director of foreign trade of the Canadian Importers Association, the President said their arrival is “gratifying because the Philippines has a trade imbalance of $40 million with Canada.” The Canadian mission is in Manila to meet with Filipino industrialists and exporters on purchasing arrangements covering a wide range of products represented by the mission.

November 21—

THE PRESIDENT received a high level fact-finding mission from West Germany headed by Karl Moersch, minister of state for foreign affairs. The German mission arrived from Australia in the course of a two-week tour of Asian capitals, including Peking, designed to strengthen West German relations between the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) and the European Economic Community (EEC). In the course of an hour-long discussion, Minister Moersch assured the President that when he returns to Bonn he will convince more German investors to come to the Philippines.

November 23—

THE PRESIDENT is the keynote speaker of the first national symposium on good government which starts tomorrow at the Ramon Magsaysay hall, SSS bldg., Quezon City. Jointly sponsored by the Civil Service Commission and Focus Philippines, the theme of the three-day meet is, “Greater Citizen Involvement in Good Government.” According to Chairman Jacobo C. Clave, the undertaking is in line with the CSC’s efforts to upgrade the performance of the civil service and to strengthen the ties between the people and the administrative machinery.

November 24—

THE PRESIDENT called for the reformation of the entire administrative machinery in order to successfully implement the program of national transformation. The President was guest of honor at the opening day of the symposium on good government sponsored jointly by the Focus Philippines, a nation-wide circulated magazine and the Civil Service Commission, at the Social Security System building in Quezon City. The President pinpointed three areas in which the reformation of the government can be done; namely: 1) Reordering and streamlining of the entire machinery of government; 2) Upgrading of the managerial skills in the government service; and 3) The rank-and-file.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release annually of P100 million to the Philippine National Railways (PNR) until its capitalization shall have reached the P1.5 billion authorized under Presidential Decree No. 741. The President issued the order, subject to the availability of funds, during the 83rd anniversary celebration of the government railroad firm at its shops in Caloocan City. In his brief remarks during the celebration, the President said that the PNR and the Manila Transit Corporation will form the heart of the Integrated Transportation System for the Metro Manila area.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 2—

THE PRESIDENT has temporarily delegated the functions of the defunct Executive Office among the incumbent presidential assistants pending the appointment of the five presidential assistants whose positions were created under Presidential Decree No. 831. Through Letter of Inductions No. 3.12, the President directed: 1) Presidential Executive Assistant Jacobo C. Clave to exercise the powers and functions normally performed by the former executive secretary, including authority to sign corresponding official communications; 2) Presidential Assistant Juan C. Tuvera to exercise the powers and functions normally performed by the former deputy executive secretary and the assistant executive secretaries, including authority to sign corresponding official communications; and 3) Presidential Finance Adviser Cesar A. Dumlao to exercise powers and the functions involving budget and financial matters heretofore performed by the deputy executive secretary, including authority to sign corresponding official communications.

THE FIRST LADY, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, is scheduled to arrive tomorrow after 17 days of official business abroad. The First Lady departed for the United States on November 16 to fulfill several engagements and to transact business in her capacity as newly appointed governor of Metropolitan Manila. In the United States, the First Lady inaugurated an exhibit on "The Filipina: Past and Present" at the Philippine Center in New York City in observance of International Women's Year which ends soon. She later on proceeded to Washington D.C., where she was one of the keynote speakers at the International Population Conference Inc. She spoke on "Population and the Quality of Life."

December 3—

CHAIRMAN of the Board of Liquidators, Dr. Gaudencio Garcia, informed the President that the compromise agreement between the Board and the Mindanao Realty Corp., which was reported in the newspapers three days ago, was negotiated and concluded pursuant to a directive issued by former Executive Secretary Ramon Diaz, dated April 7, 1965, under the Macapagal administration. Under the said agreement, the government agreed to sell to the corporation certain parcels of land, with a total area of about 68 hectares, located in Davao City. These parcels of land are sometimes referred to as the Tadao Nambu estate, because of the fact that these lands used to be owned by a certain Tadao Nambu before the outbreak of the Second World War. The agreement became the focus of public attention recently because of the alleged move of the MRC to eject the families who are now occupying the lands in question which was brought to the attention of the President by some local officials in Davao.

THE FIRST LADY arrived bearing the World Bank's promise of "full support" for new loans being sought for Metropolitan Manila's comprehensive urban development program. Expressing satisfaction over the results of her hectic 17-day sojourn that took her to the United States, Spain, England and Brussels, she said that she felt "we have laid some groundwork for the tasks ahead of us, especially in my new responsibility as governor of Metropolitan Manila." The President led the Cabinet members, other high-ranking national, local and military officials and wellwishers, in welcoming and congratulating her.

December 4—

THE PRESIDENT received the letters of credence of Ambassador Cleofe Elgorriaga Liquiniano as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Spain to the Philippines. In receiving the credentials of the new envoy of Spain, who succeeds Ambassador Nicolas Martin Alonso, the President expressed regret over the death of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, "the man who has probably done more for Spain than any other person in her history." In response to the gratitude of the new Spanish envoy over the fact that the death of Generalissimo Franco and the crowning of King Juan Carlos de Burbon of Spain evoked "special echo in the hearts of the President, the First Lady, and the entire people of the Philippines," the President said; "The historic ties that bind our countries and the excellent relations that have consistently existed between us cannot but produce such a response."

December 5—

CHIEF Justice Querube C. Makalintal of the Supreme Court will retire on December 22, his 65th birthday, pursuant to Article X, Section 7, of the Constitution. In a letter to the President, the chief justice said he was not taking advantage of one of the transitory provisions of the Constitution (Article XVII, Section 10), which says that “the incumbent members of the Judiciary may continue in office until they reach the age of seventy years.”

December 6—

THE PRESIDENT and visiting United States President Gerald R. Ford held their first talks at Malacañang. No announcement was made after the talks which lasted 45 minutes in the Music Room of the Palace. Escorted by the President and the First Lady, the Fords, together with daughter Susan, arrived at Malacañang at 6 p.m. at the head of a long motorcade from the Manila International Airport.

December 7—

THE PRESIDENT and U.S. President Gerald R. Ford declared that the alliance between the Philippines and the United States is not directed against any country but is intended to preserve the independence and promote the welfare of their two peoples while contributing to peace and progress to all. In a joint communique issued upon the termination of President Ford’s state visit to this country, the two heads of state said they considered the military assistance pact entered into by their countries on August 30, 1951 had enhanced the defense of both countries, strengthened the security of the Pacific region and contributed to the maintenance of world peace. They agreed however that negotiations on the subject of United States use of Philippine military bases should be conducted in the clear recognition of Philippine sovereignty and that there should be an early review of the steps necessary to conclude the negotiations through the two panels already organized for the purpose.

December 8—

THE PRESIDENT through Letter of Implementation No 29 dated December 5, 1975, directed the Budget Commission to take over a number of budgetary functions which had heretofore been referred by the Commission to the defunct office of the executive secretary This is in connection with Letter of Implementation No. 28 placing the commission under the Office of the President.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad underscored the need for “a scientific response to national problems,” in a speech at the opening ceremonies of the third annual celebration of Atomic Energy Week at the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission in Diliman, Quezon City. Citing the PAEC exhibit of breakthroughs in nuclear research as impressive, Secretary Tatad observed there is a growing scientific community in the country today, and this community, he stressed, may well “propagate the scientific culture that we speak of and believe to be necessary to accelerate national progress.” The President has declared that the period from December 7 to 15 Atomic Energy Week, to stress the role of atomic energy research for peaceful use in national development.

President's Week in Review: December 9-15, 1975

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 9—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the Board of Transportation to set aside its order abolishing the boundary system in jeepneys and buses but authorized a continuing review of this question by the Department of Public works and the Department of Labor. He acted to stabilize the public transportation situation in Metro Manila on recommendation of Governor Imelda Romualdez-Marcos after conferring with Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople and BOT Chairman Cesar de Guzman.

PHILIPPINE National Oil Co. (PNOC) has formed a special task force to study and formulate the implementing program for the use of native coal as a substitute for imported fuel oil. PNOC Chairman and President Geronimo Z. Velasco created the task force in line with Letter of Instructions No. 330, directing the PNOC to undertake a comprehensive program for the development and use of the country's coal resources. The special task force is composed of technical men from PNOC, Petro-phil Corp. and the Philippine National Petroleum Center.

December 10—

THE PRESIDENT urged the Philippine National Red Cross to review-its priorities and decide how it can reach more people and serve them more effectively by making full use of the new incentives and new institutions in the New Society. While praising the PNRC for its numerous achievements, the President suggested that it expands the scope of its less spectacular but more pervasive programs, preferably through the country's 42,000 barangays. The President's speech was delivered for him by Dr. Pacifico E. Marcos, chairman of the Philippine Medical Care Commission, on the opening day of the two-day PNRC Biennial Convention at the Philippine Village Hotel.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad called upon civic and government agencies to become "not only informative but also educational in their mission" as this is "the easiest way to democratize education." Speaking before the First National Convention of the United Nations Association of the Philippines at the Centro Escolar University auditorium, Secretary Tatad also urged for "conscious" government planning which "must now take cognizance of women as a potent part of our human resources and which must respond to the women's challenge with appropriate measures." He added however that the objective is to see the day when 'all planning in favor of Women as a special group will be left behind in favor of planning that takes for granted the tact that "women are not different from men, and must be treated without prejudice to their gender."

December 11—

THE PRESIDENT launched the Energy Conservation Movement, a nationwide effort by the private sector in response to the Chief Executive's call for energy conservation. About 1,200 officers and members representing some 70 participating industrial, trade, civic, professional, media, and consumer organizations from Manila and the provinces witnessed the launching at the Maharlika Hall of Malacañang. Organized last November 26 with Meralco Chairman and President Emilio Abello as head, the Movement aims to generate public awareness of the urgent need for energy conservation and efficient fuel utilization; to promote sustained involvement in the Movement by energy users; to establish energy conservation guidelines and standards; and to encourage energy conservation through a system of incentives and sanctions.

THE PRESIDENT received Judge William S. Thompson of Washington D.C., secretary-general of the World Peace Through Law Center (WPTLC), who made a courtesy call at Malacañang. Judge Thompson congratulated the President for the impressive changes brought about by the New Society and informed him that the organization and its affiliates plan to hold the 8th World Law Conference in Manila in August, 1977. The President endorsed the plan and suggested that the WPTLC official get in touch with the Secretary of Justice, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Integrated Bar Association of the Philippines.

THE PRESIDENT granted general amnesty to another batch of 302 former Muslim rebels from the Southwest Command, who had decided to return to the folds of the law and help in the building of the New Society. In granting general amnesty to the returnees from Sulu, Basilan, Tawi-Tawi, Zamboanga del Norte and Zamboanga del Sur, the President directed Rear Admiral Espaldon to organize them into self-defense units, after processing them in order to determine how they can be of help.

THE PRESIDENT received the delegation from five Asian countries participating in the Second Asian Youth Gymnastic Championships to be held at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum from December 12 to December 14. In welcoming the youthful athletes, ranging from 14 to 20 years old, the President voiced the hope that they will help promote the brotherhood of man through friendly rivalry in the Held of sports.

PROFESSOR Roberto Lim was inducted into office by the President as president of the Philippine Aerospace Development Corporation. He was formerly connected with the Philippine Airlines, and teaches at the Asian Institute of Management.

THE PRESIDENT streamlined 11 agencies and transfer 34 others from the Office of the President to various agencies of the government. The streamlining contained in Letters of Implementation Nos. 30 to 43 is in line with Presidential Decree No. 830, which gives "flexible and continuing authority to the President to restructure the Office of the President."

THE PRESIDENT assured full government support for gymnastics, saying that it is one of the country's sports that "should be developed." In his brief address opening the Second Asian Youth Gymnastics Championships at the Rizal-Coliseum, the Chief Executive said he was personally welcoming the youthful delegates from five Asian countries "to demonstrate the interest of the government" in the development of the sport. The participating countries include the People's Republic of China, Hongkong, Japan, Korea, Kuwait and the Philippines.

December 12—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the full-scale development of the Kalinga region by creating the Kalinga Special Development Region and appropriating an initial amount of P3 million for the purpose. He issued the presidential decree creating, and appropriating funds for, the KSDR in the presence of over 130 Kalinga leaders headed by Vice Governor Tanding Odiem of Kalinga-Apayao, who had come to pledge full support and cooperation to the administration. Under the decree, the President will have direct supervision and control of the KSDR through the Presidential Assistant on National Minorities (PANAMIN). Covered by the development program are the towns of Lubuagan, Tinglayan, Tamidan and Pasil, in Kalinga-Apayao.

SENIOR executives of the 10 Asian airlines belonging to Orient Airline Association, were received by the President shortly after the opening of their meeting at the Philippine Village Hotel. In receiving the airline executives, the President thanked them "for the cooperation you have always extended to us." The President, at the same time, expressed the hope that they had no problem as far as the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) is concerned.

December 13—

THE PRESIDENT has transferred the Professional Regulation Commission from the Office of the President to the Civil Service Commission to give himself time "to concentrate on policy formulation and executive decision-making." The PRC has supervision over the various boards of examiners, 31 of which have already been reconstituted. The directive, contained in Presidential Decree No. 8119, transferring administrative supervision of the commission from Malacañang to the CSC, is in line with the government's efforts to streamline the bureaucracy, as enunciated in PD 830. It brings to 35 the number of offices transferred from the Office of the President to other government agencies, aside from 11 others which were abolished the other day.

THE PRESIDENT issued Presidential Decree No. 840 reorganizing Basilan province by abolishing Basilan City and moving the capital seat to the municipality of Isabela. Also abolished were the towns of Pitas and Tapiantana. These measures remedy the earlier subdivision of Basilan into political units of a size and number not complementary to the size of the area. The purpose of PD 840 is “to effect a more viable political status for the province, and to render its territorial partition more responsive to the peace, rehabilitation and total development of the area.”

MUSLIM pilgrims have expressed their gratitude and appreciation to the President and the military authorities for the successful conclusion of the 1975 pilgrimage to Mecca. Shei Yacob Ismi and Capt. Ara Bada, officer-in-charge and vice-president respectively of the Tawi-Tawi group, conveyed their thanks on behalf of the 130 pilgrims from Tawi-Tawi, Basilan, Sulu and Zamboanga in a telegram sent to the Mecca Task Group Commander.

December 14—

THE PRESIDENT underscored the government’s policy of encouraging the development of sports in the country. Interviewed by Channel 13 sports announcer Joe Cantada during the Second Asian Youth Gymnastics Championships concluded at the Rizal Memorial Stadium, the President announced that he is organizing the Department of Sports and Youth Development, of which he is acting secretary, and is due to appoint two undersecretaries and several assistant secretaries of the department. He said he intends to use precisely “a lot of funds that are awaiting us” for the development of athletics throughout the country.

December 15—

LOCAL Government Secretary Jose A. Roño declared that government employees, including those in government-owned or controlled corporations, are disqualified from membership in the Sangguniang Bayan.

He said the Department of Local Government and Community Development opted not to allow these employees to represent any sector in the Sangguniang pending resolution of some legal questions.

THE PHILIPPINES was granted a loan of $1,255,000 (50 million Belgian Francs) by the Belgian government. The loan agreement, the fifth granted by Belgium to the Philippines was signed by Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo and Belgian Ambassador to the Philippines Louis Vandenbrande at the Department of Foreign Affairs. The loan is repayable in 20 annual installments, the first installment will be on December 31, 1985, after a grace-period of 10 years. The Philippine government shall pay interest at the rate of two percent annually on the balance due on the loan from date of availment. The proceeds of the fifth loan, according to Secretary Romulo, will be utilized for the procurement of medical instruments and other equipments for Metropolitan Manila hospitals, the Cotabato Provincial hospital and the Zamboanga General hospital. Improved public health services of the government would therefore be made available to the people of the less developed areas of Mindanao.

President's Week in Review: December 16-22, 1975

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 16—

The PRESIDENT granted a package of benefits to labor in order to improve the living conditions of the country's 14 million workers and their dependents. Before a gathering of officials and members of the Trade Union Congress of the Philippines (TUCP), the recognized national labor coalition, the President at Malacañang: 1) Amended Presidential Decree No. 823 by restoring to labor the right to strike in non-vital industries; 2) Ordered a general increase in pay of government workers, from about five to 25 percent of their present rates, effective January 1, 1976; 3) Guaranteed a 13-month annual pay, instead of the ordinary 12-month pay, for all workers receiving less than P1,000, effective fiscal year (January to December) 1976; and 4) Created a Rural Workers Office in the Department of Labor.

The PRESIDENT ordered the adoption of a Compensation Scheme for members of the Career Executive Service upon recommendation of the Career Executive Service Board. The Career Executive Service which was created under Presidential Decree No. 1 (Integrated Reorganization Plan) is intended "to form a continuing pool of well-selected and development-oriented career administrators who shall provide competent and faithful service." The Career Executive Service Board, on the other hand, as directed through Letter of Instructions No. 146, formulates rules, standards and procedures covering the CES, particularly the compensation of the members of the service. The order of the President is contained in Presidential Decree No. 847.

The OFFICE of the President announced that the National Parks Development Committee was not among the offices abolished by the President last December 11. Jacobo C. Clave, presidential assistant, said the committee shall continue and remain under the Office of the President. He explained that the committee was inadvertently included in the list of 11 offices abolished under the Office of the President.

The PRESIDENT proclaimed Friday, December 26, a special public holiday. For government workers, this means a four-day holiday stretch, starting from Thursday, December 25 (Christmas Day) and ending on Sunday, December 28. For workers in private firms, it would appear that Saturday, December 27, may be a holiday or not depending upon the decision of each individual private establishment with their employees.

NATIONWIDE energy audit is being conducted among all private industries with annual consumption of at least P1 million worth of fuel or electricity to establish basic information about consumption level of these industries. The energy audit requirement was contained in a directive issued by Secretary Vicente T. Paterno of the Department of Industry pursuant to the provisions of Letter of Instructions (LOI) No. 328. This LOI directs, among others, the Department of Industry to require major energy users to formulate comprehensive energy conservation programs.

SOME 10,000 orphans and school children were treated to a rare spectacle of songs and dances dubbed "Pamasko 75" at the Folk Arts Theater of the Philippines. Topping the colorful presentation was the annual distribution of food and gift bags, traditionally known as "Maligayang Pasko 75" an annual project of the First Lady. To the children's delight, no less than the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, was on hand to distribute the gifts.

December 17—

The PRESIDENT has ordered the implementation of salary increases for government positions covered by the Wage and Position Classification Office (WAPCO) of the Budget Commission. The order includes government positions under the Career Executive Service. At the same time, the President has directed the secretary of national defense and the budget commissioner to study and recommend on the level and structure of compensation of military personnel, including disability benefits.

The PRESIDENT laid down three basic guidelines for public works engineers to follow in fulfilling their role in the New Society. In a speech read for him by Public Works Secretary Alfredo Juinio before the delegates to the Bureau of Public Works Association of District Engineers convention at the Philippine Village Hotel, the President reminded them that in the construction of public works and infrastructures, the following should be observed: 1) Priorities should be given to the needs of the barangays and the common people; 2) Manual labor should be availed of particularly in rural areas to provide employment, whenever possible; and 3) The engineer's commitment to service rather than to personal gain should be personally affirmed.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad underscored the need for more responsible writers. Speaking at the Literary Awards ceremony at the Philippine College of Commerce Cultural and Sports Center, the secretary urged a kind of writing that will instill into both the writer and the reader, today and tomorrow, a love for the good that exists in man, in society, and in the country. A writer, the secretary said, must exercise responsibility in the choice of a particular point of view as he interprets human nature and events. His writing becomes a part of the effort that builds a nation, the secretary added.

December 18—

The PRESIDENT conveyed the appreciation of the Filipino people and its government to the First Asian Ecumenical Congress for having "closed the gap that had separated individuals and communities by reason of their differences in faith" and for having "given much to the cause of human reconciliation and brotherhood." Speaking at the closing ceremonies of the four-day congress, the President, upon the request of the delegates, ordered the issuance of a Presidential proclamation designating October 15 to October 22, 1976, as Asian Interfaith Week, and also authorizing the Asian Ecumenical Interfaith Movement, through its ad interim Asian Interfaith Council, to conduct a nationwide fund-raising campaign through cultural activities.

The PRESIDENT has ordered that the guaranteed 13-month annual pay, instead of the ordinary 12-month pay, for all workers in private employment receiving less than P1,000 a month, shall be effective immediately. Clarification was made by Presidential Assistant Juan C. Tavera who said that the regulations implementing this order are being drafted by the Department of Labor and will be announced in due time.

PETROLEUM Board has signed a new oil drilling service contract calling for a seven-year five-well drilling program offshore of Northwest Palawan to be started on January 15, 1976. Petroleum Board Chairman Geronimo Z. Velasco signed the contract with an international consortium consisting of three foreign companies and five local firms, including the Philippine National Oil Co. The 14th oil contract so far awarded since the enactment of Presidential Decree No. 87 (Oil Exploration and Development Act of 1972), the latest agreement was negotiated by the Philippines-Cities Service Inc., as operator, which committed to spend $14 million.

The PRESIDENT has issued Proclamation No. 1523 declaring December 26 and 27 (Friday and Saturday), this year as special public holidays. The proclamation supersedes a previous proclamation to the effect that only December 26 (Friday) is a special public holiday. In issuing the proclamation, the President took account of the fact that it will not prejudice the public interest.

December 19—

The PRESIDENT said that the Philippines considers the People's Republic of China as a model for all developing countries. Accepting the credentials of Ambassador Ke Hua, the first PROC envoy to the Philippines, the President observed that the PROC has reorganized her government and made it truly her own, revived her economy from chaos and destruction and has disciplined her people as good and loyal citizens of a free country. The new envoy, on the other hand, congratulated the Filipino people for having a glorious tradition of combating imperialism and colonialism and for having achieved, he said, positive results in their struggle to defend state sovereignty and safeguard national independence and economic rights and interests.

The PRESIDENT and the First Lady officiated the kick-off ceremonies for "Maligayang Pasko '75" at the Malacañang Park. The First Couple saw off 26 army trucks containing almost 15,000 Christmas packages for distribution to indigent families of the Metropolitan Manila barangays. The Christmas packages were taken to 17 distribution centers in the Metro Manila area and in four resettlement areas in Carmona, San Pedro, Dasmariñas and Sapang-Palay. Distribution of gift bags will also be made in the provinces.

Mrs. IMELDA Romualdez Marcos, Metropolitan Manila governor, named Land Transportation Commissioner Romeo Edu to take charge of improving traffic conditions in the area and said she wanted visible results within a week. Meeting with transportation officials to discuss the integration of Metro transport facilities, Mrs. Marcos gave priority to taking action on traffic as an immediate problem that affects everyone and every sector, including the economy.

The PRESIDENT expressed the gratitude of the Filipino people to the delegates of the 2nd Philippine-American Convention on Comprehensive Community Medicine for their offer of help to the sick of the country during their call on the President at Malacañang. The delegation included 150 “Balik” physicians who came here from the United States to exchange medical expertise with local physicians and to visit their relatives.

The PRESIDENT ordered the closure of books of accounts of all government agencies as of December 31, 1975 and December 31, 1976. This closure order is in addition to the regular closing of books on June 30, 1976. At the same time, the President directed the Budget Commission to review agency financial requirements and to submit a budget covering Calendar Year 1976. The President’s directive in Letter of Instructions No. 348 is in preparation of the implementation of a Calendar Year budget for 1977 as provided for in Presidential Decree No. 777, which makes the fiscal year and the calendar year to coincide beginning 1977.

December 20—

The PRESIDENT announced the organization of the National Games Commission to supervise all aspects of the operation of games of chance in order to insure public protection and to encourage the continuous inflow of tourists as well as open a new source of income for Metro Manila. The commission is composed of three commissioners. It shall have control and supervision over all games of chance in the Philippines. For the time being, however, horse racing and Jai Alai are excluded from its jurisdiction pending the issuance of further orders in the reorganization of government offices and agencies. The Philippine Racing Commission and the Games and Amusements Board are thereby also excluded.

The PRESIDENT ordered the creation of a Standing Committee on the Procurement of Drugs and Medicines and the inclusion of the economic planning secretary in the Standing Committee on the Procurement of School Books. The President also directed the budget commissioner to incorporate as part of the budget process the preparation of an annual equipment procurement program for each agency to ensure a comprehensive evaluation of agency equipment needs in the light of government financial capability. The directive contained in Letter of Instructions No. 347 is “to ensure the maximum effective usage of the limited government resources available for the procurement of equipments, school books, and drugs and medicines.”

December 21—

The PRESIDENT ordered the Secretary of the Department of National Defense to computerize procurement in the Armed Forces of the Philippines as a means of controlling its funds and to control expenditures in its existing projects. This is the first step towards effective control in the procurement of supplies in the government. There is an increase in the volume and cost of every classification of supplies and equipment needed by the AFP. In some instances, this has resulted in the doubling of budgetary requirements for on-going and continuing projects of the government.

December 22—

The PRESIDENT cautioned against haste and called for care and prudence in the move towards a parliamentary form of government. He also warned against political agitation that can only retard the attainment of the government’s objectives. Addressing the nation on the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, at Camp Aguinaldo, the President also vowed to pursue the policy of self-reliance both in the military sense and in the economic development of the country.

The PRESIDENT has given another three-month extension to the fuel price support program, saying that “it is essential that the fuel price support for certain designated transport and other industries be continued for reasons of national policy.” In Letter of Instructions No. 349, the new expiration date is March 31, 1976. This is the third time the assistance program, which was first effected through LOI 280, was given a three-month extension. The first was through LOI 306, it expired September 30, and the second, under LOI 327, December 31, expiration date.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the intensification of relief operations for the flooded areas in the Bicol region. He issued the order at an emergency session of the National Disaster Control Center at Malacañang. At the meeting, the President called for a coordinated relief effort under the First Lady, who has taken over personal supervision of the dispatch of relief supplies to the flood sufferers. He also directed: 1) The immediate reconstruction and repair of all washed-out bridges along the Pan-Philippine Highway in order to bring about an early restoration of transportation facilities between Manila and the Bicol region; these facilities had been cut for one week; and 2) That railway lines damaged by the flood waters in certain parts of Quezon and Camarines Sur be immediately repaired and to dispatch trains carrying passengers and relief supplies between Manila and the region.

January 2—

THE PRESIDENT directed members of his Cabinet to participate more actively in the solution of local problems and to undertake studies on how their respective departments could be involved in the further development of the barangay as a political unit of government. Presiding over a meeting of his Cabinet at Malacañang, the first meeting for the new year, the President pointed out that the bureaucracy has created a situation where most members of his official family have no direct contact with the people who, he said, are the source of sovereign power. He stated that 1976 is the year the government had set in which the top agenda is the full and complete development of the barangay concept.

COMMISSIONER Teodulo C. Natividad has been appointed by the President to the position of acting chairman of the National Police Commission, effective January 1, 1976. A two-term congressman, lawyer, qualified expert on questioned documents, and a military man, Natividad holds both the Distinguished Conduct Star and the Distinguished Service Star.

THE PRESIDENT received United States Senator J. Bennett Johnston (D-Louisiana), who paid his respects following his arrival at Clark Air Force Base in Pampanga on the first leg of an Asian observation tour. During his 45-minute call, the U. S. Senator exchanged views with the President on the recent visit of President Gerald Ford, peace in Asia and the Pacific, the effects of the energy crisis and drop in prices of sugar and minerals.

January 3—

THE PRESIDENT has relaxed the rules governing the temporary registration of foreign-owned vessels to Philippine nationals for domestic trade use by allowing all charter parties to be temporarily registered and also by reducing the effectivity and validity of the charter or lease from not less than five year to one year. Previously, those allowed to be registered by the Maritime Industry Authority (Marina) included only vessels under time charter. In Presidential Decree No. 866 amending PD 760, the President directs that the word "time" be deleted from the original decree's title and body, saying that the term is "too technical and restrictive as to exclude other forms of charter parties." The new decree is designed to give "a certain degree of flexibility to the charterer or lessee in the use of the vessel."

January 4—

THE PRESIDENT has created the Philippine Convention Bureau (PCB) to promote the country not only as tourism destination but also as world center of gatherings and conventions. Created under Presidential Decree No. 867, the PCB will have its main office in Metro Manila. The PCB will be managed by a convention director whose primary duty is to oversee its operations. He shall serve as the PCB chief executive officer prescribed by the Board of Governors and shall sit in the board as an ex-officio member. The new decree also provides for the creation of the Board of Governors, which shall be the policy-making body of the PCB.

January 5—

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office Justice Fred Ruiz Castro as chief justice of the Supreme Court. The President expressed belief that under the guidance and leadership of the new chief justice, “that prestige, that good repute and that good judicial statemanship will continue.” In accepting the position, Chief Justice Castro pledged to “try to deserve the faith the President has placed in me as chief justice of the Supreme Court, and also try to deserve the faith of the entire nation.”

THE PRESIDENT repealed all provisions of charters, laws or decrees exempting any branch, agency, subdivision or instrumentality of the government, including government corporations, from Civil Service Law and rules, in a move to strictly enforce the Civil Service provisions of the Constitution. In Presidential Decree No. 868, he ordered that all government positions which have been previously exempt from Civil Service and Wage and Position and Classification Office (WAPCO) rules be placed under the Civil Service Commission. Moreover, he declared that all positions which have been declared professional, confidential or technical by any government agency, are now be subject to the Civil Service Law and rules. The move, the President said, is designed to curb the growing demoralization of government employees who have expressed their resentment against an emerging class of WAPCO and CSC-exempt employees.

January 6—

THE PRESIDENT announced that the police organization will eventually be predominantly civilian. The police are at present integrated with the Philippine Constabulary, a segment of the armed forces. He made the announcement during the oath-taking of former Congressman Teodulo C. Natividad as chairman of the National Police Commission, at the Hall of Unity and Brotherhood in Malacañang.

January 7—

THE PRESIDENT assured foreign governments that the Philippines hopes to continue to strengthen her relations of cooperation, friendship, and understanding with every nation and country of the world. He gave this assurance in the exchange of toast with Mons. Bruno Torpigliani, papal nuncio and dean of the diplomatic corps, during the traditional New Year reception of well-wishers in the Hall of Unity and Brotherhood of Malacañang, “To those who seek friendship with the Philippines,” the President said, “I can only say that the Philippines hopes to continue to strengthen relations of cooperation, friendship, and understanding with every country of the world.”

PROFESSIONAL basketball games and other professional games were placed by the President under the supervision and regulation of the Games and Amusements Board. The move in Presidential Decree No. 871 is designed to ensure the integrity of professional games and provide protection to the participants. The GAB orders, rulings and decisions on matters connected with or arising out of basketball may be appealed to the office of the President within three days from receipt of the appealed order, ruling or decision. The decision of the Office of the President is final.

THE PRESIDENT cleared 425 names which had been included in a purge list of about 2,000 names issued last September 19, 1975 under Letter of Instructions No. 309. Those cleared are as follows: 1) Career officials reinstated as of the date their resignations were accepted, 9; 2) Exonerated, with immediate reinstatement, 204; 3) Exonerated, with penalty of suspension from September 19 until date of reinstatement, 89; 4) Employees already out of the service before September 19 but whose names were erroneously included in the purged list, 123.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 8—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the setting up of rural postal circuits to speed up delivery of mail matter and provide postal service to the greatest number of rural folk. Through Presidential Decree No. 869, amending Section 5 of Republic Act No. 3590 (Revised Barrio Charter), as amended, the President directed the postmaster general or his authorized representative to group all contiguous barrios and sitios beyond five kilometers from a regular post office of a city or municipality, not served regularly by letter carriers, to form rural postal circuits. A rural postal circuit will have a postal center which will be located in the barangay community center of the barangay most accessible to all the barangays and sitios within the circuit. It will be manned and attended to by the barangay treasurers of the contiguous barangays where the circuit is established.

THE PRESIDENT ordered guidelines issued in connection with the reinstatement of 294 officials and employees under two administrative orders, Nos. 377 and 378, dated December 27 and December 28, 1975 respectively. Under the guidelines, the 204 officials and employees listed under A.O. 377, along with the 90 officials and employees listed under A.O. 378, are to be considered suspended without pay from the date of their separation from the service to the date they report back to duty. Only the nine graduates of the Career Executive Service Development Program, cited under A.O. 375, are to be considered reinstated to their positions effective as of the date their respective resignations were accepted.

January 9—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the proceeds from all sales of land reclaimed from Manila Bay to be turned over to the special fund created for the infrastructure needs of Metropolitan Manila. He issued the order during the turnover of the P1 million proceed from the initial week's operation of the floating casino by officials of the Manila Bay Enterprise, to the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, in her capacity as governor of Metro Manila. The immediate requirement for the program is P234 million, of which P141 million has already been released during the first two years, while P92 million has yet to be generated from, the general revenue which includes the floating casino.

GOVERNOR Gregorio S. Licaros of the Central Bank was sworn in by the President for an extended term after the completion of his first six-year term. The extension of Licaro's term is in recognition of his successful stewardship of the government financing institution during a series of economic crises which faced not only the Philippines but the other countries of the world as well.

THE PRESIDENT presided over a board meeting of the National Economic and Development Authority and held preliminary discussions on the proposal of oil companies to increase the prices of fuel in view of a recent decision of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to jack up oil prices. Expressing particular concern over the impact of the proposal on the nation's workers and consumers, the President invited barangay leaders to participate in the discussions. No decision was made at the meeting. The President directed Chairman Ponciano G. A. Mathay of the Oil Industry Commission and NEDA Director-General Gerardo Sicat to get together and formulate their final recommendations.

January 10—

THE PRESIDENT, through Letter of Instructions No. 359, reiterated that the Presidential Assistant on National Minorities (PANAMIN) is the sole agency authorized to operate within the proposed Chico Dam 4 in Kalinga-Apayao province. He made this reiteration following reports that certain persons "are representing themselves as having been authorized by former Executive Secretary Alejandro Melchor to act for and on behalf of the President or the government." In the LOI, the President directed all military authorities to arrest any individual who takes any action within the area or in relation to it under pretense of having authority from him.

THE FIRST Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, ordered the implementation of a garbage management system for Metro Manila that included plans projected up to the year 2000. Divided into two parts—an immediate action program and a long-range program—the system covers garbage storage, collection and disposal systems for Metro Manila. Also envisioned in the scheme is a recycling of refuse into cooking gas, construction materials, soil conditioners, fiberboard raw materials, fuel and handicrafts by 1980.

BUDGET Commission recently set deadlines for the submission of agency and principal budgets. Under Budget Circular No. 255, the commission set February 13 as the last day for the submission of principal special budgets, and March 31 for the submission of supplemental special budgets. Submissions after the set deadlines will be returned without action, according to the commission. The new deadlines will enable more effective fiscal planning to be undertaken.

January 11—

STATE Council of the People's Republic of China has accorded the agreement of the Chinese government to the nomination of Governor Benjamin Romualdez as Philippine ambassador to Peking, according to the Department of Foreign Affairs. The ambassador flew to Peking to be on hand for the mourning activities for the late Premier Chou En-lai. He carries with him a letter from the President to Chairman Mao Tse-tung of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party. His ambassadorial appointment is in addition to his duties as governor of Leyte.

January 12—

THE PRESIDENT ordered that importation of refined petroleum products be allowed only to the extent that it is economical and supplemental to any decline in the domestic production. The President's directive in Letter of Instructions No. 360 is in line with the government's energy conservation program. To ensure that importation of refined petroleum products does not exceed national demand, the President directed that: 1) The duty-free importation of liquified petroleum gas under Presidential Decree No. 333, as amended, be allowed only when such importation is made by the Philippine National Oil Co. or by duly authorized PNOC persons or entities and only to the extent of the volume it authorizes; 2) No importation of refined petroleum products including but not limited to gasoline, kerosene, diesels, liquified petroleum gas, fuel oil, aviation turbo fuel and aviation gas, by any person or entity be allowed without prior clearance by the PNOC; and 3) No foreign exchange availments in payment for any importation of refined petroleum products not conforming to the above-stated requirements be authorized by the Central Bank of the Philippines.

AMBASSADOR Benjamin Romualdez, newly appointed ambassador to the People's Republic of China, represented the Philippines in paying last respects to the late Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. Accompanied by members of his staff, Ambassador Romualdez paused for silent prayer in front of the urn containing the ashes of the late Premier which was on a dais inside the Cultural Palace of the People in Peking's Forbidden City. The Filipinos were received by high ranking Chinese officials including Vice Premier Hua Kuo Feng and Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-Rua.

January 13—

PRESIDENTIAL Assistant on National Minorities (PANAMIN) has dispatched two medical and relief teams to Palawan to attend to the needs of the victims of the disaster-stricken area. These teams were the first to reach the field. According to PANAMIN's initial report, 990 patients have been treated, an undetermined number of patients were airlifted to Manila and members of the team rushed to Puerto Princesa to buy more rice to feed refugees who keep pouring in from nearby barrios. The PANAMIN reported that 16 were killed and 14 others were still missing in four of the barrios affected by storm "Sisang," which hit Bicol, the Visayas, and Palawan last December 28-29. These barrios are Malihod, Bulalakaw, Marangas and Bono-Bono.

FUEL price support program of the government has cost P14 million as of November 30, 1975, and will cost P33.4 million by March 31, 1976, when the third extension of the program ends. The government believes that this amount has been well spent for the benefit of the low-income public, in the form of lower fares than would have been possible without the subsidy, and lower prices of prime commodities borne by the nation's carriers. The figures, released by Antonio del Rosario, executive director of the Philippine National Oil Co., show that from May 16, 1975 until November 30, 1975, the subsidy totalled P14 million, of which four private oil companies—Caltex, Mobil, Shell and Getty—shouldered the rest.

January 14—

THE PRESIDENT created a committee to rationalize, develop and modernize transportation and traffic systems in Metropolitan Manila. Through Administrative Order No. 379, the President designated Land Transportation Commissioner Romeo F. Edu committee chairman. Col. Antonio Abaya, commanding officer of the Philippine Constabulary Highway Patrol Group, Director Fernando Montes of Region IV, Department of Public Highways, and Director Gregorio Cendana of the National Media Production Center were named co-chairmen for enforcement, engineering and information, respectively.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady, the latter in her capacity as honorary chairman of the Caliraya Development Commission, received in behalf of the Philippine government the $1.5 million Japanese Memorial Garden in Caliraya from the government of Japan. The memorial garden, a project of the Philippine-Japan Society undertaken jointly by the National Power Corporation and the Japanese Embassy since 1972, was turned over by former Japanese Minister Nobusuke Kishi, president of the Caliraya Memorial Garden Construction Committee, and Health and Welfare Minister Masami Tanaka. In explaining the rationale for the construction of a shrine to former enemy soldiers on Philippine soil, the President said the shrine “is a reminder of the price of error and the price of War.”

President's Week in Review: January 22-28, 1976

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 22

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the signing of a new service contract for oil drilling operations offshore west of Palawan with a consortium of companies. The new contract, the 15th to be concluded by the government with private companies, calls for a three-well drilling program for the first two years, and one well yearly up to the seventh year, with the first well scheduled to be drilled "on or before April this year. The operations will cost $8 million the first two years and $23 million the remaining five years, or a total of $31 million for the entire seven years, covering 1.5 million hectares of utilized concessions.

THE PRESIDENT swore in former Rep. Carmelo Z. Barbero of Abra as undersecretary for civilian relations of the department of national defense. In his brief remarks at the induction, the President explained the need for a third undersecretary in the department, in addition to Undersecretary Jose M. Crisol for home defense and Undersecretary Isabelo R. Castro for munitions. He said the new position was created at the instance of Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile, and in line with the policy of strengthening military civilian relations and at the same time strengthening the morale, spirit and unity in the armed forces.

January 23

THE PRESIDENT urged public officials to continue the drive to clean up the ranks of the corrupt and undesirables, even as he congratulated the National Grains Authority for work well done. Addressing about 100 key officials and regional and provincial managers of the NGA which has branches in 77 cities and towns, during their call at Malacañang, the President said: "Whatever program, no matter how many speeches you deliver, if the man who implements them, meets the people face to face, and works out details, does not have the proper motivation, enthusiasm for so long, those policies are bound to fail."

SHIPPING industry was given by the President a much-needed shot in the arm by releasing P200 million to the National Development Company (NDC) for the construction, purchase, or acquisition of interisland vessels. This amount is to be appropriated out of any funds in the National Treasury not yet appropriated or from loans which may be contracted for the purpose. Under Presidential Decree No. 878, these interisland vessels will be sold, leased, or chartered to persons, associations or corporations engaged in Philippine interisland shipping. However, only citizens of the Philippines or associations or corporations with 60 percent capital may qualify to this support

THE PRESIDENT named members of the Performance Evaluation Committee (PEC) in 30 offices to conduct a government-wide evaluation of the performance of officials and employees. Under Letter of instructions No. 365, the PEC, which shall be under the overall coordination of the Civil Service Commission in accordance with LOI 320, is intended "to develop efficient and dedicated government personnel and to improve the quality of public service."

THE PRESIDENT ordered the division of Region No. 4 of the administrative field organization of various government departments and agencies into Region No. 4 and Region No. 4-A. The move in Presidential Decree No. 879 was made following petitions of the Katipunan ng mga Sangguniang Bayan that Metropolitan Manila be considered a separate region for the administrative field organization of the various government offices. Thus divided, Region No. 4 continues to cover the four cities and 13 municipalities comprising Metro Manila as embodied in PD 824, with regional center either in Manila or Quezon City. Region 4-A, on the other hand, shall comprise the towns of Rizal not included in Metro Manila, and the provinces of Cavite, Laguna, Batangas, Quezon, Aurora (sub-province), Marinduque, Mindoro Oriental, Mindoro Occidental, Romblon and Palawan, and the cities of Batangas, Cavite, Lipa, Lucena, San Pablo, Tagaytay, Trece Martires and Puerto Princesa.

OFFICE of the President reminded all public officers of their obligation to file new statement of assets and liabilities covering calendar year 1975 within this month. Presidential Executive Assistant Jacobo C. Clave issued the reminder through Memorandum Circular No. 890 as he pointed to the provision of Sec. 7 of Republic Act No. 3019

(otherwise known as Anti-Graft Law), as amended by Presidential Decree No. 677 requiring every public officer to file with his department head a statement of assets and liabilities “within 30 days after assuming office, and within the month of January every year thereafter, as well as upon his resignation or separation from office.”

January 25

THE PRESIDENT has increased the daily subsistence allowance of patients in Armed Forces of the Philippines hospitals and dispensaries from P6 to P8 to upgrade the quality and quantity of food for military personnel confined in AFP hospitals. Through Presidential Decree No. 880, the President ordered a subsistence allowance of “not more than P8 per day” for each military patient, including direct dependents of officers and enlisted personnel as defined by AFP regulations, indigent veterans as determined by the secretary of national defense, and detainees when confined or hospitalized in AFP hospitals. The allowance shall not be granted as cash ration to concerned personnel, according to the decree.

January 26

THE PRESIDENT received two top foreign officials, one of them a United States official on population policies, and the other, the director general of the International Air Transport Association (IATA). Received by the President were Ambassador Marshall Green, the state department coordinator for population, and chairman of the US Government Inter-agency Committee on Population Policy; and Knut Hammarhjold, IATA director general.

THE PRESIDENT authorized the withdrawal, without prepayment of taxes and duties, of fabric and textile materials manufactured in the Export Processing Zone at Mariveles, Bataan, in a move to expand foreign markets of Philippine products and avert domestic unemployment. The Presidential directive is addressed to the Board of Investments, the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Bureau of Customs and the Embroidery and Apparel Board.

January 27

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady left for Singapore with the assurance to the Filipino people that the three-day state visit would be used “not only to strengthen our friendly ties with a good neighbor, but also to enlarge our experience in working out solutions to our national as well as regional problems.” The President is scheduled to consult with Singaporean Prime Minister Lea Kuan Yew on the agenda of the ASEAN summit at Bali, Indonesia next month.

January 28

THE PRESIDENT expressed belief that the organization of the ASEAN may prove to be the turning point in the history of Southeast Asia. Replying to the queries during the press conference at the Mandarin Hotel, the President said he hopes that the ASEAN will rise as the method by which border differences could be settled. “That is why we feel that the ASEAN is so crucial, that it may be the turning point in the history of Southeast Asia,” he said.

President's Week in Review: January 29 - February 3, 1976

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 29—

THE PRESIDENT predicted that the summit meeting among the members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations will go through next month as scheduled in Bali, Indonesia, and, that the conference had a "great percentage of possibility" of attaining its objectives. Reporting to the nation upon returning from a three-day state visit to Singapore, the President said that the continued pre-summit consultations among the ASEAN heads of state have clarified points on which there were certain ambiguities in the viewpoints of some of the ASEAN leaders.

THE PRESIDENT and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew share the view that the big world powers could play a positive and constructive role in the development of Southeast Asia "based on the principles of mutual benefits, non-interference and respect for sovereignty." This was contained in the joint communique by the two heads of government shortly after the President left Singapore for Manila after a three-day state visit.

January 30—

THE PRESIDENT conferred the Philippine Legion of Honor on an Indonesian top naval officer "for eminently meritorious and distinguished service" toward strengthening the ties, of friendship between his country and the Philippines. The award, with the degree of Commander, was conferred by the President on Admiral Radin S. Subyakto, Indon navy chief of staff, in a ceremony at; Malacañang attended by top military and navy officials of the two countries.

THE PRESIDENT received the executives of the Philadelphia National Bank (PNB), who made a courtesy call before leaving after having attended the opening of their regional office in Makati, Metropolitan Manila. The PNB officials who called on the President were G. Morris Dorrance Jr., chairman; and Roland K. Bollard and Michael P. Heavens. During the brief meeting, the President expressed his gratitude for the assistance the BANK has been giving the Philippines through the Central Bank and the Philippine National Bank in the field of credit and financing.

January 31—

THE PRESIDENT announced the signing of the first government-to-government contract for the supply of crude oil from Saudi Arabia. The agreement was the result of oil missions earlier sent by the President to Saudi Arabia, capped by the visit in March 1975 of the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, and that of Chairman Geronimo Velasco of the Philippine National Oil Co. last June. The agreement insures an adequate and continuous supply of crude oil to the Philippines and will replace the previous contract with Exxon which will expire middle of 1976.

February 1—

THE GOVERNMENT moved to cut by 30 percent the importation of carton boxes which would mean a P12 million annual savings in foreign exchange for the country. This would also "definitely bail out the local pulp and paper manufacturing industry from life present depressed situation," according to the Pulp and Paper Manufacturers Association of the Philippines (Pulpapel). The proposed 30 percent cut in the importation of carton boxes is equivalent to a volume of 25 million boxes, a level expected to place to full utilization of the capacities of local pulp and paper plants. The proposal was made by Industry Secretary and Board of Investments Chairman Vicente T. Paterno, basically designed to create a market for producers of corrugating medium and liner board boxes.

February 2—

THE PRESIDENT proposed a new economic system for the Third World as an instrument for cooperation and development. To institutionalize the “Group of 77,” the Chief Executive suggested the conversion of the body into a Third World Economic System (TWES) based on the principle of collective economic self-reliance as animated by the proposition that “those who have less in international trade should have more in developmental aid.” The President, however, stressed that this economic system should not be used as an instrument of confrontation but as a vehicle for cooperation in trade and development.

THE PRESIDENT administered the oath to Leopoldo M. Abellera, government corporate counsel, as associate justice of the Court of Appeals. Following the induction held at Malacañang, the President announced the temporary designation of Justice Abellera as chairman of the Board of Transportation, vice Cesar de Guzman, who, the President said, will continue in the BOT as one of the commissioners.

February 3—

THE PRESIDENT has moved to regulate tax-free importations made by government agencies, including government-owned or controlled corporations, “to reduce foreign exchange spending and to protect domestic industries.” To implement the import Control, the President, through Presidential Decree No. 882 signed January 30, directed the creation of an Inter-agency Committee with the finance secretary, or his representative, as chairman, and the industry secretary, the National Economic and Development Authority director general, the Central Bank governor, and the Customs commissioner, or their respective representatives, as members. This committee, the President said, shall review and approve all government tax-free importations subject to the conditions in PD 882.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the secretary of health to regulate the labeling, sale and distribution of hazardous substances, other than food, drugs and cosmetics to safeguard public health and safety through Presidential Decree No. 881. The secretary of health, however, can promulgate rules exempting substances, for good and sufficient reasons, from full compliance with the labeling requirements and if compliance is impracticable or is not necessary for the adequate protection of public health and safety. Said presidential decree penalizes violators with imprisonment of not less than six months and one day, but not more than five years, or a fine of not less than P1,000, or both, at the discretion of the court, upon conviction.

FOREIGN Secretary Carlos P. Romulo was elected President of the third ministerial meeting of the Group of 77 of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD). The election of Secretary Romulo, who heads the 33-man Philippine delegation, was in observance of the ministerial meeting’s tradition. The meeting, now being held for the first time in Asia, has always elected the head delegate of the host country as president of the meeting.

President's Week in Review: February 5-11, 1976

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 5—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the immediate creation of a common fund for an integrated commodities program by offering the first subscription of $50 million to start such fund. He said the $50 million pledge, which constitutes about one-fourth of the total export receipts of the Philippines last year, was "a modest share of a developing country in bringing about the establishment of the common fund." The common fund is part of an integrated commodities program currently under discussion at the third ministerial conference of the Group of 77. The President's pledge was seen as the first concrete manifestation of the Philippine proposal to institutionalize an economic system in the Third World.

THE PRESIDENT was presented with resolutions by Muslim religious leaders expressing their gratitude for government policies beneficial to Muslims and belying reports that religion is involved in the Mindanao conflict. The resolutions were presented by Ustadz Abdul Gani Yusop, chairman of the Southwestern Mindanao Muslim Religious Board Inc., who headed a delegation of religious leaders at Malacañang. Another resolution also offered the services of the group in all matters affecting Muslims here and abroad.

THE PRESIDENT gave the go-signal for an exhibition of the products of the People's Republic of China in Manila in October of this year. The exhibition, which will be the first to be held in the Far East, is designed to further cement "existing relations and to expand trade ties between the People's Republic of China and the Philippines. In his remarks following the signing of the memorandum of agreement between the two governments for the holding of the exhibition, the President pointed out that the promotion of RP-PRC trade is one of the basic objectives of the new Philippine foreign policy.

ALL officials and employees of the Bureau of Customs were enjoined by the President to perform their tasks scrupulously and honestly in order to collect the rightful amounts of revenues due the government. Noting the sharp drop in customs collections due to the decline in demand and prices of exports, the President told key customs officials who made a courtesy call on the occasion of the 74th anniversary of the bureau, that one of the principal targets of the democratic revolution is the elimination of graft in the government.

THE PRESIDENT approved the plan of two American doctors to extend their program of controlling tropical diseases in the Philippines. After hearing the plan of Dr. Kenneth Warren, professor and head of department of geographic medicine at Case Western University and Dr. Edwin M. Lerner II, of the President Wood Memorial in Washington, D.C., the President explained: "You have brought me the best news I heard in many years." Dr. Warren has worked on leprosy in the Philippines for 28 years while Dr. Lerner, on the other hand, has been working on schistosomiasis (snail fever) for the last 20 years in Brazil, West Indies, and Africa.

February 6—

THE FIRST Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, announced that the Egyptian government has agreed to send an exhibition of Egyptian antiquities to Manila next October in conjunction with the holding here of the International Monetary Fund general meeting. Mrs. Marcos made the announcement after receiving and conferring at Malacañang with Dr. Gamal Mokhtar, first undersecretary of state in the Egyptian Ministry of Culture and president of the Organization of Egyptian Antiquities. Dr. Mokhtar was accompanied to the Palace by Philippine Ambassador to Egypt J. V. Cruz.

THE PHILIPPINES' pledge of $50 million to the common fund for an integrated program for commodities was described as a very effective and substantial proof of the genuine and great interest of the country in the cause of the Third World. Former Secretary General Manuel Perez Guerrero of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), who was conferred the Order of Sikatuna, rank of datu, by the President, said there is nothing more important today than to put the integrated commodities program on the move. For that matter the Philippines did not only give the example for others to follow but “has given life, to what, up to now, is a project in the minds of men.”

THE PRESIDENT conveyed, through Foreign Affairs Secretary Carlos P. Romulo, the profound sympathy of the Filipino people to Guatemalan President Kjell Laugerud for what has been described as the “worst series of earthquakes to have hit Guatemala in that country’s entire history. The tremors reportedly left behind between 2,500 to 3,000 persons dead, with more still being dug up from the ruins. Thousands more were reported missing.

February 7—

THE PRESIDENT promised to personally turn over to the Fourth United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) in Nairobi in May the Manila Declaration of Program of Action of the Group of 77. He made this promise in response to the unanimous resolution of the 700 delegates to the just concluded ministerial Conference of the Group of 77 at the closing ceremonies at the Cultural Center of the Philippines.

February 8—

“TODAY, the duty and responsibility of every domestic government is to redress the radical imbalances in the distribution of values among its citizens, either by redistributing wealth or by providing special services and creating opportunities to help the less fortunate,” Supreme Court Justice Felix Q. Antonio told faculty members and students of Silliman University at its convocation. This, he explained, is the underlying philosophy behind the President’s grand plan and program of a democratic revolution—a peaceful revolution through law, which ushered in a whole range of political, social and economic reforms for the country; the ultimate objective of which is the equitable sharing of the bounties of life among all to ensure the fullest development of our economic and social well-being and; human dignity. This closely hews to the concept of welfare state of the modern progressive countries, Antonio said.

February 9—

THE PRESIDENT called on the private sector to participate actively in the vigorous implementation of the Philippine foreign economic policy. Following a two-hour meeting with members of the Cabinet, economic advisers and Philippine envoys stationed in various posts abroad, the President: 1) Instructed the National Economic and Development Board to get the economic policy program operational after its next meeting; and 2) Asked his economic advisers to submit names from the private sector who can be tapped to participate in exports promotion, whether as officers of the government or as active participants. He found it necessary to review the foreign economic policy after having received many inquiries and offers: to buy Philippine export products such as sugar and coconut products, from foreign representatives who attended the recently concluded ministerial conference of the Group of 77.

THE PRESIDENT congratulated the Philippine Navy for its important contributions, not only to peace and security, but also to the economic, social and political development of the country. In a speech delivered at the 37th anniversary of the navy, the President noted the navy’s splendid performance, in support of the pacification drive in the south, the significant gains scored in its anti-smuggling operations, and its civic action projects in connection with efforts to bring the government closer to the people. He also lauded the navy for its relief operations conducted in conjunction with other government agencies which, he said, undoubtedly alleviated the suffering of the people in areas hit by natural calamities and disasters. At the anniversary rites held at the new gymnasium of the navy at the PN reservation in Fort Bonifacio, Rizal, the President gave out a total of 22 decorations to PN officers and enlisted men for exceptional gallantry in the field, as well as to civilians for their valuable contributions in the enhancement of the organization.

February 10—

THE PRESIDENT is seriously considering of issuing a decree authorizing Filipinos who have acquired American citizenship the right to own real estate for home use in their country of origin. He promised some 150 members of the Association of Philippine Practicing Physicians in America, who paid their respects, that “without changing citizenship you may be allowed to exercise certain sovereign rights, including the acquisition of real estate for home use.” The President; however, pointed out that should this materialize, not only the 12,000 Filipino doctors in America but over 50,000 Filipino Veterans who have acquired American citizenship but would like to come back, will be directly benefited. He made the promise upon request, of the Filipino “balikbayan” doctors who expressed the desire to come back and spend their retirement in the Philippines.

THE PRESIDENT decreed penalties for any person engaging in the salvage of vessels, wrecks, derelicts and other navigation hazards or of cargoes in sunken vessels without the required permit from the Philippine Coast Guard of the Bureau of Customs. Through Presidential Decree No. 890, the President ordered that violators shall be punished with a fine of not less than P100 nor more than six months imprisonment or both, at the discretion of the court, upon conviction. At the same time, the President issued LOI 371 amending paragraph 4 of LOI 263 to empower the secretary of defense to approve permits issued by the said agencies instead of the President.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the establishment of a marketing scheme, under the Masagana 99 and Masaganang Maisan programs, to ensure loan repayments and, at the same time, enable the farmer-borrowers under the said programs to dispose of their farm produce at favorable prices. The move, contained in Letter of Instructions No. 372, requires farmer-borrowers to deliver a portion of their harvests equivalent to their loan obligations to designated National Grains Authority warehouses for storage, to be purchased by the NGA or sold to others at market prices at the farmers’ option. The proceeds of the sale shall in turn be credited to the respective loan accounts of the farmers with rural banks, the Philippine National Bank or the Agricultural Credit Administration.

February 11—

THE PRESIDENT formally approved the contract for the supply of and services for the country’s first nuclear power plant which will be set up in Bataan. In approving the contract, the President reiterated the government’s determination to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil-powered generators by exploiting its hydroelectric and geothermal energy sources, and by setting up nuclear power plants. The letter agreement was signed at Malacañang by National Power Corporation General Manager Conrado D. del Rosario and Gordon Hurlbert, president of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, in the presence of the President and United States Ambassador William H. Sullivan.

THE PRESIDENT warned against complacency and relaxation in an effort to improve the life of the poor and illiterate. Addressing about 30 outstanding coeds from various schools and colleges in Metropolitan Manila, who called at Malacañang, the President said the people must not relax in the face of an enemy which is more dangerous than the enemy the country faced during the war years. Commending the coeds for their active role in alleviating the plight of the poor and the illiterate, the President said that he had issued Proclamation No. 1529 proclaiming February 7 to February 14 as Love Bank Week in recognition of their role in bringing about the change and transformation of society.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 12—

THE PRESIDENT expressed the hope that the signing of a trade agreement between the Philippines and Poland would mark the beginning of continued exchanges and further strengthen the friendly relations between the two countries. The agreement with Poland is the third such agreement entered into by the Philippines with Eastern European countries. The first was with Romania which was concluded during the state visit here of Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu in April last year and the second with Bulgaria concluded a month later. Headed by Tadevsz Zylkowski, Polish deputy minister for foreign trade and shipping, members of the trade mission paid a courtesy call at Malacañang prior their return home.

February 13—

CENTRAL Bank warned tour operators, travel agencies and hotels not to make unauthorized conversion into pesos of foreign currencies brought into the country by visiting tourists. The CB warning embodied in a circular-letter addressed to the covered establishments, was prompted by complaints from a number of hotels that, in several instances, visiting tour groups were often found already provided with pesos when they check in at their hotels. In the circular letter, the CB also required that conversion of foreign currencies into pesos by tour operators, travel agencies and hotels licensed as foreign exchange dealers must be done inside the premises of their respective offices. The CB also prohibited foreign tour guides, escorts and other unauthorized personnel of said tourism-oriented establishments from dealing in foreign exchange.

FINANCE Secretary Cesar Virata turned down moves to increase the fees for sealing and licensing of weights and measures collected by local governments. Proposals have been made for the increase of the fees and that the licensing and calibrating of the weights and measures are to be conducted by an agency of the national government. In turning down the proposal, the secretary said the hiked fees would greatly affect a substantial portion of those using scales or measures commonly used by market vendors.

February 14—

THE PRESIDENT and Secretary General Kurt Waldheim of the United Nations finished their round of discussions while on a flying trip to Corregidor, Mt. Samat and the Export Processing Zone in Bataan. In a press conference aboard the RPS Ang Pangulo, off Talaga Beach, Bataan, the UN official told newsmen "he was very deeply impressed with the social progress" he saw in the Philippines. Secretary General Waldheim paid special tribute to the Population Center, the Heart Center, the Nutrition Center and other pet projects of the First Lady in Manila and in the provinces.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the intensification of the campaign to eradicate a dreaded disease as he issued a decree reconstituting the National Schistosomiasis Control Commission into the Schistosomiasis Control Council. The President gave the order to Health Secretary Clemente S. Gatmaitan after inspecting the Schistosomiasis Control Pilot Project (SCPP) in Palo, Leyte. In creating the council whose membership will be limited to Cabinet and sub-Cabinet level, the President seeks to reharne the agency for the well-spelled out responsibility of formulating and, carrying out an integrated and comprehensive program for the control of schistosomiasis in the country.

February 15—

THE PRESIDENT directed that attendance of Kabataang members in the performance of their official duties and activities shall automatically be credited to their academic requirements and compulsory training in school. He signed the directive at the "sunrise" graduation exercises for 1,200 youths who underwent a five-day Kabataang Barangay leadership seminar on Mt. Makiling, Laguna. The President directed that the time spent by KB members in legitimate governmental activities shall be credited to their compulsory training in schools, such as the Youth Development Training (YDT), Citizens Army Training (CAT), Reserve Officers Training Course (ROTC), or Women's Auxiliary Training Course (WATC). Another KB activity listed down by the President in Letter of Instructions No. 37S that will offset the absences of KB members in schools is the KB leadership seminar conducted by the Department of Local Government and Community Development. This shall automatically be credited to their academic or YCAP time.

February 16—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the discontinuance of the Spanish Mortgage System of land registration and the use of Spanish land titles as evidence in land registration proceedings to stop fraudulent transactions, conflicting claims and litigations arising from Spanish titles or grants of dubious origin. Under Presidential Decree No. 982, the President gave all holders of Spanish titles, or grants six months from February 16, 1976 to register their lands under Act No. 496 (the Land Registration Act); otherwise, these lands shall be considered as unregistered lands and their Spanish titles cannot be used as evidence of land ownership in any registration proceedings under the Torrens System. The decree also provides for the registration of all instruments affecting lands under the Spanish Mortgage Law to be recorded by virtue of Section 194 of the Revised Administrative Code, as amended by Act 3344, within the six-month period. This law prescribes the system of registration of instruments affecting unregistered lands.

February 17—

THE PRESIDENT warned that the government is determined and prepared to preserve the stability of the country at all costs. He sounded the warning during the graduation rites of the Class '76 cadet of the Philippine Military Academy held at Ft. Del Pilar, Baguio City, which coincided with the 71st anniversary of the founding of the PMA. The President asserted that the government is ready to check any campaign against the government thereby preventing the buildup of insurgency and dissidence. Addressing the PMA cadets, the President asked them to renew their commitment to uphold the law, and to be imbued with the spirit of moral regeneration and to dedicate their lives to the betterment of the country.

February 18—

THE RECENT round of salary increases being given to about 512,000 employees in the government service is going to cost the national treasury P256.6 million a year. Acting Budget Commissioner Jaime C. Laya pointed this out in a three-page report to the President which also stated that the amount does not include salary benefits given to those in the military and the integrated police. The salary hikes were ordered by the President last month and made effective January 1, this year. Commissioner Laya said that the teaching position has the biggest slice with P103.2 million, followed by the professional, scientific and related categories of positions which take in P93 million. Craft, labor, clerical and sub-professional positions account for P57.6 million, and the smallest share goes to the Career Executive Service with P2.8 million.

March 1—

THE PRESIDENT called on both parties in the Tripoli conference to exercise the highest form of statesmanship to achieve the autonomy for the 13 provinces and 10 cities in the South in accordance with the Constitution. He sounded the appeal during his speech at the 72nd Commencement exercise of the Philippine Military Academy in Baguio City. He said that new problems have cropped up in the second round of talks in Tripoli, even as he lifted the effects of martial law in 13 provinces covered by the April 17 plebiscite to allow “an open, free and honest plebiscite.” But the President said he was still optimistic that the talks between representatives of the Philippine government and of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF), with the help of the Libyan President Moammar Khaddafy, will lead to final solution to the centuries-old problem in the South.

BANKS, investments houses and other financial intermediaries performing quasi-banking functions were required by the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) to report all the profits or yields they paid to money market investors. In a ruling, the internal revenue body upheld the opinion of the Central Bank that deposit substitutes or money market investments are not “deposits” as defined by existing laws, and the disclosure to the BIR of the profits or interest they earned is not prohibited contrary to the claim of the banks.

March 2—

THE PRESIDENT said that the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) had fallen back to its original demand for the creation of an independent Muslim state in the South. This position of the MNLF leadership, the President said, was contained in a cable to him by Libyan President Moammar Khaddafy. He said, “this virtually threw back the Tripoli negotiation to where it started last February 5” while being interviewed by newsmen at the 18th hole of the Baguio Golf and Country Club which he birdied for a 5 over par 67.

FOREIGN Secretary Carlos P. Romulo demanded from Filipino diplomats absolute loyalty to the Philippine Republic and belief in the New Society and its goals. Speaking at an "appreciation dinner" he tendered in honor of Philippine ambassador and principal foreign service officers assigned in Canada and the United States, Secretary Romulo said no Filipino diplomat, in all good conscience, can represent the Philippines abroad if he does not believe in the New Society and in its processes and goals. "You must believe or you must get out of the foreign service," he stressed. "There are no two ways about it."

March 21—

THE PRESIDENT remained optimistic that there will be a peaceful settlement to the Mindanao conflict. Speaking at the 10th anniversary of the Government Arsenal in Barangay Lamao, Limay, Bataan the President said that the First Lady, Imelda Romualdez Marcos is still in Tripoli, Libya, "trying to seek a peaceful solution to the Mindanao conflict." Notwithstanding the deadlock, the President said, he is still hopeful that, with the help of Khaddafy, a peaceful solution to the Mindanao problem will be arrived at.

THE NATION observes the 108th birth anniversary of Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine Revolution and first President of the Philippine Republic, with simple ceremonies at the Aguinaldo shrine in Kawit, Cavite.

THE government has no plans of increasing the number of participants in the progressive car manufacturing program. BOI Chairman Vicente T. Paterno said the present PCMP composition will remain the same.

March 22—

THE PRESIDENT enlisted the participation of mass media in the governments' water conservation program. Through Executive Order No. 480, the President required all sectors of mass media to set aside time and space to broadcast and publish information and education campaigns to the government's water conservation program. The order is in anticipation of the critical water shortage in the Metro Manila area which already saw a reduction in the supply of the area's daily water requirement by 8 per cent.

THE BUREAU of Internal Revenue clarified its proposal to abolish the requirement of filing income tax returns for certain taxpayers. The BIR said that under the law, a person who earns P1,800 or more during a taxable year is required to file an income tax return. This is true even if the taxpayer has claimed, as deductions items of exposure which make him not subject to any tax at all. The reason is that a claim of deduction for income tax purpose is always a matter of proof and it is not for the taxpayer to determine with finality that what he claimed as deductible items should be allowed. Whether an item of deduction is legally deductible or not must be determined after the examination by the BIR examiners.

March 23—

THE PRESIDENT met with the National Security Council following reports from the First Lady in Tripoli that tentative agreement had been reached for a peaceful solution of the Mindanao conflict. No announcements, however, have been made pending a full report from the First Lady who is expected back in Manila shortly.

THE PRESIDENT ruled that tenants of dwelling units and lots paying not more than P300 a month cannot be evicted if the only reason is the personal use of the property by the lessors or their families. The clarification is contained in Memorandum Circular No. 970 issued by Presidential Assistant for legal affairs Ronaldo Zamora by authority of the President.

March 24—

THE PRESIDENT set at P30.4 billion the total national budget ceiling for Calendar Year 1978 as he issued guidelines in the preparation of the fiscal outlay. The budget target for next year is P3.4 billion more than the current appropriation. Getting the lion's share are economic development and social services. The President issued the guidelines in simple ceremonies during which budget officials submitted to him the 1977 budget, documents and a report on the preparation of the 1978 outlay.

THE PRESIDENT issued a series of directives to ease the power and water shortages, particularly in Metropolitan Manila. The directives were issued during a four-hour meeting at Malacañang with some Cabinet members and ranking officials of the National Power Corp., the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage system and the Department of Public Works.

THREE government lending institutions were ordered by the President to set aside a combined P15 million fund to finance the government's "Study Now, Pay Later" plan. The lending institutions—Philippine National Bank, the Development Bank of the Philippines and the Land Bank of the Philippines—have been directed to set aside P5 million each from their investment portfolios for education loans under the plan.

PHILIPPINE mineral reserves have not been fully tapped, says Natural Resources Secretary Jose Leido Jr. Only 4.8 per cent of its total mineral reserve has been explored and developed so far. Fully expiated, these reserves can easily generate the foreign exchange needed for the country's industrial development.

March 25—

THE PRESIDENT disclosed the details of the peace formula on the Mindanao conflict agreed upon by him and President Moammar Khaddafy of the People's Socialist Libyan Arab Jamahiriya. Details of the formula, expected to end the fighting between government troops and members of the Moro National Liberation Front, were contained in a report of the First Lady, Imelda Romualdez Marcos, to the President and the National Security Council. The First Lady's report on her mission to Libya confirmed a breakthrough for a peaceful settlement of the Mindanao problem.

The President ordered the observance of a daylight saving time program throughout the country starting March 28. In an executive order, the President directed that local time will be advanced one hour starting midnight of March 27 and will continue until midnight of June 7, 1977. The President enjoined all offices, business establishments, commercial houses and stores, factories and all enterprises, both public and private, to cooperate with the program. He said the Energy Conservation Movement of the Philippines will monitor results of the measures to generate maximum conservation in power and energy consumption.

CENTRAL Bank Monetary Board, the government's highest policy making body on money and credit matters, ordered the closure of General Bank and Trust Co. (Genbank) because of bankruptcy. The closure took effect as of the close of the commercial bank's business yesterday. It was the third private commercial bank so far ordered closed by the CB. The first two were the Continental Bank, in 1974 and Overseas Bank of Manila before the declaration of martial law.

AMBASSADOR to Kenya Mauro G. Baradi has been accepted as the first Philippine envoy to Ethiopia, the Department of Foreign Affairs disclosed. Baradi's residence, however, will be in Naibori, Kenya. Baradi has also been accredited to Somalia with which the Philippines established diplomatic relations recently.

March 26—

THE PRESIDENT issued a proclamation declaring autonomy in 13 provinces in Southwestern Philippines. He described it as a major step towards bringing peace in the region. He also created a provisional regional government in the area of autonomy covered by the tentative agreement reached in Tripoli last December. The twin-moves, undertaken during a meeting of the National Security Council at Malacañang, were in pursuance of the agreement between him and President Moammar Khaddafi of the People's Socialist Libyan Arab Jamahiriya.

THE PRESIDENT acted to facilitate maintenance of local roads and bridges. He issued Letter of Instructions No. 519 adopting a more efficient system of allocating and releasing funds to local governments, and Presidential Decree No. 1108 improving the procedures for funding local road and bridge maintenance.

March 27—

CENTRAL Bank Governor Gregorio Licaros Sr. reported that the country posted a $20 million balance of payments surplus during the first three months of this year compared to the same period in 1976. He attributed this to the improved performance of the export sector and the recovery of the economies of the country's trading partners.

March 28—

KABATAANG Barangay members all over the country were asked to scrutinize the contents of the proposed KB constitution before they vote on it on May 1. The KB national secretariat also directed its 42,000 units to set up forums for free debates among their members on the provisions of the proposed charter. The instructions were conveyed by top barangay youth leader as thousand of copies of the proposed youth charter were distributed for the nationwide information drive.

SOME P439 million worth of gasoline is wasted every year as a direct result of congestion in the streets of Metro Manila, according to the Department of Public Highways. This figure was based on an estimated average loss of two liter a day by some 400,000 equivalent passenger car units—or a total loss of P1.2 million a day at P1.50 per liter. Highways Secretary Baltazar Aquino said this is the immediate problem which the P15-million Metro Manila Traffic Engineering and Management Project (MMTEAM) will try to tackle.

March 29—

THE PRESIDENT said that the autonomy proposed under the Mindanao peace formula for the 13 provinces in Southwestern Philippines will not result in the dismemberment of the Republic. This assurance was given by the Chief Executive during the marathon “Pulong-Pulong Pambansa” television-radio program during which he elaborated on his recent moves to attain peace in the region.

ESTIMATED total revenue of the government from taxes and duties on export and imported items is placed at P23.9 billion, up by roughly 18.3 per cent of P3.4 billion from 1976’s P20.2 billion income.

March 30—

THE GOVERNMENT stepped up disbursement of some P18 million in loans to farmer-cooperatives for the purchase of fan implements. Administrator Teodoro C. Rey of Farm Systems Development Corporation (FSDC) said his agency’s loaning program is part of the President’s directive calling for accelerated farm mechanization in agricultural land. Some P3.5 million of P18 million in loans had been released to farmer-cooperatives as of February this year, Administrator Rey said. Fund for the farm mechanization program comes from FSDC’s regular budget.

March 31—

COUNTRY’S international reserve has risen to $1.4 billion during the month of March from the comparative level of $1.1 billion on 1976, Central Bank statistics disclosed. The increase in international reserves was apparently bolstered by earnings from sugar exports which have been shoeing steady recovery since the opening of the year.

President's Month in Review: April, 1977

OFFICIAL MONTH IN REVIEW

April 1—

THE PRESIDENT ordered government departments, bureaus, offices and agencies, including government-owned and controlled corporations involved in statistical activities, to coordinate and integrate their statistical activities to improve the present system. Under Letter of Instruction No. 521, the President underscored the necessity of coordination and integration of these activities to improve capabilities in generating data and information for planning exercises, policy formulation and decision-making and for measuring the progress and impact of plans and projects.

April 2—

COMPOSITION of officers of the Philippine Merchant Marine Academy (PMMA) was changed by the President. Under Presidential Decree No. 1110 which amended Sec. 4 of Republic Act No. 3680, the President declared a need to change the composition of officers of the institution by providing for a. more active, positive and effective participation of the Maritime Industry Authority (Marina). In signing the decree, the President stated that the administrator of Marina shall be ex-officio chairman of the board.

April 3—

THE PRESIDENT said an offer was sent out inviting 15 leaders of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) to become members of the preparatory committee of the provisional government for the area of autonomy in southern Philippines. The President, disclosing this during a four-hour meeting of the National Security Council, said individual replies are now being awaited by the government.

April 4—

THE PRESIDENT announced the extension to April 21 of the enrollment for summer courses for public school teachers in Baguio City, in order that, teachers from the South who may be needed in the April 17 referendum-plebiscite, may have time to enroll. Enrollment for summer courses for public school teachers in Baguio City is scheduled April 17-18. A considerable number of these teachers come from the plebiscite areas. The extension order came in the course of the four-hour National Security Council meeting called by the President.

April 5—

THE GOVERNMENT has advised all foreign embassies in Manila that it would welcome diplomatic observers in the 13 Southern Philippine provinces on referendum day, April 17. Notice concerning this was sent out to the embassies by the department of foreign affairs.

AMBASSADOR Knut Fridolf Granstedt presented to the President his letters of credence as the new ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Sweden to the Philippines. Following the ceremony, the President also received Foreign Minister Adolfo Molina Orantes of Guatemala who paid his respects and conveyed the gratitude of his government and people for the expressions of sympathy of the Philippines to his country following the disastrous earthquake last year which rendered about one million people homeless.

THE PRESIDENT has directed government financing institutions to coordinate among themselves and with the Construction & Development Corporation of the Philippines (CDCP) in the planning for the Financial Center at the Manila Cavite Coastal Road and Reclamation Project. Under Letter of Instructions No. 526, he instructed the Development Bank of the Philippines, the Philippine National Bank, the Government Service Insurance System, the Social Security System and the Land Bank of the Philippines to coordinate with the CDCP regarding their building, construction and development plans in order to achieve a rational, integrated, central and total planning for the development of the Financial Center.

April 6—

THE PRESIDENT flew to Northern Luzon where he checked the progress of the pilot plant for nationwide mini-development projects designed to uplift the living conditions in depressed sections of the country. Launched last January during the last visit of the President and the First Lady, the project is part of the, implementation of the First Lady's "Compassionate Society" program. The new project calls for the organization of cooperatives among unemployed or marginal farmers to engage in fishing, cattle-raising, the growing of trees, backyard gardening and other such productive endeavors.

April 7—

THE PRESIDENT flew to Baguio City from Northern Luzon where he looked into the progress of the installation of a $100,000,000 communications project designed to boost the communication system between the Philippines and other Southeast Asian countries. Being built by the Eastern Telecommunication (Phils.) Inc., the project is being put up on a five-hectare area in the town of Curimao on the western coast of Ilocos Norte. The project consists of terminal linking this country by submarine cable with Hongkong and Okinawa, and then with Singapore and eventually with the rest of the member states of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

April 9—

THE PRESIDENT and the highest representatives of the United States and Japan in the Philippines pledged a three-nation effort to promote peace and to lessen prospects of another war. The pledges were given during the "Reunion for Peace" rites in which veterans of Bataan in the United States Armed Forces, the Philippines, and their former adversaries in the Japanese Imperial Army trekked back to Bataan to attend the commemoration of the 35th anniversary of the fall of that bastion of democracy to the Japanese.

THE PRESIDENT appealed to the public, including operators of factories and other industrial plants to cut down on electric consumption in order to ease the power shortage. He sounded the appeal during his visit at the Bataan Thermal Plant following the ceremonies commemorating the 35th anniversary of the Fall of Bataan at the Dambana ng Kagitingan on Mt. Samat.

April 10—

BANGLA Desh has asked the Philippines to join a high level mission to review agricultural problems of that country. The President was reported to have assigned Agriculture Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr., to the mission on "special request by Bangla Desh because of the secretary's background and experience in the agricultural sector of a developing country in Asia."

SECRETARY of Education Juan L. Manuel warned anew former Chinese schools offering optional language arts this summer and next school year to use only Chinese textbooks duly approved by his office. He warned that his office may revoke the permits of some of these schools for non-compliance with existing regulations.

April 11—

THE PRESIDENT flew to Cagayan de Oro City to inspect the nation's most extensive project to date—the P1.6 billion plant of the Philippine Sinter Corp., owned wholly by Japan's giant Kawasaki Steel Corp. He also inspected the adjoining port, watching huge shovels scoop up 30 tons of Brazilian iron ore per drop from a giant carrier. The port is the third largest in the world. The two bigger ones are in Brazil and Japan. Visiting the city for the first time since 1971, the President called the sintering plant and the new port kick-off point for the development of Mindanao.

THE PHILIPPINES and Singapore have agreed to establish a two-way complementation program for the manufacture of diesel engines. The complementation program calls for the manufacture by one country of diesel engines models and component which the other country cannot produce efficiently and competitively. Singapore is the site of the regional diesel engine manufacturing.

April 12—

THE PRESIDENT ordered that the voting areas for the April 17 referendum-plebiscite be sealed off from all poll violators. In his directive, he said all armed men, whether from the Armed Forces or the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) should stay away from the polling places. He disclosed the safeguards in a “pulong-pulong” with the people who assembled at the compound of the South Command (Southcom).

April 13—

THE PRESIDENT has granted a 30-year franchise to the Construction and Development Corp. of the Philippines (CDCP) to operate, construct and maintain toll facilities in the North Luzon Expressway from Balintawak to Carmen, Rosales, Pangasinan, and the South Luzon Expressway from Nichols, Pasay City, to Lucena, Quezon. The CDCP is a private construction company which has provided financing to various government infrastructure projects. Among its completed projects are the Manila North and Manila South Expressways. Authorized through Presidential Decree No. 1113, the franchise includes the right to collect toll fees for the use of the two expressways. The toll fees will be at such rates as may be fixed or authorized by the Toll Regulatory Board created under PD 1112.

April 14—

THE PRESIDENT assured Metro Manila residents of the end of brownouts, but urged a wiser use of water because of the possibility of shortage in the future. Meeting about 1,000 officials of the National Irrigation Administration (NIA) on the occasion of its 13th anniversary, the President announced the Pantabangan hydroelectric plant in Nueva Ecija to be fully operational. This will contribute to an additional 100 megawatts of electric power in Central and Northern Luzon and irrigate 83,000 hectares of farmland in Nueva Ecija.

THE PHILIPPINES and Australia signed a cultural agreement which, among other things, provides for the exchange of professors, scholars, journalists, artists and representatives of social, educational and scientific institutions. Australian Foreign Minister Andrew Peacock, signed on behalf of his country. Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo represented the Philippines.

THE GOVERNMENT announced the signing of a new crude oil supply agreement between the Philippines and Saudi Arabia, the No. 1 exporter of petroleum in the world. The contract guarantees the Philippines 20,000 barrels of crude oil a day, which is twice the 10,000 barrels a day provided for in 1976.

THE PRESIDENT required every able-bodied citizen, starting from the age of 10, to plant a tree every year for five consecutive years. Issuing a decree, the President provided penalties for those who violate this order. Under the decree, violators are disqualified from acquiring public lands, holding public office, from graduating if a student, or from practising his profession if a professional and from acquiring licenses, leases, permits, franchise and other privileges. The decree was signed at the closing ceremonies of the Bureau of Forest Development at Malacañang.

April 15—

THE PRESIDENT thanked foreign governments for sending observers to help maintain the freedom of voting as a basic and fundamental prerequisite in the referendum-plebiscite in 13 southern provinces on Sunday. He pointed out that the government had invited foreign observers “with the object of maintaining the freedom of choice or of voting, which is a basic and fundamental prerequisite to the entire proceedings accepted by all parties.”

THE PRESIDENT expressed his desire for the expansion and balancing of trade between the Philippines and Abu Dhabi of the United Arab Emirates. As a start, the Philippines would have to buy some of its crude oil requirements from Abu Dhabi to help erase the $7.5 million trade deficit the Emirate incurred with the Philippines in 1976, he said. He stressed this point upon receiving the 14-man trade mission from Abu Dhabi which called on him and the First Lady, Mrs. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, at Malacañang.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the allocation and the immediate release of P50 million for the purchase of drilling rigs and equipment needed by the Philippine National Oil Co. (PNOC) and its subsidiaries in their geothermal drilling operations. The President’s action is in line with the policy of developing self-reliance in energy through the development and exploitation of indigenous energy resources, like geothermal resources. The order is contained in Letter of Instructions No. 531.

April 16—

THE PRESIDENT assured full government support for the establishment in Misamis Oriental starting this year of the most modern coconut chemical complex in the world. To cost P226 million, the plant will also be the largest in the world, outside of Japan. The project is intended to broaden and diversify the markets of home-grown coconut products and increase local dollar earnings through the export of higher-value products.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS Undersecretary Manuel Collantes said the holding of the April 17 plebiscite in the south gives the Philippines a chance to show to the world that “we can solve our international problems under an atmosphere of peace and freedom.” He reiterated the government’s invitation to all embassies in Manila and a! Islamic states to send representatives to observe the balloting and counting of votes. He made the reiteration of invitation at the regular luncheon-meeting of the Rotary Club of Makati West.

April 17—

PERSONS who have no income or whose income is below P1,800 are no longer required to file an income tax return every year. This requirement was abolished by Presidential Decree No. 1117 signed by the President upon the recommendation of Acting Revenue Commissioner Efren I. Plana. Persons who earn an annual income of P1,800 or more but file exempt returns because their personal exemptions and deductions claimed are more than their income in one year, however, are still required to file an income tax return every year, the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) stressed.

CENTRAL BANK is determined to restrict further the flow of investible funds into the money market. A CB circular, being prepared by CB officials, seeks to impose strict conditions on the practice of banks and investment houses of commingling or pooling trust funds and fund portfolios in their care for investment in the money market.

April 18—

THE PRESIDENT said that no matter what happens with its problems in the south or in the fight against subversion, the Philippines will remain America’s “strongest ally in this part of the world.” This assurance was given by the President to members of the American congressional mission, headed by Rep. Lester Wolff (D-New York), who called on him at Malacañang. He also asked the group to convey to President Jimmy Carter that “our people stand committed to the principle of human rights.” He also said there is permanence in the nature of Philippine-American friendship because there is still a big and deep reservoir of goodwill towards American among Filipinos.

April 19—

THE PRESIDENT suspended indefinitely the scheduled income tax on capital gains arising from stock market transactions. Presidential Decree No. 1116 nullifies effectivity of PD No. 779 imposing the capital gains tax on stock sales. He said the old decree “might adversely affect trading in shares of stocks.”

THE GOVERNMENT is expected to launch this year a nationwide fish financing scheme patterned after the on-going Masagana 99 rice production program. The fish financing program, which will have an initial allocation of P110.2 million, will be implemented by the Central Bank as soon as the proposed guidelines covering the scheme are approved by the Monetary Board. The financing scheme, sources disclosed, is tied up with the five-year fish development program which will be funded by a total budget of P1.6 billion.

April 20—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the organization of all bus operators in Metro Manila into associations not less than the present four. Under Letter of Instructions No. 552, each association or consortium should have not less than 200 operating units. With the increase of these cooperative-type associations to not more than 10, the chronic transportation problems in the city is expected to ease.

AMBASSADOR Moustafa Dreiza presented his credentials to the President at Malacañang as the first envoy of the Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya to the Philippines. In receiving the new envoy, the President said the government and people of the Philippines are deeply grateful to Libyan President Muamar Khaddafy for his role in the solution of the Mindanao conflict. The peaceful settlement of the conflict will lead to ultimate peace and prosperity not only in the South but in the entire country as well, the President added.

STARTING next year, there will be only one residence certificate required of every adult resident of the country. The President had issued Presidential Decree No. 1118, consolidating residence tax certificates “A” and “B” into just one certificate. The President said the consolidation of these two into one certificate will save printing costs for the government.

April 21—

THE PRESIDENT urged developed countries to join the fight against global poverty and economic insecurity through reforms in the international economic system. He made the appeal in a speech at the opening of the 10th annual meeting of the Asian Development Bank at the Philippine International Convention Center (PICC).

OIL Industry Commission (OIC) and the Board of Transportation (BOT) announced increases in oil prices and transportation fares. The two government agencies made the announcements following a meeting with the President in Malacañang. The Oil industry Commission ordered an average price boost of 10 centavos for every liter of oil products, while the Board of Transportation granted an increase of 30 per cent for bus and jeepney fares and seven for taxi fares.

SPECIAL Fund of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) has granted the Philippines a $9-million loan for development projects. Dr. Ibrahim P.I. Shibata, director general of the OPEC Special Fund, called at Malacañang to inform the President about the approval of the loan. The loan will not bear any interest and is payable in 20 years. Only a surcharge of .75 per cent will be imposed.

DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs warned travel applicants not to pay more than the passport fees prescribed by the foreign office. The warning was issued because of reports and complaints received from travelers, that they had paid large sums for their exit permits and passports. The Department of Foreign Affairs said a passport applicant who pays more than the required amount runs the risk of being implicated in illegal acts to obtain travel permit and passport.

April 22—

THE PRESIDENT ordered increases in salary and emergency allowances for national government employees and private company workers, respectively, to help them keep pace with the cost of living. The 10 per cent across the board increase for government workers receiving less than P600 a month is provided for in Letter of Instructions No. 533. The P60 across-the-board increase in the emergency allowances of private company workers is embodied in Presidential Decree No. 1123, both taking effect on May 1, 1977.

THE PRESIDENT announced a breakthrough of global significance in the fertilization and hatching of bangus eggs artificially by a team of Filipino and foreign scientists at the Southeast Asian Fisheries Development Center (Seafdec). The success of the experiment was made known to the President by Natural Resources Secretary Jose J. Leido Jr., Director Felix Gonzales of the Bureau of Fisheries, Dean Domiciano Villaluz and Dr. Quiterio Miravite, chief and executive director, respectively, of the Seafdec Aquaculture Department.

THE PRESIDENT gave a 20-centavo-per-liter discount on regular gasoline used by small fishermen so that they can cope with the increase prices of gasoline. The price discount, contained in Letter of Instructions No. 534, will be extended to small fishing boats (below three gross tons) for up to a maximum of 500 liters monthly per boat. The boats should be duly registered with fishing cooperatives as of April 22, the LOI stipulates.

April 23—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the intensification of efforts to enforce price control regulations and to supplement the steps he has taken to enable the citizens to absorb the impact of the increase in oil prices. In this connection, the President ordered through a letter of instruction directing the Price Stabilization Council (PSC), the Metrocom, and all other agencies concerned to intensify the socialized pricing program. The LOI bolsters the measures already taken upon orders of the President.

THE PRESIDENT opened the door to enlistment in the armed forces to qualified draftees and trainees and at the same time announced an upgrading program to prepare retirees for civilian life. He announced the twin moves during the mass induction in Malacañang of 24 AFP officers as brigadier generals and three as commodores as of last April 1. "It is now the policy of the government to enlist qualified trainees and draftees who have been fighting in Mindanao and other fronts," the President announced.

CENTRAL Bank took steps to insure the collection of the loan advances which were used for lending under the Masagana 99 and other supervised credit schemes. In a circular letter addressed to all rural banks and the PNB, the CB required the bank to sue in court or initiate court proceedings against persons "who have misrepresented themselves as farmers in order to obtain production loans under any supervised credit program." The loan advances are normally backed by the promissory notes which the rural banks and the PNB get from the borrowers and which they (rural banks and PNB) present to the CB.

NINETEEN insurance companies have invested the amount of P53.054 million in various socio-economic projects of the government in March, 1977. This was recently announced by Finance Secretary Cesar Virata.

April 24—

April 25—

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady, Metro Manila Gov. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, left for Tokyo, Japan for a four-day state visit which, he said, "has far and wide implications to our national development and growth and to the cooperation and harmony within the Asian region." In a brief departure statement at the Manila International Airport, the Chief Executive said that urgent bilateral, regional and international questions require him to hold consultations which Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda of Japan. Among the matters to be taken up by the President in his round of talks with Premier Fukuda are the revision of the bilateral Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation which expired last January 1 and the expanded economic cooperation between the two countries.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady were honored by Prime Minister and Mrs. Takeo Fukuda at welcome ceremonies held at the spacious courtyard of the Akasaka Palace. Also at the rites were the visiting couple's daughters Imee and Irene, members of the Cabinet and other Philippine government officials who accompanied them in their current state visit to Japan,

THE PRESIDENT has released P10 million for this year's annual insurance coverage of some 400,000 barangay officials all over the country. The insurance coverage is required under Republic Act No. 4398, as amended by RA 5756. Local Government Secretary Jose Roño said that the President ordered the release of the amount before he left for Japan.

April 26—

THE PRESIDENT was assured by Japanese Prime Minister Taken Fukuda the Japan would undertake mere imports from members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to correct trade imbalances with some of them. The President and Prims Minister Fukuda held the first of two conferences at the Akasaka state guesthouse.

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady, Imelda Romualdez Marcos, visited the Philippine pavilion of the 12th Tokyo International Trade Fair, Thousands of Japanese and foreign visitors gathered at the Philippine pavilion to observe Philippine Day at the 20-hectare Harumi permanent fair grounds. The Philippine Day observance was also highlighted by the visit to the pavilion of Crown Prince Akihito.

May 1—

THE PRESIDENT paid homage to labor by issuing seven presidential decrees and letters of instructions to shore up the labor movements during a two-hour Labor Day program at the Philippine International Convention Center. Speaking before a fully-packed PICC, the President stressed the dignity and importance of labor in national development as he also announced the promotion of at least 33 officials in the Department of Labor on the basis of demonstrated performance in the service to workers. To further emphasize his concern for labor and in response to the appeal of the workingmen, the President likewise ordered the tri-sectoral committee to study the feasibility of giving P60 monthly or two pesos a day allowance to those receiving more than P600 but not more than P1, 000 in the private sector. He had earlier issued a directive granting the same benefits to workers in the private sector receiving P600 and below, effective immediately.

CENTRAL Bank required all commercial banks that have not complied with the minimum paid-in capital requirement of P100 million to raise additional capital of P5 million for every additional banking units that they may organize within the Greater Manila area or its fringes. And for every additional banking offices, except money shops and saving agencies, they may set up outside of the Greater Manila or its fringes, the additional capital they are required to raise for each unit is P2 million. The new guidelines are designed to ensure that banks setting up additional banking units are adequately capitalized and that the establishment of the additional units will not impair their financial capabilities.

May 2—

THE PRESIDENT lauded the Philippine Air Force (PAF) for performing its role as a uniting force and said that, like the rest of the defense system, it will continue to receive top priority in the development efforts. He made this statement during the 42nd anniversary celebration of the Philippine Air Force at Nichols Air Base.

May 3—

THE PRESIDENT said he would cling firmly to the machinery of peace in spite of provocations from the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) in choosing to ignore provisions of the Tripoli agreement and the Marcos-Khaddafy agreement. He would renounce war as an instrument of national policy withstanding new provocations in the form of MNLF demands which no self-respecting nation could entertain. The President spoke before a special session of the Batasang Bayan to which were invited members of the diplomatic corps, provincial governors and city mayors, members of the mayor's league, members of barangays and Kabataang Barangay and social and civic organizations. It was held at the Philippine International Convention Center.

AMOUNT of loans that bank directors, officers, stockholders, and related interests may obtain from their banks was further restricted by the Monetary Board when it amended Circular No. 357 recently. In a still-unnumbered circular, the Central Bank (CB) prescribed additional restrictions for the, grant of loans by banks to their directors, officers, stockholders and related interests. Sources of the CB said the additional regulations were the offshot of the closure of the General Bank and Trust Co. where loans to directors, officers, stockholders and related interests were found to have exceeded the allowable ceilings under existing regulations.

May 4—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the allocation of funds to the Provisional Government in the South to speed up rehabilitation and reconstruction as well as the development of the autonomy area. The Provisional Government was created pursuant to the policy of the national government to grant wider local autonomy not only in the South but also throughout the country. It was organized under the supervision of the Department of Local Government and Community Development (PLGCD) in behalf of the President of the Republic. The President's order, among others, was issued to Budget Commissioner Jaime C. Laya during the four-hour meeting with Cabinet members and provincial and municipal officials from Regions IX and XII led by Commissioner Simeon Datumanong.

THE PRESIDENT took steps aimed at strengthening the hand of authorities concerned in dealing with the causes of fires, not only in the Metropolitan Manila area but throughout the country. As a preventive measure, the President also ordered the removal of all fire hazards in the community like inflammable materials or combustible parts of buildings and other constructions that are likely to cause fires. To protect the people from further harm, he also ordered that, henceforth, all persons with a criminal record of having committed arson be listed by the police and the military.

THE PRESIDENT has exempted the Asia Foundation Inc. from the payment of various taxes and other fees in recognition of its humanitarian efforts and to enable its continued operations in the country. Through Presidential Decree No. 1127, the foundation is exempted from payment of gift, franchise, specific percentage, real property taxes and all other taxes, duties and fees. Non-Filipino citizens serving on the staff of the foundation's grants are also exempted from the payment of income tax on salaries and stipends in dollars, received solely and by reason of services rendered under the foundation's programs.

May 5—

TWO foreign diplomats spoke highly of the Philippines' active role in efforts to promote the interests of developing countries, to democratize relations among nations, and to establish a new international economic order. The comments came from Ambassador Abdo Othman Mohammed of Yemen and Ambassador Jokas Brajovic, first resident ambassador of Yugoslavia to the Philippines, who were both received by the President at Malacañang.

GOV. IMELDA Romualdez Marcos directed a reduction in the electrical consumption of the four cities and 13 towns in Metro Manila by at least 50 per cent. She also directed the action officers of Metro Manila to draw up guidelines to curb power consumption for outdoor advertising, which had been identified as one of the biggest users of electricity. The crackdown against the extravagant use of electricity was prompted by the findings that many local government units in the area continued to waste electricity despite serious fuel shortage facing the country.

May 6—

DEFENSE Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile reiterated in Sulu that the government will retain its policy of attraction in Southern Philippines despite the setback in the recently-concluded peace negotiations between the government and the Moro National Liberation Front. Speaking at the 41st foundation anniversary of the First Infantry "Tabak" division of the Philippine Army in Bustos Jolo, Secretary Enrile said the government is willing to accommodate all rebels and those found violating the Constitution and territorial integrity of the Republic. He emphasized the Presidents' policy stating that the guns of the armed forces "will not be used against anybody, unless there exists sufficient provocation."

GOVERNMENT agencies engaged in education, training and employment agreed to give Muslims in Southern Philippines wider opportunities and abolish discrimination. The decision was taken in a joint meeting of the National Board of Education and Youth Council (NMYC) at the Manila Hotel. Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople, who presided over the meeting, said the agencies present—specially the education, labor and science departments—agreed to give Muslims more chances for vocational and technical-training, as well as room in all manpower development centers.

May 7—

THE PRESIDENT created five new towns in Lanao del Sur to accelerate the pace of development and ensure peace and order in that province. Created separately through Presidential Decree Nos. 1131 to 1135 are the towns of Marogong, Calanogas, Buadiposo-Buntong, maguing, and Sultan Gumander.

DEPARTMENT of Trade has approved the standard specifications for lump charcoal from wood as guide for producers, exporters, importers and consumers. Trade Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr approved the specifications on recommendation of the Philippine Bureau of Product Standards and the Philippine Standards Council. He said the standards aim to establish the grades of wood charcoal, the density requirements heating value and carbon, volatile matter and moisture contents.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 8—

THE PRESIDENT received Nicholas Tourinillon, director of Definco Ltd., a financing and banking firm with headquarters in Connecticut, USA. Tourinillon briefed the President on the extent of his organization's investments in this country and said his firm specializes in commodity loans in the form of industrial plants and heavy equipment such as tractors, bulldozers, heavy duty trucks and cranes. He was accompanied to Malacañang by retired Brig. Gen. Tranquilino Paranis and Prank Vargas Jr., both vice presidents of Asia Corp.

"CASES of industrial or occupational cancer caused by chemical pollution is rising, while the government's detection and investigating facilities are sadly wanting," Labor Secretary Blas F. Ople said. However, he said that a letter of instructions recently signed directed the establishment of an occupational health and safety institute which delivers to our hands a weapon to cope up with this worsening situation." He made these observations as he directed the Bureau of Labor Standards and the Secretariat of the Employees Compensation Commission to take immediate steps to constitute the Center of Occupational Safety and Health.

May 9—

THE GOVERNMENT has allocated P138.8 billion to fund agricultural credit for the calendar years 1977 to 1982 of which 50 per cent would come from government banks, the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) disclosed. The remaining 50 percent would come from private banks. The 1977-1982 agricultural budget, according to the NEDA, rescues government's share of agricultural credit from 52.1 percent in 1977 to 50.1 percent in 1978 and to 49.3 percent in 1979. The government share in 1980 will be 49.7 percent until 1981, and finally to 49.6 per cent in 1982.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad advised the blind to organize themselves into a united "talent and skill" force that can offer organized specialized services. He addressed some 400 participants in the First Metro Manila Conference of the Blind at Pius XII Center. The integrated effort considered the establishment of workshops to be supported by the private sector and this will help the blind develop skills applicable to industry and the arts, the Secretary added. At the same time, he called upon social agencies and private groups engaged in humanitarian service to consolidate efforts toward this endeavor.

May 10—

THE PRESIDENT named 17 new fiscals for five cities and three provinces in Mindanao to boost the government's drive to give amnesty to Muslim rebels. Of the new appointees, four were named city fiscals of the cities of Pagadian, Surigao, Cotabato and Dipolog, while two others were designated as provincial fiscals of North Cotabato and Sultan Kudarat.

TRADE Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon, Jr., urged that adequate and economic shipping services be developed to expand trade between Southeast Asian countries. For economic cooperation among member states of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to be implemented well, he said, it is necessary to have a sufficient number of vessels of suitable types efficiently operated which charge reasonable freight rates. The trade secretary made the remarks during the courtesy call of two officials of the Netherlands Maritime Institute (NMI) who are undertaking a project study of the shipping requirements of intra-ASEAN Trade, including other countries in the sub-region.

May 11—

THE PRESIDENT ordered strict implementation of government fixed prices for basic commodities and the pay increases for low-income employees in both the government and the private sector. He expressed concern, over the immediate implementation of these two measures, as well as four other related price increase cushioning directives, by issuing Letter of Instructions No. 535-A. Other measures ordered implemented are: 1) Establishment of special transportation fares for Students; 2) Expansion of the Metro Manila Transit Corporation's fleet of buses to better serve the mass commuters in Metro Manila; 3) Reduction in the tariff rates for tires, tire threads, inner tubes and tire flaps from 50 per cent to 30 per cent ad valorem, pursuant to Executive Order No. 484; and 4) Establishment of a 20-centavo special discount per liter on regular gasoline used by small fishing boats belonging to duly registered fishing cooperatives, pursuant to LOI 534.

THE PRESIDENT started a major revamp in the Bureau of Customs with the relief of Alfredo Pio de Roda Jr. as Customs commissioner and Pedro C. Mendoza Jr., as deputy commissioner. Named to Pio de Roda's post was Col. Ramon Farolan, who is military supervisor of the Manila International Airport custom intelligence and quarantine section. Port of Manila Customs Collector Cesar Dario took over Pedro Mendoza's post.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the military to strictly observe the ceasefire agreement in Mindanao despite the breakdown in the negotiations between the government and the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF). This was disclosed by Defense Undersecretary Carmelo Z. Barbero who also said that the President has directed military field commanders to go after armed men found violating the truce. The government is taking the diplomatic initiative by sending Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo, Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile and Solicitor General Estelito Mendoza to Jakarta, Kuala Lumpur, Ceylon, Jeddah and other countries to explain to these foreign governments how the Manila peace talks were deadlocked and to assure them that the Philippine government truly desires to find a solution to the Mindanao problem.

TRADE Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., urged Filipino fruit exporters to Canada to concentrate on the exportation of tropical fruits despite the protectionist attitude" adopted by the Canadian government in the importation of canned fruits and vegetables. The import restriction does not augur well for export of Philippine canned vegetables in Canada. But this does not affect the market for exotic fruits which Canada cannot produce locally due to environmental requirements, the secretary added.

May 12—

THE PRESIDENT thumbed down any increase in the price of rice and corn in the foreseeable future, and instead granted a package of incentives to encourage cereal production. In rejecting a petition for a price increase for these staples, he pointed out that rice is an index commodity. Any price increase of rice would trigger a chain reaction, causing the prices of other essential commodities to soar. These moves were announced by the President during his address to the delegates of the 23rd annual national rice and corn convention at the Philippine International Convention Center (PICC).

UNITED States and the Philippines signed an agreement for the US sale of $13.2 million worth of unmanufactured tobacco on concessional terms. Peso proceeds generated by the sale of the tobacco to the Philippine end-users will be used in such self-help priority projects as food production and marketing, grain storage facilities, small-scale irrigation, fish production and nutrition.

TRADE Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., directed provincial, city, and municipal chapters of the Price Stabilization Council (PSC) to prosecute all violators of the Price Control Law. In a circular sent to all chapter heads, the secretary said ceiling prices for basic commodities should be enforced strictly as ordered by the President.

May 13—

THE PRESIDENT appointed a new undersecretary of education, charged with the non-formal education of some five-million out-of-school youth. Named to the newly created position of undersecretary of education was Dr. Felicita G. Bernardino. At the same time, the President: 1) Authorized a 10.4 per cent salary increase for city and provincial superintendents of schools; 2) Approved the appointment and promotion of 13 other senior officials of the Department of Education and Culture (DEC); and 3) Announced that the teachers are the only groups of government employees who will be getting a triple salary adjustment this year.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the court martial of a Metrocom officer and “others who are identified and may be involved or charged” in the alleged maltreatment of a woman detainee. He also directed the release of detainee Trinidad Gerilla, who was allegedly maltreated during her detention. Ordered court martial was 1st Lt. Eduardo S. Matillano and such members of his group who handled the initial interrogation of the detainee.

THE PRESIDENT, through Presidential Decree No. 1140, suspended for another year the implementation of a decree regulating cockfighting which would require cockpit operators to comply with zoning requirements in cities and towns. PD 1140 amended Presidential Decree No. 449, which took effect May 9, 1974, giving cockpit operators three years, or up to May 9, 1977, to move to sites which are in accordance with zoning laws.

SALARIES of 90 government prosecutors and 770 provincial and city fiscals throughout the country were increased by the President. His order is contained in Presidential Decree No. 1137, which will be effective July 1.

May 14—

THE PRESIDENT granted a three-year grace period to 78 distressed rural banks to give them time to stabilize. This concession was given on the condition that they give the same three-year grace period to Masagana 99 farmers who are in arrears. The President issued the directive at the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Rural Bankers Association at the Philippine International Convention Center (PICC).

THE PRESIDENT has appointed the chairmen of the 12 regional development councils (RDC) who will be in charge of coordinating development programs and projects all over the country. Named were: 1) Commissioner Simeon Datumanong, Region 12 (Southwestern Mindanao); 2) Davao City Mayor Luis T. Santos, Region 11 (Southern Mindanao); 3) Cagayan de Oro City Mayor Concordio C. Diel, Region 10 (Northern Mindanao) ; 4) Rear Adm. Romulo Espaldon, Southern Commander chief, Region 9 (Western Mindanao); Samar Gov. OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

THE PRESIDENT authorized the provisional government in the South to enlist the help of all government offices operating in the autonomy area in the conduct of its operations. In Letter of Instruction No 639 the President authorized the provincial government to ask for the 'detail of personnel from Regional Commissions 9 and 12, the national government agencies operating in the region, the various local government units the Southern Philippines Development Authority (SPDA) and other government-owned and controlled corporations in the region. He said the basic salaries of the detailed personnel will be shouldered by their mother agencies.

ELEMENTARY students of government public schools will be provided free textbooks starting this school year. This was announced by Undersecretary of Education Narciso Albarracin and Dr. Waldo Perfecto, executive director of Education Projects Implementing Task Force (Edpita). Undersecretary Albarracin also said that under the textbook program, elementary school students will be provided textbooks "free for the entire school year on a loan basis." This means that every student would be required to return the book to the school at the close of the school year.

TRADE Secretary Troadio T. Quiazon Jr., said the government will cancel licenses of business establishments selling smuggled or untaxed goods. According to Secretary Quiazon who is also chairman of the Price Stabilization Council (PSC) and the Fair Trade Board (FTB), revocation of licenses "is an effective way of discouraging entry of untaxed goods which deprive the government millions of pesos in revenues."

May 16—

THE PRESIDENT exhorted the youth of Southeast Asia to participate actively in the development of the region through collective action. "I believe that our countries really want change and that they are served by governments fully committed to change and, capable of making change and development," he said. It was the same spirit of reform, he said, which animated the struggle for independence now infusing the struggle for modernization and development. The President made the remark in a speech keynoting the ASEAN Youth Seminar Workshop at the Philippine International Convention Center.

THE PRESIDENT has created the position of assistant secretary for personnel management and development in every executive department. As provided for under Presidential Decree No. 1138, the assistant secretary shall discharge the following functions and duties: 1) To advise the secretary on personnel planning, management, and development matters in the department, the bureaus and agencies under it; 2) To carry out the government's personnel management and development programs so as to improve this, quality of the public service; and 3) to act as the department's principal liaison official and the Civil Service Commission, the central personnel agency of the government.

May 17—

THE PRESIDENT recited grim statistics of death, illness, and illiteracy among the poor nations' children at the opening of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) meeting at the Philippine International Convention Center. "The urgency of this conference does not derive from any new problem lately tossed upon the world. The problem is old, and we have looked at it, examined it, and debated it for such a long time now. But greater resolve is needed now to arrive at far-reaching solutions," the President said.

DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources was directed by the President to undertake a more systematic program to protect the country's natural resources. Stressing the need for greater consciousness to conserve natural resources, the President said "the importance of our natural resources to our life cannot be over emphasized." In his speech during the inauguration of the National Resources Management Center, (NRMC), which coincided with the third anniversary of the Department of Natural Resources, the President also urged the DNR to work out short-term, medium-term and long-term programs.

THE PRESIDENT accelerated the government's road-building program by ordering the immediate release of all funds allocated to towns and provinces for the construction and maintenance of barangay and farm-to-market roads. He gave the order during a speech after cutting the ceremonial ribbon to open the 59.9-kilometer North Luzon Expressway extension which traverses the flood-prone ricefields from Buroi, Balagtas, Bulacan to Dau, Mabalacat, Pampanga.

DEVELOPING countries in Asia with huge labor surplus have cheated themselves, of job opportunities and better income distribution by blindly adhering to the capital-intensive approach bodily lifted from the context of highly developed and labor-short countries, labor secretary Blas F. Ople said. In a speech delivered for him by labor undersecretary Amado Inciong, Secretary Ople urged professionals "schooled in Western text books and value systems" to reexamine what they have learned in school to make their learning more relevant to the needs of the country.

May 18—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the creation of two offices under the Department of Public Highways to coordinate the implementation of foreign-assisted projects in the country. He gave the order during a speech before the delegates to the 23rd annual seminar-convention of the District and City Engineers' League of the Philippine at Maharlika Hall. The new offices created are the Major Roads and Integrated Roads Development Office which will handle projects funded by the International Bank for Rehabilitation and Development (IBRD) and the Arterial and Rural Roads Development Office which will oversee projects funded by the Asian Development Bank (ADB).

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad called on the developing Asian countries to start relying on their own media for their needs because the Western press in Asia is on the decline. Secretary Tatad keynoted the first regional conference on development communication, planning and policies in Asia at the Philippine International Convention Center. He attributed the mood not only to any animosity consciously cultivated by governments in the region but to national convictions that find expression in the desire of the developing countries to bring about their own development.

BUDGET Commission was directed by the President to analyze the expenditures of the various government departments. He issued the directive in view of what he described as the unusually huge expenses of the Department of Public Highways (DPH) on machinery and their maintenance. The Budget Commission analysis, he said, will be based not only on the department surveys but also on field reports. .

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the plan of the World Veterans Federation to hold its next General Assembly meeting in 1979 in Manila. He was informed by Wm. Ch. J. M. Van Lanschot, who called on him at Malacañang.

May 19—

THE PRESIDENT said the government will continue to keep open the door to peaceful negotiations in Southern Philippines despite the demand of the Moro National Liberation Front (NMLF) for "total independence." This decision was arrived at in a meeting by the President with the enlarge Military Council at Fort Bonifacio. Assessing the overall Mindanao problem, the President and the council agreed to extend full support to the efforts to maintain the ceasefire in the region. It was also decided that the government will accelerate the reconstruction and development program for the region.

PHILIPPINE exports hit $827,218,479 in the first four months of 1977. This showed a $187,095,688 increase over figures in the same period last year. Customs collection for the period also reached $185,037,310 proceeding from basic export duty amounting to $171,345,646,000 and premium duty of $12,691,664. A Bureau of Customs spokesman said since January, the country's export trade has been increasing steadily indicating positive signs of recovery from the deficits of the past year brought about by worldwide recession and inflation.

May 20—

THE CHIEF Executive announced the appointment of four new justices of the Supreme Court raising its members to 14, leaving only one vacancy. President's Week in Review: May 22-31, 1977

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 22—

THE PRESIDENT said a special committee will be formed to review and approve plans and designs for new buildings, whether public or private. He disclosed this plan in his remarks at the inauguration of the new building of the bulletin Today in Intramuros. According to the President, the task of the committee will be to stress the relevance of architectural designs of proposed buildings to Filipino culture and character, as well as to the historical backgrounds of the place where they are to be built. The committee will be directly under the Office of the President and will have among its members Metro Manila Gov. Imelda Romualdez Marcos, the public works secretary and architects and builders.

ALL heads of departments, chiefs of bureaus and offices and local governments were authorized by the President to send at least two but not more than five lawyers as their representatives to the forthcoming Manila World Law Conference. These participants shall be on official time, and allowed reasonable expenses for transportation, per diems, as well as seminar fees, chargeable against the released appropriations of their respective office. The Manila World Law Conference scheduled on August 21 to 26 is expected to provide a forum for forging workable solutions based on the rule of law encompassing transnational corporations, legal services to the poor, human rights, international finance and securities regulation, administrative law, foreign trade and investments, legal education, congestion of cases in courts, law of the sea, environmental law, intellectual property law and others.

TRADE department is urging the domestic wood industry to protect the Philippine share—through technological innovation—in the US ply wood market by developing and incorporating safety features into plywood exported to the United States. The department said if local plywood cannot be made totally fire resistant, at least it should be retard-ant to some extent. The government's concern involves the prospect of losing part of the American market for plywood now held by Philippine exporters. The crux of the matter is the growing concern in the US to include Class A flame spread for walls, ceilings, bedrooms and corridors in homes.

May 23—

THE PRESIDENT said the problems of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) need ASEAN solutions. He stressed this point when he met participants of the First ASEAN Youth Seminar-Workshop who called on him at Malacañang. At the same time, he pledged his support and that of the government, and placed at toe disposal of the ASEAN youth all the resources that might be of help to them.

REHABILITATION and development of the south went into full swing with the announcement that P225 million more had been released, by the National government for various priority projects. Local government Secretary Jose A. Roño said the President has authorized the release of this amount to hasten completion of community development projects in the area of autonomy. The President earlier released to the provincial government P35 million for the construction of barangay roads, school buildings, health centers, artesian wells and small communal irrigation systems.

May 24—

THE PRESIDENT announced that he was convoking the National Security Council to undertake a preliminary assessment of the Mindanao peace efforts in the lights of the stand taken by the Eighth Islamic Conference in Tripoli, Libya. The President in an interview with newsmen at Mt. Makiling, disclosed he had directed the military to maintain their positions in accordance with the ceasefire agreement of last December 23 which was signed in Tripoli between a government panel and the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF).

FIRST Lady and Metro Manila Governor Imelda Romualdez Marcos cited the many benefits of tourism, adding that the element of a “happy, smiling people,” was an essential ingredient in its development. For one, tourism has helped spur the Filipino search for identity, she said in a keynote speech opening the fifth session of the Pacific Asian Congress of Municipalities at the Philippine International Convention Center.

THE GOVERNMENT started a five-year tourism program with a total investments requirement of P1.832 billion expected to generate tourist receipts of P6 billion. The President gave impetus to the program by approving a tourism incentive priorities plan which will be concentrated in four regions of the country. These, are Region I—Ilocos Sur, Benguet and La Union; Region 4—Cavite, Laguna, Batangas and Quezon; Region 4-A—Metro Manila and Region 9—Zamboanga del Sur.

THE GOVERNMENT is recovering excess coconut oil subsidies given oil millers and unremitted levies on copra and husked nuts which the Commission on Audit (COA) has found to be worth P178.09 million. According to a report of the Philippine Coconut Authority, (PCA) auditor to the COA, P19.06 million has been collected from 17 of the 28 oil milling companies whose subsidy claims and levies have already been audited. With the collection of the P19.06 million, the government has still to recover P159.02 million.

May 25—

THE PRESIDENT signed Proclamation No. 1641 extending to midnight of September 21, 1977, the effectivity of the Daylight Saving Time (DST). DST, which was first proclaimed on March 27 to take Advantage of longer daylight hours during the summer period, was to expire on midnight of June 7. The President said the extension of DST will further generate savings of electric power and fuel consumption consistent with the country’s energy conservation drive.

Of the total proceeds for this year, $18.2 million constituted the value of lumber exported while plywood accounted for $15.2 million.

May 26—

THE PRESIDENT warned that he will punish those who do not perform their duties in accordance with the standards set by the New Society. He issued the warning during the induction of 41 newly-appointed officials of the Department of Labor in Malacañang. The ceremony was attended by participants in the International Labor Organization West Germany Training Program for Asian officers of employment services.

THE PRESIDENT underscored the need to inject what he called “new vision” in the administration of local governments in the resolution of various problems. He stressed this fact in a speech at the closing ceremonies of the Pacific-Asian Congress of Municipalities at the Philippine International Convention Center. Citing various problems in urban areas, the President said “there is great need today to look at the malaise of metropolitan life to seek out their roots and to start afresh.” He also expressed the hope that the international cooperation among nations in solving problems affecting the world has now touched its cities and towns.

May 27—

THE PRESIDENT authorized salary increases for provincial city and town officials effective last May 5. The authorization was contained in Presidential Decree No. 1136, also known as “The Local Decree of 1977.” The President issued the decree during a luncheon meeting at Malacañang with city and town mayors who were in Manila for the just-concluded Pacific Asian Congress of Municipalities. The salary rate increases will be determined by a joint commission created under the decree.

GOVERNOR Imelda Romualdez Marcos integrated all engineering operations in the four cities and 13 towns in Metro Manila to stop indiscriminate diggings and other activities that pose serious hazards to public safety, and convenience. She also ordered the reorientation and revitalization of existing engineering departments or offices in the 17 local units to eradicate red tape in the execution of vital engineering projects. In an executive order, she created the Metro Manila Engineering Operations Center to supervise and report on all engineering operations and activities in the metropolitan area.

THE PRESIDENT inducted into office three new associate justices of the Supreme Court and the new Judge Advocate General of the Armed Forces of the Philippines. THE PRESIDENT and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore exchanged views on bilateral and regional issues of interest to both countries. Although details of the private talks were not made known, it was understood that the two leaders discussed ways of improving the relations between their countries and economic and political problems confronting the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. Accompanied by Madame Lee and some officials, the prime minister arrived in the Philippines for an overnight stay before proceeding to Japan, where he will be a state guest.

THE PRESIDENT has ordered government takeover of public works projects where private contractors concerned have failed to perform according to schedule. He also made mandatory the installation of barricades and other warning devices to hazardous sections of job sites, especially around excavations, to protect the general public. The instructions, which were conveyed to Public Works Secretary Alfredo L. Juinio to PW Director Desiderio Anolin and the manager of the flood control and drainage project in Metro Manila, was prompted by complaints that there have been delays, and other deficiencies in the execution of drainage projects in Metro Manila.

May 29—

THE PRESIDENT announced that a diplomatic offensive would soon be launched, in Africa and the Middle East to strengthen Philippine ties with countries in those two regions. In an interview after the departure of Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore, the President disclosed this plan to send a mission to Africa to confer with foreign ministers and other decision makers with a view to strengthening the country's relations with them. He cited the fact that many African countries had worked hard to moderate the position adopted by the Islamic Conference in Tripoli, Libya on the southern Philippine question.

AGRICULTURE Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. announced the discovery of a high-yielding highland rice variety called the RPKN-2 (Marcos-2) for commercial planting. He said the new rice variety can yield 120 cavans per hectare.

May 30—

THE PRESIDENT said the Philippines' commitment to human rights is, as irrevocable as the pledge to uphold national sovereignty and territorial integrity. This position was reiterated in a speech at the Memorial Day services for the American war dead at the US cemetery in Fort Bonifacio, Makati to demonstrate the strength of such commitment the President said that in the New Society, the reform of organic social structures must in the end mean the reform of the opportunities and the environment of the individual.

TRAINING centers throughout the country were established by the President to teach better methods of production and marketing as well as management and community relations. He also ordered the Fertilizer Industry Authority (FIA) to control the distribution and sale of plant pesticides. The directives were embodied in two decrees he signed at Malacañang in the course of a speech before farmer-stock holders of Planters products Inc. (PPI).

METRO Manila residents will now actively participate in the governmental process. Metro Manila Gov. Imelda Romualdez Marcos created the Lupon ng mga Mamamayan or Citizens' Committee to advise the Metro Manila Commission (MMC) on development programs and to help translate policies into action. She also ordered the creation of a Lupon ng mga Mamamayan in each of the four cities and 13 municipal governments of Metro Manila.

THE PRESIDENT called upon the telephone industry to direct its efforts toward providing phone services to the rural populations. He issued the appeal in a speech read for him by Public Works Secretary Alfredo Juinio at the inauguration of the first fully electronic computer-controlled telephone exchange of the Republic Telephone Company (Retelco). The Retelco computer controlled exchange system will be the first of its kind in the country.

May 31—

THE PRESIDENT issued a number of decrees and directives designed to protect government employees and their families from "social accidents" and provide them with a "standard of living that is not only adequate but also dignified." The decrees were signed by the President at ceremonies marking the 40th anniversary of the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) held at the Philippine International Convention Center.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture (DEC) said that some 278,000 more students from all levels in public and private schools are expected to enroll during the opening of classes on June 14. Pedro Conmigo, DEC senior statistician, said that about 11,416,000 students are expected to troop to schools this June, compared to last year's enrollment of 11,138,000. DEC authorities, however, gave the assurance that students who will enroll in public schools are assured of accommodation due to the completion of additional schoolbuildings, particularly in the rural areas.

GOVERNMENT Service Insurance System (GSIS) revealed plans to reduce its business loans and project financing activities to increase its salary and educational loans to members and to devote the rest of its portfolio to government and private securities purchased from the capital market. In a report to the President, Roman A. Cruz Jr., GSIS general manger, said that it is the intention of the GSIS to withdraw from being a quasi-development banks and become a portfolio investor, as a social security agency should be. "This does not mean that the GSIS will withdraw its funding capabilities from the country's financial stream. On funds will continue to be available to development but will be insulated from developmental risks," he added.

President's Week in Review: June 8-12, 1977

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 8—

THE PRESIDENT acted to further curb “highgrading” or the theft of gold from mining claims or camps in the country. He issued Presidential Decree No. 1150 imposing stiff penalties on anyone caught panning or sluicing gold in public or private lands without permission. Penalties are also to be imposed for raw gold, gold, gold amalgam, or mercury within mining camps or claims. The President noted that while gold panning or sluicing may provide a source of lawful livelihood to individuals without resulting in a loss to the government in terms of foreign exchange or taxes, it is necessary to adopt safeguards when these activities are used as a “subterfuge for highgrading.”

LOCAL governments were ordered by Finance Secretary Cesar Virata not to overburden ordinary wage earners with unnecessary fees and taxes. In a ruling, he noted that local governments have been enacting ordinances imposing permit fees and occupation taxes on individuals who are not among those specifically mentioned in the Local Tax Code. The finance secretary has turned down a proposed city ordinance imposing mayors permit on singers and dancers of day and night club.

COCONUT products export earnings for the first five months of this year totalled $295,141,487 or 48.7 per cent above the $198,475,284 earned during the same period in 1976. The January-May export volume totalled 714,546 metric tons in copra terms, or 25.8 per cent below the January-May 1976 total of 963,386 metric tons. Prices, however, were sharply above the 1976 level. This was gathered from the United Coconut Association of the Philippines (UCAP), the Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA), Bureau of Customs and processors-exporters of Coconut products.

June 9—

THE PRESIDENT ordered the speedy processing of cases brought before the military commission to hasten their transfer to the civil courts. He issued the order to the military during a two-hour meeting of the National Security Council at the Officers' Clubhouse in “Fort Bonifacio. The council reviewed the country's security situation in the light of the reported renewed activities of the New People's Army.

DEPARTMENT of Education and Culture (DEC) has adopted as a policy the accreditation of learning gained outside the school in recognition to the importance of non-formal education. Education Secretary Juan L Manuel disclosed this in a speech read for him by Education Under secretary Narciso Albarracin during a conference attended by 30 education experts.

June 10—

THE GOVERNMENT laid down a policy to protect the environment as well as set standards for its maintenance. These were embodied in Presidential Decree No. 1152, known also as the Environment Code which was signed by the President. The new law prescribed: 1) The quality of the air, the volume of sound as well as the quality of water which people drink or use; 2) Guidelines for the use of land and the management and conservation of natural resources; and 3) Policy for the disposal or use of waste. The new decree also called on the private sector to support the government's anti-pollution campaign.

CENTRAL Bank Governor Gregorio Licaros enjoined all banking institutions to participate in the observance on June 29 of the 4th anniversary of the national savings-for-progress campaign.

AGRICULTURE Secretary Arturo R. Tanco Jr. said the Philippines has achieved self-sufficiency in rice production this year because of the Masagana 99 program. Speaking at the opening of the two-day National Food and Agriculture Council (NFAC) regional seminar in Cebu City, Secretary Tanco said rice production growth this year hit 5.4 per cent, doubling the country's annual average population growth of 2.7 per cent. The four-million metric tons production would be more than enough to meet the country's annual rice consumption needs of 3.9 million tons, he said.

June 11—

THE PRESIDENT gave national and local government agencies the power to expropriate public as well as private lands to enable them to build more and better houses for the poor. At the same time, the President said the government would minimize the transfer of squatters from depressed areas to new towns. He said the government would undertake relocation and resettlement only when the need arises. These were embodied in three letters of instructions signed by the Chief Executive during the Inauguration of a self-contained community known as the Dasmariñas Bagong Bayan. The First Lady, Metro, Manila Governor Imelda Romualdez Marcos, also attended the inauguration. It featured the distribution of certificates of awards to 50 families.

IN A move to deal more effectively with problems affecting public order and safety, the President restored to mayors and local executives the power to supervise and manage police forces. He empowered the governor of Metro Manila, provincial governors, and town mayors to employ and deploy all segments of the Integrated National Police (INP) stationed in their areas of jurisdiction. The move is embodied in Presidential Decree 1162, in which the President assumes a direct prerogative in placing INP units in "embattled areas" under the supervision and control of local civilian authorities.

June 22—

THE PRESIDENT gave the assurance that the new tax measures he announced recently will not place any direct or indirect financial burden on low-income families. He also settled the confusion over the effectivity of the 35 per cent tax on money market operations by announcing that the decree of the subject became effective when he signed it last June 3. Addressing the nation on Independence Day, he said the new tax decrees are designed to increase government revenues through the improvement of collection methods. He said the aim of that decree which imposes withholding taxes on savings and time deposits is to enforce a more effective means to tax income considered taxable but hardly ever declared by many taxpayers.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the reduction of taxes paid by sugar planters and the increase in the price of sugar to prevent the total collapse of the domestic sugar industry. In his Independence Day speech, he likewise announced a reversal in the government's sugar policy and the elimination of subsidy to sugar producers.

THE PRESIDENT authorized the payment of overtime to national government employees and at the same time increased the basic rate of overtime compensation. Under Letter of Instruction No.565, the President also lifted the ban on the filing vacant positions created in previous budget years, purchase of furniture and equipment, and construction and capital outlay projects in all national government offices. In pursuance of his directive, he set general guidelines to be followed by the various national government agencies, including government-owned and controlled operations. At the same time, the Commission on Audit has reduced the representation and transportation allowances of government auditors and officials to make such privileges fair and equitable.

THE PRESIDENT arrived in Tolosa, Leyte to join the First Lady in the observance of the latter's birth anniversary. He was met at the airport by the First Lady and a large delegation of provincial, municipal and barangay officials, headed by Gov. Benjamin Rorualdez.

July 2—

THE PRESIDENT moved to further decentralize the government by ordering, various government agencies to strengthen their regional offices to attend to the needs of the people in the country-side. He issued a still unnumbered Letter of Instruction to this effect in Tolosa, Leyte, where he joined the First Lady, Imelda Romualdez Marcos, who celebrated her birthday anniversary yesterday. The directive of the President is designed to spare the people in the provinces the trouble of going to Manila to transact business with the national government.

July 3—

THE PRESIDENT considered the issuance of permits and licenses by the national agencies for three years instead of one year to effect savings in government operations. In a directive issued in Tolosa, Leyte, the President ordered all heads of agencies involved in the issuance of licenses and permits to study the plan, and submit recommendations.

THE GOVERNMENT will step up the development of Samar and Leyte, which comprise one of the poor areas in the country, the President said. More money will be given to Samar to develop its economy, the President told some 2,000 town officials and barangay leaders who attended a development orientation conference. Sponsored by the Department of Local Government and Community Development, the conference aims to keep the barangay leaders posted on government policies and programs and getting them involved in their implementation.

July 4—

THE PRESIDENT assured the American people of the continued support of the Filipino people to the human rights' campaign being waged by the United States. He made his offer of support in his speech at the Philippine Plaza on the occasion of the 201st anniversary of American independence, which is marked in the country as Philippine-American Friendship Day. Earlier in his speech, the President reaffirmed "our sense of individuality that has led the country to resist some of the values America had sought to implant upon the native soil."

THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady returned from Leyte to resume their activities in Manila. As the President worked in the presidential study in Malacañang, the First Lady met Metro Manila city and barangay officials. In the evening the First Couple attended the cultural presentation of the Alvin Ailey Dance Theater at the Cultural Center.

July 5—

THE, PRESIDENT launched an infrastructure program funded by the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration for the construction of tobacco flue curing barns using solar energy. THE PHILIPPINE economy posted a surplus in its foreign exchange transaction, the peso value became stronger, inflation rate was lower while production and employment increased during the first six months of the year. This was contained in a report to the President by Central Bank Governor Gregorio Licaros on the economic and financial development during the first semester of the year. According to Gov. Licaros, the surplus realized by the country from foreign exchange transactions (receipts vs. expenditures) during the semester amounted to $228 million, a reversal of the $173 million deficit recorded in the same semester in 1976. This positive external balance was traced to improvements in exports and invisible incomes, and capital inflows.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said developing countries must set up their own communications systems to "rectify the great imbalance of perspective on global affairs." The Secretary spoke at the opening of the six-day UNESCO Asian Seminar of Journalists at the Philippine Village hotel. He cited the domination of the global communications system by a few interests which were not sensitive to the realities of life in developing countries. In this connection, he praised the UNESCO's efforts in setting up exchange services for the transfer of knowledge.

THE PRESIDENT increased from P10 million to P26 million the government's capital exposure in the Metro Manila Transit Corp. to enable the corporation to achieve its objective of rationalizing and integrating public transport services in the metropolis. The President authorized the increase through Presidential Decree No. 1168, after he raised the MMTC capital stock from three million to six million shares.

July 7—

THE PRESIDENT said that the Confederation of ASEAN Journalists will play a vital role in bolstering the integration of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations community. In a speech at the opening of the five-day second general assembly of the CAJ at the Philippine International Convention Center, the President said that in pursuing ASEAN objectives, "the role of the press in our region will certainly be more crucial than it has ever been." At the same time, the President called on the confederation to bridge "a formidable communication gap" through exchange and contact between the peoples in the region.

THE PRESIDENT warned that any government official or employee who will not render 15 days service in the rural area will be dismissed from the service. He issued the warning as he called for the acceleration of the government program to bring the bureaucracy to the service of countryside development. Speaking at the opening of the 15th annual convention of the Bureau Directors Association at the Philippine International Convention Center, the President said that the countryside is the "testing ground of all our reforms." In this connection, the President instructed the bureau of directors to prepare an effective orientation and deployment program for their personnel in pursuance to Letter of Instructions No. 559.

THE FIRST Lady and Governor of Metro Manila Imelda Romualdez Marcos asked the country's architects, engineers and inventors to pursue more vigorously the development of low-cost housing design and technology for Filipinos. She asked them not to be limited to the use of traditional building materials like wood and bamboo, but to explore the uses of native clay, stone and even corals for more permanent structures. She presented awards and P66,000 in cash prizes to winners of the Pambagong Bahay Pilipino contest conducted nationwide over the past year by, the Rotary Club of Manila and the Technology Resource Center, in brief ceremonies at the Philippine Plaza hotel.

July 8—

THE PRESIDENT reiterated the government policy of allowing foreign investors to repatriate part of their capital and profit should they wish to do so. He gave the assurance during a meeting with the participants in the two-day Pacific Forum held at the Philippine Plaza. "There is a big room for foreign capital to undertake profitable and productive activity in the country," the Chief Executive said, adding that the "government welcomes the opportunity to "discuss with overseas investors the requirements of a fair, mutually beneficial and lasting relationship."

THE AUSTRALIAN government donated some P17.5 million worth of food plant equipment to the Philippines to boost the country's nutrition research program. The equipment, capable of producing low-cost protein-rich foods for children, were received by Chairman Melecio Magno of the National Science Development Board from Australian Ambassador to the Philippines Daniel Gerald Nutter during simple turnover ceremonies at the NSDB compound on Pedro Gil street.

THE PHILIPPINES is stepping up its production of Burley and Turkish tobacco, ingredients in the manufacture of aromatic cigarettes, in order to do away with the yearly six-million-kilo importation of these tobacco valued at P200 million. THE First Lady and Metro Manila Governor Imelda Romualdez Marcos attended the ceremonies marking the opening of the first geothermal electric plant in Leyte. The three-megawatt turbine unit—based control natural steam from earth pores—will provide power for the nearby town of Ormoc, Leyte. It is the pioneering effort of a New Zealand assisted project which may eventually produce 100 megawatts of power to help the country move away from oil as a major energy source and to increase electricity generation in remote areas.

Gen. Guillermo A. Pecache, chairman of the National Pollution Control Commission (NPCC) said that starting September 8 this year, smoke, belching government and public utility (PU) vehicles will be grounded until anti-pollution gadgets are installed on them. He reminded the public that under Letter of Instructions No. 551, the deadline set for the installation of anti-pollution devices on government and public utility vehicles is September 7. Under the said LOI, owners of public utility vehicles and government offices were given three months to comply with the requirements on pollution control.

July 22—

PRIME agricultural lands in central plains must no longer be used for industrial or residential purposes to keep agricultural production in step with the increasing population. This policy was discussed by the President during a conference at Malacañang on the 25-year Development Plans. This policy was laid down after farmers and the agrarian officials expressed fears on the increasing encroachments on prime agricultural lands. The President who presided over the meeting attended by government, business and; agricultural leaders, ordered the heads of the National Housing Authority, Department of Agrarian Reform and the Department of Local Government and Community Development to look into the matter.

NATIONAL Housing Authority (NHA) required some 3,000 subdivision owners to post surety bonds equivalent to 100 per-cent of their total development cost before they can sell lots to the public. Maj. Gen Gaudencio V. Tobias, NHA general manager said this requirement was imposed because of the subdivision owners' failure to post cash bonds as required earlier.

JUSTICE Secretary Vicente Abad Santos acted to stop what he termed as an "anomalous" practice by prospective alien workers who enter the country either as tourists or temporary visitors and then change their status as "pre-arranged" employees of business firms engaged in nationalized activities. In his letter to Immigration Commissioner Edmundo Reyes, the justice secretary said he would stop this anomalous procedure" by disapproving applications for employment in nationalized enterprises made by foreign nationals who are already in the Philippines.

September 1—

THE GOVERNMENT flashed the green light to let foreign airlines increase their frequencies (flights to and from the Philippines) in support of a campaign to attract more tourists to the country. The President directed the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) to allow international airlines to enjoy the "open skies" policy of the country by authorizing more flights to the country. The President also ordered Tourism Secretary Jose D. Aspiras, concurrent chairman of the CAB, to impose no restrictions on chartered flights.

THE PRESIDENT has allowed small parochial or mission schools to raise their fees beyond the 15 per cent allowed by Presidential Decree No. 451. The President's action was prompted by a request from Jaime Cardinal Sin, archbishop of Manila.

THE PRESIDENT has authorized the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines (CCP) and the Philippine Chamber of Industries (PCI) to launch formation of a "single voice" of private businessmen. Contained in a handwritten note addressed to Economic Planning Secretary Gerardo P. Sicat and Industry Secretary Vicente T. Paterno, the presidential instruction put an end to a feud brewing between the CCP and PCI, in one hand, and organizers of the Confederation of Economic and Development Associations, on the other.

ASIAN Development Bank approved a $16-million loan expected benefit some 50,000 engineering students in 20 colleges and universities all over the country. The loan was approved under the government's engineering education project designed to improve the quality of engineering schools and to turn out enough skilled engineers for the country's industrial and infrastructure development.

September 2—

THE PRESIDENT told a group of Japanese parliamentarians he was satisfied with the increasing contacts between Japan, and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations member—countries. The delegation of Japanese parliamentarians was headed by Saburo Tsukamoto, secretary general of the Japanese Democratic Socialist party.

INFORMATION Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said that the apparatus of Martial Law was gradually being dismantled because the country has already attained "a considerable measure of social stability and civil peace, and because basic reforms have already taken roots." In a speech before participants in a symposium on the role of mass media in crime prevention, Secretary Tatad pointed out, however, that during the return of normalcy, "pressures upon the fabric of civility in our society will be most felt." Director Lorenzo Cruz of the Bureau of National and Foreign Information read the speech for him.

September 3—

COMPULSORY retirement age of police and fire officers in the Integrated National Police (INP) has been lowered from 65 to 60. Likewise, compulsory retirement age of INP members holding the rank of sergeants and below has been lowered from 65 to 55. The Constabulary-INP high command announced that lowering of compulsory retirement ages of members of the INP was contained in one of the provisions of the INP Personnel Professionalization Law of 1977 which the President signed last August. 26.

September 4—

PILOT centers for non-formal education will be set up in each school division all over the country this year. Secretary of Education Juan L. Manuel ordered establishments of these centers in a recent memorandum. Secretary Manuel said each center should be designed to "serve the needs of Kabataang Barangay, out-of-school youths and adults to enable them to develop themselves further, to acquire knowledge and skills for more effective social participation, and to contribute better to society.”

September 5—

THE PRESIDENT has released PIG million for the immediate installation of new water mains at the University of the Philippines campus in Diliman. The President’s action was in response to UP President Onofre D. Corpuz’s request for the release of funds to remedy the acute water shortage on the 500 hectare Diliman campus.

THE FIRST Lady and Metro Manila Governor, Imelda Romualdez Marcos, said the Chinese acrobatic and football groups which recently toured the country forged closer ties between the Philippines and China. Mrs. Marcos also said the two goodwill groups benefited the Filipino children “who are the future of the country.” Proceeds from the performances of the acrobats and the games of the football team are earmarked for the Nutrition Foundation of the Philippines and the Population Center of the Philippines.

THE GOVERNMENT moved to make the imposition of the travel tax more systematic. Finance Secretary Cesar Virata informed Secretary Francisco S. Tatad that the Bureau of Internal Revenue is working out a new procedure to clear up the confusion. In a news briefing at Malacañang, Secretary Tatad attributed the confusion to the sudden assignment of BIR personnel deployed elsewhere to the tax collection. He also said the Central Bank denied that it has something to do with recent reports that possession of dollars and other foreign currency is deemed illegal and consequently exposes the violator to arrest.

September 6—

THE GOVERNMENT and private sector forged an agreement to train and harness the talents of 7,000,000 idle out-of-school youth. Heartened by the participation of 500 private firms in the nationwide undertaking, the President committed the government to the joint venture. The project, as initiated by the Kabataang Barangay headed by Imee Marcos, seeks to deal with the problem of the school dropouts by considering their plights with compassion instead of hostility. Stressing the significance of the agreement, the President, speaking at the signing ceremonies at the Philippine Plaza, directed government agencies to complement the participation, of private enterprises.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the release of 500 more detainees from various detention centers throughout the country in pursuance of his policy of reconciliation and in fulfillment of his promise to return the country to normalcy. President's Week in Review: October 1-28, 1977

OFFICIAL MONTH IN REVIEW

October 1—

TAKING advantage of the presence of the First Lady and Governor of Metro Manila as head of the Philippine delegation to the UN, the President has instructed her to carry a message and take up with the Secretary of State certain pending matters between the two countries. This had been the subject of consultations with Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke who was here in the Philippines last September 22. In the course of their meeting which lasted for more than an hour, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, reaffirmed to the First Lady what had been stated to the President: "The full recognition of Philippine sovereignty over the military bases and that the United States stands four square behind all of its defense commitments to the Philippines in case of attack." Mrs. Marcos reassured in return the Secretary of State of the enduring friendship of the Philippines and its people to the United States. She also assured the Secretary that she would immediately convey his statement to the President.

THE PRESIDENT called on the various faiths and creeds to help in the great task of promoting unity, social justice, economic development and cultural coherence. He issued the call during the solemn Pontifical Mass commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Philippine Independent Church at the Philippine International Convention Center.

October 2—

THE PRESIDENT said the Philippines would consider joining other copper-exporting nations in a concerted effort to stabilize the prices and production levels for copper, provided, such efforts would not lead to a cartel. He also said any such move by the government has to be done in close consultations with local copper producers who, he said, suffered a beating during the 1974-75 recession. He made this stand clear to Enrique Valenzuela Blanquier, Chile's minister of mines, who called at Malacañang to convey to him a formal invitation to the Philippines to become a member of the Inter-Government Council of Copper Exporting Countries (CIPEC).

October 3—

THE PRESIDENT approved a 50-percent reduction in travel taxes collected from departing passengers and imposed new reduced rates of travel taxes on travellers, effective October 18. He said this is to "remove the unnecessary barriers to travel and simplify travel regulations." Under Presidential Decree No. 1205 amending PD 1183, as amended, and Republic Act No. 6141, the reduced taxes are: P1,000 for first class passenger, and P600 for economy class. The old rates were P2,000 for first class passenger and P1,260 for economy class.

THE PRESIDENT gave a luncheon in honor of Social Services and Development Secretary Estefania Aldaba Lim who is leaving the Cabinet to assume her new post as Special Representative of the United Nations to the International Year of the Child 1979 (IYC '79).

October 4—

THE PRESIDENT said that the government will not take steps to bring back to the country Eugenio Lopez, Jr. and Sergio Osmeña III, who fled to the United States. "I do not know what the juridical tribunals which have jurisdiction over these persons will do but I personally have no intention of trying to bring them back to the Philippines, the President said. Lopez and Osmeña, who are both facing charges in connection with the plot to assassinate the President, escaped from their detention quarters last October 1 in Fort Bonifacio and flew to Los Angeles, California, by way of Hongkong.

THE PHILIPPINES has accepted the nomination of Vu Tien as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to the Philippines. THE PRESIDENT directed the Department of Trade to study the feasibility of setting up a display center for export products in San Jose City, California. He issued the directive in response to a request made by the visiting trade and investment mission of the San Jose Chambers of Commerce which called on him at Malacañang.

October 5—

THE PRESIDENT has signed Presidential Decree No. 1206 creating the Department of Energy. The new department will consolidate over all policy formulation, implementation, regulation and development of all energy activities. It was created in response to the critical need to further rationalize the country's total energy resource development program to accelerate self-reliance and conservation activities on an integrated and comprehensive basis.

THE COUNTRY'S palay produce for a three-month period ending September 1 this year went up unprecedentedly by 15.5 per cent, compared to last year's yield for the same period, according to Secretary Arturo Taneo in his report to the President. This means an expected harvest of 106 million cavans of palay this crop year, compared to only 92 million cavans last year." Central Luzon and Ilocos Region registered a whopping production .increase of 35.5 per cent and 23.6 per cent, respectively, for the same period, recovering from their two years of bad harvests.

THE PRESIDENT has proclaimed the period from October 8 to 15 this year as registration days for Kabataang Barangay (KB) members throughout the country. In Proclamation No. 1674, he required all KB members from 15 to 18 years of age to register "in accordance with the guidelines prescribed for the purpose."

October 6—

THE PRESIDENT disclosed that supporters of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) are trying to elevate the Mindanao secessionist problem to the United Nations. He spoke at the inauguration of the renovated Manila Hotel which also coincided with the commemoration of its 65 years of existence. The President, who was introduced by Roman Cruz, chairman of the board of directors and president of the Manila Hotel Corp., also directed the restructuring of lower interest of the indebtedness of all hotels that cannot meet government standards.

THE FIRST LADY and Metro Manila Gov. Imelda Romualdez Marcos met twice with President Jimmy Carter, handing him a letter from the President. She later described their talks on Philippine-American issues as "very friendly, very interesting and very fruitful." It was Mrs. Marcos first meeting with President Carter, and the first high-level contact between the Philippine government and the American president since Gerald Ford's visit to Manila in July last year.

THE PRESIDENT gave authorities concerned until the end of the month to submit recommendations on the establishment of a copper smelting plant in the country. He pegged the deadline at a Malacañang meeting with Natural Resources Secretary Jose Leido Jr., Industry Secretary Vicente Paterno, and mining executives. The recommendation, according to the President, should include the source of the equipment and the proposed location of the plant.

THE PRESIDENT has approved an ASEAN trade fair in Manila sometime in May, next year. The trade fair, authorized under Letter of Instructions No. 603, will carry out the agreement on ASEAN preferential trading signed last February 24 by the heads of government of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. The agreement calls for an overall framework for expanding intra-ASEAN trade.

October 7—

THE PRESIDENT leaves for Bicolandia to resume his country-wide “Balik-Barangay” tour which he initiated early last month during his 60th birthday. The President is expected to visit Daet, Camarines Norte; Naga City in Camarines Sur; and Legazpi City in Albay. His sortie to the Bicol region is part of his policy to meet with the ordinary people, to know first hand how they feel about various government programs.

October 8—

THE PRESIDENT pledged that it is the administration’s, firm policy to build a strong base for the nation by improving the living condition of the masses particularly the farmers, laborers and fishermen. He reiterated the government’s basic policy at a mammoth rally held at the town plaza of Sorsogon, Sorsogon shortly upon arrival from Tiwi, where he inspected the geothermal project being set up there in line with the policy to diversify the country’s energy sources. During the rally, the President issued a series of orders and directives designed to remedy the province’s pressing problems.

THE PRESIDENT issued a presidential decree creating a nine-man Abaca Development Authority composed of representatives from the Departments of Agriculture, Trade, Local Government, the Board of Investments, the Central Bank, the Development Bank of the Philippines, the Philippine National Bank and abaca producers and traders. Named to represent the latter two groups were Bernie Silverio of Albay, for traders, and Antonio Florendo of Davao, for producers. The President issued the decree during a mass rally held at the city plaza of Legazpi.

October 9—
